Agata, speaking over Tokyo's domestic radio, explained quickly refueled carrier planes raid repeatedly in contrast to the giant B-29's which raid only once and then have to return to their distant airfield.

Aim Gradually Shifts

Ogata's broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, stressed that the only protection against strafing is to "take refuge in the nearest shelter."

"You will be safe from strafing if you have about 30 inches space from the top of the dugout to your heads. . . . When there are not many shelters, take refuge between some obstacles."

He disclosed that whereas "the enemy first aimed at our airbases, now he is gradually aiming at transportation facilities."

Yank flyers also are dropping leaflets and "it is absurd to try them on our people . . . who just collect them as they would rubbish dan take them to the police."

Admiral Nimitz Retains Calm

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 17 (AP)—A twinkle of the eye—no more, no less—is the cue in these calm headquarters of big things happening at Tokyo.

The twinkle is Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's only concession to an appearance of excitement.

Initials Each Dispatch

There is no other evidence of emotion as the admiral reads dispatches unfolding the details.

He initials each such dispatch. Undoubtedly it is a strain to wait for the results. But the admiral gives no outward sign of that strain.

He did depart from routine phrasing in his first communiqué disclosing the opening of the carrier assault on Tokyo.

"Operation Long Planned"

That was when he said:

"This operation has long been planned and the opportunity to accomplish it fulfills the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man in the Pacific fleet."

In the main, no one watching Nimitz notes any change from his actions of last week, last month or last year.

Iwo-To-Tokyo Like Bahamas To D.C.

(By the Associated Press)

The Japanese-reported invasion of Iwo Jima by American troops, if true, thrusts Yank ground forces to within 750 miles of Tokyo, their closest approach to the enemy capital.

American official sources have not confirmed the invasion. Iwo is a volcanic speck of an island but of great strategic importance on the road to Japan.

Bahama Comparison

If Americans will visualize an invasion of the Bahamas, southeast of Florida, it will give them an idea how Tokyo citizens feel over news of the landing of Yank troops so close to their capital city. The air-mile distance from the Bahamas to Washington, D.C., about equals that from Iwo, in the Volcano Islands, to Tokyo.

Conquest of Iwo, whose area of only eight square miles includes a sizable airfield, woud hold grave implications for Nippon.

It would, for the first time, place American land-based medium bombers and fighters within striking distance of Japan.

Supply Line Threat

It would base United States warplanes on the eastern flank of the vital enemy supply line to Formosa and the conquered empire to the south.

It would eleminate the principal springboard for enemy air thrusts at the Marianas lair of the American B-29's striking regularly at Japan.

It would place American air and ground forces within 100 miles of Haha Jima, in the Bonins, where is situated Port Lloyd, sometimes undeservedly referred to as Japan's Pearl Harbor. Twenty miles north of Haha is Chichi Jima, another important airbase island of the Bonins.

Sulphur-Producing Isle

Iwo is a rugged, sulphur-producing island similar in shape to South America but in miniature. At the southern end is a two-coned volcanic mountain—Suribachi Yama, meaning "grinding bowl." The island has several other peaks, but none as high as Suribachi's 546 feet. Available maps indicate stretches of sandy beaches along the lower eastern and western shores. The island is about 8 miles long and 2½ wide at the shoulders.

Before the reported invasion Iwo received one of the most intensive neutralization campaigns of the Pacific war. The first blow, on June 14, 1944, was delivered by an American carrier task force.

United States warships shelled Iwo on ten separate missions. Several of the bombardments were coordinated with strikes by carrier aircraft and by land-based Liberators and Superfortresses.

Daily Pounding

The aerial campaign to knock out the island approached its climax in December, when the Strategic Air Force, Pacific Ocean Areas, took over the assignment. It was hit every day from December 7 through February 17.

The December forays put an end to enemy daylight sweeps from Iwo against Saipan. To keep the Japanese pinned down at night, single bombers hit the Iwo airfield almost every hour with fragmentation bombs.

The Volcano Islands were obsorbed into the Japanese Empire in 1891, four years after an official party headed by the Mayor of Tokyo visited the islands.

Japanese were slow to migrate to the islands but the inhabitants of Iwo are almost entirely pure Japanese, although generally somewhat taller. In 1940 the island's population was reported as 1,151. Most of the inhabitants are fisherfolk. Arable sections of the island were devoted largely to sugar cane.

The four settlements on the island—Higashi, Minami, Nishi and Moto Yama—are linked by roads and trails.

Chinese Press Hails U.S. Carrier Attacks

Chungking, Feb. 17 (AP)—Chinese newspapers today hailed the United States carrier plane attacks on the Japanese mainland and the bombardment of Iwo Jima, with the majority taking the view that the Americans would occupy the Bonin and Volcano islands before attempting a landing on Japan proper.

The Army medium, Sao Tang Pao said: "Admiral Nimitz is carrying out a great job, which shows Japan's inner defense is as weak as her outer defense."

The newspaper Ta Kung Pao declared the Japanese navy would be forced to fight once the Americans seized the Bonin and Volcano islands.

Fleet Battle Doubted

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP)—NBC Correspondent Robert McCormick reported from Guam today that American naval officers at advanced United States Pacific Fleet headquarters do not expect the Japanese Navy to accept the challenge to battle in waters off Tokyo.

"It is reasonable to think Japan will go back to her old strategy and keep her fleet as a threat to us instead of throwing it away in a mad suicide banzai charge at this time," McCormick said.

"The enemy fleet may put on a great act. It may sail away grandly from home ports, ostensibly to do battle, in the style of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, then return to port and tell the Japanese people what great victories they have won."

BLASTING OF TOKYO RESUMED BY NAVY

Nipponese Expect American Landing on Volcano Island to Be Followed by Invasion of Capital Zone.

By Associated Press.

American amphibious troops invaded Iwo Jima on the road to Tokyo today, an Imperial communique broadcast by the Japanese radio reported.

Unconfirmed Domei news agency dispatches, intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission, which said Yank assault forces had landed on two beaches of the southern shore of Iwo within ten minutes, were followed by the Imperial announcement which claimed the attacks were repulsed and five attacking ships sunk.

The communique said the landings were made under the support of "furious naval gun barrages." It said one battleship, two cruisers and two unknown type ships were sunk under attack by shore guns and the Japanese air force. Three assault ships were claimed damaged and ten attacking planes downed.

The Tokyo home radio also reported simultaneous attacks by 200 carrier-based planes on Hachijo Jima, in the Izu group, some 200 miles south of Tokyo.

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi was quoted as editorializing that the heavy carrier-borne air raids around the capital, now in their second day, may be "preparatory to the enemy's landing scheme on the homeland." Mainichi, another leading Tokyo newspaper, was quoted as saying amphibious forces backed by the United States Fifth Fleet "might strike directly at the Japanese homeland and effect landings there."

The invasion of Iwo, largest of the Volcano group, similarly was anticipated yesterday. Landings such as the report of the Iwo assault normally are first announced by Tokyo, which invariably says that they were repulsed."

Hint Landings Continue.

"According to front-line dispatches," Domei said, "the enemy task force operating in the waters of Iwo Jima started landing operations on Futatsune beach on the southwestern part of that island about 10:30 A. M. Saturday." About ten minutes later, according to the same dispatches, the enemy made another attempt at landing around 10:40 A. M. on Kamiyama beach on the southeastern tip of the island.

"Our garrison troops going into action to engage these enemy forces successfully repulsed them, with severe losses inflicted on the invaders, the dispatches revealed."

Invasion Speculation

Simultaneously, Tokyo speculated on the possibility of an imminent invasion of Japan in the wake of smashing United States carrier-plane attacks.

The Blue network reported intercepting a Tokyo broadcast quoting a Japanese paper as warning "it is not without possibility that the enemy may strike directly at the Japanese homeland and attempt landings there."

Another radiocast said the great United States 5th Fleet "may attempt to come near the homeland at two points, one of them the Boso Peninsula," eastern land arm of Tokyo Bay and an approach to the Japanese capital.

Honshu Shelling Feared

This suggestion was not amplified. However, the phraseology would indicate the commentators were suggesting the possibility that big American naval guns might shell shore defenses on Honshu, main island of Japan.

The invasion of Iwo was similarly anticipated yesterday.

The Blue network reported hearing a broadcast quoting Tokyo papers which said the carrier strike at Tokyo was a diversion for the landings at Iwo.

Broadcasters insisted "the total effort of the Government and the people, both materially and spiritually, is demanded at this time to make still more firm the airtight defense structure of our land."

In Tokyo Prefecture

The reported landing on Iwo would take American troops for the first time onto Japanese soil administered as part of the Tokyo prefecture.

It is one of a chain of 49 islands stretching for 800 miles south of the Japanese capital and administratively united with Tokyo's Ogosawara District.

Iwo is a tiny, gourd-shaped island and covers eight square miles.

Despite daily bombing raids from the Marianas, Iwo was still of such value as a warning station and a defensive point guarding the approaches to Tokyo that replacement planes were continually flown in and supplies, and possibly reinforcements, were being brought in by ship as recently as last week.

An American invasion would be for the purpose of converting it into an air base. As such it would be the closest Allied point for striking at Japan. Long-range fighters and bombers of all types can make the round trip from Iwo to Tokyo.

SOVIET SHOCK TROOPS DRIVE INTO POZNAN

Polish City's Fall Would Pave Way For Grand Assault On Berlin

Washington experts believe Russians can keep up their offensive in spite of coming thaws. Page 3

London, Sunday, Feb. 18 (AP)—Russian shock forces yesterday fought their way into the heart of Poznan, Polish fortress city 100 miles behind the Berlin front, foreshadowing the imminent fall of that strategic base and the release of thousands of Red Army troops for the impending grand assault on the Reich capital.

Other Soviet forces toppled the fortified East Prussian towns of

30. 24— 23073

Mehlsack and Wormditt, drove a spearhead to within 50 miles south of Danzig, deepened their encirclement ring around Breslau, besieged Silesian capital, and in a 10-mile advance far to the west crossed the Queis and Tschirne rivers, capturing points only 25 miles from the Saxon frontier.

Rauscha In Silesia Falls

The Russians in Silesia captured Rauscha, only 60 miles northeast of Dresden, and 18 miles northeast of Goerlitz, Silesia's second city on the Neisse River. This is the nearest they have been placed officially to Dresden, Saxon capital shattered in the heavy American air attacks last week.

The Soviet high command blacked-out news of the Berlin front, but field dispatches relayed through Moscow said that Red Army planes and artillery were hammering the citadels of Cottbus and Guben, 47 and 51 miles southeast of Berlin, trying to break open the Reich capital's side door.

Fighting On 600-Mile Front

Moscow's communiqué disclosed that the Eastern front fighting now had flamed up on a 600-mile front from besieged Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital on the Baltic, down to Komarom, Danube city 40 miles northwest of fallen Budapest and 84 miles from Vienna, Austrian capital.

A total of 17,100 more Germans were killed or captured, the bulletin said, 6,000 of the prisoners being taken in the final phases of the battle for Poznan on the Warta River.

On the 22d day of the siege which began January 27 Moscow announced that Russian troops had cleared the Germans from the last suburbs on the east bank of the river, and had hurled the last Nazi garrison remnants into the citedal on the west bank of the river.

Would Speed Drive On Berlin

The German garrison, originally estimated at 20,000, has clung desperately to Poznan, realizing that the fall of the big rail center astride the main Warsaw-Berlin trunk railway would speed the Red Army advance toward Berlin.

In Friday's operations the Russians at Poznan captured 40 locomotives, 184 railway trucks, 16 stores of various military supplies, 12 guns, 52 machine guns, more than 6,000 rifles and 125 trucks, the communiqué said.

Germany's high-command communiqué announced the Russian capture of Sagan, bypassed rail center 85 miles southeast of Berlin, but Moscow neither confirmed the seizure of that town nor the Oder River stronghold of Crossen, 63 miles southeast of the capital. Officially the Russians were placed only 1½ miles outside Crossen, and 3½ miles south of Sagan with the capture of Hermsdorf.

Soviet front dispatches, however, said that Russian troops were attacking toward the Spree River, last natural waterway protecting Berlin's southeastern approaches, after crossing the Neisse River north of Forst, 12 miles east of menaced Cottbus.

The capture of Cottbus and Guben, 21 miles to the northeast, would turn Berlin's eastern defenses based on the Oder River strongholds of Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg, already under siege by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's White Russian Army. Guben is 13 miles south of Fuerstenberg.

Berlin predicted that Zhukov's forces would begin a "stupendous and decisive" frontal assault on the German capital in a few days, now that Marshal Ivan E. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army has come up abreast of his troops south of the curving Oder.

Other Towns Fall To Russians

Mehlsac and Wormditt, southwest of Koenigsberg, fell to one Soviet army while another to the southwest, driving up through the Polish corridor west of the Vistula River, captured Osie, 50 miles south of Danzig, and a number of other localities, including Krusze, 3 miles northwest of the Vistula River stronghold of Grudziadz.

In German Pomerania, south of Stargard, which is only 20 miles from Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port at the mouth of the Oder River, the Russians beat off enemy counterattacks. Seventy miles to the east they encircled and wiped out 8,000 Germans and captured 2,000 north of fallen Schneidemuehl.

An additional 1,100 Germans were captured in the advance through western Silesia which resulted in the capture of Rauscha, 80 miles northwest of stricken Breslau.

Breslau Entered, Nazis Admit

The German high command acknowledged that Russian spearheads had penetrated into Breslau, Silesian capital with a normal population of 630,000, but claimed these wer sealed off.

Moscow merely announced that the fight for the annihilation of the Breslau garrison was continuing and said that Soviet troops attacking south and southwest of the city had gained up to 6 miles on a 19-mile front between Kanth, 10 miles southwest of the capital, and Strehlen, 20 miles south of Breslau.

In Hungarian-Slovakian Theater

With the capture of Bosewitz and Gruenhartau, the Russians were only 4 miles northeast and northwest of Strehlen, a fourteen-way road junction 24 miles north of the Czechoslovakian border.

For the first time in weeks the Russians mentioned the Hungarian-Slovakian theater, saying that Gen. Dodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army had repulsed large enemy infantry and tank attacks between Koharom (Komarno) and the Hron River to the east. Komarom is only 53 miles southeast of Bratislavia, Slovak capital, and the Russians first reached the area in December.

REDS CLOSING ON LAST RIVER BEFORE BERLIN

FEB 18 1945

Russians Believed Ranging Within 35 Miles of German Capital.

FOE RUSHES REINFORCEMENTS

Soviet Bombers Wreak Havoc Among Tanks and Trucks on Crowded Highways.

London, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—The Russians closed today on shell-ripped Guben, fifty miles southeast of Berlin, and hammered their way toward Cottbus, a second fortress city on the River Spree, forty-seven miles from the capital. A Moscow dispatch said that armored units of Marshal Ival Konev's army had ranged to within perhaps thirty-five miles of Berlin.

Meanwhile, tonight Premier Stalin announced that the Russians have captured Wormditt and Mehlsack in East Prussia.

The Germans rushed heavy armor and huge infantry reinforcements into the intense and spreading battle southeast of Berlin, and Russian planes took a heavy toll of them along the crowded highways.

Guben, on the River Neisse, was under an artillery barrage, and the Russians fought toward it from three sides. On the other hand, the Berlin radio said that the Russians were within twelve miles of Cottbus, southwest of Guben, in the area of Forst on the Neisse.

The Berlin radio said the Russians were within 12 miles of Cottbus, southwest of Guben, in the area of Forst, on the Neisse.

[An NBC broadcast from Moscow heard in New York today said Marshal Konev had swept to within 3 miles of Cottbus.]

A Red Star dispatch from Konev's front declared a river—perhaps the Neisse—had been stormed in this area and that another stream beyond also had been forced. The Russians were reported within sight of the Spree River, last natural defense line before Berlin. The Spree flows by Cottbus, an important rail center.

Sagan Lost, Nazis Say

The German high command announced the fall of Sagan, Bober River city, 35 miles southeast of Guben, and said Konev's men had scored "single penetrations" into surrounded Breslau, Silesian capital.

The Germans also indicated the fall of Poznan — great holdout strongpoint in Poland—was near, saying street fighting raged in the heart of the city.

Moscow had no confirmation of German reports that Konev had linked with Marshal Gregory Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army at Crossen, on the Oder, 63 miles southeast of Berlin and 36 northeast of Cottbus.

Teachers Reported In Fight

Soviet capital dispatches said the Nazis were throwing all kinds of troops, and even Berlin schoolteachers and policemen, into the battle on the capital's southeastern approaches, trying desperately to form a solid line. They struggled to keep Konev from breaking into the Spree Forest, 40 miles southeast of Berlin.

German counterattacks increased, and a Moscow dispatch said Konev's whirlwind advance into Brandenburg province might well be slowed by this bitter opposition.

A news blackout on Zhukov's Oder River front east of Berlin was continued, veterans of Stalingrad are operating there.

Breslau Under Shellfire

Soviet siege guns meanwhile shelled Breslau from all directions. The Russians were officially declared to be only four miles from the heart of Breslau, a sprawling city of 630,000 straddling the Oder River. They seized Drachenbrunn, adjoining Bischofs Walde, a forest on the southeast side of the city.

Neisse River Town Blasted.

Moscow, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—Red Army heavy artillery and bombers blasted the Neisse River fortress town of Guben today, while Russian infantry closed in from three sides on this vital center of the German line sixty miles southeast of Berlin.

All signs pointed to desperate confusion in the Nazi ranks.

Russian armor appeared to have cut through thin German lines west of the Bober River and to have captured strategic positions perhaps as close as thirty-five to fifty miles, south-southeast of Berlin.

The Soviet high command did not say how far Marshal Ivan S. Konev's tanks thrust in the Cottbus-Forst region and the Spree River salient, but it appeared that the Nazis, despite hurried efforts, have been unable to form a solid line in the area.

There was every indication that the Germans were making a desperate bid to stop Marshal Konev from entering the Spree forest area about forty miles southeast of Berlin.

In a dispatch from Konev's front, Red Star said a Russian battalion crossed an unnamed river, and later a stream, without waiting for artillery support. The river may have been the Neisse, which yesterday's guarded Russian reports indicated may have been stormed in at least one place.

The stream is likely to have been either the Lubst or Strang—small streams north and south of Forst, respectively.

Nazis Expected To Fight After Berlin Is Captured

By James D. White

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Terrain and a dispersed war economy favor continued German resistance after the fall of Berlin.

If the German capital is captured by Soviet armies, the Nazis can fall back westward to the Elbe River, which runs diagonally across Germany to the northwest all the way from Prague to Hamburg. Behind this is another river line, the Wesser-Aller system, which might provide a secondary defense.

Hills Higher In South

Along a line south of Hannover, the hills begin—and the woods. And generally speaking, the farther south you go in Germany the higher the hills become, until you hit the Alps themselves, which continue rising into Switzerland, Austria and northern Italy.

This is the country—stretching from the Black Forest in the west to Hitler's own Austrian mountains and forest around Berchtesgaden—where the Nazis may go underground.

Youths To "Carry On"

Experts on Germany warn that the Nazis have trained selected youths to carry on the fight even after organized resistance ends. Gestapo Chief Himmler has been reported putting the "finishing touches to an organization of German Maquis (patterned after the French) which he will head himself."

A broadcast from a neutral source said that resistance centers were being planned in the Black Forest, Thuringia, northern Bavaria, mountainous parts of Tyrol, and the wooded districts of Austria. The specially trained units now allegedly comprise 120,000 men skilled in sabotage and harassing tactics. The Nazi goal is said to be more than 700,000.

Better Defenses In South

The farther south the Nazis are pushed back, the better Germany's forests and mountains are suited to their concealment. The Black Forest and the Alps provide great stretches of sparsely settled, wooded mountains.

Meanwhile, despite Allied bombing, Germany's war industry still produces. The Ruhr, with its mighty steel, heavy machinery and chemical works, is the greatest center of all. Unless the Germans can hold the Rhine and Siegfried Line, the Ruhr may fall to British-American-French forces.

Important Cities In South

Southwest of Berlin are cities which have some of the Reich's most important facilities. Here are where the main war items are produced:

STEEL AND HEAVY MACHINERY—Bochum, Brunswick, Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Essen, Saarbruecken.

TRUCKS, TANKS, LOCOMOTIVES, GUNS—Hannover, Kassel, Leipzig, Madgeburg, Siegen.

PLANES — Augsburg, Dessau, Brunswick, Friedrichshafen, Bremen, Kassel, Leipzig, Madgeburg.

CHEMICALS, SYNTHETIC RUBBER, GASOLINE — Bitterfeld, Dessau, Dresden, Duisburg, Frankfurt-am-Main, Merseburg.

PRECISION INSTRUMENTS, TOOLS—Chemnitz, Jena, Dresden, Duesseldorf, Leipzig, Madgeburg, Munich, Solingen.

AIR OFFENSIVE KEPT ROLLING

Allied Raiders Range Over Reich—Meet No Fighters

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—Flying Fortresses of the United States 8th Air Force smashed 350 strong at marshaling yards of Frankfurt-on-the-Main and Giessen with 1,000 tons of high explosives today and kept one of the war's most massive and sustained air offensives rolling through the fourth straight day.

The Fortresses and an escort of 150 Mustangs met no enemy fighters in the heavy overcast, which grounded the bulk of the Allied air forces in the West and required bombing by instruments. Two bombers and two fighters were missing after the fleet sailed through moderate to intense anti-aircraft fire.

Bombers From Italy Keep It Up

Bombers of the United States 15th Air Force from Italy were reported attacking southern Germany for the fifth straight day.

Lack of enemy air opposition permitted the 8th Air Force's swift Mustangs to range as far south as Munich and Ulm on strafing missions which shot up 25 locomotives, 139 railroad cars, a factory and other targets.

In one of the most intensified assaults of the year, American and British air forces have put 7,200 heavy bombers over Germany since Tuesday night with the loss of 60 planes—slightly over .8 of 1 per cent.

26 Cities Hit During Raids

Twenty-six cities from the Rhine to the Russian front have felt the weight of thousands of tons of bombs on seven massive operations.

On the average, a 1,000-bomber mission to Germany may drop from 2,500 to 3,000 tons of bombs.

These figures do not include attacks by Italian-based planes of the 15th Air Force, which likewise regularly have been attacking Germany proper.

United States planes outnumbered the British almost three to one, but losses were nearly evenly divided—32 United States bombers and 28 British. The RAF had one rough night that cost 22 out of a force of 1,000 bombers. Both air forces have lost more than 60 planes on single raids previously.

Flak Still Plentiful

Four times in five days bombers from Britain sailed across the heart of the Reich almost to Poland with less interference than they used to meet on a short haul over the French coast. German flak is still plentiful, however, and very accurate at times.

While the heavies were attacking far-away objectives, thousands of Allied fighters and light and medium bombers banged away at targets closer to the front with equally negligible opposition.

A special United States Strategic Air Force communiqué said yesterday's heavy raid caused tremendous damage at three benzol plants and an oil refinery in the Ruhr.

It said reconnaissance photographs showed a new oil refinery near Dortmund was rocked with explosions from two heavy concentrations of bombs. Marshaling yards at Hamm also suffered one of the most destructive attacks of the war.

The day's weather made the going tough for the Eighth Air Force's attack crews.

"We practically had to hack our way through fog and mist to the target," said 2d Lieut. William H. Guion of Russelville, Ky., a Fortress co-pilot. "At intervals I couldn't see the wingtips of our plane.

One escort pilot, Lieut. James R. Evans of Imperial Beach, Calif., reported that "heavy weather forced us right down to the deck for targets to shoot at."

U.S. Bombers Pound Reich

4th Day

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—United States heavy bombers, carrying the mighty air offensive against Germany into its fourth day, smashed at the Reich from the west today, and Berlin indicated Mediterranean based squadrons were striking from the south again.

Three hundred and fifty Flying Fortresses attacked the great freight yards at Frankfurt behind the Western front today, escorted by 130 Mustang fighters, which strafed German troops on the return flight. Frankfurt, on the Main River, is an important rail junction on principal lines connecting central Germany with the Western front.

About 1,700 United States and British heavies, including a force of Italian-based Fortresses which struck the Regensburg factory where German jet-propelled planes are turned out, ranged unmolested over a wide area of Germany yesterday.

Planes Caught On Ground

The Regensburg assault cost the enemy a number of the jet fighters which were caught on the ground, the Mediterranean Air Force announced. United States 15th Air Force Liberators also hit a jet plane plant at Neuburg, 50 miles north of Munich, and Landsburg Field, 35 miles west of Munich, where the Nazi twin-engined Messerschmitts are based.

Since the British-American air offensive from the west began Tuesday night, close to 7,000 four-engined bombers have poured thousands of tons of explosives on at least 25 German cities in the most furious sustained assault of the war.

Daylight Raids

More than 1,000 United States 8th Air Force bombers, followed by 200 RAF heavy Lancasters, struck at seven oil, rail and communications towns close behind the Western front by daylight yesterday.

Ten American bombers were lost in these attacks, which aerial reconnaissance showed caused heavy damage. All the British planes returned from their low-level attack on Wesel, a city at the northeast corner of the Ruhr which is an objective of the Canadian 1st Army offensive.

British medium bombers hit a V-1 robot bomb launching site in Holland with enghteen tons of bombs, and Typhoons plastered a V-2 assembly site with rockets yesterday. At the same time Tactical Air Force planes streaked over the front lines, raking enemy positions just ahead of Allied troops.

Support Of Troops

United States 9th Air Force fighters and light bombers flew close support to the troops with 900 sorties, and the British planes added 800 more. Their combined loss was eight planes. Twelve Nazi planes were shot down during the day, mostly over the front areas.

In Italy 15th Air Force Mustangs provided escort for RAF Wellingtons, Liberators and Halifaxes, which attacked the Fiume shipyards.

The Allies lost fifteen heavy bombers in the 15th Air Force attacks on Germany yesterday, in the Fiume raid and in other assaults on rail yards in Austria and in Italy. Seven other Allied planes were lost in the day's operations from Italian bases, which totaled 1,400 sorties in all.

WORLD LABOR UNIT OKAYED

Union Conference In London Votes For Hillman Plan

Fischer

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—The World Trade Union Conference voted today to form a new international labor organization with headquarters in Paris, and it demanded a voice in making and keeping the peace.

Closing on a harmonious note an eleven-day convention, delegates from 40 countries assigned several pending controversial issues to a special committee and agreed to call another conference before the end of the year.

Sponsored By Hillman

The delegates unanimously approved a proposal sponsored by Sidney Hillman of the CIO for creation of a new world labor organization aimed at "organic world trade-union unity," and they appointed a continuation committee of 40-odd members to carry on the work of the organization with authority to take such steps as it feels necessary to attain labor unity.

Hillman, Philip Murray and R. J. Thomas, all of the CIO, represent the United States on the committee. Hillman said earlier that room would be made on the executive council of the organization for the AFL if it desired to join. The AFL declined to attend the conference on the ground that the heavily represented Soviet trade-unions were dominated by their Government.

The United Kingdom, France and the Soviet Union along with the United States each have three members on the continuation committee. Seventeen Latin-American countries were given three seats.

Among the pending questions is whether the London or Warsaw Poles represent Polish labor. The status of Romania, Bulgaria and Italy also was referred to the committee.

The proposed adoption of a universal language for the purpose of deliberations in world labor councils was referred to the next world conference. One of the difficult, time-consuming phases of the parley here was the necessity of translation of English, Russian, French, Spanish and Greek.

New World Labor Body Is Voted

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—Delegates from more than 40 nations attending the World Trade Union Congress voted today to create a new world labor organization aimed at "organic world trade union unity."

A continuation committee will lay the groundwork for the new organization. CIO representatives on this committee will be Sidney Hillman, who sponsored the organization before the congress; Philip Murray and R. J. Thomas. The AFL is not repreesnted at the congress, but Hillman said it could join the world organization if it desired.

Hillman In Group

A WTUC group, which included Hillman; Sir Walter Citrine, of the International Federation of Trade Unions, and M. P. Tarasov, Russian delegate, submitted a unanimous report urging establishment of the 40-member continuation committee.

Most of the debate was based on demands by British colonies and dominions for larger representation.

Hillman has led the move for establishment of a new world federation.

Invitation To AFL

He made a bid for support from the American Federation of Labor in the councils of such a new world labor organization, telling the conference:

"I assure you that when they (AFL) decide to come in we will make room for them on the executive committee."

The AFL declined to attend the trade-union conference on the ground the Soviet delegation was under the domination of its Government.

Interim Organization

The continuation committee will begin work Monday.

Hillman said it is planned to reconvene the world conference not later than the end of 1945, or to convene an emergency world conference "if, in the opinion of the committee, world developments should make such a course necessary."

The committee will establish a full-time secretariat with headquarters in Paris. It will consist of three members each from the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Russia, three members from Latin-American countries and one each from other countries.

London Paper Asks Action On UNRRA

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—An overhauling of the European relief operations of the UNRRA appeared a possibility today.

The question was brought to the fore by the Laborite Daily Herald, which bluntly demanded: "What has gone wrong? Why should this vast organization stand paralyzed in an hour when its activities should be mounting to a peak?"

"Action there must be," the paper added editorially. "As a matter of the utmost urgency, the whole setup and operations of UNRRA must be overhauled. The condition of liberated peoples urgently requires it. The honor of the United Nations demands it."

This criticism followed a statement in Sydney by Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australia's Minister of External Affairs, that "despite much elaborate organization UNRRA has not functioned to any extent in Europe."

Showdown On UNRRA Hinges On Ship Deficit

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — A showdown appears to be developing over Anglo-American failure to provide adequate food, clothing and other supplies for the liberated countries of Europe.

That is the interpretation placed here on the hue and cry which has been raised in London this week over the asserted shortcomings of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in the situation. Involved are questions of relief for France, Belgium and those sections of the Netherlands from which the enemy has been cleared.

Officials Puzzled

The attacks on UNRRA are puzzling to the agency's international officials here because UNRRA actually is not responsible, under its regulations, for providing supplies to the western European countries.

Both American and UNRRA officials agree that this is the task of the Anglo-American military command.

The assumption here is that the London criticisms of the relief administration are intended simply to use it as a "whipping boy" for the fact that—despite elaborate plans which were laid down by the military and the western European administrations last summer—enough supplies have not been going through.

Facts Outlined

The basic facts of the situation appear to be these:

1. The western European countries, as well as those in Italy and other Mediterranean states, are at the moment worse off in some respects than they were under the period of German occupation. A factor here is the chaos which battle always leaves.

2. The Allies had planned on a slower liberation of France than was actually accomplished and figured on a gradual rather than sudden need of supplies from the United States.

3. Total demands on Allied shipping have strained cargo capacity to the utmost. The military people insist that there simply has not been enough tonnage to carry forward the offensives on both sides of the world, and also meet the supply needs of the liberated and former satellite countries.

This shipping deficit is regarded here as the crux of the whole problem and the showdown will have to come over this issue:

Is it more important to get a maximum force fighting in Europe in order to end the war as speedily as possible or is it more important to supply the starving and shivering millions of liberated Europe with what they need to stave off hunger and cold?

Director General Herbert H. Lehman has pending before the central committee of UNRRA a recommendation from its London office for a formal proposal to the western European governments that UNRRA be allowed to aid them in their relief work.

Rejected Previously

On previous occasions they have turned down such possibilities, contending that they could best deal directly with Britain and the United States, the principal sources of supply.

Whether they may now change their attitude remains to be seen. But here again the heart of the problem is shipping and no paper decision by UNRRA can assure delivery of goods unless shipping is made available.

SKODA FIRM SALE HELD UNDER WAY

FEB 18 1945

Czech Says De Gaulle Agents Are Buying It From Benes

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—Josef Malik, managing director of the Czech national bank, charged tonight that secret negotiation for the sale of the famous Skoda works and other munition firms in Czechslovakia between "agents of Benes and de Gaulle" had reached an advanced stage.

An outspoken opponent of the Benes government, Malik said these negotiations not only included the possible sale of the Skoda and Brno armament works, but also the mining and smelting works at Teschen and Vitkovice.

Earlier Charge Cited

The first assertion that the Czechoslovak Government was negotiating with the French was made at a meeting of Czech and Slovak nationals in London February 14 by Malik when he appealed to the British Government to demand that the Benes government examine all its ordinary expenses before the President left for the homeland.

Officials of the exiled government said they had heard nothing about the reported negotoations. They said that as soon as the areas where the armament plants were located were liberated they would start working for the Allies. Although admitting some approaches regarding sale of the works might have been made, they termed such a transaction "unlikely."

Malik declared the negotiations had gone so far that "a kind of agreement was reached" before de Gaulle's trip to Moscow.

30. 24— 23075

"Merchant Of Death"

He said French financial interests were "particularly interested" in seeing the Skoda works again under French control. Control of these works passed into French hands through Eugene Schneider, often called "the merchant of death," after the last war.

"The French group of Schneider and Cruesot," Malik said, "managed with the help of Benes, who was then Foreign Minister, to get hold of the Skoda works at Pilsen and also the biggest iron-and-steel works at Teschen at a dirt-cheap price.

"French financial interests in these two most important Czech manufacturing concerns amounted to 52 per cent of the capital stock and, consequently, they had the management in their hands.

To A Czech Consortium

"Then, after eighteen years under French control, these works were sold for about $11,500,000 to a Czech consortium headed by Dr. Edward Outrata, a close friend and supporter of Benes, when Czechoslovakia was carved up at Munich."

The Nazis took over the plants on February 15, 1939. There have been indications that the Benes government intended to place the Skoda and other armaments plants under state control when it returns home.

Czechoslovak officials said the works would continue to turn out armaments until both Germany and Japan were defeated, then be converted to peacetime production.

Promises New Czech Regime

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eduard Benes told his people in a broadcast tonight that he was leaving almost immediately for Czechoslovakia to establish a new interim Government to serve until the entire country was liberated and free elections might be held.

He promised to see that a new state arose with "order of our own, constructed by ourselves for ourselves in accordance with our requirements and the will of our people."

Warns Against Goebbels

The President warned Czechoslovaks against being intimidated by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels' "Bolshevik bogey," declaring that the Soviet union "wishes us to be independent, strong, steadfast and prosperous."

Benes said that with his departure from London the Czechoslovak state organization abroad was entering a new stage of liquidation.

"With the formation of the new government at home," he added, "the state council in London will cease to function."

He emphasized that the new government would represent "a national front—all the main sections of the nation, industrial and agricultural workers, the middle classes and the intellectuals."

Only Temporary

"I emphasize, however," he said, "that even this will be only a temporary government, since a more permanent form can only be attained after the whole republic is liberated and all political elements from Moravia and Bohemia are added."

He declared that organization of the state after liberation would be carried out from top to bottom, from national committees comprising all sections of the population, all classes and shades of opinion.

"Traitors and collaborationists will be excluded," he added.

Benes Going Home To Set Up Government

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—Dr. Eduard Benes, President of Czechoslovakia, announced tonight that he would leave for his homeland almost immediately to establish a new government.

He said in a broadcast to Czechoslovakia that he, his Foreign Minister, Jan Masaryk, and a number of other Czech leaders would travel by way of Moscow to Kosice and that they would go on to Prague when that capital was liberated.

"As soon as I reach the territory of the republic," Benes said, "the first government on our soil will be formed, including representatives of those who remained at home, and it will direct exclusively our conditions at home.

"With the formation of the new government at home, the state council in London will cease to function."

NEUTRAL NATIONS POSE BIG PROBLEM

LONDON, Feb. 17 — (AP) The eleventh-hour enlistment under United Nations banners by neutral nations which have been standing on the sidelines of the war poses for the great powers the complex problem of determining their status at the peace table and at the forthcoming world security conference.

It was regarded in diplomatic circles here today as certain that some of the Allies would insist that such recently war-minded nations as Venezuela and Uruguay should not be given equal voting power with the United States, Britain and Russia.

Just what formula would be found remained uncertain, but it is possible that an executive council, on which the big five would have voting dominance and which would make all decisions on the future world security league, subject to ratification by all the United Nations, may be established.

'MAN IN TOWER' TALE DISPUTED

No Dutch Officer, But Dutch Caught Him, Dutch Say

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—The curious case of "the man in the Tower," a dutchman said to have forewarned the Germans so that they smashed the British airborne attack on Arnhem last September, deepened in mystery tonight as the Netherlands Government Information Service denied the man was privy to the Arnhem operation but credited Dutch security police with catching him.

The story of alleged treachery by a man who was a member of the Dutch underground for three years and who "proved" his loyalty by killing several Germans, was first obtained from confidenital sources last December but was released by censorship only today.

The man's name still is withheld, but the British press, which gave wide display to the account, said he was "a Dutch officer."

Denial By Dutch Agency

Following publicaiton of the story, the Netherlands Information Service tonight issued a statement denying that he was a Dutch officer, denying that he was held in the famed Tower of London, and denying that he has access to information about the Arnheim operation.

The statement said, however, that the man held "had posed as member of the Dutch resistance movement," and that "his arrest was due entirely to the alertness of the Dutch security authorities on the Continent."

British sources thus far have denied all knowledge of the case.

Prior to the Dutch statement, this account of the case had been pieced toegther from various sources:

The man, trusted because of three active years in the underground, presented himshelf last summer to Dutch resistance liaison officers in London and offered himself as a message bearer.

He knew how to get through the German lines to the resistance representatives. Would he be willing to kill several Germans? Certainly, he was a crack shot. He obligingly named a number of likely Nazis.

In the underground, no one is taken at face value when necks are at stake. Brussels officers, subsequently checking his reliability, investigated and found he had killed the Nazis he promised.

Gestapo Executioner Role?

It now seems likely the Gestapo gave him the names of certain Germans which they intended to kill any way, and he played the role of executioner.

Thereafter, he was accepted. One of the messages with which he was reported entrusted carried instructions to the underground on the Arnhem attack.

The strength and suddenness of the Germans' resistance when the British "Red Devil" Parachute Division descended on the Dutch city aroused suspicions that they had been tipped.

But even as the heroic parachutists straggled back across the Rhine from the ruins of Arnhem, there was not the slightest suspicion of the courier.

It was not until some time later that the Allies obtained evidence that pointed to the Dutchman.

They moved cautiously. He was a dead shot and always went armed. To get him alive, he was induced to attend a cocktail party, and was seized at the height of what he thought was a gay affair.

The second chapter of the story of "The Man in the Tower"—how the Allies caught on to him—probably cannot be told until after the war.

Dutch Officer Held In Loss At Arnhem

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Tower of London confines a Dutch officer accused by the British Government on the basis of evidence carefully gathered, of tipping off the Germans to the Arnhem airborne attack which collapsed after an eight-day battle last September.

He is awaiting trial for treason on charges of betraying Allied military secrets to the enemy.

His arrest was announced last night.

On the officer, whose name was withheld, Britain may seek to place the principal blame for the failure of the assault, made by the British (Red Devil) 1st Parachute Division at a cost of more than 6,000 of its 8,000 men, to attain its full objective.

How He Was Caught

From a London informant came this story of how the officer was discovered and captured:

Early last August there reported to Dutch resistance liaison officers a man they knew and trusted on the basis of three years of effective underground work. He offered to bear messages to resistance representatives within Holland by sneaking through German lines. He was known to be an excellent marksman.

To check on his reliability they asked him whether he would be willing to kill several Germans. He readily named several stationed in Holland and promised to get them.

Killed The Germans

Subsequently Brussels officers checked his list. They found he had killed the Germans he named. Thereafter they saw no reasons to distrust him.

It appears that among the secret messages from London was one advising the Dutch underground of the pending Arnhem invasion, with the view of soliciting underground support.

When the parachutist remnants had to fight their way out of the Arnhem salient after a relief column was unable to cross the Neder Rhine, nobody suspected this man. He had crossed to Allied lines when underground forces struck in co-operation with the British attack.

Evidence Obtained

He came under scrutiny of intelligence men, however, and soon sufficient evidence piled up to warrant his arrest. One problem remained: He was an extremely cagey individual, who always carried a pistol. He was such a superior shot that it was considered inadvisable to try to disarm him by force.

The officer was invited to a cocktail party. He thoroughly enjoyed the party. But when he tried to depart he was arrested. He was handed over to British authorities, since Arnhem fell within the Twenty-first Army Group's jurisdiction. He was flown to Britain on orders of Supreme Headquarters.

The informant said he believed the Germans shot by the officer as proof of his loyalty to the resistance movement probably were from a list furnished by the German Gestapo and would have been killed by the Gestapo anyway.

Big-3 Postwar Pledge Voiced By Churchill

London, Sunday, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Moscow radio reported early today that before Prime Minister Churchill left Soviet territory by plane February 14 he made a farewell speech at a Crimean airdrome stating that "permanent friendship and collaboration between the three great powers was proclaimed more precisely and with more authority than ever before."

The broadcast quoted him as asserting, "the task before us is to enter right into the heart of the enemy's country and crush forever the ghastly Nazy tyranny.

"We all pledged ourselves to work together after the end of the present war in order to achieve a happier life and prosperity for large masses of people in every country so that nations may be able to live in the world without fear of cruel and base aggression and without ever again being exposed to the horrors of war."

Besides her work as an underwater freighter and minelayer, the Porpoise was credited with having sunk 35,000 tons of enemy shipping.

U. S. Soldier's Cap Clew to a Slaying

Southampton, England, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—Bloodhounds were used today in efforts to trace the owner of an American garrison cap found beneath the body of a slain woman.

Miss Mary Helen Hoyles, 55 years old, British employee of an American Red Cross club, was found strangled and battered to death Tuesday. The cap bore no identifying marks, and bloodhounds were taken into American Army camps in the vicinity. They were unsuccessful today.

Canadians Outflank Goch In Sudden 2-Mile Advance

Yanks Drive New Breach in Siegfried Line by Seizing Rohrbach.

PARIS, Feb. 17—(AP) The Canadian First army swept steadily ahead today after a sudden two-mile advance in which it outflanked the important Siegfried line bastion of Goch and the U. S. Third army's 80th division drove a new breach in the Westwall with the capture of Rohrbach in the Eastern Aachen sector.

British troops of the Canadian army split the German defense line 16 miles from the Ruhr valley in their lunge that threatened to topple Goch and came within less than three miles of the enemy's rear communications base at Uedem.

Smash Through Westwall

The advance into Rohrbach met little opposition and carried the Third army beyond the last ring of Siegfried Line pillboxes in that area. This constitutes the fourth break in the line by the Allies, the others being at Kleve, Pruem and in the Aachen-Monschau area.

This charge by infantry—described in a front dispatch as a near breakthrough—severed the Goch-Calcar highway, cutting off the garrisons of the twin strongholds from direct communications that had ensnarled them.

Elsewhere on the blazing 25-mile front, Field Marshal Montgomery's troops fought to within a mile of Goch, a mile and a half of Calcar—seven miles to the northeast—and battered both with artillery and mortars.

Goch was being outflanked on the east by the British moving on Uedem, and by Scotch and British on the west, who seized Asperden, a mile and a half to the northwest, and were battling through Hassum, three miles west.

More than 1,300 prisoners plodded back to Allied prison cages, the biggest single day's bag since the opening of the offensive ten days ago.

Smash Up Maas River

On the south flank, Scotch infantry with flamethrowers drove a mile up the Maas river and into Afferden, five miles south of where the Germans made their first strong stand at Gennep.

Here they were 16 miles north of the German Maas river strongpoint of Venlo, and were gradually rolling up the eastern Dutch defense line which has held back a British-Canadian eastward drive to the Rhine. Floods kept the north flank along the Rhine relatively static.

Farther south the U. S. Third army kept up pressure on the Eifel mountain traffic center of Bitburg, and the Germans resisted aggressively to keep it from going the way of Pruem and forcing broad withdrawals from the Westwall.

But the Fifth infantry division hacked out a half-mile advance, deepened its bridgehead to three and a half miles, and fought halfway through Schankweiler, on the Enz river eight miles south of Bitburg.

Inundated roads and flooded lowlands stood in front of the U. S. First and Ninth armies poised along the Roer facing the Ruhr and Rhineland. A front dispatch said the river was subsiding, and American patrols were out.

The U. S. Seventh army in northern Alsace also sent combat parties sallying into the enemy lines south of the German industrial city of Saarbrucken and ran into stiff fighting.

Along the entire Maas-Rhine front, British and Canadian troops were massed for the trip-hammer blows designed to overwhelm Goch, Calcar and Uedem and reach the open country leading to the munitions cities of the Ruhr. There is no real defense line behind them for several miles.

The day's advances had outflanked the state forest of Kleve, south of Kleve, where the Germans had made one of their most bitter stands. Three-fourths of the forest was cleared and mop-up squads ranged on through the remainder.

Nazis Battle Bitterly

A front dispatch said the next few days probably would mark the crucial phase in the offensive from the north, with the Germans making a supreme effort to make a stand in the rubble of Goch and Calcar.

The country south and east of the two towns is webbed with fair roads, and is good maneuvering ground for the waiting columns of armor Montgomery has ready to unleash.

The British drive toward Uedem came dangerously close to reaching that country today as it bit deeply into the ranks of two German panzer grenadier divisions.

The British cut the Goch-Calcar highway at a point two and a half miles northeast of Goch, where they were 16 miles from Wesel, at the edge of the Ruhr industrial basin.

Other forces on their north captured Luisendorf, on a secondary road between the two strongpoints. This drive was threatening Calcar, two and a half miles farther east. Troops fighting down the highway from Kleve were a mile and a half northwest of Calcar.

Some British troops bearing straight down on Goch were reported only a mile away, and one brigade in this march captured 900 prisoners. The days capture brought the prisoner total in the offensive to 7,500.

Ahead of the troops edging into the formidable defenses around Goch and Calcar, artillery and mortar fire was churning the towns into rubble.

Goch was made into a part of the Westwall by the Germans, and its network of highways obviously has too great strategic value to permit the Allies to be content with outflanking it.

CRERAR'S MEN SMASH AHEAD ON GOCH FRONT

Canadian First Army Units Drive to Within a Mile of Nazi Bastion.

SCOTS PUSH INTO AFFERDEN

Begin Peeling Germans Away From East Bank of River Maas.

H. Cowan

Paris, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—In advances of up to two-and-a-quarter miles, the Canadian First Army forces pushed to within little more than one mile of the enemy bastion of Goch today, cut the main Goch-Calcar highway at two points and began peeling the Germans away from the east bank of the River Maas.

Flame-throwing Scots under the Canadian Gen. Henry Crerar's command, entered the Maas River town of Afferden, seven miles southwest of Goch and about five miles south of Gennep. These troops, on Gen. Crerar's right flank, advanced by more than a mile in the face of local counter-attacks.

The Siegfried defense rim surrounding Goch was entered, a front-line dispatch said. Asperden, with a mile and a half of Goch, was cleared and a further penetration was made into Hassum, three miles west of the pivotal center.

Flyers Long Grounded by Fog.

A considerable number of prisoners were captured by the units which cut the Goch-Calcar road and captured Luisendorf. These troops were now within a mile and a half of Calcar. The Forest of Kleve was now about three-fourths cleared. The gains were made despite mud and slime underfoot.

Fog and haze kept the Allied air force grounded up to midafternoon except for 500 British-based United States bombers and fighters, which hit Frankfurt with some 1,200 tons of explosives.

American 3d Army troops fighting on the eastern side of the Sauer River deepened their Echternach bridgehead to 3½ miles.

Hervorst Entered

Troops closing on Goch and Calcar gained 2,500 yards. They entered Hervorst, within 1½ miles of Goch, and captured Hommersum and Mull, 5 miles west of Goch.

Crerar's men were five miles or less from Uedem, a road center strongpoint.

More than 1,000 Nazi prisoners were taken in the last 24 hours, boosting the total for the Canadian drive to 6,900, a field dispatch said. Another dispatch described yesterday's air-assisted gains as probably the best since early in the nine-day-old push.

British Gain 2 Miles

British troops who advanced 4,000 yards and crossed the Goch-Calcar road almost scored a breakthrough, field reporters said, going deep into the lines of the German 116th Panzer and 15th Panzer Grenadier Divisions.

The push carried clear of the Siegfried Line's defense zone from Kleve to Goch, and cut just north of Halvenboom.

Nazis Attack Viciously

The Germans—now using parts of eight divisions—made small but vicious counterattacks throughout yesterday morning.

Elsewhere on the Western front, mud halted most activities, but the United States 76th Division pushed a half mile northeast along the Echternach-Irrel road, capturing heights dominating the Pruem River.

The Fifth Division of the Third Army advanced half a mile northeast into Schankweiler, 6 miles northwest of Echternach.

Germans Retake Pillboxes

Southeast of Echternach, Third Army patrols entered Wasserbillig, at the junction of the Sure and Moselle rivers, but were forced to withdraw, supreme headquarters said, and in the Sinz area southeast of Remich Germans attacking with tanks recaptured several billboxes.

Flood waters were reported to be ebbing along the Roer River front of the United States First and Ninth armies.

No Change In Alsace

No changes were reported on the Alsatian front.

There were indications that Crerar would soon be able to throw his full armored power into the battle at the northern hinge of the German line, for the ground was reported to be drying.

German civilians were reported streaming from the battle zone, seeking haven behind Allied lines.

More raids such as the British and American heavy bombers carried out recently on the residential sections of Berlin, Dresden, Chemnitz and Cottbus are in store for the Reich, and their avowed purpose will be creating more confusion in the German traffic tangle and sapping German morale.

All-Out Air War Launched

The all-out air war in Germany became obvious with the unprecedented daylight assault on the refugee-crowded capital two weeks ago and subsequent attacks on other cities jammed with civilians fleeing from the Russian advance in the east.

The Allied view is that bombardment of large German cities creates immediate need for relief. This is moved into the bombed areas both by rail and road and not only creates a traffic problem but draws transport away from the battlefront. Evacuation of the homeless has the same result.

Reconnaisance has shown that the best way to create road bottlenecks through key cities is to topple buildings into the streets. One spot of the Western front recently was made impassable for nine days by such tactics.

The effect on morale, both at home and at the front, is quite obvious.

The decision may revive protests from some Allied quarters against "uncivilized warfare," but they are likely to be balanced by satisfaction in those sections of Europe where the German Air force and the Nazi V-weapons have been responsible for the indiscriminate slaughter of civilians by tens of thousands.

The reaction of the Germans, who still are bombing England blindly with long-range rockets, is expected to be a new outburst of violent words, but there is little more the Nazi propagandists can say—all the previous Allied air raids on the Reich have been described by Berlin as "terror attacks."

NAZIS BENEFIT BY ALLIED LAG

Given Time To Stabilize Their Line, Observer Says

By J. W. GALLAGHER

With the U.S. 9th Army in Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Allied command, by not striking when German West front defenses were disorganized and drained in recent weeks to supply their Eastern front, have permitted the Nazis to stabilize and reorganize their line.

Aside from the Canadian Army offensive at the northern end of the Western front, the Germans have had to meet only air attacks and local assaults since loss of the Belgian bulge and they have been able to shift forces northward to meet the Canadians.

"Shifting Backfield Defense"

Offensives by one army at a time have been typical of the Allied winter strategy, and the Germans have been able to use their reserves like a shifting backfield defense in a football game.

However, although they have reorganized, the Germans still do not hold the Western front in great strength. They are employing the advantages of terrain of southern Belgium and northern France and the flooded Roer River to fight delaying actions.

At one time it appeared that the Germans were planning to leave a skeleton force on the fighting line and withdraw the main body of their forces across the Rhine, but the interlude since their retreat from the Ardennes has given them time to sort out their units and establish a more balanced front.

When the next Allied smash comes, there is little doubt that it will be successful, but the fighting is going to be much harder than it would have been a few weeks ago when confusion prevailed on the German side.

Use Time To Better Advantage

For a reason that historians will have to find, the German high command has been consistently able to use time to better advantage than the Allies. Perhaps this is due to more battle experience and more flexibility in the field command in the German Army.

It has amazed many Allied military men that the Germans have been able to move their troops at all under the terrific air pounding they receive daily, much less with the skill and speed they have displayed month after month.

Italy As An Example

This German rehabilitation of the Western front is not the first time they have recovered from crushing blows when they themselves thought all was lost.

For example, when the Allies first invaded Italy in 1943, the Germans blew up military installations all the way from Naples to Florence, indicating they thought all Italy was lost to them. Then they found they were able to hold the Allies temporarily.

Follow-Through Failure Laid To Allies

FEB 18 1945

By J. W. Gallagher

With the U.S. 9th Army in Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Germany's Western front defenses, in a chaotic condition three weeks ago as a result of the Russian drive on Berlin, have been stabilized and reorganized.

By not striking at the height of the German confusion the Allies have made it possible for the Nazi high command to repair much of the damage done by its hurried draining of divisions to the Eastern front at the height of the retreat out of the Belgian bulge.

Except for air attacks and the Canadian 1st Army offensive in the north the Germans have been molested only by local actions and patrol activity along the Western front.

Opposition Increasing

Because only the Canadian army has been attacking, the Germans have been able to shift divisions to meet this thrust, and the opposition to the Canadian forces is increasing daily.

This one-army attack at a time has been typical of the Allied winter strategy and the Germans have been able to shift their reserves like a backfield defense in a football game along the long front to hold the threatened spot at the expense of weakening other places.

Still Essentially Weak

While the Germans have been able to reorganize the front, this does not mean that it is strongly held. It is held with the least number of crack troops since last October and at places it is little more than a screen of infantry using mountainous areas to trade for time.

The Germans are successfully using every article of defense. In northern France and southern Belgium they are using the rough terrain to fight delaying actions. They used the Roer River dams to put up a water barrier.

Nazi Morale Was Low

Three weeks ago, at the time of the Eastern front breakthrough, the Germans rushed division after division from the Ardennes area to the East and there was considerable confusion behind their lines as they tried to untangle forces from the bulge and readjust the front.

The vital gateway to the Ruhr north of Cologne was left virtually unprotected except for the threat of the Roer dams and a handful of second-rate troops spread out along the front at a ratio of about 120 to a mile. The morale of the German soldiers was low; the combination of the threat from the Ardennes and the threat to Berlin sent it down to its lowest point of the war.

Once Signs Of Big Retreat

At one time there were strong indications that the Germans, knowing they could not withstand a heavy co-ordinated Allied blow, were planning to leave only a skeleton force and withdraw across the Rhine, fighting only a rear-guard action west of the river. Great numbers of barges and river craft were spotted along the west bank of the Rhine, apparently for a quick evacuation of the remaining troops.

Given time, however, the German high command was able to sort out its forces, reallot them as thin as they might be and come up with a sort of balanced front. They were able, too, to throw more forces into the position they have always held strongly—the area from Cologne north to Duesseldorf.

During the past few days German artillery fire across the Roer has increased considerably, indicating a sizable strengthening of the defenses.

Although the Nazi line is stretched so thin it might snap anywhere, the chances of achieving a tactical surprise have considerably decreased in the past ten days.

400,000 Tons of Supplies Sent

PARIS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Brig. Gen. C. P. Stearns, civil affairs officer of the communications zone, said today that the United States Army, in addition to keeping supply lines to the front operating, had imported 400,000 tons of supplies for France.

About half of this has been food. Other commodities were clothing, blankets, newsprint, gasoline, sanitation supplies and materials for restoring communications.

New Nazi Propaganda Trick

Broadcast Asks Allied Mission to View Red "Atrocities" in Hungary

PARIS, Feb. 17 (AP).—General Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters had "no comment" today on a German broadcast which invited an Allied military mission to investigate what the Germans called "Soviet atrocities" in Hungary.

The German broadcast was viewed at headquarters as an awkward Nazi propaganda trick. Hungary is not in the Allied theater of operations commanded by General Eisenhower. The Germans, inviting the Allied commander to send a delegation of six to ten officers or enlisted men inside German lines for the purpose, said they were awaiting General Eisenhower's reply by radio.

'Ike' Gets Nazi Bid

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Germans invited General Eisenhower by radio today to send a delegation of from six to ten officers or enlisted men inside German lines to investigate what the Nazis called "Soviet atrocities" in Hungary.

The broadcast represented another step in the unceasing campaign of the enemy to stir up dissention among the Allies.

"We are awaiting General Eisenhower's reply by radio," said the German broadcast. "Immediately upon receipt of his message, conditions for sending and reception of this committee will be agreed upon."

Private First Class Martin Bleich, of Brooklyn, told a reporter: "I wish you would say hello to my wife and son. He is four-teen months old. Here are their pictures."

Under the direction of Major Benjamin Bosley, of Chicago, who was a special service officer in the Pacific theater, a program of events has been planned. The soldiers can play tennis, football, basketball and softball. But there will be no swimming and golf for the present, since the beaches and golf courses were mined by the Germans. There also will be dances, plays, motion pictures and night clubs. Arrangements have been made for the soldiers to go to church.

Nazi Mayor Gets 10-Year Sentence

Aachen, Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Otto Meyer, 46, former mayor of the village of Bardenburg, 3 miles north of Aachen, was sentenced by an American Military Government court today to ten years in prison for giving false information to Allied officials.

Meyer, exposed as a wheelhorse of the Nazi party, had worked himself into a position of trust with the American Army and had been given several important secret missions. German witnesses pictured him as the ruthless leader of a gang of storm troop terrorists.

The AMG intermediate court of four officers deliberated 45 minutes. It gave Meyer, in addition to the maximum prison sentence, a fine of 10,000 reichsmarks (about $1,000 at the current nominal value). The fine was only a tenth of the maximum.

The court had heard two days of testimony from German civilians, including several defense witnesses.

Specifically, Meyer was charged with stating falsely that he never was a member of Hitler's "Sturm Abteilung (home front storm troops) and that he had come to be considered by the Nazis "an enemy of the state."

Pilot Gains Promotion

Ninth Air Force Headquarters, France, Feb. 17 (AP)—Col. Robert M. Lee, 36-year-old pilot who has seen service with the armored forces as well as the air, was promoted to brigadier general today as deputy commander of the 9th Air Force.

PARIS, Feb. 17—(AP) Mrs. Frank Jay Gould said today in an interview that she had invested more than $100,000 in a Monte Carlo bank during the Allied invasion last Summer to keep the Nazis from taking her wealthy 67-year-old husband to a concentration camp in Germany.

The business manager for Mrs. Gould, who is the former Florence Lacaze, was present at the interview and declared it was a sort of blackmail payment. The payment, "5,000,000 francs and more" was made July 7, a few days before the Americans broke through at St. Lo in Normandy and swept on toward Paris.

French authorities say the Monte Carlo bank was German-controlled. They have not named Mrs. Gould nor disclosed information about the firm, but Mrs. Gould told me that she undoubtedly was the "wife of a very prominent American" mentioned by U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as being under investigation by French authorities.

"If I were a collaborationist would I be here now?" asked Mrs. Gould. "Of course not. I wouldn't be free."

Morgenthau had said Tuesday that the United States had informed the French government it would assist in a French investigation of a "very famous" American couple suspected of collaboration with the Germans. France had asked if the United States would object to an investigation, addressing its query to the Treasury because the Americans might have some assets in the United States.

Mrs. Gould is a former Parisian actress and the third wife of Gould, who has lived in France 36 years and who remained in Nice on the Riviera throughout the war. Youngest son of Jay Gould, he inherited an estate estimated at $10,000,000 from his father's $83,000,000 fortune.

Mrs. Gould Explains Why She Invested $100,000 With Nazis

Paris, Feb. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Jay Gould said today she had invested more than $100,000 in a Monte Carlo bank last July to keep the Germans from taking her millionaire husband to Germany.

"It was a sort of blackmail payment," the business manager for the former Florence Lacaze asserted.

French authorities say the Riviera bank mentioned by Mrs. Gould was controlled by the Germans when they occupied France.

Mrs. Gould told the Associated Press she undoubtedly was "the wife of a very prominent American" mentioned by Secretary Morgenthau as being under investigation by French authorities.

Hasn't "Slightest Fear"

The United States Treasury Secretary said Tuesday the United States had told the French Government it would assist in a French investigation of a "very famous" American couple suspected of collaboration with the Nazis.

France had asked if the United States would object to an investigation, addressing its query to the Treasury because the Americans might have some assets in the United States.

Mrs. Gould is a former Parisian actress and the third wife of Gould, who has lived in France for 36 years. Youngest son of Jay Gould, he inherited an estate estimated at $10,000,000 from his father's $83,000,000 fortune.

"I haven't the slightest fear of this investigation," Mrs. Gould added. "Not half the story has yet been told. Mr. Morgenthau should have known the full details before he spoke.

"Yes, it is true that I invested some of my own money in this banking concern—5,000,000 francs and more," she said. "I did so to keep Frank Jay Gould from being taken to Germany. He is 67 years old and a sick man. If he had been put in a concentration camp it would have been his death.

"The date of the transaction was July 21, 1944—when the Americans already were sweeping through France and the Germans were pulling out. 'f I had wanted to help the Germans, do you think I would have waited until that late date to do so? Ah, no. That would mean I was crazy."

Mrs. Gould said she had not only paid out the money to keep her husband from being taken off by the Germans, but had also planned his kidnapping with the help of the French Maquis to prevent the Germans from seizing him.

Planned Kidnapping

"After this money was paid, I was not even then sure I could trust these people, so I planned to have my own husband kidnapped."

Mrs. Gould then was in Paris, and her husband in Nice, where he remained, unmolested, throughout the war.

She said she got four members of the FFI and a physician to proceed southward with the object of taking her husband into the Maquis so the Germans would not find him.

"They got as far as Aix en Provence, where the local FFI authorities would let them proceed no farther because they told them an Allied landing in the south of France was imminent," Mrs. Gould said.

The Idea Precisely

I asked her, "Do you mean that this investment in the bank was a sort of blackmail payment to keep the Germans from arresting and deporting your husband?"

Mrs. Gould's business manager, Raymond Gallauziaux, who was present, said, "You have the idea precisely."

Mrs. Gould said her investment in the banking firm was as "a commanditaire."

Under this arrangement, investors may participate in the bank without voice in its management, and without liability in case of its insolvency.

The bank is understood to be a private one. French officials have not divulged information about the firm. Nor have they named Mrs. Gould, although they have confirmed Morgenthau's statement of investigation of the financial dealings of the wife of a prominent American.

"I Wouldn't Be Free"

Gallauziaux said the investigation was "an administrative one" and that the only action the Government had taken against Mrs. Gould was sequestration of her property pending its outcome, as is done in all such cases.

"Of course," Mrs. Gould said, "if I were collaborationist would I be here now? Of course not. I wouldn't be free."

Her Home a Cold One

She received me in her home in the most fashionable part of Paris, a large and beautiful apartment but chilly for lack of fuel like the poorer homes of the city. She wore a heavy blue robe which ran down to her ankles and a thick fur piece on her shoulders.

Mrs. Gould said she had spent the first part of the war as a nurse in a Paris military hospital assisting surgeons during operations. Just before the occupation of southern France she attempted to go to Bordeaux with her daughter in hopes of getting to America, she added, but was blocked by the Germans and became a nurse at a military hospital at Bergerac.

She later returned to Paris. Her husband, she continued, remained at Nice, scarcely stirring from his home. She said the Germans molested neither of them, but she had grave fears they would take them to Germany when they were withdrawing from France.

She also declared she had financed Maquis operations by lending the FFI considerable sums of money while the leaders were awaiting funds from abroad.

Born in San Francisco of French parents, Mrs. Gould said she had always been an American citizen. She spent her entire childhood in France, however, and speaks English with a French accent. In the interview she spoke rapidly, changing frequently from English into French.

Permanent Home in Paris

Frank Jay Gould, an ardent Francophile, voluntarily exiled himself from America thirty-five years ago, at first making Paris his permanent home. He returned to the United States occasionally on visits, however, and never relinquished his American citizenship.

The wealthy turfman and gambling casino operator was not heard from for some time after the Nazi invasion of the French Riviera in November, 1942. On Sept. 11, 1944, his business office at New York announced it had received word from the Red Cross "two or three months ago" that Gould and his third wife were "well" and were living on the Riviera. Gould, at the time of the Nazi occupation of France, occupied a small villa at Juan-les-Pins.

For many years Gould's string of races horses, marital affairs and numerous law suits made him a widely known international figure. When the franc dropped in value —frightening Monte Carlo interests—Gould made further headlines by building and operating a $100,000 casino at Nice. It was destroyed by fire in 1933 after having been in operation only periodically.

His first wife was Helen Margaret Kelly, whom he married in 1901. She divorced him in 1909, and the following year he married an actress, Edith Kelly. Gould divorced her in 1919 after a long separation, naming a wealthy Mexican as co-respondent. His marriage to Florence La Caze followed soon after. He has two daughters by his first wife.

CLARK WARNS NORTH ITALY

Says Air Might Will Strike Nazi Retreat Route

Rome, Feb. 17 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark declared today a German withdrawal from Italy was "increasingly likely" and warned Italians in the northern provinces that Allied air might was being turned loose on the routes of retreat.

In the first intimation from such a high quarter that the enemy might be planning to haul back his 27 divisions for a defense of the Reich, the Allied commander in Italy told the people to stand clear of industrial and transportation targets so that "any attempt at a German withdrawal may be made costly as possible."

Like Eisenhower Messages

His message to the Italian people was reminiscent of those of General Eisenhower, who issued the same sort of warning to the peoples of Alsace, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg when Allied armies were racing through western Europe last autumn.

Clark recalled instructions to Italian partisans to aid the Allies by attacking communications and said their efforts should be designed to "co-ordinate with and supplement" the aerial blows.

Whether one or more enemy divisions already had escaped across northern Italy under the almost daily aerial hammering was not being mentioned now.

Find Strong Resistance

But one thing was certain. German patrols were aggressive all along the front, and American patrols lancing into enemy positions south of Bologna—key to the defense line—found them as strong, and resistance as determined, as ever.

The Allied communiqué reported bitter clashes between combat parties on both the United States 5th and British 8th Army fronts.

"Attempts by the Germans to withdraw from Italy become increasingly likely," Clark's message said, particularly "in this phase of war when, in the East, Russian armies are sweeping on to Berlin and in the West Anglo-Americans are smashing through the Siegfried Line defenses.

Classifies Targets

"During this phase, therefore, the full might of Allied air power is being turned against supply and communication routes of the enemy leading out of northern Italy in order that any attempt of a German withdrawal may be made as costly as possible to our ruthless enemy."

In telling the people to stay away from such targets as roads, railways, communications centers, bridges and industrial targets, Clark urged them to restrict all civilian travel to an absolute minimum.

The communiqué reported that German positions near the French-Italian border had been kept under continuous naval bombardment from February 7 to February 12 "in support of the Army."

Clark Says Nazis May Quit Italy

Rome, Feb. 17 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark warned the people of Northern Italy today that "the full might of Allied air power is being turned against supply and communications routes of the enemy leading out of Northern Italy in order that any attempt at a German withdrawal may be made as costly as possible."

This was the first official mention here of the possibility of German withdrawal of some 27 divisions that have faced the British 8th and United States 5th Armies.

"Attempts Increasingly Likely"

The Allied command in Italy told patriots in the north that "attempts by the Germans to withdraw in Italy become increasingly likely," particularly " in this phase of the war when in the east the Russian armies are sweeping on to Berlin and in the west the British and Americans are smashing through the Siegfried Line defenses."

"Your main task will also be to attack lines of communication," Clark told the patriots. "Take all freedom of movement from the enemy. The efforts of the patriots must be co-ordinated with those of the Allied air forces.

Asks Civilians To Cut Travel

To the people, he said: "Keep away from roads, railways, communications centers, bridges and also all industrial targets to the fullest extent possible. Restrict all civilian travel and traffic to an absolute minimum because the enemy's use of the Italian communications system makes it impossible to distinguish between military and civilian transport."

The ground fighting in Italy still was confined to patrol contact with the enemy all across the front. These sorties have indicated that the German winter defenses of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring are just as strong as ever, particularly in the Apennines south of Bologna, where the Fifth Army offers the strongest threat both to the highway lifeline of the Nazis and the gateway to the Po Valley itself.

Stiff Defensive Fire

In one such clash a half mile northeast of Monterumici, a town south of Bologna between Highway 65 and the alternate Florence-Bologna road, a 5th Army combat party killed six Germans and knocked out two machine guns with hand grenades. In another, a German patrol which infiltrated 8th Army positions on the east bank of the Senio river was forced to retire, leaving five dead.

But there was stiff defensive fire all across the 5th Army sector.

Enemy reports, noting movement of Allied reinforcements behind the 8th Army lines, declared any offensive probably would be held up until the weather improved.

CASSINO WRECKAGE TO BE A SHRINE

Rome, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—Two-thirds of the ruins of Cassino, Italy's most devastated town, will be left untouched as a shattered shrine of the second world war, it was announced today.

Col. L. A. Jenny, director of an Allied subcommission on public works and utilities, said the only work that will be done in two-thirds of the town will be the clearing away of mines along roped off paths through the mounds of debris. The remainder of Cassino will be rebuilt into a model housing project.

Pope Cancels Lenten Talk

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP).—The Vatican radio said today that Pope Pius XII would be unable to deliver a Lenten address Monday, as scheduled, because of a recent attack of influenza.

Vatican Paper Replies To Moscow Broadcast

Vatican City, Feb. 17 (AP)—Osservatore Romano, referring to a Moscow broadcast saying the Holy See was dissatisfied with results of the Crimean conference, declared "in this case also the news presents a pure and simple calumny."

The Moscow broadcast said the Vatican was not satisfied because it had not been invited to participate in the conference.

"We are authorized to state that the Holy See never in the least thought to participate in the conference," the newspaper said.

It also denied a Moscow broadcast saying the Vatican was instrumental in the Italian Government's decision to send an Ambassador to Spain.

Nuncio Moves From Berlin

Vatican City, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Papal Nuncio to Berlin has transferred his residence from Berlin to Eichstaett in Bavaria, the Vatican said today. He is the guest of the Bishop of Eichstaett.

[The Vatican announcement tends to support a Moscow announcement that the German capital has been moved from Berlin to Nuernberg in Bavaria. The Nuncio is the official Vatican envoy to the German Government, and presumably would desire to be as close as possible to Reich offices. He might, of course, move independently because of the battle's approach to Berlin. Eichstaett is 80 miles south of Nuernberg.]

Flagstad's Husband Held

Stockholm, Feb. 17 (AP)—Henry Johansen, husband of opera singer Kirsten Flagstad, has been arrested in Norway, the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraphic Bureau reported today from Oslo.

No reason was given for the arrest. Johansen has been chairman of the board of directors of both the Grand and Bristol hotels in Oslo.

A noted Wagnerian soprano, Kirsten Flagstad left New York in April, 1941, for Lisbon, intent upon joining her husband in Norway, but told her managers she would return to the United States by the following September.

Her husband announced later that she had arrived there and, in a letter from Kristiansand, Norway, to her New York concert manager, said she had injured her hand and would be unable to write for some time. But there has been no direct word in New York from Miss Flagstad herself since her departure.

Married In 1930

The 48-year-old singer was married to Johansen, then a lumber dealer, in 1930. He persuaded her to abandon the idea of retirement from the operatic stage and to go to America. Her debut on February 2, 1935, at the Metropolitan Opera in New York as Sieglinde in Wagner's "Die Walkuere" won critical acclaim, and she since has been hailed as the greatest Wagnerian soprano on the American operatic stage for years.

Favors Free News Exchange, Farouk Says

Cairo, Feb. 17 (AP)—King Farouk of Egypt, granting an hour's audience to Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, and Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, expressed approval today of the campaign for the free exchange of world news. The editors represent the American Society of Newspaper Editors, on a world-wide tour.

Pointing to the recent relaxation of censorship of domestic news in Egypt, the King indicated his intention of continuing this trend until all restrictions were removed.

Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism and the third American in the group, still is hospitalized. Forrest and McGill are proceeding to Turkey on Monday.

Internees Quit Switzerland

480 Americans and 33 Britons Off to Italy, via Marseille

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 17 (AP).—Four hundred eighty American and thirty-three British internees left Switzerland today en route to Marseille, on the way to their former bases in Italy. From there many are expected eventually to return home.

Almost all the Americans are airmen. The party included all the remaining British internees in Switzerland and left behind only forty Americans. They are expected to leave within three weeks. The evacuation plan also includes part of about 3,000 interned Germans, many of them border guards who took refuge in Switzerland during the Allied drive in France.

Conference Blessed By Russian Patriarch

Moscow, Feb. 17 (AP)—Patriarch Alexei of Moscow and all the Russias blessed the Crimean conference today in a public statement declaring that the decisions reached "by our great Stalin and the leaders of our allied governments" laid a solid foundation for world peace.

"Clerical circles of the fatherland," he said, "welcome the decisions of the Crimea conference with the greatest satisfaction and delight."

Turning his benediction to the United States, Britain and other allies of Russia, Alexei said: "Glory and honor to our allies. Blessed is the memory of the heroes of their fatherlands who sacrificed courage, skill and life itself."

ELAS' AREAS TAKEN OVER

Greek National Guard and British Cheered by Residents

ATHENS, Feb. 17 (AP)—A Government spokesman said today that the Greek National Guard, equipped with modern weapons, was pushing forward into areas of Greece formerly held by the Elas forces.

The Elas fighters are turning in their arms at their own collection points. The weapons will be taken over by the British under the peace settlement.

Small British units are accompanying the Greek guardsmen as they advance into the former Leftist territory. According to the Greek press, they are receiving an enthusiastic reception from the residents.

JAPANESE ATTACK ON CHINA RAILROAD

Enemy Attempts to Regain 25 Miles of Canton-Hankow Line —Allies Slowed in Burma

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Chinese High Command announced tonight that reinforced Japanese had launched a determined counter-attack in the Pingshek-Ichang sector, where the Chinese have driven a twenty-five-mile break into the enemy hold on the Canton-Hankow railway corridor.

30. 24— 23079

Hard fighting was reported in the mountainous area between Ichang in southern Hunan and Pingshek, just across the border in Kwangtung Province. This is the area of the breach, 180 miles north of Canton, reported yesterday by an army spokesman.

The Japanese also have been held in a counter-attack that had gained six miles toward Chihing on the Kwangtung-Kiangsi highway, thirty miles east of Kukong, fallen provisional capital of Kwangtung. A recent series of Chinese counter-attacks regained Chihing.

Chinese troops in Kiangsi Province have opened counter-attacks about fifteen miles north and nine miles south of Yungsin.

Far to the north, the United States Fourteenth Air Force carried out sweeps yesterday along the Peiping-Hankow railway and the Yangtze River. Two locomotives were destroyed, an enemy passenger steamer was damaged and another was fired. At Nanking fighters damaged three enemy planes and beat off an attack by twenty to twenty-five fighters without loss.

Peiping-Hankow Rails Targets Of U.S. Planes

Chungking, Feb. 17 (AP)—American fighter planes yesterday, without loss, attacked a number of targets along the Peiping-Hankow railroad, destroying two locomotives and destroying and damaging rolling stock.

Other planes in a sweep along the Yangtze River between Wuhu and Hankow set fire to a Japanese passenger ship and damaged several smaller vessels.

Thieves Bury Jeep Parts

But the vehicles are only a part of the lost equipment, and it has been in cutting jeep and truck losses that the authorities have had greatest success so far. Last month only five jeeps were taken and two of them were recovered. A common practice of the thieves is to dismantle the vehicles and bury the parts for reassembly later or disposal as replacement parts.

Service of Supply military police now require that all American vehicles be parked in guarded lots and that an American remain at the wheel when they are parked elsewhere. The old practice of chaining the wheels to the springs with a padlock was found completely ineffective.

Americans Participate

American participation in the looting has not been negligible. The temptation offered by black market prices frequently is too great for Americans in position to deliver military property. A .45-caliber automatic pistol is worth $100 (American) and sale to the black market of one machine gun can make an unscrupulous American wealthy for months.

The Chinese instituted summary execution as punishment for this thievery-sabotage, but it has been a surprisingly ineffectual deterrent.

The practice of siphoning fuel from army vehicles continues to be widespread. One gallon of the mixture of 75 per cent Chinese alcohol and 25 per cent imported gasoline to which the American vehicles have been adjusted sells for $8 (American) in Kunming's black market.

Looting In Kunming Sector Reduces Supplies To China

Farnsworth

Kunming, Feb. 17 (AP)—Chinese and American authorities are developing new safeguards against theft of war equipment in this principal staging area of American material in China, but losses in the past year have been enormous.

To figure the total monetary value of the stolen equipment seems impossible, but one example is the fact that American Army vehicles stolen and not recovered since the first of 1944 were worth $50,000 at f.o.b. prices, to which must be added the even greater cost of shipping them by sea and air into China.

Death No Deterrent

In the period the Americans lost by theft 104 jeeps and 3 trucks, but 70 jeeps and 1 truck were recovered.

The Chinese punishment for this combination of thievery and sabotage is frequently summary execution, but even this deterrent is surprisingly weak.

With the co-operation of Chinese authorities, January loses this year were held to five jeeps, of which two were recovered.

Hundreds of Chinese have been given jobs as watchers and chauffeurs, and the Service of Supply and MP's in Kunming have enforced stricter regulations.

American Collusion Cited

American collusion in this looting cannot be ruled out. The temptation is great. A 45-caliber automatic pistol brings $100 in the black market. A machine gun could make an unscrupulous American wealthy for months.

The stealing of fuel offers even more trouble to the American military. Many have been arrested for syphoning fuel from military vehicles, but the practice continues. A gallon of standard fuel, a mixture of Chinese alcohol and imported gasoline to which the vehicles have been adjusted, brings $8 American in the black market.

Prison Sentences Given

The driver for a United States Army Chaplain recently was arrested when he was trailed by police and found siphoning the fuel from his vehicle.

Also a problem is the reported sale by Americans of Army Post Exchange items.

Prison sentences have been given in many cases, but it is still possible to buy a packet of tax-free American cigarettes in Kunming if the smoker is willing to pay the price, which ranges upward from $10 American.

Thefts Hit War Supplies In China

Farnsworth

Kunming, China, Feb. 17 (AP)—Wholesale thefts of war equipment and supplies for months have bitten deeply into hard-gained tonnages in the shoestring Chinese theater. Chinese and American authorities are attempting to set up new safeguards against these raids.

There seems no way of reckoning the whole monetary loss.

In the Kunming area alone, the principal staging area of American material in China, American-made vehicles stolen and not recovered since January 1, 1944, have a total value of $50,000 (American) at f.o.b. prices. To this should be added the far greater cost of shipment of this equipment by sea and air into China.

Death No Deterrent

In the period the Americans lost by theft 104 jeeps and 3 trucks, but 70 jeeps and 1 truck were recovered.

The Chinese punishment for this combination of thievery and sabotage is frequently summary execution, but even this deterrent is surprisingly weak.

Enemy Opposition In Burma Stiffer

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 17 (AP)—Indian 15th Corps troops and West African units have run into stiff Japanese opposition in the campaign along the west coast of Burma, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

In the area northwest of Kangaw, the Indian 25th Division captured an important hill feature, the daily bulletin said, but on the high ground east of Kangaw the enemy was offering "determined resistance."

West African troops were said to be meeting strong opposition at a point 11 miles southeast of Kangaw.

Wipe Out Remnants

Indian 26th Division troops continued to wipe out enemy remnants on Ramree Island, lying off the coast to the south.

The air forces carried the attack in the rest of Burma. Enemy-occupied villages south and west of Mandalay were attacked by heavy, medium and fighter bombers of the Eastern Air Command, while in the Arakan district to the west, north of the coastal ground action, Japanese positions were bombed.

Enemy troops and stores were hit in the northern combat area, and in Central Burma, airfields were attacked.

Allies Again Get Air Support In Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 17 (AP)—Allied ground forces driving through Burma got heavy aerial support again yesterday as United States medium and heavy fighter-bombers attacked villages south and west of Mandalay.

Other planes bombed Japanese positions in the Arakan area of western Burma, scored hits on stores in the northern combat area and attacked runways and airfields in central Burma.

Ground troops made further progress in the area northwest of Kangaw, capturing an important hill feature, while troops of the 19th Indian Division continued to enlarge their bridgehead at Singu.

Sergt. Wilson of New York Died on Saipan So That His Buddies Could Advance.

With the 27th Infantry Division in the Pacific (Delayed).—Officers and enlisted men of New York's famed Twenty-seventh Division will long remember Sergt. Floyd J. Wilson, son of Floyd Wilson of 55 West 105th street, New York city, who gave his life for his country in the bitter fighting on Saipan.

Already a War Department historian has named Sergt. Wilson as one of twenty outstanding heroes in the struggle for Saipan, in the Marianas. Of medium height, slight frame, fiery red hair, Sergt. Wilson had a voice like a lion's roar, with, as all his friends say, a heart to match.

A battalion of "Appleknockers" advancing on Nafutan Point, June 19, last year, suddenly was confronted by a series of tough Jap positions, neatly hidden in undergrowth along a ridge crest. One particular position compelled the whole line of Americans to halt. Automatic weapons and bazookas were used, but they failed to knock out the defenses.

When a squad attempting a flanking movement was pinned down, after suffering heavy casualties by fire from other Jap positions in a grove of trees, Sergt. Wilson, an attached engineer, volunteered to go after the Japanese position alone.

Walked In Rain of Fire.

"Red" Wilson walked fifty yards over the ridge, drew the enemy's fire and so discovered the precise location of the enemy's position. Then, with an automatic rifleman covering him, he continued on under a rain of rifle and machine-gun fire, crawling along sparsely shrub-covered ground. He had to make his way through two barbed wire entanglements, placed on the carefully chosen route of approach.

When within a few yards of the position, Wilson stood and made a dash for it. He was 5 feet away when he threw the satchel charge into the opening and was cut down by machine-gun fire from one of the nearby supporting pillboxes. With the Japs' attention concentrated on Wilson, the battalion gained fire superiority, destroyed the troublesome position, and continued their advance on the other positions.

Without Sergt. Wilson's heroic action, it was pointed out, further advance would have been impossible. As an old soldier, he gave his life voluntarily, knowing that any man who goes out to assault a pillbox single-handed stands little chance of living to tell the tale.

Eight Are Decorated.

New York city's own Fighting Irish regiment had eight New Yorkers who recently received the Purple Heart for wounds received during the struggle last summer on Saipan. The representation of the decorations was made by Col. Gerard W. Kelley, commanding officer of the former New York National Guard unit, and himself a resident of Manhattan.

The awards were made to:

Technician Fourth Grade Jerry E. Marotta of 185 Hester street, Manhattan; First Lieut. Donald M. Cummings, 954 Anderson avenue, the Bronx, and Technician Third Grade Raymond E. Strasser, of 754 Manida street, the Bronx.

Three from Brooklyn who were decorated were Technician Third Grade Donald M. Manning, 531 Avenue N; Sergt. Thorlief Christenson, of 455 97th street, and Technician Fourth Grade David Mack, of 164 Ross street. Sergt. Mack is one of six members of his regiment who had received the Distinguished Service Cross.

The heroes from Queens Borough were Capt. Maurice P. Prout of 21-25 Steinway street, Astoria. Capt. Prout, whose father commanded a company of the same regiment in the first world war, is a veteran of many years' service with the Fighting Irish; Corporal Frederick Devoe of 42-61 Hunter street, Long Island City.

UNRRA Industry Policy Stated

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Far Eastern Committee of the United Nationals Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has stated its views on one thorny problem of Pacific rehabilitation—the extent to which secondary industries should be built up.

China had seen in UNRRA means of building up industries at home on a large scale, thus making China less dependent on imports. While sympathetic to China, the delegates were determined that UNRRA must stick to the principle that its function is one purely of mending.

Not Beyond Prewar Capacity

The committee resolved:

"First, that in general terms industrial rehabilitation should not go beyond its prewar capacity.

"Second, that in the relief period, in so far as procurements of items in short supply is required, rehabilitation is undertaken only to the extent that will make possible the operation of enterprises essential for relief and rehabilitation, or to the extent which does not deprive enterprises essential for relief and rehabilitation of necessary supply, and:

"Third, that priority should be given to programs most likely to contribute at an early date to relief and rehabilitation, among which are, in certain areas, clearly small-scale and cottage industries, and to programs for which all necessary provisions, including skilled labor, can be made, and:

"Fourth, that the potentialities of liberated areas for providing relief and rehabilitation supplies to other areas should be used to secure the maximum interchange of any surplus supplies which can be made available within each region."

Wild water buffalo will be rounded up in the northern territory to replace horses lost through war in eastern countries as part of Australia's contribution to UNRRA.

Other Australian contributions were expected to include huge quantities of canned dried fish—mentioned as between five and ten million pounds.

Stettinius in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 17 (AP).—Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. arrived by air today for a meeting with President Ge-tulio Vargas prior to proce Mexico City for the inter- ican conference.

Back in the Western Hemisphere from the Crimea conference and his trip to Moscow, Stettinius landed from a United States Army plane at Santa Cruz field in the state of Rio de Janeiro and then was brought aboard a Brazilian army plane to the bay-front Santos Dumont field here.

A large crowd cheered his arrival as he was greeted by Acting Foreign Minister Pedo Leao Velloso and other Brazilian Cabinet members. A Brazilian marine band played the Brazilian and United States anthems and a specia honor guard in red, white blu and gold uniforms and tall shako provided an escort.

Stettinius then motored to Petropolis, mountain resort summe capital, for conferences with President Vargas.

Stettinius Arrives In Rio de Janeiro

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 17 (A. P.). —Secretary of State Stettinius arrived here today for conferences with President Getulio Vargas. He is en route home from the Crimea conference.

Brazil May Ship Coffee to Yanks

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 17 (A. P.). —A plan to supply United States armed forces with a million sacks of coffee by direct shipment from Brazil was reported under consideration today by the convention of Government delegates and growers and dealers of Brazil's eight coffee-producing States.

The plan was said to be designed to relieve demands on the United States civilian supply.

Pan-American Parley On Arms Is Foreseen

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 17 (AP). The newspaper El Tiempo, without quoting any specific source, said today the United States had called a South America parley conference in Washington about the middle of March.

Its purpose, said the article, is to "establish each country's needs for arms in order to fix the amounts to be distributed from United States arsenals."

The newspaper said a representative from each South American country would attend, but added it was unknown whether Argentina was invited.

Diplomatic sources said they had not heard of the plans.

Argentina Suspends Pro-Axis Papers, Report

Buenos Aires, Feb. 17 (AP)—Informed quarters said today that the Argentine Government, acting in response to complaints from diplomatic quarters abroad, has ordered El Pampero, pro-Axis daily, and Cabildo, its milder nationalist counterpart, to cease publication permanently.

The papers failed to appear yesterday.

These sources said the move might possibly foreshadow important developments affecting Argentina's position with other nations in the Western Hemisphere.

Argentina is the sole American republic which has not declared a state of war with Germany or Japan or both. It broke off diplomatic relations with the Axis more than a year ago.

Work Halts In Sugar Mills In Puerto Rico

San Juan, P.R., Feb. 17 (AP)—A work stoppage in all mills owned by members of the Sugar Producers Association was complete today.

Three separate meetings of producers, farmers and laborers were called for tomorrow to consider the situation. Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell has suggested that the parties concerned decide whether they desire a Federal administrator for the industry or the submission of the case to the War Labor Board.

The employers have refused increased pay demands on the ground that higher sugar prices were necessary first.

QUEEN URGES DUTCH NEEDS

Women Face Starvation, Says Wilhelmina In Broadcast

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands asserted today that if relief is not provided the people of Holland "on an adequate scale and at once, it will not fulfill its purpose."

In a message prepared for broadcast over CBS from London in connection wtih a conference here of the Association of Women Directors of the National Association of Broadcasters, the Queen told in a prepared text released by the association of heroic performances of the women of the Netherlands during the war years.

"There is only one thing which causes us all alarm," she said. "If our women of the Netherlands are to play their part after the war they must now, in the disastrous situation in which they find themselves, receive timely assistance."

"Faced With Starvation"

"Already for years they have suffered from malnutrition, but now in the still-occupied part of the Netherlands, where nearly seven of the nine millions of the people used to live, they are faced with death by starvation, in our once-so-prosperous country where hunger was completely unknown and which has now been devastated, flooded and looted."

Some relief, the Queen said, is already going to Holland through cooperation with friendly countries and the Red Cross, but she said it has been possible only on a small scale.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a speech prepared for broadcast from New York, outlined the participation of women in the services and in civilian employment during the war and asserted her belief in the continued postwar employment of many.

Women And Future Peace

"Their leadership and influence can be made to count for the future peace," she said. ". . . They must know how to organize. . . . If peace depends in the future on better economic conditions throughout the world, then women must know about world economy. If we must get on with people of different races and of different religions throughout the world, then women must find ways of doing that, both at home and abroad."

Mrs. Roosevelt was presented by Ruth Chilton, association president, with an award as "America's best-known woman broadcaster."

"It is not anything I have done but that women have had the opportunity to do something, and that they have done it," Mrs. Roosevelt said in accepting. "I couldn't have done anything as the wife of the president unless the women in the country were doing things, accepting responsibilities and playing a great part in a great period."

3 Naples Papers Resuming Publication

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—After a two-day stoppage caused by lack of newsprint, three daily newspapers in Naples will resume publication today with Allied stock rushed from Rome, it was reported in a dispatch to the Office of War Information.

The new supply will guarantee publication for at least one week.

Subasic Government Accepts Big 3 Decisions

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Premier Ivan Subasic of the Yugoslav Government in exile told the Belgrade Communist newspaper Borbas that the new united Yugoslav administration would "wholeheartedly accept" the Crimea conference decisions, the new Yugoslav Telegraph Service reported today.

The arrival of government ministers in Belgrade from London "without any doubt solves both the crisis of the Government and the question of the regency," he was quoted in the broadcast, recorded by the FCC.

With the blessing of the Big Three, the Ministers returned to set up a single Government under a three-man regency or the basis of an agreement between Subasic and Marshal Tito after overcoming the objections of King Peter.

"No Trouble At All"

Asked about the suggestion made at Yalta that former members of the Yugoslav Parliament be admitted to membership in the country's new Anti-Fascist Assembly, he replied that this would cause "no trouble at all."

"All those who truly enjoyed the confidence of the people and who were true bearers of the people's will will be able to enter into the Anti-Fascist Assembly, or into the new Provisional National Assembly of Yugoslavia organized within it," he said.

Ex-Cabinet Member In Japan Dies

By Associated Press.

Lieut. Gen. Hajtushige Ninomiya, recently removed as Minister of Education in the Japanese Cabinet, died today, the Japanese Domei news agency reported in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission. He was 67 years old.

Jap Urges Quest For Oil Substitutes

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP)—Domei, the Japanese news agency, today broadcast an article by a high army officer in which he urged development of substitutes for oil and other imports in anticipation of possible loss of the occupied Southern regions.

The agency said Lieut. Gen. Taikichi Tada, director general of the Japanese Science Mobilization Association, urged industrialists to imitate German techniques.

Japs Report New Type Plane

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Domei news agency said tonight that a "new type" Japanese fighter plane was used to intercept United States planes in the Tokyo raid Friday, and that it "proved to be superior to the enemy Grumman fighters."

The broadcast, recorded here, gave no details about the plane. It said that the new planes "encountered twenty-odd enemy Grumman fighters over Yachimata, Chiba prefecture.

Six Bagged, Japs Claim

"The enemy fighters were already engaged in a dog fight with our Shoki fighters when the new type fighters intercepted them.

"Pouncing on the enemy Grummans in pairs, our new type fighters caught them off balance. As a result of our fierce attack, the enemy fighters crashed one by one to the ground, and in short order six of them were shot down."

The dispatch made no mention of a claim by the Tokyo radio that 43 of the carrier-based planes had been shot down today. But Domei made much of the claim that the Grumman fighters "hampered by their cumbersome fuel tanks," were "far inferior both in maneuverability and in speed."

Syrian Delegate Wanted At San Francisco Parley

A Central Pacific U.S. Naval Base, Feb. 17 (AP)—Navy Yeoman 2/c Norman W. Raies, of Mount Hope, W.Va., vice president of the Mid-West Federation of Syrian-American Clubs, telegraphed President Roosevelt today suggesting one Syrian-American delegate to the San Francisco peace conference in April.

Raies said France had promised Syria independence in 1941 but had failed to keep the pledge. "It is as important to Syrians to have a free Syria," he added, "as it is to Filipinos to have a free Philippines."

VANDENBERG SEEKS PARLEY WITH F.D.R.

Senator Wants Free Hand As San Francisco Delegate

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) plans guaranteeing immediate military action against Germany and Japan if the Axis countries attempt to rearm after the war.

The United States would share in this without further congressional action, under the Vandenberg proposal.

That has brought some Republican opposition on the grounds that it would be tantamount to "a perpetual declaration of war," would constitute a military alliance and would invade Congress' powers to declare war.

GOP Opposition Vocal

While this opposition has been vocal in Republican Senate gatherings, the bulk of the majority members are expected to follow the Michigan Senator's leadership when the security treaty comes before them.

That is why the Administration is primarily interested in enlisting Vandenberg as a supporter of the results of the San Francisco conference, and why President Roosevelt may go out of his way to assure the Michigan Senator that the latter will have a free hand as a delegate.

Senator White, of Maine, the Republican leader, said he had urged Vandenberg to accept the appointment unless the latter feels his actions would be too circumscribed by prior commitments made by the Administration.

"Represents Party View"

"No one can come closer to representing the Republican viewpoint in the Senate on foreign affairs than Senator Vandenberg," White said. "It would certainly be a blow to hopes for senatorial approval of a security organization if he should feel that he has to decline."

Vandenberg has proposed that unilateral agreements on European political questions be checked back to the proposed peace organization for final approval. He is likely to carry some such idea into the conference if he accepts a place on the American delegation.

He was reported as willing to go along on a proposal requiring a unanimous vote of the "Big Five" on the eleven-member directing council before force or economic sanctions could be used by the organization to keep future peace.

President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin reported after their Yalta meeting that they had reached an agreement on the controversial voting question. Official disclosure of the terms of this agreement is awaiting expected approval by France.

On one other important point, Vandenberg may differ from the Administration. That involves the authority of the American delegate to commit this country's military forces to action without prior con-

1,168th Day For U.S. In War II Doubles Part In War I

[By the Associated Press]

The war passed another milestone for the United States today.

This nation now has been at war 1,168 days, exactly twice the length of our 584-day participation in World War I.

United States casualties reached 782,180 on February 15, the latest report. This more than doubled the World War I total of 364,800 from all causes.

169,046 Killed

During this war to date the United States has lost 169,046 killed and 449,160 wounded, with an additional 100,944 missing and 63,030 prisoners. World War I losses showed 126,000 killed and died, 234,300 wounded and 4,500 prisoners and missing.

This nation mobilized 4,355,000 men in all services in World War I. The War Department reported on February 2 that there are 8,100,000 men in the Army alone and that 5,100,000 of these now are overseas.

War I In Small Area

The last war was fought in a relatively small area.

This war is global, with our forces located in tiny units in such remote spots as a Pacific atoll or in huge armies such as are in action in Europe and the Philippines.

sent of Congress.

Views Of Senator

The Michigan Senator has insisted this could be relegated to the status of a minor matter if the major Allies agreed to act precipitously and without congressional discussion against any Axis attempt to rearm.

His position has been that the American delegate's authority is a domestic matter, to be settled by Congress apart from the treaty setting up the security organization.

He would be likely to resist any move to write into the treaty at San Francisco a definition of that delegate's powers.

EISENHOWER IS SEEN AT TOP OF REICH RULE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Army and Navy Journal said today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "doubtless" would be chairman of the central control commission for Germany provided in the Yalta agreement. The Journal, an unofficial service publication, did not give its reasons.

The Journal said last week that, before leaving for the conference, President Roosevelt had decided that Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson would be the American member of the Allies' mission to control post-war Germany. The Yalta announcement referred to the central control commission in connection with each power "occupying" a part of Germany, thereby suggesting military occupation. No reference was made in the communiqué to a more or less permanent post-war control agency.

The Journal also said that the Yalta announcement indicated that "the difficulties we have had with Russia regarding the use of her landing fields have been removed." It noted that the Yalta communiqués spoke of more powerful blows into the heart of Germany by the air forces and then concluded that the "difficulties" had been removed.

Use Of Russian Fields By U.S. Is Predicted

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — The Army and Navy Journal said today that the Yalta announcement indicates that "the difficulties we have had with Russia regarding the use of her landing fields have been removed."

[Some months ago, American planes were using a shuttle bombing system, using Russian fields for the eastern terminals. Subsequently, however, reports of these operations from bases in England and Italy ceased. In the case of the Italy-based operations, the Russian advance through the Balkans made continued operation of the southern shuttle no longer urgent.]

"Difficulties" Removed

The unofficial service publication noted that the Yalta communiqué spoke of more powerful blows into the heart of Germany by the air forces and then concluded that the "difficulties" over use of Russian fields had been removed.

"Otherwise," the Journal said, "there could not be the co-ordination which, it was emphatically stated, has been arranged, and the operations involved, which were studied and planned by the three air officers attending the conference, Maj. Gen. L. S. Kuter, staff of commanding general, United States Army Air Force; Sir Charles Portal, marshal of the British Royal Air Force, and Russian marshal of aviation, Khudyakoff."

Cites "Four Directions"

The Journal also found interest in the Yalta communiqué's reference to co-ordinated attacks on Germany from four directions, including the north.

"This reference to the last-named point of the compass," said the Journal, "would suggest an amphibious expeditionary force landing in Norway, Denmark, or more probably in Germany near the frontier, which Prime Minister Churchill has favored in the past. Experience has demonstrated that naval and air co-operation can facilitate such landings."

Ike To Head Occupation

The publication predicted that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "doubtless" would be chairman of the Central Control Commission for Germany, which is provided in the Yalta agreement.

The journal did not explain why it believed Eisenhower would head the commission.

[The announcement by the Big Three provided that forces of the United States, Great Britain and Russia would each occupy a separate zone of Germany and that a Central Control Commission, consisting of "the supreme commanders of the three powers," would have headquarters in Berlin. France also was invited to join in this setup. Eisenhower is supreme commander of American as well as all Allied forces in western Europe.]

The Journal said last week that before leaving for the conference, President Roosevelt had decided that Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, would be the American member of Allied mission to control postwar Germany. The Yalta announcement referred to the Central Control Commission in connection with each power "occupying" a part of Germany, thereby suggesting the thought was that of military occupation. No reference was made in the communiqué to a more or less permanent post-war control agency.

Senators Hear Details Of Crimea Conference

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senators got "fill-ins" today from two high Government officials on results of the Crimean Big Three conference.

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, who accompanied President Roosevelt to the meeting, gave several senators a look behind the scenes at a luncheon in the office of Leslie L. Biffle, Senate secretary.

Some of those who attended said the discussion revolved mostly around personalities.

Joseph C. Grew, Under Secretary of State, told a bipartisan subcommittee of foreign relations the terms of the agreement on voting procedure for the proposed international security organization.

Members who heard it said they had read all about it in the newspapers before.

Traffic Control For Tokyo Route

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Japan soon will get regular airways service from the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Tokyo won't like it, despite that it is the best in the world and free of charge. It will furnish B-29 Superfortresses, and any other bombers which may haul explosives and incendiaries to Japan, with the same air traffic control service used on airways in the United States.

The CAA disclosed this today in an announcement that control centers are being set up on four islands in the western Pacific—Guam, Kwajalein, Johnston and another point to be selected. The centers will be manned by CAA employés under Army direction.

The agency already operates such services over much of the world for the military services. Extension of the plan to the western Pacific would indicate increasing operations.

KEY MEN UNDER 30 WILL BE DEFERRED

Government Sets Up Machinery to Draft Men from This Age Group.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP) The government today set up machinery for deferring a "very limited number" of draft registrants under 30 in key war jobs and other essential services.

In the first slight easing of plans to draw heavily from this age group to meet mounting military needs, Selective Service and the War Manpower commission announced that the new procedure will apply to otherwise qualified men who were in 2-A or 2-B last January 1.

The program provides for deferment of key men who are certified by one of a number of government agencies responsible for procurement and production of war materials, or for maintenance of war-supporting services.

"The primary objective is to protect the war production lines where induction of irreplaceable key men will retard the war effort, as well as men in this group whose induction would endanger public health and safety," the agencies said.

While the announcement stated the number of men to be recommended for deferment will vary among establishments, it was understood that they may be granted to about 15 per cent of the age 18-30 registrants in each organization.

However, in some establishments where substitute workers can be obtained or where an activity is not vital to the war effort, "no further recommendations for deferment will be made," it was stated.

Included under the plan in addition to war plant workers, are such industries as coal mining, transportation and maritime operations.

The program replaces the present procedure of filing forms "42-A special" for men 18 through 25, and puts these registrants and those 26 through 29 under a uniform policy.

The plan was worked out by a committee appointed last month by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes. The committee was instructed, the agency said, "to protect a vital 'hard core' of workers in the 26-through 29 age group in war production in view of increased calls for men for the armed forces and the necessity of filling these calls with as many men from the younger age group as possible."

Military officials have placed their needs at an additional 900,000 servicemen by next July.

The government agencies specified will receive applications for deferment of key men and then certify to local draft boards the names of men under 30 "who, in the interest of the war effort, should be given the greatest consideration for occupational deferment."

"Under this plan," the announcement continued, "local boards will still have the right to defer registrants certified or not certified, if in their judgment such a registrant would qualify for deferment under a strict interpretation of being necessary to and regularly engaged in war production or a war supporting activity."

The agencies emphasized that that the decision whether a man will be deferred or not will continue to "rest solely with the local board, subject to appeal."

"It is realized," the agency said, "that the plan is not perfect but it does constitute the best reconciliation of the completing needs for manpower that can be worked out at this time."

Krug Renews Argument For Labor Control Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—(AP) The Administration, in the face of growing coolness on Capitol Hill, renewed tonight its argument for "adequate legislation" on manpower controls.

The new demand came through Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production board who asserted that "we are not meeting requirements (in war production) because we are running short of manpower."

"We must have adequate legislation on manpower control so that men will work where they can do the most good in winning the war," he said.

Even as Krug spoke, it appeared that smashing Allied blows at Germany and Japan had definitely dimmed — possibly extinguished — the possibility the Congress will approve drastic manpower controls.

Krug said the Army and Navy need greater production "for immediate campaigns," and if it is not provided they will be forced to modify their strategy.

"That means putting off the end of the war," he asserted.

To meet new production goals in the first half of 1945, Krug said, 600,000 more workers must be added to war and war-supporting industries.

Krug said production of many basic war materials has been declining and others, while increasing, may not be available in time to meet expanded production goals. He added: "we are at this moment, short of coal, steel, lead and other basic materials. The changing tides of battle are requiring more and more of everything we make. In this sense we are back in early 1942 when all war production programs were ascending."

Krug asserted that while voluntary methods worked well in the past "when our manpower shortage was not as general as it is today," the manpower problem has "got beyond the procedures of voluntary cooperation."

Senator McKellar (D - Tenn.), dean of the Senate and its president pro tempor, went further than most other legislators in low assessment of the chance for manpower legislation, saying that if either enemy collapses soon it is very unlikely that Congress will impose any type of new curb.

"We all want to do everything possible to win the war," he said, "but in winning it, we want to preserve the American way of life as much as possible."

Secretary of War Stimson is to make a radio address tomorrow night at 8:15 p. m. Eastern War time, Blue network on manpower controls. The talk, it was announced, will be directed primarily to families of servicemen.

The Senate Military affairs committee, which has completed two weeks of hearings on the House-approved work-or-jail bill, adjourned over the week end unhappily contemplating that legislative hot potato and at least two suggested substitutes.

With individual variations, those would step up the statutory authority of the war manpower commission to deal with manpower placement problems, empowering the commission to establish ceilings on the number of workers in each place of employment and regulate the hiring of new workers.

The guardedly expressed sentiments of the committee members indicate that a little more power for WMC is about as far as a majority would be willing to go.

ICKES SEEKS POWER PROJECT

Informs President He Has Organization For Work

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, made a frank bid today for the postwar job of developing a giant water and power project for the nation.

Ickes wrote to President Roosevelt that he has the organization for the job.

All the wartime facilities of his department, Ickes said, can be turned quickly to the task of harnessing the country's waters in an ocean-to-ocean conservation, reclamation and power plan.

A bill giving the department just that role has been presented to a group of western senators.

Latest Move in Tilt

The bill is the latest move in the tilt between two main advocates of greater postwar power developments—the group which favors development by units along the line of the autonomous Tennessee Valley Authority, and that which is championing power plans under the existing Interior Department system.

Each leader in his own field—Ickes in one and David E. Lilienthal, TVA head, in the other—says his type of organization constitutes the best pattern for developing power, for the transmission of it, for irrigation, navigation, flood control, for reclaiming the affected lands.

"Our job soon will be to turn a vast block of power from war to peace," Ickes wrote to the President. "It is a herculean job but I think that we can master it by shifting, gradually if possible, from war to its nearest economic equivalent in the field of conservation; namely, regional development.

"Development At Its Boldest"

"But it must be regional development at its boldest. The program must embrace entire areas, usually the basins of great rivers and their tributaries; it must provide for full and unified development of all of the resources within the region, and an ideal program would call for simultaneous attack upon all phases of the job."

Ickes said that there is "scarcely a facility" of the Interior Department that is now producing for war which could not be put to use in such an undertaking.

"We would provide for irrigation at the upper reaches of a river, for deep-water navigation as far upstream as would be practicable, for barge transportation above that point and for flood control," he said.

Generate Power

"We would impound water for municipal supply, generate hydroelectric power and transmit it for use in factories and homes and on farms. We would determine the location and volume of the ores and the bases of plastics that are amenable to processing or manufacture by means of electricity, and improve the means of processing them. We would forestall or ameliorate the pollution of streams, safeguard the soil against erosion, protect wild life and develop recreational areas."

In a summary of the department's work last year, Ickes said the bureau of reclamation and the division of power provided much of the hydroelectric power used in war manufacture. The department's power projects generated 13,747,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

USE OF BALLOT BY LABOR GAINS

NLRB Finds Workers Use Method More In Disputes

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board said today that labor was turning more and more to the agency's "democratic election process" to adjust union representation disputes.

The agency added that "illegal practices" of employers continued to diminish.

The statement was made in the board's ninth annual report. It prompted Chairman H. A. Millis to observe that the NLRB "with continuing and increasing frequency is being called upon to act the judge rather than the prosecutor."

Fewer "Policy" Cases

"That is,' 'he added, "the overwhelming number of cases filed with us ask the resolution of questions concerning union representation; a declining number of cases call upon us to police unfair labor practices by employers."

Millis said the board wanted to continue to use the election device with its secret ballot in preference to other methods in settling representation disputes. But he said these must be free of "coercive tactics or undue influence directed at the employés, whether attributable to the employer, a contesting union or any other source."

He said the board had noted in recent months a "regrettable tendency" to make elections the occasion for exertion of pressure on employés by means of "propaganda campaigns, subtle threats and other devices."

Violations Noted

While expressing gratification over the increasing use of the procedures of collective bargaining and a decline in unfair practices, Millis said:

"To observe that discharges for union activity, refusals to bargain and other illegal activities are relatively giving way to the more constructive issues of representation is not to close our eyes to that segment of American industry which still, for one reason or another, violates the law.

"During the past year (ending June 30, 1944) a total of nearly 3,000 workers were reinstated to remedy discriminatory discharges, while 350 in addition were reinstated after strikes caused by unfair labor practices.

$2,000,000 In Back Pay

"Back pay amounting to almost $2,000,000 was paid to a total of 3,700 workers who had been the victims of unlawful practices. Company-dominated unions were disestablished in 100 cases. Collective bargaining negotiations were ordered in 136 cases."

A total of 9,176 unfair labor practice and representation cases was filed during the year. Of these, 6,603, or 72 per cent, were representation cases. It was the third year in a row that the representation cases were in the majority.

The board conducted the unprecedented number of 4,712 elections during the year in which 1,072,594 "valid votes" were cast.

U.S. STEEL-CIO IN AGREEMENT

3-Man Arbitration Board Set-up Announced

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17 (AP)—Completion of a new labor agreement, including the establishment of a three-man board of conciliation and arbitration to settle grievances, was announced today by the United States Steel Corporation and the CIO-United Steel Workers of America.

Five steel-producing subsidiaries of the corporation are affected by the contract. The agreements asked by the corporation usually are the pattern for those throughout the industry in which the union claims 750,000 members. Negotiations for the contract began in December of 1943.

The companies represented at the meetings were the American Steel and Wire Company, Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, Columbia Steel Company, National Tube Company and the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company.

Term Of Contract

The term of the contract was left subject to determination by the War Labor Board which has scheduled a hearing February 23. The union asked the contract be for a fixed term running to the Fall of 1946, and the company sought a termination clause as in prior agreements subject to reopening within 30 days upon notice by either side.

Establishment of a permanent board of conciliation was hailed by a spokesman for the union as "a momentous advance in management-union relations." The contract said, with respect to grievances brought to the board, "There shall be no interruption or impeding of the work, work stoppages, strikes or lockouts on account of such differences."

Changes In Contract

The corporation said the agreement contains only minor changes over the 1942 contract, except for provisions directed by the War Labor Board. These include vacations, shift differentials, or premiums, and establishment of guideposts for the determination and correction of alleged intra-plant wage inequities.

Maintenance of membership and check-off were again ordered by the WLB, the corporation said, and are incorporated.

The agreement will be signed after approval by the subsidiary companies and after the WLB has passed on the question of termination.

With regard to the board of conciliation, the corporation stated in its announcement that under prior contracts since 1937, arbitration was the final step in griecanve procedure, and when occasion demanded individuals were selected by agreement between the company involved and the union.

Closed Shop Barred In South Dakota

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 17 (A. P.).—Gov. M. Q. Sharpe signed into law today a bill prohibiting closed shops in South Dakota, and it will implement a constitutional amendment on which the electorate will vote in November, 1946.

The proposed amendment barring employment discrimination because of union membership or non-membership specifically preserves the rights of employees to bargain collectively through a union. The law which goes into effect next July 1, does not contain this clause. The penalty for violation may be up to $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

U. A. W. Drops Ex-Head Of Its Paterson Local

Ousts Capone as International Aid Pending Inquiry

DETROIT, Feb. 17 (AP).—George F. Addes, acting president of the United Automobile Workers, Congress of Industrial Organization affiliate, disclosed today that Albert Capone, former president of Local 669 at Paterson, N. J., has been removed from the roster of the union's international representatives.

"The removal of Capone was made pending further probe of the affairs of the local, including the period when Capone was local president," Mr. Addes said.

Mr. Addes said the U. A. W.-C. I. O. executive board held a hearing at New York on Feb. 11 at which the Paterson local's financial affairs were duscussed. The following day officers of the local were removed and Charles Kerrigan, executive board member from New York, named as administrator, he said. Mr. Kerrigan and three auditors are investigating the local's financial set-up, Mr. Addes said.

Mr. Addes said Capone was named to the executive board "about three months ago" and at that time resigned as local president because the union constitution bans dual job-holding.

"Capone was not affected by the Feb. 11 order, as he was no longer a local official, but Richard Frankensteen, our vice-president, advised him two or three days ago that he was removed from the position of international representative until the wole investigation is completed," Mr. Addes said.

Cadet Nurse Draft Proposed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—The House Military Committee voted today to delay drafting civilian nurses until all qualified graduates of the war-created Cadet Nurse Corps have been inducted.

The amendment, written into a pending nurse-draft bill, may put off a general iduction program until local boards have canvassed the cadets.

Committee members said the number of qualified cadet graduates has not been determined but it is believed to be comparatively small.

Two Amendments Added

The legislators also confirmed yesterday's decision boosting from 18 to 20 years the minimum age for drafting registered nurses, and put in a provision that no nurse may be taken from a veterans' hospital until she is released by the Veterans Administrator.

The committee wrote in the amendments today in its drive to get a nurse-draft bill before Congress, but put off a final vote until next Tuesday. President Roosevelt in his State of the Union message to Congress last month asked for speed on the bill.

Proposal Defeated

A proposal to suspend the nurse-draft law for 30 days after its adoption to give volunteer recruitment programs one more chance to get the nurses the Army and Navy needs wsa defeated in an executive session.

Under the terms of the bill nurses drafted for Army or Navy duty would be given officer commissions, such as they receive now when they volunteer.

The President asked for the drafting of nurses because, he said, there was an immediate need for 18,000 more in the Army and another 2,000 for the Navy.

Naval Reserve Expansion Plan Is Announced

8-Term R.O.T.C. to Absorb Many V-12 Units by July; Authorization Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP).—Navy plans for transition from the emergency V-12 program to an expanded reserve officers training plan were announced today immediately after the expansion measure was made law by President Roosevelt's signature.

The bill authorized a permanent increase from 7,000 to 14,000 in the number of youths in training for Navy commissions, with a temporary war-time top of 24,000.

Under the Navy's plan, a large proportion of V-12 students will be transferred to the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps by July 1, 1945, and the Naval R. O. T. C. will be placed on an eight-term basis. This will permit officer candidates to obtain a complete college education before being commissioned.

Prior to the war naval officers were required to have a complete college education or its equivalent, which was met by the Naval Academy and the Naval R. O. T. C. War-time demands for officers led to a relaxation under which officers were commissioned with less than a complete college education, after V-12 and midshipman training.

Now, the Navy explained, peak demands for officers are past.

Certain groups of students now pursuing specialized courses will not be transferred to the Naval R. O. T. C., but will continue their studies under the V-12 program. These include marine trainees; V-12 pre-medical, pre-dental, medical and dental students; V-12 pre-theological and theological students; V-12 students now enrolled in the fully prescribed pre-supply corps curricula, and V-12 students designated as engineers, eight-term physics majors, or aerology specialists who, on July 1, 1945, will have completed four or more terms of college.

The plan of transition does not involve the enforced separation from officer candidacy of any V-12 student for reasons other than those which led to separation in the past, the Navy said—that is, for academic failure, breach of naval discipline, lack of physical qualifications or lack of officer-like qualities.

The Navy said the number and identity of additional Naval R. O. T. C. units needed to accommodate the 23,000 trainees who are expected to be under instruction on July 1 have not yet been determined. A special committee of educators and naval officers has been appointed by Secretary James Forrestal to recommend a list of colleges and universities to receive the new units.

At present 6,500 students in twenty-seven colleges are enrolled.

Sen. Glass Silent On Suggestions That He Quit

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)— The wife of Carter Glass, Virginia's senior Senator, said yesterday that her husband has made no public comment on suggestions that he resign because of ill-health.

Mrs. Glass, referring to editorials which several Virginia newspapers have printed suggesting that the Senator should resign, said:

"I read some of the stuff to him, and he said, 'It's not worth paying any attention to.' And that was not just before me—he said it before two gentlemen. Neither Mr. Glass nor I have paid any attention to it."

Might Have Talked To Friends

She said, however, that several of the Senator's friends frequently visited him privately, and she does not know whether he has discussed the matter with them. The 87-year-old Senator could not be reached for a statement.

He had been absent from the Senate for about 2½ years because of ill-health.

Paper Suggests Resignation

The Staunton (Va.) News Leader said in an editorial several weeks ago that "it is plainly the duty of Mrs. Glass to make it clear to her husband that his age and physical condition disbar him from further service in the Senate and to prevail on him to tender his resignation."

A number of other Virginia newspapers seconded the suggestion, while others were not in favor of it.

OWI Abandons Hope For Aide Lost In Burma

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Office of War Information today abandoned hope for the survival of Victor C. Rankin, an employe of the agency who disappeared after a plane crash in the Burma jungle last May.

The OWI said Rankin's relatives had been notified of his death. It added the announcement had been withheld pending reports from continued air and ground search.

Rankin was engaged in "psychological warfare activities at the time of the air crash." A native of Los Angeles, he lived in San Francisco before going overseas. His widow, Mrs. Jeanne Rankin, lives in New York city, and his mother, Mrs. Lytle Rankin, in Laguna Beach, Cal.

Rockefeller Resumes Trip To Mexico City

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—The State Department said today that Nelson Rockefelier, assistant secretary, has resumed his journey to the inter-American conference at Mexico City after being stranded for a few hours at Chicago.

Rockefeller is flying with a number of Latin-American diplomats. The party took off last night but the plane was forced from its course by bad weather and finally landed at Chicago.

took command of the tank destroyer after the crew had balked at advancing through heavy artillery and mortar fire. At the time, the battalion twice had been thrown back in assaults on German positions.

Standing fully exposed in the turret, Galt fired the machine gun and hurled grenades, disorganizing the Germans with his deadly aim. Finally, he cornered 40 Germans in a long trench. When they refused to give up, he blasted them with the machine gun, killing them to the last man.

A few minutes later, an 88 mm. shell crashed into the tank destroyer, killing Galt and the crew.

Second Award For Heroism

The award was the second for heroism which Galt had received. He won the Silver Star in November, 1943, for crawling on hands and knees through a mine field in Italy to select a safe route for the advance of his battalion. He was wounded on January 27, 1944, but returned to duty three weeks later.

Galt was born at Geyser, Mont., and was graduated from Montana State College in 1942. From boyhood he had made a hobby of training horses and during summer vacations he was a rodeo performer.

The commanding officer said transfer papers which Monaghan requested would not be signed unless he complied. Other officers refused to sign the papers.

Monaghan married the girl, took her to Washington, but did not live with her. Furthermore, the petition asserts, he is not the father of her child.

High-Score Navy Pilot To Be Married Today

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Commander David MacCampbell, the Navy's high-scoring pilot with 34 Japanese planes to his credit, will be married here tomorrow afternoon at the Naval Research Laboratory Chapel, Anacostia.

The bride is Mrs. Sara Jane Kahn, of Green Cove Springs, Fla.

Commander MacCampbell holds the Congressional Medal of Honor. Returned to this country early in December, he will be assigned to a training command.

Arizona Urges News Freedom

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 17 (AP).—The Arizona House of Representatives today passed unanimously and sent to the Governor a memorial urging Congress and the Secretary of State to exert every effort to reach international agreements governing the free flow of news. The memorial originated in the State Senate, where it also passed unanimously.

Flyer Says Superior Officer Forced Him To Marry

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP)—Clyde Monaghan, 30-year-old navy air service pilot, has a suit on file in Superior Court here to annul a marriage which he charged was forced upon him by his commanding officer and the commanding officer's wife.

This is the story set forth in Monaghan's petition, filed yesterday:

Monaghan was a house guest at the home of his commanding officer in Atlanta, Ga., in November, 1943. A girl identified as "Nancy" went to him, said she was to become a mother, and demanded that he marry her.

The commanding officer's wife backed up the girl's demand by telling him that unless he married the girl "that day" he would "suffer the humiliation of being court-martialed."

Award To Captain Galt, Killed In Tank-Destroyer Exploit

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Posthumous award of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Capt. William Wylie Galt, 25, one-time rodeo rider who rode a tank destroyer into an attack and killed more than 40 Germans, was announced today.

The War Department said the medal will be presented Monday at Great Falls (Mont.) army air base to Galt's widow, Mrs. Patricia A. Galt, of Stanford, Mont., by Brig. Gen. Dale V. Gaffney, commanding general of the Alaskan Division of the Army Transport Command. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Errol F. Galt, of Great Falls, will attend.

College Football Star

Galt, former Montana State College football star, was killed while manning a turret machine gun on a tank destroyer during an attack last May 29 on Villa Crocetta, Italy, a Nazi stronghold.

NATIONS, MAY BE ESTABLISHED.

THE RECENT DEPARTURES FROM THE RANKS OF THE NEUTRALS GENERALLY WERE ATTRIBUTED TO THE DESIRE OF THESE NATIONS TO BE CUT IN ON THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE SET FOR APRIL 25, BUT THEY ALSO EMPHASIZED THE CONVICTION OF THE APPROACH OF AN ALLIED VICTORY BY EVEN THE MOST CAUTIOUS PREVIOUSLY NON-BELLIGERENT NATIONS.

IT IS VIRTUALLY CERTAIN THAT SOME OF THE SMALLER COUNTRIES WHICH SUFFERED NAZI OPPRESSION AND HAVE BEEN LIBERATED BY THE ALLIED ARMIES WILL PROTEST ANY MOVE TO GIVE EQUALITY TO NATIONS WHICH CLUNG TO THEIR NEUTRALITY WHILE HITLER WAS RIDING HIGH.

THE LONDON MIRROR'S DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT WROTE TODAY THAT THE GOVERNMENTS OF SEVERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS "ARE NOT ALTOGETHER OVERJOYED WITH VENEZUELA AND OTHER SOUTH AMERICAN STATES FOR DASHING INTO THE WAR AT THE LAST MOMENT IN ORDER TO GRAB SOME OF THE FRUITS OF VICTORY."

A194

THE WRITER OBSERVED SARCASTICALLY THAT THE "MIGHT" WHICH VENEZUELA CONTRIBUTES TO THE UNITED NATIONS IS A STANDING ARMY OF 6,000 MEN AND ADDED, "SHE HAS A FLEET, TOO. IT CONSISTS OF FIVE GUNBOATS, TWO ARMED TUGS, A YACHT AND--AS THE RECORD PUTS IT--SOME SMALLER CRAFT."

"IT WILL BE INTERESTING TO SEE JUST WHAT WILL BE HER VOTING POSITION," HE SAID. "AS ONE OF THE 'ME, TOO' COUNTRIES, SHE WILL NOW BE IN TIME PROUDLY TO TAKE HER SEAT AT THE (SAN FRANCISCO) CONFERENCE."

THE PROMPT ACTION OF THE "NEW WAR PARTNERS" SO SOON AFTER THE CRIMEAN CONFERENCE STRENGTHENED THE BELIEF THAT A "NO ADMISSION" SIGN HAD BEEN POSTED FOR ALL NEUTRALS AT SAN FRANCISCO AND THAT MEMBERSHIP IN THE SECURITY LEAGUE WILL BE LIMITED AT THE OUTSET TO MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

THIS WAS UNDERSTOOD TO BE THE RESULT OF RUSSIA'S FLAT REFUSAL TO SIT IN CONFERENCE WITH ANY REPRESENTATIVE OF FRANCO'S SPANISH REGIME AND A CONSEQUENCE OF THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND ARGENTINA.

MEANWHILE, IT WAS REPORTED IN RELIABLE QUARTERS HERE THAT THERE WAS NO CHANCE OF ITALY'S BEING INVITED TO THE CONFERENCE. BY ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, FEB. 17-(AP)-BERLIN, MENACED FROM THE EAST BY MARSHAL GREGORY K. ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY AND FROM THE SOUTH AND EAST BY MARSHAL IVAN S. KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINE ARMY, WAS BY NAZI ADMISSION LOOKING FORWARD TONIGHT ONLY TO DEATH, DESTRUCTION AND HUNGER.

MARTIAL LAW IN THE FRONT AREAS GAVE THE NAZIS A FINAL LEVER TO FORCE OBEDIENCE. SUMMARY COURTS MAY METE OUT DEATH SENTENCES FOR COWARDICE OR ANY FAILURE TO SUPPORT THE ULTIMATE DEFENSE EFFORT.

CIVILIANS FACED THE PROSPECT OF BEING PRESSED INTO SERVICE FOR STREET FIGHTING WHEN THE RED ARMIES REACH BERLIN AND WERE PROMISED THAT THEY WOULD RECEIVE FOOD ON THE SAME BASIS AS SOLDIERS. THE PROPAGANDISTS AGAIN REMINDED THE PEOPLE OF THE FOOD SHORTAGE AND TOLD HOUSEWIVES THEIR RATIONS MUST BE STRETCHED AT LEAST 20 PER CENT.

ANOTHER INDICATION THAT THE SEAT OF THE NAZI GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN MOVED FROM BERLIN WAS AN ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE VATICAN THAT THE PAPAL NUNCIO HAD TRANSFERRED HIS RESIDENCE FROM THE CAPITAL TO EICHSTAETT IN BAVARIA. MOSCOW REPORTS HAVE ASSERTED THAT THE NAZIS NOW ARE RULING FROM NUERNBERG IN BAVARIA.

THE PROPAGANDISTS ON THE GERMAN RADIO STILL HARPED ON THE "RED MENACE" THEME AND ONE BROADCAST INVITED GEN. EISENHOWER TO SEND A DELEGATION OF FROM SIX TO TEN OFFICERS OR ENLISTED MEN TO INVESTIGATE "SOVIET ATROCITIES" IN HUNGARY, SAYING THEY WOULD BE ALLOWED LIBERTY TO INTERVIEW "CIVILIAN VICTIMS OF THE BOLSHEVIKS."

THE ALLIED COMMANDER'S HEADQUARTERS HAD NO COMMENT ON THIS INVITATION. IT WAS POINTED OUT THAT HUNGARY IS NOT IN EISENHOWER'S COMMAND AND THAT THE INVITATION CAME NOT THROUGH MILITARY OR DIPLOMATIC CHANNELS, BUT THROUGH A NAZI PROPAGANDA MINISTRY MOUTHPIECE AND THAT ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS IGNORES SUCH PROPAGANDA, REGARDLESS OF THE FORM IT TAKES.

WITH A FURTHER LARGE SCALE EVACUATION OF BERLIN AVOWEDLY NOT CONTEMPLATED BY NAZI LEADERS, CIVILIANS COULD LOOK AHEAD TO THE FATE OF BUDAPEST'S INHABITANTS--WAR VICTIMS WHO LIVED IN CELLARS AND RUBBLE HEAPS FOR SIX WEEKS WHILE THE NAZIS FOUGHT BLOCK BY BLOCK AGAINST THE RUSSIANS.

THE GERMAN DOMESTIC RADIO GAVE NO ENCOURAGEMENT TO BERLINERS OR TO GERMANS ELSEWHERE IN THE THIRD REICH. IT BROUGHT THEM A PROGRESSIVE STORY OF FRESH NAZI REVERSES.

THE HIGH COMMAND ANNOUNCED LOSS OF SAGAN SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN AND NEARBY GUBEN WAS REPORTED UNDER ARTILLERY FIRE, AND AS THE SOVIET ARMOR ADVANCED EVEN THE UNOBSERVANT GERMAN COULD TELL THAT THE CRUMBLING ODER RIVER LINE WAS ONLY A DEFENSE RING FOR BERLIN'S SUBURBS. AFTER THAT FALLS THERE ARE ONLY HASTILY-BUILT TANK TRAPS AND BUNKERS BARRING THE WAY TO BLOODY STREET FIGHTING IN THE CAPITAL ITSELF.

THERE IS A CHICKEN OR A GOOSE IN NEARLY EVERY POT THAT SETS OVER THE LITTLE FRONT-LINE FLAME BURNERS TONIGHT, AND THOSE WHO DON'T HAVE A PLUMP FOWL PROBABLY ARE BROILING STEAKS OR PORK.

THE GERMAN FARMERS LIVED WELL, AS CONTRASTED TO THE DUTCH ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE BORDER. THERE WAS A WEALTH OF FOODSTUFFS ON THIS SIDE AND AN ABSOLUTE LACK OF IT ON THE OTHER.

THE GERMANS WERE PUSHED BACK SO FIERCELY THEY HAD NO TIME TO TAKE THE LIVESTOCK OFF ON THE HOOF OR MAKE OFF WITH CANNED GOODS.

"GOSH," SAID SGT. PAUL GOYER, MONTREAL, CANADA, "YOU OUGHT TO HAVE SEEN SOME OF THESE BACKWOODS GUYS WHEN WE WERE FIGHTING THROUGH

THE FIRST DAYS OF THIS BATTLE.

"SO HELP ME, YOU'D SEE GUYS PLUG A GERMAN, REACH FOR A CHICKEN, BREAK ITS NECK, AND KNOCK OFF ANOTHER HEINIE ALL IN ONE MOTION."

HUGE STORES OF LIQUOR HAVE BEEN DISCOVERED TOO. MUCH OF IT HAS BEEN LOOTED FROM HOLLAND, BELGIUM AND FRANCE. HOMES, TOO, ARE WELL FURNISHED.

"THAT'S LOOT," SAID TROOPER GEORGE BIRKETT, VERDUN, QUEBEC. "SEE THAT TUMBLE-DOWN JOINT OVER THERE? WELL IT HAD A PIANO, TWO CASES OF LIQUOR AND SOME JAZZED-UP RAYON-COVERED FURNITURE. THEY ARE HITLER GOODS--DELIVERED FROM THE HOMES OF OCCUPIED PEOPLE."

IT IS TRUE THAT EXCELLENT FURNITURE, AND PERHAPS A PIANO, IS IN NEARLY EVERY HOME. THERE ARE LEATHER SHOES FOR THE POOREST FAMILY, AND THE REST OF EUROPE CLOGS ALONG IN WOODEN SHOES.

THE CIVILIANS SMILE AND PROTEST THEY ARE INNOCENT OF NAZISM. ALL THESE YEARS, SOME SAY, THEY HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR "LIBERATION." BUT THEY HAVE NAZI FLAGS, NAZI LITERATURE AND HITLER'S PICTURES HASTILY TUCKED AWAY ALL OVER THE PLACE.

MOSCOW, FEB. 17-(AP)-THE SOVIET PRESS HAS ACQUAINTED THE RUSSIAN PUBLIC WITH MOST OF THE BASIC FACTS OF THIS WEEK'S ALLIED AIR OFFENSIVE INSIDE GERMANY, BUT THERE HAS BEEN NO COMMENT BY SOVIET OFFICIALS ON THE ALL-OUT AERIAL ASSAULTS FROM THE WEST.

FRONTLINE DISPATCHES FROM RED ARMY CORRESPONDENTS WITH MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINE ARMY NEAR THE SAXONY FRONTIER AND WITH MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY ON THE MIDDLE ODER BEFORE BERLIN HAVE MADE NO REFERENCE TO ANY VISUAL EVIDENCE OF WHAT THE AMERICAN AND RAF FLIERS ARE DOING.

IT IS ASSUMED BY FOREIGN NEWSMEN HERE THAT SOME FIRES STARTED IN DRESDEN, COTTBUS AND OTHER CITIES A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE RUSSIAN BATTLE LINE MAY HAVE CAUSED PILLARS OF SMOKE IN THE WESTERN SKY WHICH THE RED VANGUARDS COULD OBSERVE, BUT THIS HAS NOT BEEN CONFIRMED BY THE RUSSIAN REPORTERS.

THE EXTENT OF ANY TACTICAL COOPERATION BETWEEN THE RED ARMY AND ALLIED AIRFORCES IS SECRET.

THE RED AIRFORCE THROUGHOUT THE WAR HAS BEEN A WEAPON OF DIRECT SUPPORT OF GROUND FORCES. RUSSIAN PLANE PRODUCTION HAS CONCENTRATED ON THIS OBJECTIVE. THERE NEVER HAS BEEN ANY PUBLIC SUGGESTION THAT A STRATEGIC AIR FORCE AS WESTERN AIRMEN UNDERSTAND THE TERM WAS CONSIDERED NECESSARY BY THE SOVIET COMMAND.

PRAVDA, THE SOVIET UNION'S LEADING NEWSPAPER, AND OTHER MOSCOW PAPERS TODAY PUBLISHED AN ITEM FROM LONDON TO THE EFFECT THAT 1,400 RAF BOMBERS STAGED A NIGHT RAID WITH DRESDEN AT THEIR MAIN TARGET AND THAT MORE THAN 1,300 U.S. BOMBERS, ESCORTED BY MORE THAN 900 FIGHTERS, STRUCK AT INDUSTRIAL AND TRANSPORT TARGES IN DRESDEN, CHEMNITZ AND MAGEDEBURG.

THIS ITEM GAVE MORE DETAILS, SUCH AS THEY WERE, THAN THE CONDENSED VERSION OF ALLIED COMMUNIQUES WHICH ALSO APPEARED ON THE BACK PAGES OF THE PAPERS.

ATHENS, FEB.17-(AP)-BETWEEN 10,000 AND 12,000 GERMANS AND ABOUT 4,000 ITALIANS ARE LIVING ON BORROWED TIME IN A "CONCENTRATION CAMP" OF THEIR OWN MAKING ON A THIN SLIVER OF THE COAST OF CRETE, AND THE ALLIED COMMAND IS LETTING HUNGER DECIDE WHEN THEY WILL SURRENDER.

THESE TROOPS, MOSTLY INFERIOR FORTRESS INFANTRY, ARE HELD SECURELY IN THEIR "CAMP" BY TOUGH CRETAN ANDARTES WHO ARE MORE INTERESTED IN FIGHTING THE GERMANS THAN EACH OTHER.

THE GERMANS AND ITALIANS STILL HOLD A 35-MILE STRETCH OF THE COAST IN CANEA PROVINCE, BUT THEY ARE ALMOST AS HELPLESS AS IF THEY ALREADY WERE BEHIND THE BARBED WIRE OF A PRISONER OF WAR CAMP.

THEY ARE COMPLETELY CUT OFF FROM ANY REPLENISHMENT OF THEIR STOCKS OF FOOD AND AMMUNITION WHICH IT WAS ESTIMATED WHEN THE GERMANS EVACUATED GREECE IN NOVEMBER WOULD BE ENOUGH FOR FIVE OR SIX MONTHS.

THEY STILL HOLD AN AIRFIELD FROM WHICH THEY ARE ABLE TO SNEAK OUT ABOUT ONE PLANE A WEEK TO NEARBY RHODES, BUT THIS IS CONSIDERED NEGLIGIBLE IN THE SUPPLY SITUATION. THE PLANES PROBABLY HAVE BEEN USED FOR BRINGING IN SMALL QUANTITIES OF ESSENTIAL MEDICAL SUPPLIES AND PERHAPS FOR EVACUATING A SMALL NUMBER OF MILITARY PERSONNEL.

THE ISLAND'S SEALANES ARE COMPLETELY CONTROLLED BY THE ALLIES, LEAVING THE GERMANS NO HOPE OF ESCAPE OR OF BEING RE-SUPPLIED BY THAT MEANS.

FEB 18 1945

THE GERMANS HAVE MADE FORAGING AND PUNISHMENT RAIDS AGAINST THE ANDARTES, BUT ALWAYS HAVE BEEN DRIVEN BACK TO THE CONCENTRATION AREA.

FIGHTING THE GERMANS IS UNDER BRITISH SUPERVISION.

"SUBSTANTIAL DAMAGE". ADD USPFHQ, Guam-Naval (Wake) xx substantial damage.

THE DAMAGE INCLUDED DESTRUCTION OF GROUND INSTALLATIONS, THREE BOMBERS PROBABLY DESTROYED ON THE GROUND, A ZERO LAND PLANE SHOT DOWN AND TWO LUGGERS SET AFIRE.

ENEMY SHORE BATTERIES WERE SILENCED, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

IWO, ONLY EIGHT MILES SQUARE, HAS A SIZEABLE AIRFIELD, FROM WHICH THE JAPANESE HAVE LAUNCHED AIR ATTACKS AGAINST AMERICAN B-29 SUPERFORTRESS BASES IN THE MARIANAS. IT HAS ALSO SERVED THE ENEMY

AS A LOOKOUT WARNING POST AGAINST B-29 RAIDERS.
OCCUPATION OF THE ISLAND WOULD BRING TOKYO WITHIN RANGE OF LAND-BASED AMERICAN MEDIUM BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS.

A2KX

IT IS APPROXIMATELY HALF WAY BETWEEN TOKYO AND THE MARIANAS, WHERE BOTH NIMITZ' HEADQUARTERS AND THOSE OF THE B-29 21ST BOMBER COMMAND ARE NOW LOCATED, ON GUAM.

THE TINY ISLAND HAS BEEN THE TARGET OF SUCCESSIVE AMERICAN BOMBING ATTACKS FOR WEEKS.

THE TOKYO BROADCAST SAID:

"ON FEB.17 IN THE MORNING ENEMY TROOPS TRIED TO LAND ON THE ISLAND OF IWO. THE JAPANESE GARRISON AT ONCE ATTACKED THESE TROOPS AND REPELLED THEM INTO THE SEA.

"A SHORT WHILE AFTERWARD THE ENEMY TRIED TO LAND ON ANOTHER STRETCH OF THE COAST. THE JAPANESE REPELLED THE ENEMY."

THE UNCONFIRMED BROADCAST ADDED THAT TWO UNITED STATES CRUISERS, TWO DESTROYERS AND AN UNIDENTIFIED TYPE OF WARSHIP WERE SUNK.

NIMITZ' COMMUNIQUE SAID ONE AMERICAN PLANE WAS DESTROYED BY IWO ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE. THE PILOT WAS RESCUED.

TOKYO RADIO SAID THE SECOND DAY OF CARRIER PLANE RAIDS CONTINUED FROM 7 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AND THAT 600 PLANES STRUCK DURING THAT PERIOD AT THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA AREA.

THE

TINUED FROM 7 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AND THAT 600 PLANES STRUCK DURING THAT PERIOD AT THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA AREA.

THE BROADCAST, DIRECTED TO OCCUPIED ASIA, SAID THAT "THE DECREASE IN THE NUMBER OF ATTACKING PLANES FROM THE PREVIOUS DAY (WHEN MORE THAN 1,000 WERE ESTIMATED TO HAVE HIT THE SAME AREA) GIVES AMPLE EVIDENCE OF THE EFFECTIVENESS OF OUR AIR INTERCEPTIONS."

OTTER ESTIMATES OF THE AIR POWER OF VICE ADM.MARC A.MITSCHER'S FIFTH FLEET CARRIER FORCE HAVE RANGED UP TO 1,500 PLANES.

JAPANESE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS CLAIMED 147 RAIDING PLANES HAD BEEN SHOT DOWN AND 50 DAMAGED FRIDAY. DOMEI AGENCY REPORTED JAPANESE INTERCEPTORS HAD "CAUSED THE ENEMY TO LOSE A LEAST 200 AIRCRAFT."

THE HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE ADMITTED 61 JAPANESE INTERCEPTORS LOST IN FRIDAY'S ATTACK. IT ALSO CLAIMED ONE "LARGE CRAFT" SET AFIRE OFF THE COAST.

DOMEI HAD CLAIMED A U.S. CARRIER AND AN ESCORTING DESTROYER SET AFIRE.

THERE WAS STILL NO INDICATION FROM ANY SOURCE THAT THE JAPANESE HOME FLEET HAD IN ANY WAY ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE.

ADM.SPRUANCE'S MIGHTY FORCE CONTINUED TO RANGE BOLDLY TO WITHIN 200 OR 300 MILES OF HONSHU ISLAND, THE HEART OF THE JAPANESE EMPIRE.

(REPORTING FROM GUAM, NBC CORRESPONDENT ROBERT MCCORMICK SAID THAT AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICERS NOW DO NOT EXPECT THE CHALLENGE TO BE ACCEPTED.)

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FEB.17-(AP)-JAPANESE BROADCASTS REPORTED AMERICAN ASSAULT FORCES BEGAN INVADING IWO JIMA ON THE ROAD TO TOKYO THIS MORNING, BUT THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL WORD OF SUCH ACTION AT THIS HEADQUARTERS AS THE POWERFUL AMERICAN FIFTH FLEET CARRIED ITS DOUBLEBARRELED ATTACK ON TOKYO AND ITS SOUTHERN APPROACHES

INTO THE SECOND DAY.

THE JAPANESE DOMEI NEWS AGENCY SAID TWO LANDINGS WERE MADE WITHIN TEN MINUTES ON LITTLE IWO, 750 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO, BUT CLAIMED "BOTH HAVE BEEN REPULSED."

THE RADIO QUOTED TWO JAPANESE NEWSPAPERS, ASAHI AND MAINICHI, AS EXPRESSING THE POSSIBILITY THAT AMERICANS "MIGHT STRIKE DIRECTLY AT THE JAPANESE HOMELAND AND EFFECT LANDINGS THERE."

THE STRIKES WERE WIDESPREAD. TOKYO'S UNCONFIRMED CLAIM OF DOWNED YANK FLYERS COVERED SCORES OF PREFECTURES WITHIN THE METROPOLITAN AREA AND EXTENDED THE RAIDS TO YOKOHAMA.

JAPAN'S UNCONCEALED CONCERN OVER IWO WAS DUE TO THE FACT THAT LOSS OF ITS EIGHT SQUARE MILES WOULD DEPRIVE THE FOE OF THE MAJOR BASE WHICH HAS SERVED TO SPOT THE B-29S WINGING FROM THE MARIANAS AND RELAY THE ALARM TO NIPPON.

IN WASHINGTON, THE NAVY'S RESPONSE TO THE ENEMY SPECULATION WAS THAT THE MIGHTY FIFTH FLEET IS CAPABLE OF EFFECTING LANDINGS AT IWO--OR ANYWHERE.

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, SUNDAY, FEB. 18-(AP)-JAPANESE ON IWO JIMA WERE SO BUSY DUCKING THE FIRE FROM WARSHIPS OF ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ' FLEET THEY FAILED TO THROW UP ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE WHEN THE FIRST OF A FORCE OF ARMY LIBERATORS CAME IN ON AN UNPRECEDENTEDLY LOW LEVEL BOMBING ATTACK FEB. 17, RETURNING PILOTS REPORTED.

THE LIBERATORS HAVE BEEN STRIKING THE ISLAND ATHWART THE B-29 ROUTE FROM THE MARIANAS TO TOKYO FOR SIX MONTHS. ALMOST DAILY ATTACKS HAVE BEEN DELIVERED FOR MORE THAN TWO MONTHS. INTENSE ACK ACK PREVIOUSLY FORCED BOMBERS TO MAKE THEIR RUNS AT HIGH ALTITUDES.

"WE CAUGHT THE JAPS OFF GUARD AND THEY WERE SO BUSY DUCKING NAVAL GUNFIRE THAT WE RECEIVED NO ACK ACK AT ALL," SAID MAJ. KENNETH BROWN, OF SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, COMMANDING THE FIRST SQUADRON OVER THE TARGET.

"I THINK WE CAN SAFELY SAY WE HAD 100 PER CENT HITS ON THE TARGETS," HE ADDED.

THE LIBERATORS DROPPED OVER 100 TONS OF FRAGMENTATION AND AIR BURST BOMBS ON IWO FROM THE 5,000 FOOT LEVEL.

THE JAPS WERE QUICK TO REACT, HOWEVER, AND LT. MAURICE PRICE, (NO STREET ADDRESS), CLEVELAND, OHIO, LAST PILOT OVER THE TARGET, HAD TO FLY THROUGH A STORM OF FLAK.

"AS WE CAME IN WE COULD SEE HEAVY AND SEEMINGLY ACCURATE ACK ACK AHEAD OF US," SAID PRICE. "JUST BEFORE BOMBS WERE AWAY WE FLEW DIRECTLY INTO A LARGE BLACK PUFF OF ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE. FORTUNATELY WE GOT THE TAILEND OF THE BURST."

PRICE SAID HIS PLANE LURCHED AND THE FLIGHT ENGINEER REPORTED THE RIGHT WING HAD BEEN TORN.

COL. LAWRENCE J. CARR, OF CHICAGO (NO STREET ADDRESS), COMMANDING THE BOMBER GROUP, SAID REPORTS FROM RETURNING PILOTS INDICATED THE STRIKE WAS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MADE BY THE LIBERATORS IN THE LAST SIX MONTHS.

THE SOUTHERN TIP OF BATAAN WAS SEIZED BY UNITS OF THE 38TH DIVISION WHICH LANDED AT MARIVELES THURSDAY WITH THE SUPPORT OF AIRCRAFT BOMBING AND STRAFING AND U.S. SEVENTH FLEET GUNFIRE.
IT WAS THE CONQUEST OF BATAAN BY THE JAPANESE APRIL 9, 1942, WHICH DOOMED CORREGIDOR, WHERE SHATTERED ELEMENTS OF THE AMERICAN AND PHILIPPINE ARMY MADE THEIR LAST HEROIC STAND BUT WERE FORCED TO SURRENDER MAY 6. HEAVY NIPPONESE GUNS SET UP AT MARIVELES, ACROSS A NARROW STRAIT FROM THE FORT, HAMMERED THE ISLAND WHILE BARGE-BORNE TROOPS ROLLED OVER THE FATIGUED DEFENDERS.

BROADSIDES FROM SEVENTH FLEET CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS IN SUPPORT OF THE 38TH DIVISION LANDING ON BATAAN BLASTED CORREGIDOR SO HEAVILY THIS TIME THAT ONLY A HALF-DOZEN ENEMY SHOTS CAME FROM THE FORT.
THE ISLAND ALSO HAD BEEN PLASTERED WITH HUNDREDS OF TONS OF AERIAL BOMBS IN RECENT DAYS.
SIXTH DIVISION TROOPS DROVE SOUTHWARD ALONG THE HIGHWAY WHICH FRINGE THE EAST COAST OF BATAAN TOWARD THE 38TH DIVISION TO COMPLETE ENCIRCLEMENT OF THE JAPANESE TROOPS ON THE PENINSULA.

MANILA, P.I., FEB.17-(AP)-NOT FAR FROM WHERE BIG SHELLS ARE STILL FALLING, BATTERED MALACANAN PALACE WAITS FOR THE VICTORY CELEBRATIONS WHICH MAY BE HELD THERE.

JAPANESE SHELLS SMASHED SOME CORNERS OF THE PALACE, RIPPED INTO THE OFFICE RECENTLY OCCUPIED THE JAPANESE-SPONSORED REGIME OF JOSE LAUREL, DUG CRATERS IN THE SPACIOUS GROUNDS AND BADLY DAMAGED OUTLYING SUPPLY BUILDINGS.

BUT THIS CENTER OF FOUR REGIMES IN THE PHILIPPINES IS NOW BEING CLEARED OF DEBRIS AND PREPARED FOR EVENTUAL OCCUPANCY BY THE OSMENA GOVERNMENT. SHORTAGE OF MATERIALS MAY PREVENT IMMEDIATE REPAIR OF THE MAJOR DAMAGE BUT THE PALACE IS USABLE WITH AN APPROXIMATION OF ITS OLD-TIME GLORY.

THE SPANIARDS BUILT THE TWO-STORY PALACE AND THEIR TOUCH IS STRONG ON THE ORNATE RECEPTION AND BANQUET ROOMS WITH HEAVY GLASS CHANDELIERS, THICK CARPETS, AND PLUSH FURNITURE, ALL OF WHICH ESCAPED DAMAGE. IT HAS BEEN SUCCESSIVELY OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN GOVERNORS, THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH PRESIDENT, AND LAUREL UNDER THE DIRECT OBSERVATION OF A JAPANESE "ADVISER."

THE INFLUENCE OF THE LATE PRESIDENT MANUEL QUEZON IS PREDOMINANT AMONG THE FILIPINOS NOW PREPARING THE PALACE AND THEY NOTE PROUDLY THAT HIS LIBRARY, BEDROOM, AND EVEN THE BARBER CHAIR WHEREHE HAD HIS MORNING SHAVE ARE STILL UNTOUCHED. BUT THE GREENHOUSE WHEREIN DONA AURORA QUEZON GREW PRIZE ORCHIDS WAS LONG NEGLECTED. ONE FILIPINO SAID: "JAPANESE LIKED ORCHIDS SO WE STOPPED GROWING THEM."

MALACANAN WAS A PRIME OBJECTIVE OF A CAVALRY SQUADRON DURING THE DASH INTO MANILA FEB.3, AND AMERICANS HELD IT DESPITE JAPANESE ARTILLERY. IT MAY BE ONE OF THE FEW NOTABLE LANDMARKS TO SURVIVE THE BATTLE OF MANILA.

WITH MACARTHUR ON BATAAN,FEB.16-(DELAYED)-GENERAL OF THE ARMY DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TODAY RETURNED IN TRIUMPH TO BATAAN, THE SCENE OF THE GALLANT BUT HOPELESS STAND OF AMERICAN FORCES IN THE PHILIPPINES IN 1942.

DISREGARDING HIS PERSONAL DANGER, THE GENERAL RODE IN A JEEP, THEN WALKED TO OUR MOST FORWARD POSITIONS ON THE EAST COAST OF THE PENINSULA WHERE HE COULD WATCH HIS TROOPS SWARMING ASHORE ON CORREGIDOR.

HE WAS DISAPPOINTED WHEN A BLASTED BRIDGE FORCED HIM TO TURN BACK BEFORE REACHING MARIVELES--DESPITE THE FACT HE ALREADY HAD GONE BEYOND OUR MOST FORWARD ROAD BLOCKS AND WAS IN JAP-INFESTED TERRITORY THROUGH WHICH ONLY OUR FIRST PATROLS HAD PASSED.

"THIS VISIT IS EASING AN ACHE THAT HAS BEEN IN MY HEART FOR THREE YEARS," MACARTHUR TOLD BRIG.GEN.CLYDE EDELMAN, OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., OF THE SIXTH ARMY, AS HE STOOD LISTENING TO THE ROAR OF GUNS FROM CORREGIDOR.

THE GENERAL HAD HOPED TO SEE THE PARATROOPERS DROP ON THE ROCK BUT ARRIVED JUST TOO LATE TO SEE THE INITIAL STOCKS OF POCKED FIGHTING MEN FLOAT DOWN.

WITH A SMALL PARTY, MACARTHUR HAD LEFT HIS HEADQUARTERS BEFORE DAWN FOR A 10-HOUR INSPECTION TRIP WHICH CARRIED HIM SO FAR INTO THE FRONTLINES IT BECAME ALMOST A PERSONAL RECONNAISSANCE.

WITH HIM ON THEINITIAL STAGE OF THE TRIP WERE BRIG.GEN.BONNER FELLERS, COLONELS ANDRE SORIANO, LLOYD LEHRBAS AND ROGER EGEBERG AND THIS CORRESPONDENT WHO, LIKE THE GENERAL, WAS REVISITING SCENES INDELIBLY GRAVEN IN HIS MEMORY IN THOSE TERRIBLE DAYS IN '42.

AS WE HEADED DOWN THE EAST COAST, WE PASSED WITHIN A FEW HUNDRED YARDS OF COLIS WHERE ON JAN. 7, 1942, I WAS WOUNDED AND CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE.

MAJ.GEN.CHARLES HALL, COMMANDER OF THE 11TH ARMY CORPS, BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM SPENCE, OF CAMMILA,GA., COMMANDING THE EAST COAST TASK FORCE, AND EDELMAN MET US AS WE MOVED SOUTH.

IN THE FIRST FILIPINO VILLAGES WE PASSED, THERE WAS NO EXCITEMENT BUT "BAMBOO TELEGRAPH" APPARENTLY CARRIED THE WORD OF OUR COMING AHEAD OF US.

AT ABUCAY--EASTERN ANCHOR OF OUR FINAL DEFENSE LINE IN '42--HUNDREDS CLAD IN THEIR SUNDAY BEST LINED THE STREET. THEY WAVED, CHEERED AND GAVE THE V FOR VICTORY SIGN.

MANY REMEMBERING MACARTHUR FROM HIS VISIT THERE SHORTLY BEFORE THE WITHDRAWAL IN '42 SHOUTED HIS NAME.

A170FX
THE GENERAL WAS VISIBLY MOVED. HE REPEATEDLY SALUTED AS HIS LITTLE CAVALCADE MOVED ON.
AS WE DROVE ALONG THE ROAD, THE BOMBARDMENT OF CORREGIDOR INCREASED STEADILY IN VOLUME AND SCORES OF PLANES--WE SAW 60 IN ONE FLIGHT--HEADED TOWARD THE ROCK ON STRAFING AND BOMBING MISSIONS.
AT LIMAY, INITIAL SITE OF NO. 1 HOSPITAL IN '42, WE STOPPED TO CHECK ON THE SITUATION FORWARD AND, AS WE WAITED, THE GENERAL REMINISCED WITH THIS CORRESPONDENT.
HE ASKED, "DO YOU THINK THIS PLACE HAS CHANGED MUCH?"
I REPLIED IN THE NEGATIVE.
THE GENERAL CONTINUED:
"NO THIS COULD ALMOST BE JANUARY '42. I FEEL MORE AT HOME NOW THAN I HAVE FOR YEARS."
THROUGHOUT THE TRIP, HE MADE PLAIN THAT HE FELT HE HAD COME HOME--THAT BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR HAD BEEN THE GOAL OF HIS ENTIRE THREE YEAR CAMPAIG IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

A171FX
A STAFF OFFICER ADVISED THE PARTY TO TURN BACK FROM LIMAY BUT MACARTHUR INSISTED ON CONTINUING TO CABCABEN FROM WHERE HE HOPED HE WOULD BE ABLE TO SEE THE PARATROOPERS DESCEND ON CORREGIDOR. EDELMAN EXPLAINED THAT THE AREA HAD NOT BEEN CLEARED OF JAPS AND OUR OWN PLANES WERE STRAFING THE ROADS, THUS POSSIBLY ENDANGERING THE PARTY.
THE GENERAL LAUGHED.
"OH, I DON'T THINK THEY'LL HIT US," HE SAID.
"AFTER ALL, THIS IS MY HOMECOMING AND I WANT TO GO ALL THE WAY."
ALONG THE ROAD FROM ORION TO CABCABEN, THERE WERE FREQUENT SIGNS OF THE RECENT BATTLE.
WE SAW DEAD JAPANESE IN GROUPS OF SIX TO 15 WHERE STRONGPOINTS HAD BEEN WIPED OUT.

A172FX
IN A JAPANESE ENCAMPMENT ALONG THE ROAD, THERE WERE EVIDENCES OF HASTY EVACUATION--BUCKETS OF COOKED RICE, KETTLES OF SOUP, STACKS OF DISHES LEFT UNWASHED.
AT CABCABEN, MACARTHUR WANTED TO CONTINUE TO MARIVELES. DESPITE WARNINGS OF HIS OFFICERS, WE STARTED IN THAT DIRECTION BUT MOST OF US WERE PLENTY NERVOUS AND THIS CORRESPONDENT FOR ONE WAS WONDERING IF WE EVENTUALLY WERE GOING TO LAND ON CORREGIDOR IN THE MIDST OF THE FIGHTING.
A BLASTED BRIDGE A SHORT DISTANCE FROM GENERAL CHASE'S FORWARD ELEMENTS FORCED US TO TURN BACK. ON THE RETURN TRIP, WE WERE STOPPED A SHORT DISTANCE NORTH OF LIMAY WHERE A WARNING HAD BEEN RECEIVED THAT 80 TO 100 JAPS HAD LANDED ALONG THE ROAD FROM AN ORE BARGE.
GUARDS SCOUTED AHEAD SOME DISTANCE, BUT WITHOUT AWAITING FURTHER WORD, MACARTHUR SAID "LET'S GO AHEAD," AND WE MOVED ON THROUGH WITHOUT A SHOT BEING FIRED.
AS WE RODE BACK NORTH WE PASSED HUNDREDS OF ARMY VEHICLES BRINGING IN TROOPS, AMMUNITION AND SUPPLIES FOR THE FINAL MOPPING UP OPERATIONS ON THE PENINSULA.
BUT IN FILIPINO VILLAGES LIFE WAS QUICKLY RETURNING TO NORMAL. FISHERMEN WERE SAILING THE BAY IN THEIR LITTLE DUGOUTS. SHOPS WERE OPEN. FARMERS WORKED IN RICE PADDIES.
BATAAN AGAIN WAS FREE.

CORREGIDOR LANDING (WITH PIPS)
BY JAMES HUTCHESON
WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON CORREGIDOR, FEB 16-(DELAYED)-THE AMERICANS RETURNED TO CORREGIDOR TODAY.
SWINGING DOWN FROM PARACHUTEE AND STEPPING ASHORE FROM LANDING CRAFT, THEY HIT "THE ROCK" BEGINNING AT 8:35 A.M. THIS MORNING WITH SPEED AND POWER WHICH IN A FEW HOURS HAS GIVEN THE AMERICANS STRONG FOOTHOLDS DESPITE STIFF RESISTANCE FROM JAPANESE FIRING FROM CAVES AND TUNNELS.
THE FIRST WAVE OF PARATROOPERS LEAPED FROM TRANSPORT PLANES JUST AFTER LIBERATORS AND THEN BOSTONS SATURATED "TOPSIDE," THE ONE-HALF MILE SQUARE PLATEAU ON CORREGIDOR'S WESTERN END WITH HIGH EXPLOSIVES AND PARACHUTE FRAGMENTATION BOMBS.
FROM WHERE I SAW THE OPERATION, ABOARD A MOTOR TORPEDO BOAT, IT APPEARED A GREAT MAJORITY OF THE PARATROOPS LANDED EASILY AND SQUARELY ON THE OBJECTIVE. THE WIND WAFTED SOME 'CHUTES OVER THE ROCKY CLIFFS, BUT OUR SMALL CRAFT DASHED IN TO PICK UP THE BOYS.
SEVENTH FLEET DESTROYERS WERE CALLED IN FOR POINT BLANK SHELLING BEFORE THE SECOND PHASE OF THE ASSAULT--FROM THE SEA--WAS COMPLETE. IT WAS JUST TWO HOURS AFTER THE PARATROOPERS HIT "THE ROCK" IN THE FACE OF GUNFIRE FROM CORREGIDOR.
BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM C.CHASE, DIRECTING THE OPERATION FROM HIS POST ABOARD REAR ADM.ARTHUR STRUBLE'S COMMAND SHIP SAID:
"I WISH GENERAL (JONATHAN) WAINWRIGHT COULD BE HERE TO SEE THIS.

IT WOULD BE THE GREATEST SIGHT OF HIS LIFE."
(WAINWRIGHT, WHO SURRENDERED THE BELEAGUERED AMERICAN GARRISON MAY 6, 1942, IS A MILITARY PRISONER IN MANCHUKUO.)

A103FX
FORTY-FIVE MINUTES AFTER THE FIRST WAVE HIT THE BEACH NEAR THE CENTER OF CORREGIDOR, A RED SMOKE SIGNAL FROM HIGH ON THE HILL ATOP CORREGIDOR'S HISTORIC "TUNNEL" SENT WORD THAT THE INFANTRY OF THE LEYTE FAMED 24TH DIVISION HAD REACHED THE CREST AND JOINED THE PARATROOPERS.
JAPANESE GUNS OPENED ON OUR BOATS AS WE STARTED SHELLING THE SHORE AHEAD OF THE LANDING BARGES. SOME FIVE-INCH SHELLS FELL AROUND THE AMERICAN CRAFT BUT FAILED TO HALT THE LANDING.
A RAVINE ON THE LEFT FLANK OF THE BEACHHEAD CONCEALED JAPANESE MACHINEGUNS AND POSSIBLY SOME LARGER PIECES WHICH FIRED SPORADICALLY AT THE BEACH. OUR WARSHIPS REPLIED.
A REPORT ONE-HALF HOUR AFTER THE LANDING BY THE INFANTRY SAID THAT THEY HAD MET OPPOSITION ON THENORTH SIDE OF THE NECK, INDICATING AMERICANS HAD VIRTUALLY CROSSED THE ISLAND.
A LATER REPORT SAID PARATROOPERS WERE ENCOUNTERING ONE POCKET OF RESISTANCE.

A PAIR OF OKLAHOMA TWINS WHO ENTERED THE ARMY TOGETHER PARACHUTED TOGETHER TODAY OVER CORREGIDOR AND WERE PICKED UP TOGETHER BY A P-T BOAT AFTER THE WIND CARRIED THEM PAST THE ISLAND.
THEY WERE PRIVATES JACK IMPSON AND A.B.IMPSON OF FINLEY, OKLA.
FIVE OTHERS WERE PICKED UP BY THIS P-T AFTER THEY LANDED ON A ROCKY SLOPE FROM WHICH THEY WERE UNABLE TO REACH THE TOP WHERE THEIR COMRADES WERE FIGHTING.
"IT FELT JUST LIKE ANY OTHER JUMP TO BE HEADING DOWN TO CORREGIDOR," SAID PVT. C.B. LAIN, (20 SOUTH MOODY AVE.) TAMPA, FLA.
"WE SURELY HATED TO MISS. WE WANT TO GET BACK TO OUR CREW UP THERE."
OTHERS WHO MADE THE AIRBORNE DESCENT WERE SGT. WILLIAM ELLIS (746 FLETCHER AVE.) INDIANAPOLIS; CPL. CHARLES BARBER (311 PENNSYLVANIA AVE.) ALIQUIPPA, PA.; CPL. TINO SANTOS (64 CEDAR ST.), MANCHESTER, N.H.; AND PVT. GEORGE FLETCHER, PRINCETON, W.VA.

MANY OTHER PARATROOPERS LANDED ALONG ANOTHER LESS CLIFF-LIKE SIDE OF THE ROCK, WITH THEIR 'CHUTES STANDING OUT LIKE VAST WHITE PATCHWORK AGAINST A GREEN BACKGROUND.
THE MEN SAID THEY WERE UNABLE TO SEE ANY SIGN OF ENEMY GUNS BELOW DURING THE JUMP, ALTHOUGH SOME PARATROOPERS' PLANES DREW LIGHT AUTOMATIC FIRE FROM THE GROUND.

MEXICO CITY, FEB 17-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES POINT OF VIEW IS EXPECTED TO BE BROUGHT TO BEAR ON PRELIMINARY DISCUSSIONS OF WAR AND PEACE TOPICS AFFECTING THE AMERICAS TODAY WHEN ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE NELSON ROCKEFELLER ARRIVES IN THE VANGUARD OF 39 DELEGATES TO THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.
ROCKEFELLER, WHO IS ALTERNATE DELEGATE FROM THE UNITED STATES, IS SCHEDULED TO LAND AROUND NOON ABOARD AN ARMY TRANSPORT PLANE, ACCOMPANIED BY SEVERAL LATIN AMERICAN AMBASSADORS FROM WASHINGTON. SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS, CHIEF U.S. DELEGATE, IS EXPECTED NEXT TUESDAY.

COMING WITH ROCKEFELLER ARE UNDERSECRETARY OF COMMERCE WAYNE C. TAYLOR, WARREN LEE PIERSON, PRESIDENT OF THE EXPORT-IMPORT BANK; MICHAEL M.MCDERMOTT, SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE, AND POSSIBLY AVRA WARREN, CHIEF OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS DIVISION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT.
UPPERMOST IN THE MINDS OF LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATIONS AS THEY FACE THE CRITICAL POST-WAR PERIOD IS THE WAY IN WHICH THE UNITED STATES WILL CARRY OUT ITS TRANSITION FROM A WARTIME ECONOMY.
IN THIS SAME SPHERE IS THE DOUBT HELD BY MANY OF THE LATIN AMERICAN [illegible]S THAT WITH A STATE CONTROLLED ECONOMY IN RUSSIA AND AN [illegible] POST-WAR PROGRAM OF CONTROLLED EXPORTING AND IMPORTING IN [illegible] THEIR CHANCES OF COMPETING IN AN OPEN MARKET, WHERE THEY CAN [illegible]E, WILL BE SEVERELY JEOPARDIZED.

THE UNITED STATES HAS ALREADY INDICATED IT IS PREPARED TO OFFER CONCRETE, PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING THESE PROBLEMS. THESE SUGGESTIONS ARE SAID TO INCLUDE ASSURANCES THAT AMERICAN WAR-TIME PURCHASES WILL NOT BE SUDDENLY CURTAILED.
SECRETARY STETTINIUS IS EXPECTED TO INFORM THE CONFERENCE OF THE WAY THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM, IN ALL SPHERES, CAN BEST WORK ITSELF INTO THE WORLD ORGANIZATION AND PARTICULARLY THE DECISION OF THE VOTING POWER OF THE DUMBARTON OAKS PROPOSALS WHICH THE "BIG-THREE" REACHED AT YALTA.
WHILE THE ARGENTINE SITUATION HAS BEEN SHUNTED TO A RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT POSITION IN THE CONFERENCE, IT HAS ALREADY COME FORTH AS A PRIME SUBJECT FOR DISCUSSIONS AMONG THE EARLY ARRIVALS, INCLUDING THE BRAZILIANS, BOLIVIANS AND OTHERS.

BUENOS AIRES, FEB. 17-(AP)-THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT, IN ITS MOST SHARPLY WORDED NOTE SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR, CHARGED GERMANY TODAY WITH ATTEMPTING TO RETAIN A NUMBER OF ARGENTINE DIPLOMATS IN SWEDEN AND SERVED NOTICE THAT HOLDING THEM WOULD BE REGARDED AS "A HOSTILE ACT" CALLING FOR MEASURES "IN DEFENSE OF OUR SOVEREIGNTY AND ITS CITIZENS."
ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER CESAR AMEGHINO SAID IN A STATEMENT REGARDING THE NOTE ADDRESSED TO THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT THAT THE GERMANS HAD TREATENED O RETAIN FR

GERMANS HAD THREATENED TO RETAIN FROM AMONG 112 ARGENTINE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR AGENTS AND THEIR FAMILIES IN SWEDEN A NUMBER EQUIVALENT TO THE NUMBER OF GERMAN AGENTS IN LISBON TO WHOM THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS REFUSED SAFE CONDUCTS.
"IF THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT INSISTS ON PUTTING INTO PRACTICE THIS THREAT," HE SAID, "REFUSING SAFE CONDUCT TO A SINGLE MEMBER OF THE ARGENTINE GROUP AWAITING EXCHANGE, THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT WILL CONSIDER THAT ACTION AS EXERCISE OF A HOSTILE ACT AND RESERVES AS A MATTER OF COURSE ALL LIBERTY OF ACTION TO ADOPT IN THIS CASE ALL MEASURES IT MAY CONSIDER PERTINENT TO THE DEFENSE OF ITS SOVEREIGNTY AND ITS CITIZENS."
AMEGHINO, REPLYING TO REPORTERS' QUESTIONS, SAID THE POSSIBILITY THAT ARGENTINA MIGHT DECLARE WAR ON GERMANY AND JAPAN "REMAINS IN THE REALM OF RUMOR FOR THE TIME BEING."
THE STATEMENT SAID THAT DURING THE ENTIRE NEGOTIATIONS FOR EXCHANGE OF THE DIPLOMATS "THE REICHS GOVERNMENT ACCUMULATED ONE DEMAND UPON ANOTHER, SORELY TESTING THE PATIENCE AND GOOD WILL OF THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT, THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN, AND EVEN OF THE MEDIATING FOREIGN OFFICES."
THE DIFFICULTY OVER THE DIPLOMATIC EXCHANGE DATES BACK TO JANUARY, 1944, WHEN ARGENTINA SEVERED RELATIONS WITH GERMANY AND JAPAN. TWO MONTHS LATER THE GERMAN DIPLOMATS IN ARGENTINA LEFT FOR LISBON.
THE ARGENTINE DIPLOMATS IN GERMANY SOUGHT PERMISSION TO GO TO SWITZERLAND BUT THE GERMANS PERMITTED THEM TO GO ONLY TO SWEDEN, ACCORDING TO THE ARGENTINE FOREIGN OFFICE STATEMENT. THEY CANNOT SAFELY LEAVE SWEDEN WITHOUT GERMAN SAFE-CONDUCT, AND THIS THE GERMANS REFUSE TO GIVE UNLESS THE BRITISH WILL GRANT SAFE-CONDUCT TO THE GERMAN DIPLOMATS WHO STILL ARE IN LISBON, IT WAS POINTED OUT.
THE STATEMENT SAID THAT THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT, AFTER PROCRASTINATION, SENT NOTICE DATED FEB. 2, 1945, THAT IT WOULD REFUSE SAFE-CONDUCT FROM SWEDEN FOR ONE ARGENTINE DIPLOMAT FOR EVERY GERMAN FORCED TO REMAIN IN LISBON.
THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED IT REPLIED THAT THIS WAS EQUIVALENT TO HOLDING THE ARGENTINE DIPLOMATS AS HOSTAGES IN A CONFLICT TO WHICH ARGENTINA WAS NOT A PARTY AND THAT IF A SINGLE ARGENTINE WAS REFUSED SAFE-CONDUCT, ARGENTINA WOULD CONSIDER THIS A HOSTILE ACT.

THERE HAS BEEN NO GENERAL RELEASE OF PRIVATELY-OWNED FRENCH ASSETS IN CANADA. THESE ARE STILL UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE CUSTODIAN OF ENEMY PROPERTY. INDIVIDUALS AND INDIVIDUAL FIRMS, HOWEVER, HAVE BEEN OBTAINING RELEASE OF THEIR ASSETS ON ESTABLISHING OWNERSHIP AND OTHER FACTS.

OTTAWA FEB 17-(AP)-THE CANADIAN WHOLESALE GROCERS' [illegible]CIATION CONTENDS THAT CONTINUED EXEMPTION OF COOPERATIVES FROM [illegible]OME AND EXCESS PROFITS TAXES EVENTUALLY MAY LEAD TO STATE-OWNED MONOPOLIES OR A SOCIALIST ECONOMY.
THE ASSOCIATION TOOK THAT POSITION IN A BRIEF SUBMITTED YESTERDAY TO A ROYAL COMMISSION INVESTIGATING THE TAXATION OF COOPERATIVES. THE COMMISSION WINDS UP A TWO-DAY HEARING HERE TODAY.
THE WHOLESALE GROCERS' ASSOCIATION SAID IN ITS BRIEF, PRESENTED BY R.R.EVANS OF HAMILTON, THAT IT DID NOT OBJECT TO THE PRINCIPLE OF COOPERATIVES AND WAS PREPARED TO MEET COMPETITION FROM THEM ON EQUAL TERMS, BUT DOES OBJECT TO THE FACT THAT THE COOPERATIVES ENJOY AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE THROUGH THEIR TAX POSITION.
BRIEFS ALSO WERE SUBMITTED YESTERDAY BY INDEPENDENT POULTRY AND EGG DEALERS AND HATCHERY OPERATORS OF SASKATCHEWAN AND BY THE OTTAWA BOARD OF TRADE OBJECTING TO SPECIAL TAXATION TREATMENT FOR THE COOPERATIVES. THE VIEWPOINT OF THE COOPERATIVES WAS PLACED BEFORE THE COMMISSION IN A BRIEF FROM THE COOPERATIVE UNION OF CANADA.
THE FIVE-MAN ROYAL COMMISSION ALREADY HAS HEARD REPRESENTATIONS IN

30.24 - 23095

VANCOUVER, REGINA, WINNIPEG AND OTHER WESTERN CENTERS AND AT TORONTO. FOLLOWING ITS SITTING HERE IT WILL HOLD HEARINGS IN MONTREAL, QUEBEC, MONCTON AND HALIFAX, THEN RETURN TO OTTAWA FOR A FINAL HEARING IN LATE MARCH BEFORE MAKING ITS REPORT.

FROM THE BRIEFS SO FAR SUBMITTED THESE ARGUMENTS FOR THE COOPERATIVES STAND OUT:

1. BASIS OF THE COOPERATIVE WAS "SERVICE AT COST" AGAINST THE BASIS OF PROFIT-MAKING OF THE PRIVATE COMPANY.
2. THERE IS A GREAT DIFFERENCE IN THE OPERATIONS OF A CO-OP AND THOSE OF A JOINT STOCK COMPANY.
3. IT IS UNTRUE THAT ALL COOPERATIVES ARE EXEMPT FROM TAXATION OR THAT ANY IS EXEMPT FROM ALL TAXATION.
4. THERE IS NO INEQUALITY IN THE PRESENT TAXATION STRUCTURE, SINCE BOTH COOPERATIVES AND PRIVATE ENTERPRISE PAID TAXES ON THEIR INCOMES PROPERLY DEFINED.

B15 (E18 S19)

ON THE OTHER SIDE, THESE ARGUMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE AGAINST THE COOPERATIVES:

1. CO-OPS, BECAUSE OF "UNFAIR" TAX FREEDOM, ARE EXPANDING RAPIDLY, "IMPERILING" PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.
2. UNLIKE THE SMALL UNDERTAKINGS OF YEARS AGO TODAY'S CO-OPS HAVE REACHED FULL STATURE AS TRADING ENTERPRISES.
3. NON-TAXATION OF CO-OPS HAS CAUSED A SEVERE LOSS TO THE DOMINION TREASURY.
4. SOME PERSONS, IT IS CONTENDED, WOULD USE THE COOPERATIVE MOVEMENT "TO DO AWAY WITH PERSONAL OWNERSHIP AND ABOLISH CAPITALISM."

SECOND NIGHT LEAD UNDATED INVASIONS (210)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMERICAN WARSHIPS MASSED OFF LITTLE IWO JIMA ARE "PERSISTENTLY WATCHING FOR AN OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE A LANDING," RADIO TOKYO SAID SATURDAY NIGHT, ADDING THAT THE INVASION THREAT THERE "WARRANTS US NO OPTIMISM."

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, CLAIMED THE IWO GARRISON HAD GAINED "A GLORIOUS VICTORY THUS FAR" SINCE "NOT A SINGLE ENEMY HAS BEEN PERMITTED TO LAND ON IWO JIMA."

NO MENTION WAS MADE BY TOKYO OF ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ' ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE AMERICAN NAVY IS STILL SHELLING IWO JIMA, BUT THE JAPANESE-CONTROLLED BATAVIA RADIO SAID "THE ENEMY IS SUBJECTING THE ISLAND TO HEAVY NAVAL AND AERIAL BOMBARDMENT."

"IT IS APPARENT," SAID RADIO TOKYO, "THAT THE ENEMY STILL HAS A REINFORCEMENT CONVOY BEHIND HIM" BUT THE IWO GARRISON AWAITS A CHANCE TO HIT "THE ENEMY SHOULD HE AGAIN ATTEMPT TO LAND."

IT REPEATED AN EARLIER CLAIM THAT TWO U.S. LANDING ATTEMPTS WERE REPULSED AT IWO. IT ALSO WATERED DOWN AN IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE CLAIM THAT A U.S. BATTLESHIP, TWO CRUISERS AND TWO SHIPS OF UNDETERMINED TYPE HAD BEEN SUNK AND THREE ASSAULT LANDING SHIPS DAMAGED. THE LATEST STATEMENT CLAIMED ONLY THE BATTLESHIP AND THE DAMAGED LANDING CRAFT.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR CONFIRMED THE EARLIER TOKYO REPORT OF LANDINGS ON CORREGIDOR, SCENE OF THE HEROIC LAST STAND OF AMERICAN FORCES IN 1942, IN HIS SUNDAY (MANILA TIME) COMMUNIQUE. MACARTHUR SAID YANK PARATROOPERS AND SEABORNE SOLDIERS CONTROL THE ROCKY ISLAND AT THE ENTRANCE OF MANILA BAY AND ARE ROOTING OUT THE JAPANESE DEFENDERS IN THE UNDERGROUND TUNNELS.

IWO, IN THE VOLCANO ISLANDS, GUARDS THE AIR AND SEA APPROCH TO TOKYO. IT IS ONLY 750 MILES SOUTH OF THE JAPANESE CAPITAL.

TOKYO'S VERSION OF THE CORREGIDOR ATTACK, AS RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, SAID AMERICAN PARATROOPERS AND SEABORNE TROOPS LANDED EARLY SATURDAY (MANILA TIME) AND "FIERCE BATTLES ARE NOW RAGING ON THE SOUTHERN SHORES" OF THE FORTRESS ROCK.

THE RADIO REPORT ON IWO BASED ON DOMEI NEWS AGENCY DISPATCHES, SAID AMERICANS HAD MADE TWO ATTEMPTS TO LAND SATURDAY UNDER COVER OF NAVAL BOMBARDMENT BUT HAD BEEN REPULSED.

FOLO PARIS TERROR RAIDS (560)
BY WILLIAM F.BONI
(JUST RETURNED FROM THE WESTERN FRONT)

FEB 18 1944

NEW YORK, FEB. 17-(AP)-TIME AND AGAIN THE U.S.EIGHTH AIR FORCE HAS SENT MORE THAN 1,000 FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS OVER GERMANY FRON ITS BASES IN ENGLAND, BUT ALL PREVIOUS AMERICAN OPERATIONS WILL BE DWARFED BY THE DAYLIGHT ATTACKS WHICH WILL BE LAUNCHED AGAINST GERMAN TARGETS THIS SPRING.

IT IS ONLY A YEAR SINCE THE FIRST SMALL AMERICAN RAID ON BERLIN, YET THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE ALREADY HAS THE NECESSARY BOMBERS. IT IS WAITING ONLY FOR THE SIGNAL TO UNCORK RAIDS THAT WILL PUT 2,000 AND POSSIBLY EVEN AS MANY AS 3,000 HEAVY BOMBERS INTO THE AIR SIMULTANEOUSLY.

IT IS DIFFICULT TO VISUALIZE SUCH A HUGE OPERATION--TO GRASP THE ORGANIZATION THAT LIES BEHIND IT, TO UNDERSTAND THE SPLIT-SECONI TIMING THAT MAKES IT POSSIBLE, OR EVEN TO CONCEIVE OF THAT MANY FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS BEING PUT INTO THE AIR AT THE SAME MOMENT FROM AMERICAN BASES ALONE.

IT IS DIFFICULT EVEN AFTER YOU HAVE SEEN THE 750-PLANE AND 1,000-PLANE FORMATIONS DRAWING THEIR CONTRAILS ACROSS THE SKY HIGH ABOVE YOU IN BELGIUM AND THE WESTERN FRINGE OF GERMANY.

BUT IT IS NOT DIFFICULT TO UNDERSTAND WHAT RAIDS ON SUCH AN UNPRECEDENTED SCALE, PLUS COMPARABLE BRITISH POWER, WILL DO TO THOSE PORTIONS OF NAZI INDUSTRY WHICH HAVE NOT BEEN KNOCKED OUT ALREADY. ACCORDING TO THE AIR FORCE PLANNERS, THEY WILL BE RUN ON SUCH A SCHEDULE--BARRING UNFORESEEABLE WEATHER OBSTACLES-- THAT THERE WILL BE LITTLE IF ANY TIME BETWEEN RAIDS FOR THE GERMANS TO REBUILD THEIR BLASTED WAR PLANTS.

THE AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBER MEN, WITH ONLY A FEW EXCEPTIONS, LONG SINCE HAVE QUIT ARGUING THAT A COUNTRY CAN BE KNOCKED OUT BY AIR ATTACK ALONE. THEY RECOGNIZE THAT IT TAKES THE GROUND FORCES TO CRACK THE ENEMY'S MILITARY RESISTANCE.

BUT IN THE CURRENT DRIVES THEY HAVE A POTENT ARGUMENT-- WHICH, IN TURNABOUT, FEW INFANTRYMEN WILL DISPUTE-- FOR THE VALUE OF HEAVY BOMBARDMENT AS A CONTRIBUTING FACTOR TO THE SUCCESS OF GROUND TROOPS FOR CERTAINLY THE YEARS-LONG AIR ASSAULTS ON GERMANY ARE PAYING OFF NOW IN EVITABLE SHORTAGES OF EQUIPMENT AND TRANSPORT THAT MAKE IT NECESSARY FOR THE GERMAN ARMY TO CONTINUE SHORTENING ITS LINES.

STATISTICIANS CAN GIVE YOU THE EXACT RATIO OF OUR AIR SUPERIORITY ON THE WESTERN FRONT. FROM PERSONAL OBSERVATION, I CAN SAY ONLY THAT FROM OCTOBER INTO JANUARY I SAW NOT A SINGLE GERMAN AIRCRAFT IN THE AIR. TRUE, PART OF THAT WAS MY GOOD FORTUNE IN NOT BEING ON THE SPOT WHEN THE LUFTWAFFE DID STAGE ITS OCCASIONAL RAIDS.

STILL, IT IS A VERY COMFORTING THING TO LOOK BACK ON.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Allied Authorities and front dispatches have identified 47 American combat divisions on the Western front.

In addition, dispatches have identified three Canadian, 14 British, eight French and one Polish divisions--a total of 73--in combat. Opposing these are an estimated 70 to 80 German divisions, nearly all under normal strength.

It is possible that many divisions besides those identified are in France. The Germans, for instance, have asserted that the famous 42nd Rainbow division has been in action in Northern Alsace, but the allies never have commented.

Eleven of the divisions identified are armored, three are airborne and 33 are infantry.

AMERICANS ASHORE ON IWO, TOKYO REPORTS; U. S. TROOPS MOPPING UP FOE ON CORREGIDOR; BRITISH AT EDGE OF GOCH; PATTON STRIKES AGAIN

FEB 19 1945

San Francisco, Monday, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency said today American assault forces invaded Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands at 8 A.M. Sunday (Tokyo time) and "heavy fighting" was in progress.

FEB 19 1945

The enemy broadcast, picked up by the Federal Communications Commission, said the Yanks poured ashore on the tiny but strategic island from about 100 landing vessels." There was no American confirmation.

BIG COASTAL GUNS KNOCKED OUT BY U.S. FLEET UNITS

Nimitz Silent on Carrier Plane Attack Against Tokyo

16 ENEMY SHIPS HIT

Jap Radio Reports Three Yank Invasion Attempts Repulsed.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Monday, Feb. 19—(AP) Iwo Jima's coastal defenses were further shattered Sunday in the third straight day of bombardment of the invasion-menaced island, 750 miles south of Toyko, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today. He made no mention of Tokyo claims that three Yank invasion attempts had failed.

Nimitz said heavy U. S. fleet units had the tiny but strategic island "under fire" all day Sunday, knocking out three more strongly-defended coastal guns and probably damaging three others.

Obviously for security reasons, the communique carried no report of the powerful naval force which Friday and Saturday sent 1,500 carrier planes in waves over the Tokyo-Yokohama industrial area. Tokyo said the fleet "apparently retreated."

The communique said U. S. carrier planes damaged 16 small ships in the Bonin island on Sunday.

The three-day bombardment of Iwo, Nimitz announced, has been under the tactical direction of Rear Adm. W. H. P. Blandy.

Nimitz said "battleships' gunfire damaged the defense installations, including three heavily casemated coastal guns knocked out and probably three more damaged, during a heavy bombardment of shore defenses on Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands on Feb. 18.

"The island was under the fire of heavy units of the U. S. Pacific fleet throughout the day."

Iwo, only eight miles square, was pounded by Army Liberators on Saturday, with large fires resulting. Antiaircraft fire was reported intense. Chichi Jima in the Bonin group immediately to the north also was hit by carrier planes. Three enemy aircraft were damaged on the ground there.

Attacks May be Continuing

The fleet chief said no new reports were available concerning the mighty carrier plane strikes against the Tokyo-Yokohama region Friday and Saturday. It was possible that the naval airmen carried their attacks on the Tokyo area into the third consecutive day.

Radio Tokyo, after indicating that the Yank Naval fliers were hitting the capital again, said later there were no carrier plane raids Sunday and added the "enemy task force seems to have retreated southward."

A Japanese communique made these claims covering interception over Tokyo Feb. 17: 101 American planes shot down and 28 damaged; 17 Japanese planes lost, either self-blasted or failed to return; ground damage slight.

(An unconfirmed Japanese broadcast, reported by NBC, said the Naval airmen continued the Tokyo attacks through the third day.)

It was the third day in a row that powerful units of Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth fleet have stood off Iwo and lobbed explosives into the eight square mile island which lies midway between Adm. Nimitz' recently established Guam headquarters and the Japanese capital.

Iwo was under its 72nd consecutive day of attack by Marianas based planes. Something new was added to the aerial assault today —flag Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier planes.

Oft-bombed Iwo hit back. Both Army Liberators from the Marianas and swift-daring carrier planes found antiaircraft fire intense and a shore gun damaged one U. S. warship, Admiral Nimitz said.

Whether Iwo, which is part of Tokyo prefecture, has been or is about to be invaded by U. S. ground forces still remains a matter for speculation, due to U. S. fleet radio silence.

Japs Claim Victory

Japanese radio broadcasters claimed "a glorious victory" has been scored at Iwo, adding, "not a single U. S. soldier has been permitted to land yet." Added to that uncertain "yet," Tokyo warned: "Optimism is unwarranted. The enemy still has a reinforcement convoy behind him."

Elaborating on the claimed victory, one Japanese broadcaster said the first U. S. landing attempt was made on the southeastern part of the island Saturday morning at 10:30; the second within 10 minutes on the southeastern tip.

During these operations, said Tokyo, five U. S. warships including a battleship were sunk and three assault landing ships damaged. In a later broadcast Tokyo trimmed its figures to one battleship sunk and three landing craft damaged.

In a third report, (Monday, Japanese Time) the Japanese claimed 23 U. S. warships or transports had been damaged in Iwo waters.

The "attempted" Iwo landing operation, said radio Tokyo, along with the large scale aerial attack on the Japanese mainland was forced on American military commanders as a cover-up to take the public's mind off "heavy manpower losses" in the Philippines.

In the midst of this explanation, Harukazu Ogata, one of Japan's air raid shelter officials, told his listeners that "we may have to spend most of our lives underground in the future."

29 U.S. SHIPS SUNK OFF IWO, JAPS SAY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Radio Tokyo, in propaganda broadcasts Sunday, claimed the sinking or damaging of 29 American warcraft off Iwo Jima and in Philippine waters, said the carrier task force attacking Tokyo had "apparently retreated" and reported a third American attempt to invade Iwo was repelled.

The broadcasts, picked up by the FCC, were not confirmed by American official quarters.

Tokyo said the bombardment of Iwo by big naval guns was continuing and that Japanese shore batteries were exchanging heavy salvos with the Yank men-of-war.

The Japanese agency Dometi reported the U. S. carrier task force, after sending swarms of planes against the Tokyo-Yokohama area for two days, apparently retreated southward. It attributed the "retreat" to "crippling blows" delivered by Japanese defenders.

An Imperial communique claimed 101 of the raiding naval planes were shot down by interceptors and 28 damaged. It said 17 Japanese planes were lost, some of them by self-blasting into the raiders, and ground losses were light.

The Japanese claimed 23 Yank warships were sunk or damaged off Iwo and 10 planes shot down during the attacks of Friday and Saturday. They listed as sunk a battleship, four cruisers, four landing transports, two mine sweepers and three warships of unidentified type. Damaged, they said, were one cruiser and eight landing transports.

JAP POCKETS ON CORREGIDOR BEING CLEARED

Way Reported Open For Ships To Enter Harbor

FEB 19 1945

Manila, Monday, Feb. 19 (AP)—American troops battled on the slopes and in the tunnels of Corregidor today to mop up Japanese pockets as Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed a new chapter of liberation in the freeing of 7,000 enemy hostages, 100 of them Americans, in Manila.

Friday's landings on Corregidor opened the entrance of Manila Bay to American warships.

[The Allied broadcasting station in Europe, quoting a late dispatch from Luzon, said United States 7th Fleet units already had steamed into Manila Bay "without incident"].

Take General Hospital

Americans fighting street by street in Manila battled into the huge Philippine General Hospital and wrested the thousands of Filipinos, Americans and other nationals from under Japanese gunfire.

The building for three days had been the scene of some of the bitterest fighting of the battle for Manila. A prime Japanese strong point, the enemy had big guns mounted in the upper floors.

At least one British subject and several other Europeans subsequently were found among the patients, refugees, doctors and nurses who had been huddled in the building.

The hungry, exhausted and terrified men, women and children rescued from the hospital building were quickly taken by the troops from the battle zone. It may be several days before a check of names can be completed.

Artillery Position Taken

In the communiqué, which also disclosed the capture of Malinta Hill, an artillery position on Corregidor, MacArthur took occasion to praise the American-Filipino defense of the fortress and Bataan in 1942 as "one of the decisive battles of the world."

"Bataan, with Corregidor the citadel of its external defense, made possible all that has happened since," he declared in a note appended to his regular communiqué.

"History, I am sure, will record it as one of the decisive battles of the world. Its long protracted struggle enabled the United Nations to gather strength to resist in the Pacific.

"Had it not held out, Australia would have fallen with incalculably disastrous results. Our triumphs of today belong equally to that dead army. Its heroism and sacrifice have been fully acclaimed but the great strategic results of that mighty defense are only now becoming fully apparent.

"The Bataan garrison was destroyed due to its dreadful handicaps but no army in history more thoroughly accomplished its mission. Let no man henceforth speak of it other than as of magnificent victory."

With the clean up of Corregidor rapidly becoming a business of digging or blowing Japanese from the caves and tunnels, the old walled city south of the Pasig River in Manila again became the center of interest.

As soon as mines can be cleared, warships are expected to help blast the Japanese out of their last holds in the city.

Fighting Eases Off

Fred Hampson, Associated Press Correspondent, reported from the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold's 14th Corps that fighting in downtown Manila eased off yesterday.

This lull was occasioned by Griswold's demand on the Japanese for surrender or release of thousands of hostages in the Intramuros. Possibly several thousand Japanese are still inside the walls after thirteen days of virtual siege.

Hampson said most of the Japanese guns behind the twenty-foot-high walls had been silenced and gaping holes had been made in the medieval masonry by American heavy siege guns.

Across Open Golf Course

But to reach the breached walls, American troops must cross an open golf course, laid over an old moat. This stretch of turf is still covered by Japanese machine guns.

Seventh Fleet units were shelling the Cavite shore line south of Corregidor to clear the Manila Bay entrance of enemy guns.

East of Manila a convoy of 21 trucks filled with Japanese troops was wiped out. Sharp patrol clashes were reported in the Sierra Madre foothills near by.

P-T boats operating in the Manila Bay area sank five small enemy craft. Others destroyed two coastal ships in San Bernardino Strait, between southeast Luzon Island and the northern tip of Samar.

MacArthur said an enemy torpedo-boat attack on American shipping near Manila Bay was repulsed with minor damage.

American planes ranging across the China Sea sank seven freighters in the Formosa-Nansei Islands area and destroyed rolling stock on Formosa proper. Another freighter-transport of 3,000 tons was sunk off the Indo-China coast. Several smaller ships were set afire.

Jap Can't Steal Home On Yanks

Manila, Feb. 18. (AP)—The Japanese officer should have known you can't steal home on the Yanks.

During the fighting for Manila's big baseball park the Yanks were in the outfield and the Japs at bat, holding the stands and home plate. During a lull in the fighting a Japanese officer wearing a sword, blithely walked out into clear view of third base. When the firing started the Japanese officer made a dash for home. He was out—for keeps—by the proverbial mile.

21 YANKS LIBERATED IN BATAAN VICTORY

MANILA, Feb. 18 — (AP) The 21 American and other Allied servicemen who Gen. Douglas MacArthur today reported had been liberated or rejoined American forces on Bataan included Col. Gyles Merrill, leader for nearly three years of guerrilla organization in the Zambales mountains of western Luzon.

Merrill, whose home is at Colorado Springs, Colo., escaped during the notorious march of death on Bataan in 1942. Merrill and several other officers carried out reconnaissance which paved the way for the American landings at Subic Bay on Jan. 29 and Mariveles on Feb. 15.

JAPANESE HIT BY OWN GUN

Naval Weapon on Nichols Field Used by Two Americans

MANILA, Feb. 18 (AP)—Lieut Cecil Curles of Baltimore and Pfc. Edward Rudd of Rome, N. Y., both of the Eleventh Airborne Division, found themselves in the midst of three blasted Japanese 5-inch naval guns around Nichols Field, south of Manila.

One of the guns looked pretty good, so Lieutenant Curles and Private Rudd gathered enough parts to make it work and turned it on Japanese emplacements.

"We found a Japanese ordnance manual but couldn't read it and neither of us knew anything about naval guns," Lieutenant Curles added, "so Rudd sighted through a hole and then loaded and locked it. We used a ten-yard extension on the lanyard and lay flat on the ground and fired. The gun didn't blow up so we tried again. I observed while Rudd aimed, loaded and fired. We got direct hits on a concrete machine shop fifty yards away and knocked out a pillbox.

"Now we know where the Japanese Navy is. It was dismantled and placed all over Nichols Field."

AMERICAN FORCES INVADE REICH AT TWO NEW POINTS

Montgomery Says Allied Armies Ready for Knockout Blows.

BIG DRIVE IMPENDING

British Field Marshal Tells Troops War Entering Final Round.

PARIS, Feb. 18 (AP) The Canadian First army smashed through outer defenses to within 1,000 yards of Goch today amid indications that the Germans were preparing to abandon this outflanked bastion at the threshold to the Ruhr industrial basin.

The U. S. Third and Seventh armies invaded Germany at two new points from the west and south as the feeling grew that the great Allied storm was gathering in the west.

Field Marshal Montgomery sent a message to his troops declaring that "we now come to the last and final round" in which knockout blows will be aimed "from more than one direction."

All-Out Drive Expected

The German radio, saying an all-out offensive was near, declared that Montgomery had thrown his British Second army into battle along-side the Canadian First army at the approaches to the Ruhr.

British infantry who cut the Goch-Calcar highway fought into the northeastern perimeter of Goch's defenses, and other forces were battling through anti-tank ditches and other obstacles little farther away on the north and northwest.

Patrols returning from the enemy lines before Goch said opposition was lighted than expected, the city of 11,000 was under ceaseless artillery and mortar fire, and all roads but one on the south were in Allied hands.

The U. S. Third army broadened its front in western Germany's Eifel hills to 32 miles, hacked out gains of nearly two miles, deepened a new breach in the westwall, and forced a crossing of the Enz river seven miles south of the big enemy base at Bitburg.

Five German towns were captured as the Third plunged five miles or more into Germany. Ten miles northwest of the fighting here, mechanized cavalry made a new crossing into the Reich near Vlanden.

Simultaneously, the U. S. Seventh army was disclosed to have re-invaded the Saar basin of Germany six miles southwest of Saarbruecken, biggest city and capital of the Saar.

There was no intimation that this was a big attack, but an announcement from the Sixth army group said heavy casualties were inflicted on enemy troops trying to infiltrate lines north of the Saar town of Auersmacher, three miles north of the French city of Sarreguemines.

Stiff fighting also was reported to the west at Gros-Bliederstroff, four and a half miles south of Saarbruecken, and two enemy counter-attacks with 15 tanks and self-propelled guns were launched east of Sarreguemines.

German patrols felt out U. S First army positions southeast of Aachen in the areas of Gemuend and Schleiden. One German prisoner said the high command planned to turn the biggest Rhine cities into fortresses and hold them long after Allied armies press on beyond.

Montgomery told his 21st army group—which by last official accounts embraces the U. S. Ninth as well as the British and Canadian armies—that the war had reached its final stage and with "the terrific successes of our Russian Allies on the Eastern front" victory was in sight.

Fierce Battles Raging

The battle in northwestern Germany reached a new peak of savagery on the 11th day of the offensive.

British infantry with fixed bayonets slashed through the outer defenses of Goch from positions a mile and a half to the northeast where the enemy line was split yesterday by a two and a half mile surge.

A front dispatch said Germans rose from concealed positions and met the charge with a withering fire, and a furious struggle was raging there tonight in mist and drizzling rain.

A force of 250 British heavy bombers strove to seal off the front by unloading 1,200 tons of high explosives and incendiaries on the feeder point of Wesel, in the western Ruhr basin 16 miles east of advanced British and Canadian forces.

Only one road and railway still were open out of the keystone of Goch, and these were raked by Field Marshal Montgomery's guns. His infantry closed to within a mile and a half of the city's ruins from the northwest, north and northeast.

Fight in Moyland Woods

Seven miles northeast of second important road center, Calcar, was hotly pressed by troops less than two miles away. They cleared most of Moyland woods—strewn with the corpses of attackers and German defenders—seized heights dominating Calcar and fought into Moyland itself.

Seven miles southwest of Goch, Scotch infantry seized Afferden and battled on south in a one-mile drive rolling up the enemy's powerful Maas river line, pressing back crack German troops rushed forward to prop up the drooping souht flank of the 25-mile front.

To the south, the U. S. Third army plunged as much as two and a half miles deeper into western Germany's Eifel mountains in attacks all along a 28-mile front.

In invaded the Reich there at a new point, and forced a crossing of the Enz river seven miles south of the West wall base at Bitburg.

Berlin radio declared that "D-day for the offensive demanded by Stalin at Yalta will be called in the immediate future." It predicted the big blow was coming on the U. S. Ninth army front northeast of Aachen, where the Americans now are 14 miles from Muenchen-Gladbach in the Ruhr basin.

Already, the DNB agency asserted, Allied patrols have taken on the character of reconnaissance in force and "artillery fire is being rained upon our positions by day and night."

The Germans counter-attacked repeatedly, but the defense seemed to lack co-ordination, possibly because the British yesterday hammered a wedge between Goch and Calcar, and cut direct communications between the two points.

One counter-blow tried to flatten this wedge and regain control of the Goch-Calcar highway, but it was warded off.

Scottish troops advancing from the north on Goch along the highway from Cleve pushed on south of Hervorst to within a mile and a half of the objective.

On the south flank, along the flooded Maas River, Scottish infantry struck stubborn resistance as they tried to cut the road from Goch to Bergen.

Bergen is the next apparent objective of this push against the Maas River line wnere the Germans have held off the Allies since autumn. Bergen is two and a half miles south of Afferden. Seventeen miles farther south is the German Maas strongpoint of Venlo.

DRIVE DELAYED OVER A MONTH

Late Canadian Start Laid To German Ardennes Push

With Canadian Army in Germany, Feb. 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl von Runstedt's Ardennes offensive forced Field Marshal Montgomery to postpone his present campaign in Germany by more than a month, it was disclosed tonight.

Under Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, the Canadian 1st Army, with powerful reinforcements, was scheduled to jump off east of Nijmegen into Germany the first week in January.

The planning had begun, and postponement came just three days after von Rundstedt swung his blow through the Ardennes. On January 16 it was decided to remount the offensive, and it began February 8 with both British and Canadian troops under Crerar's command.

This is a big drive.

28,000-Ton Barrage

More than 1,400 medium and heavy artillery, as well as other types of guns, laid down an estimated 28,000 tons of shells in the barrage which opened the Nijmegen campaign.

There were hundreds of infantry-carrying tanks and assault tanks, and hundreds of flame-throwers.

To move troops and fighting equipment into position, 35,000 vehicles traveled an average of 130 miles and used 1,300,000 gallons of fuel.

It had full air support of heavy and medium bombers and all the 2d Tactical Air Command and part of the 9th United States Air Force.

Struck Through Floods

The delay forced Montgomery to strike when rains and floods turned the battleground into a mire—and roads are scarce.

In the first week of January the ground was frozen and tanks could have operated. They have seen little action so far in this campaign.

There may or may not have been more air support in January. But with the cloudy weather which has marked the campaign to date, it is hard to see how air support could have been less.

The statistics show that Crerar had the weight to break right through the German line, where only one enemy division manned the sector, and with breaks from the weather he might have kept right on going in January.

KNOCKOUT IS ASKED BY MONTGOMERY

British General Says War Is Entering Final Round

21st Army Group Headquarters, Feb. 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, in a personal message to troops under his command, declared today "we now have come to the last and final round, and we want and will go for the knockout blow."

His order declared:

"The operations of the Allies on all fronts have now brought the German war to its final stage. There was a time some years ago when it did not seem possible that we could win this war. The present situation is that we cannot lose it: in fact, the terrific successes of our Russian Allies on the Eastern front have brought victory in sight.

Ready For Last Round

"In the 21st Army Group we stand ready for the last round. There are many of us who have fought through the previous rounds; we have won every round on points. We now come to the last and final round, and we want, and will go for, the knockout blow.

"The rules of the last round will be that we continue fighting till the final count: there is no time limit. We know our enemy well; we must expect him to fight hard to stave off defeat, possibly in the vain hope that we may crack before he does.

"But we shall not crack; we shall see this thing through to the end.

An Unusual Blow

"The last round may be long and difficult, and the fighting hard, but we now fight on German soil. We have got our opponent where we want him; and he is going to receive the knockout blow—a somewhat unusual one, delivered from more than one direction.

"You remember the poem written by a soldier of the 8th Army in Africa before going into battle, in one verse of which he described what he considered we were fighting for:

"Peace for the kids, our brothers freed,
A kinder world—cleaner breed."

"Let us see to it that we achieve this object, so well expressed by a fighting man of the British Empire.

Co-operation Noted

"And so we embark on the final round, in close co-operation with our American allies on our right and with complete confidence in the successful outcome of the onslaught being delivered by our Russian allies on the other side of the ring.

"Somewhat curious rules, you may say, but the whole match has been most curious. The Germans began this all-out contest, and they must not complain when in the last round they are hit from several directions at the same time.

"Into the ring, then, let us go, and do not let us relax until the knockout blow has been delivered.

"Good luck to you all—and God bless you."

Nazi Lauds U.S. Guns, Own Men

WITH THE UNITED STATES 3D ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 18 (AP).—Troops commanded by Lieutenant Colonel William H. Blakefield, of Berlin, Wis., captured the German village of Seamkweiler today on the Enz River, eight miles southwest of the German base at Bitburg. Among the captives was a German officer who declared: "With your artillery and my infantry you could be far beyond this town by tomorrow."

WILL ROGERS, JR., WINS BRONZE STAR AWARD

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY, Feb. 18—(AP) Former Congressman Will Rogers, Jr., has been promoted to first lieutenant and awarded the Bronze Star for heroism in the December battle of the Belgium bulge, it was announced today.

Rogers, from Beverly Hills, Calif., is a platoon leader in a reconnaissance company of a tank destroyer battalion attached to the Seventh armed division. He led a patrol against a German force which threatened to cut off part of the division's withdrawal from St. Vith.

Germans Warned To Be Truthful With U.S. Army

Aachen, Germany, Feb. 18 (AP)—All Germans were warned today to deal truthfully with American occupation authorities.

The warning was contained in a court opinion read to Otto Meyer, sentenced yesterday to ten years' imprisonment for giving false information.

"The American Army in its dealings with the German people will at no time be satisfied with anything less than full and complete candor," said Major Arthur Limbach, president of the court which tried Meyer. "Any violation of this precept will meet with severe punishment."

Reds Smash Toward Baltic, Encircle Vistula Bastion

Drive Within 15 Miles of Goerlitz, Capture Rail Hub of Sagan.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 19—(AP) Russian troops driving toward the Baltic coast yesterday encircled the Vistula river stronghold of Grudziadz, 57 miles south of Danzig, while Berlin announced that other Soviet forces had swept to within 15 miles of Goerlitz, Silesia's second city on the upper Neisse river near the German Saxon frontier.

A violent struggle raged on the muddy southeastern approaches to Berlin, where Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army captured the big rail center of Sagan, 86 miles southeast of the Reich capital.

Overrun Prison Camps

Several prisoner of war camps, one of which held Allied airmen shot down over Germany were located around Sagan. The fate of these prisoners has not yet been determined, but it is likely the Germans moved them westward. Berlin had reported the fall of the town of 18,000 on Saturday.

The Russians also recaptured Naumburg, another Bober river stronghold 13 miles north of Sagan. It first was taken on Friday, and the Germans claimed to have retaken it the following day.

Berlin reports acknowledged that other Soviet forces had crossed the Bober farther north in their effort to turn Berlin's eastern defenses along the central Oder river.

Moscow's communique gave no details of the struggle in this area, but Soviet front dispatches said that Russian troops were menacing Cottbus and Guben, 47 and 51 miles southeast of Berlin, and that those two targets were being raided heavily by Soviet bombers.

Reds Near Cottbus

Russian infantry was reported within 10 miles east of Cottbus after crossing the Neisse river north of Forst.

Berlin claimed that these spearheads, including one that thrust through Sommerfeld, 12 miles west of Naumburg, had been cut off.

In the push toward Dresden, Saxony capital, Red army tank forces were reported by Berlin to have reached Thi[illegible] miles east of Goerlitz and 65 miles east of Dresden. At this point they were only three miles from the road junction of Lauban, on the Queis river. This river was crossed Saturday farther to the north by Soviet forces moving to outflank Goerlitz.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army surrounded Grudziadz, a city of 50,000, in the tenth encirclement operation of the Winter offensive. Gaining up to five miles they captured Gross Dragasz, on the west bank of the Vistula directly opposite Grudziadz, and also drove through Montau, on the west bank six miles north of Grudiadz and four miles south of the west-banw town of Nowe (Neuenburg). At this point, and at captured Warlubien, five miles west of Montau, the Russians were only 51 miles south of Danzig.

Both sides were hurling in reinforcements, and Berlin said the situation was "critical" in that Polish corridor area. The Russian intention, one German broadcast said, was to reach the Baltic and seal off another big block of German troops in a repetition of the maneuver that trapped perhaps 20 Nazi divisions in East Prussia.

In German Pomerania the Russians said their troops beat off big German infantry and tank counterattacks south and southeast of Stargard, 20 miles east of Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port at the mouth of the Oder river.

Many Nazis Captured

Seventy miles east of Stargard the Russians liquidated another surrounded group of Germans north of fallen Schneidemuehl, capturing 2,000, including a colonel who was chief of the engineering service in Schneidemuehl.

In that same area the Russians the day before had announced the killing of 8,000 Germans and the capture of 2,000.

The Soviet communique also announced that a surrounded German group south of Schwerin, 75 miles east of Berlin, had given up after a prolonged siege. A total of 1,245 prisoners were taken as well as 48 guns, 25 mortars, 15 flame throwers, 230 machineguns, 800 automatic rifles and 40 trucks.

The Germans had dug a permanent strongpoint in the fortified area near the Polish frontier weeks ago when the Russian frontal drive on Berlin passed them. Thirty steel and concrete defense installations encircled this stronghold and Moscow said the Germans gave up only after very powerful Russian guns had been turned on the fortress.

A few Germans still were holding out in the citadel in Poznan, besieged western Polish city, the communique said. A Soviet front reported broadcasting over the Moscow radio said that on a trip to the city he had learned that the number of inhabitants, 270, in 1939, had been reduced by more than 100,000 during the first month of the German occupation in Poland. These were either exterminated or deported to worker and concentration camps, he said.

Breslau, Silesian capital eighty-six miles east of Goerlitz, still was under siege, and a "Pravda" report from Moscow said the Russians had smashed a strong defense ring around the encircled city of 630,000. Attacking on a fifteen-mile front southwest and south of Breslau, the Russians gained up to three miles as they captured Landau, fourteen miles southwest of the city, and Pudigau, nineteen miles south.

For the second day Moscow reported heavy German counter-attacks east of the Danube city of Komarom (Komarno), eighty-six miles east of Vienna, and said forty-three German tanks were wrecked Saturday in that area.

Russian Tank Hero Who Headed Reich Invasion Dies of Wounds

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 19—(AP) Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky, brilliant 37-year-old Jewish tank commander whose Third White Russian army was the first to invade Germany, died yesterday of wounds suffered on the battlefield in East Prussia, Moscow announced early today.

The conqueror of Minsk, Wilno, Kaunas and most of East Prussia died "from a heavy wound received on the battlefield of East Prussia," said the official announcement.

Cherniakhovsky was the youngest general in the Red army, the youngest army group commander, and one of the nation's outstanding strategists.

Three days ago he was the subject of an order of the day by Premier Marshal Stalin for his troops' gallantry in the battle of East Prussia.

The official announcement of his death said in part:

"The Council of People Commissars of the U.S.S.R., the Peoples Commissariat for Defense and the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union announced with deep regret that on Feb. 18th the commander of the Third White Russian front, Army General Ivan Danilovich Cherniakhovsky died from a heavy wounds received on the battle field of East Prussia."

A broadcast from Moscow said the Soviet Union would express its gratitude to the fallen general by granting 125,000 rubles (approximately $10,400 at the diplomatic rate) to his family, giving his widow, Anastasya, 2,000 rubles monthly until their education is completed, as well as erecting a statue in his honor at Wilno, capital of the Lithuanian Soviet Socialist republic.

Cherniakhovsky's funeral, "at state expense," also is to be held at Wilno, since he was credited with the liberation of Lithuania.

"In the person of comrade Cherniakhovsky," the announcement continued, "the state has lost one of her most talented young military commanders who came forward in the course of the fatherland war."

The conqueror of much of East Prussia and all Lithuania, Cherniakhovsky will be given a hero's funeral in Wilno, capital of the Lithuanian Soviet republic, where a monument will be erected in his honor.

"The funeral will be paid for by the state," said the official announcement.

Cherniakhovsky's forces had a small toehold inside East Prussia when the present great Soviet offensive began.

Facing probably the greatest concentration of prepared defenses on the Eastern front, he chose to attack in the most obvious sector and crush the German defenses.

After artillery preparation of unprecedented fury, his forces smashed through the Insterburg gap, overcame line after line of defense works and closed in on the East Prussian capital of Koenigsberg.

Cherniakhovsky died as his troops were on the verge of completing the task assigned him by the Soviet High command. His army has conquered all except about 550 square miles of East Prussia's 14,283, has encircled the German garrison in Koenigsberg, the capital, and with the aid of Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army, has trapped the remnants of 20 German divisions in a small pocket below Koenigsberg.

The General was a student and protege of the late Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, and he followed his master's tactics more than any other Red army leader.

Young Cherniakhovsky, like Vatutin, was a great offensive commander, one who hung on doggedly and attacked repeatedly. Because of its deeply staggered fortifications, East Prussia has been one of the fiercest battlefields of the entire war in the east.

On May 14, 1942, he became a major general, the equivalent of a brigadier general in the American Army. He was then in the battles west of Voronezh, the northern flank of the Stalingrad front.

He really won his spurs in the fighting for Kursk in the summer of 1943, and from that victory went on with Vatutin through the Ukraine, taking part in the Red Army's crossing of the Dnepr River and the capture of Kiev, Ukraine capital. He became a full general June 26, 1944.

Cherniakhovsky always traveled in an American-made jeep, of which he was very fond and which he sometimes drove himself.

Upon the death from an operation of Vatutin, he took a command under Marshal Gregory Zhukov. Cherniakhovsky became a full general June 26, 1944, and at the beginning of the Soviet summer offensive last year, was given command of the 3d White Russian Front at the age of 36.

Konev Stars Among Russians In Forcing River Crossings

Moscow, Feb. 18 (AP)—Square-jawed Marshal Ivan Stepanovich Konev, whose armies are beating at the southeastern gates of Berlin, is the star "river buster" among Red Army commanders.

Of all Stalin's field commanders, Konev is perhaps most feared by the enemy.

In the dark days of 1941 he was known to the ranks as "the general who never retreated." He did, in fact, give some ground, but within a month of the start of Hitler's invasion, Konev's name was linked with the first big Russian counter-attacks.

In Battle Of Moscow

During the battle of Moscow, Konev went on a real offensive rampage, recapturing such strongpoints as Klin, Kalinin and Toropets. Before he was halted, his men had covered more than 200 miles.

But it is as a "river buster" that he has been a nemesis of the German supreme command in the east. The Oder is only the latest in a list of great water barriers he has spanned, a list that includes the Dnepr, Bug, Dnestr, Prut and Vistula.

The Vistula crossing last summer was typical of his generalship. Other Soviet Army groups reaching the broad Polish waterway were stopped cold, but Konev's advanced units, spurred on by the idolized "old man," shot to the left bank some hundred miles south of Warsaw even ahead of large numbers of the retreating enemy.

Source Of Drive Into Reich

This Sandomierz bridgehead, which Hitler is reported to have called "a pistol pointed at Germany's head," was held by Konev against terrific counterattacks. Not only did the Germans fail to shove him back into the Vistula, they at last had to be content with ringing his salient with a triple line of defenses which he cracked within 48 hours of starting his winter offensive January 12.

Just as Konev's penetration into Romania a year ago was the basis of the Red Army's later sweep through the Balkans to western Hungary, so the Sandomierz bridgehead was a strategic source for much of Russian success in carrying the war into eastern Germany.

Konev's tactics combine surprise, quick exploitation of enemy weaknesses, and ability to maneuver regardless of difficult terrain.

Mud Fails To Halt Him

Ukrainian mud failed to halt him in March, 1944. His wide-tracked high-bellied tanks plowed forward hundreds of miles to Romanian soil.

Earlier in breaking the Donets defenses, he launched the initial assault at the most naturally difficult point—a marshy area where the enemy least expected to fight.

In spanning the Dnepr he attacked at eighteen places. At seven he was repulsed, but at eleven he got the footholds he wanted and rapidly developed them.

Last month he surged from the Vistula to the Oder in a dozen days and a few hours later the Germans admitted he had already established at least one bridgehead. Within a fortnight his new buildup was completed and he was fighting west of the Oder on a wide front

RAF PLANES POUND MANNHEIM, BERLIN

American Fortresses Hammer Linz, Blast Nazi Attempt to Quit Italy.

CHAMBERLIN

LONDON, Feb. 18—(AP) Swift Mosquito bombers of the RAF smashed at Mannheim and Berlin tonight as the unprecedented Allied aerial offensive on Germany rolled into its sixth day.

Just before dusk, other RAF bombers blasted Wesel, the main German communications center on the Canadian army front, with 1,200 tons of bombs.

Weather had grounded American and British long range bombers during the daylight hours, but German alarms tonight indicated that three separate waves of Allied planes were over the Reich.

One force was reported over Helgoland bay off the northwest German coast, another over western and southern Germany and the third over Brandenburg province, apparently headed for Berlin.

Since Tuesday night, nearly 7,500 American and British bombers have hammered at least 26 German rail and oil centers between the Rhine and the Russian front.

Wesel has been a target three times during this period. It is on the Rhine, 16 miles ahead of the Canadian First army.

American Flying Fortresses bombed communications at the Austrian city of Linz today as other British and American planes ranged over northern Italy in a stepped-up air offensive aimed at hampering any Nazi effort to withdraw from the Italian front.

Today's attack, described by the RAF as "heavy" was timed to disrupt the German efforts to repair railways and clear roads through the town which were choked with rubble from previous raids.

German reinforcements being brought up to meet the Canadian drive must move through Wesel and across its bridge or be delayed by taking roundabout routes.

the most relentless aerial bombardment ever aimed at the Reich.

The blow at Linz, 95 miles west of Vienna, was the sixth one in as many days delivered by Italy-based heavy bombers against Austrian communications. It was the first time since mid-December that U. S. 15th Air force long range forces have been able to operate so many days in succession.

Heavy clouds compelled the Fortresses to use aiming instruments and results were not observed. Lightnings and Mustangs escorted the bombers, but initial reports said enemy fighters remained away from the formations.

Thunderbolts and B-25s of the 12th Air force struck at Brenner pass line bridges at Lavis and Ala despite bad weather. Thunderbolts also bombed ammunition dumps near Bologna and hit two bridges near Genoa. RAF Spitfires and Mustangs pounded bridges in northeastern Italy.

The activity of the Italy-based planes came as fog shut off the bomber lanes from Britain to Germany checking the momentum of

Tokyo Reports Panic Here Caused by Rocket Bomb

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 18—Tokyo broadcast today a propaganda story reporting "panic in the central and western parts of the United States caused by a novel type of Japanese weapon described as a kind of rocket bomb." It said that incendiaries and high explosives made in Japan were reported to have caused forest and other fires in several parts of the United States.

"Japanese authorities refuse to comment on this," Tokyo added.

Hitler Decorates 3 German Generals

London, Feb. 18 (AP)—Hitler has awarded decorations to Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt and two other generals, the German radio announced tonight.

Von Rundstedt, Western front commander, received the Iron Cross Oak Leaves with Swords, as did Infantry General Guenther Blumentritt, who "is to command an army," the broadcast said. The higher award of Iron Cross Oak Leaves with Swords and Diamonds was given to Panzer General Hasso von Manteuffel, also a Western front general.

Reports Nazi Ship Sunk, 7,700 Lost

London, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Finnish radio reported tonight the sinking of the 25,000-ton German liner Wilhelm Gustloff with the loss of 7,700 persons while she was evacuating refugees and sailors from Danzig.

The broadcast did not state how or when the German ship was sunk, but said that of the 3,700 naval personnel and 5,000 refugees aboard, only 1,000 were saved.

[The Wilhelm Gustloff, a passenger liner before the war, had been converted into a troop transport.]

Tells Of Sea Battle

The French radio, quoting a Stockholm dispatch, said "a big naval battle is in progress in the Skagerrak," a stretch of water between Denmark and Norway, and that if confirmed "we must consider it a prelude to some important events." There was no confirmation here of such a battle, which by this account had been raging since midnight Saturday.

The Moscow radio earlier had broadcast a report from Stockholm saying the German admiralty was making preparations for scuttling its ships.

German Exiles Present Plea to Convert Reich

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 18—A group of approximately 200 exiled anti-Nazi Germans in England aske the British Government today to allow free Germans to accompany the British Army at the front for the organization of resistance against Hitlerism among German troops.

A spokesman for the movement said the leaders considered it fundamental that Germany must make retribution and that the German people cannot escape responsibility for the war.

The group, headed by co-Chairmen Dr. R. R. Kuczynski, German professor of sociology and economics, and Dr. Karl Baschwitski, former legal adviser to the German Miners' Confederation, said it had received no official support from the British Foreign Office but was keeping the Government informed of its actions.

It also asked the British Government for the opportunity to address Germany over the radio and to enter the German prisoner of war camps "to break the influence of National Socialism."

UNION CONFERENCE FOR 40-HOUR WEEK

LONDON, Feb. 18—(AP) Universal adoption of a 40-hour workweek, housing programs, government rest homes for workers, and two vacations were urged in resolutions at the close of the World Trade Union conference.

The 40-hour work-week was asked without prejudice to nations where even shorter hours might be justified. The conference likewise supported continued controls over food prices and distribution.

A committee of labor leaders representing unions in 40 nations will convene tomorrow to lay the foundation for a new world Trade Union federation designed to give labor a voice in peace settlements and reconstruction.

A greater voice by organized labor in national economy and production was advocated by three delegates in interviews.

Jean Brodier of France declared "It is high time to do something about workers' participating in national economy, and in the direction of industrial enterprises," and August Lindberg of Sweden said "We want labor to have a great part in administration of production to insure expansion and betterment of social security."

John Asfour of Palestine said "We want to implement statements made here for a free, democratic world and suppress imperialist greed and rival economic interests between the nations of the world."

Mrs. Gould Says She Kept Tapestries From Nazis

Paris, Feb. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Jay Gould, under French investigation for alleged financial dealings with the Nazis, said today she had snatched two priceless French tapestries from Field Marshal Goering by consigning them to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

"They were purchased long ago by my husband," she said, "and we were sure that as soon as Goering heard about them he would take them. So I turned them over to the American Embassy for the Metropolitan Museum. I believe they are still in the embassy basement."

French officials offered no comment today on their investigation of the Gould case. Mrs. Gould said yesterday she had invested more than $100,000 in a Monte Carlo bank to keep the Nazis from taking her wealthy 67-year-old husband to a German concentration camp.

CAFFERY ON WAY TO SEE ROOSEVELT

President-De Gaulle Meeting Believed Object Of Trip

Paris, Feb. 18 (AP)—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery has left to visit President Roosevelt somewhere in the Mediterranean and it was believed here tonight that one purpose of his mission was to try to smooth ruffled French-American relations and difficulties between the President and Gen. Charles de Gaulle in getting together following the Yalta conference of the Big Three.

This has been interpreted by some as meaning French-American relations have worsened, not among the people, but regarding the chiefs of the two nations.

French officials were disappointed about being left out of the Crimea conference, but still would have welcomed Roosevelt-de Gaulle conversations which might have smoothed out difficulties.

De Gaulle Asked To Algiers

To this end, it was learned on good authority, the French renewed their invitation to Roosevelt to visit Paris, and would have been satisfied if he had visited southern France.

Instead, it was further learned reliably, they received a message Roosevelt would be willing to talk to De Gaulle in Algiers. This was a double rebuff. Not only was it a refusal to come to France, but also an invitation to the head of the French State to territory which

An enemy patrol was beaten back by 5th Army units east of Monte Cerere. It left equipment behind. A few hundred yards away the extreme left flank of the 8th Army positions came under heavy German shell and mortar fire. In the same general area one 8th Army patrol seized an enemy position after an Allied artillery preparation and shot up German patrols.

At Abetaia, 27 miles southwest of Bologna, a 5th Army patrol suffered casualties when it touched off a booby trap. No changes in the line were reported anywhere along the front.

Italy-Based Bombers Raid Linz, Hit Nazi Escape Lines

Brenner Pass Bridges Targets

Thunderbolts and Mitchells of the 12th Air Force struck at Brenner Pass line bridges at Lavis and Ala despite bad weather. Thunderbolts also bombed ammunition dumps near Bologna and hit two bridges near Genoa. RAF Spitfires and Mustangs pounded bridges in northeastern Italy.

Ground forces of the Italian front have engaged the Germans in brisk patrol actions, Allied headquarters said.

Official reports omitted any mention of a possible beginning of a German withdrawal from the present Italian front battle area. Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark has suggested that such a withdrawal might be imminent.

Casualties were reported on both sides in the patrol actions. The most active sector was at the function of the [illegible] and [illegible] about a dozen miles southeast of

REPORTED IN VENICE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Serious trouble" has broken out in Venice in Nazi-occupied Italy and Italian patriots are fighting German soldiers in the city's streets, says a report in the Geneva newspapers, La Suisse, quoted by the OWI yesterday.

Public buildings and the principal hotels in Venice had been occupied by Nazi SS (Elite Guard) troops who have executed 15 hostages "as reprisals for acts of sabotage," the report said. The paper added that Venice was suffering from famine intensified by recent floods.

Exchange Ship Due To Sail In Few Days

Stockholm, Feb. 18 (AP)—Arrangements for the departure of the exchange ship Drottningholm carrying Argentine diplomats and their families home are virtually complete and the ship is expected to leave Gothenburg for Lisbon within the next few days, a Swedish Foreign Office source said today.

So far is known here, the scheduled exchange will not be affected by the Argentinian protest to the German Government concerning denial of safe conduct to some of the diplomats.

The nation serving as protecting power for Argentinian interests is Switzerland and Sweden's position simply is that of "host" to the diplomats awaiting transfer.

Russian General Promoted

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Supreme Soviet today promoted Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's chief of staff, Alexander Nikolaievich Bogolubov, from lieutenant general to colonel general, in recognition of the 2d White Russian Army's successes in East Prussia and the Polish Corridor.

PRAVDA AIMS AT O'KONSKI

Says Wisconsin GOP "Talks Like Goebbels"

Moscow, Feb. 18 (AP)—Pravda today assailed United States Representative Alvin E. O'Konski for his criticism of the Yalta declaration on Poland. The Communist newspaper also attacked ex-Premier Stanislas Mikolajczyk, of the London Polish Government, who Red Star had hinted might participate in a reorganized Warsaw regime.

Pravda spoke out on the eve of negotiations here to revise the Warsaw government. The Crimea conference called for "a broader democratic basis with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad," preliminary to recognition by the United States and Britain.

"Speaks Like Goebbels"

O'Konski, Pravda said, had repeated "a dirty insinuation of Fascist propaganda concerning liberated Poland and the Baltic."

"Against a background of unprecedented unanimity of view toward the Crimea conference in the United States and England, the speech of Republican O'Konski attracted general attention," Pravda observed. "From the tribune of the House of Representatives he spoke like Goebbels. Most surprising was that some Republicans in the House approved this political buffoonery. Mr. O'Konski is opposed to a long list of prominent members of the American Congress, including former isolationists, who welcomed the Crimea decisions."

[O'Konski, Wisconsin Republican, told the House last Tuesday that the settlement over Poland represented a success for Propaganda Minister Goebbels "second only to that of Munich." The son of Polish-born parents, he declared "the selling out of Poland is a stab in the back to freedom . . ., a denunciation of the Atlantic Charter."]

Mikolajczyk Also Target

Pravda said the Polish Government in London had "been acting in unison with Berlin," adding:

"Mikolajczyk has aligned himself with Arciszewski (Tomasz Arciszewski, premier of the London regime), having made a statement against the Crimea decisions in the press."

Pravda's disposal of Mikolajczyk as an assumed adherent of "Polish reactionaries, who have placed themselves outside the ranks of the United Nations" came two days after Red Star's article. The army newspaper had welcomed a statement it said he made disassociating himself from the anti-Crimea stand of the exiled government. He had hinted he and numerous other Poles abroad "will be found ready to take part in the forthcoming reorganization of the Polish Government."

Diplomats here predicted the Polish negotiations would be swift. Officials of the Warsaw regime were jubilant at what they regard as de facto recognition already vouchsafed them by the United States and Britain.

O'Konski's Response

Representative O'Konski, interviewed at Milwaukee, said:

"If anyone else called me a Fascist I would be very worried. I despise Fascists and Nazis with my whole soul, but when Pravda calls me a Fascist I am not worried because they call anyone who does not agree with the Russian position on anything.

"First Pravda criticizes Mikolajczyk because they do not want him. They do not intend to negotiate with him, and they do not intend that he shall participate in any conference in connection with the Yalta meeting for settling the Polish boundary question. Because Mikolajczyk is not 100 per cent in agreement with the Russian position

Willing For 90% Compromise

"The Polish Government in London would be willing to compromise 90 per cent if they knew the dividing line would be all the farther Russia would go. However, because they won't go the other ten per cent Russia refuses to negotiate with them. They would not have Mikolajczyk if he went to Moscow on his hands and knees, pleading."

O'Konski expressed great regret that he could find no occasion where President Roosevelt disagreed with Marshal Stalin.

"What angered Pravda at me," O'Konski continued, "is my inserting in the Congressional Record the background of the Lublin Government. Pravda says the Polish Government has been acting in unison with Berlin, which is just the same as saying they are collaborating with Berlin. That is a dirty contemptible lie, because there has not been one Polish collaboration with Berlin."

EgyptiansBack American Plan For Free Press

Newspaper Association Empowers U. S. Editors to Express Its Approval

CAIRO, Feb. 18 (AP).—The Egyptian Journalists' Syndicate empowered the three-man delegation of the American Society of Newspaper Editors today to act in its behalf in obtaining world-wide freedom of information after the war.

The syndicate's statement, issued after a session with Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, and Ralph E. McGill, editor of "The Atlanta Constitution," was one of the strongest yet received by the A. S. N. E. committeemen in support of world-wide press freedom.

Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism and the third member of the delegation, is recovering from an acute sinus infection and is expected to leave the hospital shortly. He will be unable to go to Turkey with Messrs. Forest and McGill, but will join them before they proceed to India.

Fikry Abazza Bey, president of the syndicate, drafted the statement, approved unanimously. It said: "Egyptian journalists, newspaper owners, publishers and writers assembled today on the premises of the Journalists' Syndicate in Cairo to honor members of the American newspaper editors' delegation, support the idea of freedom of press and information and see in it the greatest guaranty for the peace and welfare of all nations and consider the American delegates as their own delegates empowered to demand on their behalf this freedom."

Messrs. Forrest and McGnl thanked the organization and said its resolution would be added to the list of similar statements obtained from newspaper men in other countries. Pointing out that they were functioning as a fact-finding group, the Americans said they were concerned at present only with explaining the proposal to embody the project into the peace treaties.

GANDHI LOOKS FOR NEW WAR

Assails Arrest Of All-India Party Members

Bombay, Feb. 18 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi today predicted a new and bloodier war unless the problem of India and other nations like it is solved.

Criticizing the Government on the recent arrest of certain members of the All-India Congress, Gandhi declared in a statement:

"If things go on as they are doing in India, the victory that the Allies will have will be only so-called, because they will also have India and other nations in the same plight bleeding at their feet.

Sees New Monster Rising

"Such victory can only lead in the near future to a war bloodier—if such a thing is possible—than the one that will have closed, for victory at the expense of India will mean that out of the ashes of Fascism, Nazism and Japanese militarism will have risen a new monster that will seek to eat all it sees—and in the attempt will be eaten up, leaving I know not what.

"In August, 1942, instead of needlessly precipitating a quarrel with the people, if the authority had listened to the pleading of the Congress, India would have enjoyed independence and the war would already have ended with honor for the Allies and happiness for the suppressed peoples of the earth. That is my retrospection.

Calls Conditions Impossible

"What are the Government's protestations about Indian independence worth if they will not tolerate Congress' constructive movement, except on conditions impossible of acceptance.

"Are they not satisfied with the extraordinary power they possess? Must they keep in custody without trial the best-known as well as the least-known Indians? Must there be re-arrest of released persons the moment they speak and act as free men if their speech or act does not please authority?"

Bomb Attacks Assist In Drive On Mandalay

Calcutta, Feb. 18 (AP)—American and British heavy and medium bombers of the Eastern Air Command were thrown into the battle for Mandalay today. They pounded troop concentrations and supply dumps on the enemy's land routes south of Burma's second city.

The heaviest Allied air attack was delivered at the Japanese-held villages of Tabe and Polaywa, which overnight have expanded into major communications and supply centers, feeding men and war materials both north to Mandalay and west to the Irrawaddy River defense positions.

Complete Ramree Conquest

Meanwhile, British and Indian troops, in co-operation with units of the British and Indian navy, completed the conquest of Ramree Island, clearing it of all but a few enemy stragglers.

These troops inflicted 600 casualties on the Japanese and now have gained an island springboard to launch drives toward the important mainland seaport of Taungup and possibly push inland to Prome, a key road center on the Irrawaddy 150 miles northwest of Rangoon.

In the final phase of the 26-day Ramree Island campaign British ships sank scores of enemy troop boats seeking safety on the mainland.

While Allied heavy bombers concentrated on the Mandalay sector other formations ranged through southern Burma and into Thailand, blasting bridges and airfields.

ALLIED TROOPS CROSS IRRAWADDY IN BURMA

LONDON, Feb. 18 — (AP) A Reuters dispatch from Burma said tonight the British 14th army had crossed the Irrawaddy river 50 miles below Mandalay and a new landing had been made on Burma's west coast in twin blows designed to cut off Japanese retreat.

The Irrawaddy bridgehead, first to be established below Mandalay, held firm under fierce but uncoordinated Japanese counter-attacks, the front dispatch said. Crossings here would keep the enemy from using the river for escape when the city finally is assaulted.

The new landings were reported on the Arakan coast, southeast of Akyab. The report said the 25th Indian division had pushed inland a mile and a half, cutting the main highway down which the Japanese are trying to escape before British forces who put ashore at Akyab in the original landings on the west coast.

JAPANESE REGAIN CANTON LINE TOWN

Chinese Lose Pingshek, 165 Miles North of Port City—Foe Threatens Ichang

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 18 (AP)—Counter-attacking Japanese, attempting to close a gap in the Canton-Hankow railway, have recaptured the Kwangtung Province border town of Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, the Chinese High Command announced tonight.

Chinese forces recently carved out the twenty-five-mile gap on the rail line into which the enemy now is advancing. The Japanese struck in the mountainous region between Pingshek and the near-by town of Ichang in Hunan Province. While one enemy column retook Pingshek and pushed northward another struck toward the railroad east of Ichang, the Chinese said.

In Kiangsi Province Chinese troops continued their attempts to sever the Japanese supply line from Hengyang to the lost air base cities of Suichwan and Kanhsien. Chinese units have attacked Japanese positions nine miles south and eighteen miles southeast of Lienhwa, one of the key points on this supply route.

The Chinese also have thrown back a Japanese counter-attack nine miles south of Yungsin, another key point farther east where the Japanese line bends southward to Suichwan and Kanhsien.

Fighting continued east of the Canton-Hankow railroad town of Chenhsien in Hunan Province. The Japanese there are battling to safeguard their grip on the line.

The United States Fourteenth Air Force announced it had destroyed fifty-five Japanese aircraft and damaged sixty-nine others between Feb. 8 and Feb. 14. Most of the total resulted from the strike against Tsingtao on Shantung peninsula by the Chinese-American wing Feb. 10.

In wide sweeps against Japanese-held railways in interior China Fourteenth Air Force planes destroyed two locomotives and damaged fifteen and hit four loaded trains. Heavy bombers hit two enemy vessels in Tongking

Nelson Rockefeller Sees Unity at Mexican Parley

Session on Wednesday Delegates Begin Arriving for MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18 (AP).—Assistant Secretary of State Nelson Rockefeller and eight Latin-American Ambassadors to the United States arrived by plane today to attend the inter-American conference here, scheduled to open formally on Wednesday.

Rockefeller, alternate delegate to Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr., issued a statement in which he said the United States anticipates that the meeting will be "an effective demonstration of inter-American co-operation."

Diplomatic Gesture, View In Washington

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Argentina suddenly has gone verbally tough with Germany, but the words appear designed largely for the ears of American foreign office chiefs opening a conference in Mexico City February 21.

First reaction here was that Argentina might be maneuvering toward a declaration of war, belatedly joining the solid American front against the Axis in an effort to regain diplomatic recognition.

But developments today, indicating that the point of dispute either had been conceded by Germany or never was a very big one in the first place, tended to discount that chance.

Argentina War Drift Topic At Mexico City

Mexico City, Feb. 18 (AP)—Reports that Argentina might declare war on Germany within the next week prompted much discussion tonight among delegates who have arrived here for the inter-American conference.

Several Latin-American diplomats said they believed Argentina might take the step in a final effort to end her diplomatic isolation before the other republics of the hemisphere discuss her case.

One delegate, who refused to be quoted by name, said Argentina was planning an announcement of her entrance into the war Wednesday, the day on which the conference here will open. Some other delegates were inclined to doubt that there would be a declaration of war.

Argentina was not invited to the meeting here of "American republics co-operating in the United Nations war effort."

War May Not Clear Argentina

Heretofore a declaration of war has been a condition of acceptance into the United Nations family, but it seemed unlikely that it would prove effective for Argentina in view of the attitude toward her evidenced by the more influential of the American governments.

Assistant Secretary of State Nelson Rockefeller, who arrived here today for the conference in company with eight Latin-American Ambassadors to Washington, was silent on the Argentine question.

Galo Plazao, Ecuadorian Ambassador to the United States, however, stated that he expected his nation's delegation would "do its best to get the Argentine question settled."

Rockefeller, alternate delegate to Secretary of State Edward Stettinius, issued a statement in which he said the United States anticipates that the meeting will be "an effective demonstration of inter-American co-operation."

ARGENTINA MAY WAR ON REICH

FEB 19 1945

Protest To Germany Over Diplomats Seen As Step

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius and Acting Brazilian Foreign Minister Pedro Leao Velloso left together today by plane for Mexico City to attend the inter-American conference.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 18 (AP)—Argentina's protest to Germany against a "threat" to deny safe conduct to some Argentina diplomats is regarded as a long stride toward war with Germany and Japan.

It comes during a series of apparent steps back toward the democratic fold.

Argentina has broken diplomatic relations with Germany, and diplomats are being exchanged. The protest charged the Germans threatened to retain from Argentines now in Sweden a number equal to the Germans now in Lisbon to whom, it said, the British had refused safe conducts. It asserted this would be a hostile act.

Not War Cause "As Yet"

Acting Foreign Minister Cesar Ameghino said the matter was not considered of sufficient gravity to lead to a declaration of war at the moment.

It was regarded as unlikely that any decisive step would be taken until Germany had time to reply to the note, sent yesterday through the Swiss Government. Press comment indicated wide popular support of the Government's action.

Spain Reports War Is Likely

[Berlin radio without comment broadcast a Spanish report that Argentina might declare war on the Reich.

[The British Foreign Office declined comment on the controversy over exchange of German and Argentine diplomats.]

At home, the Argentine Administration has eliminated some nationalists and restored to their jobs a group of teachers removed a year ago for signing a manifesto in defense of democracy. It removed extreme Rightist administrators from five universities and restored the institutions' former autonomy to elect their own administration. It also has suppressed two pro-Axis newspapers.

EXPECT NEW PARTY TO ARISE IN JAPAN

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tokyo radio says a new political party soon will arise in Japan sponsored by the Imperial Rule Assistance Political society (IRAPS), parliamentary wing of Nippon's powerful totalitarian party, which has been severely critical of Premier Kuniaki Kioso's government.

A broadcast heard by the Federal Communications commission reported IRAPS president, Adm. Seizo Kobayashi, had conferred with Koiso and in "the next two or three days" the IRAPS will select a committee to form the new party.

The broadcast gave no hint as to how this political move would affect Koiso's government, but observers in the United States and China have speculated that recent American military successes in the Philippines and the Navy carrier plane raids on Tokyo could produce the fall of the Premier.

The government of Koiso's predecesor, Gen. Hideki Tojo, could not survive the American capture of Saipan and Guam last July. Koiso succeeded Tojo July 23.

Members of the IRAPS committee to form the new party will include former members of the both Houses of the Japanese Diet, representatives of all societies and leaders of the central and district areas, the broadcast said.

During the recent Diet session IRAPS members in the House of Representatives questioned the Koiso government's "zeal and enthusiasm" in conducting the war and urged formation of a new political party with a "victory program."

Radio reports from Tokyo later said the IRAPS had announced Koiso's support of a proposal to form a new totalitarian party competent to "really meet the demands for the times."

Koiso also subsequently made some cabinet changes.

B-29's Bomb Japanese On the Malay Peninsula

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Feb. 19—Superfortresses today bombed Japanese military and communications facilities on the Malay Peninsula. The mission was flown by B-29's of the Twentieth Bomber Command of which Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey is commanding general.

Twentieth Air Force headquarters here said operational reports of the attack were awaited.

"One or two" Superfortresses made an incursion of almost two hours over central Korea in daylight yesterday morning, the Tokyo radio said, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

Purported Terms Laid On Italy Are Disclosed

FEB 19 1945

Bridges To Put Them In Senate Record And Ask State Department To Deny Or Confirm Them

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R., N.H.) is asking the State Department to affirm or deny the authenticity of purported Italian armistice terms sending 000,000 Italians to Allied countries for postwar reconstruction work.

Bridges said he planned to put into the Senate record tomorrow a review of purported armistice terms he said had been published in neutral countries.

Cites Neutral Sources

"Frankly," he said, "I don't know whether these are the true terms or not. But they have been published in supposedly reputable journals in neutral countries and I think the American people are entitled to know if they are the real conditions under which Italy surrendered."

The New Hampshire Senator produced a translation from the French of a document published by the International Law Review at Geneva. He said The Review was founded and edited by Dr. Juris Antoine Sottile, professor at the Academy of International Law at the Hague, and a permanent delegate to the League of Nations.

Some Doubts Expressed

Sottile published it with the notation that it had been obtained from unofficial sources and that there were doubts as to its authenticity.

Allied governments have declined to reveal the surrender conditions on the grounds of military security.

Grew May Answer Today

The State Department said it had no comment on the matter tonight, but that Acting Secretary Grew might have something to say tomorrow.

Officials referred to a statement by Grew February 8 in which he quoted from a comment by Italian Premier Bonomi on February 5. Bonomi said the surrender terms gave the Allies full authority over Italy's internal economic and political existence, but that they contained no provisions with respect to Italy's frontiers and no provisions on Italy's future after peace is made.

Repeating this, Grew emphasized that the terms contained no provisions for future settlements. He also said then that the State Department is not empowered to give out the terms, being prevented by overriding military considerations.

Merchant Fleet Included

The purported armistice terms outlined in the review called not only for Italy to deliver to the Allies her navy, aviation and all fortifications, but stipulated that after the war she should place her merchant fleet and civil aviation at the disposal of the Allies. The major Italian colonies in Africa would be decided at the peace conference with Italy obliged to accept the decisions.

Great Britain was reported to receive the islands of Pantelleria, Lampedusa and others of strategic importance. France would receive Elba and her frontier with Italy would be revised.

Further provisions of the purported terms would give Yugoslavia all of Istria, with the cities of Fiume and Zara. Greece would receive all the Italian islands in the Aegean Sea.

The Law Review's summary said the fate of the Italian colonies—Libya, Somalia and Eritrea—shall be settled at the peace conference and Italy shall reconcile herself with its decisions."

"In the Italian ports," it continued, "free ports shall be established for the benefit of the United States, England, France, Yugoslavia and Greece."

2,000,000 Workers To Go Abroad

In the economic field, the Italian Government was purported to have consented to sending 2,000,000 workers "to the conquering countries" for reconstruction work. The document apportioned these as follows: 800,000 to Russia, 200,000 to the United States, 200,000 to Great Britain, 200,000 to Australia, 200,000 to South Africa, 200,000 to Brazil and the remainder to other United Nations.

The armistice terms were said further to recognize "Anglo-American control" over the heavy national industry as well as over the Italian banks.

"After the war," one point said, "50 per cent of the capital of these Italian enterprises shall be in the hands of the Anglo-Saxon powers."

The purported terms contained the pledge that all racial laws would be abolished, as well as Fascist influence, and that "M. Mussolini shall be delivered to the United Nations as well as all the Fascists comprised in the lists of war criminals."

The Germans, however, rescued Mussolini before this latter provision could be carried out.

At the conclusion, the purported terms held out the promise of "a softening of the armistice clauses in proportion to the importance of Italian participation in the fight against the enemy."

Bridges said if the statements made in the Law Review are correct "the Senate ought to be informed of these facts by the proper officials."

AMERICA TO MOVE WITH CAUTION IN EUROPEAN PLANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP) The United States intends to move with the greatest caution in its share of handling the political affairs of liberated Europe along the lines worked out at the Crimean conference.

Authorities here said today that while this government will not shrink from any necessary duty to protect the independence of the European peoples and to assist them to recover political order it will not go looking for trouble. Furthermore, it would seek to use its influence to the limit in favor of non-intervention wherever that policy is justified.

New European Policy

The real measure of the declaration on liberated areas, which President Roosevelt proposed to the Crimean conference to launch this country on a new European policy, is in its application. And it could be applied either to foster the freedom and independence of the smaller countries or to bring them under a sort of great power distatorship.

The conviction here is that no such great power domination of European affairs is contemplated. The declaration binds the United States, Britain, Russia and France to joint action. American officials hope to keep the big powers from stepping in any place until the need for action becomes evident and even acute.

This American attitude may be put to the test severely in the months ahead. Considerably more political unrest is expected in Europe, especially if the present suffering and hunger of liberated millions go unrelieved much longer. One faction or another is always seeking outside support. It will be the job of the foreign ministers of the great powers to decide when such appeals are justified and when answering them would constitute straightaway meddling.

There are several countries, however, in which the powers may have to take joint action, or at least establish clear joint policies. The most obvious of these is Austria, which has yet to be liberated and which has been so long under German control that it may need Allied supervision for many months before it can raise forces for its own government.

Belgium and Norway present wide different possibilities of necessary action from outside.

Greece Not Discussed

So far as is known here the Crimean conference did not discuss either Greece, where the British are running the show, or Romania and Bulgaria where the Russians fix policy through the mechanism of Allied armistice control commissions. There is no reason known here, however, why in event of trouble in either of those areas, the joint policy should not be applied if it became essential to the independence of the people.

A favorite speculation of some American diplomats is whether the policy might even be applied to Spain, in event of revolution against the Franco dictatorship. It is argued that Spain then could become as much of a menace to the stability of Europe as any one of several neutral or former Axis satellite states.

Poland is the only place where the three-power policy has been applied to date. The Polish test probably will bring out whatever weaknesses the Crimean declaration has. One point noted here is that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin ordered the creation of a government of "national unity" but it is generally concluded by American officials that there can't be a government with real unity of representation unless outstanding Polish leaders, particularly from London, can be added to the Soviet sponsored government.

SETS CEILINGS FOR CLOTHING

OPA Lists Cotton Garments Expected In Summer

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The OPA tonight announced price ceilings for low and medium priced cotton garments which the Government expects to be back on store shelves in comparative plenty by early summer.

This action came as the War Production Board prepared to announce tomorrow the lists of woolen and rayon clothing items for which manufacturers will receive priorities to obtain fabric for inexpensive garments. Prices for these will be fixed later.

Ceilings set today apply to wearing apparel on WPB's priority list of cotton items announced ten days ago.

FEB 19 1945

Prices Listed At Retail

These are examples, at retail:

Men's regular sized shorts, a range of 49 cents to $1.30 each; men's business shirts, $1.80 to $3.70; women's regular sized house dresses, $1.95 to $3.70; slips, 85 cents to $1.30; infants' and toddlers' pajamas, $1.05 to $2.70; rompers; $1.05 to $2.40; girls' school dresses, $1.65 to $3.40; boys' wash suits, $1.30 to $2.70, and boys' shirts and blouses, $1.05 to $1.35.

The ceilings range, OPA explained, to cover differences in quality in kind of cloth used, and to allow for higher retail ceilings on garments bought from wholesalers than when they are purchased direct from manufacturers.

To Cut "Inflated" Prices

OPA, cosponsor of the clothing program with WPB, has committed itself to roll back "currently inflated" clothing prices by six or seven per cent. Spokesmen for the agency were unable to say to what extent this first pricing step in the program will accomplish that objective.

The agency said that to a large extent the rollback of the nation's clothing bill will be achieved by returning to store shelves inexpensive clothing now unavailable.

WPB's part in the program is to channel 75 per cent of all civilian fabrics to low and popularly priced garments. This measure is intended to "freeze out" to a considerable extent production of so-called luxury clothing and other expensive fabric products.

Tags To Be Attached

Under the OPA cotton action, "practically all infants' and children's apparel of such material and a very large part of men's and women's cotton garments will have tags attached by manufacturers to show exactly what the retail ceiling prices are," the agency said.

"This easy-to-understand pricing method will apply to from 65 to 90 per cent of all civilian woven cotton garments manufactured when the program becomes fully operative," Chester Bowles, price administrator said.

These garments, he added, "will not appear in stores overnight, but should become available in quantity in the early summer."

STIMSON RENEWS LABOR DRAFT PLEA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — (AP) Secretary of War Stimson, in words "blunt and plain," warned tonight "we dare not delay longer" enacting the war work law.

Speaking "primarily" to those who have sons or husbands or other dear ones at the front," the Secretary asserted in a prepared Blue network address that "deadly shortages are now looming up before us" and a crisis is at hand.

Voluntary means have failed to keep trained men at their essential jobs and national service legislation is the only remedy, he said. He lauded House passage Feb. 1 of the work-or-jail bill for men.

With the bill now pending for days in the Senate Military Affairs committee, Stimson argued against "prolonged consideration of comparatively trivial details." He told his listeners:

"The committee has been listening to many voices—voices which object to placing upon our men at home the same compulsory responsibility for national duty that has rested upon our men in uniform since 1940; voices which call it 'slavery' to serve one's country at a bench or turning lathe; voices which, flying in the face of demonstrated experience, loudly assert that manpower shortages in industries can be met in this fourth year of the war by a mere invitation to work; voices which, ignoring the long struggle which lies ahead of us to reduce Japan, express pious hopes of the early fall of Berlin as the end of military and naval needs—

"So many voices speaking for special and, by comparison, trivial interests, that they seem to have stifled the voice of national interest and suffocate the bill.

"Enemies of the bill are beginning to boast today in the streets of Washington that they have killed it."

And he asserted:

"While we have by law organized our young fighters and compelled them to sacrifice their lives if need be in that service, we have never by law organized our workers who are to equip those soldiers and have them ready and able to fight at the proper moment."

Under the voluntary system there has been a turnover of as much as 90 percent a year in some important war industries—literally hundreds of thousands of workers, trained for jobs, work for a while, then quit and machines become idle, the secretary said.

REPUBLICANS SEEK U. S. WITHDRAWAL FROM AIR TREATY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP) Senate Republicans are moving to force State department withdrawl of American acceptance of the interim international civil aviation agreement.

Senator White of Maine, the minority leader, told a reporter today he will ask the Senate Foreign Relations committee Tuesday to demand that the department rescind its action of February 10 putting into force three executive agreements.

White charged that the department had acted without the knowledge of the committee, in violation of a tacit agreement that no steps would be taken until the legislators had more time to study the question.

"These treaties or agreements raise problems of the greatest consequence to the commercial interests of this country and to our defense," the Maine Senator said. "A definite feeling exists on the part of some committee members that the Department has not respected the understanding it had with the committee."

The State department's action put into effect, so far as this country is concerned, agreements setting up an international aviation council and providing for virtual "freedom of the skies."

Under their provisions, foreign airlines could bring in and take out passengers and freight, could pick up and leave both at intermediate stops and could make flights across this country without traffic stops.

However, 26 nations must obligate themselves to the agreements before they become fully effective. White said it was his idea that if they thus had not become permanent, the Department could withdraw its approval while Congress studies the matter.

In this connection, he asked that Senator Brewster (R-Me), a delegate to last year's international aviation meeting in Chicago, be invited to attend the Tuesday committee meeting. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said Brewster would be welcome.

Brewster told a reporter he believed the United States was giving away more than it will get in the agreements. It was his contention that many of the matters covered in the executive agreements are subject to treaty action.

ECONOMISTS FAVORING BRETTON WOODS PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP) Congressional sponsors of the Bretton Woods monetary agreements said today a poll of selected economists showed 90 per cent in favor of the proposed international financial structure.

Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.) of the Senate Banking committee and Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of its House counterpart, said support for the agreements is being mobilized by a voluntary group of 33 members of the American Economic association.

The American Bankers association recently went on record against an international monetary fund proposed in the Bretton Woods agreements but endorsed the balance of the program worked out at an international conference last Summer. Basis of the Bretton Woods plan are the monetary fund to facilitate and stabilize international exchange, and an International bank to finance development projects.

Job Guarantee Plan Proposed

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—A postwar Government guarantee of a job for every person able and willing to work, as well as a guaranteed minimum living standard, was proposed today by a Federal economist.

E. A. Goldenweiser, chief economic adviser to the Federal Reserve Board and with the board for 26 years, advanced both ideas in a suggested program aimed at 58,000,000 postwar jobs.

"If a person has done all he can to find a job and still can't find one, the Government ought to offer him a job," the economist said in the current issue of the Federal Reserve Bulletin.

"I think that the least costly and the most direct and effective way to assure that a deflationary cycle does not get under way is to see to it that no one who is able and willing to work need be idle."

Goldenweiser said that if the Government undertook such a job guarantee "there would be more feeling of security and less hesitation about continuing normal standards of living."

"Consequently a deflationary cycle would be less likely to get under way and there would be less occasion than otherwise for the Government to do much spending for the purpose," Goldenweiser said.

"Kind Of Minimum Now"

He would make his job guarantee effective, however, only as a last resort, applicable to those persons still unable to find work after a broad program of public works at standard wages had been put into effect to stabilize the nation's economy in times of threatened decline of private business.

Goldenweiser had this to stay on the idea of guaranteeing a minimum living standard:

"We have a kind of minimum now in that we don't intend to have anyone starve or freeze or go without shelter, but it differs too widely.

"It depends too much on the disorganized action of individuals and groups. There should be established a standard of living below which no person in this country needs to fall under any circumstances; a minimum of food, a minimum of clothing, and minimum of shelter, education and medical care and even of money."

As to whether a minimum standard of living could be guaranteed without sacrificing the American free, competitive system, Goldenweiser said:

"I am convinced that if we fail to do so we will certainly sacrifice our free, competitive system."

U.S. Aid To Free Lithuania Sought

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—American Lithuanians, contending Soviet Russia has imposed a totalitarian regime on the Baltic states, today appealed to the United States Government to help them get "a free and independent" Lithuania again.

The Lithuanian American Council, representing, it said, almost 1,000,000 persons of Lithuanian descent in this country, made known its stand at the conclusion of a three-day executive meeting.

The council also asked this Government to help alleviate the physical suffering of the Lithuanian people by providing aid through established relief channels.

Recalling that the United States, Great Britain and Russia, through the Yalta declaration reaffirmed faith in the principles of the Atlantic Charter, which included freedom for liberated peoples to create democratic institutions of their own choice, the council called upon this Government to help the Lithuanians achieve a "free and independent" country once more.

Packing Workers Threaten Strike

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Meat packing workers union top officials gathered here tonight to push for Government action on their wage demands and spoke in matter-of-fact manner of "the impending national strike."

Lewis J. Clark, president; Philip Weightman, vice president, and Ralph Helstein, general counsel of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers of America, made up the party. After a meeting in Chicago Friday night, they started here by plane, hoping to arrive in time to see Federal officials Saturday, but were held up by weather in Pittsburgh.

"We don't know whether the men will be at work tomorrow morning in any particular plant, or not," said Weightman. "But as of now, any strike would be unofficial. We may know by noon tomorrow what we'll have to do."

The wage case, along with that of the textile workers, is tied up in the War Labor Board, behind a directive from Fred M. Vinson, Director of Economic Stabilization, against wage awards which might require compensating price increases.

A statement by the union leaders assigned responsibility for "the impending national strike in the meat-packing industry" jointly to Vinson, WLB and the packers.

The union chiefs said they were asking an inquiry by the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Navy's Leading Ace, McCampbell, Marries

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Commander David McCampbell, 34, the Navy's leading ace and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, and Mrs. Sara Jane Kahn, 33, of New York, were married here today.

The ceremony was performed by Lieut. Robert E. Fitch, navy chaplain, in the chapel of the naval research laboratory. Miss Clare Kahn was maid of honor and the only attendant.

McCampbell has 34 Japanese planes to his credit. He returned to the United States early in December after ten months in the Pacific, during which he flew 61 combat missions.

Ball Asks Hitler Death, Use Of German Labor

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—The execution of Adolf Hitler and "his immediate war criminals" after the European war ends and the assignment of "several millions of Germans" to "rebuild the Europe they have destroyed was advocated today by Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minnesota).

"Germany must be looked upon as an aggressor and not a normal belligerent in the old sense of the word," he said in a broadcast. "Hitler and his immediate war criminals must be shot, rather than allowed to live out their lives on a tropical isle."

HOUSE G.O.P. TO PROBE SHORTAGES OF FOOD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP) An unofficial committee of House Republicans undertook an investigation of food shortages today.

"The incompetence and misjudgment of Washington's bureaucrats," said Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio), chairman of the Republican Food Study committee, "makes critical shortages of many foods inevitable within the next few months."

He said the committee will conduct its investigation with the aid of experts in food production, one of whom will be employed as secretary for the group.

Gloria De Cicco Comes Into Fortune Tomorrow

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt De Cicco, storm center of a child custody case at 10, and a wife at 17, finally "comes of age" Tuesday.

The date marks her twenty-first birthday, when she ceases to be a ward of the State and comes into a fortune of approximately $4,500,000 left in trust by her father, the late Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

She presently is estranged from her husband, Actors Agent Pat De Cicco.

QUERIES STAND ON MANDATES

Group Of Americans Wants Allies To State Policy

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Seven prominent Americans, in a letter to the New York Times, called today for a statement of policy by the United States and "the governments of other powers" on the question of annexation of mandated territories.

The writers, headed by John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, said the question was raised by Col. Oliver Stanley, British Colonial Secretary, in an address before the Foreign Policy Association in New York, January 19.

Colonel Stanley, the writers said, referred to the mandates system in the past tense as representing the "old theory of trusteeship."

"First Public Intimation"

They added:

"It might be inferred from his address that he favored abolition of this system. We believe that this is the first public intimation of such a policy on the part of any of the mandatory powers.

"It seems pertinent and proper to ask whether we have correctly understood the policy of Colonel Stanley and whether he is now perhaps in favor of the annexation of the mandated territories by the powers administering them.

"We also believe it pertinent to ask what is the policy of our own Government and the governments of other powers on this point."

Pacific Islands View

The writers said that, in their opinion, the Pacific islands formerly mandated to Japan should not be annexed by the United States but should be governed by the United States Government "as trustee for the United Nations."

"Nothing on this subject (mandated territories) was contained in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals," the writers added, "and presumably this situation has been given further consideration since that meeting, perhaps at the time of the Crimean conference.

Urged For Agenda

"It is to be hoped that this important matter will be placed on the agenda of the San Francisco conference and that the peoples of the world will be given an opportunity to express their views before any binding decisions are made."

In addition to Davis, signers of the letter were:

Huntington Gilchrist, consultant on international organization to the State Department.

Arthur N. Holcombe, chairman of the WPB Appeals Board.

Emory Ross, executive secretary of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America.

James T. Shotwell, chairman of the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace.

Sumner Welles, former Under-Secretary of State.

Quincy Wright, professor of international law, University of Chicago.

3 Awards Made At Dinner In Memory Of Wendell Willkie

New York, Feb. 18 (AP) — The memory of Wendell L. Willkie was honored tonight at a "One World" dinner, with awards to press, radio and motion-picture executives whose work was held to have "strengthened international understanding."

Those cited were:

Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, for efforts toward a "free and untrammeled flow of news between nations" in a "crusade which he began 30 years ago."

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, as "an early believer" in the importance of radio as a cultural and educational agency.

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice president of 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation, for a major part in "bringing the film industry toward awareness of its responsibilities to the nation and the world."

Mrs. Hjordis Swenson was chairman of the awards committee. The dinner was held on the anniversary of Willkie's birth.

The dinner was sponsored by the American Nobel Center, which also gave the awards.

Receives Award For Cooper

Lloyd Stratton, secretary of the Associated Press, received the press award on behalf of Cooper and said in a prepared address that American newspapers and news agencies had "a trust never before given to lead by example" in the establishment of world press freedom.

"The newspapers of enemy-occupied parts of the world need factual news—first and foremost," he said. "Only by furnishing that news and realistically supporting the agency or newspaper that sincerely desires freely to collect and print factual news, can the undertaking to which we are devoted have a reasonable chance of success."

Stratton also read a message from Cooper which asserted that "people everywhere must be granted the right to know" and that "this can be accomplished if information and news is made available to all, regardless of political ideology or form of government."

Governor Baldwin Speaks

Another speaker, Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, said Willkie "appreciated as no other American of his time that the strength of our institutions and the increase of our national wealth . . . were intertwined inextricably with our relationships with the rest of the world.

"By our fight for freedom in the world," he said, "we have added immeasurably to 'our reservoir of good will' everywhere. And good will among men and nations is needed so much to establish and maintain the lasting peace symbolized in the ideal of 'one world.'"

Value Of Television

Sarnoff said television would become an "international language" through which nations would "see themselves as others see them." "People everywhere will understand, as never before, how freedom functions in democracies," he said.

Asserting that radio and the press were "inseparable in the defense of freedom of speech and expression," he said there must be enough world-wide radio circuits "to carry news and pictures freely and directly to and from all corners of the earth."

CIO UNION TO FIGHT JOB-CHANGE ORDER

New Bedford Local To Seek Injunction In WMC 'Lockout'

New Bedford, Mass., Feb. 18 (AP). A union spokesman today termed the ordered transfer by the War Manpower Commission of 81 textile workers to work in the Fisk and Firestone tire-cord factories a "lockout."

Antonio England, local director of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO), said he would seek a temporary restraining order in Federal Court, Boston, tomorrow to halt WMC in "this compulsory forced labor release."

England declared "the TWUA regards the release as a lockout, provision against which has been made in contracts which we hold in the nine member mills of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers Association affected."

"Contrary To Constitution"

The decision to seek an injunction followed a meeting of the New Bedford Citizens' Committee yesterday at which labor, management and civic leaders attacked the WMC's order to transfer workers as "contrary to law and contrary to the Constitution."

The committee, led by Mayor Arthur M. Harriman, also branded the order as "unfair, unnecessary and un-American."

Mayor Harriman and a subcommittee said they had sent appeals to President Roosevelt, Under Secretary of War Patterson, Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower Commission chairman, and Massachusetts Senators Walsh and Saltonstall and Congressman Gifford, of New Bedford.

Order Effective Wednesday

The WMC order, effective Wednesday noon, would cause a loss of pay for many workers, force night work upon them and destroy seniority rights, England said.

The CIO and AFL said in joint statement at the meeting that they "regard the action as an attempt to use New Bedford as a guinea pig to work out a system of labor draft without any further authorization by Congress."

WMC Asks Group To Reconsider

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—A War Manpower Commission official said tonight he hoped a citizens' committee at New Bedford, Mass., would reconsider its condemnation of plans to transfer textile workers to other jobs.

"If the people of New Bedford who are doing the complaining will realize the importance of the war work to which it is planned to transfer the textile workers, I feel confident they will go along with the decision," said Leo J. Werts, WMC assistant deputy director for field service.

MorgenthauLaudsWork On Bretton Woods Bill

Philadelphia, Feb. 18 (AP)—Legislation legalizing the Bretton Woods international monetary agreement was off to a good start in Congress, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, said today.

"The Bretton Woods bill was drafted at the Capitol by congressional drafting experts," he said, "with the Treasury and State departments assisting, and a good job was done. The fact that the two departments helped means that technicalities which might have crept in had there been no co-operation will not be encountered later."

Morgenthau Confirms Investigation of Goulds

Says Paris, Not Washington, Presses Collaboration Inquiry

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry F. Morgenthau jr. today identified Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jay Gould as the "very famous" American couple under investigation in France on suspicion of collaboration with the Germans.

"I want to make it clear," he added, "that the facts as to what they did or did not do are in the hands of the French government, not the United States."

Mrs. Gould, the former Florence La Caze, of San Francisco, said Saturday at Paris that she and her husband "undoubtedly" were the couple referred to in an inquiry concerning her reported investment in July of 5,000,000 francs (about $100,000) in a Monte Carlo bank controlled by the Nazis. She said she invested the money so that the Germans would not take her husband to a Nazi concentration camp.

President Gives Order After Firm Gets Injunction to Prevent Any Arbitration

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 18 (AP).—The War Department took over operation of the strike-bound plant of the American Enka Corporation today under authorization of President Roosevelt.

Colonel Curtis G. Pratt, of the Army General Staff Corps, assumed charge of the plant at 5 p. m. under orders to end a work stoppage that has kept more than 3,000 workers idle since Feb. 8.

The plant manufactures rayon yarn for military tire fabric.

The strike began after the company, in what it described as a "friendly suit," obtained an injunction in Federal District Court to prevent arbitration of issues raised by the United Textile Workers of America, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Firm and Union Co-operate

"Both management and labor are co-operating perfectly," Colonel Pratt said.

He said work would be resumed at the 11 o'clock shift tonight. This will involve some chemical workers. Colonel Pratt said it would be four to eight days before all 3,000 workers were back at their tasks. Work would not be available for employees in the spinning, finishing and textile departments, he said, until chemical workers have started the processes moving again.

Colonel Pratt said he and his staff of seven officers were operating the plant and that no troops had been sent to Asheville.

Dr. A. J. L. Moritz, executive vice-president of the Enka Corporation, issued this statement:

"We have received from Colonel Pratt and his staff notice of the government's taking possession of the properties and facilities of the company and the Army officers are established at the plant. I am confident that I express the sentiments not only of myself but of all of our officers and employees when I say we will co-operate in every way with the Army and with each other to restore full production in the shortest possible time."

Million-Pound Loss

C. E. Earnhardt, international vice-president of the U. T. W., said: "We are requesting all of our members to return to work as they are notified to report. We are glad to co-operate wih the Army in any way possible. This evening we are sending out union cars to assist the Army in getting those who are scheduled to report at 11 o'clock notified and are assisting in rounding up the workers for the chemical department, the first that will be put in operation."

SURVIVORS REACH WEST COAST PORT

Navy Reports Arrival From 4 Ships Lost In Pacific

San Francisco, Feb. 18 (AP)—Hundreds of survivors from four naval vessels destroyed by enemy action in Philippine waters have been logged in at the Treasure Island receiving ship in San Francisco Bay for reoutfitting pending the started 30-day survivor leaves, the 20th Naval District announced today.

Clad in travel-stained dungarees and obviously tired, the men, however, were in good spirits, the Navy said.

They were from these ships:

The U.S.S. Ommaney Bay, 10,000-ton escort carrier, destroyed by enemy aerial action January 4 in the Sulu Sea while en route with a carrier squadron to Luzon.

Mine-Sweeping Record

The U.S.S. Hovey, destroyer-mine sweeper credited with sweeping more mines than any other ship in Pacific waters, sunk by an aerial torpedo in Lingayen Gulf, Luzon, January 7.

LST 750, destroyed without casualty by an enemy aerial torpedo in the Sulu Sea "recently."

The fourth vessel, a landing craft type, was not further identified.

Normal Complement Of 500

Survivors said the Ommaney Bay, the sinking of which was announced last week, was traveling under a slight overcast when Japanese planes attacked about 5.15 P.M. Two bombs, one an incendiary which exploded in the forward hangar deck, and the other a high explosive, which detonated in the forward engine room, fatally wounded the carrier.

The Ommaney Bay carried a normal complement of 500 men.

In announcing its loss, the Navy said there had been fewer than 100 casualties.

FEB 9 1945

Torpedo Meant For Destroyer

The Hovey was struck by an aerial torpedo just before dawn and went down in three minutes, survivors reported, but loss of life was comparatively low. The Hovey was one of the Navy's older ships. She was commissioned in 1919, was at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, and had participated in the Guadalcanal, New Georgia, Bougainville, Palau, Leyte and Luzon invasions.

The LST 750 was escorting a convoy when an aerial torpedo intended for a destroyer missed both it and a repair ship and struck the landing craft. The ship was fatally stricken with a gaping hole starboard and had to be sent down later by torpedoes from the destroyer.

PRECEDE CALCUTTA BURMA (130)

LONDON, FEB. 18-(AP)-A REUTERS DISPATCH FROM BURMA SAID TONIGHT THE BRITISH 14TH ARMY HAD CROSSED THE IRRAWADDY RIVER 50 MILES BELOW MANDALAY AND A NEW LANDING HAD BEEN MADE ON BURMA'S WEST COAST IN TWIN BLOWS DESIGNED TO CUT OFF JAPANESE RETREAT.

THE IRRAWADDY BRIDGEHEAD, FIRST TO BE ESTABLISHED BELOW MANDALAY, HELD FIRM UNDER FIERCE BUT UNCOORDINATED JAPANESE COUNTERATTACKS, THE FRONT DISPATCH SAID. CROSSINGS HERE WOULD KEEP THE ENEMY FROM USING THE RIVER FOR ESCAPE WHEN THE CITY FINALLY IS ASSAULTED.

THE NEW LANDINGS WERE REPORTED ON THE ARAKAN COAST, SOUTHEAST OF AKYAB. THE REPORT SAID THE 25TH INDIAN DIVISION HAD PUSHED INLAND A MILE AND A HALF, CUTTING THE MAIN HIGHWAY DOWN WHICH THE JAPANESE ARE TRYING TO ESCAPE BEFORE BRITISH FORCES WHO PUT ASHORE AT AKYAB IN THE ORIGINAL LANDINGS ON THE WEST COAST.

IT QUOTED AN IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE OF FEB. 17 AS SAYING JAPANESE PLANES HAD PUT OUT OF ACTION 129 AMERICAN AIRCRAFT THAT WERE "REPEATEDLY TRYING TO ATTACK THE JAPANESE HOMELAND."

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT WAS REPORTED "SURPRISED" BY THE TREND OF ARGENTINE-GERMAN RELATIONS AND WAS WATCHING THE SITUATION CLOSELY.

REPORTS CURRENT IN LONDON SAID THE NAZI LEADERS WOULD BE UNHAPPY AT THE PROSPECT OF WAR WITH ARGENTINA BECAUSE THEY REPURTEDLY HAVE A FORTUNE OF "SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS" HIDDEN IN BUENOS AIRES FOR POSTWAR USE.

A BERLIN BROADCAST SAID THAT MARSHAL RODION Y. THESE GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS APPARENTLY WERE AIMED AT DISRUPTING SOVIET OFFENSIVE PREPARATIONS, AND THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT THE GERMANS HAD DRIVEN THE RUSSIANS BACK TO THE SOUTH BANK OF THE PARIS CANAL. THIS CANAL TURNS EASTWARD PARALLEL WITH THE DANUBE NEAR KISUJFALU, 16 MILES NORTHEAST OF KOMAROM.

BRESLAU, WITH MOST OF ITS CIVILIAN POPULATION REPORTED EVACUATED, WAS STRONGLY MANNED BY THE GERMANS AND ITS FORTIFICATIONS HAD BEEN STRENGTHENED FOR A LONG SIEGE, A MOSCOW DISPATCH SAID.

"ALL INDICATIONS WERE, HOWEVER, THAT KONEV WAS PREPARED TO MAKE BRESLAU AN INDEPENDENT ACTION, MINIMIZING AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE ITS DIVERSIONARY EFFECT ON DISPOSITION OF THE ARMIES IN HIS FIRST UKRAINIAN COMMAND," SAID AP CORRESPONDENT DANIEL DE LUCE.

"IT IS ALONG THE NEISSE AND SPREE, SOUTH OF THE FORMIDABLE BELT OF FORTRESSES FACING ZHUKOV ON THE MIDDLE ODER, THAT KONEV SOON MAY BE ABLE TO STRIKE A MORTAL BLOW AT NAZI DEFENSE OF CENTRAL GERMANY."

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND DECLARED ALL RUSSIAN ASSAULTS ON BRESLAU HAD BEEN REPELLED.

FRENCH OFFICIALS WERE DISAPPOINTED ABOUT BEING LEFT OUT OF THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE, BUT STILL WOULD HAVE WELCOMED ROOSEVELT-DE GAULLE CONVERSATIONS WHICH MIGHT HAVE SMOOTHED OUT DIFFICULTIES.

TO THIS END, IT WAS LEARNED ON GOOD AUTHORITY, THE FRENCH RENEWED THEIR INVITATION TO ROOSEVELT TO VISIT PARIS, AND WOULD HAVE BEEN SATISFIED IF HE HAD VISITED SOUTHERN FRANCE.

INSTEAD, IT WAS FURTHER LEARNED RELIABLY, THEY RECEIVED A MESSAGE ROOSEVELT WOULD BE WILLING TO TALK TO DE GAULLE IN ALGIERS. THIS WAS A DOUBLE REBUFF. NOT ONLY WAS IT A REFUSAL TO COME TO FRANCE, BUT ALSO AN INVITATION TO THE HEAD OF THE FRENCH STATE TO TERRITORY WHICH HAD BEEN FRENCH FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY.

AS IS WELL KNOWN, THE AMERICAN NAVY HAS USED ALGIERS FOR THE LAST TWO YEARS, BUT TO THE FRENCH IT SEEMED MUCH AS IT WOULD TO AMERICANS IF SOME FOREIGN RULER HAD SAID TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, "SORRY I CAN'T COME TO SEE YOU, BUT YOU CAN COME TO SEE ME IN HONOLULU.

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR JEFFERSON CAFFERY LEFT PARIS THREE DAYS AGO, APPARENTLY TO SEE THE PRESIDENT--AS SO MANY PROMINENT AMERICANS HAVE DEPARTED FOR PRESUMABLE CONFERENCES WITH THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE SOMEWHERE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN. NONE OF THEM HAS YET RETURNED.

POLITICAL NUANCES OF THE MOMENT ALSO MIGHT BE A DETERMINING FACTOR IN WHETHER THE PRESIDENT WOULD STOP OFF IN FRANCE, I WAS TOLD.

OFFICIAL REPORTS OMITTED ANY MENTION OF A POSSIBLE BEGINNING OF A GERMAN WITHDRAWAL FROM THE PRESENT ITALIAN FRONT BATTLE AREA. LT GEN.MARK W. CLARK HAS SUGGESTED THAT SUCH A WITHDRAWAL MIGHT BE IMMINENT.

THE ALLIES PUT MORE THAN 2,000 ITALY-BASED WAR PLANES IN THE AIR YESTERDAY, INCLUDING OVER 500 U.S. HEAVY BOMBERS WHICH SENT HUNDREDS OF TONS OF BOMBS CRASHING DOWN ON AUSTRIAN RAILYARDS, OIL AND INDUSTRIAL TARGETS FOR THE FIFTH CONSECUTIVE DAY.

SIMULTANEOUSLY B-25 MEDIUM BOMBERS AND SWARMS OF FIGHTERBOMBERS UNLEASHED A DAY-LONG ASSAULT ON THE BRENNER PASS ROUTE AND ENEMY TRANSPORT AND AMMUNITION DUMPS THROUGHOUT NORTHEASTERN ITALY. TEN ALLIED PLANES WERE MISSING FROM THE DAY'S OPERATIONS. ONE GERMAN AIRCRAFT WAS DESTROYED IN THE AIR.

CASUALTIES WERE REPORTED ON BOTH SIDES IN THE PATROL ACTIONS. THE MOST ACTIVE SECTOR WAS AT THE JUNCTION OF THE FIFTH AND EIGHTH ARMIES ABOUT A DOZEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF BOLOGNA.

AN ENEMY PATROL WAS BEATEN BACK BY FIFTH ARMY UNITS EAST OF MONTE CERERE. IT LEFT EQUIPMENT BEHIND. A FEW HUNDRED YARDS AWAY THE EXTREME LEFT FLANK OF THE EIGHTH ARMY POSITIONS CAME UNDER HEAVY GERMAN SHELL AND MORTAR FIRE. IN THE SAME GENERAL AREA ONE EIGHTH ARMY PATROL SEIZED AN ENEMY POSITION AFTER AN ALLIED ARTILLERY PREPARATION AND SHOT UP GERMAN PATROLS.

MOSCOW, FEB 18-(AP)-THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER IZVESTIA GAVE UNQUALIFIED ENDORSEMENT TODAY TO THE CHINESE COMMUNIST PARTY'S STAND FOR "LIQUIDATION OF THE KUOMINTANG DICTATORSHIP AND FORMATION OF A COALITION GOVERNMENT AND A UNITED SUPREME COMMAND OF THE ARMED FORCES."

IZVESTIA SAID APPROVINGLY THAT "OTHER DEMOCRATIC PARTIES AS WELL AS THE COMMUNIST PARTY ALSO SUGGESTED THE LIQUIDATION OF CONCENTRATION CAMPS AND FASCIST ORGANIZATIONS, STRENGTHENING OF FRIENDSHIP WITH THE USSR AND INCREASING TIES WITH BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND THE OTHER ALLIES."

THE NEWSPAPER SAID, "THE PRESENT SITUATION IMPOSES ESPECIALLY RESPONSIBLE TASKS UPON CHINA WHICH THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT AND THE SUPREME ARMY COMMAND, REGARDLESS OF THEIR REORGANIZATION, HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO FULFILL.

"CHIANG KAI-SHEK, IN HIS NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE, ADMITTED THAT MILITARY REVERSES HAD BEEN DUE TO POLITICAL MISTAKES. CHINA'S ALLIES, ESPECIALLY THE UNITED STATES, WARMLY SUPPORT THE EFFORT OF CHINESE DEMOCRACY TO ACHIEVE NATIONAL UNITY."

MOSCOW, FEB 18-(AP)-PRAVDA CORRESPONDENT BORIS POLEVOY TOLD TODAY OF TWO VAST UNDERGROUND ARSENALS WHICH HE SAID THE GERMANS BUILT "UPON THE BLOOD AND BONES OF HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF SLAVES."

PRESUMABLY POLEVOY IS IN SILESIA WITH MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY.

"WE LANDED AT AN AIRDROME IN THE OUTSKIRTS OF A BIG FOREST WONDERING WHY THE GERMANS LOCATED IT (THE AIR FIELD) IN SUCH A DESERTED SPOT AND WHY CONCRETE ROADS CRISSCROSSED THE WOODS," HE WROTE. "THEN WE WERE CONDUCTED TO A TUNNEL ENTRANCE CAMOUFLAGED WITH ARTIFICIAL TREES AND A SIGN POSTED. 'DEATH TO HIM WHO ENTERS WITHOUT A PASS.'

"WE DESCENDED A DEEP SHAFT IN DAMP AIR LIKE A MINE. WE WALKED ALONG AN ENDLESS CORRIDOR UNDER A FOREST, A RIVER AND HILLS. RIGHT AN LEFT THERE WERE ROOMS STACKED HIGH WITH BOMBS, SHELLS AND LAND MINES. EVERYTHING WAS IN GOOD ORDER. THE BOOKS ON THE CLERKS' DESKS WERE UNDISTURBED.

"A DETONATOR WAS WIRED TO EXPLODE THE ARSENAL. BUT THE EXPLOSION NEVER WAS SET OFF."

JOURNEYING TO ANOTHER FOREST AIRFIELD, POLEVOY REPORTED SEEING "ENDLESS RANKS OF NEW INTACT GERMAN WARPLANES," AND ADDED:

"THE FIELD WAS AN ADJUNCT OF AN UNDERGROUND FACTORY WHERE ALL THE INSTALLATIONS WERE SEIZED IN GOOD ORDER BY OUR FIGHTERS.

"BOTH OF THESE UNDERGROUND RETREATS WERE BUILT BY A GERMAN ENGINEER, THE EXECUTIONER (THE LATE DR. FRITZ) TODT. HIS SLAVES FROM THE INVADED COUNTRIES OF EUROPE LIVED IN CAMPS SURROUNDED BY ELECTRIFIED BARBED WIRE AND GUARDED BY FIERCE, HUNGRY POLICE DOGS.

"THE SLAVES WERE GIVEN A NUMBER BURNED UPON THEIR BREAST. THE WEAK AND SICK WERE KILLED. THE STRONGER WERE SENT TO BUILD OTHER UNDERGROUND ARSENALS. THIS UNDERGROUND GERMANY LITERALLY WAS BUILT UPON THE BLOOD AND BONES OF HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF SLAVES."

THE MOVE, ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY, IS AN IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TOWARD ASSURING FINANCIAL JUSTICE AFTER THE WAR, MARKING SWISS COOPERATION IN THE SEARCH FOR NAZI LOOT HIDDEN OUTSIDE THE REICH.

LAUCHLIN CURRIE, HEAD OF A U.S.ECONOMIC MISSION WHICH HAS BEEN NEGOTIATING WITH THE SWISS ALONG WITH BRITISH AND FRENCH REPRESENTATIV DECLARED "I AM GREATLY PLEASED. A TREMENDOUS ADVANCE HAS BEEN MADE."

RO605PEW

THE SWISS BASED THEIR ACTION ON THE PRECEDENT ESTABLISHED WHEN THEY SIMILARLY BLOCKED FUNDS OF COUNTRIES INVADED BY GERMANY, INCLUDING RUSSIA, IN 1940 AND 1941. SINCE GERMANY HAS BEEN INVADED, THEY PLACED HER IN THE SAME CATEGORY.

WHETHER THE SWISS WILL SUPPLY THE NAMES AND RECORDS OF SUSPECTED NAZI DEPOSITORS WAS NOT DETERMINED. FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS ON THIS TOPIC ARE TO BE HELD THIS WEEK AND THE SWISS HAVE, AT LEAST, COMMITTEE THEMSELVES TO CHECKING FOR HIDDEN LOOT FROM NATIONS WHICH FELL UNDER GERMAN OPPRESSION.

THE ALLIED ECONOMIC DELEGATIONS INDICATED THAT THEIR CONFERENCES HAD BEEN GENERALLY SUCCESSFUL AND THAT SWITZERLAND WAS LIKELY TO BE RESTORED HER RIGHTS FOR THE TRANSPORT OF FOOD AND RAW MATERIALS FROM ALLIED COUNTRIES.

FIRST LEAD BURMA (120)

BY FRANK L. MARTIN

CALCUTTA, FEB. 18-(AP)-BRITISH INDIAN AND GURKHA TROOPS, IN FIVE DAYS OF FIGHTING THAT WAS PROBABLY THE BITTEREST OF THE BURMA CAMPAIGN, HAVE CROSSED THE BROAD IRRAWADDY RIVER AND ESTABLISHED A BRIDGEHEAD ON ITS LEFT BANK APPROXIMATELY 35 MILES WEST OF MANDALAY.

IN THE FACE OF HEAVY JAPANESE ARTILLERY, MORTAR AND SMALL ARMS FIRE, THESE 14TH ARMY TROOPS MADE THE HAZARDOUS CROSSING IN THE EARLY MORNING OF FEB. 13.

FEB 19 1945

ASSAULT TROOPS CROSSED THE STREAM IN HUNDREDS OF SLIGHT RIVER CRAFT, MANY OF WHICH WERE CAUGHT IN THE SWIRLING CURRENT AND SWEPT DOWNSTREAM COMPLETELY OUT OF CONTROL.

THE RIVER, WHICH FLOWS SOUTH FOR MOST OF ITS COURSE, BENDS WESTWARD JUST BELOW MANDALAY FOR MORE THAN 30 MILES, THEN FLOWS SOUTHWARD AGAIN.

MANILA, MONDAY, FEB 19-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD'S 14TH CORPS TROOPS MASSED AROUND THE WALLED INTRAMUROS DISTRICT CONTINUED TO WITHOLD THEIR FIRE TODAY AS FURTHER APPEALS WERE MADE TO THE TRAPPED JAPANESE TO RELEASE THOUSANDS OF UNARMED CIVILIANS WITHIN THEIR STRONGHOLD.

GEN.GRISWOLD TWICE HAS OFFERED THE JAPANESE "HONORABLE SURRENDER" AND HAS APPEALED TO THEIR VAUNTED "SPIRIT OF BUSHIDO AND CODE OF SAMURAI" IN ASKING RELEASE OF THE INNOCENT CIVILIANS.

THE JAPANESE HAVE THUS FAR CHOSEN TO HIDE BEHIND THE CIVILIANS. SOME WOMEN AND CHILDREN HAVE BEEN FORCED TO WALK INTRAMUROS STREETS IN SIGHT OF AMERICAN GUNNERS.

"I HAVE LOST LOTS OF MY MEN IN MANILA ALREADY," COMMENTED GEN.GRISWOLD AS THE JAPANESE ANSWER WAS AWAITED, "AND MY MILITARY JUDGMENT IS TO RAZE THAT JAPANESE STRONGHOLD BUT THERE MAY BE MANY CIVILIANS STILL THERE--MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN--WHO ARE BOUND TO SUFFER WHATEVER STEPS WE TAKE."

MANILA, MONDAY, FEB 19-(AP)-GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TODAY HAILED THE GALLANT, SACRIFICIAL STAND BY A FORCE OF AMERICAN AND FILIPINO DEFENDERS OF BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR IN 1942 AS A "MAGNIFICENT VICTORY."

"BATAAN, WITH CORREGIDOR THE CITADEL OF ITS EXTERNAL DEFENSE, MADE POSSIBLE ALL THAT HAS HAPPENED SINCE," HE DECLARED IN A NOTE APPENDED TO HIS REGULAR COMMUNIQUE.

"HISTORY, I AM SURE, WILL RECORD IT AS ONE OF THE DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD. ITS LONG PROTRACTED STRUGGLE ENABLED THE UNITED NATIONS TO GATHER STRENGTH TO RESIST IN THE PACIFIC.

"HAD IT NOT HELD OUT, AUSTRALIA WOULD HAVE FALLEN WITH INCALCULABLY DISASTROUS RESULTS. OUR TRIUMPHS OF TODAY BELONG EQUALLY TO THAT DEAD ARMY. ITS HEROISM AND SACRIFICE HAVE BEEN FULLY ACCLAIMED, BUT THE GREAT STRATEGIC RESULTS OF THAT MIGHTY DEFENSE ARE ONLY NOW BECOMING FULLY APPARENT.

"THE BATAAN GARRISON WAS DESTROYED DUE TO ITS DREADFUL HANDICAPS, BUT NO ARMY IN HISTORY MORE THOROUGHLY ACCOMPLISHED ITS MISSION. LET NO MAN HENCEFORTH SPEAK OF IT OTHER THAN AS OF MAGNIFICENT VICTORY."

WITH THE 14TH ARMY CORPS AT MANILA, FEB. 18-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD, WHOSE YANK DOUGHBOYS HAVE THE DIRTY JOB OF CRUSHING THE LAST BITTER JAPANESE RESISTANCE IN MANILA, IS NATURALLY CAUTIOUS--BUT KNOWS WHEN TO THROW CAUTION OVERBOARD.

HE'S THE GENERAL WHO INVITED THE NIPPONESE TRAPPED IN INTRAMUROS (THE WALLED PORTION OF THE CITY) TO SURRENDER, OR AT LEAST TO RELEASE THE HUNDREDS OF UNARMED CIVILIANS WITHIN THE WALLS.

BECAUSE HE FOUGHT LONG UNDER A NAVY COMMAND IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, GENERAL GRISWOLD PERHAPS IS LESS KNOWN THAN OTHER ARMY CORPS COMMANDERS. BUT HE IS AMONG THE MOST EXPERIENCED.

WHEN THE FIGHT FOR NEW GEORGIA IN THE [illegible] SOLOMONS [illegible], ADM.WILLIAM F.HALSEY HUSTLED IN GRISWOLD.
WITHOUT BOTHERING TO SUGAR COAT HIS ACTION, GRISWOLD REFORMED HIS FORCES, SMASHED THROUGH AND CAPTURED THE VITAL MUNDA AIRFIELD.
LAST YEAR BEHIND THE EMPRESS AUGUSTA PERIMETER ON BOUGAINVILLE IN THE NORTHERN SOLOMONS, HIS CORPS DESTROYED AN ENTIRE JAPANESE DIVISION WITH A CASUALTY RATION OF ALMOST 35 NIPPONESE KILLED FOR EVERY ONE AMERICAN.
IN A MESSAGE TO HIS TROOPS BEFORE THE LINGAYEN LANDINGS ON LUZON, GENERAL GRISWOLD SAID:
"WHEN YOU HIT, HIT FAST AND HARD AND MAKE THE ENEMY PLAY YOUR LEAD. YOUR MOST VITAL ASSET IS A DYNAMIC, AGGRESSIVE OFFENSIVE SPIRIT."
I TALKED WITH HIM AT THAT TIME. HE SAID "I BELIEVE IN A STRONG OFFENSIVE BUT I HATE GAMBLING. A MAN CAN GAMBLE WITH HIS MONEY AND LOSE IT ALL. SO WHAT! BUT IN WAR YOU GAMBLE WITH MEN'S LIVES AND NO MAN HAS A RIGHT TO DO THAT IF THERE'S ANY WAY ON EARTH HE CAN AVOID IT."

A21FX

FEB 19 1945

ONE DAY I ACCOMPANIED GRISWOLD ON HIS ROUNDS. IT HAD BEEN A LONG, HARD AND HOT DAY AND THERE WAS MUCH FIGHTING.
ON THE WAY BACK A TRUCK PASSED US EXCEEDING THE SPEED LIMIT. THE "OLD MAN" WAVED DOWN THE DRIVER--A CORPORAL. THE KID GULPED WHEN HE SAW TWO STARS AND YOU COULD SEE HIM SAY TO HIMSELF: "HERE'S WHERE I GET BUSTED CLEAR TO A PRIVATE."
"SON," SAID THE GENERAL, "IT'S BY OBSERVING THESE RULES THAT WE ALL PULL TOGETHER AND IF WE DO THAT WE WILL GET THIS DAMN THING OVER WITH QUICKER AND ALL GO HOME.
"I WANT MY SOLDIERS TO OBEY THE RULES NOT BECAUSE THEY'RE RULES BUT BECAUSE OF WHAT THEY MEAN. WILL YOU JUST HELP ME OUT ON THIS?"
WHEREUPON THE GENERAL SALUTED THE CORPORAL WITH A "THANKS, I KNOW YOU WILL" AND WAVED HIS DRIVER ON.
A LITTLE FARTHER ON WE CAME TO A RIVER WHERE A BULLDOZER WAS CUTTING A NEW APPROACH TO A PONTOON BRIDGE.
GRISWOLD, WALKING FROM JEEP TO 'DOZER, EXCLAIMED: "THAT'S DAMNED FINE WORK YOU'RE DOING, SON. THAT'S THE WAY TO LICK THESE NIPS. THANKS VERY MUCH." AND HE SALUTED THE MAN RUNNING THE 'DOZER.
THE STRAIN IS BEGINNING TO TELL BUT THE "OLD MAN" IS STILL THE FIGHTINGEST SOLDIER IN THE CORPS.
WHEN WE LANDED AT LINGAYEN JAN. 9 GRISWOLD, WHOSE HOME IS ELKO, NEV., COMMANDED THE 37TH AND 40TH DIVISIONS COMPRISING THE 14TH CORPS.
IT LOOKED AS THOUGH HIS JOB WOULD BE TO CLEAN THE JAPANESE OUT OF SOUTH LINGAYEN SWAMPS AND CONTAIN THEIR FLANK IN THE ZAMBALES MOUNTAINS, WHILE THE FIRST CORPS CUT DOWN THROUGH THE VALLEY AND TOOK MANILA.
BUT WAR SELDOM FOLLOWS THE BLUEPRINT. INSTEAD GRISWOLD'S BOYS WHIPPED THROUGH THE SWAMPS ON THE DOUBLE, ROOTED OUT THE ZAMBALES NIPPONESE AND ALMOST OVERNIGHT CROSSED THE FORMIDABLE AGNO RIV AND STRUCK TOWARD MANILA.
NOW GRISWOLD, THE JUNGLE FIGHTER FROM GUADALCANAL, NEW GEORGIA AND BOUGAINVILLE, FINDS HIMSELF DIRECTING THE BATTLE FOR MANILA WITH THE MOST POWERFUL CORPS EVER ASSEMBLED IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC--FIVE DIVISIONS.

BUDGET (650)
MANILA, MONDAY, FEB. 19-(AP)-AMERICAN PARATROOPERS AND INFANTRYMEN SWARMED OVER HISTORIC FORTRESS CORREGIDOR TODAY, CLEANING JAPANESE MARINES FROM DEEP TUNNELS OF THE LAST BARRIER TO THE U.S. FLEET'S TRIUMPHANT RETURN TO MANILA BAY.
INSIDE MANILA, YANK TANK AND ARTILLERYMEN WITHHELD THEIR FIRE AT THE OLD WALLED CITY SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER, AWAITING RESPONSE TO REPEATED AMERICAN APPEALS TO THE JAPANESE TO SURRENDER THEIR HOPELESS POSITION BEHIND THE WALLS OR AT LEAST RELEASE THE THOUSANDS OF CIVILIANS WITHIN THE AREA.
GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR MADE A DRAMATICRETURN TO RECAPTURED BATAAN PENINSULA DURING THE LIGHTNING AMPHIBIOUS AND AERIAL STRIKES WHICH PUT AMERICANS BACK ON CORREGIDOR.
TRAVELING IN A JEEP OVER GROUND HALLOWED BY BATAAN'S 1942 DEFENDERS, MACARTHUR COULD HEAR THE NAVAL SHELLING THAT PRECEDED CORREGIDOR'S REINVASION.
VETERAN SKYTROOPS OF THE 503RD PARACHUTE RGIMENT EFFECTED THE FIRST LANDING ON THE ROCKY FORTRESS AT THE MOUTH OF MANILA BAY. THE PARACHUTISTS CAPTURED THE ISLAND'S DEFENSES AND HUGE GUNS FROM THE REAR.
THE SKYTROOPERS WERE JOINED SHORTLY AFTER THEIR PIN-POINT LANDING ON CORREGIDOR'S PLATEAU BY ELEMENTS OF THE 24TH DIVISION UNDER MAJ. GEN.FREDERICK A.IRVING.
IRVING'S INFANTRYMEN STORMED THE ISLAND'S BEACHES FROM ASSAULT BOATS THAT BROUGHT THEM FROM BATAAN, ACROSS THE NARROW STRAIT.
A PULVERIZING NAVAL BOMBARDMENT AND AERIAL PLASTERING PRECEDED THE CORREGIDOR ASSAULT. JAPANESE GUNFIRE WAS SPORADIC AND INEFFECTIVE.
"THE RECAPTURE OF BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR CLEARS THE ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY AND OPENS THIS GREAT HARBOR TO OUR FLEETS," MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED.

FEB 19 1945

A28FX
IN TOURING BATAAN MACARTHUR HAD ATTEMPTED TO PUSH THROUGH STILL HOSTILE JUNGLES TO WITNESS THE PARATROOP LANDINGS ON CORREGIDOR, BUT A DAMAGED BRIDGE PREVENTED HIS GETTING A RINGSIDE SEAT.
WITH THE THUNDER OF NAVAL GUNS IN HIS EARS, MACARTHUR TOLD A COMPANION:
"THIS VISIT IS EASING AN ACHE THAT HAS BEEN IN MY HEART FOR THREE YEARS."
THE NAVAL GUNS WERE THOSE OF THE SEVENTH FLEET FORCING THE FOUR MILE CHANNEL TO POUND CORREGIDOR. WITH THE ISLAND CLEAR, THE FLEET COULD STEAM INTO THE BROAD HARBOR AND BRING ITS GUNS TO PLAY ON THE TRAPPED AND BITTERLY RESISTING JAPANESE GARRISON IN THE SHELL AND MINE-TORN AREA OF SOUTH MANILA.
YANKS RINGING THE INTRAMUROS (WALLED CITY) HELD THEIR FIRE IN AN ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN RELEASE OF THOUSANDS OF CIVILIANS, WHO ARE IN EFFECT PRISONERS OF THE JAPANESE SUICIDE TROOPS.
MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD, COMMANDER OF THE 14TH CORPS OF THE U.S. SIXTH ARMY, REPEATED A SECOND TIME HIS SURRENDER DEMAND TO THE JAPANESE IN INTRAMUROS, WITH ITS ALTERNATIVE OF TURNING OVER THE NONCOMBATANTS, BEFORE RESUMPTION OF AMERICAN PRESSURE.
SO FAR THE JAPANESE HAVE IGNORED THE DEMAND.
AMERICAN GUNS HAD FIRED POINTBLANK AT THE THICK WALLS OF THE INTRAMUROS, OPENING A BREACH NEAR THE EAST ENTRANCE.
RUSSELL BRINES, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT, SAID THAT AFTER EACH SALVO FILIPINO CIVILIANS, INCLUDING WOMEN AND CHILDREN, EMERGED FROM THEIR HIDING PLACES AND WALKED BACK AND FORTH IN FULL VIEW OF AMERICAN OBSERVERS WHO COULD SEE OVER THE WALL.

A29FX

BRINES SAID THE APPEARANCE OF THE CIVILIANS APPARENTLY WAS A JAPANESE TRICK TO SAVE THE TRAPPED ENEMY FROM A STEADY BARRAGE.

THE LOGICAL METHOD OF ANNIHILATING THE INTRAMUROS DEFENDERS WOULD BE THROUGH AERIAL FLATTENING OF THE STRONGPOINTS, BUT GENERAL GRISWOLD SAID "WE DON'T FEEL JUSTIFIED IN SENTENCING THOSE CIVILIANS TO DEATH," BRINES SAID.

MACARTHUR REPORTED AMERICAN PATROLS WERE ACTIVE AROUND FORT WILLIAM MCKINLEY, SOUTH OF MANILA. THE 40TH DIVISION TO THE NORTHWEST IN THE ZAMBALES MOUNTAINS ELIMINATED OTHER ENEMY GROUPS.

BUT THE REAL DRAMATIC ACTION WAS ON CORREGIDOR.

THE PARATROOPERS--VETERANS OF THE NEW GUINEA CAMPAIGN WHO CLOSED THE CIRCLE AT LAE--JUMPED IN TEN-MAN TEAMS. MOST OF THEM LANDED ATOP THE "ROCK"; OTHERS, HOWEVER, WERE CARRIED BY WINDS OVER THE CLIFF AND INTO THE CHANNEL WHERE ALERT P-T BOATS PICKED THEM UP. SOME WERE KILLED IN JUMPING.

AP CORRESPONDENT JAMES HUTCHESON, ABOARD A P-T BOAT, WATCHED THE LEYTE-FAMED 24TH STORM ASHORE. HE TOLD OF A RED SMOKE SIGNAL ON THE ISLAND'S CREST WHICH CONFIRMED THE JUNCTION OF WATERBORNE INVADERS WITH THE SKYTROOPS.

BY RUSSEL BRINES

A FORWARD OBSERVATION POST, MANILA, FEB.17-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN GUNS OPENED A POINTBLANK ATTACK ON THE THICK WALLS OF INTRAMUROS THE WALLED SECTION OF MANILA, AS PART OF AN INTENSIFIED ARTILLERY SHELLING OF BATTERED STRONGPOINTS WHERE JAPANESE ARE STILL HOLDING OUT DESPITE TWO WEEKS OF SIEGE.

THE DRAMATIC USE OF MODERN ARMS AGAINST MEDIEVAL FORTIFICATIONS EMPHASIZED THE SLOW, PATIENT DEMOLITION NECESSITATED BY THE AMERICANS' DECISION TO SPARE AS MANY AS POSSIBLE OF THE CIVILIAN HOSTAGES HELD BY THE JAPANESE. THUS FAR THEY HAVE REFRAINED FROM LEVELLING THE WALLED CITY BY AERIAL BOMBARDMENT.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY HAS SHELLED EVERY IDENTIFIABLE JAPANESE OCCUPIED BUILDING IN THE INTRAMUROS, BUT HERETOFORE HAD NOT ATTEMPTED TO BREACH THE SURROUNDING WALLS.

THE GUNS HAVE MADE AN OPENING FOR INFANTRYMEN ADJACENT TO THE NARROW EAST ENTRANCE ARCHWAY.

MEANWHILE TANKS ON THE NORTHERN SHORE OF THE PASIG RIVER POUNDED THE NORTHERN WALL AT A RANGE OF LESS THAN 200 YARDS.

THE SHELLING DISCLOSED A NEW JAPANESE TRICK TO SAVE THE ENTRAPPED GARRISON FROM A STEADY BARRAGE. AFTER EACH SALVO FILIPINO CIVILIANS INCLUDING WOMEN AND CHILDREN EMERGED FROM SOME HIDING PLACE AND WALKED IN FULL VIEW OF AMERICAN OBSERVERS WHO WERE ABLE TO SEE OVER THE WALLS.

(LATER THE AMERICANS WITHHELD THEIR FIRE AWAITING REPLY TO A REPEATED CALL TO THE JAPANESE TO SURRENDER OR PERMIT THE CIVILIANS TO LEAVE THE CROWDED AREA WITHIN THE OLD WALLS.)

WE SAW THE CIVILIANS AMID THE RUBBLE OF THE OTHERWISE DESERTED STREET FILIPINO WOMEN WHO PACED BACK AND FORTH IN THE MOST CONSPICIOUS PLACE THEY COULD FIND WITH THEIR CHILDREN TAGGING AFTER THEM. EACH WOAMN HAD HER HEAD COVERED WITH A HANDKERCHIEF OR SCARF AS THEY CUSTOMARILY DO BEFORE ENTERING CHURCH.

PERHAPS THEY WERE PRAYING WHILE WALKING.

A63FX

THESE AND POSSIBLY OTHER HUNDREDS OF CIVILIAN HOSTAGES PRESENTED A GRAVE PROBLEM FOR THE AMERICAN COMMAND. THE LOGICAL MILITARY METHOD OF MINIMIZE THE JAPANESE DEFENSE WOULD BE A COMPLETE AERIAL FLATTENING OF THE WALLED CITY AND OTHER STRONGPOINTS, BUT THE MAJORITY OF THE CIVILIANS WOULD DOUBTLESS SHARE THE FATE OF THE JAPANESE GARRISON.

"WE DON'T FEEL JUSTIFIED SENTENCING THOSE CIVILIANS TO DEATH," SAID MAJ.GEN. OSCAR W.GRISWOLD, ELKO, NEV., COMMANDER OF THE 14TH CORPS. "IT WAS A DIFFICULT DECISION TO MAKE, BUT THE ONLY HUMANE ONE."

THE JAPANESE ARE EXPLOITING THIS SITUATION TO THE FULLEST DITCH FIGHT.

THUS THEY CAN HOLD UP THE AMERICANS WITH RELATIVELY SMALL GARRISONS IN KEY POINTS. IN ONE POLICE STATION THE YANKS RETURNED TODAY IN A SECOND ATTEMPT TO ROOT OUT A JAPANESE FORCE OF PROBABLY 50 MEN. THE AMERICANS ONCE OCCUPIED THE FIRST TWO FLOORS IN ONE WING OF THE BUILDING, BUT THE JAPANESE ON THE THIRD FLOOR DROVE THEM OUT BY DROPPING HAND GRENADES THROUGH CRACKS IN THE FLOORS AND BY SWEEPING THE CORRIDORS WITH MACHINE GUNS.

GRISWOLD SAID AMERICAN COMBAT DEATHS HAVE BEEN LOWER THAN EXPECTED IN THIS TYPE OF OPERATION ALTHOUGH THE WOUNDED CASUALTIES HAVE BEEN HIGH.

THERE IS NO LONGER ANY QUESTION OF PRESERVING NOTABLE BUILDINGS JUST BECAUSE OF THEIR NOTABILITY--MOST OF THEM ARE ALREADY RUINED.

THE MANILA HOTEL AND PERALTA APARTMENTS ARE AMONG THE MAJOR BUILDINGS EXCEPT CHURCHES WHICH APPEAR TO HAVE ESCAPED DAMAGE AND THEY ARE PROBABLY HOUSING THE REMAINING HIGH-RANKING JAPANESE OFFICERS.

THE BAYVIEW HOTEL AND THE UNIVERSITY CLUB HAVE BEEN COMPLETELY GUTTED. THE LEGISLATIVE BUILDING AND NEARBY STERNBERG HOSPITAL ALSO HAVE BEEN BADLY DAMAGED.

BY FRED HAMPSON (300)

FEB 19 1945

MANILA,FEB.17-(DELAYED)-(AP)-ANOTHER BARRIER, BEHIND WHICH AMERICANS, FILIPINOS AND OTHER NATIONALS WERE TRAPPED IN BATTLE-TORN MANILA, WAS BROKEN TODAY AS UNITED STATES TROOPS CAPTURED THE BULK OF THE PHILIPPINE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

SOME 7,000 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN, INCLUDING ABOUT 100 AMERICANS, WERE LIBERATED. AT LEAST 400 WERE HOSPITAL PATIENTS, SOME SERIOUSLY ILL, INCLUDING 50 AMERICANS. THE AMERICAN PATIENTS WERE MOSTLY FROM THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP.

OTHERS LIBERATED WERE DOCTORS, NURSES AND THOUSANDS OF REFUGEES FROM THE PACO, ERMITA AND INTRAMUROS SECTIONS OF THE CITY.

LT.COL.H.W.RADCLIFFE'S SECOND BATTALION OF THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION'S 148TH REGIMENT FOUGHT INTO THE WRECKAGE OF THE HOSPITAL AND STARTED THE WORK OF RESCUE.

MANY JAPANESE WERE STILL IN SOME REMAINING BUILDINGS AND THEIR SNIPER FIRE COMPLICATED THE EVACUATION.

STREETS AND ALLEYS LEADING TO THE PASIG RIVER CROSSINGS AND THE SAFETY OF AMERICAN OCCUPIED NORTHERN MANILA WERE QUICKLY JAMMED WITH GUANT, TOTTERING PATIENTS AND THE REFUGEES WITH THEIR HEAPS OF BELONGINGS.

SOLDIERS AND RED CROSS WORKERS DID WHAT THEY COULD TO HELP UNTIL AMBULANCES AND TRUCKS ARRIVED TO SPEED THE EVACUATION.

THE THOUSANDS LIBERATED WERE EXHAUSTED AND TERRIFIED. FOR THE LAST THREE DAYS THEY HAD CROUCHED BEHIND WHAT SHELTER THEY COULD FIND WHILE SOME OF THE BITTEREST FIGHT IN THE BATTLE FOR MANILA RAGED ABOUT THEM.

HOSPITAL DOCTORS REPORTED THAT A NUMBER OF PERSONS, MOSTLY REFUGEES DRIVEN FROM THEIR HOMES BY FIRES AND ARTILLERY, HAD BEEN KILLED WHEN JAPANESE INCENDIARISTS BURNED ALL BUT A FEW OF THE HOSPITAL BUILDINGS.

THE PROBLEM OF HOUSING 7,000 MORE PEOPLE IN THE WRECKED CITY WAS ALMOST INSURMOUNTABLE. THE REMAINING HOUSES ARE ALREADY PACKED WITH THE WOUNDED, SICK, HOMELESS AND HUNGRY VICTIMS OF WAR; NOT TO SPEAK OF THE THOUSANDS OF TROOPS ENGAGED IN THE BATTLE.

BY RICHARD BERGHOLZ

MANILA,FEB.17-(DELAYED)-(AP)-BROTHER RAYMOND OF THE ORDER OF LASALLE SAT QUIETLY AMONG HIS FEW REMAINING POSSESSIONS WITHIN SIGHT OF THE BURNING PHILIPPINES GENERAL HOSPITAL AND RELATED HOW THE JAPANESE FORCED MEMBERS OF THE ORDER TO STAY IN EXPOSED POSITIONS.

FIFTEEN OF THEIR NUMBER, HE SAID, WERE KILLED IN THE FIGHTING WHICH LED TO LIBERATION OF 7,000 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WHEN THE SECOND BATTALION OF THE 37TH DIVISION'S 148TH INFANTRY REGIMENT FOUGHT INTO THE BUILDINGS.

SIX YEARS AGO BROTHER RAYMOND WAS AN INSTRUCTOR OF LATIN AT SAINT AUGUSTIN DIOCESAN HIGH SCHOOL IN BROOKLYN,N.Y. HIS CHRISTIAN NAME IS MICHAEL BERRY. HIS HOME IS AT 141 CHAMBERS ST., NEWBURG,N.Y.

THE GAUNT, HEAVILY-BEARDED 28-YEAR-OLD CATHOLIC EDUCATOR TOLD HOW 31 AMERICANS IN WARD NINE LIVED DURING THE LAST THREE DAYS WHILE THE JAPANESE MADE THE HOSPITAL A DEFENSIVE STRONGHOLD.

BROTHER RAYMOND, WHO HAD BEEN HELD BY THE JAPANESE IN THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP BEFORE BEING TRANSFERRED TO THE HOSPITAL, SAID THE JAPANESE REFUSED TO LET ANY PATIENTS LEAVE THE HOSPITAL BEFO OR DURING THE SIEGE.

"OUR FOOD BEGAN DWINDLING A WEEK AGO," H SAID. "YESTERDAY THEY GAVE US NO FOOD ALL DAY. THEY MADE US STAY IN WARD NINE, WHICH IS NEAR THE FRONT WALL OF THE HOSPITAL, WHEN TANKS BEGAN ASSAULTING THE FRONT ENTRANCE AND ARTILLERY STARTED HITTING THE ROOF.

"YESTERDAY WHILE WE WERE LYING ON THE FLOOR OF THE WARD TWO SHELLS CRASHED INTO THE WARD. ONE HIT THE TOILET AND THE OTHER LIT IN THE PANTRY, BUT FORTUNATELY BOTH WERE DUDS.

"YESTERDAY WHEN THE AMERICANS WERE HEAVILY ASSAULTING THE FRONT ENTRANCE I COUNTED 18 JAPS, ALL ARMED, WHO CAME INTO THE CROWDED WARD AND STAYED UNTIL THE BARRAGE SLACKENED."

ON THE WHOLE, BROTHER RAYMOND SAID, THE JAPANESE DID NOT MOLEST THE PATIENTS IN THE HOSPITAL, BUT AT DE LASALLE COLLEGE, WHICH THE LASALLE BROTHERS CONDUCT ADJACENT TO THE HOSPITAL, HE SAID THE JAPANESE REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE "ANY PRECEPTS OF COMMON DECENCY OR INTERNATIONAL LAW."

A208FX

"TWO WEEKS AGO," HE RELATED, "THE JAPS TOLD OUR BROTHERS THEY MUST LEAVE THE COLLEGE WITHIN 48 HOURS BECAUSE THEY WERE GOING TO FIGHT FOR EVERY ROOM AND EVERY CORRIDOR IN THE BUILDING.

"OUR BROTHERS PROTESTED TO A JAP OFFICER, TELLING HIM THE COLLEGE WAS A CATHOLIC DENOMINATIONAL INSTITUTION AND SHOULD BE EVACUATED BY THE JAPS.

"WHAT HAPPENED THEN IS NOT ENTIRELY CLEAR EXCEPT THAT WE KNOW THIS MUCH FOR SURE: 15 BROTHERS WERE HELD IN THE INSTITUTION AND PLACED IN SUCH ROOMS THAT THEY ALL WERE KILLED IN THE FIGHTING."

MEXICO CITY, FEB 18-(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE WERE REPORTED TODAY TO BE EXPECTING ARGENTINA TO DECLARE WAR SOON ON THE AXIS NATIONS.

IF ARGENTINA TOOK SUCH A STEP QUICKLY, IT MIGHT CHANGE THE COMPLEXION OF THE CONFERENCE, WHICH IS FOR AMERICAN REPUBLICS COOPERATING IN THE WAR EFFORT.

ADD MEX. CITY XX COOPERATION

REPORTS THAT ARGENTINA SOON MAY DECLARE WAR ON GERMANY WERE WERE THE SUBJECT OF MANY INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS AMONG DELEGATES ALREADY ON THE SCENE, BUT THE ONLY PUBLIC REFERENCE TO ARGENTINA WAS A STATEMENT BY GALO PLAZAO, ECUADORIAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, WHO SAID HIS COUNTRY'S DELEGATION, HE BELIEVED, WOULD "DO ITS BEST TO GET THE ARGENTINE CASE SETTLED."

FEB 19 1945

SEVERAL DELEGATES FROM SOUTH AMERICA, ALTHOUGH INCLINED TO DOUBT THAT ARGENTINA WOULD TAKE THE STEP, ADMITTED THAT A DECLARATION OF WAR BY THAT NATION WOULD RAISE A DIFFICULT PROBLEM AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN SAN FRANCISCO BECAUSE OF THE SOVIET UNION'S PERSISTENT ATTACKS ON THE PRESENT ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT.

STETTINIUS AND BRAZILIAN FOREIGN MINISTER PEDRO LEAO VELLOSO ARE EXPECTED TO ARRIVE FROM BUENOS AIRES TUESDAY.

PRESENT INDICATIONS ARE THAT THE CONFERENCE HERE WILL BE MORE OPEN TO THE PRESS THAN OTHER INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL MEETINGS HELD DURING THE WAR. THERE ARE NO RESTRICTIONS ON REPORTERS' ACCESS TO THE DELEGATES, AS WAS THE CASE AT THE UNITED NATIONS FOOD CONFERENCE AND THE FIRST UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION CONFERENCE. PLENARY SESSIONS ARE TO BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, ALTHOUGH MOST OF THE CONFERENCE WORK WILL BE DONE IN COMMITTE MEETINGS.

THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT ESTIMATES THAT APPROXIMATELY 200 CORRESPONDENTS, INCLUDING 40 FROM THE UNITED STATES, HAVE BEEN SENT TO COVER THE CONFERENCE. STORIES CONCERNING THE MEETING SENT TO THE UNITED STATES MUST BE PASSED BY BOTH MEXICAN AND UNITED STATES CENSORS.

YANKS ESTABLISH LARGE BEACHHEAD IN BLOODY FIGHT

Casualties Reported Heavy As Leathernecks Push Inland.

REACH AIRFIELD

Terrific Naval, Air Barrage Supports Attack by U. S. Troops.

Wire

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20.—(AP) The 30,000 Marines of Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fifth Marine corps "are taking Iwo island," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said with conviction today, although front line reports made clear the battle is fierce and is costing considerable lives.

NIGHT

Nimitz, whose last communique said the Leathernecks had carved out a beachhead 4,500 yards long and 500 yards deep on the southeast coast in a drive which has reached one airfield, expressed confidence in the success of the operation in a message to the fleet.

He said in his message that the same skill, courage and teamwork displayed by carried pilots over Tokyo "are now being displayed by forces which are taking Iwo island only 660 (nautical) miles from Tokyo." The statute mile distance is 750.

Savage Battle Raging

Broadcasts today from Guam all agreed a costly and savage battle is raging on the tiny island in the Volcano group.

Nimitz' message to the fleet said display of the same qualities now bearing fruit in the current operations "will bring success when our troops land in Japan itself."

The Marines landed Monday morning.

In a broadcast 28 hours later from the bridge of Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner's flagship, Don Pryor, representing the combined networks, said there had been a continuous "vast display of fireworks."

From the flagship, Iwo looked to him "like a garbage scow—serviceable but without charm."

He said the Marines had to drive up straight rocky hillsides to reach a plateau "and the Japs are showing that they won't let go without a bloody fight."

Larry Tighe, Blue network war correspondent, said in a broadcast today there was sound reason for believing "the stiffest fight yet faced by the Fourth Marine division (it includes veterans of every Marine landing since Guadalcanal in August, 1942) is now going on at the south end of Iwo island."

He added:

"This may be officially confirmed at any moment."

Marines Secure Beachhead

In a Tuesday broadcast from Guam, Robert McCormick, NBC war corresponent, said the Marines already are so strongly established that the enemy has no hope of driving them off the island but "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men."

McCormick said the Nipponese are holed up in thousands of natural hideouts such as caves from which they are resisting fiercely, emerging at times into the open.

American commanders said initial progress was "satisfactory." The Marines speedily reached Iwo's important bomber airfield and penetrated its defenses.

Within two hours after the first barges had grated ashore Monday morning, the Marines had pushed halfway up the dark sandy beaches of this rocky island that may prove tougher than Tarawa. First official reports said American casualties were "moderate."

The Marines struck in the wake of a terrific naval and air barrage, the most merciless and concentrated bombardment of the Pacific war.

The Japanese fought back with fanatical fury from strong inland positions. They used artillery, mortar, machinegun and rifle fire in their efforts to hold back the determined Leathernecks.

Japanese positions apparently were located in the northern sector of Iwo and in the steep sides and crater of the extinct Suribachi volcano at the southwestern tip of the sulphur producing island which has an area of only eight square miles.

Suribachi, 546 feet high, commands the beachhead and the lowlands which afforded only the scantiest cover to the Americans facing enemy defenses pouring forth mortar and artillery fire.

This closest ground approach to Japan was made by the veteran Fourth Marine division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, and the new Fifth Marine division. The latter, composed of veterans of Guadalcanal, Tulagi and Bougainville and new men, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey.

In the pre-invasion softening up, Iwo had been hit daily by heavy bombers, including B-29s on some raids, for 72 days. It also had been shelled by U. S. warships on 10 separate missions.

The Iwo invasion was quickly followed by a smashing American Superfortress attack in great strength against the Tokyo district. The B-29s from Marianas bases lashed the heart of Japan Monday afternoon (Tokyo Time). It was the heaviest Superfort attack on Japan proper and came on the heels of mighty aerial strikes against Tokyo by waves of carrier planes from the Fifth fleet that moved in close to Japanese shores to throw blistering naval sky power against Nippon's airfields and aircraft industries.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said Sunday night in his first communique on Iwo ground fighting that "the operation is proceeding satisfactorily."

Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of the Pacific Marines, said "our men are spread all over hell's acre out there. And they are going after those hidden Jap guns which are mighty hard to locate." He declared "overall progress is satisfactory."

Casualties Considerable

Initial casualties were described as "considerable" by eye witnesses aboard Vice Adm. Richmond Kelley Turner's flagship. The admiral is the top amphibious commander.

Describing the landing Morris Landsberg Associated Press war correspondent aboard the flagship, said the Japanese on Iwo "abandoned their beach positions under the devastating American bombardment before the Marines swarmed ashore."

The Marines, he said, tumbled into long stretches of abandoned Japanese trenches to escape concentrated artillery and mortar fire.

Joseph Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer, who was ashore with the Leathernecks, said they were advancing from shell hole to shell hole.

There was no doubt about it—the American beachhead was secure. It extends almost two and a half miles northward from the Suribachi volcano.

More than 800 ships were in the invasion armada. Admiral Nimitz said only two "light units" were damaged. The invasion fleet included battleships of the most modern type and heaviest tonnage as well as resurrected survivors of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

Just before the invasion, as the naval guns thundered, swarms of rocket-firing planes raked the beaches. Then carrier planes went in to dump explosives just ahead of the Leathernecks.

A terrific fight was soon under way as the Japanese recovered from their initial shock. Nippon fire intensified as the Marines moved inland. When the more rugged volcanic country back from the beaches was reached, the Leathernecks used flame-throwers to burn out pillboxes.

The American carrier plane attacks on Tokyo Feb. 6 and 7, which immobilized enemy air strength in preparation for the Iwo invasion, was a "decisive victory," Admiral Nimitz said in a communique late Sunday night. Weather "so adverse as to handicap enemy air operation" enabled the carrier force to approach Japan secretly, scoring "complete tactical surprise."

Nimitz gave these results of the two days of attacks:

A total of 659 Japanese planes destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged on the first day—332 shot out of the air, 177 demolished on the ground and at least 150 probably destroyed or damaged—and "an unknown number damaged on the second day."

One enemy escort carrier bombed and set afire and left lying on her side at Yokohama; nine coastal vessels, one destroyer, two destroyer escorts, and one cargo ship sunk; twenty-two coastal vessels damaged; many smaller craft destroyed or damaged.

Extensive damage done to numerous airfields and to airplane and engine plants.

American airplane losses were listed as forty-nine, with thirty to forty pilots lost. No American warship was damaged, Nimitz reported, as combat air patrols turned back every enemy air attempt to get at the American task force.

GREAT BATTLE RAGES ON 2-MILE BEACHHEAD

American Losses Reported Considerable—Japs Resist Fiercely From Heavily Fortified Positions in Volcano.

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—United States Marines pushed 600 yards up rugged slopes from the beachhead on Iwo Island today to penetrate the important bomber air strip.

The Japs resisted furiously from heavily fortified positions, despite the continuing bombardment by warships of America's Fifth Fleet.

First eyewitness accounts from the flagship of Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, commanding the amphibious operation, said casualties among the Marines were considerable.

The tiny, porkchop-shaped island, invaded at 9 A. M. Monday (Guam time), was a prize the Japs defended with all their fanatical fury.

Reach Airstrip in First Day.

Invading Marines of the Fifth Corps, America's oldest amphibious outfit, advanced from the south and east beaches. They reached the bomber strip, most important of Iwo's three airfields (one still under construction) in the first-day struggle.

Jap artillery, mortar, machine gun and rifle fire raked the ranks of the veteran Fourth Marine Division and the new Fifth Division, making up the invading force, throughout the day.

Lieut.-Gen. Holland M. Smith, commanding the Fifth Corps, said from his command post aboard Admiral Turner's flagship: "Our men are spread all over hell's acre out there. And they're going after those hidden Jap guns, which are mighty hard to locate."

Leaders Well Satisfied.

Admiral Turner said the over-all progress is satisfactory. He declared that the pre-invasion bombardment by warships of the United States Fifth Fleet had cleaned out some heavier Jap guns but by no means all of them. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communique announcing the invasion said the operation is proceeding satisfactorily.

The beachhead extends for nearly two and a half miles northward from the volcano at the southern tip of the island.

Admiral Nimitz credited B-29s and submarines with helping pave the way for this morning's invasion of the island whose seizure will step up the air offensive against Tokyo where the Fifth Fleet Air Arm destroyed or damaged thirty-six ships and 759 planes in two days before withdrawing.

Thousands of rockets raked the southern Iwo beaches climaxing the heavy naval bombardment which included the batteries of such ancient battleships as the Nevada, sunk at Pearl Harbor and resurrected to help pave the way for the invasion of Normandy and now a stepping-stone island to Tokyo.

Two light units of the heavy supporting fleet of more than 300 ships were damaged.

Resistance was originally light but Jap counter-fire, at first sporadic, steadily intensified as the Marines smashed against the enemy intrenched in ridges and burned them out of pill boxes with flamethrowers.

Warships, which Tokyo said encircled the island, furnished artillery support while swarms of carrier planes dived on the Japanese in front of the Marines' path.

Airfield is Objective.

The immediate objective was Iwo's main airfield from which land-based American fighters and medium bombers will be able to strike the Nipponese homeland for the first time.

Battleships, including new 45,000-tonners, and cruisers bombarded the eight-square-mile island since Friday to soften the coastal defenses.

Iwo had undergone the most intensive neutralization campaign of the Pacific war. Daily since December 7, heavy bombers dumped explosives on the airstrip—bothersome to the B-29 base at Saipan—and coastal guns. On ten different missions United States warships shelled the island. But still the Japs were very much in business on Iwo, and managed to mount fighters and send up anti-aircraft fire.

"Ghastly Interception Battle"

The Japanese Domei news agency's version of the landing said the Yanks invaded beaches on the south and east coasts and that heavy fighting was in progress. Domei termed it a "ghastly interception battle."

Japanese broadcasters earlier reported that four American attempts to invade Iwo had been "frustrated."

The 4th and 5th Marine Divisions of the 5th Marine Corps, under Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, invaded the gourd-shaped island, which is so close to Tokyo it is administered by the Tokyo prefecture.

Four Jap Warships Sunk

Admiral Nimitz's communiqué came only an hour after his announcement that Vice Admiral Marc Mitscher's 5th Fleet carrier-plane raids on the Tokyo-Yokohama industrial area Friday and Saturday, in which 1,500 American warcraft hit the surprised Japanese, in highly successful.

Nimitz said the attacks a prise and wiped out 509 enemy aircraft in the air and on the ground, sank four warships and ten cargo vessels and damaged a number of vital war plants.

A total of 332 Japanese aircraft were destroyed in the air and 177 on the ground. At least 150 more were damaged. An escort carrier was set afire and went down by the bow near Yokohama. One destroyer and two escort destroyers were sunk.

Nimitz said 49 American planes and 30 to 40 United States flyers were lost, but "none of our ships suffered damage from enemy action."

Nimitz Praises All Hands

He praised all hands for "a very-well-done job," saying that "only the courage and skill and intelligent teamwork by every member of Task Force 58 could have produced these historic results."

The invasion of Iwo Jima left "all Japan jittering in the shadow of invasion," Elmont Waite, Associated Press correspondent, wrote from Pacific Fleet headquarters.

The invasion, supported by the world's largest sea force, forecasts terrific aerial attacks on the enemy soon and a strangling sea-air blockade.

Waite suggested that "both could be the prelude to actual invasion of Japan itself."

Jap Inner Ring Breached

The seizure of Iwo, 675 statute miles south and a little east of closest point of Honshu, the main Japanese homeland island, breaches the inner ring of Japan's empire defenses and eliminates the island as a threat to the Tokyo-raiding Superfortress base in the Marianas, 800 miles to the south.

The 5th Fleet, under Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, including more fast battleships and cruisers than ever before were assembled for any operation, provides a safeguard against a Japanese naval thrust toward the Iwo beaches.

In the face of such an overwhelming American naval force so close to Tokyo, it was doubtful the elusive Japanese fleet would venture within range. Bombers flying from the mainland were the sole immediate threat.

Formed By Two Volcanoes

Iwo Jima is formed by two volcanoes, Suribachi Yama, in the southwest part, and Moto Yama, on the northwest end. These are connected by a narrow neck of lowland. Suribachi is extinct and offers tough defensive positions. Moto Yama still emits steam and sulphur vapors.

Iwo has two operative airfields and a third under construction. The main field is toward the southern end. It has three runways in a triangular pattern, the longest able to accommodate heavy bombers.

There is no large or protected anchorage. Ships anchor offshore and unload by lighters.

Population II Japanese

The 1943 population of Iwo was 1,091 persons—all Japanese. Thus the marines for the first time in the war were on hostile land. Guerrillas, or at least neutral natives, have populated all previous areas invaded by the Yanks.

Immediately north of Iwo are the Bonin Islands, including Chichi Jima and Haha Jima, 100 and 120 miles, respectively, from Iwo. Haha has an excellent anchorage. Chichi is an important airbase.

United States bombers have hit these islands many times, and carrier planes in support of the three-day shelling of Iwo flew into the Bonins and sank sixteen Japanese ships.

General Schmidt commanded the 5th Amphibious Corps. The 4th Marines were under Maj. Gen. Clifton C. Cates and the 5th Marines under Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey.

Battleships In Bombardment

Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon commanded the air support.

Admiral Nimitz's communiqué said the old battleships Texas, New York, Nevada, Arkansas, Idaho and Tennessee participated in the pre-invasion bombardment.

It was the first marine show since their invasion of the Palaus last September 14.

Larry Tighe, Blue network correspondent, said the marines were meeting on Iwo "a different series of obstacles from they have ever before encountered, for of all the unhappy clumps of rocks that are lying around the Pacific, Iwo Jima is one of the most unprepossessing."

Text Of Communique

Text of Communiqué No. 26 issued by Admiral Nimitz:

"The marines who landed on Iwo Island in the Volcanoes have established a beachhead along the southeast shoreline extending from the Volcano at the southern tip of the island 4,500 yards northward. The operation is proceeding satisfactorily.

"The landing was made at 0900 today (east longitude date) against resistance which was light initially. Sporadic artillery and mortar fire encountered in the early hours on the beaches increased markedly after the drive inland began. Our casualties are moderate.

"By 1100 penetrations from the beaches were generally about 500 yards in depth, and at that time advance units of the attackers had reached the southern end of the southern airfield and had penetrated the airfield defenses east of the airstrip.

Message Sent To Units

"The troops went ashore after intense bombardment by heavy units of the United States Pacific Fleet and heavy bombing by carrier air groups.

"Two light units of the supporting fleet task force suffered some damage during the prelanding attack.

"A message has been sent to the units concerned as follows:

"'The commander in chief, Pacific Ocean areas, joins the commander of the 5th Fleet and the commander of the 1st Carrier Task Force in appreciation of the assistance and co-operation provided by the 21st Bomber Command, the submarines, Pacific, and Fleet Air Wing 1 in connection with the carrier attack on Tokyo.'"

Iwo Beach Posts Cleared Before U.S. Landing

By Morrie Landsberg

Aboard Expeditionary Force Flagship off Iwo Jima [Via Navy Radio] Feb. 19 (AP)—Japanese defenders of Iwo Jima abandoned their beach positions under the devastating American bombardment before marines swarmed ashore today.

Thousands of yards of trenches were left for welcome use by the marines.

They jumped into these to escape the intense artillery and mortar fire turned upon the beaches by the Japanese from inland positions.

Advance To Shell Holes

Associated Press Photographer Joseph Rosenthal, who went ashore, said the marines were advancing from shell hole to shell hole. These and bomb craters were made by the intense American bombing and bombardment.

Rosenthal said he made his way 200 yards inland and 600 yards southward along the beach without seeing a single Japanese body.

The Japanese apparently moved back from the beaches and went underground, as they did at Peleliu in the Palaus, where it took months to dig them out.

Heavy Fighting On Iwo Described

San Francisco, Feb. 19—American marines have smashed their way several hundred yards up the steep, rocky hillside at the southern end of Iwo Jima. Tom Pryor radio correspondent, reported today in a broadcast over the Blue network. He said the marines secured a beachhead extending a quarter of the length of the island.

Broadcasting from the flagship of the fleet off Iwo Jima, Pryor said the Yanks advanced in the face of heavy Japanese fire, and were fighting in the midst of fire and smoke.

"How many casualties we have suffered, I don't know," he said, pointing out that the marines are fighting for what is considered "the heaviest fortified bastion of its size in the world."

Iwo Jima Ablaze As Yanks Land

By William F. Tyree

[Representing the combined American press, distributed by the Associated Press]

Aboard a Navy Liberator Bomber over Iwo Jima, Feb. 19 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—Tiny, tough Iwo Jima was ablaze from end to end today as our bomber dropped down into its battle smoke to watch wave after wave of marines plow ashore from an 800-ship invasion armada for a showdown fight in the enemy's front yard.

From 1,000 feet over the beachhead, it was obvious that the marines had a terrific battle on their hands.

Even as the mighty battleships, cruisers and destroyers circled endlessly, sending crushing salvos into the volcanic slopes of the island, I could see marines dashing for cover on the rocky southeastern beach. Some were far inland toward the airstrip.

Japs Fighting Back

However, the Japanese certainly were fighting back from their underground defenses. Twice as we swung over Mount Suribachi's crater at the south end of the island and around the northern wooded section, the Japanese gave us bursts of anti-aircraft.

While their defenses were being riddled by offshore bombardments, some fire twinkled at us from the ground.

As we approached the island, hundreds of small craft moved toward the beach, unleashing a fierce barrage of thousands of rockets.

Waves of marines followed within 45 minutes.

Smoke, Dust Cover Island

Smoke and dust covered the entire island. Iwo itself looked like a fat pork chop sizzling in the skillet as carrier planes swept in under us, strafing and bombing every installation they could find.

One fighter crashed in flames just inland from where the marines struggled to consolidate their beachhead. In the calm waters off the island, hundreds of ships maneuvered endlessly while old pre-war battleships belched shells from their squat gun platforms.

There wasn't a single Japanese plane in the sky.

Iwo Named "Hot Rock"

Iwo Island appropriately was named "Hot Rock" for the occasion of this attack. Our aircraft personnel chattered furiously over the command frequency as they took stations for continuing the fight.

Two navy photographic planes with Webley Edwards of CBS, representing the combined networks, and myself, representing the combined American press, took off from the Marianas early this morning, but Edwards's plane was "Lucky Louie." It got there first and mine, "The Lemon," lived up to its name and sprang a disastrous gas leak three hours out.

Yanks Call For Fire Support

After a disheartening return to base, the pilot, Lieut. Com. L. R. Gehlback, Beason, Ill., grabbed us another bomber and we reached the target about 10 A.M., just as the fight began to get rough.

The copilot, Ensign John Q. Schell, Jr., Asheville, N.C., gave me headphones and we heard the marines calling for fire support from the fleet. Bursts of orange flames sprang from the muzzles of the battleships and cruisers' big guns and huge columns of smoke and fire rose skyward from the island seconds later.

Arrived To Stay

It was systematic murder and destruction. Suribachi's crater steamed from successive hits along its ridges overlooking the beach. I could see many formidable pillboxes along the beaches as well as a few rusty ship hulls, already put out of action.

None of our surface forces had been disturbed by enemy counteraction by midafternoon, although the water literally was alive with Yanks either going ashore or carrying supplies to the beach.

The invasion armada had spread out for scores of miles around the island. There was no mistaking the fact that the Americans had arrived to stay on Tokyo's doorstep, but the fight looked like it would require a week or more before the finish, and as if an awful lot of blood would be spilled before it was over.

The Leathernecks, under command of Lieut.-Gen. Holland M. Smith fought uphill and some 600 yards inland from Iwo's eastern beaches to the edge of the bomber strip.

The field lies on a low plateau between an extinct 554-foot volcano known as Suribachi Yama and the high broad and rugged northern end of the island that looked as much like a scaly dragon tail as Suribachi Yama resembled the jutting head.

Concentrated naval bombardmen and carrier based air blows reduced the Japanese beach defenses. American casualties, however, were considerable.

Heavy Japanese artillery and mortar fire enfiladed the ranks of the veteran Fourth Marine Division and pounded the new Fifth Division throughout the day. Enemy shells fell on the beach area as well as offshore, making the supply problem difficult.

"Our men are spread all over hell's acre out there," Gen. Smith said, "and they're going after those hidden Jap guns which are mighty hard to locate. Most of those guns are in caves. They come out and fire five or six rounds and then go back into hiding."

Pounded for more than seventy days by United States bombers, Iwo lay on the horizon like a battered but enraged beast in its death throes as this flagship of Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner crept near its shores at the head of a column of transports.

Old Battlewagons in Action.

Shore batteries in the rocky caves of Suribachiyama spat fire. Red tracer shells from our bombardment craft also were visible against the dark dawn backdrop.

Old battleships that were last seen in the Atlantic Fleet—the Texas, New York and Arkansas—hammered the enemy installations, but you found yourself trying to claw a foxhole in a steel deck when a Japanese battery laid a string of walking fire toward the flagship.

Herds of amphibious tractors growled forward from LST's to the starting line. Marines crouching in Higgins boats moved into position. A lethal barrage from LCI gunboats shrouded the beach area. A heavy carrier-borne strike following a dawn attack by Army Liberators made the island shudder.

The Marines Storm Beach.

At 9 A. M. the Marines stormed the beach.

In two minutes all of the first waves were ashore, meeting only slight resistance until the Japs reorganized to place artillery fire on the 3,000-yard-long beachhead.

You saw one of the old world war I battlewagons slam the dragon a blow on the neck, a geyser of smoke boiling up from the thin strip of the island connecting Suribachi Yama with the plateau.

On the steep slopes of the beaches you could see the tanks inching their way up the precipitous grades, belching red burning blurbs from their flame throwers.

Weather Is Chilly.

Admiral Turner said shortly before 2 P. M. that most of the anti-aircraft guns seemed to have been wiped out.

During the day the skies over Iwo belonged to the Yanks, but the people aboard were crossing their fingers that the supremacy could be maintained with nightfall.

Weather, which has been one of the principal factors governing the landing, turned from blustry winds to comparative calm, enabling landing craft to go ashore successfully. It was cool, however, and the Marines wore heavy jackets which were novel to the men who had fought in the sultry South Pacific and on the hot middle ocean atolls.

By JOHN R. HENRY,

Representing the Combined U. S. Press. Distributed by the Associated Press.

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship Off Iwo, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—Japan's volcanic bastion of Iwo Jima loomed out of the chill dark dawn today like a black, fire-spitting dragon, and tonight two Marine divisions were scrambling up to an enemy airfield atop its monstrous back.

World's Largest Mobile Base Outfitted Mighty U. S. Armada That Pounded Tokyo

A PACIFIC NAVAL BASE, Feb. 19 (AP)—The greatest assemblage of fighting ships in history occupied this base during part of February, and it was the little-known but hard-working Squadron 10 that sent those ships against Tokyo just before the Iwo invasion.

Squadron 10 is under the Service Force, Pacific Fleet, which operates here the world's largest floating supply and repair base.

It's all afloat. It is the last jumping-off place for fighting ships headed for Japanese waters, and it was here that the Fifth Fleet prepared for the sensational Honshu raid and subsequent covering operations for the marine landings at Iwo—a force of 800 ships in all.

Characterized by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz as "America's secret weapon," the fleet's mobile supply and repair depots made possible the rapid hammer blows at the Japanese by removing the need for warships to return thousands of miles for refueling and reconditioning.

Squadron 10 provided the Fifth Fleet with:

Enough fuel oil to make a train of tank cars of 10,000 gallons each extending 238 miles—hundreds of cars to the mile—from supplies brought more than 8,000 miles by tanker to this base.

Enough gasoline to run 30,700 automobiles for a full year and enough lubricating oil for one complete oil change for 466,000 automobiles.

Enough food to feed a city the size of Columbus, O., for thirty days.

Enough ammunition — bombs, shells, torpedoes and cartridges—to fill 480 freight cars and blow Tokyo off the map.

Iwo Marines Are Oldest U. S. Amphibious Units

4th Division Captured Roi and Namur in 26 Hours

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 19 (AP).—The 4th and 5th Marine Divisions which swept ashore at Iwo Jima today are part of America's oldest amphibious corps, the 5th, under Major General Harry Schmidt.

The 4th Marine Division received the Presidential citation for the Saipan and Tinian campaigns. This unit captured Roi and Namur in twenty-six hours, and the divisional commander, Major General Clifton B. Cates, in his battle message recalled that the unit was making its fourth landing in thirteen months. He said, "No other American division has equaled that record."

Major General Keller E. Rockey reminded his 5th Division Marines that the division was sprinkled with veterans to give them the benefit of experience. "It is now time for us to take our place in the battle line," he said.

Cates was born at Tiptonville, Tenn., in 1893, and won the Navy Cross as a front-line fighter in the first world war. He led the first Marine regiment ashore at Guadalcanal as a colonel. Rockey was born at Columbia City, Ind., in 1888. He served in France in the first world war and was assistant to the Marine commandant before coming to the 5th. His home is Virginia Beach, Va.

Turner, Smith In Top Command

[By the Associated Press]

These are the top men in immediate command of the Iwo Jima invasion:

Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, commander amphibious expeditionary force.

Lieut. Gen. Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, commander marines in the Pacific and immediate overall commander of the invading troops.

Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, commander of the 5th Amphibious Corps, United States Marines, in tactical command.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commander, 4th Division.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander, 5th Division.

The landings had the support of the United States 5th Fleet under command of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance.

More Raids Due, Japs Warn Home Islands

San Francisco, Feb. 19 (AP)—More American carrier raids on Tokyo can be expected until United States invasion forces have a secure beachhead on Iwo Island, 750 miles to the south, Japanese broadcasters warned the home islands today.

A Tokyo broadcast, recorded here, said the mighty United States 5th Fleet "will remain somewhere in our home waters, no matter how strong our counterattacks, and continue air raids on the mainland until their own men succeed in taking a foothold on Iwo."

Jap Damage Claim

The Government - supervised broadcast admitted that Japanese counterattacks had nothing to do with the American carrier force's breaking off the attack and moving out to sea. The Japanese claimed that a fourth of the raiding carrier planes were shot down or damaged, but added:

"Regrettable as it is, we cannot say that we have affected the fighting strength of the enemy as a whole. Therefore, it is evident that the enemy will continue his operations without stopping at his bases at Guam and the Philippine Islands," but would refuel and rearm at sea.

The Federal Communications Commission said that Japanese domestic broadcasts had not yet mentioned the invasion of Iwo, although they had been broadcasting reports overseas for two days.

Tokyo did warn the Japanese that American seizure of the Bonin Islands, north of Iwo, would put the United States forces in position to bomb the home islands of the empire.

IWO PICTURES SPEEDED

Sent to Newspapers in U. S. 17½ Hours After Landing

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19 (AP)—Just 17 hours and 30 minutes after American marines invaded Iwo Island pictures showing their landing barges headed for shore and landing were being transmitted over The Associated Press wirephoto network.

Taken from a Navy plane, the pictures were flown to Guam in the Marianas and transmitted to San Francisco by Navy radio. They were then distributed to the wartime still-picture pool.

Fueling Stop On Iwo Foreseen

Guam, Feb. 19 (AP)—American capture of Iwo Jima can be expected to cut Superfortress losses in half and boost their bomb loads by providing a fueling stop. And in American hands, Iwo will step up the shattering pace of all types of warfare on the Nipponese Empire and its shipping lanes.

Jap Fleet Won't Come Out And Fight, Halsey Says

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., paying a surprise visit to Washington, predicted today that the remnants of the Japanese fleet will not come out and fight in the current Pacific operations.

"We are going to have to dig them out," the commander of the 3d Fleet told a news conference. "They have got very little left to fight with, and what they have is in none too good shape."

Halsey said he has not yet received all the facts of the Tokyo and Iwo Jima operations, but that all indications are that it was "another magnificent show against the deteriorated and deteriorating ex-Japanese Navy."

"Rat's Frame Of Mind"

Asked what in his opinion would be necessary to force the Japanese Navy to a showdown, Halsey, in typical fashion, replied:

"I can't get myself in a rat's frame of mind. I don't know what it would take."

Asked about his presence in Washington, Halsey said with a laugh, "I am here under orders of Admiral King," chief of naval operations.

Flyer's Information

"It is evident," Halsey said, "that even the stupid, bestial Jap sees that he is losing control of the sea everywhere."

The veteran of many Pacific actions disclosed that information brought out of the Philippines by a downed American flyer furnished him the information that led to the decision to make a sudden change in plans for the invasion of the Philippines.

Halsey said his forces were steaming off the coast of the Philippines with practically no opposition.

"We were knocking down Japanese planes right and left. One American pilot was shot down. The guerrillas took care of him, and the next day we sent in and got him. He gave us information which led me to believe the time was ripe to go in."

That Was September 13

That occurred, he said, on September 13, and he reported his recommendations to Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur.

"Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur picked up the ball and ran with it," he said, shifting their plans to permit the landing on Leyte on October 20.

Halsey predicted that the landing on Iwo Jima, begun today, would not be as tough as the amphibious assault on Tarawa.

"We have learned a lot since that time," he said.

Three Airfields Seen

Iwo Jima, he said, will be of tremendous strategic value, affording a base from which to bomb the Japanese homeland with medium bombers with fighter cover.

The island, which now has two airfields, can accommodate three, he said, and "if necessary the Seabees will build another island and put four or five on it."

Halsey said he is one of the few people who believe the Japanese will "break" eventually. Asserting that Japanese industrialists see their empire getting into a position to crumble, he added:

"A dollar means as much to them as anyone. When they get the upper hand of the beasts in charge of the army they will put out peace feelers. That will be our most dangerous threat until peace is actually declared."

"If we allow a negotiated peace now and do not demand absolute and unconditional surrender it would be the greatest crime in the history of the country.

Part Of Press

"The press can do more to help that than anyone, to persuade the mothers and fathers of America that such a move would be sentencing their grandsons to death."

Asked whether the Japanese would plan another war even though unconditional surrender were exacted, Halsey replied:

"Not if we are smart."

"It behooves us to make plans for the future and enforce them to be sure they will not start another."

The admiral cautioned that we "better had keep our fleet regardless of what happens in a world league."

New Type Jap Planes

He said the quality of Japanese pilots is "deteriorating all the time" and that, while the enemy has had some new-type planes recently, "we shoot them down just the same as the others.

"They burn just as nicely."

Halsey said the Japanese, their control of the seas lost, will attempt to establish land routes to their southern conquests.

But, he added, it is "a case of heads we win and tails they lose."

Enemy garrisons along the China coast, he declared, "are like all other rats. When we want to we can dig them out anytime."

He said he knew of no plans for taking care of the bypassed Japanese garrisons in South Pacific islands "except to let them alone to starve slowly and painfully."

Japanese Navy Too Weak To Fight, Adm. Halsey Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP) Shaggy-browed Admiral "Bull" Halsey, freshly back from his stamping ground in the Pacific, declared today that the Japanese Navy has "very little left to fight with and what is left is not in good shape."

For that reason, the commander of western Pacific task forces told a news conference, he doesn't believe the enemy fleet will accept the bold challenge of the American naval-air strike at Tokyo and come out to fight.

Will Dig Japs Out

"We're going to have to go in and dig 'em out," Halsey said when asked how the Nipponese navy can be engaged.

The enemy—the Admiral referred to them in his more reserved moments as "monkeys"—has made two fundamental mistakes:

"I don't know why those little (here review officers interposed to strike out a word) rats thought they could lick an American. That was the first mistake.

"Their second was when they started fighting dirty."

To a question, Halsey reiterated his views about the possibility of a Japanese attempt at negotiated peace.

"I think the handwriting is pretty thoroughly on the wall about that," Halsey said. "I'm one of the few people, from the very beginning, that believed the Japs would break, eventually.

"The industrialists in Japan undoubtedly see that their empire, which has taken them a great many years to build up, is rapidly getting in position where it's going to absolutely crumble, and it all means just as much to them as it does to any other industrialists in any other part of the world.

"When they can get the upper hand of these beasts in charge of the Army, they will take over, and they will begin to put out very attractive peace feelers.

"To my mind, that is the most dangerous period we are facing until peace is actually declared.

"If we let them negotiate a peace now and don't demand absolute and unconditional surrender, we will be committing the greatest crime in the history of our country.

Halsey was asked if we would "negotiate that final peace with the Mikado or whom?"

"It won't make any difference," Halsey said. "There ought not be any Mikado when this thing is over"

He assayed the naval-air attack against Tokyo this way:

Jap Navy Smashed

"As far as I can see, this is another magnificent show of the United States Navy against the rapidly deteriorating ex-Japanese Navy."

Nor did he think any more than that of the Japanese air fleet.

"The quality of the Japanese pilot is deteriorating all the time," Halsey said.

"We hear stories of production and new planes. But when they have come out recently they brought out a rag-tag, bob-tail lot of planes.

"New planes? Oh. Yes, they have 'em—but we shoot 'em down just like the others; they burn just as nicely as the old ones."

And then, at another point where the discussion involved destruction of surface craft and enemy naval personnel:

"They drown just as easily as they burn."

Halsey believes the battle for Iwo Jima on which American Marines landed this morning will be "pretty tough" but not as tough as the costly landing at Tarawa in the Gilberts in 1943—"We've learned a lot since Tarawa."

Asked why he was in Washington, Halsey replied he was here "under orders of Admiral King." (Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet.)

A reporter asked Halsey if he thought "General MacArthur's fleet would get to Tokyo first?"

The Admiral grinned and answered:

"We're going there together."

Then, seriously, he added:

"He's a very fine man. I have worked under him for over two years and have the greatest admiration and respect for him."

PILOT PAVED WAY FOR LEYTE ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP) Admiral William F. Halsey said today an American pilot rescued from a Japanese-held island gave information which led the United States to invade the Philippines earlier than planned.

Giving new details on the sudden change of strategy in the fall of 1944, when naval and invasion forces already at sea and bound for other targets swerved to put General MacArthur's troops on Leyte, Halsey said at a news conference:

"We were steaming back and forth off Samar (an island just north and slightly east of Leyte). To our surprise, there was no opposition.

"One of our pilots (from a Third fleet carrier) was shot down. The guerrillas got him in hand.

"When he got back to us, he gave us information that led me to believe that the time was ripe. (The pilot was forced down on September 13).

"I sent in a recommendation that we combine the forces that were lined up under me to go to various places out there with MacArthur's forces and move into Leyte immediately. Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur picked the ball up and in less than 24 hours we got a decision to go into Leyte."

The Leyte landing operation started on October 20.

Halsey Has His Eye On Hirohito's Horse

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey has his own personal plans after he reaches Tokyo.

He told a news conference today, when questioned about the policy of not bombing the Mikado's palace, that the Navy "never bothered anything except military objectives."

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I hope they don't kill that white horse. I want to ride it."

Halsey did not elaborate. Many pictures of Emperor Hirohito have shown him astride a white steed.

NIMITZ ALMOST SHOWS ELATION

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 19 (A. P.)—Events broke so fast in the Pacific war today that even the usual calm of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz was ruffled.

The Admiral is accustomed to waiting on reports from his fleet and amphibious forces, but news of the results of the carrier strike at Tokyo came piling in at such a fast clip that he could not keep from getting mildly excited. Then there was a tense wait for word of the Marine landing on Iwo Jima.

Known for his terse communiques, Admiral Nimitz issued two long ones in less than an hour.

B-29'S IN PEAK RAID ON TOKYO

66 Jap Planes Downed; Aircraft Factory Bombed

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20 (AP) — The biggest Superfortress raid of the war Monday on Tokyo resulted in the destruction or damaging of 66 enemy planes, bringing the total since the first B-29 attack on Honshu (Tokyo's island) last Thanksgiving Day to 732.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May, heading the 21st Bomber Command, disclosed today that in Monday's big strike, delivered in support of the Marine invasion of Iwo Jima, 750 miles south of Tokyo, the big bombers shot down 21 enemy fighters, probably destroyed 20 and damaged 25.

Three B-29's were lost.

Bombing Results Good

The Superfortresses, which obtained good bombing results on targets which included the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory, added their bag of 66 to the more than 650 enemy planes destroyed or damaged by carrier planes which hit the Tokyo area Friday and Saturday.

General Le May said that since last Thanksgiving the B-29's have destroyed 247 enemy planes, probably destroyed 185 and damaged 300 in air battles over Honshu.

The B-29 force which battered the urban and industrial areas of Japan's war center Monday was the largest ever sent out from Marianas bases.

The much blasted city was hit by the B-29s in full strength close on the heels of the heavy pounding it underwent Friday and Saturday by waves of America's mighty Fifth fleet carrier planes.

Indications were that upwards of 150 Superforts roared in on the Tokyo region Monday afternoon from bases on Tinian and Saipan islands. The B-29s bombed by precision instruments through an overcast.

This eighth B-29 raid on Tokyo came as about 60 other Superforts, flying from India, plastered Japanese installations at Kuala, Malay, almost 3,000 miles southwest of Nippon's capital. The India-based sky giants bombed railroad yards and repair shops with good results. All of the Kuala raiders returned safely.

Radio Tokyo, busy reporting on the American Marine invasion of Iwo Jima, took time out to say that approximately 100 Superforts hit the city. It claimed 10 were shot down and said damage was slight.

In an earlier broadcast Tokyo said between 70 and 80 of the B-29s bombed Honshu, Japan's main island, with industrial Nagoya as one of the targets.

B-29's Hammer Tokyo Again

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Tokyo, still reeling from a two-day carrier-plane assault, was pounded again today by a big fleet of Superfortresses while other B-29's hit Japanese installations at Kuala, on the Malay Peninsula.

Preliminary information, 20th Air Force headquarters reported, indicates that upward of 150 Superforts, winging up from the Marianas, plastered industrial plants in the enemy capital with the use of precision instruments. Full results of the hammering have not been tabulated. It was the eighth strike at Tokyo by the big bombers.

Japs Taken Off Guard

[Returning crews indicated to Guam headquarters that the early part of the mass bombing was done through skies so overcast that the enemy probably was taken off guard after expecting a rest from the previous daylight blows by carrier planes and night bombings by other Superfortresses. The weather offered the enemy no defense from attack.

[The unprecedented size of the B-29 force emphasized the rapidly mounting strength of the long-range bombardment of Honshu Island from the Marianas.

Good Results Reported

[Previous Superfort raids in full array included two upon the big Mitsubishi aircraft factories in Nagoya, two against the Nakajima airplane plants in the Tokyo area and two on the Kobeosaka area.)

30.24 - 23125

"Good results" were reported from the strike of about 60 India-based B-29's against rail yards and repair shops at Kuala.

The attack on Kuala, the first by the sky dreadnaughts, was one of a series aimed at cracking enemy communications between Indo-China and Burma. Rail and communications facilities elsewhere along the route have been hammered previously.

Opposition Called Weak

Four enemy fighter planes were destroyed or damaged by the Kuala raiders, who reported that enemy fighter opposition was weak and that they encountered no anti-aircraft fire. All of the Superfortresses returned from the Kuala mission.

Tokyo broadcasts placed the number of raiders at approximately 100 and claimed ten were shot down. The enemy broadcasts insisted, as usual, that damage was light.

Raids On Formosa Reported By Japs

San Francisco, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency said today that hundreds of American planes bombed Formosa on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The broadcast, recorded here, said 150 planes attacked the island Friday, 170 Saturday and 350 Sunday.

Japs Demand Home Guard

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Japanese press is clamoring for a home guard to meet American invasion of the homeland, the Tokyo correspondent of the German news agency Transocean reported today.

"The Japanese people," he said, "have suddenly come to realize that the enemy is at the gates. The press is urgently demanding formation of a Japanese Volkssturm in order to successfully meet the American assault on Japan."

He declared 1,600 American carrier-based planes attacked the Japanese main island over the week end and predicted even heavier attacks in the future.

An American air force based on Iwo Jima, he said, could "completely cut off Japan's comunications with the southern Pacific regions."

RUSSIAN FORCES CAPTURE NOWE IN DRIVE ON DANZIG

Soviet Army Kills 1,500 Germans in Encircled Grudziadz.

NAZIS COUNTERATTACK

Berlin Claims Troops Recapture Four Towns Before Berlin.

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 20. — (AP) Russian troops, advancing up to six miles, yesterday captured the Polish Vistula river fortress town of Nowe (Nuenburg), 47 miles south of Danzig, while Berlin said that other Soviet forces temporarily had captured Guben, key road hub 51 miles southeast of the Reich capital.

An early morning Soviet bulletin said 1,500 enemy troops also were slain as they tried to break out of encircled Grudziadz, 10 miles south of Nowe.

Nazis Launch Attacks

Enemy broadcasts said Nazi counterattacks later expelled the Russians from Guben and also recaptured the strongholds of Sommerfeld, Sorau and Sagan, on a 35-mile front southeast of Guben.

Moscow's communique did not mention that vital sector, where the First White Russian and First Ukraine armies under Marshals G. K. Zhukov and Ivan Konev were trying to weld their flanks securely in preparation for an all-out blow toward Berlin.

Berlin said that while Konev's troops were fighting their way abreast of Zhukov's men along the Oder bend southeast of the capital, Zhukov was pouring "masses of men" into the Berlin front, getting ready to launch a heavy blow from his bridgeheads across the Oder between Kuestrin and Fuerstenberg.

"The storm will break very soon," one German broadcast said.

Enemy broadcasts also said that Marshal Konev's southern wing had penetrated the area of Lauban, west bank Queis river town 12 miles east of Silesia's second city of Goerlitz, which is on the road to Dresden and 13 miles from the Saxony frontier where it joins the Bohemian border of Czechoslovakia.

Moscow said Russian troops on the Samland peninsula, northwest of Koenigsberg, had smashed enemy tank and infantry attacks seeking to break out of encircled Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital.

Southwest of Koenigsberg other Soviet forces reduced the pocket held by the remnants of perhaps 20 German divisions to about 510 square miles with the capture of 11 localities on a looping 33-mile front from 22 to 33 miles below the capital.

These localities included Quehnen, seven miles southeast of Zinten road junction; Wangnick, three miles west of Landsberg; Rosenwalde, four miles north of Mehlsack; Gedilgen, seven miles west of Mehlsack, and Grunenberg, on the Mehlsack-Braunsberg highway four and a half miles south of Braunsberg.

Gain Eight Miles

Braunsberg is on the coastal Elbing-Koenigsberg railway 32 miles southwest of Koenigsberg, and the push through Grunenberg represented an eight-mile gain from previous Soviet positions.

The only mention of Silesia in the Russian communique was of the area around Breslau, Silesian capital of 630,000 which the Russians last Friday announced they had encircled.

Red army troops captured a few more Breslau suburbs, including Treschen and Brockau on the southeastern and southern edge of the Silesian capital, gaining up to three miles as they tightened their siege ring.

Simultaneously striking toward the Czechoslovak frontier on a 20-mile front beyond Breslau, the Russians deepened this ring by capturing seven localities, including Ocklitz, 15 miles southwest of Breslau and 13 miles northeast of the road junction town of Schweidnitz; Moerschelwitz, four miles northeast of Zobten; Dankwitz, six miles southeast of Zobten; and Groegersdorf, five miles northwest of the 16-way junction town of Strehlen, which is 20 miles south of Breslau.

Moscow acknowledged a reverse for Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army troops in the sector east of Komarom (Komarno), Danube river town 40 miles northwest of fallen Budapest and 84 miles east of Vienna.

The Russians withdrew from several localities after repulsing strong enemy infantry and tank attacks, the Soviet bulletin said.

Captured Nowe, in the Polish Corridor, is ten miles north of encircled Grudziadz, east-bank Vistula stronghold, and Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's White Russian Army troops were fighting in the outskirts of Grudziadz. Berlin also reported bitter fighting beyond Russian-held Chojnice, fifty miles norwest of Grudziadz, and said the Russians gained several miles in their attempt to reach the Baltic and encircle thousands of Germans in Danzig territory.

Battle of Movement

Mobile battles raged all along the sixty-two-mile front between Guben and Lauban, the Germans said, and they also told of Red Army attempts to break through to Cottbus, on the Spree River twenty-one miles southwest of Guben. The Spree, which flows into Berlin, is the last natural defense line before the capital, along with the lakes on the southeastern approaches to Berlin. Cottbus is only forty-seven miles from greater Berlin.

Lauban was under Soviet artillery fire, "but is still in German hands," the enemy said.

Moscow dispatches said the Germans were throwing in heavy reinforcements in an effort to keep the Russians out of Guben and Cottbus, capture of which would outflank Berlin's eastern defenses based on Fuerstenberg, Frankfurt and Kuestrin. Violent air battles also were being fought over that section of Brandenburg Province.

Russians Meet Counterblows

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Red Army battled sharp German counterattacks in some sectors up and down the ice-covered Eastern front today, but continued to forge ahead toward Dresden and on Berlin's southeastern flank.

While Moscow dispatches said the German counterstabs were not in the proportions of a counter-offensive, they were mounted by veterans of the German regular army and Heinrich Himmler's Home Army units in the greatest numbers yet and were particularly strong from places in Pomerania and Silesia, where the Germans had entrenched artillery positions dug into the frozen earth.

Despite the fierce hammering of their crowded communication lines by Allied planes last week, the Germans had been able to rush reserves up to the front.

Gaining, Despite Resistance

The German communiqué said Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army was forging ahead, however, and compelling the Germans to engage in "violent defensive fighting" all the way from the Czech border to the Oder bend southeast of Berlin.

Konev's tanks have reached the area southeast of Lauban, on the Queis River, 62 miles from Dresden, the communiqué said.

Lauban is 8 miles southwest of Naumberg, captured by the Russians yesterday, and 13 miles east of Goerlitz' on the Neisse, which Moscow dispatches last week said had been reached by advancec spearheads.

The town is only 9 miles from the border of Czechoslovakia.

New Bridgehead On Oder

On Konev's right wing, a German war reporter said, Marshal Gregory Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army has hammered out a bridgehead over the Oder near Crossen, 64 miles southeast of Berlin.

Konev and Zhukov were linking up for a smash toward the Nazi strong point of Guben, on the Neisse, 42 miles from Berlin and at the apex of a vital defense triangle guarding the southeastern approaches to the capital.

Crossen is 16 miles northeast of Guben.

DNB said the Russians had broken into Guben.

Artillery Pounding Guben

Soviet correspondents last Friday said the Russians were within sight of the Spree, on which both Beeskow and Cottbus are located, and indicated that Guben might have been bypassed at that time.

Moscow dispatches today said Guben was under artillery fire and the German communiqué said a violent battle was raging just east of the place.

Zhukov remained quiet in his sector along the Oder, where he is reported to have bridgeheads 30 to 40 miles from Berlin, but German military commentators said this was the "lull before the storm."

Sagan, a six-way railway center thirty-five miles southeast of Guben, was captured by the Russians over the weekend after a bloody two-day fight in the virtually encircled city.

Moscow said the heaviest German counterblows were at either end of the Eastern front, in the region of Stargard, where Zhukov is threatening the Baltic port of Stettin, and the area of the big Danube bend north of Budapest in Hungary. Some attacks were reported also in the center, before Berlin.

Red army lines held firm, however, Moscow said.

General Cherniakhovsky Killed

Moscow said the 3d White Russian Army had scored new gains in East Prussia, but these successes were tempered by announcement of the death of that army's brilliant commander, Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky.

Youngest of the Russian front leaders, this 37-year-old Jewish tank expert died of wounds suffered on the battlefield where his men yesterday killed 2,000 Germans and tightened their stranglehold on the remnants of a force of 200,000 Nazis.

1,400 BOMBERS ATTACK REICH

Widespread Raids Aimed At Communication Targets

London, Tuesday, Feb. 20 (AP)—British bombers kept the Allied aerial assault rolling against Germany last night after nearly 1,400 United States and RAF heavy bombers had pounded thirteen rail and industrial targets in the western Reich during the day and other heavies from the United States 15th Air Force in Italy attacked enemy communications in Austria.

Shortly before midnight the RAF announced that a force of Mosquito bombers had attacked the rail and road junction of Erfurt in the central German province of Thuringia, 63 miles southwest of Leipzig.

The German warning service broadcast reports of other formations over the Reich during the night.

100-Bomber 'Wolf Packs'

The major daylight operations were carried out by 100-bomber "wolf packs" of the United States 8th Air Force, which sent aloft more than 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 500 fighters. They dropped 3,300 tons of bombs on a dozen different targets—large railway yards at Muenster, Osnabrueck and Siegen, and various industrial plants, mostly in the Ruhr.

One bomber and seven fighters were missing, the 8th Air Force announced.

The American fighters, which swooped down for strafing opportunities after their escort missions were completed, shot up at least 148 locomotives, 365 freight cars 54 tank cars and 114 motor vehicles and also hit five factories, two switch houses, an oil storage tank and a roundhouse.

Bombing was by instrument since solid clouds sealed off the targets.

RAF Hits Wesel Again

At about the same time probably 250 RAF Lancasters battered the town of Wesel for the second straight day. Nearly 2,500 tons of explosives now have been dropped in approximately 24 hours on this town, nearest crossing of the Rhine to the Canadian front.

Italian-based American Fortresses and Liberators bombed rail yards at Vienna, Graz and Klagenfurt in Austria and naval installations at Pola and Fiume along the Adriatic coast. It was the sixth straight day of air assaults from the west and the seventh from Italian bases.

The daylight assaults followed three separate raids during the night by groups of RAF Mosquitos, which dropped two-ton block busters on Berlin, Bremen and the Rhineland communications hub of Mannheim.

U.S. Planes Hit German Rail Centers

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—A dozen rail centers and industrial targets in western Germany, including the big freight yards at Muenster, Osnabrueck, Rheine and Siegen were bombed by 1,100 American heavy bombers today.

Other targets were not named, but most of them were in the Ruhr Valley.

From Italy Liberators and Fortresses of the 15th Air Force bombed rail yards at Vienna, Graz and Klagenfurt in Austria and naval installations at Pola and Fiume along the Adriatic coast.

It was the sixth straight day of assaults from the west—and seventh from Italian bases—and was ushered in by RAF Mosquito night attacks on Berlin with block-buster bombs.

Mannheim Bombed

Mosquitos also attacked Mannheim, Rhineland arms and communications center, and the port of Bremen.

While American heavy bombers based in Britain were grounded yesterday by the weather, about 250 British Lancasters took off just before dusk and pounded the communications hub of Wesel with 1,200 tons of bombs. Wesel's bridges—a prime target for the raiders—form an important Rhine crossing for the Germans now under heavy pressure from advancing Canadian troops.

Three Planes Lost

Two bombers and a fighter were lost in the attack on Wesel and the overnight forays, the Air Ministry said.

The aerial offensive in Italy also continued yesterday with Italian-based United States heavies smashing hard at Nazi communications in Austria.

Since Tuesday night nea[r] 7,500 American and British bomb[ers] have hammered at least 26 Ge[r]an rail and oil centers between [the] Rhine and the Russian front.

Wesel has been a[t]tacked three times during these a[ir] operations.

Sixty-two British [and] American bombers were lost [in] the operations.

Boomerang Rocket Startles U.S. Flyers

An 8th Air Force Bomber Station, England, Feb. 19 (AP)—A boomerang V-2 rocket bomb startled 8th Air Force airmen over Holland today.

Members of a large formation of Fortresses saw the rocket spiral upward, then head back toward Germany.

"At first we couldn't believe it," said Capt. Frank Emory, of Mount Vernon, Wash. "The rocket shot up, then slowly curved in the opposite direction."

CHURCHILL BACK AT 10 DOWNING ST.

LONDON, Feb. 19—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill returned tonight to 10 Downing street, and conferred immediately with his cabinet on the momentous Crimea decisions for winding up the war and winning the peace.

He had stopped enroute home at Athens and Cairo, and is expected to address Commons in a first-hand report, perhaps later this week. Two days have been scheduled for his review and for debate.

Grinning and wearing a powder blue air commodore's uniform, Churchill bounded out of a car, and waved to newsmen and office employes.

A communique on Churchill's visit to Egypt will be issued tomorrow. He and Foreign Secretary Eden were there while foreign ministers of Middle East countries drafted a proposed Pan-Arab league.

Selection of the British delegation to the San Francisco conference in April, when a United Nations security league is to be formed, is expected to be one of Churchill's early acts.

Diplomats here, meanwhile, said they believed the post of first president of the security league would be offered to former Secretary of State Cordell Hull as a gesture for his "blueprint" work at Dumbarton Oaks.

The post would not be taxing on his health, they said, since the President would preside over only one session of the General Assembly.

The general consensus was that Eden would lead the British delegation to San Francisco, with Sir Alexander Cadogan, Undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, another certain delegate. Cadogan did the British spade work at Dumbarton Oaks.

Smaller Allied nations also prepared to select their delegates. Among prominently mentioned prospects were Deputy Premier Jan Masaryk for Czechoslovakia; Foreign Minister Torge Lie for Norway, and Foreign Minister Henri Spaak for Belgium. Dutch and Yugoslav delegates will not be selected until new governments are completed.

Paris reports said the French provisional government would accept a Big Three invitation to participate, but there has been no word whether France would be a sponsor, or who would represent that nation.

Churchill Returns To England

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill returned to England today from the Crimea conference after stops at Athens and Cairo.

The Prime Minister is expected to furnish the House of Commons, possibly later this week, a first-hand report on the discussions with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The House will set aside two days for the review and a debate in which Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will participate.

Three Days At Cairo

Churchill and Eden spent three days at Cairo at a time when foreign ministers of Middle Eastern countries were in session on the proposed Pan-Arab League.

A communiqué on the Prime Minister's Egyptian visit will be issued tomorrow.

MIDGET U-BOAT IS NAZI BOAST

Germans Claim Subs Penetrate Thames Estuary

London, Feb. 19 (AP) — German broadcasts boasted today of alleged successes for new midget U-boats, and hinted at a new secret air weapon—possibly to distract home attention from military setbacks.

Moscow radio and other continental sources reported disorders in bomb-blackened Dresden and other Saxony towns imperiled by the Soviet offensive.

Public demonstrations occurred in Dresden, Chemnitz and other towns against the dispatch of Volkssturm men to fight in Silesia, a Moscow broadcast said, and anti-Nazi slogans have appeared on walls in Dresden calling for "an end of Hitler and this war."

Attack Allied Convoys

DNB declared midget submarines, penetrating the Thames estuary to attack an Allied convoy bound from Britain to Holland, sank one freighter and probably another. It described the craft as "long bulky iron swimmers," and added these details:

"In the center is a small turret just big enough to give space for one man. On top of this is a vaulting glass dome and the periscope. Before entering this novel weapon, a man must train several months and for the last three days live on a light diet."

Activity Promising

On the same theme, Broadcaster Dr. Rudolf Semmler asserted "recent German U-boat activity is most promising for the development of the West front situation, and even indirectly promises relief to our hard-pressed East front. Every ship sunk now carrying supplies to the Allies' West-front armies is worth two or three sunk during the last U-boat offensive."

Semmler also hinted at a new air weapon in declaring that "the destruction of Dresden will not remain unavenged."

"It should not be forgotten," said he, "that the German high command still has some means at its disposal with which to revenge attacks on refugees, as happened at Dresden."

Say Midget U-Boat Invaded Thames

London, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—The Germans reported today a midget submarine had sunk a 2,500-ton freighter in the Thames Estuary. A broadcast declared the Allies never had seen any of the midgets.

German News Units Close 'For 2 Hours'

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—German news and propaganda agencies announced without explanation at 4.45 P.M. today that they were shutting down for two hours.

German communications, especially their foreign broadcasts, have been operating haphazardly in recent days, apparently because of the confusion caused by bombings and refugee conditions.

HELD AS GERMAN AIDE

Paris English Teacher Claims He Fought Only Communists

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—In Britain's first case of its kind, Gerald Percy Sandys Hewitt, 44-year-old English teacher, was held without bail today for trial on charges of collaborating with the Germans during the occupation of France.

Hewitt, a British subject, made a comfortable living giving English lessons in Paris before the war and remained in France after the German invasion. The prosecution charges that he supplied propaganda and made broadcasts for the Germans, receiving up to 25,000 francs monthly.

Hewitt, taken into custody when he crossed into the Allies' part of France soon after D-day, was quoted by the prosecution as saying that he had worked for the Germans, but is claiming that his work was only anti-Communist, not anti-British or anti-French.

Mikolajczyk To Back New Pole Government

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former Premier in the Polish exile Government, and Karol Popiel, Minister of State and head of the Christian Democrats, were reported today to have decided to offer their services to the Polish Provisional Government of National Unity decided upon at Yalta.

The two members of the London exile Government were understood to be awaiting the return of Prime Minister Churchill before leaving for Moscow.

24-Hour V-Bomb Attack On England

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—Continued V-bomb attacks against southern England from dawn yesterday to 7 A.M. today were reported by the Air Ministry.

In one recent instance a bomb killed several persons in a tobacco shop, but the explosion failed to disperse a line near by waiting for admission to a moving-picture theater.

Blitz Children Return Home

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—Approximately 700 children have returned to England from America, where they went when England was under attack in 1940.

World Federation Of Union Plans Up

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—The World Trade Union Conference closed yesterday after adopting resolutions recommending a universal 40-hour work week, government rest homes for workers, two-week vacation periods and continued food-price controls.

A committee of labor representatives of 40 nations was to convene today to lay the foundation for a new World Trade Union Federation to give labor a voice in peace settlements and reconstruction.

Hitler Youth Leader Killed

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Konrad Mackel, chief of staff of the Hitler Youth, was killed in an accident on the Western front, the Berlin radio said today. Hitler awarded the Knight's Cross posthumously to Meckel, one of "his ablest and most faithful" leaders, the broadcast added.

AMERY FOR STRESS ON STERLING AREA

Birmingham, England, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, called today for the abandonment or at least drastic reduction of the "most favored nation clause" in international trade after the war. He added in an address: "We must give effective priority to purchases from the sterling area as well as to our exports to that area."

"By doing so," he said, "we should start the great engine of restoration and fresh development in the Empire and the whole sterling area with plenty of head of steam already in the boiler."

He said the Government should exercise "selective control and priorities over the whole field of trade and investment to afford maximum nourishment to the productive energies of the nation."

Scots Run Foe Out of Goch With Bayonet

Montgomery's Sudden Stab Has Virtually Won Siegfried Line's Hub

Nazi Commander Is Captured in Bed

U.S. Troops Menace Rear of Ruhr Defenses; 7 More Towns Taken by the 3d

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Scottish troops and tanks of the Canadian 1st Army virtually cleared the Siegfried line keystone of Goch tonight, and east of that town of 14,000 other forces battled south a mile and a half in a drive threatening the rear of the wavering enemy defenses of the Ruhr Basin.

On the center of the western front the United States 3d Army expanded its assault lines in the Eifel Mountains to fifty-five miles, engulfed seven more German towns and slashed all the way through the three-mile-deep Siegfried line on a seven-mile front, driving against the river lines of the Rhenish Prussian base at Bitburg.

One division went over to the attack farther south in the Moselle Valley and gained a mile to a point near Muzingen, five miles inside the Reich.

Roer River Dropping

The United States 7th Army captured 1,000 prisoners as it fought back into Germany's Saar Basin six miles southeast of the provincial capital of Saarbruecken in a limited attack

The Roer River, on the United States 1st and 9th Army fronts in the area of Aachen, was dropping slowly. The reservoirs upstream feeding the flood were expected to be drained within a few days, and the river above the reservoirs also was receding as the effect of recent rains waned.

The Canadian 1st Army was carrying the brunt of the attack for the moment in the corridor between the Maas and Rhine Rivers leading to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Without waiting to withdraw the last of the battered garrison from Goch, German artillery and mortars opened up on the strategic highway center, and shells fell among friend and foe alike

While the struggle for Goch neared a conclusion, Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery struck with tanks and infantry in the same sector where a near-breakthrough Saturday outflanked Goch. His forces slashed across the already severed Goch-Calcar highway three miles northeast of the enemy's rear base at Uedem and were in position to sweep in behind bitterly defended Calcar, two miles away, a field dispatch said.

On the twelfth day of the offensive, General H. D. G. Crerar's offensive was seventeen miles beyond the jump-off line and 9,000 prisoners had been taken.

The Scots struck with such suddenness at Goch that they surprised the German commander and his staff in bed

With fixed bayonets and supported by tanks, the infantry charged on through the rubble of Goch's ruined streets, clearing the enemy from the north side of the Niers river, and driving the beaten garrison from half of the southern part of the city.

The Germans had to be rooted from wrecked houses and mountains of debris, the product of intense artillery and aerial bombardment, which they turned into miniature forts.

The Scotch applied a pincers to Goch, one column driving down from the northeast, head-on into the city, bisected by the Niers river.

The second column, already across the Niers, knifed in at the back door, and this was the force that seized Col. Paul Matussek, the garrison commander, and his staff of a major and two lieutenants, in their nightshirts.

The final capture of Goch seemed near just one week after the Canadian First army captured Kleve, a city of 20,000, seven miles to the north, which was the first sizeable German city to fall into British-Canadian hands.

There was no indication that the Germans were trying to rush up reinforcements to restore a situation already apparently hopelessly lost but instead they were hammering hard at both flanks.

Battle Near Calcar

The bloodiest fighting raged within a mile or two of Calcar, a second communication center seven miles northeast of Goch.

Oddly enough, floods from the Rhine lapping over most of Calcar's highways had robbed the town of most of its tactical importance, making it comparable to some of the villages along the Rhine which the enemy ceded without a struggle.

But the Germans apparently were ordered to defend it to the death, and the forest of Moyland was strewn with the bodies of Allied and German infantry.

The forest extending almost to the edge of Calcar had been turned into a bulwark as formidable as the Reichswald before Kleve, and British and Canadians now had fought almost to its southern edge.

But they had been forced to pay for these gains, just as the Scotch paid when they drove head-on into Goch across its northeastern ramparts through a storm of machine-gun and mortar fire.

The Canadians and British also still were held up at the outskirts of the town of Moyland, two miles northwest of Calcar, by an enemy who seemed bent on holding it as a buffer despite the loss of nearby strategic heights.

Scotch troops on the south flank five miles southwest of Goch were locked in heavy fighting for the Dutch village of Kastel-Blijenbeek.

The Germans bent on holding the Maas river line were dug in strongly here, a mile and a half east of the Maas village of Afferden, which the Scotch captured yesterday.

Scot Units Hold Two Thirds Of Goch

Paris, Feb. 19 (AP)—Scottish infantry and tanks mopped up two thirds of the strategic Siegfried Line defense hub of Goch tonight after a surprise attack that caught the German commander and his staff in bed.

At bayonet point, the Scots rooted out Germans fighing savagely from cellars and rubbled ruins of the stronghold where eight military highways meet. Casualties were heavy on both sides.

To the east on the 17-mile Kleve-Goch front, British Empire troops were fighting within 25 miles of the great Ruhr Valley inland port of Duisburg and within 16 miles of Wesel, nearest Ruhr railhead.

3d Army Makes New Gains

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's United States 3d Army advanced up to half a mile on a 32-mile front in western Germany between Echternach and north of Pruem, clearing the Germans from the Sure and Our rivers, which form the boundary of northern Luxembourg. His infantry had knocked a hole clean through the Siegfried Line for 7 miles between Ernzen and Cruchten.

Farther south, the United States 7th Army drove 2 miles into the German Saarland from Alsace in the area within cannon shot of Saarbruecken.

Nazis' Goch Leader Wounded

Scotch troops slipped into Goch "by the back door" after breaching difficult defenses to the north of the city. The southern part of Goch was almost completely cleared. The Nazis clung to about a fourth of the north portion.

The German commander, Col. Paul Matussek, was found wounded in the leg. Scottish commanders expressed the belief that he inflicted the wound himself, so that reprisals would not be visited upon his family for his "disgraceful" capture in bed. Caught with him in the same building were a major and two lieutenants.

Within Mile Of Calcar

British and Canadian troops fought within a mile of Calcar, like Goch an important road center and pushed the stoutly resisting Germans to the southern edge of the Moyland woods. Casualties were heavy on both sides. The woods extend almost to the edge of Calcar.

Field Marshal Montgomery was said by the Germans to have sent his British 2d Army into the intensifying battle between the Meuse and the flooded Rhine, a front on which the northern end of the original Siegfried Line has been run through. Montgomery himself said the last round of the battle for Germany was on; that the enemy "is going to receive the knockout blow—a somewhat unusual one, delivered from more than one direction."

7th Gains Two Miles

In widening his 3d Army front in western Germany to 32 miles, Patton captured numerous towns in the Eifel Mountains, some within 7 miles of the important road center of Bitburg.

Farther south, Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army fought back two miles into the German Saar basin, taking 1,000 prisoners and the town of Auersmacher, six miles southeast of Saarbruecken. Supreme headquarters said Patch's objectives were limited.

The American 1st and 9th Armies (and perhaps other formations) were still inactive along the Roer River facing Cologne, Bonn and Duesseldorf. It was in this sector east of Aachen that the Germans have been predicting the showdown battle.

Wesel Bombed Again

On the southern end of the 17-mile attack front the Canadian 1st Army dealt with strong Nazi resistance along a 3,000-yard anti-tank ditch from the ancient castle of Blijenbeek, 20 miles north of Venlo, to the swollen Meuse River. The ditch was flooded and the attackers encountered mines and road blocks.

On the northern and eastern flanks, English, Canadian, Welsh and Scottish troops were within 16 miles of the ruined Ruhr Valley city of Wesel, wrecked anew yesterday by 1,200 tons of British bombs. Swirling mists and a drizzle plagued the Empire troops and blocked tactical air support early in the day.

Parts of eight or nine German divisions have been identified on the Northern front, the bulk of them in the Goch sector. Beyond Goch lies a small open plain adaptable to tank battles, and no elaborate defenses are expected in the area immediately past the town.

Patton's Advances

Third Army advances in the center of the Western front ranged up to ½ mile along the entire 32-mile front.

The 90th Division overran Leidenborn, 3 miles inside Germany, and reached points 7 to 8 miles southwest of captured Pruem. This Texas and Oklahoma division also captured a regimental command post and fourteen officers.

In the Echternach bridgehead, the 80th Blue Ridge Division cleared Hommerdingen and advanced half a mile north to the outskirts of Nusbaum. Near-by Stockigt was entered.

The 5th Red Diamond Division won high ground overlooking Holsthum, where the Enz River flows into the Pruem, 5 miles north of Echternach. The 5th now holds 3 miles of the west bank of the Pruem and has gone 6 miles into Germany.

Only Mile To Minden

A quarter-mile gain placed the 76th Onaway Division less than a mile southwest of Minden, at the confluence of the Pruem and Sure Rivers.

Farther south, the 94th Division of the 3d Army gained 400 yards north of Sinz, reduced five pillboxes and captured 100 Germans. The 94th has been fighting a "private war" with the 11th Panzer Division 15 miles southeast of Luxembourg city for weeks and has cut four miles into the Reich.

A dispatch from Patton's headquarters said the 76th, 5th and 90th Divisions were now clear through a 3-mile-deep stretch of the Siegfried Line along a 7-mile front in the Echternach area. The account said opposing German units had suffered 50 per cent casualties since February 7 and that American losses were extremely light.

Montgomery, Crerar Inspect Battlefront

With British and Canadian Troops in Germany, Feb. 19 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, of the Canadian 1st Army, toured the front in jeeps today as their forces were clearing Goch, most important road hub in this northern sector of the Rhineland.

The field marshal and Crerar waved and smiled to the troops, who responded loudly.

Oak Leaf Cluster Added To General Lear's DSM

Allied Headquarters, Feb. 19 (AP). General Eisenhower presented an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal today to Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear for "exceptionally meritorious service" as army ground forces commander from July 13, 1944, to January 12, 1945.

On behalf of Gen. George C. Marshall, the supreme commander cited Lear for his "relentless drive to more efficiently train the soldier for combat. . . . Through rigid adherence to sound training principles in the training of ground forces he made a distinct contribution to the fighting efficiency of the Army."

Lear now supervises the allocation of American manpower in this theater. As deputy theater commander he is in charge of a program to shift rear-echelon personnel to reinforcement depots and combat outfits.

DE GAULLE MISSED CUE, FRENCH FEEL

Many Regret Failure To Meet Roosevelt, Even In Algiers

Paris, Feb. 19 (AP)—Questions and answers in the French Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee today confirmed previous reports that General de Gaulle had refused an invitation to meet President Roosevelt in the Mediterranean area.

Wide sections of French officialdom were critical of de Gaulle's refusal and were striving to arrange some sort of face-saving compromise for a meeting.

Members of the Foreign Affairs Commitee of the Consultative Assembly demanded that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault explain why de Gaulle had rejected an invitation from Mr. Roosevelt to meet him somewhere in North Africa—reportedly Algiers.

Bidault replied merely that, "faithful to his policies, de Gaulle found himself unable to accept the invitation" and refused to elaborate.

Counterdeclinations Hinted

Members of the committee said they got the impression that Roosevelt declined to come to Paris and that this caused de Gaulle's refusal to go to North Africa.

Some sources in the Government suggested that the head of the French Government might take up "temporary residence" in Algiers and receive the President there.

Many French officials, although still chaffing from what they consider an affront to France and to de Gaulle in the failure of the Big Three to invite the head of the French Government to the Crimean conference, said they were not in sympathy with de Gaulle's subsequent refusal to confer with Mr. Roosevelt anywhere but Paris.

Caffery's Return Awaited

The return to France of Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador, was awaited with considerable anticipation since it was generally believed that he was conferring with Mr. Roosevelt somewhere in the Mediterranean regarding the situation stemming from lack of French representation at Yalta.

Many members of the Consultative Assembly, as well as some officials of the Foreign Ministry, said they felt that there were so many pending issues important to France's future that de Gaulle should have overlooked any slight and journeyed to see the President anywhere.

Feel Opportunity Lost

Some felt that France had lost an opportunity to learn quickly and fully of any unpublished decisions of the Yalta conference which now may reach their Government only through long and tedious diplomatic exchanges.

Meanwhile, other aspects of Franco-American relations appeared entirely amicable as Special Negotiator Jean Monnet prepared to return to Washington to put the finishing touches and the French signature on a lend-lease accord.

Lend-Lease Agreement

Foreign Office spokesmen declared they were "well pleased" with the tentative agreement which Monnet had brought home for study. The first three shiploads of goods provided by this accord are due to arrive soon, they said.

The agreement provides that France will receive roughly $2,000,000,000 worth of American armaments, raw materials and machinery, while the French will provide the Americans with about $1,000,000,000 of labor in producing uniforms, gasoline cans, tires and other equipment for the Allies and for the UNRRA with the materials they get.

French officials denied reports France was "annoyed" by Allied statements of amounts of aid already sent to France and said they only were anxious lest such publicity give a false impression abroad that the nation was being "deluged with help."

The statements made on actual shipments last week at supreme Allied headquarters were true, these sources stated, but they added that the amounts were "far below essential needs."

De Gaulle Exclusion Regretted In Britain

London, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Yorkshire Post, which usually voices opinion in line with that of the Foreign Office, said today that General de Gaulle's absence from Yalta was regretted in Britain.

The newspaper added, however, "His refusal of President Roosevelt's courteously worded invitation (to a conference at Algiers) may not have been entirely judicious." The President, it said, wanted to talk with De Gaulle about French participation in the San Francisco conference on world security

Mrs. Gould Not Held

PARIS, Feb. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Florence Gould, who disclosed last week that she invested heavily in a German-controlled Monte Carlo bank to save her husband, Frank Jay Gould, from being taken by the Germans, has not been confined to her Paris apartment by French authorities, her business manager stated today. However, Mrs. Gould's property has been sequestrated by the French government during investigation of her investment in the bank, which she has described as "a sort of blackmail payment" to prevent her wealthy American husband being imprisoned during the German occupation.

First Freighter Reaches Boulogne

Boulogne, France, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—The first merchant ship to enter this Atlantic port in almost five years unloaded 1,200 tons of jute today for the textile industry of northern France. The port, badly damaged by bombardments, was re recently.

France Puts 48,000 Nazis On Repair Jobs

Paris, Feb. 19 (AP)—France has put 48,000 German prisoners of war to work helping to repair the damage of war.

These prisoners were taken by the French 1st Army. France hopes soon to have at her disposal 60,000 additional prisoners taken by Americans.

NAZI WITHDRAWAL FROM ITALY SEEN

By LYNN HEINZERLING

ROME, Feb. 19.—(AP) Fresh reports that German forces already have begun withdrawing from northern Italy came from the Swiss-Italian frontier tonight, but the Allied command maintained silence on the subject.

From Chiasso, Swiss border town, came word that Fascists in northern Italy frantically were seeking means of assuring their own safety as Nazi troops began filtering northward. Previously there had been reports that German units from Italy already were in action on the Russian front.

The newspaper Der Bund of Switzerland, said Hitler ordered the evacuation begun last week and that four divisions already were moving through the Brenner Pass and toward Graz in Austria.

Even if some German troops have been moved out there is nothing yet to indicate a wholesale evacuation is under way. If and when a real Nazi abandonment begins, the first word from the Allied side probably will come in the form of air force announcements of the blasting of every train and vehicle seen moving north.

Reports of today's air operations failed to indicate more than routine attacks.

The central front, obscured by fog and mists, was crossed and recrossed by both Allied and German patrols as both sides displayed a lively interest in the other's activities and plans.

New Rocket Weapon Used

On the 8th Army front near the Adriatic the Nazis again employed a new rocket weapon, blasting at Allied positions southeast of Alfonsine with projectiles weighing over 100 pounds and fired at a rate of about one a second.

The effect of this enemy fire was not disclosed. The projectile is about four feet long and contains over 80 pounds of explosive. Its range is estimated at 2 miles.

There also were lengthy mortar and artillery exchanges along the Senio River front in the southeastern Po Valley, and both the 8th Army and the Germans suffered casualties in a patrol clash north of Cotignola. No changes in position were announced.

Farther west the Nazis laid heavy mortar and machine-gun fire south of Borgo Di Tossignano on the Firenzuola-Imola road.

Allied Units Range Italian Front

Rome, Feb. 19 (AP)—Allied patrols ranged over the Italian front today, seeking to determine the strength of German forces which may be withdrawing into Hitler's last-ditch fortress in southern Germany.

Allied headquarters reported continued aerial activity against communication routes in northern Italy.

Fifth Army patrols moved through thick fog and mist, the Allied communiqué said, and sharp patrol clashes occurred on the 8th Army front.

Linz Target Of Forts

Objectives on the Brenner rail route into Germany were attacked by medium bombers yesterday. Fortresses bombed Linz, a communications center in Austria, 95 miles west of Vienna.

A naval announcement disclosed that British motor torpedo boats attacked the Yugoslav port of Karlobag, 62 miles southeast of Fiume. The attackers fired two torpedoes into the harbor and bombarded the town. Enemy shore batbatteries caused only slight damage to the British craft.

Nazis Reply With Rockets

The Germans reacted nervously to the Allied probing and fired small batches of rockets southeast of Alfonsine. There were occasional exchanges of artillery and mortar fire all along the Senio River.

German patrols also were busy, with one enemy raiding party attacking 8th Army outposts opposite Cotignola.

Farther west the Germans laid down heavy mortar and machine-gun fire south of Borgo di Tossignano on the Imola-Firenzuola road.

Nazis Leaving Italy, Report

Bern, Switzerland, Feb. 19 (AP)—The newspaper Der Bund reported from Chiasso today that Adolf Hitler has ordered Marshal Albert Kesselring to evacuate northern Italy and that the withdrawal is in progress.

The newspaper said Italian Fascists whom it quoted were in panic and were seeking to mediate for their own safety.

Der Bund said four divisions were already leaving by way of the Brenner Pass. Some are motorized; others are leaving by horse and on foot. Heavy material is being sent by train to Graz, Austria, it was said.

Pope Continues To Run a Fever

Vatican City, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—Pope Pius XII continued feverish today with an attack of influenza, but his condition was described as not serious.

Stockholm, Feb. 19 (AP)—Norwegian informants reported tonight the Germans had withdrawn 100,000 first-class troops from Norway since last September and estimated the remaining force at around twelve divisions.

Stockholm, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—A new contingent of repatriated Swedes from Germany arriving in Sweden said today that roads from Berlin to Warnemunde a few days ago were jammed by a thirty-mile column of refugees heading for the Baltic coast. In interviews with a correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper, Dagens Myheter, the repatriates said Berlin's food situation was critical.

ACROPOLIS DAMAGED IN GREEK FIGHTING

ATHENS, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Parthenon and other monuments of ancient Greece suffered damage during the country's now-concluded civil strife, the Ministry of Education said today.

The Acropolis came under machine gun and mortar fire. Mortar shells landed on the Parthenon, one hitting the western foundation steps, another hitting the enclosed portion and a third the western gable. A mortar shell caused the fall of part of the pillar capital of the southwestern wing of the Propylaea, the entrance hall of the Acropolis. A marble wall and the entrance to the Propylaea were hit by another mortar shell.

The Temple of the Wingless Victory escaped serious damage from a mortar shell that landed a few yards away, but its walls and pillars were hit by bullets. Bullet marks also were seen on the Caryatids, draped female statues used as supports.

The Temple of Aesculapius at the foot of the Acropolis suffered minor damage.

YANKS FREED BY RED ARMY

General Deane Reports Plans For Men From Nazi Camps

Moscow, Feb. 19 (AP)—Many United States officers and men have been liberated from German prisoncamps by the Red Army offensive, and measures for their repatriation now are being taken in co-operation with the Soviet Government, Maj. Gen. J. Russell Deane announced today.

Deane, chief of the United States Military Mission in Moscow, said he hed ordered an Army detachment, including a medical officer, to proceed to Lublin where some of the American prisoners have already assembled. Other groups of prisoners are known to be sheltered in Praga, suburbs of Warsaw, and farther west.

Two hundred to four hundred officers, the majority of whom gained their liberty in the confusion of the German evacuation of Stalag Oflag 64 at Szubin near Bdygoszcz, are among the Americans now being cared for by the Poles and Russians.

Use Of U.S. Air Bases

Deane disclosed that United State Army Air Force bases in the Soviet Union had "paid off" in recent months by evacuation of at least 25 American airmen and the salvage of a dozen or more Flying Fortresses and Liberators which had been grounded behind the Russian lines on the Eastern front.

"Even for this alone the bases we have maintained have proved useful," he said.

Under terms of the Allied agreement for repatriation of war prisoners, United States transportation — principally aircraft — will enter Poland to bring out the liberated Americans.

"We probably will establish a camp where passage will be arranged for our people," Deane explained. "United States officers will administer th ecampt at cost, just as the Red Army will run a similar camp in France.

Kindness Of Poles, Russians

"Statements of our liberated soldiers and airmen all attest to fine treatment by the Poles and Russians, whether military or civilian. Within their power our Allies have done everything they could to be kind, merciful and friendly."

A number of prisoners from the United States, British and Canadian armies have arrived in Moscow in the past few days after hitchhiking by train and truck nearly 1,000 miles. Plans for large-scale movement still are in process of completion, however.

All the prisoners reaching here confirmed the old charge that the Germans provided a starvation diet for Allied officers and men alike. Without Red Cross parcels there would have been a situation tantamount to mass murder, they said.

Starvation Prison Diet

The Germans drew no distinction between American Jews and non-Jews, except to forbid Jewish medical officers to treat any patients.

The released prisoners estimated that the daily ration provided by the Germans contained not more than 1,300 calories, although 1,800 calories is commonly accepted as the minimum necessary even for bedridden persons.

Under the Geneva Convention the German Army is obligated to provide the normal army ration to prisoners. However, those confined in Poland received what civilian Poles received without an opportunity to supplement it by black-market purchases.

One Fifth Pound Of Meat

Two thirds of a pound of bread daily was the principal item of food. Meat amounted to a theoretical one fifth of a pound weekly, but the actual total was hardly sufficient to flavor the coup for one meal.

Three medium-sized potatoes and a tiny dab of margarine rounded out the daily ration. Breakfast was a cup of hot water—nothing more.

It is estimated that 85 per cent of the prisoners in Szubin's Oflag 64 siffered chilblains from temperatures only five degrees above freezing in their unheated barracks.

The Germans supplied no clothing to prisoners and eventually discontinued the practice of giving a new arrival two thin blankets for bedding. One small face towell was issued weekly for individual use and a second one was refused if the first came back "too dirty."

Prison Convoy Nearly Cut Off

Oflag 64 has yielded the largest group of former prisoners known thus far. It was moved westward January 21. The next day Russian tank spearheads nearly cut off the transport column in which its personnel and prisoners were moving.

The Germans left American wounded behind, and more than 100 other prisoners from that camp also gained their liberty.

The German hospital for Allied wounded at Wollenstein on the German border was not evacuated and all the patients were reported to have fallen into Russian hands safely.

A prison camp for Italian officers, also located at Wollensttein, reportedly was taken intact by the Red Army.

Yank Prisoners Hitchhike To Safety As Reds Advance

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Feb. 19 (AP)—Numerous American prisoners of the Germans have been liberated by the Russian offensive despite frantic Nazi efforts to march them westward.

Their numbers have not been estimated, but the fact of their freedom was reported today by three American officers who hitchhiked across Poland and part of Russia as the adventurous vanguard of the others heading home by more conventional means.

Doctor From New York

The three are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, New York, a doctor in the 101st Airborne Division; Lieut. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the 17th Field Artillery, and Lieut. John N. Demling, Jr., 30, Winston-Salem, N.C., a member of the 30th Infantry.

These men, along with numerous others, are from the German prison camp Oflag 64 at Szubin, Poland, between Poznan and Bydgoszcz.

Among the Americans liberated was Wright Bryan, war correspondent and managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, who was captured in France shortly after the invasion.

Colley said Bryan had a minor foot injury but that it was not serious. He added that the last time he saw him, Bryan was in Polish hands and making his way with Americans toward the Soviet Union.

Captured In Normandy

Gruenberg was captured in Normandy, Colley in Tunisia and Demling on the Anzio beachhead.

On January 21, 1945, the Germans herded the American officers who were able to walk out of the camp and started them west just ahead of the drive by Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army group.

The sick and wounded were left behind, but they now are in safe hands.

"We got out as best we could," said Gruenberg, who was an interne in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, before the war.

"Some of us built little sleds, but most of us had to carry our stuff on our backs."

German Civilians Flee

The officers said for several days before they hurried off they saw the road which passes the camp choked with German civilians fleeing westward. There also were many Poles among them, apparently being taken to Germany.

"We strung in with them—us and our German guard," said Colley. "It was some scene and, mind you, this wasn't a main road, but a secondary road."

Asked for an estimate of the number of refugees, Gruenberg said, "I would say there were thousands upon thousands of them."

"Did the German civilians mind you being mixed in their refugee column?" he was asked.

Poles Give Them A Wink

"Oh, a couple of women cursed us," said the doctor. "But the Poles let us hitch our sleds and carts to their wagons. They gave us a wink."

This strange column of frightened, fat German housewives, perspiring male civilians, minor members of the Nazi party, Polish slaves and several hundred United States officers in uniform slowed down near a manor estate on which had recently been living one Baron von Rosen from the Baltic country.

The Germans had taken the estate from a Pole and installed the baron in charge.

Sleep In Baron's Barn

"Our guards shoved us in the baron's barn," said Demling, "and with lots of other American soldiers we slept there for a night—a night which turned out to be our last in captivity."

While the American prisoners and German guards were resting at the manor, Marshal Zhukov's tanks were rolling westward rapidly.

"We heard all kinds of stories that the Russians were anywhere from a day to three days away," said Gruenberg.

Anyway, they were too close for the German guards, and as the tanks rumbled nearer the guards disappeared.

Food Provided By Poles

The Americans made contact with the Poles during the morning and were sitting in the estate's banquet hall, bolting down food and drink brought them by Poles.

"Off in the distance, we heard a lot of yelling," said Gruenberg. "This was followed by the unmistakable sound of tanks. We rushed to the window and looked out, and there they were — the Red Army rolling up in Sherman tanks."

The officers described this as the most beautiful sight they had ever seen in their lives.

"The Poles went into ecstasy when they saw the tanks," Colley said. "They heaped joy on us because the Russians were so busy rolling after the Germans that they didn't halt."

Visited By Russian Officers

"We all yelled, too," said Gruenberg, "and before long some Red Army officers came to see us.

"They shook hands with us all around and we toasted one another, Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin. Then the Russians told us how wonderful were American tanks, trucks, jeeps and food."

By 9 o'clock that night there had been a lot of American-Russian-Polish solidarity cemented with liquor and the natural high spirits of the occasion.

The Passing Scene

"We kept looking out the baron's window at the passing scene," said Colley, "and there were many Shermans, Studebakers, Chevrolets, GM's, Fords, half-trucks, and so on.

"Boy, those Russian-made tanks were something. I'd say they were about one and a half times as big as our Shermans."

The officers said that while they were at the manor house they heard that a big column of British noncommissioned officers also had been freed by the Red Army.

Others Reported Escaping

"They were some distance from us in our general area. There also were reports of some Indians and Italian prisoners who had gotten away, but we didn't see them," the Americans said.

The next day, a large group of Americans went to the town of Exin and, while they were waiting for transportation Gruenberg and two other American doctors, a Captain Van Gorder and a Captain Radda, both of the 101st Airborne Division, set up a hospital with German medical supplies they found in a church.

The doctors worked alone until the Russians came and set up a hospital with a woman major in charge.

The major gave one American a paper on which she scrawled that he had treated Russian wounded. This document served as the Americans' pass across Poland and into Moscow.

Hungary Ends Rule Over Seized Lands

Moscow, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—The Hungarian Provisional Government at Debrecen has adopted a decree removing Hungarian jurisdiction over the areas in Romania, Czecho-Slovakia and Yugoslavia previously taken away from those countries, Tass announced today.

Allies Marching On Mandalay, Irrawaddy Escape Line Cut

Calcutta, Feb. 19 (AP)—Despite bitter Japanese resistance, Indian and Gurkha troops are steadily enlarging their week-old bridgehead across the Irrawaddy River 35 miles below Mandalay in Burma, and have the situation "well in hand," Allied headquarters announced today.

The 10-mile-wide bridgehead was developing into a pincers threat to Mandalay in conjunction with the southward drive of other British forces along the east bank of the Irrawaddy about 40 miles north of the big river port. By official announcement, the march on Mandalay was under way.

Thoroughly aroused to the danger of their position, the Japanese were reported throwing in incessant counterattacks against the new bridgehead near Myinmu and to be fighting around the clock. Casualties were described as heavy on both sides, but with Japanese losses running much higher than those of the Allies.

Use Of River Denied Jap

With the Irrawaddy now bridged both above and below Mandalay, the Japanese in the area will not be able to use the river as a supply route from Rangoon nor as a means of escape when Mandalay falls. The new bridgehead offers an immediate threat to the whole intricate system of enemy roads and railways in the Irrawaddy elbow.

The amphibious operation was carried out by Commando veterans of the 33d Corps of the 14th British Army after intricate maneuvering in hundreds of light craft through tortuous mangrove swamps. Perfect timing put all the troops ashore at almost the same time and caught the Japanese napping. The Commandos quickly drove 2 miles inland and cut the main highway leading south to Taungur.

Air Force Gives Full Support

American and British air forces struck in support of the operation, with everything from heavy bombers to fighters assaulting enemy troop concentrations, gun positions in a transport in the Myinmu area. Eighty trucks were destroyed in a motor park southwest of Mandalay, and 60 river craft were destroyed or damaged.

Sustained attacks against a half-dozen Japanese airfields in the Mandalay area balked any attempt the enemy might have made to interfere with the operation from the air. At least four important rail bridges immediately back of the battle area were knocked out. Japanese air opposition was almost nonexistent and Allied pilots reported only meager ground fire.

Would Bar Escape Route

The new bridgehead, first to be established below Mandalay, would keep the enemy from using the river for escape when the city itself finally is assaulted.

The British crossed in hundreds of light river craft. Many were caught in the current and swept downstream out of control.

Troops who gained the left bank in the first wave were forced to dig in at the water's edge after returning Japanese fire from boats for nearly a half hour.

British Hold To Area Won Below Mandalay

Calcutta, Feb. 19 (AP)—British imperial troops who bridged the swift Irrawaddy River in Burma about 35 miles below Mandalay, were reported today to have the situation "well in hand" after five days of fierce fighting.

Indian and Gurkha troops of the 14th Army made the hazardous crossing in the early morning of February 13 under a hail of enemy artillery, mortar and small-arms

50 JAP DIVISIONS TO MEET LANDING

General Ho Reports Enemy Mass To Block Americans

Chungking, Feb. 19 (AP)—Gen. Ho Yin Chin, Chinese Chief of Staff, estimates the Japanese have thrown up to 50 divisions, or two fifths of their army on the Chinese mainland, into efforts to prevent any American landing on the Chinese coast, the Central News Agency said today.

Ho, commanding the new Chinese field headquarters at Kunming, said this did not include the Kwantung army of 22 divisions stationed in Manchuria, and said, "We are making new disposition of troops and planning an effective offensive to collaborate with Allied movements toward victory."

Rail Corridor Under Attack

The Chinese high command said Japanese forces still were attacking in the border region between Hunan and Kwangtung provinces, trying to close the recently won 25-mile Chinese corridor on the Canton-Hankow railroad. Fighting was reported east of Ichang, 105 miles south of Henyang, and near Yungyun, 100 miles northeast of Canton.

In Kiangsi, Chinese troops are seeking to chop the Japanese supply line from Hengyang to Suichwan and Kanhsien, where United States air bases were abandoned, Chinese headquarters added.

Ame an ambass Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley left for Washington today, presumably to give President Roosevelt a personal report. Hurley acted as mediator in negotiations, now virtually suspended, between the Chungking government and Chinese Communists.

Japs Shift 50 Divisions To Meet U.S. Threat

Chungking, Feb. 19 (AP) — Th Central news agency quoted Ge Ho Yin Chin, China's chief of sta as saying today that the Japanes were deploying up to 50 divisio on the Chinese mainland in a bi to stem a possible American lan ing on the coast.

"We are making a new dispos tion of troops and planning an e fective offensive to collaborate wit Allied movements toward victory said Ho, who commands the ne Chinese field headquarters at Ku ming.

The Chinese high command said that in the border region of Hunan and Kwangtung provinces the Japanese continued their efforts to seal the gap recently punched in the Canton-Hankow railway by the Chinese.

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 19 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley left today for Washington, presumably to make a personal report to President Roosevelt on the situation in China.

MORTARS SMASH OUTER WALLS OF INTRAMUROS AREA

Cornered Japs Making Final Stand in Ancient Walled City.

YANKS MOP UP BATAAN

Paratroopers Eliminate Enemy Strongholds on Corregidor Island.

MANILA, Tuesday, Feb. 20—(AP) Manila's Fort William McKinley was seized Sunday as heavy mortars began tearing apart the outer walls of the intramuros where the cornered Japanese defense garrison is holed up for a bloody final stand.

Some of the 7,000 civilians held as hostages within the ancient intramuros (walled city) may have reached freedom already. At least a few were reported to have filtered to the waterfront and escaped in small boats. Japanese fire from the falls is still heavy, however.

Tear Holes in Walls

Mortars were taken across the Pasig river on pontoon bridges and put to work tearing chunks out of the thick outer wall of the intramuros so tanks and infantry can move in.

Three days ago the Japanese commander was asked to liberate the civilians within the walled city. No formal answer has yet been received.

Fort McKinley, at the southern outskirts of Manila, was entered by 11th airborne and First Cavalry spearheads. Other Yanks, swarming over Corregidor, mopped up the Japanese defending and pursued enemy remnants on Bataan.

McKinley is one of Manila's two forts. The other is Fort Santiago, inside the old intramuros (walled city) where the Japanese are making a bloody final stand, jeopardizing thousands of civilian lives.

Fort McKinley before the war was headquarters for the Philippine scouts and part of the Philippine division of the American Army. It has a large airfield and extensive military facilities.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today the "steady reduction" of the Japanese holed up in the intramuros was continuing.

Japanese strongpoints on Corregidor were being eliminated by paratroopers and infantrymen who landed by air and sea on the island fortress Friday. Enemy defenders were being killed as they manned their fixed gun batteries.

Associated Press correspondent Fred Hampson, with Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold's 14th corps at Fort McKinley, said officers hesitated to claim the full capture of the fort until mopping up is completed in the adjacent area.

Smash Into Fort

Elements of the First Cavalry division aided the 11th airborne push into the Fort annex and most of the old military area.

To the north, heavy howitzers were hauled across the Pasig river and were set up within 500 yards of the intramuros' thick outer wall. By noon yesterday a considerable portion of the wall had been breached by shells, but further pounding will be necessary before tanks and foot troops can move in.

Many buildings inside the intramuros already are destroyed, either by Japanese demolition or American artillery, but their hulls still make good machinegun positions.

Most of the civilians held by the Japanese inside the ancient citadel are believed to be in the Santo Domingo church and surrounding buildings. The First cavalry and 37th division were girding for a final assault on this last major strong point in South Manila.

The towns of Hagonoy and Tagig on the northwest shore of large Laguna de Bay, southeast of Manila, also were taken.

Frequent patrol clashes were reported near Novaliches and Norzagaray, northeast of Manila, while in the Zambales mountain sector long Luzon's west-central coast the 40th division was clearing Japanese remnants.

Four Jap Barges Sunk

Light naval craft operating in Manila bay, now open to U. S. fleet units with the invasion of Corregidor, sank four barges.

"On Corregidor our troops continued the reduction of enemy strong points and mopping up in the rear of batteries," MacArthur announced. "On Bataan we are combing the peninsula for enemy remnants. In south Manila the steady reduction of the final enemy positions continues."

A concentrated 175-ton bombing of Takao airdrome on Formosa by Army Liberators caused extensive damage to an aluminum plant and rail yards, MacArthur reported.

Air patrols damaged three small freighters off the Formosa coast and sank another in the Sakashima islands nearby.

Other patrol bombers bombed and strafed a 3,000-ton freighter-transport off the French Indo-China coast. The vessel was left aground and blazing.

Northwest Borneo took a 64-ton bombing concentrated on the runway and dispersal area of Miri airdrome as well as two other airfields in the vicinity. A patrol ship and a loaded barge were sunk off the coast.

60 Slain In College

An example of what fate might overtake the men, women and children held behind the aged but stout walls of the old Intramuros district of the city was disclosed at De La Salle College.

The bodies of 60 Catholic priests and civilians who had been given refuge were found in the ruins of the college in the Malate district. They had been shot and bayoneted by Japanese.

Japs Still Hold Intramuros In Manila

Manila, Feb. 19 (AP)—Manila Bay was all but back in American hands today, but in the city itself, where some 7,000 civilians were released in a new dramatic rescue, the Japanese still clung grimly to the walled Intramuros section.

Mopping up continued on Corregidor, where Yanks control the topside.

The 7,000, including 100 Ameri- cans, were liberated under gun fire as American troops stormed into the ruins of the Philippine General Hospital, a few blocks south of the Intramuros walls.

Delay Of Intramuros Fight

Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, commander of the 14th. Corps, still delayed a showdown battle for the walled Intramuros district in the hope other thousands of civilians would be voluntarily released by the Japanese.

The Navy's 7th Fleet warships steamed to the entrance of the bay to bombard Japanese on the Cavite shore, Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed in a communiqué also reporting mopping up progress on Corregidor.

American troops, who landed on the historic bay entrance fortress Friday, cleared important Malinta hill.

The communiqué said the east entrance of Corregidor tunnel, in which the Japanese may follow their usual underground fight-to-death practice, was closed by a landslide. Seventh Fleet guns had loosened the earth.

Japs On Bataan

Some enemy pockets also remained on Bataan peninsula, enclosing Manila Bay on the west. The communiqué said a small force was dispersed near Orion.

MacArthur took occasion to recall the gallant stand of American and Philippine troops on Bataan and Corregidor in 1942 as making "possible all that has happened since."

The Philippine hospital liberation, disclosed in MacArthur's communiqué, was accomplished Saturday afternoon after the hospital area had been further ravaged by three days of some of the bitterest fighting in the battle for Manila.

Japanese snipers, hidden in remaining buildings, kept up their fire as the American soldiers evacuated the limping, haggard stream of human misery.

400 Patients

Those freed included at least 400 hospital patients. Fifty of these were Americans, most of them from the already liberated Santo Tomas internment camp.

Huddled in the wrecked hospital area with the patients, doctors and nurses were thousands of refugees from the battle-torn Intramuros, Ermite and Paco sections.

The Japanese had made the hospital one of their strong points and, until they were silenced, had used five-inch naval guns mounted on the second and third floors.

Lieut.-Col. H. W. Radcliffe's Second Battalion of the 148th Infantry, Thirty-seventh Division, effected the rescue last Saturday after the hospital area had been further ravaged by three days of bitter fighting.

Waiting For Reply

General Griswold, the 14th Corps commander who has been waiting since Friday for a Japanese response to his appeal for release of the trapped civilians in the Intramuros, indicated he may not wait much longer.

"I have lost lots of men in Manila already," he said, "and my military judgment is to raze that Japanese stronghold." He observed that the men, women and children in the district were "bound to suffer, whatever steps we take."

Priest Describes Massacre Of 60 At Religious Refuge

By Russell Brines

Manila, Feb. 18 [AP—Delayed].—The wanton slaying of at least 60 priests and brothers and women and children refugees in De la Salle College, in Manila's Malate district, by Japanese soldiers was revealed today with recovery of the mutilated remains.

Of 70 persons caught in the college, only eight survived, said one of them, the Rev. Francis J. Cosgrave, 47, a Redemptorist father of Sydney, Australia.

One Officer, 20 Men

Father Cosgrave, recovering in Santo Tomas hospital from two bayonet wounds, filled in details of the terrible afternoon last Monday.

One Japanese officer and twenty enlisted men shot and bayoneted the American, Filipino, German, Irish and Spanish religious brothers and Filipino refugees.

The bodies, serving as mute and ghastly evidence, were discovered today when the United States 148th Infantry Regiment captured the college area.

Father Cosgrave said the Japanese garrison had remained in one wing of the college, while permitting the priests and refugees to occupy another.

Guns And Bayonets

Monday, another tense day on the fringe of the battle area, the Japanese stormed into the priests' room, Father Cosgrave reported. He said the religious group and refugees were just finishing a simple lunch.

The officer screamed something then fired pointblank with a pistol. Then the Japanese soldiers charged into the sobbing, terrified throng of victims, firing guns and slashing right and left with their bayonets.

Today the bodies lay as they fell in the blood-smeared interior of what once was a modern college near the Rizal Stadium.

Tried To Reach Chapel

They were lying in grotesque helplessness, these slashed and smashed bodies. Some, caught in the first volley, tumbled in the dining room. Others evidently raced out into the first-floor hallway. They were cut down after running a few steps.

Still others reached the stairway and started upward toward the chapel. Many failed to reach it and were slaughtered on the stairs or collapsed into a pile at the bottom.

But others reached the chapel before the Japanese killed them, at the doorway and even before the altar.

Hid There For Week

Father Cosgrave escaped in a dramatic way. After the first attack he found himself under two or three others. He remained there until 10 o'clock that night. Then, when all was quiet, he crawled painfully up the stairs into the chapel, where he hid beneath the altar.

Cosgrave had been bayoneted twice in the chest. He remained beneath the chapel for a week, living on water drained from flower vases and wafers used for holy communion.

He frequently crawled from his hiding place to administer extreme unction to those who were dying from wounds.

"I believe only eight or ten survived of the 70 in the college," said the Australian priest who was superior of his order in Manila. He was permitted to remain out of internment to look after his church property.

Nearly half of the victims were women and children, many of them babies.

One Filipino was bayoneted in the entranceway of the chapel while his hands were bound behind him.

Ten American Priests

Ten of the victims were believed to be American priests. The others included fourteen German and two Irish brothers of the De La Salle order, a Spanish family, a prominent Filipino judge and two doctors.

Cosgrave said Brother Xavier, head of the local college, had been taken by the Japanese two days before the massacre in which the first to die was Brother Leo, believed to be a former teacher at De La Salle Academy, in New York.

As the final touch of irony, the priest said one of the Filipino doctors had treated a hip wound of a Japanese officer only a few hours before the massacre.

Street fighting continued near this two-story concrete college as the ghastly crime was discovered. Earlier, American artillery had sprayed the building, splattering debris near Cosgrave as he lay hiding in the chapel.

Bill Asks Probe Of Atrocities By Japs

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Senator Wilson (R., Iowa) drafted legislation today calling for a congressional investigation into Japanese atrocities against American war prisoners.

The proposal would set up a three-member Senate Military Subcommittee empowered to hold hearings on the West Coast to get firsthand testimony from liberated Americans.

Wilson said he understood that about 5,000 Americans have been freed of Japanese imprisonment in the Philippines.

Would Take Testimony

The committee would take testimony from former prisoners upon their arrival in this country to get accounts of their experiences in Japanese prison camps and civilian internment camps as well.

"Congress should have a permanent, authentic record of Japanese behavior toward prisoners of war and American civilians the Japs have interned," Wilson declared.

"Now, while the memory of the atrocities is fresh in the minds of these people, their stories should be recorded so that no question can be raised in the future as to what has occurred.

"We hope the war will end soon. When it is over, Congress will want to have such information in its consideration of the kind of treaty it will sanction with Japan—what sort of terms we should grant."

He said that similar inquiries might be made later into German treatment of prisoners, but that in view of the liberation of so many prisoners from the Japanese by American forces, "it is important that their testimony be taken at once."

Wilson's resolution would be broad enough to cover the recently related incident of 1,800 American prisoners dying in the torpedoing of a prison ship. Survivors said the Japanese prevented the prisoners from getting into lifeboats.

"Many Details Missing"

Wilson said authentic accounts of mistreatment of prisoners, including the celebrated "death march," have come in, many of them from war correspondents.

"However," he said, "a great many details are missing. And, in the second place, we should be prepared for the day when the authenticity of some of these accounts might be challenged.

"We should have a sworn record, taken from the lips of the men and women who have suffered.'

With the Eleventh Corps on Corregidor, Feb. 18 (Deplayed)—(A. P.). — The Medical Corps' problem on Corregidor is one of the most nerve-wracking this veteran unit has ever encountered. Doctors and men are carrying on in two limestone pits within range of snipers sneaking from nearby caves and mortars firing over the adjoining hills.

A hospital site was scooped out of the rock by a bulldozer. It was like setting up a hospital in the bottom of a football stadium with one end open to the sea, but with the enemy just over the stadium wall and sneaking into the 50-yard-line seat section.

Enemy Lurks In Caves

WITH THE ELEVENTH CORPS, on Corregidor, Feb. 18 (Delayed) (AP)—There is a momentary lull over bleak, bloody Corregidor, but a half hour ago this tiny rock quarry beach was reverberating from bombs and destroyer shells bombarding a hill commanding its approach.

From a cave, Japanese machine guns opened up late yesterday against Americans filing ashore from barges.

An amazing feature of the fighting is how Japanese bob up from caves and resume firing after bombardment that looks and sounds as if it would kill every living thing for many yards around.

Now smoke is drifting over the limestone ridge protruding from Malinta Hill, towering over the other side of the wreckage-strewn beach.

A blast of flame was just turned into the mouth of the famed Malinta Tunnel.

The Japanese struck last night—our second on the beach—with their first "banzai" charge. More than 100 charging Japanese were killed as the doughboys stood firm.

Baltimorean Turns Jap Gun On Foe

Manila, Feb. 19 (AP)—First Lieutenant Cecil Curles, of Baltimore, and Pfc. Edward Rudd, of Rome, N.Y., both of the 11th Airborne Division, found themselves in the midst of three blasted Jap five-inch naval guns around Nichols Field, south of Manila.

One of the guns looked pretty good, so Curles and Rudd gathered up enough parts to make it work and turned it on Japanese emplacements.

"We found a Japanese ordnance manual, but couldn't read it and neither of us know anything about naval guns," said Curles, "so Rudd sighted through a hole and then loaded and locked it. We used a ten-yard extension on the lanyard and lay flat on the ground and fired. The gun didn't blow up so we tried again. I observed while Rudd aimed, loaded and fired. We got direct hits on a concrete machine shop 50 yards away and knocked out a pillbox.

"Now we know where the Japanese Navy is. It was dismantled and placed all over Nichols Field."

Pfc. Robert D. Fuentes, of Los Angeles, eager to get a Japanese sword, shot a Nipponese officer during an 11th Airborne Division's sorties near Fort McKinley. The officer had a sword. Fuentes dashed forward, got it and then dived for cover, where he inspected his booty.

On the blade was the inscription: "U.S. Navy."

Pfc. Oscar Owings, of Paducah, Ky., and Pfc. David Addison, of Minden, La., were hunting a place to sleep one night near Nichols Field. Owings found a Japanese pillbox.

"There's a couple of dead ones in here. Help me lug them out," he shouted to Addison.

Dead, He Said

Just then one of the "dead ones" leaped up, giving the Imperial Japanese Marine war cry. Owings jumped back as Addison fired through a ventilator. Owings heaved a hand grenade into the pillbox.

"He killed them both," said Addison, "but then the place was too messy to sleep in."

'Fairy Tale,' Argentina Calls Bormann Report

Buenos Aires, Feb. 19 (AP)—Argentine spokesmen said tonight a Moscow broadcast reporting the arrival in Argentina of Karl Friedrich Bormann, son of Martin Bormann, deputy leader of the Nazi party, belonged in the realm of fairy tales.

Government officials have ridiculed recurrent rumors from abroad that Nize bigwigs were seeking sanctuary here.

Nazi Leader's Son Flies to Argentina

London, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—The Moscow radio said today that Karl Friedrich Bormann, son of Martin Bormann, deputy leader of the Nazi party, had arrived by plane in Argentina.

G. R. MERRELL TO BE ENVOY

Nominated for India Post as Phillips Prolongs Stay Here

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated George R. Merrell of Missouri, a career diplomat, to be United States representative in India with the rank of Minister.

Ambassador William Phillips remains as the President's personal representative to India. He has been in this country for several months, however, and there have been unofficial reports that, because of his strong attitude in favor of complete freedom for India, the British did not desire his return there.

Mr. Merrell is in New Delhi, where he has been serving as secretary of the American political mission. Such a mission is similar to an embassy organization. Since India, however, is not an independent nation this country cannot send a regular diplomatic mission to New Delhi.

El Salvador Break Over

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew announced today renewal of relations between the United States and the Government of El Salvador.

The State Department announced that the American Embassy at San Salvador had been instructed to resume normal diplomatic relations with the administration.

The action should clear the way for that country to attend the Inter-American Conference at Mexico City.

Midnight Curfew Is Ordered for All Amusement Spots

FEB 20 1945

Nationwide Mandate to Become Effective Feb. 26—Byrnes Says Purpose Is to Save Coal—Will Hit N. Y. Night Life.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP) A midnight curfew was proclaimed today for night clubs, theaters, road houses, saloons and all other "places of entertainment" throughout the nation.

The action, taken by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes becomes effective Feb. 26, and is expected to make New York's broadway and countless other amusement centers look like deserted villages after the stroke of twelve.

Byrnes' mandate took the form of a "request" to operators of entertainment places, from swank night spot to neighborhood movie, to have their patrons out and the doors locked up by midnight.

But Byrnes invoked manpower controls to make compliance, to all intents, obligatory. He said he would ask the War Manpower commission to "deny ceilings to any places violating this request." This would deprive such establishments of employes.

The War Production board, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price administration also were asked to aid the WMC as far as possible in enforcing the "request."

Byrnes said his purpose "is primarily to save coal consumed in heating and in providing electricity. But it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, manpower and in other ways."

Places of entertainment were defined as all night clubs, sport arenas, theaters, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars, "and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaurants engaged exclusively in serving food."

Closing at midnight means that patrons shall leave in time to permit full closing by that time, the Byrnes announcement said.

"The War Manpower commission will be requested to deny ceilings to any places violating this request," the statement said.

It added:

Federal Agencies to Help

"Moreover, the War Production board, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration are being requested to use their powers to the full extent consistent with the law in assisting the War Manpower commission."

In announcing the broad step, Byrnes said:

"Conservation measures previously taken by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, including reduction of travel, the elimination of the use of electricity in outdoor advertising, the lowering of temperatures in government buildings and an appeal to the public to lower temperatures in homes do not appear to suffice in view of the coal shortage.

"I am advised by the War Production board that the industrial coal stocks on hand are inadequate.

"Unfavorable weather conditions and possible spring floods render the coal situation even more serious than a few weeks ago.

"The closing of places of entertainment at midnight should impose no real hardships, and I am convinced our people at home will gladly comply with this request in view of the fact that in the period just ahead of us those in the armed services will be making greater sacrifices than ever before."

The Byrnes statement said he felt sure "that state and local officials would cooperate wholeheartedly with the Federal government in carrying out this objective and in bringing any violations to the attention of the proper authorities."

Curfew Caps Series Of Tighter Controls

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—The midnight curfew for entertainment places tops a list of steadily tightening home-front controls ordered since the German breakthrough in Belgium.

Others include:

1. Freezing of civilian production by industry at current levels, ordered December 16.

2. Closing of race tracks, ordered December 23, effective January 3.

Employment ceilings on firms rated as "less essential," ordered December 23, with War Production Board penalties for violators.

3. Draft deferment reviews for professional athletes, ordered December 23.

Return of virtually all meats and most vegetables to the ration list over the Chirstmas week end.

4. Induction ordered for draft-deferred job jumpers January 3.

5. Review of farm deferments for men aged 18-25, ordered by selective service January 3.

6. The convention band, ordered January 5.

7. The brownout, with outdoor advertising and decorative lighting forbidden, ordered January 10, effective February 1.

8. Wiping out of most new civilian goods production authorizations, ordered January 12.

9. Numerous orders allocating greater percentages of food and other materials to war purposes have been issued, along with greater allocation of textiles to moderate-priced clothing items.

And the Administration is still pulling out all stops in urging Congress to pass mandatory manpower legislation.

GREW IS SILENT ON ITALIAN TERMS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP) The lid stayed on the Italian surrender terms today but Acting Secretary of State Grew tilted it a bit to show they did not provide for exporting Italian labor.

That much he disclosed after Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) produced an unofficial version which called for sending 2,000,000 Italians to Allied countries for postwar reconstruction work.

Bridges got his copy from the International Law review at Geneva where it was published with the notation that it came from unofficial sources and there were doubts about its authenticity. Bridges said if its statements were not correct then "they ought to be denied by the proper officials." He added that "the Senate ought to be informed by the proper officials of the terms of the Italian-Allied armistice."

Grew's statement said:

"I should like to refer to my statement on Italy of February 8 in which I pointed out that the surrender instrument does not contain any provisions with respect to future settlements.

"The armistice terms do not include any provisions whatever with regard to the exportation of labor.

"Furthermore, as I said on Feb. 8, it has not even been necessary to apply the armistice terms as originally drawn up to Italy in view of the fact that Italy is a co-belligerent.

"Italy's economy as a co-belligerent is being devoted to the prosecution of the war in the same sense as is that of the other countries fighting Germany."

In Rome, officials said the purported copy was without foundation.

Said Capt. Ellery W. Stone, chief commissioner of the Allied commission for Italy: "It bears no relation whatsoever to the Italian armistice terms.

Italian Foreign Minister Alcide Do Gasperi termed it "utterly without foundation."

The armistice document has been withheld as a military secret, without explanation of the military considerations involved.

Royce Gets New Air Command

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The War Department announced today the appointment of Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce as commanding general of the Army Air Forces personnel distribution command, succeeding Maj. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon. Headquarters of the command is being transferred from Atlantic City to Louisville.

Russian Pulpwood Reaches U.S. Mills

New York, Feb. 19 (AP) — Small shipments of Russian pulpwood have been received by United States paper mills recently, the American Paper and Pulp Association reported today.

It gave no details, but commented that this initiated "a movement which, while not expected to reach a large volume, will prove helpful in reducing the present shortage of this essential war commodity."

Stimson's Manpower Picture Held 'Unbalanced'

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—War Secretary Stimson was accused today by Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) of giving an "utterly unbalanced" account of the manpower picture in his criticism of congressional delay on modified national service legislation.

O'Mahoney, member of the Senate Military Committee and advocate of legislative support for voluntary manpower controls, told reporters:

"It seems to me that the Secretary's broadcast last night gives an utterly unbalanced impression to the soldiers and their families of what the United States has produced for this war under the voluntary systems."

"Not Let Down"

O'Mahoney said it "would be a pity if the soldiers and their families got the impression from Stimson's broadcast that "management and labor have let them down."

"Our soldiers have not been let down by the people on the home front," the Wyoming Senator said.

"I like to think that we alone of all the nations in the world have done this job in the free system by the voluntary acts of our people.

"That, I think, is the message that the Secretary of War ought to give the soldiers on the fighting fronts."

Both Stimson and War Production Chief J. B. Krug used the radio over the week end to plead for more stringent manpower controls.

"Deadly Shortages" Seen

"We dare not delay longer," Stimson told the families of service men. "Deadly shortages are now looming before us."

"For the exact measure of the 'ineffectiveness' of the voluntary system," O'Mahoney declared, "I refer Secretary Stimson to the record of lend-lease to Britain and Russia, the nations to which he points as an example to the United States.

"We have supplied the United Kingdom, exclusive of foodstuffs, over eight billion dollars' worth of ordnance, aircraft, tanks and other materials of war.

"To Russia, exclusive of foodstuffs, we have supplied over six billion dollars' worth of war materials."

Stimson argued against "prolonged consideration (by Congress) of comparative trivial details."

Handling Of War Prisoners Decried

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—A "national scandal" has developed, Representative Harless (D., Ariz.) said today, "in improper handling of war prisoners in our country."

He proposed creation of a congressional committee to investigate the situation and told the House:

"There is not only laxity and absence of policy regarding our war prisoners, but there is indulgence and pampering (of them).

"It has been the most outstandingly mismanaged part of this war.

"We are permitting these prisoners of war to develop a contempt for our people and our Government. Guards are scoffed at and laughed at."

Occurrences Listed

Asserting that in his remarks he referred to German prisoners, Harless said he had received reports of the following occurences:

Allowance of two packages of cigarettes daily to prisoners.

Provision of food which offers a menu "that might make you think you are in the Waldorf-Astoria."

Manning of only one out of every four guard towers at the Phoenix (Ariz.) camp.

No restriction of prisoners going unattended around certain airfields.

Existence at the Phoenix camp of a "dictatorship" under one Nazi officer.

Harless said that at Phoenix "conditions were so tense and so uncontrolled that even the guards would not dare go into certain compounds wearing a necktie for fear that they would be strangled with it."

U.S. AND CANADA EXPAND AIR LINES

New Agreement On Transport Services Announced

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Air services connecting the United States and Canada will be greatly increased under a new agreement announced today, but operations generally will be limited to a single carrier on each route.

The one exception to the one-carrier limitation, which is in line with Canada's "chosen instrument" policy, is the Buffalo-Toronto route, where the United States may authorize two airlines to fly.

Military Transport Agreement

At the same time, the two countries disclosed an agreement with by the American Military Transport Services will not carry paying traffic destined to Canada or originating in the Dominion, but may continue to carry such passengers across Canadian territory.

This agreement was directed at the decision of the United States to carry nonmilitary personnel traveling on war-associated business on the Army and Navy Air Transport Services at fares approximating those charged by civil airlines.

The new routes which may be awarded to American carriers are New York or Boston to Quebec, New York to Ottawa and Washington to Montreal and Ottawa (although both cities may not be served on the same flight). At present the United States is flying from Boston to Montreal and Moncton, New York to Montreal, Buffalo to Winnipeg, Great Falls, Mont., to Lethbridge, Seattle to Vancouver and Fairbanks to Whitehorse.

Direct Air Connection

The new routes for the Canadian line are Halifax to Boston, Toronto to Cleveland, Toronto to Chicago, Port Arthur to Duluth, Victoria to Seattle, and Whitehorse to Fairbanks.

The over-all effect of the agreement is to give direct air service with Canada for the first time to Washington, Chicago, Cleveland, and Duluth. In Canada it will give direct air connection with the United States for the first time to Ottawa, Halifax, Victoria, Quebec and Port Arthur.

Start of the stepped-up services rests with each country. In the United States, the Civil Aeronautics Board must choose from among a number of applicants for such routes. Canada's start probably will be determined by availability of equipment and ground services.

The new agreement, replacing one written in 1939, retains a provision whereby Canada may stop in Detroit on any of its services authorized into Windsor, and the United States may stop in Windsor on any service authorized into Detroit.

Canada And United Kingdom

In an address at Toronto delivered at the time the agreement was announced in Washington, C. D. Howe, Canada's Minister of Reconstruction and No. 1 man on aviation, disclosed that the Dominion expects to increase to one round trip daily its present schedule of three nonstop trips weekly between Canada and the United Kingdom. He described it as the only nonstop service between this continent and the United Kingdom.

Declaring that Canada intends to play a leading part in world air transport, Howe said it was "building airplanes for the purpose, which we believe will be unsurpassed by those of competitor countries."

May Studies Reported Order On Communists In U.S. Army

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Chairman May (D., Ky.) called on the War Department today to explain to the House Military Committee its policies with respect to Communists.

He said he requested the explanation because of reports that commanding officers at home and on the fighting fronts have been notified that there shall be no distinction between Communists and others in the Army.

Would Call Officials

"If that is true," May said, "I propose to have department officials come before the committee and explain it. I am against Communists holding commissions in the Army. It seems to me that we have enough good red-blooded Americans to run our Army."

Whether the committee would order a full investigation, May said, would be determined after the department makes the requested explanation in writing.

The War Department, meanwhile, declined to comment on a Chicago Tribune dispatch saying such an order had been issued, countermanding "previous confidential instructions barring Communists from officer training and some nineteen various assignments involving military secrecy."

Party, Or U.S. Loyalty

An exception, the Tribune said, was made for cases where there is proof that the individuals involved place party loyalty above loyalty to the United States.

May said all he knew about it was what he had seen in published reports.

The purported order was assailed in the House by Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), who declared that "if that isn't treason, Mr. Speaker, it is very close to it."

Rankin, a member of the permanent House Committee Investigating un-American Activities, said whoever was responsible for the order "ought to be impeached."

It would, he claimed, permit the commissioning of "Trotskyite Communists."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Representative Rankin of Mississippi told the House today that the man responsible for a reported new War Department order for no distinction against Communists "ought to be impeached."

"If that isn't treason, it is very close to it," he said.

Later, Chairman May of the Military Committee said in an interview that if the report of the order was true he proposed "to have War Department officials come before the committee and explain it." He also said that he had requested a written explanation and that upon it would depend whether the committee would order an investigation.

The War Department did not confirm that such an order had been issued.

ARMY RETRACTION ON REDS REPORTED

Chicago Tribune Quotes Order Ending Officer Training Ban if Loyalty Is Not Divided

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said today in a Washington dispatch that the War Department had issued a directive countermanding "previous confidential instructions barring Communists from officer training and some nineteen various assignments involving military secrecy."

The newspaper said that the directive was dated Dec. 30, 1944, "was signed at the direction of the Secretary of War by Brig. Gen. Robert H. Dunlop, on that date acting Adjutant General of the Army," and was sent to commanding generals of the air, ground and service forces; the commanding officers of ports of embarkation, base commands and all posts, camps and stations and commanding officers at the battlefronts.

The dispatch reported the directive as saying:

"The basic consideration is not the propriety of the individual's opinions but his loyalty to the United States. Membership in, or strict adherence to the doctrines of, the Communist party organization is subject to influences that may tend to divide his loyalty.

"However, many good soldiers are subject to conflicting influences that may tend to divide loyalty. Such influences must be appraised in the light of the individual's entire record.

"No action will be taken under the reference letter that is predicated on membership in or adherence to the doctrines of the Communist party unless there is a specific finding that the individual involved has a loyalty to the Communist party as an organization which overrides his loyalty to the United States."

The Tribune said that "the letter referred to is a confidential communication sent to the same officers under date of Jan. 31, 1944, outlining procedure for 'the disposition of subversive and disaffected military personnel."

TAFT DECLARES WALLACE UNFIT

Washington, Feb. 19 (A. P.).—Senator Taft (R. Ohio) contended today that Henry Wallace's plans for Government aid in a post-war economy of 60,000,000 jobs will "lead to national bankruptcy and a totalitarian state."

Declaring that President Roosevelt had forfeited any right to senatorial courtesy by what he termed the "cynical" removal of Jesse Jones to reward Mr. Wallace for political services, Mr. Taft urged the Senate to reject Wallace's nomination for Secretary of Commerce. He told his colleagues that, by passage of the George bill separating the Government lending agencies from the Commerce Department, "Congress has shown overwhelmingly its lack of confidence in Mr. Wallace to administer any position where extensive powers and large sums of money are at his disposal."

Although Senator Taft thus renewed the Senate fight against confirmation of the former Vice-President, indications pointed to an approval of the appointment when it comes up on March 1. In the meantime President Roosevelt is expected to permit the George bill to become a law.

WILLIAMS HITS BACK AT FOES

Hearings On His Confirmation To REA Post Concluded

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Aubrey Williams hit back today at senators trying to pin a Communist tag on him as hearings were concluded on his nomination as Rural Electrification Administrator.

Throughout the lengthy Agriculture Committee hearings, Williams had repeatedly disavowed any connection with Communist groups. Opponents made much of his speeches while deputy director of WPA or National Youth Administrator to groups whose politics committeemen criticized. One such group was the National Youth Congress.

Williams Reads

Today, Williams read from a publication of the youth congress what it listed as sponsors of the organization's 1937 meeting. Among them were 13 senators and 33 House members.

These included Senators Capper (R., Kan.), a member of the Agriculture Committee, and Pepper (D., Fla.), Thomas (D., Utah), Chavez (D., N.M.), Johnson (D., Col.), and La Follette (Prog., Wis.) among present members of the Senate.

"It ought to be noted," Williams said with a touch of irony, "that I never sponsored a meeting of them. I felt it my duty to speak to them when asked, but I never would sponsor them."

Vote Deferred

A vote on the question whether to recommend confirmation of the nomination was deferred until a meeting which Chairman Thomas (D., Okla.) was instructed to call after the record of hearings has been printed.

Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) read a statement saying testimony had overturned his "preconceived notion" about Williams and he now believes the nominee "is competent and qualified."

"In my ten years in Congress I have never seen a witness under consideration as head of an important agency so abused and so maligned," Lucas said.

His College Education

The final hearing produced an inquiry into the financing of Williams's college training.

Williams testified that he had received a scholarship worth about $750 from the Presbyterian Church with the expectation that he would enter the ministry. He had not thought the church expected repayment when he did not go into the ministry, and certainly no request for repayment had been made, he testified.

Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.) commented that he could not vote for Williams in view of such testimony. Bilbo had asked that Dr. Joseph Broady, former Birmingham minister, and J. C. Hodges, Birmingham business man, who had alluded to financing of Williams's education in telegrams to the committee, testify today. Both pleaded other engagements.

The Mississippian protested what he said was a misinterpretation of his request as meaning that he wished to bring the question of religious beliefs into the hearing.

"The only point I was trying to make," Bilbo said, "was the question of whether there had been a repudiation of contract."

Interest On Debt Totals 4½ Billions For Year

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—Highlighted by a $4,500,000,000 item for interest on the national debt, a $9,163,071,163 supply bill for the Treasury and Postoffice departments was approved today by the House Appropriations Committee.

It is to finance the two agencies during the twelve months starting July 1.

Only $1,342,813,090 of the total are direct appropriations, for actual operations of the two agencies, the balance consisting of so-called permanent and indefinite appropriations for such things as debt interest and tax refunds.

Interest Up 750 Millions

The $4,500,000,000 interest estimated for 1946 is an increase of $750,000,000 over estimated current year payments for that purpose. It assumes that the national debt will be $292,000,000,000 by June 30, 1946, an increase of $58,000,000,000 over the present debt.

The Treasury's share of the total direct appropriations is $285,763,800 a reduction of $10,748,300 from budget estimates and $4,688,497 below appropriations for the present year.

No Overtime Money

For the Post Office Department, the bill carries $1,057,049,290 in direct funds, a reduction of $8,486,430 from budget estimates and a decrease of $55,185,232 from current year appropriations.

However, the committee pointed out, neither fund provides for overtime payment to employés because Congress has not yet extended the war time overtime pay act.

Should it be extended, the total funds required next year would exceed the total appropriated for this year.

The committee emphasized in a written report sending the bill to the House for debate, starting possibly tomorrow, that the Post Office Department expects to pile up an operating surplus of $265,214,280 during the next fiscal year. This expected surplus will be cut by approximately $110,000,000 if the overtime pay act is extended.

75 P.C. Of Cloth Set Aside For Cheap Goods

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP)—The War Production Board today ordered 80 per cent of the civilian supply of woolen goods and 75 per cent of rayons set aside for low and medium-priced clothing.

The agency also designated 37 kinds of rayon garments and 29 of woolen and worsted fabrics for which manufacturers will be given priorities to obtain materials.

These actions were WPB's final steps in its share of the program to replenish store shelves with inexpensive clothing by early summer.

To Roll Back Prices

At the same time, the Office of Price Administration, cosponsor of the program, announced a plan for controlling manufacturers' price levels to help achieve a six or seven per cent rollback of current retail prices for clothing.

WPB previously ordered about 80 per cent of civilian cotton fabric channeled to low and popularly priced garments, and OPA last night set retail ceiling prices for these.

The list of woolen items to receive priority aid includes such garments as coats, suits, skirts and trousers. In the case of worsted materials, such as are used in men's suits, none will be available under the program until at least July because of military requirements, it was explained.

Rayon Priorities

Among rayon items given priority rating are dresses, women's and girls' suits, blouses, shirts, nightgowns and slips.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug told newsmen the agency "is very proud of this order," adding:

"We are confident it will accomplish the desired results."

The program permits manufacturers to use priorities, beginning April 15, to obtain material for fixed percentages of their 1943 output.

More For Children

Children's apparel is to get higher percentage quotas.

The new pricing policy announced by OPA requires each meanfacturer to arrange distribution o fhis sales by price lines so that the weighted average of his selling prices will be restored to the average level of a series of quarterly 1941 and 1943 base periods.

Examples Listed

Here are some examples of retail ceilings set for cotton garments which OPA said should be available "in quantity by early summer:

For Girls—School dresses, from $1.50 to $3.40; blouses, $1.05 to $2.70.

For Boys—Wash suits, $1.30 to $2.70; shirts and blouses, $1.05 to $1.35.

For Infants—Dresses, $1.20 to $2.70; rompers, $1.05 to $2.40; pajamas, $1.05 to $2.70.

For Men — Shorts, 49 cents to $1.30; business shirts, $1.80 to $3.70.

For Women — House dresses, $1.95 to $3.70; slips, 85 cents to $1.30.

PROPOSE PROBE OF FARMER DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP) A proposal to investigate farmer inductions advanced to the House floor today but Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft chief, expressed doubt it would accomplish "any good purpose."

"It will not affect the interpretation of the Tydings amendment," Hershey observed. "It is my view that only new legislation can change the Tydings amendment." The law sets up procedure for exempting essential agricultural workers.

The House Rules committee voted for an inquiry by three Senators and three House members into "the wholesale induction of essential farmers and farm workers," as proposed by Rep. Lemke (R-ND). Committee members told Hershey that in many cases the intent of Congress had been violated in the draft of farmers.

Report circulated on Capitol Hill that President Roosevelt had sent up a communication supporting manpower control legislation.

A bill to apply jail penalties to men 18 through 45 who refuse to work in war jobs has been passed by the House but thus far has failed to emerge from the Senate Military committee.

Members of the committee said they understood the President's message had been sent to Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.)

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) told reporters today that Secretary of War Stimson, advocate of compulsory manpower controls, gave an "unbalanced" account of the manpower situation in a radio speech last night. Joining O'Mahoney in his criticism, Senator Chandler (D-Ky) said Stimson "solidified opposition to the bill in the committee."

Estimating that 11 of the 18 members would vote against the bill, Chandler said "some of them think he went out of his way to be insulting."

MAJ. BONG STILL ACE OF U.S. FLIERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP) Maj. Richard I. Bong, although idle for several weeks, is still the ace of American army fliers with 40 "kills" to his credit, a War department compilation disclosed today.

The Poplar, Wisc., pilot ran up his score recently in fighting over the Philippines during the invasion of Leyte. At the time he was gunnery instructor with the Fifth Air Force.

2 WARD DIVISIONS RETURNED BY ARMY

Action Taken February 9 In Central Supply Units

Chicago, Feb. 19 (AP)—The executive director of the Army's operations at Montgomery Ward & Co.'s seized properties said today the War Department has turned back to the company the operation of two units of the Chicago property.

Col. R. Parker Kuhn said in a statement that on February 9 the War Department relinquished active operation of the Schwinn warehouse and the fashion mail-order house of Ward. The latter is a department of Ward's main Chicago mercantile house.

Function Of Two Units

"These establishments are central purchasing and distributing agencies," Colonel Kuhn's statement said, "serving the entire Ward chain of approximately 650 retail stores and mail-order houses, only 13 of which are being operated by the War Department.

"The status of operations by the War Department remains unchanged in other plants. All financial obligations are being met on a current basis, and the over-all accounts are substantially in balance."

Army Held "Embarrassed"

To a reporter's querry as to the Army's reason for turning the two units back to the company, Colonel Kuhn replied: "We feel it is not necessary to comment on that."

A Ward official who declined to permit use of his name said the Army was financially embarrassed because it was in the position of supplying—and replacing after it was sold—merchandise for which the company received payment.

WHILE HEAVY LOSSES SUFFERED IN THE EARLY YEARS OF THE BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC HAVE BEEN PARTLY REPLACED, THE CHAMBER SAID: "NEVERTHELESS, THE SHIPPING AVAILABLE TODAY CONSTITUTES AN UNBALANCED WORLD MERCANTILE MARINE BOTH AS REGARDS PROPORTIONS OF TONNAGE UNDER DIFFERENT FLAGS AND AS REGARDS TYPES OF VESSELS.

"IN PARTICULAR THERE IS A MARKED SHORTAGE OF SPECIALIZED TONNAGE AND AN OVERWHELMING PREPONDERANCE OF STANDARD TRAMPS MAINLY UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG."

THE CHAMBER SUPPORTED A BRITISH EMPIRE PROPOSAL TO TAKE MARGINAL TONNAGE OUT OF SERVICE AFTER THE WAR AND CREATE A COMMERCIAL RESERVE OF SHIPS. IT SAID THAT WITHOUT SOME SUCH POLICY THE INDUSTRY "WOULD PLUNGE INTO A PERIOD OF RENEWED DEPRESSION WHICH WOULD LAST UNTIL THE SURPLUS HAD BEEN WORN OUT." THE BRITISH SHIPPERS SAID IT WAS UP TO THE UNITED STATES TO TAKE THE LEAD IN THIS MOVE BUT THAT OTHER COUNTRIES MUST COOPERATE AS IT WAS A "WORLD PROBLEM."

THE GERMANS BENT ON HOLDING THE MAAS RIVER LINE WERE DUG IN STRONGLY HERE, A MILE AND A HALF EAST OF THE MAAS VILLAGE OF AFFERDEN, WHICH THE SCOTCH CAPTURED YESTERDAY.

THE GERMANS WERE ASTRIDE THE MAIN MAAS VALLEY HIGHWAY LEADING ALONG THE RIVER 19 MILES SOUTHWARD TO THEIR STRONGHOLD AT VENLO, AND THEIR RIGHT FLANK WAS PROTECTED BY THE MARSHES.

FARTHER SOUTH LT. GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY ADVANCED UP TO A MILE ON A 55-MILE FRONT, CAPTURED SEVERAL MORE GERMAN TOWNS, TIED DOWN LARGE NUMBERS OF ENEMY TROOPS AND WAS CUTTING THEM DOWN WITH ARTILLERY.

THE 94TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN THE MOSELLE VALLEY MADE ITS DEEPEST PENETRATION OF GERMANY OPPOSITE THE SOUTHERN LUXEMBOURG BORDER, NEARING MUNZINGEN MORE THAN FIVE MILES NORTH OF THE REICH FRONTIER.

A FRONT REPORT SAID SOME GERMAN UNITS SUFFERED CASUALTIES AS HIGH AS 50 PERCENT, WHILE AMERICAN LOSSES WERE DESCRIBED AS LIGHT.

AND YET THE GERMANS HAD BEEN UNABLE TO KEEP THE FIFTH, 76TH AND 80TH INFANTRY DIVISIONS FROM RIPPING THE WESTWALL APART IN THE ECHTERNACH AREA SOUTH OF BITBURG.

THE FIFTH INFANTRY, NOW SIX MILES INSIDE GERMANY, HELD THREE MILES OF THE WEST BANK OF THE PRUEM, MOST TROUBLESOME OF THE RIVERS IN THE WESTERN EIFELS.

DOUGHBOYS WON HIGH GROUND OVERLOOKING HOLSTHUM, ON THE PRUEM WHERE IT JOINS THE ENZ RIVER SEVEN AND A HALF MILES SOUTHWEST OF BITBURG.

3024— 23137

TO THE NORTH, PART OF THE FIFTH DIVISION ALREADY HAD CROSSED THE ENZ SEVEN MILES FROM BITBURG, BUT THE PRUEM STILL WAS AHEAD OF THE AMERICANS. THE PRUEM HAS NOWHERE BEEN CROSSED ON THIS SECTOR.

FARTHER NORTH, HOWEVER, THE THIRD ARMY IS ON OR ACROSS THE PRUEM RIVER ON A 12-MILE FRONT ABOVE AND BELOW THE CAPTURED FORTRESS OF PRUEM, AND FURTHER GAINS WERE REPORTED IN THAT AREA TODAY.

ELEVEN MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM, THE 90TH INFANTRY DIVISION WITH UNIDENTIFIED ARMORED UNITS CAPTURED LEIDENBORN, THREE MILES INSIDE GERMANY, AND OVERRAN A REGIMENTAL POST WHICH YIELDED 14 GERMAN OFFICERS.

ON THIS SECTOR ANOTHER BREACH IN THE WESTWALL WAS THEREBY WIDENED TO NINE MILES.

CRACKING OF THE WESTWALL HERE IS OF LESS CONCERN TO THE ENEMY, SINCE THE WOODED, RIVER-CUT EIFELS REACHING PEAKS 3,000 FEET HIGH STILL LIE BETWEEN THE AMERICANS AND THE RHINE.

LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S SEVENTH ARMY, FIGHTING ON GERMAN SOIL IN THE SAAR RIVER LOOP, RECAPTURED WOODS NORTH OF AUERSMACHER, SIX MILES SOUTHEAST OF SAARBRUECKEN, AFTER THE GERMANS HAD PUSHED BACK IN DESPITE HEAVY LOSSES.

TWO FRENCH VILLAGES NEAR THE SAAR BORDER FARTHER SOUTH WERE CLEARED.

FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF SAARBRUECKEN, OTHER UNITS REACHED WOODED HEIGHTS OVERLOOKING THE FRENCH CITY OF FORBACH. 2 FEB 1945 MORE THAN 300 PRISONERS WERE TAKEN HERE IN THE LAST 24 HOURS. TWO OTHER TOWNS NEAR FORBACH WERE CLEARED.

THE SQUAD WAS FORMED ABOUT THREE WEEKS AGO. AMONG ITS MEMBERS ARE RAYMOND DELGADO OF LAREDO, TEXAS, ROY HUERTO OF SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, AND GERARDO GUERRA OF CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS.

ANOTHER OF THE SQUAD, TONY OLIVARES OF WASCO, CALIF., WAS QUOTED AS SAYING HE WAS HAPPY IN THE NEW UNIT BECAUSE "FOR 24 MONTHS I NEVER SPOKE A WORD OF SPANISH NOR HEARD A SPANISH SONG AND I WAS VERY LONELY."

DOMINQUEZ TOLD THE CORRESPONDENT THAT WHEN THE SQUAD IS ON PATROL ALL ORDERS ARE GIVEN IN SPANISH. IT RECENTLY CAPTURED A GERMAN SPY BY CONFUSING HIM WITH A FLOW OF SPANISH WHEN HE ATTEMPTED TO MAKE THEIR ACQUAINTANCE BY SPEAKING ENGLISH.

THIS CAPTURE WAS CELEBRATED LATER WHEN TRINDAD SANDOVAL OF LOS ANGELES OPENED A BOTTLE OF WINE AND THE GROUP SANG "SOLDADO RASO" (FREELY TRANSLATED "THE BUCK PRIVATE"), AND OTHER MEXICAN AND SPANISH SONGS.

MONTGOMERY'S ORDER, IN RINGSIDE TERMINOLOGY, WENT TO HIS ENTIRE 21ST ARMY GROUP, WHICH INCLUDES THE U.S. NINTH AND WELL AS THE BRITISH SECOND AND THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMIES.

AS IT WAS BEING DELIVERED THE U.S. THIRD AND SEVENTH ARMIES WERE INVADING GERMANY AT TWO NEW POINTS FROM THE WEST AND SOUTH, GIVING EMPHASIS TO MONTGOMERY'S ASSERTION THAT THE "KNOCKOUT BLOW, A SOMEWHAT UNUSUAL ONE," WILL BE DELIVERED "FROM MORE THAN ONE DIRECTION."

THE BRITISH LEADER DECLARED THAT "THE TERRIFIC SUCCESSES OF OUR RUSSIAN ALLIES ON THE EASTERN FRONT HAVE BROUGHT VICTORY IN SIGHT," BUT THAT "THE RULES OF THE LAST ROUND WILL BE THAT WE CONTINUE FIGHTING TILL THE FINAL COUNT--THERE IS NO TIME LIMIT."

THE GERMAN RADIO, WHICH HAS BEEN PREDICTING FOR SOME TIME THAT AN ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE ON THE WESTERN FRONT IS NEAR, ASSERTED THAT MONTGOMERY HAS THROWN THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY INTO THE FIGHTING ALONGSIDE THE CANADIAN FIRST. THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

WITH THE EXCEPTION OF ONE HIGHWAY SOUTH TO GELDERN, GEN. H.D.G. CRERAR'S TROOPS HELD ALL THE MAIN ROADS OUT OF GOCH, INCLUDING THE ONE TO CALCAR. PATROLS OPERATING AHEAD OF ADVANCE UNITS REPORTED THAT OPPOSITION AT GOCH WAS LIGHTER THAN EXPECTED, INDICATING THE POSSIBILITY OF A GERMAN WITHDRAWAL.

BUT SCOTTISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS DRIVING DOWN THE KLEVE-CALCAR ROAD WERE MEETING SAVAGE OPPOSITION AT MOYLAND, TWO MILES NORTHWEST OF CALCAR. THESE TROOPS CLEARED MOST OF THE MOYLAND WOODS, SEIZED HEIGHTS DOMINATING CALCAR AND BATTLED INTO MOYLAND ITSELF.

THE BATTLE FOR GOCH RAGED IN MIST AND DRIZZLING RAIN LAST NIGHT, LATE FRONT DISPATCHES SAID, AS THE ALLIES POURED UNCEASING ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE INTO THE CITY OF 11,000 POPULATION.

BRITISH INFANTRY UNITS SLASHING THROUGH GOCH'S OUTER DEFENSES MET A WITHERING FIRE FROM GERMANS IN CONCEALED POSITIONS, FRONT ADVICES SAID.

SEVEN MILES SOUTHWEST OF GOCH SCOTTISH INFANTRY SEIZED AFFERDEN, 13 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE ENEMY STRONGHOLD OF VENLO, AND PRESSED A MILE FARTHER SOUTH.

AT THE SAME TIME U.S. THIRD ARMY TROOPS BROADENED THEIR FRONT IN THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS TO 32 MILES, CARVED OUT GAINS OF NEARLY TWO MILES AND DEEPENED A NEW BREACH IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE. THEY FORCED A CROSSING OF THE ENZ RIVER SEVEN MILES SOUTH OF THE ENEMY BASE AT BITBURG, AND CAPTURED FIVE MORE GERMAN TOWNS.

THE NEW THIRD ARMY PUSH INTO GERMANY WAS MADE BY MECHANIZED CAVALRY NEAR VIANDEN.

THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY RE-INVADED GERMANY'S SAAR BASIN SIX MILES SOUTHWEST OF SAARBRUECKEN. THERE WAS NO INTIMATION THAT IT WAS A BIG ATTACK, BUT A SIXTH ARMY GROUP ANNOUNCEMENT SAID HEAVY CASUALTIES WERE INFLICTED ON ENEMY TROOPS TRYING TO INFILTRATE AMERICAN LINES NORTH OF AUERSMACHER, THREE MILES NORTH OF THE FRENCH CITY OF SARREGUEMINES.

STIFF FIGHTING WAS REPORTED AT GROS-BLIEDERSTROFF, FOUR AND A HALF MILES SOUTH OF SAARBRUECKEN. EAST OF SARREGUEMINES THE GERMANS LAUNCHED TWO COUNTERATTACKS WITH 15 TANKS AND SDLF-PROPELLED GUNS.

IN THE GEMUEND AND SCHLEIDEN AREAS SOUTHEAST OF AACHEN GERMAN PATROLS WERE PROBING U.S. FIRST ARMY POSITIONS.

THEY POSTED ONE OF THEIR MEN OUTSIDE SO THAT NO OTHER GERMAN SOLDIERS COULD COME ALONG AND SPOIL THEIR PLANS.

AFTER THE SHELLING STOPPED AND THEIR COMRADES HAD RETREATED, THEY TURNED THEIR WEAPONS OVER TO SPENCER AND MEEKLY FOLLOWED HIM BACK TO THE AMERICAN LINES.

FIVE SOLDIERS IN A FIELD ARTILLERY BATTALION BUILT A FANCY DUGOUT COMPLETE WITH STOVE, LIGHTS, TELEPHONE, RADIO AND BUNKS. PLEASED WITH THEIR WORK, THE FIVE INSCRIBED ON A HINGED DOOR ON TOP OF THE DUGOUT THIS SIGN:

A LARGE GROUP OF AMERICAN OFFICERS SET OUT ON THEIR OWN FEB. 3, RECEIVING WHAT THEY DESCRIBED AS "WONDERFUL COOPERATION" FROM THE RUSSIANS AND THE POLES ALL THE WAY.

FROM EXIN THEY TOOK A TRAIN, USING THE WOMAN MAJOR'S DOCUMENT FOR TRANSPORTATION. IT WAS GLADLY ACCEPTED. WHEN THEY GOT AS FAR AS GNEISSEN THEY MET OTHER U.S. OFFICERS WHO HAD BEEN LIBERATED BY THE RED ARMY.

"WE WALKED INTO A HOTEL AND, BOY, IT WAS A WONDERFUL SIGHT," SAID COLLEY. "A RUSSIAN LIEUTENANT FITTED US UP WITH HOT BATHS, SHAVES, HAIRCUTS, A MARVELOUS DINNER AND WARM BEDS."

GRUENBERG SAID THEY RECEIVED A HEARTY WELCOME AT EACH STOP THEY MADE ON THE WAY.

"ABOUT 20 OF US RODE IN THE CABOOSE OF A TRAIN AS THE GUESTS OF RUSSIAN OFFICERS," SAID DEMLING. "BUT WE HAD TO GET OUT AFTER A WHILE BECAUSE WE RAN INTO A PLACE WHERE THE TRACK WAS BEING CHANGED FROM NARROW GAUGE TO RUSSIAN WIDE GAUGE.

"WE GOT A GOOD EXPLANATION. THE RUSSIANS TOLD US, 'WE'LL MAKE IT WIDE GAUGE ALL THE WAY TO BERLIN.'"

THE AMERICANS ENCOUNTERED A RUSSIAN GENERAL THE FOLLOWING DAY WHO TOLD THEM TO GO TO THE HIGHWAY AND HOP A TRUCK. THEY TOOK HIS ADVAICE AND CONTINUED THEIR TRIP.

THE OFFICERS SAID THE RUSSIAN DRIVER SAW THE AMERICAN FLAG ON THE SLEEVE OF ONE OF THE MEN AND HALTED TO PICK THEM UP.

"HE TOLD US HE HAD GOTTEN HIS STUDEBAKER IN IRAN, AND HAD DRIVEN IT RIGHT INTO GERMANY," SAID GRUENBERG.

THE OFFICERS SLEPT AT NIGHT IN POLISH HOMES AND ATE WITH POLISH FAMILIES, RECEIVING GENEROUS HOSPITALITY EVERYWHERE.

JUST OUTSIDE WARSAW, THEY MET A RED ARMY LIEUTENANT, MORRIS BIDERMAN OF KIEV, WHO HAD ONCE LIVED IN THE UNITED STATES AND SPOKE GOOD ENGLISH. HE PUT THEM UP AT A RED ARMY MESS.

"I NEVER SAW ANYTHING LIKE WARSAW," SAID GRUENBERG. "THERE WERE NO BUILDINGS."

THE OFFICERS FINALLY DECIDED IT WOULD BE BETTER TO SPLIT UP INTO SMALL GROUPS BECAUSE THEY COULD MOVE FASTER. THEY WENT THIS WAY THROUGH WARSAW.

THEY WALKED ACROSS A PONTOON BRIDGE OVER THE VISTULA RIVER AND THEN MET A ROUSING RECEPTION FROM POLISH ARMY GIRLS IN PRAGA.

ASKED HOW THEY GOT ALONG WITH THE POLISH GIRLS, DEMLING SAID, "OH, WE JUST SMILED AND GAVE THEM THE OLD 'NE PANEMIA' TREATMENT. 'NE PANEMIA' MEANS 'I DON'T UNDERSTAND.'"

FROM PRAGA, THE THREE OFFICERS WENT BY TRAIN TO MORZY, STILL USING THEIR HOSPITAL DOCUMENT. THERE THEY WERE ENTERTAINED BY RAILWAY WORKERS WITH A ROUSING [illegible]OOKA PARTY.

"WE HEARD ABOUT THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE ALL THE WAY. IT WAS ALL GOOD NEWS, TOO," SAID GRUENBERG.

STILL CARRYING AS CREDENTIALS ONLY THE DOCTOR'S HOSPITAL SCRAWL, THEY REACHED THE RUSSIAN FRONTIER AND AFTER SCRUTINY OF THIS MARVELOUS DOCUMENT, THEY MOVED AHEAD RAPIDLY.

AT GOMEL THEY GOT ABOARD A TRAIN WITH A RUSSIAN OFFICER AND ROLLED INTO MOSCOW.

"AT A MOSCOW RAILWAY STATION WE SAW A YOUNG RUSSIAN AND TOLD HIM IN OUR BEST RUSSIAN 'WE ARE AMERICANS,'" SAID GRUENBERG.

"YA, BOY SCOUT," THE YOUNG RUSSIAN REPLIED. THEN HE LED THEM TO A SUBWAY, BOUGHT THEIR TICKETS, ESCORTED THEM TO THE AMERICAN EMBASSY, SMILED, SALUTED AND WENT AWAY.

"I AM AFRAID WE MADE HIM BREAK THE SCOUT PLEDGE," SAID GRUENBERG. "WE GAVE HIM A PACKAGE OF AMERICAN CIGARETTES."

ABOARD EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP, IWO--FIRST ADD INVASION (BY LANDSBERG) XXX THEM OUT."

THE DEFENDERS HAVE GOOD NATURAL POSITIONS IN THE SURIBACHI VOLCANO CRATER AT THE SOUTHERN TIP OF THE ISLAND AND ALONG THE ROCKY NORTHERN COAST.

THE OPERATION DIFFERS FROM OTHER PACIFIC INVASIONS IN SEVERAL RESPECTS.

THERE ARE NO CORAL REEFS, SUCH AS AT TARAWA AND KWAJALEIN IN THE MARIANAS.

IWO LACKS ANY SORT OF HARBOR.

VEGETATION ON THE ISLAND IS VERY SPARSE, WITH NO JUNGLE AS ON GUAM AND IN THE SOLOMONS.

THE ISLAND HAS SOME CANE FIELDS.

BUT THE PRINCIPAL DIFFERENCE, NOTED BY EVERY ONE WHO HAS PARTICIPATED IN PREVIOUS PACIFIC CAMPAIGNS, IS THE TEMPERATURE.

IWO LACKS THE HEAT OF THE ATOLLS. HEAT PROSTRATION WILL NOT BE ONE OF THE HAZARDS.

THE MARINES CAME EQUIPPED WITH JACKETS AND BLANKETS, IN ANTICIPATION OF TEMPERATURES WHICH OFTEN DROP TO 45 DEGREES ABOVE ZERO.

VICE ADM.RICHARD KELLY TURNER, AMPHIBIOUS VETERAN, OPERATING FROM THIS FLAGSHIP, WAS PREPARED FOR THE NEW CONDITIONS.

THE MARINE TEAM OF SMITH AND SCHMIDT WAS ALSO AGAIN WORKING TOGETHER, AS IT DID AT SAIPAN.

LT.GEN.HOLLAND MCTYEIRE (HOWLIN' MAD) SMITH, THE 62-YEAR-OLD COMMANDER OF MARINES IN THE PACIFIC, WAS OVERALL BOSS OF THE GROUND TROOPS.

MAJ.GEN.HARRY SCHMIDT WAS IN TACTICAL COMMAND.

UNDER THEM WERE MAJ.GEN.CLIFTON B.CATES AND MAJ.GEN.KELLER E.ROCKEY, COMMANDERS RESPECTIVELY OF THE FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS.

CATES, 52, WAS BORN AT TIPTONVILLE, TENN., AND WAS A 1916 GRADUATE FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE. HIS WIFE, MRS.JANE M.CATES, AND A DAUGHTER, ANN WILLIS, LIVE AT (8313 SEMINOLE AVE., CHESTNUT HILL) PHILADELPHIA, PA. HIS MOTHER, MRS. WILLIS J.CATES, LIVES AT (787 WEST DRIVE) MEMPHIS, TENN.

THIS IS THE FIRST PACIFIC CAMPAIGN FOR ROCKEY, 57, A NATIVE OF COLUMBIA CITY, IND. HIS WIFE, FRANCES, LIVES AT VIRGINIA BEACH, VA.

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FEB.19-(AP)-IWO JIMA WAS BATTERED BY THE LONGEST AND MOST CONCENTRATED POUNDING OF THE PACIFIC WAR BEFORE THE MARINES LUNGED ASHORE TODAY ON THE ROCK STREWN BEACHES OF THE TINY VOLCANIC ISLAND, 750 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO.

FOR 72 CONSECUTIVE DAYS, STARTING DECEMBER 7, B-24 LIBERATORS BOMED THE ISLAND. THERE WAS NOT A SINGLE HOUR OF THAT PERIOD WHEN AT LEAST ONE OF THE HEAVY BOMBERS WAS NOT IN FLIGHT TO OR FROM THE TARGET.

AS THE TROOPS SWARMED ASHORE ON THE ISLAND, WHICH MAY BE TOUGHER TO TAKE THAN TARAWA, THE BATTERING WENT ON. ROCKET AND SHELL BARRAGES ECHOED LIKE THE ROLL OF GIANT SNARE DRUMS.

ARMY AND NAVY FLIERS WHO TOOK PART IN THE REPEATED BOMBINGS AND STRAFINGS REPORTED TO THE STAFF OF LT.GEN.MILLARD F.HRMON, COMMANDER OF THE ARMY AIR FORCES, THAT IWO HAS "ONE OF THE GREATEST CONCENTRATIONS OF GUNS EVER MASSED BY THE JAPANESE ON A SMALL PACIFIC ISLAND."

P-38 LIGHTNING FIGHTERS OF THE SEVENTH AIR FORCE FLEW 237 SORTIES FROM MARIANAS BASES IN THE TOUGH DAILY POUNDING OF IWO.

THEY FLEW 1,600 OVERWATER MILES EACH ROUNDTRIP--A RECORD DISTANCE FOR THE FAST FIGHTERS IN THE PACIFIC WAR.

THE FLIGHTS WERE LONGER THAN FROM LONDON TOBERLIN AND RETURN.

IN TIME TO GIVE MAXIMUM HELP TO IWO'S INVADERS WERE THE GREAT B-29 STRIKE AT THE NAGOYA AREA, FEB.15, AND THE DECISIVE CARRIER PLANE ATTACKS ON TOKYO, FEB.16 AND 17.

THE WHEREABOUTS OF VICE ADM.MARC A.MITSCHE'S CARRIER FORCE SINCE THE TOKYO STRIKE HAS NOT BEEN ANNOUNCED.

IWO'S TWO RUNWAYS, WHICH ARE REPORTEDLY LONG ENOUGH FOR SUPERFORTRESSES, COULD PROVIDE A STAGING OR REFUELING STOP FOR THE GIANT PLANES ENROUTE TO JAPAN FROM THE MARIANAS. THEY COULD THUS INCREASE THEIR BOMB LOADS SUBSTANTIALLY.

THE ABILITY TO LAND ON IWO IS EXPECTED TO CUT B-29 LOSSES IN HALF SINCE AT LEAST THAT PERCENTAGE HAS BEEN LOST BY CRASH LANDINGS AT SEA ON THE HOMEWARD TRIP--AFTER PASSING IWO. FIGHTER PLANES BASED ON IWO ALSO COULD ESCORT THE SUPERFORTS TO AND FROM THE EMPIRE AND A SEA AND AIR RESCUE BASE AT IWO COULD FURTHER CUT LOSSES.

REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN PRESS, DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ABOARD A NAVY LIBERATOR BOMBER OVER IWO JIMA, FEB. 19-(AP)-AFTER NEARLY FOUR HOURS UNDER FIRE ON ONE OF THE TOUGHEST BEACHHEADS EVER WRESTED FROM THE JAPANESE, AMERICAN MARINES TONIGHT HELD THE SOUTHERN END OF THE TRIANGULAR NO. 1 AIRFIELD ON IWO JIMA, RUGGED LITTLE ISLAND 750 MILES SOUTHEAST OF TOKYO.

FROM THIS LIBERATOR ONLY 1,000 FEET ABOVE THE STRUGGLING LEATHERNECKS, I WATCHED THEM THIS AFTERNOON AS THEY PLUNGED INLAND FROM THE HOTLY CONTESTED BEACH AND REACHED THE EDGE OF THE AIRFIELD. THIS EVENING THE AIRFIELD IS NO MAN'S LAND, WITH THE MARINES AND NIPPONESE STALKING EACH OTHER OVER VOLCANIC ROCK.

BEHIND A TERRIFIC BOMBARDMENT BY BATTLESHIPS, CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS AND A FINAL BARRAGE OF A THOUSAND ROCKETS LAUNCHED FROM SPECIALLY EWUIPPED SMALLER CRAFT, THE MARINES STORMED UP THE SANDY BEACH TO MEET THE STRONG NIPPONESE GARRISON--A GARRISON PICKED TO HOLD THIS DOORSTEP OUTPOST OF THEIR EMPIRE.

ALTHOUGH OUR FLEET AND TRANSPORTS RODE SERENELY AT ANCHOR OR STEAMED IN BATTLE PROCESSION AROUND THE ISLAND WITHOUT INTERFERENCE, THE FIGHT ON THE INHOSPITABLE BEACH CAN ONLY BE DESCRIBED--PROSAICALLY ENOUGH--ASTERRIBLY BLOODY.

FROM WHAT I SAW, I BELIEVE IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE ENEMY HAS 15,000 OR MORE TROOPS ON IWO.

THE FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS STRUGGLED ALONG THE BEACH EASILY IN THE INITIAL PHASE BUT THE CAGEY JAPANESE THEN OPENED UP WITH ARTILLERY AND MORTARS WITH TELLING EFFECT. CASUALTIES APPARENTLY WERE RELATIVELY LIGHT CONSIDERING THE DIFFICULTIES. BUT THE MARINES WERE IN THERE.

ABOUT FOUR HOURS WERE SPENT ON THE BEACHHEAD, CONSOLIDATING IT FOR FURTHER ATTACKS. THEN SOME UNITS SKIRTED THE NARROW NECK OF LAND NEAR THE 546-FOOT CRATER OF MT.SURIBACHI AND OTHERS REACHED THE EDGE OF THE AIR STRIP.

THAT'S WHERE THEY WERE--UNDER FIRE--WHEN THIS LIBERATOR SWEPT THE FRINGES OF THE ISLAND.

I SAW ONE WOMAN CARRIED ON A TABLE, ANOTHER ON AN OPERATING PLATFORM AND ANOTHER ON A WICKER COUCH.
MANY NATIONALITIES AND MANY OCCUPATIONS WERE REPRESENTED BY THE COLUMN OF MEN AND WOMEN AS THEY TRUDGED TO AN ASSEMBLING AREA.
NEARLY ALL AMERICAN AND ALLIED NATIONALS IN THE HOSPITAL HAD BEEN BROUGHT THERE FROM SANTO TOMAS AND OTHER INTERNMENT CAMPS.
THEY INCLUDED: MRS. J.H/BLINKO, WHOSE BROTHER, MAJ. E.D. MACLEOD, LIVES IN LONDON, ENGLAND; MARTIN BEARWALD, A GERMAN JEW WHO WAS CAUGHT IN MANILA BY THE WAR AND WHOSE SONS, DR. HANS BEARWALD AND FRANCISCO S. BEARWALD, LIVE RESPECTIVELY IN CLEVELAND, OHIO, AND BERKELEY, CALIF.

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FEB. 19-(AP)-DAMAGING AMERICAN CARRIER RAIDS ON FOUR JAPANESE AIRCRAFT PLANTS WERE BELIEVED HERE TODAY TO HAVE DEALT A SEVERE BLOW AT THE PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY OF THE AERIAL INDUSTRY AROUND TOKYO.
IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE AIRCRAFT FACTORIES IN THE AREA CONSTITUTE AN INTEGRATED NETWORK. AMONG THE MOST IMPORTANT ARE THE FOUR CARRIER PLANTS HIT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY--NAKAJIMA, TACHIGAWA, MUSASHINO AND TAMA.
THE NAKAJIMA PLANT AT OTA, 50 MILES NORTHWEST OF TOKYO, IS BELIEVED TO PRODUCE A SUBSTANTIAL PERCENTAGE OF JAPANESE ARMY AND NAVY COMBAT PLANES. IT WAS CRIPPLED SHARPLY EARLIER THIS MONTH BY SUPERFORTRESSES.
THE MUSASHINO PLANT, ON THE WESTERN OUTSKIRTS OF THE JAPANESE CAPITAL, IS A LARGE NEW AIRCRAFT ENGINE WORKS. IT IS BELIEVED TO SUPPLY THE NAKAJIMA AND OTHER ASSEMBLY PLANTS AND IS ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT AERIAL ENGINE PRODUCERS IN JAPAN. THE FACTORY COVERS A MILLION SQUARE FEET.
THE TACHIGAWA FACTORY IS BOTH AN ENGINE AND ASSEMBLY PLANT. IT IS 20 MILES WEST OF THE IMPERIAL PALACE IN TOKYO. THE PLANT INCLUDES TEN MODERN UNITS, EACH 450 FEET LONG, AND HAS AN ADJACENT AIRPORT FOR TESTING.
TAMA IS BELIEVED TO BE ONE OF THE ENEMY'S MOST IMPORTANT ENGINE PLANTS. ITS THREE-STORY CONCRETE BUILDINGS COVER 715,000 SQUARE FEET ON THE NORTHWEST OUTSKIRTS OF TOKYO, ONLY EIGHT MILES FROM THE IMPERIAL PALACE.

BY FLORA LEWIS

MEXICO CITY, FEB. 19-(AP)-DELAY IN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY LEAGUE VOTING PROCEDURE MAY THROW A MONKEY WRENCH INTO PLANS FOR DISCUSSION OF THE WORLD SECURITY PROGRAM DURING THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HERE, IT WAS LEARNED TODAY.

THE CONFERENCE, SCHEDULED TO OPEN WEDNESDAY, IS TO TAKE UP THE PEACE ORGANIZATION PLAN, AND SEVERAL LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATIONS HAVE INDICATED THEY WOULD LIKE TO OFFER AMENDMENTS WHICH WOULD GIVE NATIONS OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE GREATER REPRESENTATION IN THE LEAGUE.

WHEN THE BIG THREE ANNOUNCED AT YALTA THAT THEY HAD SOLVED THE VOTING PROBLEM, THEY INDICATED THEIR AGREED FORMULA WOULD BE MADE PUBLIC AS SOON AS IT WAS APPROVED BY FRANCE AND CHINA, BUT THE FRENCH APPROVAL SEEMS UNLIKELY TO BE GIVEN BEFORE THE QUESTION OF A MEETING BETWEEN GENERAL DE GAULLE AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS BEEN SETTLED.

U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE EDWARD STETTINIUS, WHO IS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE HERE FOR THE MEETING TOMORROW, HOWEVER, MAY BRING A SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT ON THE PROPOSED VOTING PROCEDURE FOR THE SECURITY ORGANIZATION.

FEB 20 1945

OFFICIALS OF THE CONFERENCE FEEL IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS BE FULLY INFORMED ON THIS POINT BEFORE DISCUSSING THE SECURITY LEAGUE.

THE SCOPE OF THE AMENDMENTS TO THE STRUCTURE OF THE LEAGUE TO BE PROPOSED BY THE LATIN AMERICANS MAY PLACE THE UNITED NATIONS IN A DELICATE POSITION, BECAUSE, WHILE IT IS FREELY SEEKING SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICAN SUPPORT FOR THE ORGANIZATION, IT CANNOT

COMMIT ITSELF TO ANY CONSIDERABLE ALTERATION OF THE PLAN WITHOUT CONSULTING OTHER BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

MEANWHILE, PRELIMINARY INFORMAL DISCUSSION INDICATE THAT PROSPECTS ARE FAVORABLE FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF A FREE TRADE POLICY IN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE DURING THE MEETING HERE. FEB 20 1945

THE PROBLEMS SUCH A POLICY WOULD PRESENT TO INDIVIDUAL LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES MAKE IT CERTAIN THAT THE SUBJECT WILL HAVE THOROUGH INVESTIGATION AND THAT THE UNITED STATES WILL HAVE TO OFFER SUFFICIENT GUARANTEES FOR THE ECONOMIC SECURITY OF THESE COUNTRIES BEFOR THEY ACCEPT FREE TRADE. THE MOST FAVORABLE SIGN SO FAR IS BRAZIL'S APPARENT SUPPORT OF THE POLICY.

AMERICAN ECONOMIC OFFICIALS AND EXPERTS EITHER ARE ON HAND FOR THE MEETING OR EXPECTED TO ARRIVE AS SOON AS IT OPENS TO TAKE PART IN DISCUSSIONS OF FREE TRADE. AMONG THEM ARE WILL S. CLAYTON, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IN CHARGE OF ECONOMIC AFFAIRS; OSCAR COX, DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF THE FOREIGN ECONOMIC ADMINISTRATION, AND ERIC JOHNSTON, PRESIDENT OF THE U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

MEXICO CITY, FEB. 19-(AP)-REPORTS THAT ARGENTINA IS PLANNING TO DECLARE WAR ON GERMANY IN AN ATTEMPT TO REPAIR RELATIONS WITH OTHER WESTERN HEMISPHERE NATIONS STIRRED PRELIMINARY SKIRMISHES TODAY ON A POLITICAL ISSUE THAT MAY DEVELOP INTO A FULL-SCALE, OPEN DEBATE WHEN THE INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE OPENS HERE WEDNESDAY.

THE REPORTS STEMMED FROM A WEEKEND ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE BUENOS AIRES GOVERNMENT HAD SENT A SHARPLY WORDED NOTE TO BERLIN PROTESTING A GERMAN "THREAT TO DENY SAFE CONDUCT TO CERTAIN ARGENTINE DIPLOMATS EN ROUTE HOME FROM GERMANY.

UNTIL NOW A DECLARATION OF WAR HAS BEEN A PASSPORT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNITED NATIONS FAMILY, BUT WHETHER IT WOULD PROVE SO IN THE CASE OF ARGENTINA IS OPEN TO QUESTION IN VIEW OF THE ATTITUDE TAKEN TOWARD HER MILITARY GOVERNMENT BY THE MORE INFLUENTIAL AMERICAN GOVERNMENT. FEB 20 1945

THERE IS AN UNMISTAKABLE TREND AMONG THE LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATIONS HERE TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT THE ARGENTINE SITUATION, HOWEVER, AND HER ENTRY INTO THE WAR MIGHT WELL BRING MATTERS TO A HEAD.

CALA PLAZAO, ECUADORIAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, SAID HE EXPECTED HIS NATION'S DELEGATION WOULD "DO ITS BEST TO GET THE ARGENTINE QUESTION SETTLED."

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE NELSON ROCKEFELLER, WHO ARRIVED HERE YESTERDAY, WOULD MAKE NO COMMENT, AND CONFERENCE LEADERS WERE ANXIOUSLY AWAITING THE ARRIVAL OF SECRETARY OF STATE EDWARD R. STETTINIUS FOR A CLUE TO U. S. VIEWS.

STETTINIUS, COMING FROM THE YALTA CONFERENCE AND A VISIT TO MOSCOW, WAS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE TODAY FROM RIO DE JANEIRO, AND THERE WERE CERTAIN APPARENTLY WELL-FOUNDED INDICATIONS THAT HE HAD REACHED SOME SORT OF UNDERSTANDING ABOUT ARGENTINA WITH PRESIDENT VARGAS AND FOREIGN MINISTER VELLOSO.

BRAZIL HAS LONG BEEN PREOCCUPIED WITH THE HANDLING OF THE ARGENTINE QUESTION.

OTHER STRONG ISSUES AWAITING SETTLEMENT INCLUDE A DEMAND BY SOME LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES THAT ALL OF THE AMERICAS BREAK WITH THE FRANCO REGIME IN SPAIN AND GUATEMALA'S INSISTENCE THAT SHE WILL NOT COME TO THE CONFERENCE IF EL SALVADOR IS INVITED BEFORE THE LATTER'S NEWLY-ELECTED PRESIDENT TAKES OFFICE MARCH 1.

OTTAWA, FEB. 19-(AP)-J.B.CARSWELL, HEAD OF THE CANADIAN WAR ASSERTS CORPORATION WHICH DISPOSES OF OBSOLETE AND SURPLUS WAR MATERIALS, SAID TODAY THAT POSSIBLY AS MUCH AS 75 PER CENT OF CANADA'S WAR GOODS WOULD HAVE TO BE DESTROYED WHEN PEACE COMES.

HE SAID THAT OBSOLETE TRAINING AIRCRAFT WHICH HAD COST MILLIONS WOULD HAVE TO BE DESTROYED BECAUSE THE JOB OF DISMANTLING THEM TO REMELT THE METALS IN THEM WOULD COST MORE THAN THEIR ORIGINAL MANUFACTURE.

ALL SALVAGABLE METALS IN WAR EQUIPMENT WILL BE MELTED INTO INGOTS, HE SAID, BUT OBSOLETE MOTORS FROM TRAINING PLANES WERE MADE OF SO MANY DIFFERENT METALS THAT THROWING THEM INTO A MELTING POT WOULD BE IMPRACTICAL.

THE CALGARY ALBERTAN PUBLISHED A STORY TODAY STATING THAT DOZENS OF OXFORD TRAINING PLANES AND AVRO-ANSON BOMBERS WOULD BE BURNED SOON BECAUSE FLYING SCHOOLS IN ALBERTA HAVE BEEN CLOSED AND THE CRAFT WOULD NOT BE PERMITTED FOR CIVILIAN FLYING. IT SAID, HOWEVER, THAT THE ENGINES WERE BEING SALVAGED FOR SPARE PARTS STORES.

DOMEI SAID 300 LANDING CRAFT, IN THREE WAVES, STORMED THE BEACH.

"JAPANESE GARRISONS ARE FIGHTING HEROICALLY, EXACTING A HEAVY TOLL OF THE ENEMY FORCES," THE NEWS AGENCY CLAIMED.

THE TOKYO RADIO REPORTED EARLIER THAT THROUGHOUT SUNDAY AMERICAN SHIPS, FIRING FROM A RANGE OF ONE TO TWO KILOMETERS, HAD SUBJECTED IWO TO A VIOLENT BARRAGE.

DOMEI BROADCAST THESE DETAILS:

"PRIOR TO THE COMMENCEMENT OF LANDING OPERATIONS, THE ENEMY TASK FORCE OPERATING AROUND IWO JIMA ON FEB. 18 FIERCELY SHELLED AND BOMBED THE JAPANESE POSITIONS. BETWEEN 6 A.M. AND 5 P.M. TWO ENEMY BATTLESHIPS IN WATERS SOUTH OF THE ISLAND BOMBARDED THE JAPANESE POSITIONS.

"MEANWHILE SEVERAL ENEMY CRUISERS APPROACHED THE SOUTHERN SHORE OF THE ISLAND AND ALSO BOMBARDED OUR POSITIONS.

"OTHER ENEMY CRUISERS CONTINUED SHELLING THE WESTERN AND NORTH-EASTERN SECTORS OF THE ISLAND.

"IN CONCERT WITH THE BOMBARDMENT CARRIED OUT BY THE ENEMY WARSHIPS, ENEMY PLANES CONDUCTED RECONNAISSANCE OVER THE ISLAND ALL DAY LONG ON FEB. 18.

"EARLY THIS MORNING, FEB. 19, THE ENEMY FORCES, UNDER COVER OF AN INTENSE BOMBARDMENT AND AERIAL ATTACK, COMMENCED LANDING ON FUTATSUNE BEACH, LOCATED ON THE SOUTHERN TIP OF THE ISLAND, ON APPROXIMATELY 300 LANDING CRAFT, DIVIDED INTO THREE GROUPS."

THE BROADCASTS WERE INTERCEPTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.

(350) WITH NIGHT LEAD HALSEY
BY POPE HALEY

WASHINGTON, FEB. 19-(AP)-ADMIRAL WILLIAM F. HALSEY, JR., TODAY ADDED A NEW ONE TO THE LONG LIST OF POINTED PHRASES AND STORIES FOR WHICH HE IS FAMOUS.

HALSEY'S LANGUAGE, ALWAYS COLORFUL, ATTAINS THE HUE OF A RAINBOW WHEN HE REFERS TO THE JAPANESE.

HE WAS ASKED AT HIS NEWS CONFERENCE WHETHERHE HAD ANY MESSAGE TO SEND TO THE JAPANESE.

HE RETORTED: "JUST TELL THEM I STILL BELIEVE THE CHINESE THEORY OF THE ORIGIN OF THE JAPANESE RACE.

"THERE IS A CHINEESE STORY THAT MANY YEARS AGO A BENEFICENT RULER GATHERED TOGETHER ALL CHINESE CRIMINALS. THE MEN WERE SEGREGATED FROM THE WOMEN, AND THE MEN WERE EXILED TO THE ISLANDS IN THE EAST. AFTER THEIR ARRIVAL THE MEN KILLED ALL THE MALE APES ON THE ISLAND AND THE PROGENY WITH THE FEMALE APES BECAME THE JAPANESE RACE."

PROBABLY THE ADMIRAL'S MOST FAMOUS REMARK WAS MADE LAST OCTOBER AFTER A THREE DAY SWEEP OVER FORMOSA. WHILE HALSEY MAINTAINED RADIO SILENCE, JAP PROPUGANDISTS WERE MAKING FANTASTIC CLAIMS ABOUT DAMAGE TO THE THIRD FLEET. WHEN THE ADMIRAL FINALLY BROKE RADIO SILENCE, HE IRONICALLY OBSERVED THAT HIS SHIPS, SUNK BY JAPANESE RADIO ANNOUNCEMENT, HAD BEEN SALVAGED AND WERE "RETIRING AT HIGH SPEED TOWARD THE JAPANESE FLEET."

WHEN THE THIRD FLEET BROUGHT THE WAR BACK TO THE PHILIPPINES LAST SEPTEMBER WITH A SERIES OF DEVASTATING AIR SWEEPS OVER LUZON, ADMIRAL HALSEY WAS IMMENSELY PLEASED. HE DASHED OFF A MESSAGE OF CONGRATULATIONS TO THE COMMANDER OF HIS TASK CARRIER FORCES: "THE GATE RECEIPTS FROM THE RECENT EXCEPTIONAL PERFORMANCE AT LUZON WERE GRATIFYING AND ALTHOUGH CAPACITY AUDIENCE (THE JAPANESE) HISSED, VERY LITTLE WAS THROWN AT THE PLAYERS. AS LONG AS THE AUDIENCE HAS A SPOT TO HISS IN, THE PERFORMERS WILL STAY ON THE ROAD."

WHEN THE ADMIRAL ONCE HEARD THE JAPANESE RADIO ASKING "WHERE IS THE AMERICAN FLEET?" HE TURNED TO HIS AIDE AND SAID "SEND THEM OUR LATITUDE AND LONGITUDE."

"WHEN WE GET TO TOKYO," HE ONCE REMARKED, "WE'LL HAVE A LITTLE CELEBRATION WHERE TOKYO WAS."

THE ATTITUDE OF MEN WHO WORK WITH AND UNDER HALSEY IS EXEMPLIFIED BY THE STORY OF TWO BLUEJACKETS TALKING ON DECK AS HALSEY'S THIRD FLEET HEADED INTO THE CHINA SEA IN MID-JANUARY. THE CHINA SEA HAD BEEN A JAPANESE LAKE FOR NEARLY THREE YEARS.

"WHAT DO YOU THINK OF GOING INTO THE CHINA SEA?" ONE BLUEJACKET ASKED.

"WELL," THE OTHER REPLIED, "IF THE BOSS SAYS WE WILL GO THERE, I'M ALL SET."

IWI EYE-WITNESS (620)

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB. 19-(AP)-HEAVY FIGHTING IS UNDER WAY ON IWO AND IT WILL TAKE ALL OF THE POWER AMERICAN ASSAULT FORCES CAN MUSTER TO KNOCK OUT JEPANESEDUG INTO THE SLOPES OF THE ISLAND'S VOLCANOES, WEBLEY EDWARDS REPORTED TODAY FROM GUAM AFTER WATCHING THE INVASION AS THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE COMBINED AMERICAN NETWORKS.

THOUSANDS OF ROCKETS RAKED THE BEACHES JUST BEFORE THE FIRST MARINE ASSAULT WAVES TUMBLED ASHORE AT 9 A.M. FOUR OTHER WAVES FOLLOWED AND FOUGHT INLAND OVER RIDGED, SHELL-POCKED TERRAIN.

EDWARDS ZATCHED THE INVASION FROM A NAVY PHOTOGRAPHIC RECONNISSANCE PLANE, LUCKY LOUIS, PILOTED BY CMDR. A.D. FRASER OF VENTURA, CALIF.

AS THE PLANE CAME OVER THE GREEN, VOLCANIC ISLAND, EDWARDS REPORTED "PLUMES OF DUST AND SMOKE WERE RISING WHERE THE SHELLS FROM THE WARSHIPS WERE LANDING. A PLANE WOULD COME IN. THERE WOULD BE ROCKETS SIZZLING AND THERE WOULD BE FLASHES OF FLAME DOWN THE SHORELINE LIKE SOMEBODY PLAYING WITH SOME GIGANTIC TOMMY GUN.

"BELOW US THE CURLING WAKES OF TRANSPORTS AND THE LANDING CRAFT WERE MAKING FANTASTIC PATTERNS IN THE SEA. THE CARRIER AIRCRAFT WERE DIVING AT THEIR TARGETS ON THE ISLAND."

DIVEBOMBERS ROARED AROUND THE PHOTOGRAPHIC PLANE AND THE LUCKY LOUIS WAS CONTINUALLY MANEUVERING TO KEEP OUT OF THE TRAJECTORY OF WARSHIP SHELLS.

FEB 20 1945

"WE COULD FEEL THE SHELLS GO BY," EDWARDS AID, "BUT THEY WERE NOT VERY CLOSE. X X X

"WE COULD SEE THE BATTLEWAGONS CLOSER NOW. AND WITH A THRILL WE REALIZED THAT SOME OF THEM WERE THE OLDEST OF THE OLD LDAIES. THE ARKANSAS WAS THERE. AND THE TEXAS. AND THE NEW YORK. THESE WERE BATTLESHIPS THAT LONG SINCE WERE CONSIDERED OUTMODED, ANTIQUATED. BUT TODAY WHERE DOING A WHALE OF A JOB, LAYING THEIR SHELLS INTO JAP EMPLACEMENTS AS NEATLY AND AS ACCURATELY AS THE MOST GLAMOROUS OF THE NEW BATTLEWAGONS.

"THERE WAS THE OLD NEVADA THERE, TOO. AND IT GAVE ME A GOOD FEELING TO SEE HER, FOR I HAD SEEN HER ON THE BOTTOM AT PEARL HARBOR. I HAD SEEN HER COME UP AND I REALIZED THAT THE NEVADA AND THE TEXAS AND THE NEW YORK HAD BEEN POURING THEIR GUNFIRE INTO THE GERMAN POSITIONS DURING THE NORMANDY INVASION. AND HERE THEY WERE OUT HERE IN THE FAR WESTERN PACIFIC."

A CARRIER PLANE HIT IN THE VOLCANO CRATER ON THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND AND FIRE FLARED UP AS THOUGH THE VOLCANO WERE ERUPTING AGAIN.

THE ISLAND WAS COVERED WITH A PALL OF SMOKE AND DUST. ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE BURST OVER A SECTION OF THE ISLAND WHERE THERE WERE NO PLANES.

"IT WAS 9 A.M.," WEDWARDS SAID, "AND RIGHT ON THE DOT THE FIRST WAVES WERE TUMBLING ASHORE. X X X THE SEA FOR MILES WAS CROWDED WITH SHIPS AND LANDING CRAFT AND I THOUGHT AS I WATCHED THEM HOW CAN THESE JAPANESE EXPECT TO STAND UP AGAINST THIS KIND OF STRENGTH. BUT THEN I LOOKED AT THAT VOLCANIC CRATER ON THE SOUTH PART OF THE ISLAND AND I REALIZED THAT IT WOULD TAKE LL OF THE POWER WE COULD MUSTER TO CRACK IT. I THINK WE MAY BE POUNDING AT THAT CRATER FOR QUITE SOME DAYS. IT IS THE KIND OF A STRONG POINT THE JAPS LIKE. WE WENT DOWN FAIRLY CLOSE TO IT AND I COULD SEE ITS SIDES MARKED WITH CAVES AND GUN OPENINGS AND I REMEMBERED WHAT A TIME WE HAD BLASTING OUT THE JAPS IN BLOODY NOSE RIDGE DOWN AT PELELIU IN THE PALAUS. X X X

"ONE OF OUR OBSERVATION PLANES WAS SHOT DOWN RIGHT IN FRONT OF US AND WE LOOKED JUST IN TIME TO SEE IT BURST INTO FLAME AND BLACK SMOKE AND GO DOWN ON THE ROUGH ROCKS OF A SMALL COVE ALONG THE SHORE.

"BY NOW THE FIRST WAVE WAS BEGINNING TO MOVE INLAND FROM THE BACHES AND WE COULD SEE THE BRIGHT GLARE FROM THEIR FLAME-THROWERS AS THE MARINES WERE WORKING ON JAP PILLBOXES. THEY WERE HAVING QUITE A TIME THERE ON ONE RIDGE AND WE MOVED IN CLOSER TO WATCH THEN.

"AS WE APPROACHED THE EASTERN COAST LINE WE COULD SEE A GOOD HALF DOZEN JAP SHIPS RED AND RUSTY, BEACHED AND RUINED, RESULTS OF PREVIOUS BOMBING AND BOMBARDMENT. X X X

"THE SECOND WAVE WAS IN NOW AND THE THIRD WAS COMING UP TO THE SHORE AND THERE WAS HELL POPPING BELOW. SOME CRAZY JAP WAS STILL SHOOTING ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE. NOBODY WAS WHERE HE WAS SHOOTING X X X AND I THOUGHT HE WAS PROBABLY NUTS AS A RESULT OF THREE DAYS OF NAVAL GUNFIRE AND AIR BOMBARDMENT. X X X

"BUT HOWEVER BATTERED THEY MAY BE DOWN BELOW, THE JAPS WERE SHOOTING FROM THEIR BILLBOXES AND THEIR CAVES. THE FIGHTING WAS HEAVY."

CO-PILOTS, WHO ALTERNATED AS NAVIGATORS, WERE J.R. (RAFFERTS?) OF UNION CITY, TENN., AND ENSIGN L.E.DUNLAP OF WATSONVILLE, CALIF.

THE PURPOSE OF OUR FLIGHT, IN ADDITION TO MY HAVING A LOOK-SEE, WAS TO TAKE PICTURES OF THE INVASION FOR INFORMATION AND FOR FUTURE STUDY.

WE HAD SEVERAL NAVY PHOTOGRAPHERS MATES ABOARD--INCLUDING THE FORMER HOLLYWOOD MOTION PICTURE CAMERAMAN LIEF ERIKSON OF VENICE, CALIF.

THE BALANCE OF THE CREW ERE AVIATION MACHINSTS AND RADIOMEN. AMONG THEM WERE CHARLES P.BROWN, MARTINVILLE, ARK.; HUGH ARTHUR, WACO, TEXAS; C.T. CAREY, ENGLEWOOD, CALIF., AND J.D. EVANS OF ENFIELD, N.C.

THERE IS, AS I SAY, A WHALE OF A SCRAP STILL GOING ON BACK THERE AT IWO JIMA.

FACE HEAVY FIRE

Naval Units Pour Steel Into Strong Japanese Positions.

Watts

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, Feb. 21—(AP) The three-day-old invasion of Iwo is ahead of schedule despite the unprecedented ferocity of Japanese resistance, it was learned today.

The U. S. Fifth Marine corps achieved one of the invasion's main objectives by noon Tuesday, a little over 24 hours since the Marines landed on the southeast coast, when they captured the three-runway Motoyama bomber field No. 1, within fighter plane range of Tokyo, 750 miles to the north.

NIGHT

Ahead of Schedule

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent, confirmed that the invasion plan called for seizure of the airfield, also known as Suribachi, by tonight.

Today the Marines, still backed by one of the most concentrated ship bombardments in history which in six days has pitched more than 8,000 tons of steel at the Nipponese, tore into enemy hill positions on the flanks after sealing off the south third of the island's eight square miles.

There is a terrific fight ahead against Japanese on the north end of the island, on a plateau overlooking the beachhead. The bulk of the Nipponese garrison is there.

As the Marines consolidated their flanks yesterday, Dopking said they encountered "probably the stiffest enemy fire yet faced in the Pacific war."

Controlling the south third of the island, the rain-drenched Leathernecks advanced 200 yards beyond the airfield on the north flank against Nipponese rocket, mortar and artillery fire.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz gave this report early today covering the second day of the invasion of Iwo, the hotly defended volcanic island 750 miles south of Tokyo.

Japs Fire Mortars, Rockets

Heavy mortar and artillery fire and some rockets fell on the devildogs of the Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions as they consolidated their positions at the airfield, one of the most important of Iwo's three.

Front line reports said the gains north of the airfield ranged from 100 to 200 yards.

Perhaps hinting that more satisfactory progress could be expected, Nimitz said:

"A large portion of our artillery now is ashore and in position to support both flanks of the beachhead."

The Pacific oceans area commander, who moved his headquarters to Guam only a few weeks before the invasion of Iwo said he was unable to estimate casualties. Earlier, they had been reported as running from strong to moderate.

American warships of the Pacific fleet for the sixth straight day supported the invasion and carrier aircraft added the weight of their bombs and rockets to the coordinated assault.

Already, Nimitz reported, 8,000 tons of ammunition had been expended in naval gunfire.

The warships were standing close to shore, concentrating "close-in" fire on caves and other underground strongpoints from which the Japanese were strafing the northern end of the American beachhead.

Supplies were pouring ashore "satisfactorily," Nimitz said.

Rains hampered air cover and impeded ground action.

On the south flank, they attacked formidable enemy positions offering stiff opposition from the slopes of volcanic Mt. Suribachi.

After a flight over the battle ... Arthur Primm, Mutual War Correspondent, said two enemy strongpoints on the flanks must be overcome to assure progress. One is Mt. Suribachi on the south. The other is a rock quarry on the north end of the East coast beachhead.

Primm saw enemy soldiers in action behind the Marine advance forward positions, indicating a somewhat scrambled scene. However, some were enemy groups isolated at the south end when the Leathernecks drove a curving wedge all the way across the island shank from the east to the west shore.

Blast Cove Positions

Bad weather hindered air support but the big guns of the warships constantly backed up the invaders, pouring shells into enemy cave positions.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz issued separate communiques on the morning and afternoon developments Tuesday covering action up until 6 p. m.

Although Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fifth Marine Corps was battling for every yard in the most savage actions of the Pacific war, they already have achieved one of their biggest objectives in capturing the big bomber field, within 750 miles of Tokyo.

How bitter the battle was is made clear in a Wednesday broadcast by Bud Foster from the invasion fleet lying off the island.

The NBC War Correspondent, representing the combined American networks, said the invaders have had no sleep for 48 hours. Tuesday night the skies over Iwo were "ablaze with the almost constant flash of star shells, tracer bullets and the flame from heavier guns and mortars, Foster said.

"Through the fitful half light of the exploding shells, soldiers could be seen scurrying from foxhole to foxhole, carrying supplies and ammunition."

Foster said enemy fire in some sectors abated somewhat this (Wednesday) morning "but it is still active."

The Japanese used rockets for the first time yesterday.

Larry Tighe, Blue network correspondent, said today:

"These are no terror-stricken Jap soldiers of the Imperial army that the Fourth and Fifth Marines are fighting.

"They are tough, wily and experienced foemen who know every trick in the book concerning defensive fighting."

and a half miles.

Territory in American, hands reaches from the northern slopes of Suribachi Volcano on the southern tip of the island, now cut off from northern defenders, to the northern edge of newly won Motoyama Airfield No. 1.

Smash Jap Defenses.

The Marines smashed through defenses as "fanatically defended as any yet encountered in the war in the Pacific," Admiral Nimitz reported in the second grimly worded communique of the day.

The counter-attack by a battalion of Japs charging full strength down the runway of the airfield in the early morning hours was smashed by the Twenty-seventh Marine Regiment and the remnants driven off. The Marines were aided by naval gunfire and illumination provided by the huge searchlights of the warships close off shore.

[A new American landing somewhere along the northern shores of Iwo Jima was reported today in a Tokyo radio broadcast. Tokyo said the landing was made last night north of the main American beachhead. Marines, the broadcast said, landed where the cliffs were from "ten to fifteen meters high" and were "intercepted at the water's edge and furious fighting is at present in progress."

[The broadcast, recorded by FCC, said the second invasion was "executed despite inclement conditions and huge sacrifices.]

Territory captured by the Fifth Marine Corps in two days of fighting represents about one-quarter of the eight-mile-square island.

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 20 (A. P.) (via Navy Radio).—American Marines, fighting the toughest battle of their history, seized the southern airfield on Iwo Jima today from fanatically defending Japs after breaking up a night counter-attack by 900 enemy troops, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced.

Strongly supported by naval and aerial units which drove off the first reported attempts by Jap planes to attack the invaders, the Marines pushed a path clear across the island, with the width ranging from 1,000 yards to two ond somber-toned release issued by Advanced Pacific Fleet Headquarters tonight.

Toughest Battle in 168 Years.

In his first report today Admiral Nimitz said American losses in advancing across the southern end of the island were relatively light but were heavier on the northern flank of the original beachhead where the Americans moved up unprotected slopes to envelop the airdrome.

"The fight is the toughest we've run across in 168 years," Lieut.-Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of Marine Corps Forces in the Pacific, told Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg aboard sea forces standing off the island.

Mr. Landsberg reported thousands more Marines were pouring ashore to smash down the Japs intrenched in a network of caves on the rugged, volcanic island and apparently in dread of losing the airdrome island from which Tokyo could be raided by light bombers and fighter planes.

Japanese, still holding the wide, northern end of the island, poured artillery, mortar and rifle fire down on the Americans and put up their stiffest fight for the southern airdrome. Motoyama Airfield Number Two lies just north of the American-held territory.

All frontline reports today agreed one of the most savage fights of the war is in progress, with the Japanese firing from caves and pillboxes.

Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, commanding the amphibious operation, said of Iwo:

"It is as well a defended fixed position as exists in the world today. It is small but better defended and better organized for defense than any island with which I am acquainted."

"No Time For Inventory"

That is a strong statement coming from a man who commanded amphibious forces at bloody Tarawa in the Gilberts.

Shortly after noon today, Don Pryor broadcast from Turner's flagship that reports from the landing forces "are both good and bad, but the heat of battle is no time for an inventory."

The Tokyo radio made the completely unconfirmed claim that 1,500 American Marines have been "wiped out" and 2,000 wounded.

[The Japanese Domei news agency declared in a broadcast dispatch today that the Americans had lost three cruisers, three warcraft of undetermined category, two patrol boats and four transports in the operations against Iwo Island. There was no Allied confirmation.]

The Japanese, as usual, are resorting to the extensive use of mortars.

But the Marines had back of them the thundering guns of Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy's warships which had to pick their targets carefully to keep from dropping shells among the advancing Devildogs. The invaders also were afforded the constant cover of both carrier planes and the Marianas-based bombers of Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon's strategic air force of the Pacific Ocean areas.

Japs Holed Up In Hideouts

Robert McCormick, NBC war correspondent, reported today that the Japanese on Iwo are holed up in literally thousands of natural hideouts, making it likely that "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men.

Another network correspondent spoke of "the stiffest fight yet faced" by the Marines, comparing the Iwo campaign to such bloody ones as those on Tarawa in the Gilberts and Peleliu in the Palau Islands.

Beach defenses were quickly overrun. The encounter became bloody after the Marines moved across 150 yards of unprotected sandy beaches and started up steep terraces toward the airfield.

The Nipponese were well dug in to defend the field.

Johnson said that at the end of Monday's bitter battles, "The Marines had only begun the prodigious task of killing the enemy garrison."

Text Of Communique

Text of communiqué No. 266 issued by Admiral Nimitz:

"United States Marines attacking Iwo Island drove across the southern end of the island by 1,800 (0800 GMT) on 19 February (East longitude date) cutting off the enemy strongpoint in Suribachi volcano from his forces in the north. Resistance in this area now is cut off. Our forces occupied one thousand yards of the western beach of the island.

"During the afternoon of the first day, advance elements of the attacking units expanded their hold on the island's southern airfield, but were meeting stiff opposition there and on the northern flank of the beachhead. Our forces advancing from the east toward the northern end of the field were engaged in heavy fighting.

Intense Mortar Fire

"The northern half of the beachhead was under intense mortar and artillery fire during a large part of the day, but it was expanded inland about 250 yards. Unloading of equipment and supplies began on the seven beaches.

"Casualties in the south were light, but on the open slopes west of the airfield our forces were being resisted bitterly and casualties were more numerous.

"Enemy positions on the island were under heavy naval gunfire and aircraft bombing, strafing and rocket attacks throughout the day."

Japs Report Tank Battle

Admiral Nimitz made no mention of tanks which eyewitnesses said had been thrown into the battle. Tokyo radio reported a tank battle under way on the plateau in the center of the island.

The unconfirmed broadcast said the Marines launched two night tank attacks. The radio asserted they were "warded off by Japanese tank units."

[A dispatch from Mac R. Johnson, representing the combined American press, said "land mines were found at several places, but the Marines were able to move their tanks inland and use them in the assault being directed against the airfield."]

Earlier Nimitz had said unequivocally that the leathernecks "are taking Iwo Island."

20,000 Landed, Tokyo Says

The Tokyo radio conceded that more than 20,000 Marines already had been landed "by this morning."

From the 800 ships committed to the operation, the invaders are "bringing up reinforcements and landing them," Tokyo acknowledged. It reported 150 Yank tanks "in one sector."

Team of Navy Veterans Carried Out Iwo Invasion

Adm. Turner's Staff All Had Fought in Other Landings

ABOARD ADMIRAL TURNER'S AMPHIBIOUS TASK FORCE FLAGSHIP, Iwo Jima, Feb. 19 (Delayed) (via Naval Radio) (AP).—A team of officers and men who participated in other Pacific landings combined their experience to carry out probably the most difficult assault of the Pacific war—the landing on tiny Iwo Jima.

The staff was built around the lean, tough veteran of them all, Vice-Admiral Richmond K. Turner. The sixty-year-old amphibious task force commander, once a star hurdler on the Annapolis track team, led American assaults in the Solomons, Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas. The much-decorated admiral, with a record as a warship captain, flyer and gunnery expert, was born in Portland, Ore., and now makes his home at Carmel, Calif.

The assault transports, cargo ships and landing craft carrying the marines ashore are under command of Rear Admiral Harry W. Hill of Oakland, Calif., whose wife lives in Washington. Hill was born in Oakland in 1890. He was awarded the Order of Kutuzov by the Russian government for services in protecting Murmansk convoys while skipper of the cruiser Wichita. Hill participated in the Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas operations.

The man assigned to knock out enemy defenses on Iwo as much as possible prior to the landing is Read Admiral William H. P. Blandy, fifty-five-year-old ordnance expert and veteran of the Saipan and Palaus invasions. He commanded supporting battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, rocket-firing gunboats and mine-sweepers in the pre-landing operations. His wife lives in Washington.

San Francisco, Feb. 20 (AP)—United States Task Force ... peared yesterday in the waters of the Bonin Islands, north of Iwo, Domei News Agency reported, and "since the enemy is roaming waters which are only about 50 miles from the Japanese mainland there are indications he may approach our mainland and attempt another air raid with his carrier-borne planes." The broadcast said the task force was conducting the new operation "after licking its wounds."

Iwo Bombardment Continuing

By Morrie Landsberg

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship Off Iwo Jima, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Japanese citadel of Iwo rocked and rumbled today with a heavy sea bombardment covering the advance of United States Marines from their expanded beachhead on the southeast shores of the small, rocky island.

There was no letup in the explosive barrage laid down by battleships, cruisers, destroyers, gunboats and more than 100 carrier planes. The naval gun barrage continued throughout the night.

Supplies Roll In Steadily

Thousands more Marines poured ashore, joining the fierce fight against the sizable Japanese garrison which holds the bulk of the five-mile long island.

A large force of artillery was delivered ashore while supplies rolled in steadily under difficult conditions.

Sporadically the Japanese showered the beachhead with artillery and mortars from their concealed positions, from the north and from Suribachi Yama volcanic crater forming the southern extremity of the island.

No Jap Planes In Area

More than 24 hours after the in... vasion by the 4th and 5th Marine divisions, no Japanese planes reached the area, although the battle scene is only 750 miles from Tokyo and a short flight from Haha Jima, air-base island in the Bonins which was kept under constant neutralizing air attack.

No estimate was yet available on Japanese casualties. From the scarcity of bodies found in line of the American advance it appeared that the Japanese had renewed their old practice of taking their dead with them to conceal the extent of their losses.

By JAMES S. LINDSLEY.

American Beachhead on Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, Feb. 20 (A. P.) (via Navy Radio).—I spent yesterday afternoon and last night amid a hell of mortar and shellfire on Iwo Jima's beachhead with the Fourth Marine Division's Twenty-third Regiment.

I was with Capt. John W. Thomason 3d, of Washington, D. C. We wanted to land on one of the central portions of Iwo's east coast and had heard conditions were fairly well-stabilized there. We found a Marine battalion dug in with mortar shells bursting around them.

"It doesn't look like it's stabilized," Capt. Thomason commented calmly.

We were pinned down from 1:30 P. M. to about 5:30 P. M.

A landing craft nearby was blown almost in two. The mate was standing 2 feet away from where the shell hit and dived, apparently unhurt, from the burning craft into a shellhole. Many dug-in Marines were hit. Capt. Thomason rallied a group of corpsmen and personally aided in carrying several to cover amid fire.

We finally went up the hill from the beach and dug in for the night, making the dash with Jap sniper fire biting at our heels. Lee Weber of Seattle, combat photographer whose mother is Mrs. Clarence Weber, Post Office Box 656 Grand Central Annex, New York city, joined us.

Mortar fire continued sporadically all night, but the night finally wore out. There were many Marine casualties around us, but none of us was hit.

Bloody Battle for Field

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

Associated Press Correspondent

ABOARD VICE ADMIRAL TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP, Iwo, Wednesday, Feb. 21—Two days of torturous fighting has given the United States Marines a strong toehold on Iwo from which to push the conquest of this strategic island to its final, expectedly bloody finish in the rocky northern terrain.

The southernmost of three shell-pocked airfields fell to the leathernecks yesterday in a drive that at times caused heavy American casualties. Every yard of the way from the beachheads they met enemy fire.

The going was described as extremely tough on the right flank of the American line running from the northern slope of Suribachi to the curving east-west line, which traverses the northern end of the airfield runways and then dips down to the northern limit of the beachhead.

The Navy unleashed the power of its stand-by fleet, bombarding the island for the sixth straight day while the marines' own artillery began to function in strength. An entire battery under command of Captain James B. McDermott of Topeka, Kan., registered hits on caves on the steep sides of Suribachi.

Challenged in their strongest fortress this side of Honshu Island, and with the empire-guarding defense system threatened, thousands of Japanese are fighting back with everything at their command—with rockets, mortars, artillery, machine guns and the ever present sniper fire.

Early on the third day of the invasion not a single enemy plane had penetrated the combat air patrol maintained around the island and the hundreds of ships that carried men and supplies to Iwo. Several Japanese aircraft attempted to attack the previous night, but were turned back by carrier-based fighters.

Mist and light rain fell yesterday and mixed with clouds and smoke. The weather still favored the Americans, however.

Col. Harry B. Liversedge of Pine Grove, Calif., reported that there were pillboxes every ten feet in the sector around Suribachi.

But the marines are cracking Iwo; there's no mistaking that.

Tokyo Reports New U.S. Two

30.321-23157

Landing

San Francisco, Feb. 20 (AP)—A new American landing somewhere along the northern shores of Iwo Jima was reported today in an unconfirmed Tokyo radio broadcast.

Tokyo said the landing was made last night north of the main American beachhead on the southeastern shores.

Marines, the broadcast said, landed where the cliffs were from "10 to 15 meters high" and were "intercepted at the water's edge and furious fighting is at present in progress."

"Supporting Operation"

The broadcast, recorded here, said the second invasion was "executed despite inclement conditions and huge sacrifices. . . . It seems to be a supporting operation for the main enemy landings on the southern coast of the island."

Earlier, Japanese imperial headquarters formally acknowledged that American Marines have effected a landing on Iwo Island and "fierce battles are now going on.

Domestic broadcasts over Tokyo radio, recorded here, told of the invasion and warned "with the landing on Iwo Jima the homeland has become a battleground."

"Homeland A Front"

The influential newspaper Mainichi was quoted as editorializing:

"We must now realize that it is not impossible for the enemy to attempt a landing on the homeland. . . .

"The battlefront has gradually narrowed down from the gigantic and elastic defense structure that was won at the outset of the war until now the homeland has indeed become a fighting front."

Other broadcasts said 20,000 Marines stormed the island.

Wornham Unit Halted Japanese

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Marine Corps identified Col. Thomas A. Wornham today as commanding officer of the Twenty-seventh Regiment, Fifth Marine Division, which repulsed a Japanese counter-attack on an Iwo airfield. Colonel Wornham's mother, Mrs. Thomas G. Wornham, lives in Renssaeler, N. Y. His wife, Mrs. Laura V. A. Wornham, lives in Los Angeles.

CANADIAN DRIVE SLOWED AS ENEMY

TROOPS HIT BACK

Patton's Forces Smash Through Siegfried Line, Seize Ten Towns.

CROSS MOSELLE RIVER

Scots Mopping Up in Goch, Allies Hurled Back Near Calcar.

PARIS, Feb. 20—(AP) The American Third army, slashing into or beyond the Siegfried Line on a 50-mile front, surged forward 2½ miles in rain and mud today and captured ten towns and entered five others in a surprise new attack across the Moselle river.

Scottish forces of Gen. H. D. Crerar's Canadian First army cleared all of the Siegfried stronghold of Goch except a few isolated pockets, but this offensive at the northern end of the Western front appeared generally stymied in its 13th day by vicious enemy resistance.

Canadiens Fall Back

Canadian troops fell back slightly in the flaming arc before Calcar, seven miles northeast of Goch, as the Germans hurled in one counter-attack after another to dent Allied lines for the first time since the drive down the Maas-Rhine corridor began.

As resistance on the 25-mile northern front mounted in intensity, with the Germans reinforced to the strength of at least nine divisions, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Doughboys stepped up the pressure along the major portion of the Third army front, where four divisions ran their three-day bag of prisoners to 4,500.

The Americans registered their best gains in the triangle formed by the Moselle and Saar rivers, smashing within four miles of Saarburg from two directions.

The 94th division captured Weiten and pushed into Orscholz and Frendenburg to get within four miles of Saarburg on the south. This division had taken 210 prisoners by 4:30 p.m. today to bring its two-day total to 1,036.

The armored units that crossed the Moselle early in the day deepened their bridgehead to nearly three miles, capturing Palzen and pushing within four miles of Saarburg in the vicinity of Rommelfangen. The town of Kirf, on high ground four miles southwest of Saarburg, also was captured.

The Germans threw a counterattack at the bridgehead during the day, but it was repulsed.

Expend Grip in Reich

Patton's forces fighting in the Echternach area to the north expanded their hold on Nazi soil to 12 miles wide and six miles deep.

The Fifth division cleared Halsdorf on the Enz river, five miles north of Bollendorf, and bagged 215 prisoners to bring its three-day total to 1,265.

The 80th division cleared Enzen, Seimerich, Korperich and Obersgegen and raised its three-day prisoner total to 2,000.

The town of Bivels, two miles northwest of Vianden, was entered by mechanized cavalry units and other troops on the 80th's left won a two-mile stretch of the Dahnen-Dasburg highway, cleaning out 34 Siegfried line pillboxes.

Still farther north, Sengerich and Binscheid, two towns about ten miles southwest of Prum, were entered by the 90th infantry.

Bad weather limited tactical air support over most of the Western front, but more than 200 sorties were flown against German targets in front of the Third army. The 19th air command pounced on 30 oil barges, one of the biggest groups ever spotted on the Rhine, and set 16 ablaze in an attack on a flotilla at Gernsheim, 17 miles north of Mannheim.

Airmen reported heavy eastward rail and road traffic opposite the Third army.

Between the two active sectors of the Western front the Roer river—curving around a huge bulge that contains three other tense Allied armies—was dropping steadily from its flood stage and supply roads behind Allied lines were reported drying in many places. This is the necessary prelude to a full-scale onslaught by Gen. Eisenhower's armies.

Allies Closing in Calcar

The Canadian close-in on Calcar, seven miles northeast of Goch, was slowed for the moment by at least five fierce Nazi counterattacks in a seesaw fight northwest and southwest of the water-girt town. It was a give-and-take slugging match for the roadhub two miles from the Rhine.

A late front dispatch said fierce Nazi counterattacks in the Moyland are just northwest of Calcar and along the Calcar-Goch highway had penetrated British and Canadian positions in bloody fighting and had cut the highway.

Canadian infantry and armor were being hastily thrown against the breaches in Allied positions, with heavy fighting going into the night. In a mile advance southeast of Goch Scottish and British troops took the towns of Buchholt and Halvenboom.

The German Eighth parachute division was identified among enemy forces taking part in the bitter fighting, in all, the Germans had jammed elements of at least nine divisions across the Maas-Rhine corridor in an effort to halt the Allied advance toward the Ruhr.

Roger D. Greene, Associated Press front correspondent, said this massing of enemy strength and intense German artillery and mortar barrages appeared to have stalled the British empire offensive at least temporarily after 13 days of slow but steady advances. Of more than 1,000 prisoners taken in the past 24 hours, he pointed out, nearly all were seized inside Goch.

"The Nazis," Greene said, "seemed to have checked the Allied drive, by their sheer violence of their counterjams." He predicted, however, that the drive would gain its second wind shortly, before the Germans could construct new fixed defenses to replace the broken Siegfried Line.

Nazis Cut Allied Lines In Goch Sector

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—Canadian 1st Army troops virtually cleared ruined Goch today, but the Germans in furious counterattacks to the northeast broke through Allied lines and seized positions on the Goch-Calcar road.

Gen. Henry Crerar hastily threw in tank and infantry reinforcements both along the road and in the Moyland area north of Calcar, and furious fighting was under way tonight, a field dispatch declared.

The Germans struck viciously in the Moyland area and at positions on the road from Goch to Calcar.

Allies Take Two Towns

Southwest of Goch, however, Scottish and British troops advancing 1,500 yards seized Buchholt and Halvenboom.

On the opposite flank, the American 7th Army widened its resurgent front in the industrial Saarland and captured five towns in an advance within 3½ miles and sight of the blackened steel city of Saarbrueck en. The 7th Army, at least 11 divisions and 155,000 men strong, was applying increasing pressure in its limited offensive.

3d Army Takes Five Towns

In between Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's United States 3rd Army stormed into Germany at a new point, capturing Wincheringen, a mile across the border east of Luxembourg city and 5 miles from the fortified road hub of Saarburg. The 94th Division took four towns on a 4-mile front between Saarbruecken and Trier.

Patton's army made a surprise crossing of the Moselle River to capture Wincheringen.

The 94th captured Oberleuken, Kesslingen, Faha and Munzingen, from 2 to 3 miles east and southeast of Sinz and 6 inside Germany. The cluster of villages is about 8 miles northwest of the Saarland city of Merzig.

Rivers Receding

The Roer River, like the Rhine and Meuse, was receding. When its floodwaters return to its banks over the 36 miles from the opened dam gates to Roermond, the American 1st and 9th armies and the British 2d will be able to strike toward Cologne, the Rhineland and the Ruhr. Indeed, the Germans said the 9th had already attempted a crossing at Linnich, where the Roer was still wide.

When the massed might of the three Allied armies on the Roer is applied the Germans before Cologne, Duesseldorf and Duisburg will be squeezed in a vise west of the Rhine, with the Canadian Army as its northern jaw.

Scots Use Bayonets

The Scottish troops of the Canadian Army went after the last Germans in Goch with bayonets. After 24 hours of house fighting the whole northern part of the town was cleared and only a bit of the southern part was still in German hands. The tattered Nazis, minus their captured commander, fought among wrecked sheds, freight cars and locomotives at the southern fringe of the town. Other German forces were already shelling Goch.

A thousand Nazis surrendered yesterday, boasting the total for the northern campaign above 9,000. ...tish forces that drove into Goch from opposite directions joined in the heart of the city.

Scots Heavily Shelled

On the western flank, German batteries laid down a terrific barrage against Scottish troops south of Afferden on the road to Venlo, 19 miles away. Infantry did not follow up, however, and the situation there was unchanged. Between Afferden and Goch, the Allies edged forward slowly south of Hassum. The road between the towns was cut.

Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army captured Etzling, 3½ miles south of Saarbruecken, and Oeting, less than a mile from Forbach, French border town. High ground overlooking Forbach was taken.

7th Crosses The Saar

The 7th Army crossed the Saar River. To the east, it captured the border town of Frauenberg, less than 10 miles from the Saar city of St. Ingbert, which was shelled last December. Folpersweiler fell; Auersmacher, 2 miles inside the Reich, was cleared and a wood to the north was taken.

Patton's army in the center met stiff to moderate resistance. Winderingen was taken in a surprise crossing of the Moselle River into the Siegfried Line zone. The 94th Division, 5 miles inside Germany, occupied high ground near Kirk, northeast of Sinz.

5th Division Gains

The 5th Division advanced a mile through a clean gash in the Siegfried Line and captured Stocken, 6½ miles from Bitburg. These troops killed 75 Germans and wounded 100 in taking the town. The 5th also got near Enzen and sent some men a mile and a half north of the Enz River to commanding high ground.

Another 3d Army unit captured Herzfeld, 10 miles southeast of Pruem. Moderate gains were made elsewhere on the 55-mile 3d Army front.

The Nazis' Calcar Stand

Field dispatches said the apparent reason for the resolute German stand before Calcar was to keep the Canadian 1st Army from using the railroad running south to Uedem.

Once Goch is cleaned up, a small open plain lies before the Canadian, Scottish, Welsh and British troops, and beyond that plain lies the Ruhr, the most concentrated industrial region in Europe. The closest Canadians were 16 miles from Wesel, nearest Ruhr railhead, which was bombed again last night.

Flyers had clearer skies today than yesterday, when 3,000 sorties were flown.

Germans Now Using 4-Foot Baby Rocket

With U.S. 9th Army in Germany, Feb. 19 [AP—Delayed]—The Germans have been throwing toward American lines a baby rocket 4 feet long and with enough explosive power to blow a house to smithereens.

This Werkaerper weapon packs the wallop of a 30-pound bomb and apparently is launched from a truck trailer or a ramp leaned at an angle over the edge of a trench.

Major Harry Suffield, of Woodward, Okla., exhibited a preserved rocket of this type that had been picked up in Germany.

The weapon looks like a piece of large stovepipe 50 inches long and a foot in diameter with jets at an angle in one end to make it spin as the gas fumes propel it through the air.

"That spinning gives it a terrific screeching noise," Suffield said. "In fact, it makes more noise than the old screaming meanies."

PILLBOX BUSTERS GO 'HOLLYWOODIAN'

Yanks Outdo Movies Evicting Nazis From 4 Strong Points

With 90th Infantry Division, Siegfried Line, Feb. 20 (AP)—The captured German regimental commander called it a "simply ridiculous operation," but to the 90th Division doughboys it was a slick job of pillbox busting.

Slipping through the darkness past German outposts, the Americans infiltrated a group of four pillboxes housing the enemy's regiment headquarters. Without knocking they walked into three of them, roused 43 occupants, including the commander, from deep slumber and took them prisoner.

With the guidance of one of the captives, a squad led by Sergt. Daniel R. McCarthy, of Chicago, located a fourth pillbox. He laid siege with grenades plunked into ventilators, and bazooka bursts aimed at the door. Between explosions the Americans heard a German officer inside telephoning for artillery.

Nazis Get Wish

The urgent call was promptly answered by a concentration of shells which began bursting around the Americans. In that situation Sergt. Clyde W. Eustler, of Lancaster, Cal., and Private Raymond Bray, Killdeer, N.D., decided it would be best to be on the inside looking out, so they dashed into the pillbox through a door blown open by a bazooka shot.

The startled Germans, thinking the pillbox was being stormed, quickly reached for the sky. Twenty surrendered Germans whose nerves were jumpy from the artillery fire asked their officer to call a halt to the barrage. He did.

The doughboys then spliced German lines into their own communications and reported the position captured. Meanwhile, two German linemen attempting to trace the break in the wires came up and were seized by Private Joseph J. Mazzarese, Bridgeport, Conn., and Private John W. Gresham, Van Buren, Mo. Six more German strays were collared outside by Sergt. Robert R. Johnson, Jeannette, Pa.

The audacious assault upon the pillbox was led by Sergt. Roy J. Fitzgerald, Hyattsville, Md., and Sergt. Carl R. Rutherford, Dwyer, Wyoming.

Besides Germans, the Americans found inside a treasure trove including fat cigars, hundreds of cigarettes and fifteen bottles of wine and Schnapps.

16,000 Tons Of German Coke Is Sent To France

Alsdorf, Germany, Feb. 20 (AP)—A vanguard of 16,000 tons of coke was started on its way to the steel mills of France and Luxembourg from this mining area today in the first move to make occupied Germany contribute to the Allied cause.

The coke was a part of captured stocks. This coal area has served as a guinea pig for "solid-fuel" experts of supreme Allied headquarters and the Allied military government for dealing with German industries which might be overrun. It revealed that the Nazis are not going in for a scorched-earth policy so far as German "big business" is concerned.

RUSSIAN FORCES ADVANCE 10 MILES IN BRANDENBURG

Reds Kill 1,000 Germans in Bitter Fighting Near Guben.

TIGHTEN BRESLAU RING

Soviet Troops Push Through Polish Corridor Toward Danzig.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 21—(AP) Russian First Ukraine army forces drove some 10 miles northwest and west in Germany's Brandenburg province yesterday, capturing more than 80 communities in the face of persistent counterattacks by which the Nazis strove to hold the vital southeastern approaches to Berlin, 57 miles away.

Moscow's nightly communique, announcing these gains, said about 1,000 Germans were captured in that sector northeast and east of Guben, while some 100 miles to the southeast fighting continued for the annihilation of the German garrison in the besieged Silesian capital of Breslau.

1,000 Nazis Killed

A supplement to the communique this morning said more than 1,000 Germans were killed and 32 tanks knocked out in a vain enemy counterattack at Russian-captured Christianstadt and that survivors were scattered in the forest east of Guben.

A captured German officer was quoted as saying that on that front recently two Nazi armored divisions and two motorized divisions, intended as strategic reserves, had been "exterminated."

German radio accounts, agreeing essentially with the Russian announcements on the conflict in Brandenburg east of Guben, said also that the Soviets had broken into Breslau and Glogau but had been thrown out and that the Breslau garrison had spurned a surrender ultimatum.

On the northern front Moscow announced gains up to 13 miles and capture of 50 Polish corridor towns by the second White Russian army. Advancing northward on a 20-mile-wide front, these forces were within 33 miles south of Danzig, once-free Baltic port.

Twenty miles behind that front the Russians announced killing of 1,500 Germans and destruction of nine tanks and 30 cannon at encircled Grudziadz, Poland, and said the Germans lost another 2,000 men in hard fighting on the Samland peninsula of East Prussia.

Nazi Attacks Repulsed

On the southern end of the long Eastern front the Russians announced capture of 60-odd Czechoslovakian towns in a drive that carried northwestward within 13 miles of Banska Bystricia, and told of repelling determined German counterattacks in Hungary on the north bank of the Danube east of Komarom.

The Germans claimed to have eliminated part of the Russian Hron river bridgehead east of Komarom, while Moscow disclosed the bitterness of the fight by claiming 60 German tanks destroyed there Monday.

Berlin also said the Russians were preparing for a new breakthrough smash at the Moravian gate where the borders of Silesia, Poland and Moravia meet. The Russians were silent on this, as they were also on German reports of some "minor" gains by the First White Russian army southeast of Stettin.

More vital to the immediate defense of the Reich was the 65-mile front where Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine troops were attacking and the Germans were violently counterattacking.

German broadcasts described the line as extending from Guben, 51 miles southeast of Berlin, through Sorau down to Lauban, 61 miles east of Dresden and only 13 miles from the border of Saxony province.

Moscow's communique did not disclose fighting as far suoth of Lauban but did announce Konev's capture of the Strong point cities of Crossen, at the confluence of the Oder and Bober rivers, 57 miles southeast of Berlin and 17 miles northeast of Guben; Boberserg, 13 miles east of Gugen; and Christianstadt, 11 miles east of Sommerfeld.

Other towns listed as captured included Schegeln, eight miles east of Guben in the Guben forest, and Burau, 11 miles south of Sorau.

The list of towns taken ranged mostly northeast, east and southeast of Sommerfeld, lending some credence to German claims to have recaptured that strategic rail center.

The Germans, claiming on Monday to have thrown the Russians out of Guben—whose capture the Russians have never claimed—placed Tuesday's fighting eight miles east of Goben, just as the Russians said.

Reds Attack Lauban

Unconfirmed German accounts also described Konev as attacking Lauban and pushing towards Goerlitz, 12 miles west of Lauban. The Soviet communique confirmed earlier German statements that the Russians had cut the Sorau-Goerlitz railway. The Germans said it was a three-mile breach.

Rothwasser, 10 miles northeast of Goerlitz, fell into Russian hands "temporarily" and then was recaptured by the Germans, the enemy broadcasts said.

Fighting for Guben, which the Germans stated they lost and then regained on Monday, was described as continuing some eight miles east of the city, but the Germans made no claim to have pushed the Russians back that distance.

The German DNB agency said the Guben-Sorau-Lauban front was "one of the main centers of gravity of the Russian offensive, with fighting still is full swing and the ultimate decision unforeseeable."

The [illegible]n press said the command [illegible]ig had been given to SS ([illegible] Guard) Gen. Felix Steiner, [illegible] warned against "infiltratin[illegible]ssian agents disguised in Germ[illegible] uniforms."

There [illegible]s no letup in the struggle in East Prussia, with the Germans reporting that Soviet troops were attacking heavily on the Samland peninsula west of Koenigsberg and that German warships were shelling the attackers.

BERLIN SAYS REDS SMASH WAY INSIDE BRESLAU SUBURBS

Germans Report Ultimatum Rejected and Russians Driven Back.

London, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—The Russians have broken into the southern suburbs of the rich Silesian industrial city of Breslau and issued an ultimatum calling for the surrender of the German garrison, a German military commentator reported tonight, adding that the Germans rejected the ultimatum and succeeded for the time being in driving the Russians back.

The Russians have also penetrated into Glogau, fifty-two miles northwest of Breslau, the commentator said. Glogau had been encircled for several days.

The Reds have punched several deep breaches in the German lines on a sixty-five-mile front, stretching within fifty to sixty miles of Berlin and Dresden, the German High Command declared earlier. It indicated that Marshal Ivan Konev had resumed his push toward these two cities after withstanding German counter-attacks which Berlin only last night said had swept back into four towns.

The German communique declared that Konev breached German lines in the areas of Guben, fifty-one miles southeast of Berlin, at Sorau, twenty-eighth miles farther southeast, and at Lauban, sixty-one miles east of Dresden. Fighting of the bitterest type is raging in the sector between the Bober and Neisse rivers, a transocean broadcast said.

A later broadcast said Konev was attacking Lauban and thrusting for Goerlitz, 12 miles beyond on the Neisse River, 49 miles from Dresden. This said Konev had cut the Sorau-Goerlitz railway on a 2½-to-3-mile stretch at an undisclosed point, and had "temporarily" captured Rothwasser, 10 miles northeast of Goerlitz. Rothwasser, 19 miles from the Saxon border, was later retaken by the Germans, Transocean added.

Russian advances on Guben were "checked," Transocean said.

"Bitterest Type" Fighting

Fighting of "the bitterest type" is raging in this sector between the Bober and Neisse Rivers, another Transocean broadcast said.

Transocean made no mention of Nazi counterattacks, which the Germans last night said had rewon Guben, Sommerfeld, Sorau and Sagan, on a 35-mile line to the southeast of Guben. Moscow never has claimed the fall of Guben, but announced capture of the other three last week.

"No new German reports are available on the situation in Guben, from which Russian tank spearheads were dislodged yesterday," Transocean added.

Counterblow Extension Reported

An earlier Transocean broadcast indicated Sagan had again been lost, by defining a battle line placed west of that Bober River city.

[An extension of German counterattacks to the area where the borders of Silesia, Poland and Czechoslovakia meet was reported today by Col. Ernst von Hammer, military correspondent of the German DNB news agency, Reuter announced in London. Hammer reported that "strong German forces" had gone over to the counterattack at Bielsko and Schwarzwasser in the southern part of the Upper Silesia industrial area, and added that German forces had also seized the initiative in the Soviet bridgehead north of Ratibor, just inside the German border.

[Twenty-two miles northwest of Budapest, where the River Hron joins the Danube, a strong German force had broken into the town of Parkany. "Still more sections of the enemy defenses in his bridgehead on the River Hron have been overcome by the Germans," Hammer declared.]

Reds Holding, Moscow Says

Moscow dispatches said the Red Army, despite Nazi counterattacks, was clinging to its positions in front of the Oder-Spree line, southeast of Berlin, "while carrying out what may be some of the most important consolidations of this phase of the war."

Field dispatches to Moscow said Konev and Marshal Gregory Zhukov were warding off Nazi blows "in stretegic moves which promise shortly to pay dividends when the drive on the capital is resumed."

A Russian push farther north had carried within 47 miles of Danzig, capturing the Polish corridor town of Nowe (Neuenburg).

New Offensive Reported

The German command said a new Russian offensive had opened north of Ratibor, on the upper Oder, 85 miles southeast of Breslau, "after German defensive successes of the past two days."

As for Breslau, Transocean said all Soviet blows in an "all-out" attempt to take the Silesian capital had been beaten off.

Battles are fluctuating in the Pyritz area, 22 miles southeast of Stettin, where Zhukov is fighting toward the Baltic, the German communiqué said, while in East Prussia other Russians are attacking violently on the Samland Peninsula, west of Koenigsberg, despite a bombardment by the German Baltic fleet.

The Berlin radio said the German situation was critical in the Tucheler Forest area of the Polish Corridor and west of the Vistula, where the Soviets are pointed toward Danzig.

The Moscow communique declared that 1,500 Germans were slain when they tried to break out of encircled Grudziadz, ten miles south of Nowe. Konev and Zhukov were attempting to weld their flanks securely in the area of Crossen, sixteen miles northeast of Guben, in readiness for an offensive upon Berlin.

900 FORTRESSES HIT NUERNBERG

LONDON, Feb. 20—(AP) Nuernberg, one of Germany's most important rail junctions and scene of former Nazi party propaganda spectacles, was battered today by 900 U.S. Flying Fortresses in its heaviest daylight bombing of the war.

The big American armada, which included an escort of 700 fighters, encountered no enemy aerial opposition but ran into intense antiaircraft fire. Sixteen bombers and 23 fighters were missing tonight.

A series of warnings, during which the German radio twice went off the air, indicated the Allied aerial blows were continuing into the night.

The Germans reported three separate formations operating over the Reich early in the night, two of them possibly groups of R.A.F. Mosquitos. Both were said to be over Brandenburg province in which Berlin is located.

Approximately 11,000 high explosives bombs and 300,000 small incendiaries were dropped on Nuernberg, which Moscow reports have said has become the seat of the Nazi government.

It is a vital junction of the main east-west and north-south railways in south central Germany, 100 miles north of Munich, and the American assault was directed principally at the big railway station, freight yards and repair shops.

One bomber gunner, Sgt. Hiram B. Dunham, Yankton, S. Dak., described the defense of this prime target as "the most flak I have ever seen."

Bad flying weather added to the difficulties of the attackers, but there were breaks in the clouds which permitted some groups to bomb visually.

Significance Not Known

Significance of the traffic congestion was not determined. Whether it was movement of Government offices from Berlin, a concentration of men and material on the way to the East front, or shipments for the defense of Vienna against the Red Army was not learned. Aerial reconnaissance showed, however, that vast south freight yards were loaded to 95 per cent of capacity four days ago with several thousand cars.

In addition to the main passenger station and freight yards which can handle 3,000 cars every 24 hours the targets included huge repair shops nearly a mile in length specializing in locomotive repairs and employing 3,500 workers.

Heavy bombers of the 15th Air Force operating from Italy returned to the Vienna area today, attacking the Lobau and Schwechat oil refineries southeast of Vienna. Medium bombers and fighter-bombers battered away again at targets on the Brenner Pass rail routes between Italy and Austria.

Attacked Twice Before

Nuernberg has been attacked twice previously by the 8th Air Force based in Britain, but never in such strength. Both earlier attacks, on September 10 and October 3 of last year, were aimed at tank factories. Last Armistice Day Thunderbolts carried out a strafing attack on freight yards northwest of Nuernberg. RAF heavies have battered the ancient city with numerous night assaults.

Today's massive attack carried the air offensive against Germany into the eighth straight day. It was the fourth successive mission by the 8th Air Force against rail points channeling the enemy front-line traffic, and the largest concentration against a single target since the 1,000-bomber assault on Berlin February 3.

With the Nuernberg attack the Allied air forces had sent an average of 1,200 heavy bombers against Germany every 24 hours since the RAF began the offensive last Tuesday night.

900 Forts Blast Nuernberg

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—The vast railroad yards and locomotive repair shops at Nuernberg, 90 miles north of Munich, were blasted by 900 Flying Fortresses today in the eighth straight day of the aerial offensive against the Reich.

The bombers were escorted on the long haul across the dangerous Nazi fighter belt by about 700 Mustangs and Thunderbolts, which flew in relays from British and French bases.

Fourth Rail Raid

It was the 8th Air Force's fourth successive strike at vital railheads in an effort to snarl German transportation headed for the front lines.

United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers from Italy returned meanwhile to the Vienna area, hammering the Lobau and Schwechat oil refineries, southeast of the Austrian capital, sending huge black clouds of smoke skyward. Other planes bombed targets on the rail routes between Italy and Austria and shipyards at Trieste.

Counting today's operations, the Allies have hit Germany with more than 1,200 heavy bombers every 24 hours since last Tuesday.

Hitting in two waves, the Fortresses dropped more than 11,000 high-explosive bombs and more than 300,000 incendiaries on Nuernberg, which Moscow has declared now is the actual capital of Germany.

Rail Yards Jammed

Reconnaissance photographs four days ago showed its huge rail yards, capable of handling 3,000 cars daily, were jammed to 95 per cent capacity.

"There was much speculation on what they contained—maybe moving Government offices from Berlin or supplies to the Russian front—so we decided to bust them up a bit," an air force officer said.

The large passenger station was one target. The near-by freight yards are located adjacent to the 2,500-acre arena where colossal Nazi party spectacles were held in Hitler's heyday.

During the night, British heavy bombers attacked a synthetic oil plant at Bohlen, near Leipzig, while other formations hit the chemical manufacturing town of Efurt, 63 miles southwest of Leipzig, and objectives in Hannover, Bremen and Brunswick. Two heavy bombers were missing.

Airfields Targets

RAF fighters and intruder aircraft supported the night operations and attacked German airfields.

During yesterday nearly 1,400 American and RAF heavy bombers pounded thirteen rail and industrial targets in western Germany. Others from the United States 15th Air Force in Italy struck at enemy communications in Austria.

The United States 8th Air Force announced that one of its bombers and seven of 500 escorting fighters were missing.

Swiss Air Battle

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Swiss radio, quoting a communiqué, said a Swiss patrol engaged in an aerial gun battle with an American bomber high over the Alps today after British and American planes "repeatedly violated the Swiss air space."

The broadcast said the American bomber was intercepted near Romanshorn and that the Swiss patrol opened fire after vainly demanding that it land. The American bomber returned the fire and the combat continued until the bomber left Swiss territory near Jura, the radio said.

Typhus Epidemic In Berlin

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Moscow radio asserted today that a typhus epidemic had broken out in Berlin, causing many deaths daily.

French May Seek Part In Austria Occupation

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Authoritative French reports in London today said France will insist on an equal share in the occupation of Austria.

This hint was dropped as Rene Massigli, French Ambassador to Britain, announced that he probably would see Foreign Secretary Eden sometime today. He indicated that he would ask Eden to elucidate on the Big Three Crimean decisions.

Offers To Form Unified Government In Poland

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former Premier of the Polish Government in London, told the Associated Press today that he would go to Moscow to aid in establishing a new Polish Government of national unity if he were invited by the Big Three.

Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, summoned Mikolajczyk for a conference shortly after he made the statement, and it was believed Eden may have discussed such an invitation with the leader of the Polish peasant party. Eden has just returned from the Crimea conference.

Prince Poniatowski Killed On West Front

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Prince Marienandre Poniatowski, 23-year-old descendant of the last King of Poland, has been killed in action on the Western front while serving with the Polish Army in fighting for the homeland he had never seen.

Prince Poniatowski escaped from France in 1940 with the help of his mother, the former Miss Elizabeth Helen Sperry, of California, who accompanied him to the Channel coast and aided in arranging a voyage to England in a fishing boat.

Although he had never been to Poland and did not speak the Polish language, he enlisted in the Polish Army.

Blasts From Channel Shake The Dover Area

Dover, England, Feb. 20 (AP)—A series of thunderous explosions from somewhere at sea shook the Dover area tonight at about 10.30 o'clock. The first explosions, which lasted many seconds, were followed by another series ten minutes later.

Similar explosions were heard twenty hours previously, observers said. All appeared to come from mid-Channel.

Probe On Soviet Effort To Get Credit Sought

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Lord Strabolgi, a Laborite, called on the Government today to explain reports that Russia had requested long-term credits from both the United States and Britain for reconstruction.

"According to these reports," he told the House of Lords, "American business men made an immediate response to the feelers from Moscow. They seem to have got together, with or without governmental assistance, and are prepared to provide large sums of money for the Russian market."

COUPLE LOSE LIFE PLEA

Soldier and Dancer, Doomed for London Murder, Fail in Appeal

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 22-year-old parachute trooper of Cambridge, Mass., and Elizabeth Maud Jones, 18, former strip-tease dancer, today lost appeals to escape hanging for the murder of a London taxi driver.

A three-man criminal court of appeals upheld the jury's verdict. Only the Home Secretary now could intervene to save the couple.

The jury had recommended clemency for the Jones girl. Hulten's young wife in Cambridge was reported to have written a plea to the Home Secretary, asking clemency for him.

CHURCHILL HELD MIDDLE EAST TALKS

LONDON, Feb. 20 — (AP) Diplomatic quarters speculated tonight that Prime Minister Churchill's meetings with the rulers of Ethiopia, Egypt and Saudi Arabia on his way home from the Crimean conference were connected with Britain's projected stepped-up drive against the Japanese.

The official announcement gave no hint as to their nature.

Churchill held his Middle East conferences separately from President Roosevelt and, in addition to talking with the three kings, also met Al Sayed Shukri Alkuwatly, president of the Syrian republic.

(The announcement of Roosevelt's meeting with the three rulers issued at Washington said his discussions were in line with the President's desire that the heads of governments throughout the word "should get together whenever possible to talk as friends and exchange views in order to better understand the problems of one another.")

Churchill, having returned here yesterday, lost no time in taking up the reins of government at home. He appeared in the House of Commons today with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, but his only reference to diplomatic business which had engaged him during his trip to Russia and the Middle East was an observation that "affairs abroad are rather smoother."

The House was given to understand that it must wait until Tuesday and Wednesday of next week for parliamentary discussion of the Crimean conference and Churchill's meetings with Emperior Haile Selassie, King Farouk, King Ibn Saud and the Syrian executive.

The brief British communique told tersely of Churchill's visit to Greece and Egypt, but gave no clue as to why Roosevelt and Britain's self-styled "wandering minstrel" of diplomacy did not make their Middle East conferences joint affairs.

Speculation in London was that the Prime Minister's meetings in Egypt touched on these main points:

1—Military—the role of the Middle East as a staging area for the accumulation of military equipment and supplies in an accelerated drive from the west against Japan.

2—Progress toward a Pan-Arab league and Palestine's relation to such an organization in the postwar world.

3—The possibility of establishing naval, air and military bases in strategic areas of the Middle East.

SEPARATE JEWISH STATE BELIEVED MID-EAST TOPIC

Churchill Talk With Rulers May Have Touched on Pan-Arab League.

London, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill conferred with the rulers of Egypt, Ethiopia, Saudi Arabia and the Syrian Republic on his way home from Yalta, it was disclosed today, and there were rumors that one topic might have been the formation of a single Arab State and a separate Jewish State comprising most of Palestine.

There was no official hint of the nature of his discussions with these leaders however. President Roosevelt also saw the heads of these Middle East States, separately from Mr. Churchill. Whether the talks involved military, economic, diplomatic, or just plain social matters was not disclosed.

A terse communique from the Ministry of Information merely mentioned those with whom Mr. Churchill had conferred.

Speculate on Parley.

There was speculation in London that the discussions may have touched upon these main points:

1—The military—the role of the Middle East as a staging area for accumulation of military equipment and supplies in an accelerated drive from the west against Japan.

2—Progress toward a Pan-Arab league and Palestine's relation to such a set-up.

3—The French Government's plan to insure retention of prewar privileges in Syria and Lebanon;

4—The question of establishing Anglo-American treaties when and if an Pan-Arab league is formed.

5—The possibility of establishing naval, air and military bases throughout the strategic area.

The text of the communique:

"The Prime Minister after his visit to Athens went to Alexandria to take leave of the President before his departure for the United States.

"Mr. Churchill then proceeded to Cairo where on February 16 he conferred with his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Ethiopia (Haile Selasie). On the morning of February 17 the Prime Minister had a discussion with his Majesty King Abdulazis Ibn Abdur-Rahman Ibn Saud Al Faisal, King of Saudi Arabia, and afterward entertained his Majesty at luncheon.

"The same afternoon his Majesty the King of Egypt (Farouk), and Mr. Churchill met for more than an hour. The Prime Minister subsequently saw Al Sayed Shukri Al Kuwatly, President of the Syrian republic.

"Mr. Eden, who had rejoined Mr. Churchill from Athens on February 16, took part in conversations with the Emperor of Ethiopia and in all the meetings February 17.'

Back From Yalta.

Mr. Churchill informed the House of Commons today that "affairs abroad are rather smoother" in his first public reference to the Big Three meeting at Yalta.

The House learned, however, that it must wait until next week for a full report on the Crimea conference, and meanwhile goats, sharks and British double summertime shared the Prime Minister's attention.

Mr. Churchill returned to London yesterday after stopovers at Athens and Cairo. He was greeted with a rousing cheer when he walked into the House of Commons. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced that Tuesday and Wednesday of next week would be allocated to debate on the Crimea conference.

Churchill Says 'Affairs Abroad Are Smoother'

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill informed the House of Commons today, in his first public reference to the Big Three meeting at Yalta, that "affairs abroad are rather smoother."

The House learned, however, that it must wait until next week for a full report on the Crimea conference, and meanwhile goats, sharks and British double summertime shared the Prime Minister's attention.

Wits And Quips

In order, these subjects were placed before the Prime Minister in a matching of wits and quips with Britain's lawmakers:

1. The goats. Would he tell Commons "in view of the shortage of milk . . . whether part of German reparation in kind will include 100,000 milch goats for Scotland and 1,000,000 for England, North Ireland and Wales?" The Premier passed that one until tomorrow.

2. The sharks. What is Britain doing about following up the American development of a "shark-chasing" device for protection of seamen and airmen? "We're watching it," replied Churchill, adding: "You may rest assured the British Government are entirely opposed to sharks."

Double Summertime

3. And British double summertime. Would he assure Commons it would not be imposed? "I certainly cannot," said the Prime Minister. Asked if he were aware that double summertime limited food production, Churchill sidestepped.

"It's a very old question and I remember 40 years ago being acquainted with that argument," he said.

Churchill returned to London yesterday after stopovers at Athens and Cairo. He was greeted with a rousing cheer when he walked into the House of Commons.

He and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden lost little time in stepping into the rigorous give and take of parliamentary debate. Eden announced that Tuesday and Wednesday of next week would be allocated to debate on the Crimea conference.

Queried By Member

The Prime Minister's brief remark on conditions abroad came in a response to a request that the time be allotted for consideration of social service legislation.

Churchill said he could hold out no hope of special time being found "in the present state of public business."

"What does he mean by the present situation?" inquired a member. "Is he referring to the situation at home or abroad?"

"Affairs abroad are rather smoother," replied Churchill, "but I believe the business of the House is still as congested as ever."

Churchill Says British Oppose Sharks, Too

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Says Prime Minister Churchill: "You may rest assured that the British government are entirely opposed to sharks."

He informed Commons, in response to a question, that the government was being kept informed of progress made in the American development of a "shark chaser" for the protection of seamen and airmen adrift.

Churchill, Eden Report To King

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gave first-hand accounts of the Big Three Crimean conference to King George in an audience at Buckingham Palace tonight.

It was the first time the King had received the Prime Minister and Eden since their return from Russia. After the conference, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill and Eden dined with the King and Queen.

FDR, Churchill Emphasize Importance of Middle East

CAIRO, Feb. 20.—(AP) The increasing military and political importance of the Middle East has been sharply emphasized by the conferences President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill held in Egypt and nearby on their way home from the Big Three Yalta meeting.

The President and the Prime Minister delayed their returns to their respective capitals nearly a week after leaving the Crimea. With the war in Europe approaching its climax, it is obvious that they would not have agreed to this delay if they had not considered the discussions here to be of vital importance.

Reports Not Available

Although first-hand reports of their various talks are not yet available, it is considered certain that Roosevelt and Churchill both gave and received information in their meetings with Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, King Farouk of Egypt and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

They are believed to have conveyed especially to Farouk and Ibn Saud some of the decisions Britain and the United States have reached with respect to the war against Japan.

The territories governed by these two monarchs are keys in the line of communications between Europe and the Far East, a line over which vast armies may be transferred in the near future.

At the same time, it is considered certain that they gave the two kings and the emperor of Ethiopia information not yet released to the public about the Big Three program for striking a death blow at Germany.

The political situation in the Middle East, while perhaps not of the same urgency, is almost equally important, particularly to Britain.

In meeting with Farouk and Ibn Saud, Roosevelt and Churchill saw the two foremost leaders of the sprawling Arab world which stretches from the Persian gulf to the Atlantic. After centuries of foreign domination and internal disunity, parts of this world now are independent and the individual Arab states are working toward federation.

The strictest security regulations were imposed on correspondents in Cairo during the period that Roosevelt and Churchill were in this region. Their presence became a matter of common knowledge almost immediately, but requests for press conferences with U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius or Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, if the President himself were unavailable, were refused.

Only official government and military photographers were permitted to make pictures of the British and American leaders and their parties.

Anthony Eden Participated

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden took part in all the conversations Churchill had with the three kings and with Al Sayed Shukri Al Kuwatly, president of the Syrian republic. The subjects under discussion have not been disclosed.

The President's party included Harry Hopkins, his adviser; Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff; Vice Admiral Wilson Brown, retired, and Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson; Vice Admiral Ross McIntyre, the President's physician, Early and Mrs. Anna Boettiger, the President's daughter.

The American party motored from Livadia in the Crimea to Sevastopol and then flew back from a Russian base to Egypt, landing in the Suez Canal zone where the President boarded an American cruiser which was the scene of the ensuing conferences.

King Farouk was the first visitor. He was received with full ceremonial honors and was the President's guest at lunch. Their discussions were described officially as touching on "many questions affecting the relationship of the United States and Egypt."

Haile Selassie came aboard later the same day, accompanied by J. K. Caldwell, U. S. Minister to Ethiopia, and the President's talk with him was said to have stressed improvement of communications to bring about closer relations.

Ibn Saud arrived the following day, having left his home soil for the first time to make the journey. The official statement said Roosevelt's talk with the Arabian king was the consequence of the President's belief that heads of governments should meet together whenever possible to discuss as friends the matters which concern their countries.

Ibn Saud and his retinue of 48 persons, including his brother and two sons, wore full and colorful Arab regalia. They brought Oriental rugs to spread over the deck and gilt chairs for the king.

Three Kings Visit Roosevelt

Monarchs of Middle East Confer With President Aboard U. S. Warship.

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt in a stopover in Egypt on his return from the Crimea conference, conferred with Prime Minister Churchill, King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and King Ibn Saud of Sauda Arabia, it was permitted to be disclosed today.

King Farouk, the first visitor to the President's ship, was piped aboard with full Naval honors and was greeted by the President. The two leaders immediately began discussion of what were described officially as "many questions affecting the relationship of the United States and Egypt."

Luncheon was served later and after some further discussion, King Farouk departed.

The same afternoon Emperor Haile Selassie came aboard, accompanied by J. K. Caldwell, American Minister to Ethiopia. Roosevelt thanked the Emperor for the site and buildings given the United States for use as a legation in Addis Ababa.

The visit of King Ibn Saud came the following day.

His party brought all its own food which was cooked on braziers on the ship's deck. Live sheep were kept in an improvised pen on the destroyer's stern.

Entertains Officers.

The first night the King entertained all the American officers at dinner. They squatted on the deck and ate, Arab style, from the braziers. Scores of other braziers held food for the Arabs not entitled to dine with the monarch.

Ten guards carrying sabers and daggers and chosen from particular tribes attended the King. During the night Ibn Saud saw two motion pictures about the United States Navy.

The destroyer had been sent for the King. A barefoot Arab had piloted the ship to anchorage. Col. William A. Eddy, American Minister to Saudi Arabia, was a member of the King's party.

Ibn Saud met Mr. Churchill at a desert oasis fifty miles from the pyramids and the conference conformed to all the most ancient and inflexible precepts of Arab ritual.

Ibn Saud and his two sons and his brother, all princes, were waiting beside Lake Fayoum when the Prime Minister's car arrived. The King wore the red and gold robes he uses only for important ceremonial occasions. Glittering bands of gold encircled his headdress.

Churchill Gets Gold Sword.

After the exchange of greetings, the King and Mr. Churchill went to the former's quarters. Foreign Secretary Eden and one interpreter accompanied them. They were closeted more than an hour before lunch, which was served overlooking the lake. The meal was Arab style, with a single dish, "Kabab."

Then came the part of the meeting which plays the paramount role in the Arab world. The two conferees exchanged gifts. Ibn Saud's servants approached the Prime Minister one by one, bearing packages. The first was a golden sword, incrusted with jewels, and a matching dagger. Another servant presented a similar gift ta Mr. Eden. Other bearers placed before Churchill Arab ceremonial robes in a heavy leather case.

Mr. Churchill told an interpreter:

"Tell the King I shall always remember these, not only because of the magnificent workmanship, but also as a delightful memory of our meeting."

There was a moment of expectancy, and then his gifts to Ibn Saud were brought forward. They consisted of two large and elegantly built boxes. The King's face plainly showed a pleased curiosity as he opened them. Each contained six bottles of perfume—concentrated essences of amber, musk, mimosa, jasmine and others.

CAIRO, Feb. 20 (AP).—As Prime Minister Churchill departed from his conference with King Ibn Saud of Arabia, the British leader was heard to remark to Lord Moran, his physician: "What wonderful vitality, Charles, for one getting on for seventy." Ibn Saud is sixty-five.

Lord Moran replied in a murmur to the seventy-year-old Prime Minister: "You're not so bad, yourself."

princes after the Crimea conference came out in part today.

The White House made public some details of his trips through Egypt and Algeria, and how Mr. Roosevelt is adding, by plane, motor and ship some 14,000 miles to his stupendous travel.

Alexandria Pledge

The fresh British pledge for fullest participation against Japan was given to the President by the Prime Minister at Alexandria. The White House narration said that "new and important" discussions of the Pacific situation were conducted there, topics that had to be passed over at the Big Three meeting because of Russia's nonaggression pact with Japan.

The account told of an invitation to General de Gaulle to meet with the President at Algiers. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to discuss questions of "mutual interest and importance" to France and the United States. The French leader, supposedly miffed at being barred from the Big Three conferences, declined and the President said he was "most disappointed."

Mr. Roosevelt did not go to Rome and Paris, as had been indicated in some foreign quarters. Instead, he went by motor to Sevastopol, bombed-out Crimean port across the tip of the Crimean peninsula from Yalta; flew to Egypt for conferences aboard a warship in the Suez Canal with King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and then started home via Algiers, his last stopping place.

No dates were given in the official summary for security reasons. Reporters were asked not to speculate on the President's whereabouts or when he may arrive home. The summary, however, indicated the President took about six days to get to Algiers after leaving Yalta, where the Big Three meeting concluded February 11.

In Blunt Words

Of the Churchill meeting, the statement said:

"Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words that his Government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany had been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

The announcement confirmed officially for the first time reports from abroad that de Gaulle, head of the French provisional Government, and the President could not arrange a meeting.

The American Ambassador, Jefferson Caffery, presented the President's invitation for the Algiers meeting to de Gaulle six days before Mr. Roosevelt's arrival in the Algerian city.

"Warm Thanks . . . Real Hope"

"In his message," the announcement said, "the President told the general he hoped very much to meet him in continental France, but that time pressure made it impossible to get to Paris much as he would like to do so.

"He again expressed warm thanks for the invitattion the Government of France extended him when he was in Quebec attending the last conference there.

"As dispatched from Yalta, the President's invitation concluded with an expression of real hope that the alternative proposal for a meeting in Algiers would be satisfactory to the French leader.

"The President was most disappointed when advised that official business did not permit the general to come to Algiers."

By Air To Egypt

The President and his party left by motor from the Livadia Palace, Black Sea home of the czars where he lived during the Big Three meeting, and traveled over mountain roads to Sevastopol.

There, he saw the "stark destruction" of the besieged city almost leveled "except for walls of homes and buildings . . . left standing like billboards, mute testimony of horrorful, wanton Nazi vengeance."

So complete was the destruction the President lacked words to describe it.

Before daylight the next day he motored to an airfield where Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia and a guard of honor bade him farewell. American Army Air Transport planes took the party to Egypt, over snow-capped mountains of the Crimea and desert sands of the Nile in five and a half hours.

Hope Of Trade Expressed

The President stopped within a few minutes' air reach of Cairo. His first caller was King Farouk. He was received aboard a United States warship at anchor in Great Bittler Lake through which the Suez Canal passes. The conference began before noon and continued through luncheon.

The President referred to large American wartime purchases of Egyptian long staple cotton and expressed the hope of a greater two-way future trade.

The Ethiopian Emperor and members of his staff were received the same afternoon. Talking in French, Mr. Roosevelt was described as having stressed the need for increased air communication between the United States and Ethiopia.

"Unprecedented Honor"

The next afternoon was given over to the "colorful and impressive" reception of King Ibn Saud, who had traveled on the American destroyer from Jidda, Saudi Arabia. The fact that it was his first foreign journey was said by members of his party to be "an unprecedented honor for the visiting Chief Executive of the United States."

Parleys With Churchill

[A dispatch from London stated that Prime Minister Churchill conferred with the rulers of Egypt, Ethopia, Saudi Arabia and the Syrian Republic en route home from Yalta, and there were rumors one topic might have been formation of a single Arab state and a separate Jewish state comprising most of Palestine. There was no official hint of the nature of his discussions with these leaders, however.]

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have conferred anew on strategy for crushing Japan in the Pacific, where Russia officially continues her role as a "neutral power."

The latest Roosevelt-Churchill meeting took place in Alexandria, Egypt, after the conclusion February 11 of the historic Big Three Conference at Yalta, Crimea, on the Black Sea.

But another meeting planned by Mr. Roosevelt during his trip to see Churchill and Marshal Stalin did not come off—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of the Provisional Government of France, reported that official business would not permit him to meet the President at Algiers, French North Africa.

Questions Of Importance

In his first official comment on de Gaulle's rejection of his invitation, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Questions of mutual interest and importance to France and the United States are pending. I wanted very much to see the general before leaving for home."

The whole dramatic story of the President's journey through the Middle East after the eight-day Yalta conference was told today in a lengthy dispatch released by the White House.

Aboard a United States man-of-war in Great Bitter Lake in the Suez Canal, Mr. Roosevelt received three rulers of Eastern countries—King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Alexandria lasted less than four hours. The official statement said this meeting "permitted new and important discussions of at least one subject which they could not take up before. That had to do with Japan and the war in the Pacific, where Soviet Russia is a neutral power."

Churchill, the White House account said, told Mr. Roosevelt "in blunt words that his Government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

Russia's Role In Pacific

Russia's future role in the Pacific has been a subject of speculation since the United Nations conference was set for San Francisco on April 25. That date is the last for Moscow to give Japan official notice if Russia wishes to denounce her non-aggression pact with Tokyo. Otherwise, the treaty renews itself for five years.

Algiers was described as the President's last stopping place abroad before leaving for Washington.

The White House announcement said Secretary of State Stettinius, en route from Moscow to make official calls in Liberia, Southwest Africa, Brazil and then to the Inter-American conference in Mexico City, was waiting to see the President in Alexandria where he reported on meetings with Foreign Commissar Molotov in Moscow. The conferences were described as "altogether satisfactory."

Winant In Middle East

Ambassador John G. Winant also met the President in the Middle East, traveling by air from London.

Two more Ambassadors, Jefferson Caffery, from Paris, and Alexander Kirk from Rome, were met by the President in Algiers.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have brought the three Ambassadors up to date on all that took place in the Crimea conference as well as to advise them fully regarding his meetings with the rulers of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Ethiopia.

Newsmen were cautioned not to speculate on the whereabouts of the President at this time. It was stated, however, that when the President reaches the White House he will have traveled about 14,000 miles, more than halfway around the world.

In Reach Of White House

At no time during his journey, the statement said, was he beyond almost instantaneous reach of the White House or Washington officials.

The invitation to de Gaulle was said to have been given the general in Paris by Ambassador Caffery. It had been sent from Yalta, six days in advance of the President's arrival in Algiers.

In the message, Mr. Roosevelt said he had hoped to meet de Gaulle in continental France but that "time pressure made it impossible to get to Paris, much as he would like to do so."

The President also expressed "warm thanks" for the invitation the Government of France extended him when he was in Quebec, attending the last conference there.

Alternative Proposal

Mr. Roosevelt's invitation concluded with "an expression of real hope that the alternative proposal for a meeting in Algiers would be satisfactory to the French leader."

"The President was most disappointed that official business did not permit the general to come to Algiers," the statement added.

At Sevastopol, the statement said, Mr. Roosevelt saw "scenes of stark destruction by the Germans" and lacked words to describe adequately such devastation.

"Only six buildings out of thousands," it added, were left in useful condition when the Nazis fled.

Farewell From Molotov

In the dark hours of the next morning, the President motored to an airfield where Molotov and a guard of honor bade him farewell.

Airplanes of the United States Air Transport Command flew him south to Egypt in five and one half hours, transporting the Chief Executive from a climate of snow-capped mountains of the Crimea to the sands and tropical scenery of the Nile delta. Cairo, where the President and Churchill met in December, 1943, and traveled together to meet Stalin in Tehran was within a few minutes "air reach" of his stopping place on this visit.

Mr. Roosevelt received King Farouk shortly before noon aboard the man-of-war. Guests included Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff; Mrs. John Boettiger, the President's daughter, and Harry Hopkins, his special assistant. Haile Selassie was received later in the afternoon.

Talk With Selassie

In his talk with Selassie, the President was said to have stressed communications between the United States and Ethiopia—particularly by air. The two countries would come to know each other better. The Emperor, the White House said, enthusiastically indorsed the President's hope for closer relations.

In conversations with the Egyptian King, Mr. Roosevelt referred to large American purchases of long-staple Egyptian cotton during the war. The White House said he "stressed the hope that greatly increased exchange of other commodities would be developed in the future."

It continued: "Tourist travel to Egypt, the President said, was certain to become greater after the war than before. He predicted thousands of Americans would visit Egypt and the Nile region after the war by ship and air."

King's First Trip

King Ibn Saud traveled more than 800 miles from Jidda on the Red Sea to meet the President. The White House said it was the first time in his life he had left his country's soil—a fact interpreted by members of his party as "in precedented honor" for the President.

A destroyer was put at the King's disposal for the trip. It was reported to be the first warship in history to enter the port of Jidda as well as the first American vessel of its kind to pass through the Suez Canal during this war.

"The destroyer decks," the White House statement said, "were covered with rich oriental rugs, while gilded chairs gave added touches of unusual splendor as, also, did the flowing robes and accessories that make the Arabian dress so strikingly picturesque."

The King preferred to live out-of-doors, although a cabin was prepared for him. A tent was set up on the forecastle deck, and the White House said "he lived in it as if he were making a pilgrimage somewhere in the vast desert regions of Arabia."

Ibn Saud's party numbered 48, including his brother and sons and several of his Cabinet Ministers. The American Minister, Col. William A. Eddy, Marine Corps (retired), also accompanied the King.

[A dispatch from Cairo said that Ibn Saud's party brought all its own food, which was cooked on braziers on the ship's deck. Live sheep were kept in an improvised pen on the destroyer's stern.

Mr. Roosevelt received the royal visitors while sitting on the forward gun deck. The crew manned the rails. Bugle calls sounded. Shrill notes of the boatswain's pipe "kept all hands standing rigidly at attention."

The discussions were described as being in line with the President's desire that heads of governments throughout the world "should get together whenever possible to talk as friends and exchange views in order to better understand the problems of one another."

FDR Receives Promise from Churchill During Near-East Parley.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — (AP) President Roosevelt, during a dramatic near-east Odyssey, has obtained from Prime Minister Churchill a new promise to "throw everything" at the Japanese after Germany's defeat. He also got a snub from General Charles de Gaulle.

The story of the President's meetings with premiers, kings and princes after the Crimea conference came out in part today.

Details of Trip Revealed

The White House made public some details of his trips through Egypt and Algeria, and how Mr. Roosevelt is adding, by plane, motor and ship some 14,000 miles of his stupendous travel.

The fresh British pledge for fullest participation against Japan was given to the President by the Prime Minister at Alexandria. The White House narration said that "new and important" discussions of the Pacific situation were conducted there, topics that had to be passed over at the Big Three meeting because of Russia's non-aggression pact with Japan.

The account told of an invitation to General deGaulle to meet with the President at Algiers. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to discuss questions of "mutual interest and importance" to France and the United States. The French leader, supposedly miffed at being barred from the Big Three conferences, declined and the President said he was "most disappointed."

One of those who did accept a Roosevelt invitation, however, was King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, leaving his country for the first time in his life, the king went sailing to the conference in the Suez canal aboard an American destroyer luxuriously bedecked with oriental carpets and gilded chairs. The king slept in a tent on deck and his party brought its own food, including live sheep.

Mr. Roosevelt did not go to Rome and Paris, as had been indicated in some foreign quarters. Instead, he went by motor to Sevastopol, bombed out Crimean port across the tip of the Crimean peninsula from Yalta; flew to Egypt for conferences aboard a warship in the Suez canal with King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, and King Ibn Saud and then started home via Algiers, his last stopping place.

No Dates Given

No dates were given in the official summary for security reasons. Reporters were asked not to speculate on the President's whereabouts or when he may arrive home. The summary, however, indicated the President took about six days to get to Algiers after leaving Yalta, where the Big Three meeting concluded February 11.

Of the Churchill meeting, the statement said:

"Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words that his government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

The announcement confirmed officially for the first time reports from abroad that deGaulle, head of the French provisional government, and the President could not arrange a meeting.

standing like billboards, mute testimony of horrorful, wanton Nazi vengeance. The President said he lacked words to describe adequately such devastation. Out of thousands of buildings, he was told, only six were left in useful condition when the Germans fled,

Farouk the First Caller

In the dark hours of the next morning the President continued his trip by motor to an airfield where Foreign Commissar Molotov and a guard of honor were present to bid him farewell. There, airplanes of the United States Air Transport Command were waiting to take him south to Egypt, a distance of about five and a half hours flying time. Measured by climates, however, the interval spelled the difference between snow-capped mountains of the Crimea and the desert sands and the tropical scenery of the fertile Nile delta. Cairo, where the President and Churchill met in December, 1943, and traveled together to meet Marshal Stalin in Tehran, was within a few minutes air reach of his stopping place on this visit.

On his previous visit, however, the President went to see King Farouk, who was in a hospital recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. This time, however, his majesty was the President's first caller. He was received aboard a United States man-of-war at anchor in Great Bitter Lake, through which the Suez Canal passes. The President was on deck to greet the King when he arrived shortly before noon. As soon as the formalities of the meeting were over, the two were deep in earnest discussions of many questions affecting American-Egyptian relationships. These continued through luncheon. Guests included United States Minister S. Pinkney Tuck; Hassanein Pasha, Chamberlain of the Royal Household; Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff; Mrs. John Boettiger, the President's daughter, and Harry Hopkins, special assistant to the President.

Haile Selassie I, Emperor of Ethiopia, and the members of his staff were received later in the afternoon. He was accompanied by United States Minister J. K. Caldwell; Ras Kassa, President of the Crown Council; Ato Aklilou Habte Wold, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs; Ato Yilma Deressa, Vice-Minister of Finance, together with other advisers. The President conversed in French.

In talking with the Emperor, the President stressed communications between the United States and Ethiopia and said he hoped, with improvements of communications, particularly by air, the two countries would come to know each other better. The Emperor told the President of the many improvements recently made in Abyssinia and enthusiastically indorsed the President's hope for closer relations.

Grateful for Legation Gift

The President took advantage of the opportunity to thank the Emperor in person for the site and buildings he and the Empress gave the United States to use as a legation in Addis Ababa.

In his conversations earlier in the day with King Farouk, the President referred to the purchase by the United States of large quantities of long-staple Egyptian cotton during the precedented honor for the visiting Chief Executive of the United States.

The occasion, however, was notable in many other ways. A destroyer had been put at the King's disposal for the trip, and it was said to be the first warship in history to enter the Port of Jidda, as well as the first United States vessel of its kind to pass through the Suez Canal during World War II. The destroyer decks were covered with rich Oriental rugs, while gilded chairs gave added touches of unusual splendor, as, also, did the flowing robes and accessories that make the Arabian dress so strikingly picturesque.

Tent Set Up for King

While a cabin was prepared for the King aboard his ship, he preferred to live out of doors. A tent, therefore, was set up on the forecastle deck and he lived in it as if he were making a pilgrimage somewhere in the vast desert regions of Arabia. The King's entourage numbered forty-eight, comprising his brother, Emir Abdullah, Emir Mohammed and Emir Mansour, sons of the King; Sheik Abdullah Es[illegible]man, Minister of Finan[illegible]heik Yussuf Yassin, Deputy Foreign Minister; Sheik Hafiz Wahba, Minister to London, and others.

Colonel William A. Eddy, Marine Corps, retired, now serving as American Minister to Saudi Arabia, also accompanied the King.

The President, seated on the forward gun deck of his ship, received the royal visitors as the crew manned the rails, bugle calls sounded, and the shrill notes of the boatswain's pipe kept all hands standing rigidly at attention.

The President and the King continued their talks long after the luncheon hour.

The discussions were in line with the President's desire that heads of governments throughout the world should get together whenever possible to talk as friends and exchange views in order to better understand the problems of one another.

Another conference between the President and Prime Minister Churchill was held at Alexandria. Although it lasted less than four hours—a brief affair when compared to the eight days they spent together with Marshal Stalin in the Crimea—the meeting in Egypt permitted new and important discussions of at least one subject which they could not take up before. That had to do with Japan and the war in the Pacific where Soviet Russia is a neutral power.

British Blow in Pacific

Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words that his government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict.

Secretary Stettinius, en route from Moscow to make official calls in Liberia, southwest Africa, Brazil and thence to the Inter-American Conference in Mexico City, was waiting to see the President when he reached Alexandria. The secretary reported on the meetings he held in Moscow with Foreign Commissar Molotov. He told the President they had been altogether satisfactory and that he had thoroughly enjoyed his visit to the Russian capital.

Ambassador Winant had been invited to join the President's party and had come by air from London. He and the President spent hours together during the several days he remained with the party.

Two more ambassadors, Jefferson Caffery from Paris and Alexander Kirk from Rome, were found waiting in the French city of Algiers, the last stopping place on the road to Washington. They had been given advance notice of the President's coming and, in that way, it was made possible for him personally to bring the three ambassadors up to date on all that took place in the Crimea Conference as well as to advise them fully regarding his meetings with the rulers of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Abyssinia.

When the President reaches Washington he will have traveled approximately 14,000 miles—more than halfway around the world. At no time during his journeys, however, was he beyond almost instantaneous reach of the White House or other officials in Washington. This was made possible by communications facilities provided and operated by the Army and Navy. The volume of traffic, incoming and outgoing, remained continuously heavy but was moved with surprising speed and accuracy—without interruption or delay. Mail moved according to regularly planned schedules to and from the White House. And so it was possible for the President to keep pace with the demands of his office at home on the one hand and to attend to conference work on the other.

General de Gaulle, as President of the Provisional Government of France, was invited by President Roosevelt to meet with him in Algiers. The invitation was given the general in Paris by Ambassador Caffery and had been sent from Yalta, Crimea, six days in advance of his arrival in Algiers. In his message the President told the general he had hoped very much to meet him in continental France but that time pressure made it impossible to get to Paris, much as he would like to do so. He again expressed warm thanks for the invitation the government of France extended him when he was in Quebec attending the last conference there.

As dispatched from Yalta, the President's invitation concluded with an expression of real hope that the alternative proposal for a meeting in Algiers would be satisfactory to the French leader. The President was most disappointed when advised that official business did not permit the general to come to Algiers.

"Questions of mutual interest to France and the United States are pending," the President said. "I wanted very much to see the general before leaving for home."

White House Report on Roosevelt's Travels After Yalta Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP).—The text of a White House announcement reporting on President Roosevelt's movements following the Yalta conference:

The President with members of his immediate party left Livadia in the afternoon motoring over mountain roads along the Black Sea to Sevastopol where they spent the night aboard a United States Navy auxiliary ship. The route took the party over a battlefield nearly a century old where the historic Light Brigade made its famous charge in the Crimean War of 1854-'56. For many miles the roadway led through territory bitterly contested by Russian and German armies in the recent Crimean campaigns.

At Sevastopol the President saw scenes of stark destruction by the Germans. The city was virtually leveled to the ground except for walls of homes and buildings which mines, bombs and guns in recent battles left

Yalta Data Are Sought By France

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—The French Government announced officialy tonight it was actively pursuing an exchange of views on the Big Three Crimean conference despite the inability of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and President Roosevelt to hold a meeting.

30.24 · 23163

Spokesmen for the Foreign Office also declared France definitely intends to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25.

The reports came as the French public heard for the first time of de Gaulle's refusal to meet the President at Algiers.

Cabinet Split Over Meeting

In one of the first published accounts of the incident, the newspaper Combat said Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and some other ministers wanted de Gaulle to forget national pride and meet with Roosevelt despite the latter's failure to come to France, but the head of the Government was sustained in his refusal by a majority of the Cabinet. There was no denial that the situation stemmed from France's disappointment at being left out of the Big Three meeting at Yalta.

United States Ambassador Caffery returned to Paris tonight after conferring with the President in Algiers, but said he had no immediate comment on the conference.

To Bide Time Over "Rebuff"

Government sources conceded that although France was not likely to forget what many considered a rebuff by Roosevelt in stopping at Algiers and bidding the chief of the French Government to meet him on what is actually French soil, the incident probably will not provoke a serious breach with the United States because France is well aware of its dependence on help from outside. However, the matter may be recalled at some future time when the circumstances are different, they say.

It was considered certain that the President originally had intended to visit France because the American Army made elaborate preparations for his stay. That which impelled him to decide against coming here was not known here, however.

A communiqué issued tonight, giving the official account of the invitation to de Gaulle and its rejection, said that on February 12 Caffery gave de Gaulle a message from Roosevelt expressing regret that he could not come to Paris as he had been invited to do last November and inviting de Gaulle to meet him in Algiers at a date to be set later.

De Gaulle, it said, told Caffery that the invitation from the President "came unexpectedly at a moment when many pressing affairs demanded his presence in Paris" and followed the Crimean conference "on whose objectives she (France) still was without information."

"General de Gaulle asked the Ambassador to assure President Roosevelt that he still hoped to see him come to Paris, where the Government and the whole population would be at any time extremely happy to see him," the communiqué continued.

"It is well known that since that date the French Government and services have worked actively in the necessary exchange of views between France and the Allied governments on the subject of conclusions of the Yalta conference."

Indo-China Bases Opposed

[Authoritative French quarters in London indicated that France would insist on an equal share in the occupation of Austria and gave the impression that France would not let the United States have bases in French Indo-China after the war. The French policy, however, appeared to be that they would not object to international bases in Indo-China for use by vessels of United States or any other United Nations which happened to get in trouble in that area.]

French Foreign Office officials said they expected British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to arrive within a few days for talks with de Gaulle on the Crimean decisions. This implied that all plans for a Roosevelt-de Gaulle meeting now had been abandoned.

Eden might be empowered to speak on behalf of all three great powers, obviating the need for separate replies from Britain, Russia and the United States, officials said.

De Gaulle Criticized, Upheld

De Gaulle's refusal to meet Roosevelt was both defended and criticized in the French press.

Without mentioning names, Aurore asserted that France still was a great power, but asked: "Should we not be all the more careful to avoid manifestations of bad moods, which are never manifestations of force?"

This newspaper said that France's alliance with Russia was a diplomatic masterstroke and added: "We should not think because of this that henceforth we can do as we wish toward our other great allies. They will need us. But we will still need them."

Referring to the short notice received by de Gaulle, the semi-official evening newspaper Le Monde said it would have been impossible for the French leader to have met Roosevelt "without preparation and without the assistance of indispensable specialists."

France's position — that she would not subscribe to decisions unless she had an equal voice in framing them—was made known to the three powers well in advance of the Crimean conference, Le Monde declared.

France Plans Part In Frisco Meet

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—France definitely intends to participate in the San Francisco conference on world security, and there never has been any question of her refusing a place at the United Nations table, Quai d'Orsay officials said today.

The French, however, are with holding acceptance pending a complete study of all possible angles of the full report on decisions made by the Big Three, particularly concerning occupation of Germany zones of occupation and practical operation of the European charter.

Information Requested

Moscow, Washington and London have been asked to supply such information, and then the Cabinet formally will vote France's acceptance, it was said.

French officials added that they expected British Foreign Secretary Eden in a few days for discussions with General de Gaulle on the Yalta decisions, thus implying that all plans for a Roosevelt-de Gaulle meeting now had been abandoned.

Eden might be empowered to speak on behalf of all three great powers, these quarters said.

De Gaulle Snubbed Bid

Earlier, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault confirmed that de Gaulle had refused an invitation to meet President Roosevelt in North Africa.

Bidault told members of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Consultative Assembly that faithful to his policies, de Gaulle found himself unable to accept the invitation." Members said they got the impression that Roosevelt had declined to come to Paris and that this caused de Gaulle's refusal.

Wide sections of French officialdom were critical of de Gaulle's action.

Press Is Critical

The newspaper Combat reported that the French Foreign Ministry had protested to the United States Embassy against unilateral publication of the rejected invitation, implying that the news had leaked out from the American side.

Without naming names, the newspaper Aurore criticized de Gaulle for allowing a "bad mood" to jeopardize France's international position.

FRENCH AMERICAN TENSION MOUNTS

Paris Is Told No Secret Pacts Were Made At Yalta

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—France has sought and received assurances from the United States that no secret agreements were made by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin at Yalta for the government of liberated countries of Europe.

This was learned tonight as officials here studied the effects of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's rejection of President Roosevelt's invitation to a meeting in Algiers. The general conclusion was that French-American relations are on the downgrade and may continue that way for some time.

A principal contributing cause is the suffering of the French people, due to hunger and cold. Officials here say that although the United States is getting the blame for lack of food and clothing in France, the shortages are the inevitable result of tight shipping and other war conditions.

Information Supplied

As for the Crimean communiqué, the State Department said the French had asked for clarification and the information requested had been furnished. The French request was received here Saturday and a reply went out yesterday.

The French wanted to know what the Big Three had concluded about how liberated territories should be ruled; whether trusteeships were contemplated, whether special arrangements had been made for solving the known or expected problems of those territories. In effect, they wanted to know whether the Big Three had made some decisions about liberated Europe which they had decided to keep secret.

No Secret Agreements

The American reply stressed that no secret agreements had been made and that in fact the Big Three believe that problems of liberated territories can best be settled as they arise.

The second major point the French raised was what channels would be used for exchanging information among the great powers on the liberated areas. They were told that regular diplomatic channels would be used.

The Paris Government was understood to be worried that the policy for liberated territories would be settled by the Anglo-American-Soviet foreign ministers in their proposed periodic meetings and that France, if she agreed to help administer the affairs of disturbed countries of Europe, would have no voice in determining that policy.

Officials here believe that the failure of the Big Three to include the French in plans for the foreign ministers' meeting is at the moment the focal point for French criticism of the Crimean agreements.

The White House, in issuing an official dispatch today on Mr. Roosevelt's recent travels, laid the responsibility for the lack of a Roosevelt-de Gaulle meeting directly on the President of the French provisional Government.

Later the French Embassy said the French people were very much disappointed and that Mr. Roosevelt's visit to France was still expected and eagerly desired at the time of the Algiers invitation.

"The best welcome would have been given the President," the statement said.

As for clarification of the Yalta discussions requested by the French Government, the embassy said it is only natural that before approving several of the decisions made here, the French Government desires to know their significance.

The official account made these points: Six days before he expected to be in Algiers, Mr. Roosevelt invited de Gaulle to meet him there and expressed regret that time would not allow him to visit continental France. De Gaulle replied that official business would not permit him to visit Algiers. The President was "most disappointed," the dispatch released by the White House said.

Regarded As Distressing

The incident is regarded as distressing in itself because of the uncordial attitude it reflects between the two leaders but even more importantly it is symptomatic of a condition stemming from several basic troubles involved in the relations of the two countries.

American handling of de Gaulle at times has been somewhat rough, many officials here are ready to admit. Some of the President's own advisers have counseled a more generous treatment of the French by the United States.

Agents Testify In Looting Trial

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—Major Walter H. Marlin, former commander of the 716th United States Army Railway Operating Battalion, who is charged with neglect of duty, heard army undercover agents testify today that looting and black-market operations were so widespread in his outfit that the men themselves called it "the million-dollar battalion."

One agent, Robert P. O'Reilly, told the court-martial that men of the battalion assured him they could make big money by looting supply trains and selling cigarettes, chocolate, coffee and other items to the French black market.

O'Reilly asserted that many of the men flashed large sums of money, particularly in poker games.

"Why Not?"

Under crossexamination the agent acknowledged that he did not report the conditions to the battalion commander or disclose to Marlin the true purpose of his presence in the battalion.

"Why not?" insisted defense counsel, Maj. Joseph D. Bryan, of Birmingham, Ala., "Isn't it customary to report to the commanding officer?"

"Yes, when one or two individuals are involved," O'Reilly replied, "but not when a whole battalion is involved."

Another agent testified he saw poker games among men of the battalion in which as much as 100,000 francs ($2,000) was on the table.

MP Didn't Interfere

More than 100 enlisted men and two officers who were under Marlin's command when military police raided the battalion in November have since been sentenced to terms ranging from three to 50 years.

Several enlisted men testified today that loot from Army trains was sold openly in the street in front of the barracks, with as many as 100 French civilians at a time bartering with soldiers for cartons of cigarettes and boxes of chocolate bars. They said no officer intervened and that an MP posted nearby did not interfere.

Crew Repulses Looters

Private Edward C. Kelley testified that on one occasion about 25 soldiers boarded a train on which he was a crew member and threw off cases of post-exchange rations. He said Marlin and other officers were within sight "but did nothing" and that the train crew finally drove off the looters.

Other enlisted men testified they heard Marlin tell a group of his battalion men to help themselves to rations off the trains since "they won't issue us anything."

to 50 years for looting or for selling supplies in the French black market.

Three enlisted men testified Marlin had addressed some 100 men at Dreux last September 15 on the problem of keeping supply trains moving. Answering complaints of the men that they were not properly fed Marlin told them to take what they needed from the trains, the witnesses said.

Pfc. Paul J. Tiedt said his impression of the talk was that the men should "take what we needed, meaning what we needed for our own use."

'Take Your Needs' Okay Laid To Major

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—A witness testified today before a court-martial that Major Walter H. Marlin, of Oakland, Cal., commander of the United States 716th Railway Operating Battalion, had told some of his men to help themselves to rations from supply trains they operated, but that he obviously had intended such rations to be taken only for the men's personal needs.

Marlin is on trial on a charge of neglect of duty in failing to prevent the pilfering of supplies from trains en route to the front. More than 100 men in his battalion have been sentenced to terms ranging from 3

Mortars Quiet Nazi Broadcast

Rome, Feb. 20 (AP)—Concentrated mortar fire broke up a German loud-speaker propaganda broadcast on the 8th Army front in Italy today while 5th Army units improved their positions somewhat in the western coastal area.

Ground activity in Italy was confined to patrol actions. Eighth Army troops repulsed a wild, small-scale attack along the Senio River near Fusignano.

Shouted commands of a German officer tipped off the operation, and the Germans fired mortar shells at Allied positions even after the attack began. The Germans had split into three groups in an attempt to hit the Allied position from the rear and the sides. Another determined attack near Cotignola, 7 miles northeast of Faenza, likewise was beaten off.

Positions Involved

The improvement of 5th Army positions was made in the mountainous area west of Monte Belvedere, where the troops met enemy mortar and machine-gun fire.

A brisk fight developed north of Monte Grande and one 5th Army patrol was attacked by a strong enemy force west of that area. Enemy artillery fire along the 5th Army's left flank was described as slight, while scattered artillery and mortar fire was encountered along the right flank. In the center enemy patrols raided 5th Army outposts near Monte Belmonte and Piazzano.

Twelve United States heavy bombers were lost during yesterday's strong attacks on communications targets in Austria and harbor installations at the Adriatic ports of Pola and Fiume. Most of the attacks in Austria centered in the Vienna area and two airdromes near the Austrian capital were strafed.

Mortars Silence Nazi Loudspeaker In Italy

Rome, Feb. 20 (AP)—A German loud-speaker propaganda broadcast and concentrated mortar fire which stifled it relieved monotony on the static 8th Army front today. Activity in Italy otherwise was confined to patrols in which the 5th Army imroved its position somewhat in the Tyrrhenian coastal area.

Eighth Army troops also were engaged in a skirmish on the Senio River near Fusignano with one German.

The German ducked behind a wall of a house which was promptly knocked down by bazooka fire. A search disclosed only a cap and blood-stained rifle in the rubble.

An attack near Cotignola was beaten off.

Paper Shortage Limits Rome Press

Rome, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—Because of the paper shortage the Italian Press Commission today reduced the newsprint allotment of all Rome dailies by 33 per cent, and revoked the permits of six or seven newspapers which began publication this year. The exception was made for Lavoro, organ of the Italian Federation of Labor.

ATHENS, Feb. 20 (AP).—Thirty-three accused collaborationists, including three Quisling Premiers, go on trial tomorrow on charges of aiding Italy and Germany during the occupation of Greece. Defense lawyers are expected to contest the competence of the court, possibly delaying the trial.

One of the accused premiers now is in Germany, and of the other defendants three are reported to be dead, five are outside Greece and two are in hiding here.

Ankara, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—Ralph McGill and Wilbur Forrest of the Free Press Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors are in Ankara for a four-day stay in Turkey. They will visit Istanbul.

From Turkey they hope to proceed to Russia, if they can get the visas which Secretary of State Stettinius especially requested for them.

Dean Carl J. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism, the third committee member, remained in Cairo, hospitalized with a sinus infection.

American Tanker Sunk In Gibraltar Strait

La Linea, Spain, Feb. 20 (AP)—Heavy storms in the Gibraltar Strait area caused the sinking of an American tanker yesterday and drove a Liberty ship aground off San Roque, Spain.

Salvage tugs are attempting to refloat the Liberty ship.

Say Ribbentrop Rows With Himmler

Berne, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—The Gazette de Lausanne said today in a frontier dispatch that Gestapo Chieftain Heinrich Himmler had taken over direction of the German Foreign Ministry following a serious dispute with Joachim von Ribbentrop.

SAY 9000 NAZIS WERE LOST ON SHIP

Stockholm, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—The Svenska Dagbladet, quoting information from Gdynia, said today that only 950 passengers out of at least 10,000 packed on the 25,000-ton German liner Wilhelm Gustloff had been rescued when the ship was torpedoed two hours after leaving Gdynia.

A Finnish radio broadcast Sunday said the liner was sunk while evacuating refugees and sailors from Danzig, a few miles below Gdynia. It placed the loss of life at 7,700.

Nazi Troops Reported Moved From Denmark

Stockholm, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Germans have weakened their garrison around the Danish capital of Copenhagen by withdrawing the 166th Infantry Division and the 233d Reserve Grenadier Regiment for the defense of Berlin, a Göteborg newspaper said today.

According to Norwegian informants the Germans have withdrawn 100,000 first class troops from Norway since last September, leaving twelve divisions in that country.

8 Freed U. S. Officers Entertained in Moscow

Escaped From Nazi Captors as Reds Drew Close

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 (AP).—Eight United States Army officers who escaped from German prison camps as the Red Army approached were enjoying Moscow's hospitality today. They went to the ballet and were guests at luncheon of Ambassador W. Averell Harriman at his residence, Spasso House.

The three officers who reached the capital yesterday after a long journey across Poland and Russia were joined today by five others, who said still more Americans were en route to Moscow. All escaped from their Nazi captors despite German attempts to move their prison camps before they were reached by the swift Red Army advance. A number of British and Canadian soldiers released from imprisonment by Soviet forces also were in the Moscow area or reported traveling eastward from Poland.

The five American officers who arrived today were Captain Frank Olevsky, of Camden, N. J.; Captain Eugene Witt, of Richland, Mich.; Lieutenant Bill Everett, of Sweetwater, Tex.; Lieutenant Alvin G. McCormick, of Livonia, N. Y., and Lieutenant James F. Schildt, 4720 Forty-first Street, Long Island City, N. Y.

5 More U.S. Officers, Freed, Reach Moscow

Moscow, Feb. 20 (AP)—Five more United States officers—liberated by the Red Army from German prison camps in Poland—joined three already in Moscow today and declared many others were on the way.

The five are: Capt. Frank Olevsky, Camden, N.J.; Capt. Eugene Witt, Richland, Mich.; First Lieutenant Bill Everett, Sweetwater, Texas; Second Lieutenant Alvin G. McCormick, Livonia, N.Y., and Second Lieutenant James F. Schildt, Long Island City, N.Y.

The swift Red Army advance freed many United States officers and men from Nazi prison camps despite German attempts to take prisoners from threatened areas.

Numbers of British and Canadian soldiers were also understood to have reached the Moscow area.

[In London, War Secretary Sir James Grigg said he had heard that 1,400 British Empire soldiers had been liberated, but that he had received nothing official from the Russian Government yet.]

The eight American officers now in Moscow were enjoying the city's hospitality. They went to the ballet, and were guests of Ambassador W. Averell Harriman at lunch in Spasso House today.

Freeing of the Americans was disclosed by Major-Gen. J. Russell Deane, chief of the U. S. Military Mission in Moscow, who said he had ordered an Army detachment to proceed to Lublin—where some of the liberated prisoners have assembled—to begin measures for their repatriation. Other groups of prisoners are known to be sheltered in Praga and farther west.

The total number of men freed was not estimated, but between 200 and 400 officers alone are reported among the Americans now in the care of the Poles and the Russians. Most of these gained their liberty in the confusion of the German evacuation of Stalag Oflag 64 at Szubin, near Bdygoscz.

Three Reach Moscow.

Three officers from the camp reached Moscow earlier after hitchhiking across Poland and part of Russia.

They are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, of 418 Central Park West, New York city, a medical officer attached to the 101st Airborne Division; Lieut. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the Seventeenth Field Artillery, and Lieut. John N. Demling Jr., 30, of Winston-Salem, N. C., a member of the Thirtieth Infantry. Capt. Gruenberg was captured in Normandy, Lieut. Colley in Tunisia and Lieut. Demling on the Anzio beachhead.

Lieut. Colley reported that among the Americans liberated by the Russian offensive was Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, captured in France shortly after the invasion. He added that Mr. Bryan had a minor foot injury and that the last time he had seen him the correspondent was in friendly Polish hands.

Freed Yanks Join Reds.

Capt. Gruenberg, an interne in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., before the war, said that many of the escaped Americans now are fighting alongside the Russians inside Germany, using borrowed weapons and a "grunt and point system" of sign language.

All of the liberated prisoners reaching Moscow said the Germans had provided only a starvation diet for Allied officers and men alike. They asserted a situation tantamount to mass murder would have resulted if Red Cross parcels had not implemented the diet.

Oflag 64 has yielded the largest group of former prisoners thus far. It was moved westward on January 21 but the next day Soviet tank spearheads almost cut off the transport column in which its personnel and prisoners were moving. The Germans then left American wounded behind and more than 100 from that camp also gained liberty at that time.

Hospital Patients Freed.

The German hospital for Allied wounded at Wollenstein on the German border was not evacuated and all patients were reported to be safely in Russian hands. A prison camp for Italian officers, also located at Wollenstein, was reported to have been taken intact.

Under terms of the Allied agreement for repatriation of war prisoners, United States transportation, largely aircraft, will enter Poland to bring out the liberated men.

"We probably will establish a camp where passage will be arranged for our people," Gen. Deane said. "United States officers will administer the camp at cost, just as the Red Army will run a similar camp in France."

Service Men Reported Freed From Nazis

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The names of 27 American prisoners of war, reported unofficially to have been liberated from German prison camps in Poland by Soviet forces, were released today by the War Department.

The men had previously been reported missing in action or prisoners of Germany and Italy.

The department said the release of the names was based on unofficial information received in a broadcast from the Polish Government in Lublin. Relatives will be advised promptly when official confirmation and further details are obtained.

BRITISH, CHINESE ADVANCE IN BURMA

CALCUTTA, Feb. 20—(AP) On six major battlefields in Burma, British and Chinese troops moved forward today in the general direction of Mandalay, a key city in the Japanese defense system of Burma.

In extreme northeast Burma Chinese troops of the First army battered their way to a position 32 miles from Lashio, driving a ragged enemy before them.

The British 36th division on the Chinese right flank suddenly came in for the most spectacular action of the day when they beat off a savage 18-hour counterattack in which the Japanese charged with infantry and flame-throwers.

One Japanese battalion was wiped out, and 350 Japanese lay dead on the British perimeter. The Japanese sacrificed scores of infantry by throwing fresh men into the battle in the closing stages without artillery support. Indian troops took the brunt of the attack, depending mostly on small arms fire.

On the Irrawaddy bridgehead west of Mandalay British artillery ferried across a mile and a half wide river and joined infantry in defending an ever-widening foothold 35 miles from Mandalay. Here British infantry which had been under extreme pressure since making their crossing a week ago received thundering support as big guns took up the battle.

Supplies continued to flow across the river to build up a base from which to launch a break-out, probably toward the back door of Mandalay.

Britons Gain Below Mandalay

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 20 (AP)—British 14th Army troops have expanded their bridgehead across the Irrawaddy river 35 miles below Mandalay in Burma despite Japanese counterattacks and artillery fire, Allied headquarters announced today.

Other units of this army made progress in the Singu bridgehead 40 miles north of Mandalay. These two British crossings to the left bank of the Irrawaddy rapidly were developing into pincers threat to Mandalay.

Approach Hsenwi

Chinese 1st Army troops in northern Burma were approaching Hsenwi, on the old Burma road 32 miles from the rail terminal at Lashio, the war bulletin said.

In western Burma British and Indian troops have linked up with West African units which moved down the Kaladan Valley. Japanese troops have been cleared from the Kangaw area east of Akyab, the communique said.

CHINESE FORCES ATTACK JAPS NEAR ICHANG

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20 — (AP)

30.24-23165

More than 500 Japanese troops have been killed in fighting west of the Canton-Hankow railroad near the Hunan-Kwantung border, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The announcement said Chinese forces attacked the Japanese 10 to 15 miles east of Ichang and about 105 miles south of Hengyang and that heavy fighting is continuing. Meanwhile, a Japanese attack 12 miles northeast of Ichang was repulsed, it added.

Reinforcements have been thrown in by both sides in the battle east of the railroad town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang, where the enemy is trying to disperse Chinese concentrations in order to safeguard their hold on the railroad.

Chinese Troops Kill 500 Japs

Chungking, Feb. 20 (AP)—Chinese troops counterattacking west of the Canton-Hankow railroad near the Hunan-Kwangtung border killed more than 500 Japanese in fierce fighting from 10 to 15 miles east of Ichang and about 105 miles south of Hengyang, the high command announced tonight.

While heavy fighting continued in the area, where the Japanese are attempting to regain a Chinese-held breach in the rail corridor, other Chinese repulsed an enemy attack 12 miles northeast of Ichang. Both sides have thrown reinforcements into the battle east of the railroad town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang.

Get U.S. Training

United States Army forces in China are engaged in the largest military education program of its kind in the world, designed to increase the combat efficiency of Chinese forces, headquarters of the Chinese training center in Yunnan province announced today.

All ranks of Chinese, from private to general, "will have the opportunity to learn modern American military methods and doctrines," the announcement said.

Six specialized training schools now are operating or are about to open under the directive of Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States China Theater commander. Col. John W. Middleton, of Broad Brook, Conn., and Chevy Chase, Md., a West Pointer with long experience in China, commands the center.

JAPS LOSE 92,000

IN LUZON DRIVE

Japs in Manila Treating Civilians with 'Greatest Savagery.'

MANILA, Wednesday, Feb. 21—(AP) Japanese casualties of more than 92,000 in the six weeks of the Luzon campaign were reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who said the compressed enemy garrison in South Manila was treating noncombatants "with the greatest savagery."

MacArthur listed American casualties for the six weeks at 12,929—2,676 killed, 245 missing and 10,008 wounded.

Fighting Still Bitter

These figures underscored the severity of the Manila fighting, which MacArthur said was still bitter. They showed an increase of 24,000 Japanese casualties and 3,246 American casualties in the last week alone.

Japs Trapped in Intramuros

Japanese cornered in the Intramuros (walled city), which American howitzers are pounding from close range, and its environs are being compressed into an area measuring 1,200 yards by 800.

The enemy, MacArthur declared, "is acting with the greatest savagery in his treatment of non-combatants and private property."

The Japanese commander in the Intramuros has not replied to an American offer to liberate the estimated 7,000 civilians inside in exchange for an honorable surrender.

Heavy howitzers, consequently, were wheeled across pontoon bridges spanning the Pasig and began shelling the thick outer wall from as close as 500 yards range to make way for tanks and infantrymen. Cutting an entrance-way through the medieval wall was a big job, however. The walls measure 40 feet thick at the base.

Yank artillery was firing into the Intramuros wall at a steady rate of a round per minute. The Americans have on call more than enough air power to pulverize everything and everybody inside, but are trying to save the civilians.

Arthur Feldman, of the Blue network, expressed belief "this may have been a futile gesture, for it is my opinion that the Japs already have killed the majority of civilians inside Intramuros."

Enemy Pockets Cleared

South of the Intramuros the Americans yesterday cleared enemy pockets on the university of Philippines campus in bitter close-quarter fighting and drove through to the wrecked high commissioner's former residence on the bay front.

On Corregidor the Japanese, using deep tunnels and intercommunicating defenses, were making the mopping up jobs as dirty and fierce as any Yanks have been forced to undertake on Luzon.

Medieval siege tactics with modern equipment were being employed on Corregidor as at the Intramuros. Both entrances to Corregidor's main tunnel have been blocked by explosives. Liquid fire and bombs were wiping out the few Japanese who managed from time to time to dash out of the few remaining crevices in Banzai charges.

The Americans on the fortress were looking amid the rubble for the ventilation vent. When this is found the remaining Japanese troops will be completey sealed in and possibly remain buried within the caverns from which MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright directed the last tragic battles of the enemy invasion in 1942.

General MacArthur reporting savage Japanese treatment of civilians and private property, said a survey of Manila showed that practically all private possessions of value were thoroughly looted during the period of enemy occupation and apparently shipped to Japan.

Southeast of Manila, on Laguna de Bay, 11th airborne troops fighting in cooperation with guerrillas surrounded an enemy force at Mabato point, MacArthur reported.

He said "our patrols are probing to the east on the Marikina river line." This is northeast of Manila in a sector where the Japanese are reported gathering strength.

American P-T boats patrolled Manila Bay and mine sweepers were active at the bay entrance.

Jap Casualties Over 92,000

MacArthur reported enemy casualties of more than 92,000 for the six weeks of the Luzon campaign, compared with American casualties of 2,676 killed, 245 missing and 10,008 wounded. This totals 12,929.

These figures showed an increase of 24,000 Japanese casualties and 3,246 American casualties in the last week alone.

Heavy and medium bombers, attacking Formosa "in force" under difficult flying conditions, attacked airdromes and industrial areas on the southeast coast.

Factory Buildings Hit

Takao airdrome runways were effectively cratered and numerous explosions were observed from hits in factory buildings and fuel storage areas.

Fighters hit the airdrome in low-level sweeps and destroyed 15 locomotives and 50 railcars.

Long-range patrol bombers sank a 1,000-ton freighter and damaged another in the China Sea off French Indo-China.

Eighty tons of bombs were dropped on Borneo airdromes.

BIG U. S. GUNS POUND DEFENSE OF MANILA FOE

Battering Thick Walls of Intramuros but With Little Effect.

Manila, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—American heavy Howitzers chipped away the thick outer walls of Manila's Intramuros (Walled City) today to clear the way for tanks and infantrymen determined to wipe out the last major Jap strongpoint in the capital and free 7,000 civilian hostages.

It was possible some of the civilians already had reached freedom by making heavy enemy fire to slip into the water-front area and escape in small boats.

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson reported that point blank fire by modern artillery is having little effect on the medieval wall.

"Not 500 yards from the wall," Mr. Hampson said, "an artillery battery is firing one round per minute. This is shooting gallery stuff for a field gun.

Just Nibbling a Hole.

"The great gray barrier gives off a spray of chips, dust, and rubble, but when the dust clears we can see the gun has bitten off only a small nibble.

"Little by little the hole widens and deepens but it will take many more rounds to widen it enough for tanks and troops to storm through and go about cleaning the Japanese out," he concluded.

The Thirty-seventh Division and elements of the First Cavalry were girding for a final assault on the spot in which the cornered Japs are determined to make a bloody final stand.

Mopping Up Fort.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing continued mopping up of Japs on Corregidor and Bataan also reported capture of Fort William McKinley in his communique today. Patrols entered the fort annex and occupied most of the old military area, but officers were hesitant to claim the complete capture of the fort until mopping up of the adjacent area is finished.

Gen. MacArthur announced the capture of Hagonoy and Tagig, on the northwest shore of Laguna de Bay, southeast of Manila, but there was increasing indication the Japs may be forming a defense line northeast of the capital. Some of the Manila defense garrison may have escaped in that direction. Gen. MacArthur reported patrol clashes in the area.

Japs Being Sealed In Corregidor

By James Hutcheson

With the 11th Corps on Corregidor, Feb. 19 [AP—Delayed]—The slow process of sealing Japanese troops into American-built tunnels of Corregidor with fire and explosives was underway today a few hours after desperately counter-attacking Japanese had been hurled back in bitter hand-to-hand fighting by United States paratroopers.

Twenty-fourth Division troops control every tunnel entrance, except the hospital lateral. The main tunnel entrance is covered by our machine guns atop the ridge which cuts across the neck of the rock.

The secondary tunnel, 100 feet northward, is three fourths sealed by dynamite blasts and blasting of other tunnels and caves is continuing.

Attack By Jap Force

Meanwhile, the 503d Paratroopers on the island's topside are licking their wounds after repulsing an attack at 3 A.M. today by a Japanese force which Col. George M. Jones estimated at 400.

The attack was launched after the enemy troops blasted their own ammunition dump with an explosion which shook the whole island. The startled men thought the Japanese navy had started shelling the island.

Then the enemy moved against paratroopers, penetrating to the battalion command post on the former parade grounds where the main paratroop landing was made three days ago.

Colonel Jones said, "The Japs swarmed all around. One company was badly mauled as the Japs swarmed from the caves. Today we are systematically blowing them up and sealing them in. They may be getting desperate for water."

Backs To Cliffs

Describing the bloody fighting this morning, Tech. Sergt. Willard J. Lantis, Indianapolis, Ind., said, "They caught us with our backs to the cliff. We ran out of ammunition and grenades. We took a beating until relief units arrived."

Pfc. Michael Olan, of Corona, Long Island, said: "We were in a bunker which we captured from the Japs yesterday out on a little peninsula when flares shot up, blinding us and highlighting us for the enemy."

The paratroop headquarters are in the sprawling wreckage of the old concrete coast artillery barracks, topside. Casualties on stretchers on the ground floor are steadily being evacuated.

Courage Lauded

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Hall, 11th Corps commander, visited Corregidor today, lauding the courage of the men and their brilliant seizure of the island's topside.

Red, white, green and blue parachutes still make a colorful spectacle amid the blasted buildings, scorched terrain and scenes of tragedy.

I was able to tour most of the American-held portion of the island today and was amazed that casualties were not heavier from the spectacular parachute drop on the 16th. Trees were blasted until virtually all stuck up like impaling sticks. Sharp, shattered sheet metal and rails and pipes were scattered about while the wrecked buildings added to the hazards of the treacherous air landing.

DESCRIBE RAPING OF FILIPINO GIRLS

Manila, Feb. 19 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Two noted Filipino physicians who escaped from the Philippine General Hospital after weeks of siege were forced to stand by while Jap soldiers raped many Filipino girls who had taken refuge there.

Dr. Antonio Sison, director of the hospital, and Dr. Januario R. Estrada, attended the sick, and shell wounded patients, during the siege.

Dr. Estrada described the raping by soldiers who took girls sleeping in the hallways into the storeroom while the refugees stood in silent anger listening to the victims' screams. The Jap soldiers often came into the crowded wards for girls, but mostly grabbed those who were forced to live in the hallways because there was no other room.

"The storeroom door used to open and shut throughout the night," she said

One girl escaped rape by grabbing an officer's pistol from his belt and begging him to shoot her instead, whereupon the Jap returned her to the ward.

PHILIPPINE SENATOR LOSES FAMILY TO JAPS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The killing of the wife and two daughters of Philippine senator Elpidio Quirino by Japanese Marines was told in a Manila broadcast as reported by the Office of War Information Tuesday.

The story was written by Filipe Buencamino, well known Filipino, for the Manila newspaper Free Philippines. He said the trapped Japanese in Manila have demonstrated a "bestiality reminiscent of the infamous rape of Nanking."

Buencamino wrote "the first man I saw amid the fire-leveled district of Paco was former Senator Elpidio Quirino (former presiding officer of the Philippine Senate.) He was not the same man I had seen so many times in the past banging his gavel in the rostrum of the Senate. Senator Quirino had aged in 10 days and his face had lost all expression. His wife and two daughters, Norma and Fe, had been killed by the Japanese. His son, Tommy, was injured and is now in a field hospital."

B-29S BAG 66 JAPS IN BIGGEST RAID

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 20 (A. P.).—Super-

fortresses making their biggest raid on Tokyo, knocked out sixty-six Jap planes yesterday and scored many direct hits in the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory, returning pilots reported today.

A Jap Imperial communique broadcast today claimed that twenty-one raiding B-29s were shot down and only four Nipponese interceptors lost.

Actually, said Major-Gen. Curtis Le May, commanding the Twenty-first Bomber Command, three Superforts were lost in the attack which cost the Japs twenty-one fighters definitely shot down, twenty probably destroyed and twenty-five damaged.

Big fires were reported left blazing in Tokyo by the attack, a quick follow-up of heavy carrier raids last Friday and Saturday.

Good bombing results were reported despite overcast.

Blood Flown From U.S. In Use Within 5 Days

Aboard the U.S.S. Solace, Navy Hospital Ship, Somewhere in the Pacific, Feb. 20 (AP)—Five days after it left the United States, whole blood donated by Californians was saving the lives of seriously wounded navy men brought aboard this ship.

In a space of 36 hours after the casualties were brought aboard, January 26, 25 pints of the human blood had been used, it was revealed by Capt. William W. Hall, of San Diego, Cal., senior medical officer. The blood was flown from San Francisco by the naval air transport service to the advance-base blood bank facility at Guam, and from there to the Solace.

Captain Hall said it was used only in extreme cases of blood loss. Blood plasma, of course, also was used extensively in treatment of the wounded, he reported.

Argentina Wants Nazis To Pay

Buenos Aires, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Government announced today that Germany would be required to pay for the loss of two Argentine ships torpedoed by submarines and for damage to another.

Germany also will be billed for the loss of cargoes plus judicial fees involved in the collection of damages. The Government also said Germany must indemnify Argentina for the cost of interning the crew of the pocket battleship Graf Spee, which the Germans sunk off Montevideo in 1941 after being put out of action by the British fleet.

HEMISPHERE PARLEY TODAY

Stettinius In Mexico City For Inter-American Talks

Mexico City, Feb. 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius brought a whirlwind of optimism today to the Inter-American Conference which he said he confidently expects to equal the success of the Big Three Crimean meeting.

The Secretary arrived aboard a four-motored transport at 3.05 P.M. He brought to the meeting of all the American nations except Argentina a strong link with United States-British-Russian plans for a peaceful world.

Brings Two Foreign Ministers

Stettinius already had started working toward success of the conference. On the plane with him were Foreign Ministers Pedro Leao Velloso of Brazil and Enrique Munoz Meany of Guatemala, completing the roster of delegation heads here.

The American Secretary of State issued a brief statement, in which he promised full United States support in the conference, opening tomorrow, for moves toward strengthening inter-American relations. He expressed pleasure at visiting Mexico and declared "the United States looks on Mexico as a good neighbor and as a strong upholder of the democratic tradition of this hemisphere."

Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla told the press that the Inter-American Conference would seek to extend the Crimean declaration to fit the Western Hemisphere.

Based On Rights Of Man

"The world security organization," he said, "should be based on the rights of man."

Padilla, who will be chairman of the meeting, assured that the Argentine question would be fully discussed. It was reliably ascertained that Bolivia, which has been considered sympathetic to the Argentine cause, will refrain from making any proposals on how to solve the exclusion of that country from the family of American nations.

jointly base recognition of any revolutionary government was reported developing today among some delegates to the Inter-American Conference.

The question of bringing up this touchy subject was expected to be one of the first to be handed to United States Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius when he arrives from Brazil this afternoon. A detailed agenda for the conference, opening tomorrow, is being drawn up.

D.C. Delegation Arrives

Fifty-one members of the American delegation arrived here this morning on a special train from Washington, virtually completing the United States representation.

The arrivals included Dr. Leo Pasvolsky, special assistant to Stettinius; Luther Johnson, secretary general of the Association of American Railroad Workers, and a number of top State Department officials.

Diplomats, who are anxious to take this opportunity to discuss authoritarian governments, a subject usually kept quietly in the background at formal Pan-American meetings, point to the cases of Argentina and El Salvador.

Mexican May Mention It

The conference grapevine indicates that Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla may touch off the issue in his opening speech.

Advocates of open discussion of the subject suggest that a formula requiring a constitutional election and co-operation in plans for hemispheric security as the basis for recognition could help solve the diplomatic quandry over Argentina.

Stassen Accepts Parley Post; Calls It 'Liability'

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Commander Harold E. Stassen said today he will accept President Roosevelt's assignment to the San Francisco United Nations Conference, even though he considers it a political liability.

Stassen, prominently mentioned last summer for the Republican Presidential nomination, told a news conference, "you can't weigh a matter of that kind with anything as serious as a nation's hope to prevent another world war."

"I am a Republican," he said, "Weighing the whole thing, Republicans are apt to look upon it as a political liability. However, I have not the least hesitation in accepting the appointment, whatever is entailed."

Will Attend On Leave

Stassen, a member of Admiral William F. Halsey's staff, said he would be granted leave from the Navy to attend the conference, adding he will go "in civilian clothes, free to speak, act and think as I wish."

He said he and other members of Halsey's staff are in Washington under orders to report to Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations.

Back To Pacific First

Stassen told news men he will return to the Pacific with Halsey before the San Francisco conference, scheduled to open April 25.

He said he felt it is as much his duty to accept the President's assignment to the meeting to work for a successful peace as it was to take an assignment to help win the war.

Halsey, Stassen said, has agreed to send him back to San Francisco at the necessary time. As soon as the conference is over, he added, he will return to his assignment at sea.

Stassen declined to discuss in detail his views on international post-war policy, except to say that his general position is well known; that he favors a strong world policy for America and international relations on a new and higher level.

To Meet With Leaders

He said he plans to spend his leave conferring with Republican leaders in the Senate and House and with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, studying developments and "checking the score."

Stassen said he considers it essential that he express his views before the conference to permit the people to indicate their reaction. He said he has no specific plans for speeches, but that he considers it "clear" that he should speak.

Prospective Conferees

Among congressional leaders he said he expects to confer with are Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan—also designated a delegate to the San Francisco conference—Austin, of Vermont; Saltonstall, of Massachusetts; Ball, of Minnesota, and White, of Maine, and Representatives Martin, of Massachusetts, and Judd, of Minnesota, and as many others "as I can get in."

Vandenberg has not yet indicated whether he will accept his assignment.

Stassen said he hopes the San Francisco conference may "mean to the world of tomorrow what Constitution Hall in Philadelphia has meant to the United States, a place where there was established a framework on which to build for peace and progress."

World Conference To Be All "Work"

San Francisco, Feb. 20 (AP)—Delegates to the World Security Conference here in April will meet all day and all evening, seven days a week, William D. Wright, of the State Department, said today as he arrived to shape plans for the meeting of United Nations.

Wright, assistant chief of the division of special services of the department, estimated that delegates and their secretariat would number more than 1,000, and that he hoped to find, if possible, rooms, restaurant and meeting accommodations for the group under one roof. The session, he said, probably would last more than three weeks.

He told a press conference that the spirit of the conference will be that of "outlining a program to make the world a better place in which to live," that there probably would be no time, or occasion, for social activity.

It would be impossible, he suggested, for the delegates "to work in the glare of a spotlight," but he said all were fully aware of the importance of keeping the people of the world informed, and announcements would be made immediately of any decisions reached.

The press and radio, Wright declared, will be a recognized part of the conference and quarters will be established for them.

Halsey's 'Tokyo In 1943' Explained By Stassen

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey's prediction in 1942 that "we would be in Tokyo in 1943" was described today as a bold and successful stroke of psychological warfare.

Halsey himself has since declined comment on his prediction, turning aside all inquiries by saying he has "quit looking into the crystal ball." Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, new Halsey's flag secretary, told the story today, however, at a news conference.

Halsey's prediction, Commander Stassen said, was made during the darkest period of the Pacific war when the Navy had little to fight with.

"Australia was concerned," Stassen said. "The Japanese Navy was still strong. It was a gloomy situation. He knew that if the Japanese attacked in force, even with the heroism of the Army, Navy and Marines, it was questionable whether we could hold the line.

"He (Halsey) made that bold, assertive, almost braggadocio statement to cheer up our own forces and hold back the Japanese. They did not attack for six months while they tried to figure out what in the world the Admiral had.

"He has taken the gaff ever since, but he never gives or accepts an alibi. He uses all the weapons of land, sea, air and mind as well as anyone I know."

No Hint Of Crack Seen In Japanese Morale

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Government experts have been unable to detect even a hint of a crack in Japanese civilian morale.

This was reported today by the Office of War Information on the basis of information provided by various agencies which seek to keep tab on social and economic conditions in Japan.

Because luxuries, amusements and travel are restricted, the OWI said, "the full resources of Japan can be devoted to war."

Lend-Lease Aid To Allies Rises To 35 Billions

4 Billion More in '44 Than '43; Crowley Belittles Role in Civilian Shortages

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Congress was told officially today that lend-lease aid has reached $35,382,000,000, but that its importance in civilian shortages here at home has been "greatly overstated in numerous false rumors."

Leo T. Crowley, Foreign Economic Administrator, sent up the eighteenth report on lend-lease operations at the direction of President Roosevelt. He denied that lend-lease shipments caused the cigarette and beef shortages and disclosed that:

1. Lend-lease goods and services totaled $15,400,000,000 in 1944, compared with $11,700,000,000 the year before. Munitions increased very little from 1943 to 1944, but all other kinds of aid nearly doubled. Eighty-four per cent of United States munitions production during the war has been kept for United States forces.

2. Lend-lease reached an all-time high in the first half of 1944 "in preparation for D Day in Normandy and the great Soviet winter offensive." Then it fell off sharply because of lack of shipping when we were sending great quantities of munitions to our own forces in both Europe and the Pacific. But in December lend-lease aid again rose to $1,319,000,000, highest month since last July.

3. Soviet armies, with fast-lengthening supply lines, nad received a total of 362,000 motor vehicles through Dec. 1, 1944, compared with Britain's 80,000, and 12,000 planes compared with Britain's 8,500. On some parts of the eastern front "American vehicles are carrying more than one-half the supplies moving up to the Soviet troops." Britain, however, has received 43.3 per cent of all lend-lease aid, with Russia getting 28.4 per cent.

4. "China can look forward to a steadily increasing stream of supplies," now that the Ledo Road is open. The most urgent need is for a military transportation system in China itself, for "it has been estimated that there are not more than 6,000 trucks in all free China today and that half of these are approaching collapse."

Therefore, a fleet of 15,000 American trucks will be delivered to China, and when this transportation system is established "the combined forces of the United Nations will be able to mount new and greater offensives from China."

5. The impressive Allied victories around the world are to be explained this way:

"An effective fighting partnership and a system of combined war supply." Lend-lease will continue to be used for one purpose only, "to speed the day of final victory."

As for civilian shortages, Mr. Crowley said the three main factors have been (1) actual war-induced shortage of materials, plants or man power; (2) requirements of our armed forces; (3) abnormal domestic civilian demand, caused by greatly increased consumer incomes.

SENATE SHELVES LABOR DRAFT BILL

Military Committee Votes to Lay Aside Measure for Substitute.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — (AP) The Senate Military committee shelved the work-or-jail bill today despite a new endorsement by President Roosevelt and began perfecting a much milder substitute.

The 12 to 6 vote to lay aside the House-approved measure in favor of the substitute which would strengthen the War Manpower Commission's present job placement program was taken shortly after the committee was handed a memorandum from the President.

Dated Feb. 11 and presented to the committee by Majority Leader Barkley, it read:

"I hope that legislation embracing the principle of the May bill can be speedily enacted. It will assure the armed services they can rely on the flow of necessary supplies and greatly contribute to the success of our arms."

The House passed the May bill several weeks ago shortly after its enactment was urged by Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Chandler (D-Ky), who joined Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), Kilgore (D-WVa), Wagner (D-NY), Ferguson (R-Mich) and Ball (R-Minn) as a co-author of the substitute, declared the committee's action means the work-jail bill is "as dead as Lazarus." O'Mahoney agreed.

"This is a clear indication that the committee favors a voluntary system under the War Manpower commission instead of the work-or-fight principle or whatever you want to call it," Chandler added.

The committee hopes to agree on final terms of the substitute tomorrow. It got through about half the text today, inserting a few clarifying amendments.

Unlike the House bill, which would affect only civilian men from 18 to 45, the substitute measures takes in all working people regardless of age or sex.

Under the direction or supervision of the Director of War Mobilization (James F. Byrnes), the chairman of the War Manpower commission (Paul V. McNutt) would be authorized to establish employment ceilings in individual plants or areas, and to regulate or even prohibit the hiring of new workers by employers.

FORRESTAL ASKS POWERFUL NAVY IN POSTWAR ERA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. — (AP) Postwar retention by the United States and its Allies of fleets "capable of controlling the world's oceans" was demanded today by Navy Secretary Forrestal.

"Such power," Forrestal said in his annual report to the President, "is not inconsistent with plans for international collaboration, because our contribution to world peace must be threefold:

"Participation in a society of nations dedicated to a peaceful, just and decent ordering of world affairs.

"Willingness among our people to fight, if necessary, for a world order in which our way of life can endure.

"Retention of the weapons with which to fight if we must—because the means to conduct war must be in the hands of those who hate war. A powerful Navy is one of those weapons, an indispensible one. At an appropriate time, the Navy department will present for your consideration the possible composition of a post war fleet."

Forrestal's report, his first as secretary and the first made public since the 1942 fiscal year, was limited by war conditions to discussions of six major problems which he said were "especially prominent" duing the year under review: logistics, production, research, training, health and finance.

"By the end of the 1944 fiscal year," he said, "the United States Navy was the largest in the world. Why, then, do we plan to build more ships in 1945, 1946 and 1947?

"Of course, we must forearm ourselves against heavier losses as we approach Japan, fighting not only her Navy but her air power. But there is another and more profitable reason for continuing naval construction.

"We must maintain and increase the tremendous margin which we now have, the margin which has enabled us to conduct almost simultaneous operations against the Japanese. The Navy's operations in this war resemble the use of multiple teams in football — one team on the field, another on the sidelines, a new fresh ready one to go in and exploit weaknesses that become apparent. That requires surplus power. With a plenitude of power we are able to have at any given moment a multiple series of attacks under way and in the making."

Forrestal, in his discussion of problems of research, included a strong renewal of his appeal for establishment by law of an independent agency devoted to long term, basic military research, securing its own funds from Congress, and responsive to, but not dominated by, the Army and Navy."

"In peace, even more than in war," he said, "scientists owe to their nation an obligation to contribute to its security by carrying on research in military fields."

Such an agency, Forrestal said, should be authorized to use the methods of the office of scientific research and development, contracting with institutional and industrial laboratories wherever possible. "Its own facilities should be kept to a minimum," he said. "The Army and Navy would continue their own research, too," he said.

Scientific preparation for defense, the Secretary commented, presupposes knowledge of weapons being developed by potential enemies. "Such knowledge can not be obtained without a more adequate intelligence system than the United States has ever maintained in its history. A corollary of adequate scientific preparation, therefore, may be an expanded intelligence system."

Reviewing naval production accomplishments, the Secretary said by June, 1944, production for the Navy "had reached a peak which probably need not be exceeded. In some fields, peaks were established which will not be equalled during the remainder of the war."

By the end of the fiscal year, production of "capital equipment," —ships, planes, guns and bases — had begun a gradual decline, while production of expendable material, ammunition, fuel, clothing and repair parts, were continuing to increase with the tempo of the fighting.

The Secretary said personnel problems, other than training, will demand an increasing share of attention."

Among these he named the problem of rotating personnel so that officers and men who have served overseas for long periods may be returned home on furlough; properly placing and utilizing personnel; the proper relationship between the regular Navy and the reserve with particular attention to offering the most able reserve officers and enlisted men status, opportunity and prestige in the permanent service; and preparation of a personnel demobilization plan, which has already begun and the urgency of which will increase.

Bill to Draft Unmarried Nurses Is Approved by House Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb 20—(AP) Unmarried women nurses between the ages of 20 and 44 inclusive, would be liable to draft for military service under legislation approved today by the House Military committee.

But committee members, concluding three weeks of consideration of the measure requested by President Roosevelt on January 6 to provide 20,000 nurses for the Army and the Navy, said privately they did not expect the legislation, if enacted, to be enforced, except possibly among cadet nurses.

Even should the existing volunteer system, which the legislation continues, fail to produce the necessary number of nurses, the impact of the bill would fall heaviest on the 27,000 women trained under the Cadet Nurse corps program.

The bill requires local draft boards to take cadet graduates first and prohibits the induction of non-cadets so long as the board has cadets available.

Provisions giving the War Manpower commission's procurement and assignment service authority to defer nurses essential to civilian health and prohibiting the induction of Veterans administration nurses without the administration's approval were expressly withheld from the Cadet Nurse corps.

The legislation makes it incumbent for every registered or graduate nurse and every nurse eligible for registration, within the age limits, to list herself with her local draft board.

While the bill makes no provision for the granting of commissions to inducted nurses, army spokesmen had told the committee commissions would be issued to those found qualified.

Chairman May (D-Ky) said he hoped to obtain clearance from the rules committee for House consideration of the bill next week.

MEAT, TEXTILE PAY RISE O.K.'D

WLB Grants Boosts Provided It Wins Fight With Vinson

FEB 20 1945

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The War Labor Board announced its willingness tonight to fatten pay envelopes of 145,000 meat packers and 50,000 textile workers, if it wins its policy fight with Fred Vinson, Economic Stabilizer.

The board released its long-awaited decisions in these two cases, but held up the money items until it has settled the squabble with Vinson. He wants to give OPA veto powers over wage adjustments if they necessitate price increases.

The decisions came as the two industries were threatened with far-reaching strikes and immediately after Emil Rieve, president of the CIO-Textile Workers in New York, had freed his 100,000 members from further obligation to adhere to the no-strike pledge.

5-Cent Textile Boost

For the textile workers, the board raised the minimum wage from 50 to 55 cents, and granted a flat 5-cent increase to preserve the present differentials. These were allowable in the board's eyes because they would adjust "substandard" wages.

The meat packers were told to establish a commission to set up, for the first time, a standard wage structure for the industry. Clothing, tools and sharpening of tools are to be company expenses for the first time.

All nonmoney items can be negotiated immendately between the companies and the workers.

Principal unions involved are the CIO-Packing-House Workers, representing 125,000 employés of Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy and John Morrell packing firms, and the CIO-Textile Workers.

54 Mills Represented

The latter represents employés of 23 Southern, 25 New England and 6 New York-Pennsylvania textile mills.

Since the clothing and tools clauses of the meat-packing decision involve some compensation changes, the parties would have to negotiate on how to allow the workers for these items — whether in money or in actual clothes and tools.

Tonight's decision in the packing-house case involves so-called "fringe" demands rather than general major increases.

In this case, the WLB said, a general ten per cent wage boost is to be shelved until President Roosevelt decides whether to lift the ceiling limiting increases to fifteen per cent over 1941 levels.

Negotiations Ordered

"The negotiations between the parties are to commence immediately, and all provisions which do not affect the compensation of employés are to become effective at once," said the board.

The board issued four directive orders affecting the packing-house industry.

1. Involving the CIO-Packing House Workers, affecting 21 plants of Armour & Co., 16 plants of Swift & Co., 11 plants of Cudahy Packing Company, and 8 plants of Wilson Company, Inc.

2. Involving the AFL-Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, affecting 43,000 employés in 7 plants of Swift & Co. and 4,800 in 11 plants of Armour & Co.

3. Approximately 11,600 workers in 12 plants of Swift & Co., in another directive were represented by the Independent Brotherhood of Swift Employés.

4. Involving the CIO-Packing House Workers, affecting 4,138 employés of John Morrell & Co. in Ottumwa (Iowa) and Topeka (Kan.) plants.

President Lewis J. Clark, of the CIO-Packing House Workers Union, said that as a result of the order "we are requesting the packers immediately to enter into negotiations."

'Political Connivance' Charged

Rieve said a "political connivance has deprived the National War Labor Board of its independent tripartite nature and has caused cotton textile workers to lose faith in the board's processes."

Rieve later issued a statement saying:

"The order issued tonight by the National War Labor Board merely confirms the union position that the board is no longer a free agent, able to make its own decisions.

"In effect, the board says it recognizes the fact that cotton-rayon textile workers receive substandard wages, but that it cannot give them what equity and justice demand because Vinson has tied the board's hands."

The union charged textile manufacturers had exerted political pressure on James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization, to block wage boosts.

As reported weeks ago by Rieve, in protesting the board's delay, the textile orders established a 55-cent minimum hourly rate and a general increase of 5 cents for both Northern and Southern mills.

Differentials Observed

The union had asked for a 60-cent minimum. The present minimum is 50 cents.

The 5-cent increase, the board explained, was to keep alive the present differentials which are inherent in the industry. A retroactive payment equal to 5 cents an hour dating from October 1, 1944, was ordered unless otherwise agreed on by the parties.

Different sets of "guide posts" were fixed for the three geographical areas. The lowest guide rate in the Southern and New-York-Pennsylvania mills would be 55 cents an hour for common labor, and the lowest in New England 57 cents for scrubbers and sweepers.

The top "guide post" for loom fixers is $1.02 in the New England and New York-Pennsylvania mills and 90 cents in the Southern mills.

Guide-post rates for certain key occupations were set forth to insure alignment of the wage schedules between the parties.

Special panels are to be established to review the wage-classification schedules negotiated by the parties and to draft schedules for those on which they are unable to agree.

Gripsholm Is Due In New York Today

Jersey City, N.J., Feb. 20 (AP)—The Gripsholm neared the end of its sixth exchange voyage tonight, bringing home 1,206 repatriates, including 463 ill or wounded American soldiers, who were prisoners of war in Germany.

The ship radioed she would reach Ambrose Light in the lower channel about 11 A.M. tomorrow, which would bring her to her pier between 12 and 1 P.M.

Aboard besides the American officers and enlisted men are 78 Canadian military personnel, 42 merchant seamen who were also prisoners and 623 civilians.

The Army arranged for a quick transfer of the American soldiers to Halloran General Hospital on Staten Island, where they will receive physical examinations. Those whose physical condition permits will be given furloughs. Interviews with military personnel will not be permitted before Thursday.

The seamen, who represent nine ships sunk by enemy action, are the first merchant crewmen to be repatriated from Germany. Five skippers are among them.

Two New Light Cruisers To Be Launched Sunday

Galveston and Fargo Are Each of 10,000 Tons

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20 (AP).—Two new light cruisers, the Galveston and the Fargo, will go down the ways in the Philadelphia-Camden, N. J., area next Sunday, the Navy announced today.

The Galveston, named for Galveston, Tex., will be launched at the Cramp Shipbuilding Company yard here, and the Fargo, named for Fargo, N. D., at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden. The two new ships are members of the Cleveland class of light cruisers which displace 10,000 tons. Ice conditions in the Delaware River delayed the Fargo's launching for two weeks.

The Galveston will be sponsored by Mrs. Clark Wallace Thompson, of Washington, wife of Colonel Clark W. Thompson, Marine Corps Reserve. The Fargo will be sponsored by Mrs. Fred O. Olsen, wife of the president of the City Commission of Fargo, N. D.

The Galveston is the second Navy ship to be named after the Texas seaport.

3 AMERICAN SHIPS LOST IN PHILIPPINE AREA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—(AP) The Navy announced today the loss of two motor torpedo boats and a submarine chaser in the Philippine area.

The motor torpedo boats PT 73 and PT 338 were lost as a result of grounding. There were no casualties.

The submarine chaser PC 1129 was lost as a result of enamy action. The Navy said casualties were light. Next of kin of casualties have been notified.

The announcement brought to 265 the total of naval craft of all types which have been lost since the start of the war.

The submarine chaser participated in the Lingayen gulf operations in the Philippines in January 1945.

U.S. Minesweeper Lost In Pacific

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The motor mine sweeper YMS-48 has been lost in the Philippine area as a result of enemy action.

The Navy, announcing this today, made no reference to total casualties, but said next of kin have been notified. Normal complement of a ship of that type is approximately 30 officers and men.

The last-known skipper of the YMS-48 was Lieut. (jg) Howard A. Kaiser, of New York city, who was listed as a survivor.

New Skipper

The Navy explained that another officer was under orders to assume command of the vessel but it was not known here whether the transfer had been made before the vessel was lost. The new skipper also was known to be safe, the Navy said, without identifying him.

The YMS-48 was one of three motor minesweepers which on July 4, 1944, bombarded Sawar air strip in New Guinea.

Built In Brooklyn

The vessel was built by the Wheeler Shipbuilding Corporation of Brooklyn, N.Y. She was 136 feet long.

Loss of the YMS-48 brought the total of all naval vessels lost since the start of the war to 210 sunk. In addition 42 are listed as overdue and presumed lost, and ten destroyed to prevent capture, making a grand total of 262.

BY RUSSEL LANDSTROM

LONDON, FEB. 20--(AP)--- LABORITE LORD STRABOLGI DECLARED TONIGHT THAT VICTORY OVER GERMANY ON THE BATTLEFIELDS "SHOULD BE REACHED BY THE TIME MAY BLOSSOMS APPEAR IN MIDDLESEX," BUT HE ADDED THAT HE WAS NOT SO HOPEFUL ABOUT PROSPECTS ~~XX~~ IN NON-MILITARY SPHERES.

"I WISH THAT I COULD SEE EQUALLY FAVORABLE SIGNS IN THE POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC FIELDS," HE ~~XXXX~~ TOLD A KENSINGTON LABOR MEETING AFTER HAVING CALLED ON THE GOVERNMENT EARLIER IN THE DAY TO EXPLAIN REPORTS THAT RUSSIA HAD REQUESTED BOTH THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN FOR LONG-TERM CREDITS FOR RECONSTRUCTION PURPOSES.

THIS DEMAND CAME IN THE HOUSE OF ~~XXX~~ LORDS DURING OPENING OF DEBATE ON A GOVERNMENT EXPORT GUARANTEE BILL.

FEB 21 1945

"YOU OUGHT TO KNOW WHAT THE FACTS ARE IF THEY ARE AVAILABL TO THE GOVERNMENT," HE SAID. "ACCORDING TO THESE REPORTS AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN MADE AN IMMEDIATE RESPONSE TO FEELERS FROM MOSCOW. THEY SEEM TO HAVE GOT TOGETHER WITH OR WITHOUT GOVERNMENTAL ASSISTANCE AND ARE PREPARED TO PROVIDE LARGE SUMS OF MONEY FOR THE RUSSIAN MARKET."

LORD STRABOLGI DESCRIBED THE PENDING EXPORT BILL AS AIMED AT LIMITED OBJECTIVES AND MAINTAINED THAT THE FUTURE OF BRITAIN'S TRADE WOULD DEPEND MORE ON "LONG-RANGE POLICIES WHICH THE GOVERNMENT WITH OUR ALLIES WILL HAVE TO EMBARK UPON."

"IF INTERNATIONAL CARTELS ARE ALLOWED TO OPERATE AS THEY DID BEFORE THE WAR, BRITISH MERCHANTS WOULD BE PRECLUDED FROM CERTAIN MARKETS," HE SAID, AND PREDICTED THAT THIS WOULD LEAD TO DIFFICULTIES "IN REVIEWING OUR EXPORT TRADE."

ATTACKING THE WAY THE BRETTON WOODS PROPOSALS WERE LEFT UNSETTLED, LORD STRABOLGI SAID THAT "THERE WAS COMPLETE UNCERTAINTY ABOUT THEIR ACCEPTANCE OR NOT AND DECLARED THAT IF THEY GO THROUGH AS DRAFTED BRITAIN WOULD BE DEPRIVED OF HER GREATEST ASSET AND BARGAINING WEAPON IN POST-WAR TRADE--- "THE PURCHASING POWER OF THE BRITISH MARKET."

FEB 21 1945

THE AMERICAN POSITION, HE SAID, PRESENTED "ANOTHER IMPONDERABLE" AND SAID THAT "WHILE WE ARE TALKING ABOUT RECOVERING OUR EXPORTS AMERICANS ARE TALKING OF INCREASING THEIRS BY 300 PER CENT."

GOCH, WHICH HAD BEEN POUNDED INTO A RUBBLE BY ALLIED PLANES AND ARTILLERY BEFORE SCOTTISH AND WELSH TROOPS CRASHED INTO ITS CENTER EARLY YESTERDAY, HAD BEEN MOPPED UP EXCEPT FOR ISOLATED NAZI NESTS AT ITS SOUTHERN END.

SCOTS WHO DROVE INTO THE CITY FROM THE WEST AND NORTHEAST LINKED UP AT A BRIDGE OVER THE NIERS RIVER IN THE HEART OF THE TOWN AND WERE JOINED BY WELSH TROOPS, WHO CLEANED OUT THE FACTORY AREA IN THE NORTHERN SUBURBS. BOTH SIDES INCURRED HEAVY CASUALTIES IN THE HOUSE-TO-HOUSE FIGHTING.

ALLIED TROOPS INSIDE GOCH WERE BEING SUBJECTED TO WITHERING MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE BY THE NAZIS, WHO ARE FAMILIAR WITH EVERY BLOCK OF THE ANCIENT CITY AND THUS ARE ABLE TO PINPOINT ANY SPOT WHERE THEY THINK ALLIED TROOPS ARE LOCATED.

"GERMAN INFANTRY AND TANKS HAVE RESISTED US IN THE BEST TRADITION OF THE GERMAN ARMY," SAID A DISPATCH FROM THE AP'S NED NORDNESS. "SOLDIERS PITTING THEIR STRENGTH AGAINST US ARE NOT WARY AND WORN, BUT GRIM AND FULL OF FIGHT. THEY ARE BARRING OUR ADVANCE DOWN INTO THE RUHR WITH MANIACAL FURY."

MURKY WEATHER STRIPPED THE BRITISH EMPIRE FORCES OF ALL AERIAL SUPPORT IN THE FORENOON, BUT OTHER TACTICAL AIR UNITS HIT TRANSPORT AND STRONGPOINTS ALONG THE REMAINDER OF THE FRONT AND A GREAT FORCE OF HEAVY BOMBERS FROM ENGLAND STRUCK THE STRATEGIC GERMAN RAIL CENTER OF NUERNBERG.

A212

A GERMAN NEWS BROADCAST REPORTED THAT AMERICAN FORCES MASSED ON THE WEST BANK OF THE ROER HAD LAID DOWN HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE AGAINST GERMAN POSITIONS EAST OF AACHEN IN THE NINTH ARMY SECTOR AND HAD TRIED TO CROSS THE SWOLLEN ROER NEAR LINNICH WITHOUT SUCCESS. THERE WAS NO CONFIRMATION FROM ALLIED SOURCES.

IN ITS NEW DRIVE INTO GERMANY LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD U.S.ARMY SEIZED WINCHERINGEN, A MILE ACROSS THE MOSELLE RIVER BORDER OF GERMANY EAST OF LUXEMBOURG CITY. FARTHER SOUTH PATTON'S 94TH DIVISION PLUNGED INTO GERMANY BEHIND A 15,000-ROUND ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND CAPTURED FOUR TOWNS IN A FOUR-MILE ARC BETWEEN SAARBRUECKEN AND TRIER, THE LATTER GERMANY'S OLDEST CITY AND BIRTHPLACE OF KARL MARX.

CAPTURE OF KIRF, FOUR MILES SOUTH AND SLIGHTLY WEST OF SAARBURG, BROUGHT THE AMERICANS WITHIN 13 MILES OF TRIER FROM THE SOUTH. OTHER TOWNS CAPTURED, CLEARED OR ENTERED INCLUDED MEURICHONE, A MILE NORTHEAST OF KIRF; FREUDENBERG, FOUR AND A HALF SOUTHWEST OF SAARBURG WEITEN, ORSCHOLZ, DILMAR AND PALZEN, FROM FOUR AND A HALF TO EIGHT AND A HALF MILES SOUTHWEST OF SAARBURG.

THE TWO NEW THIRD ARMY ATTACKS WERE ABOUT SIX MILES APART.

THE TWO NEW THIRD ARMY ATTACKS WERE ABOUT SIX MILES APART. THE 94TH DIVISION ALONE TOOK 826 PRISONERS YESTERDAY. MECHANIZED CAVALRY CAPTURED WINCHERINGEN IN A SURPRISE ASSAULT.

PATTON'S BREACH OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE NEAR ECHTERNACH WAS DEEPENED ANOTHER MILE WHEN THE FIFTH DIVISION STORMED THROUGH STOCKEN, SIX AND A HALF MILES FROM THE EIFEL MOUNTAIN ROAD CENTER OF BITBURG AND EIGHT MILES NORTH OF ECHTERNACH. THE FIFTH ALSO SEIZED COMMANDING HEIGHTS A MILE AND A HALF NORTH OF THE ENZ RIVER. OTHER THIRD ARMY TROOPS CAPTURED HERZFELD, 10 MILES SOUTHEAST OF AMERICAN-HELD PRUEM.

LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S SEVENTH ARMY, NOW FIGHTING ON THE SAAR FRONT, CAPTURED ETZLING, ONLY THREE AND A HALF MILES SOUTH OF SAARBRUECKEN AND IN CLEAR VIEW OF THE BATTERED SAARLAND CAPITAL. HIGH GROUND OVERLOOKING NEARBY FORBACH ALSO WAS SEIZED.

TO THE EAST THE SEVENTH ARMY TOOK THE BORDER TOWN OF FRAUENBERG, LESS THAN 10 MILES FROM THE SAAR CITY OF ST.INGBERT, AS WELL AS AUERSMACHER, TWO MILES INSIDE GERMANY, AND A WOOD TO THE NORTH OF THAT TOWN.

THE GERMANS, FACED WITH THE POSSIBLE PROSPECT OF HAVING TO FALL BACK TO THE HILL MASS BETWEEN GOCH AND THE RHINE CITY OF WESEL TO FIND THE NEXT NATURAL FEATURE FOR DEFENSE, WERE OFFERING THE STIFFEST KIND OF RESISTANCE.

SINCE THE START OF THEIR OFFENSIVE 13 DAYS AGO GEN.CRERAR'S TROOPS HAVE PUSHED 17 MILES BEYOND THEIR STARTING LINE AND HAVE TAKEN MORE THAN 9,000 PRISONERS.

SCOTTISH INFANTRY OUTSMARTED THE ENEMY IN THEIR PENETRATION OF GOCH. WHILE THE GERMANS WERE TRYING TO HOLD OFF A FRONTAL ATTACK ON THE NORTH PART OF THE CITY, THE SCOTS ON THE NORTHWEST SLIPPED IN SILENTLY BEHIND MAIN NAZI DEFENSES AND HOLED UP UNTIL THE FIRST LIGHT OF DAWN.

THEY LAUNCHED THEIR ATTACK WITHOUT THE USUAL ARTILLERY PREPARATION. THE UNSUSPECTING GERMAN COMMANDER AND HIS STAFF WERE ROUTED OUT OF BED. OF THE CAPTURE ONE INFANTRYMAN SAID: "YOU NEVER SAW A MORE SURPRISED OR FUNNIER LOOKING CREW THAN THOSE BOYS STANDING THERE IN THEIR NIGHT SHIRTS."

SCOTTISH TROOPS FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF GOCH WERE LOCKED IN HEAVY FIGHTING FOR THE DUTCH VILLAGE OF KASTEL-BLIENBEEK. THERE THE GERMANS WERE DUG IN STRONGLY AS THEY STROVE TO HOLD THEIR MAAS RIVER LINE, AND WERE ASTRIDE THE MAIN MAAS VALLEY HIGHWAY LEADING TO THEIR STRONGHOLD AT VENLO, 19 MILES TO THE SOUTH.

MEANWHILE LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY TROOPS HAD EXPANDED THEIR FRONT IN THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS TO 55 MILES, CAPTURED AN ADDITIONAL SEVEN GERMAN TOWNS, AND BROKEN THROUGH THE THREE-MILE DEEP SIEGFRIED LINE ON A SEVEN-MILE SECTOR SOUTH OF THE GERMAN BASE OF BITBURG.

FARTHER SOUTH IN THE MOSELLE VALLEY PATTON'S 94TH INFANTRY DIVISION GAINED A MILE TO A POINT NEAR MUZINGEN, FIVE MILES INSIDE THE REICH.

FRONT DISPATCHES SAID THE ROER RIVER ON THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMY FRONTS IN THE AACHEN AREA LAS DROPPING SLOWLY. UPSTREAM RESERVOIRS FEEDING THE FLOOD WERE EXPECTED TO BE DRAINED WITHIN SEVERAL DAYS, AND THE RIVER ABOVE THE RESERVOIRS WAS ALSO RECEDING AS THE EFFECT OF RECENT THAWS WANED.

IT IS IN THIS SECTOR THAT THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN PREDICTING AN ALL-OUT ASSAULT BY THE ALLIES DIRECTED TOWARD COLOGNE AND THE RHINELAND.

BAD WEATHER YESTERDAY KEPT THE TACTICAL AIR FORCES ON THE GROUND, BUT MORE THAN 1,000 U.S. HEAVY BOMBERS HAMMERED RUHR RAIL CENTERS, LEADING TO THE NORTHERN BATTLEFRONT.

THEY APPARENTLY HAD BEEN INSTRUCTED TO DELAY PRODUCTION IF IT GOT HIGHER THAN THAT NEEDED FOR THE NEEDS OF THE MINE ITSELF. HOWEVER, THE ALLIED AUTHORITIES PUT THE OBSTRUCTING TECHNICIANS IN JAIL AND INVITED DUTCH MINE EXPERTS TO HELP RUN THE BUSINESS. IT

NOW IS PRODUCING A SURPLUS BEING USED ON MILITARY RAILROADS.
"THERE IS NO INDICATION THAT THE GERMAN MINERS HAVE BEEN TRYING ANY SERIOUS PASSIVE RESISTANCE," NEWMAN SAID, BUT THERE STILL IS A SERIOUS MANPOWER SHORTAGE. WHEN THE ALLIES ENTERED THE AREA, THEY FOUND CONSIDERABLE NUMBERS OF POLISH, RUSSIAN AND CZECHOSLOVAK SLAVE LABORERS WHO WERE FREED.

AFTER HIS DEPARTURE, THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT SAID, THE PRESIDENT WAS "EXPECTED" TO STOP AT ALGIERS FOR A MEETING WITH GEN.DE GAULLE.

(A WASHINGTON ANNOUNCEMENT SAID DE GAULLE REPLIED THAT HE WAS PREVENTED FROM GOING TO ALGIERS BECAUSE OF OFFICIAL BUSINESS.

(THE WHITE HOUSE QUOTED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AS SAYING "QUESTIONS OF MUTUAL INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE TO FRANCE AND THE UNITED STATES ARE PENDING. I WANTED VERY MUCH TO SEE THE GENERAL BEFORE LEAVING FOR HOME.")

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL ALSO HAD LONG TALKS WITH THE ETHIOPIAN EMPEROR, THE EGYPTIAN MONARCH, THE KING OF SAUDI ARABIA, AND ALSO WITH AL SAYED SHUKRI AL KUWATLY, PRESIDENT OF THE SYRIAN REPUBLIC. FOREIGN SECRETARY EDEN TOOK PART IN THESE DISCUSSIONS.

DETAILS WERE NOT DISCLOSED.

(ROOSEVELT RECEIVED FROM CHURCHILL ANOTHER PLEDGE OF FULL SUPPORT IN THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN, WASHINGTON ANNOUNCEMENTS SAID.

(A LONDON DISPATCH SAID THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THESE CONFERENCES WAS ISSUED "AMID PERSISTENT REPORTS THAT BRITAIN WAS TAKING THE LEADING ROLE IN A MOVE TO SETTLE MIDDLE EAST PROBLEMS THROUGH FORMATION OF A SINGLE ARAB STATE AND CREATION OF A SPEARATE JEWISH STATE COMPRISING MOST OF PALESTINE.")

IT IS OBVIOUS THAT THE IMPORTANCE OF THE MIDDLE EAST, BOTH FROM MILITARY AND POLITICAL STANDPOINTS, HAS INCREASED GREATLY AS A RESULT OF THE YALTA TALKS. UNDOUBTEDLY BOTH THE PRESIDENT AND THE PRIME MINISTER WERE GIVEN FULLEST INFORMATION ON THE PROGRESS OF THE CURRENT PAN-ARABIAN LEAGUE CONFERENCE AND ITS PROGRAM, POLICIES AND INTENTIONS.

THE DISCUSSIONS PROBABLY CONCERNED SOME OF THE DECISIONS REACHED AT YALTA RELATING TO THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN, IN WHICH THE MIDDLE EAST WILL PLAY A VITAL ROLE AS A TRANSIT CENTER AND PROBABLY AS A GIGANTIC STAGING AREA.

(THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE CONFERENCES ISSUED IN WASHINGTON SAID THE PRESIDENT AND PRIME MINISTER AT ALEXANDRIA HAD AN OPPORTUNITY TO DISCUSS THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN WHICH HAD NOT BEEN A SUBJECT OF THE YALTA MEETING BECAUSE RUSSIA IS NEUTRAL IN THAT CONFLICT.)

FROM EGYPT, ROOSEVELT WAS UNDERSTOOD TO BE PROCEEDING TO ALGIERS WHERE HE HAD HOPED TO MEET WITH GENERAL DE GAULLE AND WHERE OTHER AMERICAN ENVOYS WERE AWAITING HIM TO RECEIVE REPORTS AND INSTRUCTIONS.

AT THE END OF THE SECOND DAY, THE HARD-FIGHTING DEVILDOGS HAD CUT A CURVING LINE ACROSS THE SOUTH END OF THE ISLAND, GIVING THEM CONTROL OF ONE THIRD OF IWO'S EIGHT SQUARE MILES.

ON THE SOUTHEAST COAST, THIS WEDGE IS MORE THAN TWO MILES WIDE ALONG THE COAT. A LATE REPORT STATED IT HAS BEEN EXTENDED FOR 2,000 YARDS ALONG THE SOUTHWEST COAST.

PERHAPS HINTING THAT MORE SATISFACTORY PROGRESS COULD BE EXPECTED, NIMITZ SAID:

A50FX

"A LARGE PORTION OF OUR ARTILLERY NOW IS ASHORE AND IN POSITION TO SUPPORT BOTH FLANKS OF THE BEACHHEAD."

THE PACIFIC OCEANS AREA COMMANDER, WHO MOVED HIS HEADQUARTERS TO GUAM ONLY A FEW WEEKS BEFORE THE INVASION OF IWO SAID HE WAS UNABLE TO ESTIMATE CASUALTIES. EARLIER, THEY HAD BEEN REPORTED AS RUNNING FROM STRONG TO MODERATE.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS OF THE PACIFIC FLEET FOR THE SIXTH STRAIGHT DAY SUPPORTED THE INVASION AND CARRIER AIRCRAFT ADDED THE WEIGHT OF THEIR BOMBS AND ROCKETS TO THE COORDINATED ASSAULT.

FEB 21 1945

ALREADY, NIMITZ REPORTED, 8,000 TONS OF AMMUNITION HAD BEEN EXPENDED IN NAVAL GUNFIRE.

THE WARSHIPS WERE STANDING CLOSE TO SHORE, CONCENTRATING "CLOSE-IN" FIRE ON CAVES AND OTHER UNDERGROUND STRONGPOINTS FROM WHICH THE JAPANESE WERE STRAFING THE NORTHERN END OF THE AMERICAN BEACHHEAD.

SUPPLIES WERE POURING ASHORE "SATISFACTORILY," NIMITZ SAID.

RAINS HAMPERED AIR COVER AND IMPEDED GROUND ACTION.

THE REPORT THAT "SLIGHT GAINS" HAD BEEN MADE NORTH OF THE MOTOYAMA BOMBER AIRFIELD, LOCATED ON A PLATEAU NEAR THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND, SUBSTANTIATED EARLIER STATEMENTS THAT THE CONQUEST OF IWO WOULD BE TOUGHER THAN THE INVASION OF TARAWA IN THE GILBERT ISLANDS AT THE START OF THE CENTRAL PACIFIC CAMPAIGN LATE IN NOVEMBER, 1943.

TWO DAYS OF HARD FIGHTING HAD GIVEN THE MARINES A STRONG BEACHHEAD AND THE IMPORTANT BOMBER AIRFIELD. THEY HAD CUT OFF THE NIPPONESE IN STRONG POSITIONS ON SURIBACHI AND THROWN BACK A FEROCIOUS COUNTERATTACK BEFORE DAWN TUESDAY IN WHICH THE ENEMY ATTEMPTED TO TAKE BACK A PORTION OF THE AIRFIELD.

A DISPATCH FROM MORRIE LANDSBERG, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT ABOARD THE EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP OF VICE ADM. RICHMOND K.TURNER, SAID THE MARINES HAD OBTAINED A STRONG TOEHOLD ON THE ISLAND FROM WHICH TO PUSH THEIR CONQUEST. IT WAS EXPECTED, HE ADDED, THAT THE BLOODY FINALE OF THE CAMPAIGN WOULD BE IN THE ROCKY NORTHERN PORTION OF THE ISLAND.

YANK CASUALTIES WERE HEAVY AT TIMES, LANDSBERG REPORTED, AS THEY FOUGHT YARD BY YARD FROM THEIR TERRACED BEACHHEAD. THERE WAS ENEMY FIRE VIRTUALLY EVERY STEP OF THE WAY.

WITH THE ENTIRE SOUTHERN DEFENSE SYSTEM OF JAPAN THREATENED, THE THOUSANDS OF NIPPONESE ON IWO WERE FIGHTING BACK WITH EVERY WEAPON AT THEIR COMMAND, WHICH INCLUDED ROCKETS. BY EARLY WEDNESDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF THE INVASION, NOT A SINGLE ENEMY PLANE HAD BEEN ABLE TO PENETRATE THE COMBAT AIR PATROL THROWN AROUND THE ISLAND AND THE INVASION ARMADA.

EXTREMELY TOUGH GOING WAS BEING EXPERIENCED ON THE RIGHT FLANK OF THE AMERICAN LINE, CURVING NORTHWARD FROM THE NORTHERN SLOPE OF FORMIDABLE SURIBACHI. THIS LINE TRAVERSES THE NORTHERN END OF THE CAPTURED AIRFIELD AND THEN DIPS DOWN TO THE UPPER OR NORTHERN END OF THE BEACHHEAD.

VIEWING THE ACTION FROM A WARSHIP JUST OFF THE AMERICAN BEACHHEAD, LT.GEN.HOLLAND M.SMITH, COMMANDER OF PACIFIC MARINES, SAID "THE FIGHT IS THE TOUGHEST WE'VE RUN ACROSS IN 168 YEARS." AND HE MEANT TOUGHER THAN TARAWA, A VICTORIOUS, BLOODY FIGHT THAT WAS COSTLY IN AMERICAN LIVES.

ONE WAR CORRESPONDENT FLYING OVER IWO, 750 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO, DESCRIBED IT AS "EIGHT SQUARE MILES OF UNADULTERATED HELL."

IN TWO COMMUNIQUES TUESDAY, SECOND DAY OF THE GRIM FIGHT, FLEET ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ SAID THE DETERMINED DEVILDOGS DROVE ACROSS THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND AND ISOLATED THE STRONG VOLCANO POSITIONS FROM JAPANESE FORCES IN THE NORTH. HE SAID THE MARINES EXPANDED THEIR BEACHHEAD BY 1,000 YARDS ON THE SOUTHWESTERN COAST.

THE 27TH MARINE REGIMENT BROKE UP A FIERCE NIGHT JAPANESE COUNTERATTACK BY 900 TROOPS AT MOTOYAMA BOMBER AIRFIELD NO.1 AND DROVE OF THE NIPPON SURVIVORS.

BY NOON ON THE SECOND DAY THE LEATHERNECKS FROM THE SOUTHWESTERN AND SOUTHEASTERN BEACHHEADS DROVE THEIR LINES FROM THE WEST TO THE EAST COAST. WITHIN THE THIRD OF THE ISLAND THEY CONTROL ARE THE BOMBER FIELD AND THE 546 FOOT VOLCANO AS WELL AS THE LOWLANDS JUST BACK THE BEACHES.

THE VOLCANIC POSITIONS WERE NOT KNOCKED OUT. ENEMY GUNS STILL BLAZED FROM THE RUGGED SLOPES, AGAINST WHICH SWARMS OF ROCKET PLANES WERE SENT. AN EYE WITNESS REPORTED THAT 22 ROCKET PLANES PEELED OFF FROM ONE FORMATION AND ROARED IN ON THE CLIFF FACE WHERE THE JAPANESE WERE HOLED UP. THE OBSERVER WHO SENT THE ROCKET-FIRING PLANES ON THE ASSIGNMENT REPORTED "GOOD WORK,RIGHT ON THE BUTTON."

A214KX

IN ONE OF HIS COMMUNIQUES ADMIRAL NIMITZ SOUNDED A SOBER NOTE, INDICATING THAT A TERRIFIC FIGHT WAS STILL AHEAD.

THE FIRST JAPANESE PLANES APPEARED NEAR THE IWO SCENE AT NIGHT, AS NIPPONESE ARTILLERY AND MORTARS RAINED SHELLS ON THE BEACHHEADS. THE ENEMY RAIDERS WERE DRIVEN OFF BEFORE THEY REACHED THEIR OBJECTIVE. DESPITE THE HEAVY FIRE THE SUPPLY UNITS WORKED LIKE BEAVERS ON THE BEACHES LANDING TONS OF AMMUNITION AND OTHER BATTLE NECESSITIES UNDER THE LIGHT OF STARSHELLS SENT UP BY WARSHIPS. THE MEN-OF-WAR CONTINUED THEIR ROUND-THE-CLOCK BOMBARDMENTS.

A MARINE CORPS SPOKESMAN AT FLEET HEADQUARTERS SAID THERE WAS NO INDICATION OF ANY NOTICEABLE WEAKENING OF THE JAPANESE GARRISON. HE TOO FORECAST A BITTER FIGHT AHEAD.

MARINE CASUALTIES IN THE SOUTH WERE LIGHT BUT ON THE OPEN UNPROTECTED SLOPES EAST OF THE CAPTURED AIRFIELD--JUST INLAND FROM THE INVASION BEACHHEAD--THEY WERE "MORE NUMEROUS."

THE WORDING OF ONE COMMUNIQUE INDICATED CLEARLY THAT "BLOODY" WAS NO MISNOMER. REPORTS OF INTENSE MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE AND SMALL BOATS PLYING BETWEEN THE SHORE AND THE WHITE HOSPITAL SHIPS OFF THE BEACHHEADS TOLD A CLEAR STORY.

THE FACT THAT "HEAVY" NAVAL GUNFIRE CONTINUED TO BATTER THE JAPANESE IN THEIR CAVE AND TUNNEL POSITIONS EMPHASIZED THE FIERCENESS OF THE STRUGGLE FOR THIS IMPORTANT HALF WAY STATION BETWEEN SAIPAN AND TOKYO. SOON IT WILL BE A MAIN STATION FOR THE MOUNTING CRESCENDO OF AMERICAN HAMMER BLOWS AGAINST THE RISING SUN EMPIRE ITSELF.

RADIO TOKYO REPORTED A NEW AMERICAN LANDING AT NIGHT ON NORTHERN IWO JUST ABOVE THE ORIGINAL BEACHHEAD ON THE SOUTHEASTERN SHORE. THE JAPANESE SAID "FURIOUS FIGHTING IS AT PRESENT IN PROGRESS" IN THAT SECTOR.

HOMELAND INVASION JITTERS STILL HELD THE TOKYO PRESS. THE NEWSPAPER MAINICHI SAID "WE MUST NOW REALIZE THAT IT IS NOT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE ENEMY TO ATTEMPT A LANDING ON THE HOMELAND. X X X THE HOMELAND HAS INDEED BECOME A FIGHTING FRONT."

THE NIGHT FINALLY WORE OUT. THERE WERE MANY MARINE CASUALTIES AROUND US BUT PROVIDENCE WAS WITH US AND NONE OF US WAS HIT. EARLY IN THE MORNING THOMASON AND I MADE A MAD DASH FOR THE BEACH ON ACCOUNT OF I WANTED TO GET TO THE SHIP TO GET THIS STORY FILED.

THOMASON, CAMPBELL ET AL ARE STILL OUT THERE AND FEB 20 1945 GUTS HELP THEY'LL GET ALONG ALL RIGHT.

MANILA,WEDNESDAY,FEB.21-(AP)-BITTER HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING FACED AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS WAITING TODAY FOR THEIR HEAVY ARTILLERY TO WIDEN BREACHES IN THE 40-FOOT THICK STONEWORK AROUND THE OLD WALLED CITY, LAST MAIN CORE OF JAPANESE RESISTANCE IN MANILA.

YANKS WRESTING FORT CORREGIDOR FROM THE REMAINING NIPPONESE ON THE MANILA BAY FORTRESS ISLAND PROCEEDED METHODICALLY WITH THE JOB OF SEALING THE ENEMY INSIDE TUNNELS WHICH HONEYCOMB THE "ROCK." THEY HAD SMASHED A COUNTERATTACK WHICH FOR A TIME SERIOUSLY THREATENED AN AMERICAN POSITION.

ON LUZON ISLAND THERE WERE INDICATIONS THE JAPANESE PERHAPS WERE ESTABLISHING A DEFENSE LINE IN THE FOOTHILLS NORTH OF MANILA, WHERE AMERICAN PATROLS ENGAGED IN SEVERAL CLASHES WITH THE ENEMY IN THE VICINITY OF NOVALICHES AND NORZAGARAY.

(TOKYO RADIO BROADCAST A DOMEI AGENCY DISPATCH QUOTING GEN. TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA, JAPANESE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF IN THE PHILIPPINES, AS SAYING "FIGHTING UP TO NOW CONSTITUTES A MERE PRELIMINARY OPERATION, WITH A FULL SCALE OPERATION BY THE MAIN STRENGTH OF OUR FORCES TO FOLLOW HENCEFORTH."

(YAMASHITA, THE BROADCAST SAID, CLAIMED HIS PLAN IS "PROGRESSING WITHOUT A HITCH." HE RECENTLY HAD SAID HE WAS EMPLOYING "BLEEDING TACTICS" AGAINST THE AMERICANS, AND WOULD STRIKE WHEN HE CONSIDERED THE TIME RIGHT.)

CHIPS FLEW FROM THE MASSIVE WALLS SURROUNDING THE INTRAMUROS, OR OLD WALLED CITY, IN MANILA AS AMERICAN GUNS FIRED FROM AS LITTLE AS 500-YARD RANGE IN EFFORTS TO OPEN HOLES FOR TANKS AND INFANTRYMEN, WHO MUST ROOT THE ENEMY FROM WRECKED BUILDINGS INSIDE.

FRED HAMPSON, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT, SAID FILIPINOS WHO HAD MANAGED TO ESCAPE FROM THE WALLED CITY TOLD HIM 7,000 CIVILIANS WERE HUDDLED IN BUILDINGS ON THE BAY SIDE OF HE ENCLOSURE.

THE JAPANESE HAVE IGNORED APPEALS BY MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD

14TH CORPS COMMANDER, TO PERMIT THE CIVILIANS TO LEAVE.

THE NIPPONESE SURVIVORS ON CORREGIDOR MAY BE GETTING DESPERATE FOR WATER, SAID COL.GEORGE M.JONES AFTER 400 OF THEM HURLED THEMSELVES INTO A BLOODY HAND-TO-HAND COUNTERATTACK AGAINST UNITS OF TE 503RD PARATROOP REGIMENT.

IN THE 3 A.M. ATTACK MONDAY THE JAPANESE PENETRATED TO THE PARATROOPERS' BATTALION COMMAND POST ON THE FORT'S PARADE GROUND, WHERE THE YANK 'CHUTISTS LANDED FEB.16.

THE ENEMY STAGED THE DESPERATE CHARGE AFTER BLOWING UP THEIR OWN AMMUNITION DUMP.

"THE JAPS SWARMED ALL AROUND," SAID JONES. "ONE COMPANY WAS BADLY MAULED AS THE JAPS SWARMED FROM THE CAVES. TODAY WE ARE SYSTEMATICALLY BLOWING THEM UP AND SEALING THEM IN."

HEADQUARTERS ON MONDAY REPORTED PROGRESSIVE MOPPING UP OF JAPANESE O BATAAN PENINSULA; THE CAPTURE OF FORT WILLIAM MCKINLEY, JUST SOUTH OF MANILA, AND THE AMERICAN SEIZURE OF THE TOWNS ON HOGONOY AND TAGIG ON THE NORTHWEST SHORE OF LAGUNA DE BAY, SOUTHEAST OF THE PHILIPPINE CAPITAL.

WHILE 11TH AIRBORNE AND FIRST CAVALRY YANKS ENTERED EXTENSIVE FORT WILLIAM MCKINLEY, AT THE SOUTHERN OUTSKIRTS OF THE CAPITAL, 37TH DIVISION TROOPS WHEELED BIG HOWITZERS OVER PONTOON BRIDGES SPANNING THE PASIG AND BEGAN SHELLING MEDIEVAL INTRAMUROS WALLS 40 FEET THICK AT THE BASE.

THREE DAYS AGO MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD ASKED THE JAPANESE COMMANDER IN THE INTRAMUROS TO LIBERATE THE CIVILIANS WITHIN THE WALLS IN EXCHANGE FOR HONORABLE SURRENDER. NO FORMAL ANSWER WAS FORTHCOMING, SO THE AMERICANS PROCEEDED TO KNOCK THE WALLS DOWN.

BY NOON YESTERDAY A CONSIDERABLE PORTION OF THE OUTER WALL HAD BEEN BREACHED, BUT FURTHER POUNDING WILL BE NECESSARY BEFORE TANKS AND TROOPS CAN MOVE IN.

AMERICAN BOMBERS RANGING THE CHINA SEA POURED 175 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON FORMOSA'S TAKAO AREA. AN ALUMINUM PLANT AND RAILROAD YARDS WERE DAMAGED EXTENSIVELY. NORTHWEST BORNEO AIRDROMES WERE HIT WITH 64 TONS OF BOMBS.

A SMALL JAPANESE CRUISER WAS SUNK AT NIGHT OFF CEBU, IN THE CENTRAL PHILIPPINES. BY PATROL TORPEDO BOATS.

IN THE DARK, TENSE HOURS BEFORE DAWN, THE ENEMY COUNTERATTACKED IN AN EFFORT TO DISLODGE THE AMERICANS FROM A PORTION OF THE AIRFIELD TAKEN IN THE FIRST DAY OF THE BITTER CAMPAIGN. THE MARINES ROUTED THE ATTACKERS. (IN A COMMUNIQUE TUESDAY, ISSUED FROM HIS HEADQUARTERS ON GUAM, ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ ANNOUNCED THE REPULSE OF THIS COUNTERDRIVE.)

Add Abt. Adm. Turner's Flagship (Lentsberg) xx mistaking that.

AN ENEMY SMALL BOAT ATTEMPTED TO LAND ON THE SOUTHWEST COAST DURING THE NIGHT BUT ALL THE ESTIMATED 25 JAPANESE IN IT, PROBABLY ON SOME FANTASTIC MISSION, WERE BELIEVED ANNIHILATED BEFORE IT REACHED AMERICAN POSITIONS.

ELEMENTS OF MARINES PINCHED OFF SURIBACHI VOLCANO, AT THE SOUTHERN TIP OF THE ISLAND, WHILE OTHERS ENLARGED THEIR SOUTHEAST BEACHHEAD AND PUSHED GRADUALLY TOWARD THE MAIN ENEMY DEFENSES IN THE NORTH.

FEB 2 1945

IT WAS ON THE OPEN, ROLLING GROUND EAST OF THE CAPTURED AIRFIELD THAT THE MARINES SUFFERED THEIR HEAVIEST CASUALTIES IN MEETING A BATTLE SITUATION WHICH LT.GEN.HOLLAND M.SMITH DESCRIBED AS THE TOUGHEST IN THE MARINE CORPS' 168-YEARS HISTORY.

HE WALKED AROUND THE HILLS WITHOUT SO MUCH AS A SNIPER'S SHOT. CORREGIDOR SEEMED LIKE A PEACEFUL BY BLEAK AND WORTHLESS ROCK YARD.

ON THE TOPSIDE, HOWEVER, THEINFANTRYMEN AND PARATROOPERS PURSUED THE DEADLY JOB OF BURNING AND ROOTING THE JAPANESE FROM CAVES AND TUNNELS.

THE BEACHHEAD HAD THE QUIETEST NIGHT SINCE THE LANDING BUT NAVY GUNS WERE HAMMERING AGAINST THE HILLSIDE AGAIN THIS MORNING.

AT AID STATION ON CORREGIDOR,ISLAND,PHILIPPINES,FEB. 18-(AP)-(DELAYED)-THIS IS A SMALL ROCK. THERE AREN'T MANY JAPANESE HERE AND WE CONTROL MOST OF THE COMMANDING POINTS. BUT IN THE WORDS OF A SOLDIER WHO SURVIVED THE ROUGH FIGHT AT BIAK AND WENT THROUGH THE TOUGHEST PART OF THE LEYTE CAMPAIGN WITHOUT A SCRATCH ONLY TO BE WOUNDED HERE TODAY, "THEY PLAY ROUGH HERE."

ANOTHER PRIVATE LAY GASPING IN THE BROILING SUN, WITH A GAPING SHOULDER WOUND. A MEDICAL AIDE HELD A PLASMA JAR ABOVE HIM. BEFORE THE PLASMA WAS HALF GONE, THE BOY RELAXED IN DEATH. THE DOCTORS AND CORPSMEN KEPT ON WORKING IN THEIR TINY POST AS SNIPER BULLETS WHISTLED OVERHEAD.

FIFTEEN MINUTES AGO AS THIS WAS WRITTEN A SOLDIER WAS WOUNDED AT A ROCKY BLUFF 200 YARDS AWAY. FOUR STRETCHER BEARERS WENT AFTER HIM WITH JAPANESE MACHINE GUN BULLETS KICKING UP DIRT AROUND THEM.

ONE BEARER WAS HIT AND ROLLED DOWN THE HILLSIDE -- BUT THE OTHERS DROPPED BEHIND SOME ROCKS UNTIL OUR MORTARS SILENCED THE JAPANESE FIRE.

THIS IS A SMALL BATTLEFIELD, BUT IT IS VERY REAL TO THE BOYS OF THE 44TH DIVISION AND THE 503RD PARACHUTE REGIMENT WHOSE JOB IS TO CLEAR UP CORREGIDOR.

PFC SAM PERNAL, (4416 WHIPPLE STREET) CHICAGO, WAS DRIVING A DUCK (AMPHIBIOUS VEHICLE) W ICH HIT A MINE, BUT NONE ABOARD IT WAS INJURED.

LT.GEORGE DURICK, (3118 WEST 38TH STREET) CHICAGO, DIRECTS ENGINEERS UNCOVERING THE MINES. HE HAS 60 MINES LINED UP IN ROWS -- DUG FROM ONE SMALL SECTOR OF THE BEACH.

FEB 2 1945

PFC DONALD MESSERSMITH, PRINCEVILLE, ILL., SPENT 40 HOURS BEHIND A ROCK ONLY A LITTLE LARGER THAN HIS HEAD. HE WAS CAUGHT IN THE CROSSFIRE FROM TWO BYPASSED PILLBOXES. PEEPING THROUGH A CRACK BETWEEN THE ROCKS HE COULD SEE THE JAPANESE AT THE ENTRANCE TO A CAVE DUG IN MALINTA HILL.

OUR CASUALTIES WERE COMPARATIVELY FEW AT A POINT CALLED HUMORIST. LT.LESTER FONDREN, CLEVELAND, MISS., WAS ONLY FIVE FEET AWAY FROM ONE MAN W O WAS KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF A LANDMINE.

MANILA, P.I., FEB.19-(DELAYED)-(AP)-MANILA LIFE USED TO BE GAY, EAST-GOING, IN COMFORTABLE HOMES AND APARTMENTS ALONG MANILA BAY AND THAT MAKES THE WILDERNESS OF RUIN NOW THERE ALL THE MORE APPALLING.

THE RESIDENTIAL STRETCH IN THE ERMITA IS STILL A BATTLE-GROUND AS THE TWELFTH CAVALRY REGIMENT PUSHED OFF THIS MORNING ON A NEW ASSAULT ON JAPANESE STRONG POINTS AROUND THE BLASTED HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE AND THE NEARBY SHELL OF THE BAYVIEW HOTEL.

BEHIND AND AROUND THE FRONT LINES SKELETONS OF RESIDENCES TELL OF THE FEROCITY OF THIS BATTLE. THIS WAS A PROUD DISTRICT. SOME OF THIS PRIDE SEEMS TO BE REFLECTED IN THE DESOLATION WHERE THE BUILDINGS DIED HARD.

LITTLE OR NOTHING ESCAPED DAMAGE IN A THREE MILE STRETCH FROM THE POLO CLUB TO THE MANILA HOTEL ALONG DEWEY BOULEVARD AND PARALLEL STREETS. MOST BUILDINGS WERE GUTTED BY FIRE. MANY WERE RIPPED BY SHELLS.

I CLIMBED THE EIGHT-STORY MITCHELL APARTMENTS A FEW BLOCKS BEHIND THE BATTLEFRONT.

CLIMBING WITH ME THROUGH THE BURNED BEAMS, STREWN GLASS AND GAPING SHELL WOUNDS WAS T/5 CAROL WHEELER, (218 JACKSON ST.) MADISON, WIS.. OF L COMPANY OF THE 148TH INFANTRY.

THE AMERICAN TOUCH IS STILL STRONG IN THIS APARTMENT HOUSE WHICH FORMERLY WAS ONE OF THE BEST IN MANILA. SOME ROOMS ARE ONLY PARTIALLY TOUCHED BY FIRE. THE FURNITURE REMAINS BUT CLOTHES AND OTHER POSSESSIONS ARE STREWN ACROSS THE FLOOR.

A TRUNK IN ONE ROOM BORE THE NAME G. HAUSMAN.

OUT IN THE BAY SCORES OF SUNKEN SHIPS--MORE OF THEM THAN THERE WERE AMERICAN VESSELS CAUGHT SIMILARLY FROM THE AIR IN THE EARLY DAYS OF THE WAR--PROVIDE A RAGGED BACKDROP TO THE BATTLE ACTION ON THE DESOLATED LAND STAGE.

STORIES OF THE TWO CAMPAIGNS ARE CONSTANTLY INTERMINGLED. DIRECTLY AHEAD ARE THE BURNED REMAINS OF THE ELENA APARTMENTS WHERE A BRASH YOUNG AMERICAN SECOND LIEUTENANT ESTABLISHED A LUXURIOUS APARTMENT A FEW WEEKS BEFORE THE WAR, THEN WENT AWAY TO BATAAN AND PRISON CAMP.

CAVALRYMEN BEGAN TO PUSH NEAR ASSUMPTION CONVENT, WHERE PROUD YOUNGSTERS FORMERLY ARRIVED AT SCHOOL IN LONG LINES OF CHAUFFEUR DRIVEN LIMOUSINES. THE SMOKE OF BATTLE SOMETIMES ENGULFED THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE, NOW SHAGGY AND SHELL POCKED IN UNKEMPT GROUNDS. THERE THE JAPANESE FLAG WAS FIRST RAISED AFTER THE ENEMY OCCUPIED THE CITY.

IN THE TANGLE OF TUMBLED BUILDINGS AND CHARRED GAUNT PILLARS, SOME FILIPINOS HAVE ALREADY BEGUN TO LIVE BENEATH SHEET METAL ROOFS AND HANDPILED BRICK WALLS.

THE ADMIRAL APARTMENTS ARE SEEMINGLY THE LEAST DAMAGED BUT IT IS A DEATH TRAP FOR IT STILL CONTAINS A HUGE MINE. AN OFFICER WAS KILLED DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THE BUILDING LAST NIGHT BY A LAND MINE.

AT A 37TH DIVISION OBSERVATION POST, MANILA, P.I., FEB. 20-(AP)-POINT BLANK FIRE BY MODERN ARTILLERY IS HAVING LITTLE EFFECT ON THE MEDIEVAL WALL OF MANILA'S HISTORIC INTRAMUROS.

NOT 500 YARDS FROM THE WALL OF THE ANCIENT CITY AN ARTILLERY BATTERY IS FIRING ONE ROUND PER MINUTE. THIS IS SHOOTING GALLERY STUFF FOR A FIELD GUN.

THE GREAT GRAY BARRIER WHICH THE SPANISH BUILT BACK IN THE MISTY BEGINNING OF THE WHITE MAN'S ENTRY INTO THE PACIFIC GIVES OFF A SPRAY OF CHIPS, DUST, AND RUBBLE, BUT WHEN THE DUST CLEARS WE CAN SEE THE GUN HAS BITTEN OFF ONLY A SMALL NIBBLE.

LITTLE BY LITTLE THE WHOLE WIDENS AND DEEPENS BUT IT WILL TAKE MANY MORE ROUNDS TO WIDEN IT ENOUGH FOR TANKS AND TROOPS TO STORM THROUGH AND GO ABOUT CLEANING THE JAPANESE OUT OF THIS DEFENSE BORROWED FROM HISTORY.

BREACHING OF THE WALL IS TAKING PLACE JUST ACROSS THE PASIG RIVER NOT FOUR CITY BLOCKS AWAY FROM THIS ARTILLERY OBSERVATION POST FOR THE SEVENTH FLOOR OF THE GREAT EASTERN HOTEL. WE CAN SEE THE WALL AND PART OF THE INTRAMUROS (WALLED CITY). MOST OF THE BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN RIPPED APART OR BLASTED BY SHELLS.

THE PLACE LOOKS DESERTED BUT JAPANESE MACHINE GUN AND SNIPER

FIRE CONTINUES TO PING AND JABBER FROM WITHIN. ESCAPED FILIPINOS SAY THERE ARE 7,000 CIVILIANS HUDDLED IN BUILDINGS ON THE SEAWARD SIDE OF THE OLD FORTRESS WHICH SO FAR HAS WITHSTOOD THE POUNDING OF MODERN WAR.

DEATH, TRAGEDY, HORROR, AND TERRIFIC COMBAT, HAVE RUN TOGETHER IN SUCH A BLOODY BLUR IN THE LAST 15 DAYS IN MANILA THAT ONE LOSES SENSE OF VALUES AND PERSPECTIVE.

BUT EVEN THOUGH WE HAVE WATCHED A CITY BURN, SEEN TORTURED PEOPLE LIBERATED, WITNESSED THE GAUNT HORROR OF A GREAT HOSPITAL'S SICK STAGGER THROUGH EMBATTLED INFANTRY LINES, ALL IN TWO WEEKS, WE STILL HAD FEELING ENOUGH TO GROW BITTER AT HAVING TO WRECK ONE OF THE ORIENT'S HISTORIC SHRINES JUST TO KILL A FEW HUNDRED JAPANESE.

IWO JIMA, FEB. 19-(DELAYED)-(AP)-DODGING HEAVY MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE, MARINES CLIMBED THE STEEP SAND CLIFFS TO ESTABLISH POSITIONS ON THE EDGE OF THE MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO. 1 EARLY TODAY.

THE AIRFIELD IS THE PRINCIPAL OBJECTIVE OF THE ISLAND'S INVASION.

(AT THE END OF THE DAY, THE MARINES CAPTURED THE FIELD).

THE VOLCANIC SAND'S LOOSE DEPTHS HAMPERED THE LONG CLIMB WITH MEN SLIPPING AND FALLING AS THEY CLAMBERED UP THE BANKS.

THE SLIDING CLIMB WAS INTERRUPTED MANY TIMES BY DIVES INTO SHELL HOLES RIPPED INTO THE HILLSIDE BY THE HEAVY NAVAL BOMBARDMENT OR INTO TRENCHES DUG BY THE JAPANESE IN THEIR FUTILE ATTEMPT TO [illegible] THE MARINES.

MANY ENEMY DEAD WERE LEFT ON THE SLOPES, IN THE TRENCHES OR IN SHATTERED FORTIFIED POSITIONS FROM WHICH THE REMAINDER HAD BEEN FORCED TO FLEE.

SNIPERS PROVIDED A CONTINUAL HAZARD BUT THE CASUALTIES ON THIS AREA SEEMED EXCEPTIONALLY LIGHT IN THE INITIAL HOURS OF THE FIGHTING.

THE BEACHES AND RIDGES APPROACHING THE SOUTHERN END OF IWO JIMA'S BIGGEST AIRFIELD HAVE BEEN AN ARTILLERY AND MORTAR DUELING GROUND FOR NEARLY 24 HOURS.

THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT MARINES OF AN ECHELON WHICH CLAMBERED THROUGH THE FOOT-DEEP VOLCANIC SANDS TO SCALE THE STEEP CLIFFS WERE PINNED DOWN IN HASTILLY CONSTRUCTED DUGOUTS.

THE JAPANESE ARTILLERY SHELLS HURLED OVER THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT, CRASHING INTO THE SAND TERRACE BELOW THE AIRFIELD.

MARINE MORTAR BATTERIES RETURNED THE FIRE AND FOR A WHILE SILENCED THE ENEMY GUNS WHICH WERE POURING A FIRE CLOSE TO THE CENTER OF THIS POSITION AT THE AIRFIELD.

WITH DAWN, THIS MORNING, THE MARINE MORTAR GROUP SWUNG BACK INTO ACTION AGAIN, SILENCING FOR THE TIME BEING THE JAPANESE GUNS WHICH WERE FIRING FROM THE NORTHERN END OF THE ISLAND TO RAKE THE AREAS ABOVE THE BEACHES.

THE JAPANESE FIRE WAS RESUMED SOON, HOWEVER, AND CONCENTRATED ON TANKS MOVING TOWARD THE END OF THE AIRFIELD.

ONE TANK WAS HIT AND EXPLODED IN A GREAT BLAST, HURLING DEBRIS A HUNDRED YARDS.

THE JAPANESE BATTERIES WERE SLOWED BY PLANES WHICH STRAFFED AND FIRED ROCKETS.

WITH IWO (400)

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG

ABOARD VICE ADM. RICHMOND K.TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP, FEB 20-(AP)-IT'S GETTING TOUGHER AND TOUGHER TO SHOOT PICTURES OF YANK LANDINGS IN THE PACIFIC. BUT DEPEND UPON IT THE QUIET LITTLE MAN WITH THE DARK BROWN MOUSTACHE, THE THICK-LENSED SPECTACLES, AND THE LONG CIGARETTE HOLDER WAS THERE AMONG THE FIRST ON THE ASSAULT BEACH ON IWO WITH HIS CAMERA.

THIS D-DAY, AS ON OTHER D-DAYS IN THE PACIFIC, ASSOCIATED PRESS' JOE ROSENTHAL REACHED IWO'S SMOKING SHORE BEFORE NOON AND BEGAN CLICKING HIS CAMERA AND MAKING PICTURES WHICH MADE HISTORY.

(JOE ROSENTHAL'S IWO BEACH PICTURES WERE FLOWN TO GUAM AND SENT BY NAVY RADIO TO SAN FRANCISCO WITHIN 24 HOURS. THEY WERE DISTRIBUTED TO THE WARTIME STILL PICTURE POOL AND WIREPHOTED IN EIGHT MINUTES BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TO ITS MEMBERS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES. THE FRONT PAGE PICTURES STOOD UP WITH THE NEWS' STORIES. IT WAS THE FASTEST HANDLING OF INVASION BEACH PICTURES IN THE PACIFIC WAR).

JOE COULDN'T HEAR HIS CAMERA CLICK BECAUSE OF THE MORTAR AND ARTILLERY EXPLOSIONS ALL AROUND HIM.

AFTER HE GOT OUT, HE SAID: "I CAME AWAY WITH THE VERY STRONG IMPRESSION THAT IWO WAS MY HOTTEST BEACHHEAD. LANDINGS ON GUAM, PELELIU AND ANGUAR WERE PALE ALONGSIDE IT."

INBETWEEN THE BUSINESS OF TAKING PHOTOGRAPHS, THE SAN FRANCISCO CAMERAMAN HELPED LUG WOUNDED TO SAFETY.

"I HAILED A COUPLE OF MEDICAL CORPSMEN SWEATING AND SLIDING ALONG THE LOOSE SAND BEARING A WOUNDED MAN. ONE OF THEM LET ME KNOW WITH PROFANITY THAT A PICTURE WAS THE LAST THING THEY WANTED AND WOULD I STICK MY CAMERA AWAY AND REALLY DO SOMETHING IN THIS WAR AND LEND THEM A HAND. IT WAS THE TOUGHEST PIECE OF WORK I HAVE EVER DONE.

THE EARLY LANDING WAS EXTREMELY DIFFICULT, THE 34-YEAR-OLD PHOTOGRAPHER SAID. HIS LANDING CRAFT WAS AFLOAT NEARLY SIX HOURS BEFORE THE BEACH WAS CLEARED AWAY SUFFICIENTLY TO PERMIT LANDING AT THE NORTH BEACHHEAD, WHICH WAS FLANKED ON THE RIGHT BY A CLIFF BRISTLING WITH MORTARS AND HEAVY GUNS.

THERE WERE QUITE A NUMBER OF DEAD ON THEBEACH.

THE TERRACED SLOPES REACHING UP TO THE SOUTHERN AIRFIELD OF MOTOYAMA

WERE FULL OF SNIPERS AND THEY MADE IT HOT FOR THE MARINES.
JOE SAID THE FURIOUS SOUNDS OF OUR OWN AERIAL ASSAULT AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENT AND THE SIGHT OF BLASTS FROM SHORE REACHING FOR THE ON-COMING BOATS MADE ONE "APPREHENSIVE."
"WHEN THE SIGNAL CAME TO GO IN," SAID JOE, "IT WAS TIME TO CHECK THE IMAGINATION AND KEEP THE EYES ON WHAT WAS GOING AROUND, KEEP THE CAMERA DRY AND GET UP THE BEACH AS FAST AS POSSIBLE. BURROW IN AND SIZE UP THE PICTURE POSSIBILITIES WHILE GASPING FOR BREATH.

A156FX
"THE SOFT SANDY FOOTING WHICH LED IN TERRACES UP FROM THE SHORE MADE FOR UNSTEADY GOING BUT TIME AND AGAIN I WAS THANKFUL FOR THE EASE THE SAND GAVE FOR BURROWING IN FOR QUICK PROTECTION FROM TOO ATTENTIVE SNIPERS AND CLOSE BURSTS OF MORTAR AND ARTILLERY SHELLS.
"TWO OR THREE LONG EARNEST SCOOPS WITH THE HANDS WAS ENOUGH TO DIG A PROTECTIVE DEPTH," HE SAID.
"NUMEROUS SHELL CRATERS AND ABANDONED JAPANESE TRENCHES MADE GOOD TEMPORARY HIDEOUTS AS WE HOPPED FROM ONE TO ANOTHER IN OUR ADVANCE.
"AFTER A FEW SNAPSHOTS OF THE ADVANCING MARINES, I MANEUVERED BACK AND FURTHER TOWARD THE SOUTH WHERE OUR OWN WRECKAGE MINGLED WITH THAT OF THE BLASTED JAPANESE EQUIPMENT ALONG THE BEACH."
IT WAS ABOUT THIS TIME THAT THE MEDICAL CORPSMEN GOT HOLD OF HIM AND PUT HIM TO WORK. THEY EXPLAINED THAT FOUR OF THEIR HELPERS WERE CASUALTIES.

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ABOARD VICE ADM.RICHMOND K.TURNER'S FLAGSHIP OFF IWO JIMA, FEB. 19--OVERRUNNING WEAKLY MANNED ENEMY BEACH DEFENSES WHICH HAD BEEN DESTROYED OR HEAVILY DAMAGED BY DEVASTATING NAVAL SHELL FIRE AND BOMBING, MARINES TODAY INVADED IWO JIMA ON THE ROAD TO TOKYO AND MADE EXCELLENT PROGRESS DESPITE STRONG OPPOSITION FROM JAPANESE MORTARS, ARTILLERY, MACHINEGUN AND RIFLE FIRE.
ALTHOUGH THE DARING AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION WAS WELL WITHIN RANGE OF HONSHU ISLAND-BASED AIRCRAFT NO JAPANESE PLANES APPEARED TO CONTEST THE INVASION DURING D-DAY AND ENEMY COAETAL DEFENSE BATTERIES HAD BEEN HAMMERED INTO SUCH USELESSNESS THAT OUR TRANSPORTS DISGORGED TROOPS WITHOUT BEING ATTACK OR HIT.
THE MARINES LANDED ON THE SOUTHEAST COASTAL BEACHES OF IWO JIMA, AN UNINVITING BLEAK VOLCANIC ISLAND SHAPED LIKE A MINIATURE SOUTH AMERICA, EXATLY ON SCHEDULE AT 9 A.M. AND THREE MINUTES LATER THE FIRST ASSAULT WAVES WERE ASHORE ON SEVEN SELECTED BEACHES.
FIGHTING SWIFTLY AND AGGRESSIVELY INLAND THE MARINES CROSSED THE 150 YARD WIDE UNPROTECTED SANDY BEACHES AND MOVED UP THE STEEP TERRACES TOWARD THE PRINCIPAL ENEMY AIR STRIP KNOWN AS MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD, NO. 1, WHICH IS LOCATED IN THE CENTER OF THE SOUTHERN ONE-THIRD OF THE ISLAND.
FURIOUS BLOODY ENCOUNTERS WITH JAPANESE DUG IN AT STRONGPOINTS MARKED THE MARINES' PROGRESS AS THEY ADVANCED ON THE ENEMY DEFENDING THE HIGH GROUND IN FRONT OF THE AIRFIELD AND ON BOTH FLANKS.
THE MORE IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVES OF THE COURAGEOUS MARINES INCLUDE THE MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THE FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS ON THE PLATEAU, AND MT.SURIBACHI, ON THE SOUTHERN TIP OF THE ISLAND, AN EXTINCT 554 FOOT PINKISH-GREY VOLCANIC CONE HONEYCOMBED WITH ENEMY CAVES AND STUDDED WITH GUN EMPLACEMENTS.
DRIVEN UNDERGROUND BY THE TERRIFIC LASHINGS FROM STEEL AND EXPLOSIVES, THE JAPANESE WERE ABLE TO PUT UP ONLY WEAK INITIAL RESISTANCE ON THE SANDY EXPOSED BEACHES BUT LATER THEY RALLIED AND PUT SEVERAL OF THE BEACHES UNDER MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE WHILE RESISTANCE FROM MACHINEGUNNERS AND RIFLEMEN INCREASED.
AS THE FIRST DAY'S FIGHTING ENDED, THE MARINES HAD ONLY BEGUN THE PRODIGIOUS TASK OF KILLING THE ENEMY GARRISON.
LAND MINES WERE FOUND AT SEVERAL PLACES BUT THE MARINES WERE ABLE TO MOVE THEIR TANKS INLAND AND USE THEM IN THE ASSAULT BEING DIRECTED AGAINST THE AIRFIELD. SOFT SAND ON SOME BEACHES TENDED TO SLOW DOWN THE LANDING TROOPS' EQUIPMENT BUT THIS IS BEING OVERCOME.

LEST ANYONE COUNT THIS BATTLE WON PREMATURELY, THE JAPANESE ARE KNOWN TO BE DUG IN AS NEVER BEFORE. VICE ADM.RICHMOND K.TURNER DESCRIBED IWO JIMA AS "AS WELL A DEFENDED FIXED POSITION AS EXISTS IN THE WORLD TODAY. IT IS SMALL BUT BETTER DEFENDED AND BETTER ORGANIZED FOR DEFENSE THAN ANY ISLAND WITH WHICH I'M ACQUAINTED."
THE VETERAN NAVAL AMPHIBIOUS EXPERTS PUT TROOPS ASHORE IN PRECISE, SMOOTH, NEAR PERFECT, SHIP TO SHORE MOVEMENT WITH GUTTY DRIVERS AND COXSWAINS TAKING THE ARMORED AMPHIBIOUS TRACTORS AND OTHER LANDING CRAFT INTO THE BEACH. THE LANDING WAVES MET LITTLE FIRE.
THE EXCELLENT WEATHER WITH SMOOTH WATER AIDED THE INVASION.
IWO JIMA IS FAR ENOUGH NORTH SO THAT IT HAS NO TROPICAL HEAT SUCH AS AT KWAJALEIN AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR. TEMPERATURES ARE COMPARATIVELY COOL.
EARLIER JAPANESE RADIO REPORTS THAT THE AMERICAN LANDING ATTEMPTS WERE REPULSED ARE UTTERLY UNTRUE. THE INVASION BEGAN TODAY, AT 9 A.M., AND WENT ACCORDING TO PLAN, WITHOUT DELAY.

DAVIDSON WAS PICKED UP JAN.10 BY A DESTROYER AFTER FIVE DAYS AND NIGHTS ON A LIFE RAFT.

THE 11 OTHER CREW MEMBERS, INCLUDING A SQUADRON COMMANDER, ARE STILL LISTED MISSING.

DAVIDSON SAID THEY WERE MAKING A PRACTICE RUN ON MAUG, IN THE NORTHERN MARIANAS, WHEN THE NO.2 ENGINE CAUGHT FIRE. THE FLAMES SPREAD AND THE PLANE CAPTAIN ORDERED EVERYONE TO BAIL OUT.

"AS MY CHUTE OPENED, I SAW THE FLAMING SHIP HIT THE WATER AND EXPLODE," SAID DAVIDSON.

HE SAW TWO OTHER CHUTES OPEN BUT "I NEVER SAW THEM AGAIN."

B-29 BASE, TINIAN, MARIANAS, FEB. 20-(AP)-A RECORD LOAD OF BOMBS WAS DUMPED ON JAPAN'S CAPITAL TODAY FOLLOWING VICE ADM.MARC A. MITSCHER'S CARRIER FORCE ASSAULTS, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

PEA-SOUP CLOUDS OBSCURED THE TARGET BUT ONE BOMBER CREW WHICH CAUGHT A QUICK LOOK AT TOKYO'S WATERFRONT THROUGH A CLOUD BREAK SAID THAT A "CARPET OF FIRES WAS BURNING IN THE WHARF AREA AND A BIG BLACK SMOKE CLOUD WAS RISING FROM THE OIL STORAGE TANK AREA."

NO ACCURATE PICTURE HOWEVER COULD BE GATHERED FROM THE FIFTH FLEET'S TWO-DAY WHIRLWIND OF DESTRUCTION.

ALL PLANES FROM TINIAN RETURNED SAFELY AND MOST OF THE CREWS REPORTED "MODERATE" AND ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE AND "VERY LIGHT" FIGHTER OPPOSITION. SAIPAN CREWS, HOWEVER, REPORTED HEAVY FIGHTER OPPOSITION.

(ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ ANNOUNCED MONDAY THAT MORE THAN 509 JAPANESE PLANES HAD BEEN DESTROYED IN THE AIR AND ON THE GROUND DURING THE TWO DAYS AND 150 ADDITIONAL PLANES WERE DAMAGED FRIDAY).

MAJ.CYRUS B.LEWIS OF DOTHAN, ALA., A B-29 SQUADRON LEADER, SAID:

"We can guaranTEE EVERY 500-POUND BOMB DROPPED ON TOKYO." THE BOMBING WAS DONE BY PRECISION INSTRUMENTS.

A SQUADRON LED BY COL.C.CLIFFORD MACOMBER, 239 GARDEN ST., FALL RIVER, MASS., ADDED LEWIS, "APPEARED TO FLY THROUGH FLAK THAT WAS AS THICK AS A THUNDERHEAD."

RETURNING B-29 PILOTS REPORTED FIVE ENEMY FIGHTER PLANES SHOT DOWN, ONE PROBABLY DOWNED, 11 DAMAGED.

MAJ.JOHN CHONGALA, STOCKTON, CALIF., FLYING "BIG MIKE" CREDITED SGT.JOHN CLARKE OF LOS ANGELES, WITH ONE ENEMY FIGHTER SHOT DOWN. ANOTHER "BIG MIKE" MAN, LT.JAMES KENNY OF THE CHICAGO SUBURB, PALOS PARK, KNOCKED DOWN A PLANE -- HIS SECOND FIGHTER -- OVER THE JAPANESE HOMELAND.

THE LAST PLANE TO RETURN TO TINIAN WAS THAT OF LT.JACK BISHOP, 4 NORTH 59TH ST., BIRMINGHAM, ALA. AFTER ITS PROP HAD MILLED FOR THREE AND A HALF HOURS AND THE ENGINE HAD CAUGHT FIRE, T/SGT. ANDREW WASHBURN OF DELAWARE, OKLA., SUGGESTED THAT THEY PUT THE PLANE INTO A DIVE. AFTER A 5,000 FOOT DIVE AND SHARP PULL OUT, THE PROP SNAPPED OFF.

SGTS.AUSBON JUDD, GREENSBURGH, KY., AND HARRY MEARS, PLEASANTVILLE, N.J., BOTH GUNNERS, SAID THERE WERE MORE TWIN-ENGINE JAPANESE FIGHTERS AROUND THAN ON PREVIOUS RAIDS.

CREW MEMBERS WITH CONFIRMED FIGHTERS KNOCKED DOWN INCLUDED LT.ROBERT J.WITTWER, (111 BELLERIVE BLVD) ST.LOUIS; MO.; SGTS.WILLIAM S.CLOUD, GALENA PARK, TEX., AND LISLEG NEHER, ALEXANDRIA, VA.; SGT.DON CHAMBERS, OF (998 EAST FORTIETH ST) BROOKLYN; TECH, SGT.ELMO GLOCKER, OF (710 BOSTON ST) COVINGTON, LA; SGT.HALDEN S.ADRION, OF (137 MILL ST.) BIT RAPIDS, MICH.))M

LT.WILLIAM F.DALY, OF (58 NEW BROADWAY) NORTH TARRYTOWN, N.Y., SAID HE "SAW PLENTY OF FLAK AND IT WAS ONLY OUR EVASIVE ACTION THAT GOT US THROUGH AND HOME. I GOT A GOOD PEEK AT TOKYO AND SAW FOUR BIG FIRES BURNING RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE CITY."

SGT.J.A.PROCTOR, INGRAM, PA., SAID "I GOT A BIG KICK OUT OF FLYING OVER TOKYO KNOWING MARINES WERE ASSAULTING IWO JIMA AT THE SAME TIME."

PURCHASE OF AMERICAN WHEAT ON A LARGE SCALE IS DUE TO THE FACT THAT RAILWAY FACILITIES WITH ARGENTINA HAVE BEEN CRIPPLED BY LAND-SLIDES WHICH THREATEN DISRUPTION OF FREIGHT TRAFFIC BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES UNTIL THE END OF MARCH.

MONTREAL FEB 20-(AP)-THE MONTREAL MILK PRODUCERS' COOPERATIVE AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION TOLD A ROYAL COMMISSION YESTERDAY THAT SURPLUS FUNDS RESULTING FROM BUSINESS DONE BY COOPERATIVES SHOULD NOT BE TAXED BECAUSE THEY REALLY ARE "SAVINGS" BELONGING TO THE MEMBERS.

IN A BRIEF PRESENTED AT THE OPENING OF HEARINGS IN AN INVESTIGATION INTO THE TAXATION OF COOPERATIVES, THE ASSOCIATION SAID: FEB 20 1945

"IT HAS BEEN RECOGNIZED FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS BY THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT THAT SURPLUSES RESULTING FROM BUSINESS DONE BY COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS, FOR THEIR OWN MEMBERS, ARE DIFFERENT FROM PROFITS MADE BY FIRMS, COMPANIES OR INDIVIDUALS DOING BUSINESS WITH THE PUBLIC, AND THAT WHAT THE ENEMIES OF COOPERATIVE ORGANIZATIONS CALL 'PROFITS' ARE REALLY 'SAVINGS' THAT BELONG TO MEMBERS OF THE TRUE COOPERATIVE."

"BY ALL MEANS," THE BRIEF ADDED, "TAX THE INDIVIDUAL FOR THE INCOME HE RECEIVES, INCLUDING WHAT HE GETS FROM HIS COOPERATIVE ENTERPRISES, BUT LEAVE THE SURPLUS IN A GENUINE COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION ALONE."

IF THESE SURPLUS FUNDS WERE MADE SUBJECT TO TAXATION, THE ASSOCIATION ARGUED, THE NET RESULT WOULD BE TO REDUCE THEM AND SOON "THERE WOULD BE NOTHING FOR THE GOVERNMENT TO TAX."

THE ASSOCIATION CLAIMS 4,000 MEMBERS SUPPLYING MORE THAN 90 PER CENT OF GREATER MONTREAL'S MILK REQUIREMENTS.

A BRIEF SUBMITTED BY THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC MILK DISTRIBUTORS' ASSOCIATION, INC., IN BEHALF OF 38 COMPANIES, SAID THE ORGANIZATION

DOES NOT OPPOSE THE PRINCIPLE OF COOPERATION OR COOPERATIVE TRADING. IT MAINTAINED, HOWEVER, THAT INDIVIDUALS WHO JOINED TOGETHER TO OBTAIN BENEFITS THROUGH COOPERATIVE OR MUTUAL ACTION DO SO FOR THEIR OWN GOOD AND SHOULD BE SUBJECT TO THE SAME REGULATIONS AND TAX LIABILITY AS ANY OTHER GROUP ENGAGED IN A SIMILAR BUSINESS.

BRIEFS ALSO WERE SUBMITTED BY THE CANADIAN BUILDERS SUPPLY ASSOCIATION, CLAIMING TO REPRESENT ABOUT 80 FIRMS, AND LA CHAMBRE DE COMMERCE DE LA SARRE. BOTH OPPOSED THE TAX FREEDOM ENJOYED BY THE COOPERATIVES.

BROADCAST WITH IWO (350)

SAN FRANCISCO,FEB.20--THE FIGHTING ON IWO JIMA IS "FIERCE AND BLOODY" AND THE EMBATTLED ISLAND IS "EIGHT SQUARE MILES OF UNADULTERATED HELL," SAID ART PRIMM, RADIO WAR CORRESPONDENT, TODAY AFTER A FLIGHT OVER THE BATTLEFIELD.

"WE FLEW OVER THE BATTLE AREA FOR TWO HOURS, SOMETIMES COMING DOWN AS LOW AS 900 FEET," PRIMM SAID IN A BROADCAST TO ALL NETWORKS RECORDED BY BLUE NETWORK.

"IWO JIMA TODAY IS EIGHT SQUAREMILES OF UNADULTERATED HELL WITH HUNDREDS OF CARRIER-BASED PLANES IN THE AIR AND MORE THAN 800 SHIPS OF AL TYPES AND SIZES STANDING OFFSHORE.

"BUT DESPITE THE TERRIFIC POUNDING THE JAPS ARE TAKING THEY ARE APPARENTLY STILL ABLE TO OFFER STERN RESISTANCE TO OUR GROUND FORCES.", PRIMM SAID THAT THE PLANE HE RODE FROM GUAM RAN INTO A DRIVING TROPICAL RAIN OVER IWO AND HE COULD VISUALIZE THE SLIPPERY GOING THE STORM WAS FORCING ON THE MARINES FIGHTING BELOW HIM.

"THROUGH THE DRIVING RAIN WE COULD SEE MORE SHIPS THAN ANY OF US EVER HAD SEEN TOGETHER BEFORE IN OUR LIVES," HE SAID. "SOME OF THEM WERE LYING OFFSHORE BUT MOST OF THEM WERE OFF THE SOUTHEASTERN END OF THE BEACHHEAD. A FEW WERE OFF THE SOUTHWEST COAST AND WERE

LLING THE ISLAND FROM THAT POSITION.

"ALTOGETHER IT WAS A MIGHTY ARMADA BUT WHAT CAUGHT OUR ATTENTION AT ONCE WERE THE SCORES AND SCORES OF PLANES WHICH FILLED THE SKIES. OUR CARRIER ATTACKING FORCE WAS MADE UP MOSTLY OF CURTISS HELLDIVERS AND GRUMMAN AVENGERS. ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS WE SAW AS MANY AS 100 IN THE AIR AT THE SAME TIME, SHUTTLING BACK AND FORTH FROM THEIR CARRIERS TO BLAST AT STRONGPOINTS OF JAPANESE RESISTANCE.

"DURING THE TWO HOURS WE WERE OVER THE TARGET AREA WE SAW NEARLY 500 SORTIES FLOWN ON THE ISLAND.

"THE MAIN OBJECTIVES OF OUR SURFACE VESSELS WERE THE NORTHERN CLIFF OF MOUNT SURABACHI AND THE STONE QUARRY WHICH STANDS IN THE PATH OF OUR NORTHWARD ADVANCE.

"DIVEBOMBERS, TORPEDO BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS IN GROUPS OF FOURS, TENS, TWENTIES AND FIFTIES DROPPED THEIR BOMBS AGAINST THE SIDE OF THE CLIFF WHERE THE JAPS ARE TUNNELLED IN.

"MANY OF THE PLENES WERE CARRYING ROCKETS. WE COULD HEAR THEM OVER THE INTERCOMMUNICATION SYSTEM BEING ORDERED TO LAUNCH THEIR ROCKETS AGAINST THE FACE OF THE CLIFF. AT ONE TIME 22 PEELED OFF FROM 7,000 FEET AND ROARED IN TO LAUNCH THEIR ROCKETS AGAINST SURABACHI AND STRAFE THE DEFENDERS THERE.

"AFTER THEIR RUN WAS COMPLETED THE OBSERVER WAS HEARD TO SAY "GOOD WORK. RIGHT ON THE BUTTON."

FEB 21 1945

PRIMM SAID HE COULD SEE NO MORE THAN TWO DOZEN WRECKED LANDING BOATS ON THE SHORE, TESTIFYING TO YESTERDAY'S COMMUNIQUE WHICH SAID THE LANDING HAD MET BUT SLIGHT RESISTANCE.

BUT THE FIGHTING AREA WAS STREWN WITH WRECKAGE AND DEBRIS. SEVERAL AMPHIBIOUS ALLIGATORS HAD ADVANCED SEVERAL HUNDRED FEET ON THE BEACH BUT THERE THEY HAD BEEN STOPPED BY ENEMY FIRE.

PRIMM SAID THAT BY AFTERNOON SURFACE VESSELS AND AIRCRAFT HAD SHIFTED THEIR ATTENTION TO THE NORTHERN PART OF THE ISLAND "WHERE THE FINAL BATTLES FOR IWO JIMA WILL BE FOUGHT."

"THIS AREA IS LINED WITH RIDGES AND CREVICES WHICH MAKE NATURAL BARRIERS TO ANY ATTACKING FORCE," HE SAID.

"AT LEAST A HALF-DOZEN OF OUR WARSHIPS CUT LOOSE AT THE SAME TIME WITH A MIGHTY SALVO AND 60 FIGHTERS AND BOMBERS MADE THEIR RUNS OVER THE TARGET. THERE WERE AT LEAST 10 PILLARS OF SMOKE RISING HUNDREDS OF FEET.

"BUT THIS ATTACK WASN'T ALL ONE-SIDED. A GROUP OF PLANES HAD BEEN CIRCLING THE AREA AT LOW ALTITUDE FOR SEVERAL MINUTES AND I HEARD ONE OF THE PILOTS SAY, 'LETS OOMB THIS THING AND GET OUT OF HERE, WE'RE SHOT FULL OF HOLES.'"

Patton Gains 5½ Miles, Seizes 11 Towns; Scots Take Goch

Paris, Feb. 21 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., today hurled an armored division through a hole gouged in the central German front in the Moselle-Saar triangle and the tanks smashed forward 5½ miles toward Trier through disorganized resistance.

Goch, strongly fortified road center between the Rhine and Meuse rivers in the north, was finally captured by Scots of the Canadian 1st Army, which gathered momentum in its drive toward the Ruhr Valley, 16 miles away.

South of Patton's 3d Army, the United States 7th Army advanced to within plain sight of Saarbruecken, less than 3 miles away. Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's shock troops invading the Saar again captured half a dozen border towns and broke into Forbach, large French railroad center, which is almost a suburb of devastated Saarbruecken. The Americans seized heights overlooking Spicheren and the Siegfried Line.

Only 7 Miles From Trier

Patton, swiftly capitalizing on the breach in German defenses carved laboriously by Maj. Gen. Harry J. Malony's 94th Division, sent his tanks within 7 miles of Trier and 2 of Saarburg, both keystones of the German defense system in the Moselle Valley leading to Coblenz and Mainz on the Rhine. Dispirited Germans surrendered by the hundreds.

All along a 55-mile assault front the 3d Army was slamming the Germans back. The onslaught was in the Eifel Mountains, from the Pruem area to below the Moselle. Vanguards were within a mile of the northern fringe of the Saar coal and steel region.

The attackers overran eleven towns overnight and early today and got within 3½ miles of the confluence of the Saar and Moselle, just southwest of Trier.

Between Patton's army and the Canadians, three mighty Allied armies stood in strength along the Roer River, which was receding steadily.

The 3d Army was through or inside the Siegfried Line along its entire 55-mile active front. Gains of half a mile to a mile narrowed the gap between breaks in the line at Pruem and Echternach to barely 12 miles. Planes attacked six fortified villages in the Saar Valley between Saarburg and Merzig.

Nazi Losses Very Heavy

German losses were extremely heavy in the Saar-Moselle triangle, where their second-class troops failed to stand up to the terrific force of the attack. More than 2,500 Germans have surrendered in the last 48 hours to the 3d Army alone; the Canadians in the north captured 1,000 overnight for a 14-day total or more than 10,000.

The Canadian army was held without gain 2 miles from Calcar, but Scottish troops of Gen. Henry Crerar's command cut the Goch-Uedem railroad near Goch and pressed within 2 miles of Uedem itself.

Indications were that the Germans were striving to hold a new defense line on a 150-foot ridge between Calcar and Uedem, the last bit of high ground short of the lower Rhine. Beyond Goch, the British and Scots, Welsh and Canadians emerged into an open plain ideal for tanks.

British Empire troops fighting with Crerar's command drove deeper into the center of German defenses in synchronized thrusts through Buchholt and Halverbloom, villages near beseiged Calcar.

Villages overrun by the 7th Army were Zinsing, Altsing, Hesseling, Gros Bliederstroff, Klein-Blittersdorf and Bliesguersebwiller.

In the southern outskirts of Forbach, Patch's Americans surrounded the medieval castle of Schlossberg and trapped the German garrison inside.

More Towns Cleared Of Nazis

A 3d Army armored division that got across the Moselle drove up to 5 miles in the triangle formed by the Saar and Moselle and captured Orscholz, Freudenburg and Kollesleucken. The same outfit cleared Kelsen and Korrig, moving within 2 miles of Saarburg on the southwest.

In a push 5 miles to the north to a point 3 miles from the confluence of the Saar and Moselle, armored units formed a junction with a cavalry outfit which cleared Wincheringen, a mile inside Germany.

Tanks and self-propelled guns also cleared Dittling, 4 miles southwest of Saarburg, and captured Thorn, Kreuzwiller and Dilmar—all about 7 miles southwest of Saarburg.

Patton's men captured 1,200 prisoners yesterday in the Saar-Moselle triangle alone.

In a half-mile gain northeast, the 5th Division reached a point 8 miles northeast of Echternach, occupying a 6-mile stretch along the Preum River beyond the breached Siegfried Line.

80th Division Gains

After crossing the Enz River, the 80th Division pushed half a mile north and was 6 miles north of Bollendorf. The 80th also repulsed a counterattack in the Mettendorf area and advanced a mile northwest into Roth, 5 miles northeast of Diekirch.

Other 3d Army troops drove half a mile east, captured Langfuhr, and edged ahead a quarter mile to a point 2 miles northeast of Vianden.

Nearer Pruem and north of the Moselle, armored units in a half mile advance reached the vicinity of Eschfeld, five miles northeast of Dasburg. The 90th Division advanced a mile to high ground eight miles northeast of Dasburg.

SCOTS CAPTURE GOCH IN DRIVE ON WEST FRONT

11 REICH TOWNS ARE SEIZED

Many Prisoners Are Taken by American and Canadian Army Advances.

Paris, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Scots of the Canadian Army captured the northern German fortress city of Goch today while in the center of the western front the American Third Army advanced up to five miles in a broad sweep in the Moselle Valley toward the Rhine, seizing eleven towns.

Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's tanks and infantry advanced through the Eifel Mountains on a fifty-mile front. Vanguards reached to within two miles of the heavily fortified road center of Saarburg, a key to German defenses along the Moselle.

In the north, the last enemy suicide squads were cleared from Goch, once a town of 13,500 and still the center of eight military highways. The Scots thrust on 600 yards southwestward. Goch is eight miles south of captured Kleve, terminal of the original Siegfried Line, and seventeen miles southeast of the Dutch city of Nijmegen, whence the Canadian offensive started. Beyond the town lies a small open plain in which no fixed German fortifications have been noted.

British Gain Momentum.

British Empire troops fighting with Gen. Henry Crerar's command gathered momentum and drove deeper into the center of German defenses in synchronized thrusts through Buchholt and Halverboom, villages near besieged Calcar. Scottish troops seized the Buchholt and pushed on toward the German stronghold of Uedem, only two and a half miles to the southeast.

On Gen. Patton's southern flank, the American Seventh Army pressed to within less than three miles of the ruined Saar district capital of Saarbruecken, plunged across the Saar River anew to capture the German village of Klein-Blittersdorf, and struck into the outskirts of Forbach, French rail center which almost joins Saarbruecken.

The British Second and American First and Ninth Armies stood in strength along the receding Roer River between the Canadians and Gen. Patton's Third Army. The Germans repeated that an offensive was imminent across the Roer toward the great cities of the Rhine and the Ruhr valleys.

Skies Clear for Planes.

Gen. Patton was eight miles deep in Germany along the Moselle. He was beyond or within the Siegfried Line along his entire fifty-mile assault front.

Seventh Near Saarbruecken.

Lieut.-Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army troops advanced on a twelve-mile front to within less than three miles of Saarbruecken, moved into the outskirts of the suburban French rail center of Forbach and scooped up six border villages. Saarbruecken, blasted by eight successive days of artillery fire at the start of December, is a city of 135,000, the capital of the Saar and the center of five railroads and five main highways fanning out toward the Rhine.

Villages overrun were Zinsing, Altsing, Hesseling, Gros Bliederstroff, Kleinblittersdorf and Bliesguersebwiller.

In the southern outskirts of Forbach, Gen. Patch's Americans surrounded the medieval castle of Schlossberg and trapped the German garrison inside.

Gen. Patton's men captured 1,200 prisoners in the Saar-Moselle triangle alone yesterday. His troops had knifed eight miles into Germany in the triangle which is east of Luxembourg city.

On both the Canadian and Third Army fronts, clearing skies allowed planes to take off early to smash at the Nazis. Tactical planes with Gen. Patton's command struck almost from dawn at motor vehicles heading toward the east and the Rhine.

British planes in the north flew toward the Ruhr valley, sixteen miles from the front. The Ruhr is the basing point for the nine German divisions now attempting desperately to stem the steady Allied gains toward that arsenal. British intelligence established that fifty battalions were opposing the Canadian First Army offensive.

Col.-Gen. Kurt Student had committed four diviisons of his parachute army to the battle, scraping up infantry, tanks and panzer grenadiers from other sections of the awakening Western front. All his troops were elite; none drawn from the very young and infirm of the Volkssturm and Volksgrenadier divisions. More than 10,000 of Gen. Student's men already have been captured.

Both the Rhine and the Meuse (Maas) Rivers, like the Roer, were returning to their banks and roads were hardening.

by Red Army artillery and bombers.

[This would indicate that strong Soviet forces had smashed across the central Oder and encircled the west-bank Nazi stronghold which guards the direct approaches to Berlin.]

There was no confirmation from Moscow, but Pravda, in a military review, said the Red Army was 34 miles from Berlin, the closest the Russian press has put it to the German capital. Presumably this was in Zhukov's sector and possibly west of the Oder.

Frankfurters Flee

"The purchasers of stolen property in Frankfurt have fled to Berlin and no longer know where to go," Pravda said.

Transocean reporter Hans Arntz, broadcasting from inside the city, said the roads leading westward from Frankfurt had been reopened, but admitted the Germans were fighting defensively "between Berlin and the Frankfurt-Kuestrin front."

The assault on Frankfurt, he added, is from bridgeheads south of the city.

The bulk of Frankfurt's 76,000 population has fled and the city has been stripped for a death stand defense as a bastion of Berlin, he declared.

Street-Car Barricades

"Grenades are exploding in its streets and Russian planes are flying over the rooftops, rattling their machine guns," Arntz added.

"Many streets are lonely and dead. Buildings are deserted. Only vital enterprises are still open. The electricity supply has been cut down. Street cars have ceased running and have been converted into anti-tank barricades."

Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army has captured the Polish Corridor town of Czersk, 45 miles southwest of Danzig, Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day.

Czersk, on the main Danzig-Stettin railroad, was described as "an important communications center and a powerful German defense strongpoint in northwestern Poland." It gives Rokoshsovsky a 17-mile hold on the railway from Chojnice on the southwest.

Meanwhile, Marshal Konev's assault teams of infantry, tanks and mobile guns hacked deeper into the Neisse River defenses in the Guben-Forst area, 50 to 60 miles southeast of Berlin. A Reuter report from Moscow said Soviet troops were storming Guben and pounding the city with massed guns.

TWO RED ARMIES LINKED IN DRIVES POINTED AT BERLIN

Russians Are Advancing on Guben and Forst, Nazi Strongholds.

Moscow, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's assault teams of infantry, tanks and mobile guns grimly punched out short gains today in the hilly forested area of Brandenburg before the Neisse River strongpoints of Guben and Forst, southeast of Berlin. His advances temporarily had been reduced from an epic of miles to yards, but there was a general impression in Moscow that his present limited blows were steadily building a springboard for the next big jump which well might take him within gunshot of Berlin.

Both Guben, on the eastern side of the Neisse, and Forst, on the west, have been heavily reinforced by the German Supreme Command to protect supply lines between Cottbus and Beeskow, outer bastions of Berlin's defense on the southeast, but Marshal Konev's advanced units were reported threatening to bypass these river garrisons. Strong Russian forces were reported to be fighting only a short distance northeast and southeast of Guben.

Another Russian column appeared to have cut the junction of the Sommerfeld-Weisswasser and Sorau-Forst railways, after advancing beyond Izschecheln, six miles east of the Neisse. Yesterday's capture of Crossen, on the middle Oder bend, removed an enemy garrison which had prevented the full tactical co-ordination of Marshal Konev's First Ukraine Army with Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian Army to the north.

Enemy Is Nervous.

In the twenty-mile stretch of the Oder between Crossen and the fortress of Fuerstenberg, hard fighting continued for control of the western bank of the stream. No immediate decision was in sight.

Marshal Zhukov's buildup along the Oder, east of Berlin, for a future attack all along his front toward the German capital was reported being energetically pushed amid signs of increasing enemy nervousness. German counter-attacks against Marshal Zhukov's right wing in Pomerania had subsided and there were indications that he was resuming pressure toward the Baltic coast.

Marshal Konev was credited officially with capturing more than eighty populated points in Brandenburg in the last twenty-four hours. In the foothill approaches to the northern Sudetenland Marshal Konev's army edged closer to the communications center of Goerlitz, little more than thirty miles east of Dresden.

Russ Artillery Hammers At Frankfurt

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—Marshal Gregory Zhukov's troops, fighting to encircle Frankfurt-on-the-Oder, 38 miles east of Berlin, have "temporarily" slashed the city's lifelines to the capital, a German military commentator said today.

The fortress town on the west bank of the Oder is under siege and the constant hammering of Russian artillery and bombers, said the report from inside the city by Transocean War Reporter Hans Arntz.

His broadcast coincided with a military review in the Moscow newspaper Pravda which said the Red Army was 34 miles from Berlin.

Closest Russia Has Stated

This report, the closest the Russian press has yet placed the Soviet troops to Berlin, did not give the point of the penetration, but indicated it was in Zhukov's sector and possibly west of the Oder.

"The purchasers of stolen property in Frankfurt-on-the-Oder have fled to Berlin and no longer know where to go," said the review.

Arntz made the disclosure that the trunk railroad and autobahn to Berlin had been cut temporarily, along with the statement: "All roads leading westward from Frankfurt are now open."

"Fighting Defensively"

He said the Germans were fighting defensively "between Berlin and the Frankfurt-Kuestrin front" on the Oder.

The assault upon Frankfurt, he added, is being directed from bridgeheads south of the city, and the "Russians have repeatedly assailed the town, attempting encirclement."

The bulk of Frankfurt's 76,000 population has fled and the city has been stripped for a death-stand defense as a bastion of Berlin, the German broadcast said.

Raided From Air

"Grenades are exploding in its streets and Russian planes are flying over the rooftops rattling their machine guns," he added. "Frankfurt has become a town without air-raid sirens as the occupants are constantly on the jump.

"Many streets are lonely and dead. Buildings are deserted and their occupants have fled to the west. Only vital enterprises are still open. The electricity supply has been cut down and streetcars have ceased running. Streetcars have been converted into anti-tank barricades."

Czersk In Corridor Taken

Marshal Konstantine K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army has captured the Polish corridor town of Czersk, 17 miles northeast of Chojnice and 45 miles southwest of Danzig, Premier Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day.

Czersk, on the main Danzig-Berlin railroad, was described as "an important communications center and a powerful German defense strong point in northwestern Poland."

Seek To Flee Koenigsberg

Meanwhile, the trapped German garrison in the East Prussian capital of Koenigsberg was attempting to break through Russian lines and reach the fortress port of Pillau, at the mouth of the Frisches Haff lagoon, a Moscow dispatch said.

Whether the Germans hoped for a quick evacuation from Pillau or intended to make a Tobruk-like stand there was not clear.

Part of the German Navy now is fighting in Danzig Bay in close support of troops ashore.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's assault teams of infantry, tanks and mobile guns punched out short gains in the forested hilly section of Brandenburg province before the Neisse River strong points of Guben and Forst, southeast of Berlin.

Russians Flank Guben, Battle to Ring Frankfurt

Nazis Admit Lines Are Cut Between Berlin and Big Oder Base 38 Miles Off

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Thursday).—The Soviet 1st Ukrainian Army, driving to the confluence of the Neisse and Oder Rivers fifty-four miles southeast of Berlin, by-passed the stubborn German stronghold of Guben yesterday, while the 1st White Russian Army was reported pressing a great drive for the encirclement of Frankfurt, twenty-one miles farther north.

In East Prussia the Russians acknowledged some advances by the Germans trying to reach the port of Pillau, but at a cost of sixty enemy tanks in a day.

A Moscow communique indicated that the 1st Ukrainian forces of Marshal Ivan S. Konev had made little progress in the struggle through the forest eight miles east of Guben, but announced the capture of fifty populated places north and south of that point in advances of seven to thirteen miles on a fifty-mile-long front.

Places taken included Kuschern, on the Neisse at its confluence with the Oder, and the city of Pfoerten, ten miles south of Guben. The city stronghold of Priebus, on the Neisse's east bank, twenty-three miles southeast of Guben, also was captured.

Moscow was officially silent concerning operations of the 1st White Russian forces of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov directly east of Berlin, but "Pravda," Communist party paper, said the Red Army now stood only thirty-four miles from the Reich capital, and the German radio announced that Zhukov had "temporarily" slashed communications between Berlin and Frankfurt, on the west bank of the Oder, thirty-eight miles from Berlin.

"Pravda" did not specify the location, but this shortest distance from Berlin yet given by the Russians indicated that Zhukov had crossed the Oder, a development which the Germans long have conceded but Moscow never has announced.

[Konev's troops at the confluence of the Neisse and Oder were only five miles from a bridgehead on the Oder's west bank reported held by Zhukov's men, The United Press reported.]

German war reporter Hans Arntz broadcast that the roads and railway between Berlin and Frankfurt had been reopened, but said a great battle for encirclement of Frankfurt was in progress and that the inhabitants had fled the shell-torn city.

Other Nazi broadcasts said German forces were fighting defensively "between Berlin and the Frankfurt-Kuestrin front" about thirty miles east of Berlin, but contended the Russian bridgeheads on the west bank of the Oder still were "far too small" for a major offensive toward Berlin. They acknowledged some enlargement of the Russian foothold at Kienitz, ten miles northwest of Kuestrin.

The 2d White Russian Army of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky continued its steady drive northward through the Polish Corridor toward Danzig, now thirty-three miles away, and was honored by an order of the day from Premier Stalin announcing the capture of Czersk, forty-five miles southwest of Danzig. The Soviet communique said Rokossovsky also took forty other towns in the Polish Corridor, the northern-most being Pehskerfelde.

With Danzig thus endangered, the Germans trapped on the Sam-

land Peninsula, in East Prussia west of Koenigsberg, made a desperate effort to break out to the port of Pillau, twenty miles south. Moscow acknowledged some withdrawals in the face of the violent enemy attempt, which has been in progress for three days. Other German forces caught in East Prussia southwest of Koenigsberg were squeezed closer and lost nine communities, Moscow reported.

Tuesday night and Wednesday morning other Russian planes raided Stettin and Stargard and the besieged Silesian capital of Breslau, hitting trains and war factories, the Soviet communique said.

Breslau remained under close siege, and the Germans said Russian troops had entered the city from the south only to be driven out again. The Paris radio said Russian patrols were only six kilometers (three and three-quarter miles) from the center of Breslau.

pleted airstrips on the island, 750 miles south of Tokyo.

Other Marines crawled 100 painful yards up the slopes of Suribachi volcano, a fortress mountain on the southern tip of the island from which Japanese guns dominate every inch of the ground the Yanks control.

Vicious Japanese defenders attempted one small tank-supported nighttime counterattack and almost constant infiltration, both co-ordinated with mortar, rocket and artillery barrages.

Yanks Break Up All Jap Attempts

All attempts were broken up by the Marines, with the aid of illuminating flares fired throughout the night by the American invasion fleet lying offshore. The flares exposed virtually every Japanese attempt at nighttime maneuvers.

Naval guns, masses of marine artillery, carrier planes, tanks and individual marine units combined in pulverizing Japanese defenses which cover the entire volcanic island. But the Marines still face an uphill fight.

Admiral Nimitz announced that "a large portion of our artillery is now ashore and in position to support both flanks of the beachhead."

He also reported that "supplies are being placed ashore satisfactorily."

All last night the skies over the embattled island presented the weird sight of bursting star shells, tracer bullets and flames flaring up from bursting explosives, while aground sleepless Marines scurried from foxhole to foxhole with ammunition for the advance.

One American officer in position to make better than an offhand guess said "the fight may not be over for some time," although he, like all others, is confident of the ultimate result.

The obstacles overcome by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates's 4th Division in capturing the big bomber field give an indication of what lies ahead in even more treacherous terrain.

The Marines sought cover from enemy fire in shellholes dug out earlier by the bombarding fleet. Hamilton W. Faron, Associated Press war correspondent, said the beaches and

U.S. Drive Nearing Second Airfield On The Island

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 21 (AP)—Approximately 3,650 Marines were killed or wounded in the first 48 hours of the battle for Iwo Jima, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today as he reported that the Leathernecks had made general advances ranging up to 1,000 yards on the island's central airfield. TOPPING

Nimitz listed approximately 3,500 enlisted men and 150 officers as casualties—killed, wounded and missing. He said 3,063 of the wounded have been evacuated, indicating about 600 were killed or missing. There was no estimate of Japanese losses.

Tank-led Marines, holding firm control of more than a third of the island, began an enveloping drive against the fighter field known as Motoyama No. 2. The 5th Marine Division bypassed the southern tip of the field in a flanking move, preparatory to striking at it from the west, while the 4th Division pushed directly toward the center of the airdrome.

Every yard of the advance was made under a steady hail of Japanese machine-gun, mortar, rifle and rocket fire over wet, rocky slopes crisscrossed with revetments, pillboxes, blockhouses and reinforced sniper holes. Mines and tank traps were plentiful.

30 Hours Ahead Of Schedule

The marine drive stemmed from Motoyama Airfield No. 1, the island's prized bomber field captured yesterday noon 30 hours ahead of schedule.

About 700 yards separate these two fields, the only com-above Motoyama Airfield No. 2, which lies on a plateau. The Marines had to climb slopes to approach it from any direction.

Wedge Driven Across Island

They inched forward 200 yards north of Motoyama Airfield No. 1 before they had to dig in as enemy rockets and artillery shells poured down from overlooking positions.

Those Marines were on the north flank of a wedge which has been driven across the narrow south end of Iwo. The wedge links an east coast beachhead 2½ miles in width to holdings of 2,000 yards along the penetrated west shore.

Mount Suribachi's big guns have been subjected to a six-day continuous bombardment by Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy's warships which already have exploded more than 8,000 tons of hot steel on Iwo's defenses.

Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press correspondent, relayed reports from Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner's expeditionary flagship that Marine artillery also is pounding the caves of Suribachi.

Throughout the island "thousands of Japanese are fighting back with everything at their command," Landsberg said, "with rockets, mortars, artillery, machine guns and the ever-present sniper fire."

45,000 Marines Now Battling On Iwo as Defense Fury Rises

U. S. Pacific Fleet HQ., Guam, Thursday, Feb. 22 (AP).—A third Marine division, increasing the invasion force to possibly 45,000 men, has been thrown into the furious battle for Iwo to fill gaps caused by casualties already exceeding 3,600.

(Mutual Broadcasting correspondent Arthur Primm reported at Guam, after a flight to Iwo, that the Marines now were using between 45,000 and 60,000 men, the largest number in one action in their history. If 60,000 marines were ashore, it might mean that a fourth division had been landed, the United Press pointed out.)

Disclosing the fresh commitments in a bulletin today, Admiral Nimitz acknowledged that Jap resistance rose to such a high pitch Wednesday afternoon, third day of the invasion, that the hard-fighting devildogs virtually were stopped in their tracks.

The reinforced leathernecks, holding a wedge across the south third of the island, stormed the slopes of a volcano on the south tip with flame-throwers and tanks. Although unable to advance appreciably, they hurled back a counterattack in the vicinity.

Drive Temporarily Halted.

On the north end of the wedge, Nipponese mine fields and intense mortar and artillery fire temporarily halted a drive toward an airfield in the center of the island.

The 3d Marine Division, under Major Gen. Graves B. Erskine, reinforced the 4th Division under Major Gen. Clifton B. Cates and the 5th under Major Gen. Keller E. Rockey.

Thus approximately 45,000 leathernecks may have been committed to an operation against Japs estimated to have totaled 20,000 when the island was invaded Monday.

The marines, having captured their main objective, the big Motoyama bomber airfield No. 1 Tuesday, were checked during an enveloping drive toward the island's other airfield to the north.

"Intense mortar, artillery and small arms fire is being encountered by our troops, and in some areas extensive mine fields are slowing the advance," Nimitz said.

Flame-throwers Used.

During Wednesday afternoon there was no appreciable change in our lines, he reported.

"On the south flame-throwers and tanks are being used against well entrenched enemy troops in the Mount Suribachi area," Nimitz added. "A counterattack launched by the enemy east of Mount Suribachi shortly after noon was thrown back. Numerous land mines have been encountered in this vicinity. Four of our tanks were knocked out of action."

Nimitz, who earlier disclosed that Marine casualties up to 8 A. M. Wednesday—embracing 48 hours of invasion activities—exceeded 3,600, said today that more than 850 Nipponese dead had been counted. He made it clear this was an incomplete count, made during the heat of the most bitter battle yet fought on a Pacific Island

(Exactly one Japanese had been taken prisoner, the United Press reported.)

Nimitz did not divide the casualties, but his report that 3,063 wounded have been evacuated indicated the dead totaled some 600. Jap losses were not estimated.

The American casualties on Iwo are running high as compared with those on bloody Tarawa in November, 1942. In the 76 hours required to take Tarawa, 988 marines met death and 2,163 were wounded.

Casualties Exceed Tarawa.

The American casualties on Iwo already are approximating twice Tarawa's losses.

(The correspondent did not elaborate on the casualties comparison, which was passed by censors. Inasmuch as American casualties in the 72-hour battle for Tarawa totalled 3,151, this suggests Iwo casualties—dead, wounded, missing—possibly approaching 6,000. Nimitz' only official report on Iwo casualties, covering 48 hours, gave the figure of 3,650.)

Iwo and Tarawa, however, do not approach the Marine casualties at Soissons, France, in World War I. There 1,400 leathernecks fell in a single hour.

All Wednesday, battleships, cruisers and destroyers poured their shells into enemy strongpoints, thus building up a bombardment total which in the first six days exceeded 8,000 tons.

Winning Battle of Supply.

The all-important battle of supply was being won. As new supplies hit the beaches, the Admiral was able to report that mortar fire on the beach area was diminishing.

Despite the heavy barrage from naval guns, shore artillery and carrier planes, the Japs showed no sign of cracking, reported Morrie Landsberg, AP war correspondent on Admiral Richmond K. Turner's flagship. The Nipponese were fighting back at every turn although they had no air support of their own.

Landsberg said a large number of the American casualties occurred in the first few hours of the frontal assault.

All through Wednesday, Landsberg reported, the flash of naval gunfire broke through the mist and drizzle enshrouding the island. The destructive force of the shelling was seen in the numerous smoke geysers rising from the enemy's positions. Marine artillery was operating in full force against Jap strongpoints inland.

The 4th Marine Division after its capture of the three-runway bomber airfield No. 1 was making a frontal assault on airdrome No. 2, 700 yards to the north. The 5th Division on the southwest coast was on one flank of this two-runway field.

In their yard-by-yard advance, the marines at one point were within 200 yards of No. 2 airfield.

On Mount Suribachi, an extinct volcano already isolated on the island's southern tip, the devildogs wormed their way 100 yards up perilous slopes. The mountain is 546 feet high. Its rugged slopes and caves contain heavy guns that dominate the battlefield.

In their fanatical defense, the Japs were using tanks, artillery, machine guns, mortars, rifles and rockets. Revetments, blockhouses and pillboxes were in the path of the marines as well as fortified sniper posts. The going was made tougher by many mines and tank traps.

Pulverizing naval gun barrages were being thrown against Jap strongpoints. An enemy counter-attack Tuesday night and almost constant infiltration attempts were thwarted by the leathernecks with the aid of warship flares that lighted the battle areas.

Reach a Plateau.

In their general advances of from 500 to 1,000 yards Wednesday, the marines partially scaled higher ground to a plateau. There still was rugged barren terrain ahead and it must be taken pillbox by pillbox and trench by trench.

An eyewitness account said there is not a single place on the island's eight square miles where a marine might say "they can't reach me here." The entire island, he added, is a battleground with the Japs having all the cover

GUAM, Feb. 22 (Thursday).—Japanese resistance on Iwo Island increased to such an extent yesterday afternoon that no appreciable gains were achieved by the American marines, now reinforced by the landing of another division on the island, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The 3d Marine Division, under Major General Graves B. Erskine, reinforced the 4th Division, under Major General Clifton B. Cates, and the 5th, under Major General Keller E. Rockey. Thus, 40,000 men may have been committed to an operation against Japanese estimated in today's communique to have totaled 20,000 when the island was invaded Monday.

Main Objective Taken

The marines, having captured their main objective, the big Motoyama bomber airfield No. 1, Tuesday, were checked during an enveloping drive toward the island's other airfield to the north.

"Intense mortar, artillery and small-arms fire is being encountered by our troops, and in some areas extensive mine fields are slowing the advance," Nimitz said.

"During the afternoon (Wednesday) there was no appreciable change in our lines," he reported.

"On the south flame throwers and tanks are being used against well intrenched enemy troops in the Mount Suribachi area. A counter-attack launched by the enemy east of Mount Suribachi shortly after noon was thrown back. Numerous land mines have been encountered in this vicinity. Four of our tanks were knocked out of action."

Admiral Nimitz, who earlier disclosed that marine casualties up to 8 a. m. Wednesday—embracing forty-eight hours of invasion activities—exceeded 3,600, said in today's communique that more than 850 Japanese dead had been counted. He made it clear this was an incomplete count, made during the heat of the most bitter battle yet fought on a Pacific Island.

All during Wednesday battleships, cruisers and destroyers poured their shells into enemy strongpoints.

The all-important battle of supply was being won. As new supplies hit the beaches, the admiral reported that mortar fire on the beach area was diminishing. He added, however, that loose volcanic ash was impeding the movement. In some places it prevents the passage of particularly heavy stuff.

Iwo's No. 1 airdrome was captured the second day of the battle. The marines are headed presently toward the second one, some 700 yards to the north. At one point they were reported to be within 200 yards of the second field.

The 5th Marine Division on the southwest coast is on one flank of the two-runway field. The 4th Division is making a frontal assault after its capture of the three-runway bomber field.

600 Believed Dead

There was no attempt by Nimitz's headquarters to play down the toughness of the fight. The admiral reported that 3,650 marines were killed or wounded in the first forty-eight hours on Iwo. The admiral's communique did not divide the casualties, but his report that 3,063 wounded have been evacuated indicated the dead totaled about 600.

The American casualties on Iwo are running high, compared with those on Tarawa in November, 1942. In the seventy-six hours required to take Tarawa 988 marines were killed and 2,163 wounded.

Iwo and Tarawa, however, do not approach the marine casualties at Soissons, France, in the World War. There 1,400 marines fell in a single hour.

Battle Up Volcano

On Mt. Suribachi, an extinct volcano already isolated on the island's southern tip, the Americans wormed their way 100 yards up perilous slopes. The mountain is 546 feet high. Its rugged slopes and caves contain heavy guns that dominate the battlefield.

In their fanatical defense the Japanese were using tanks, artillery, machine guns, mortars, rifles and rockets. Revetments, blockhouses and pillboxes were in the path of the marines, as well as fortified sniper posts.

[A correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System said only one Japanese prisoner has been taken on Iwo.]

The marines were using artillery and were supported by carrier planes. A Japanese counter-attack Tuesday night and almost constant infiltration attempts were thwarted with the aid of warship flares that lighted the battle areas.

It's still an uphill fight for the marines. In general advances of from 500 to 1,000 yards earlier Wednesday, the marines partially scaled higher ground to a plateau. There still was rugged, barren terrain ahead, and it must be taken pillbox by pillbox and trench by trench.

Radio Tokyo said that Japanese counter-attacks on the southern coast had forced the marines "to retreat with heavy losses." It added "the battle situation has come to a stalemate." The Japanese Domei agency said marines were landing continuously and "suffering heavy casualties."

Americans Are Keeping Ahead of Schedule —Gains Average 500 to 1000 Yards —Jap Counter-blows Broken Up.

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—More than 3,500 Marines have been killed or wounded in the invasion of Iwo Jima, 750 south of Tokyo, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Fighting against terrific Jap defenses, but keeping well ahead of schedule, the tank-led Marines made a general advance toward the fighter strip in the center of the island, known as Motoyama Airfield No. 2.

The Fifth Marine Division advanced approximately 700 yards over mine-strewn rocky slopes, by-passing the southern end of the air strip on the west. The Fourth Division pushed directly toward the center of the field.

Along the entire line gains averaged 500 to 1,000 yards over wet, slippery ground which the Japs have criss-crossed with fortified defenses.

On the southern tip of the island other Marines drove more than 100 yards up the steep slopes of Mount Suribachi, volcanic fortress where pillboxes are spread at ten-foot intervals.

Every advance, Admiral Nimitz said, was made a yard at a time under a steady hail of Jap machine gun, rifle and rocket fire.

Of the 3,500 enlisted Marines and 150 officers killed or wounded [illegible] merciless fire, 3,063 have been evacuated. An unannounced number of the total was listed as missing.

During the night the Marines broke up Jap attempts at infiltration and one small counter-attack with the aid of artillery and illuminating warships fired from the fleet standing offshore.

Pulverizing Fortifications.

Bombing, strafing and rocket-firing planes joined fleet naval guns, tanks and individual Marine units in slowly pulverizing the Jap defenses.

The Marines, fighting the toughest battle of their history, began the drive toward the fighter strip yesterday after conquering about a third of the island, including Iwo's bomber base, primary objective of the invasion.

The fighter field is 700 yards northeast of the three-way bomber field, which Marines captured Tuesday noon—twenty-seven hours after landing and thirty hours ahead of schedule.

Yanks Inching Ahead.

They inched forward 200 yards north of Motoyama Airfield No. 1, also known as Suribachi, before they had to dig in as enemy rockets and artillery shells poured down from heights.

Those Marines were on the north flank of a wedge which has been driven across the narrow south end of Iwo, giving the Americans a firm hold on one-third of the island, 750 miles south of Tokyo. The wedge links an east coast beachhead two and a half miles in width to holdings of 2,000 yards along the west shore.

On the south flank, at the island's tapering tip, 566-foot-high Mount Suribachi, a volcano, is sealed off by Marines meeting stiff opposition from Nipponese on its slopes. Its big guns, however, have been silenced during a six-day continuous bombardment by Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy's warships which already have fired more than 8,000 tons of shells on Iwo's defenses.

Rock Quarry Is Obstacle.

Up the east coast from Suribachi, Marines on the north flank had a tough job of ferreting Nipponese out of a rock quarry. The quarry is near the coast southeast of Motoyama Airfield No. 2 and is a position which must be cracked to facilitate getting at the bulk of the Nipponese garrison on the north part of the island.

Building Fight Stiff In Manila

Manila, Feb. 21 (AP)—Battles for buildings—each a stiff fight in itself—progressed steadily in downtown Manila today as the 37th Infantry and 1st Cavalry Divisions closed on the old walled city.

The new Manila Police Station and the convent of the San Pablo Church were captured yesterday and in each 100 dead Japanese were found. Meanwhile, the military prison and Y.M.C.A. buildings were brought under our direct fire.

Cannon continued to bore holes in the medieval masonry of the old walled city, or Intramuros. The assault inside the Intramuros may end fighting in the city.

Jap Fire Stronger

Japanese artillery and mortar fire has become stronger. At dusk yesterday several rounds of artillery fire fell in North Manila. A Nipponese armored vehicle emerged from the botanical gardens and fired several rounds of high velocity shells at American troops near the waterworks building.

Evidence continued to mount that the Japanese have concentrations of defense units northeast of Manila. Patrols drew more enemy artillery fire, some of the shells believed to have come from cannon as heavy as 120-mm., and truck movements were observed northeast of Taytay.

30. 24 — 23197

The 11th Airborne Division, fighting in this sector, continued to pound with artillery 300 trapped Japanese on a ridge southeast of Fort William McKinley and to beat off efforts to reinforce them.

Civilians Killed

Lieut. Col. Marcello Costillo, guerrilla leader, an Annapolis graduate of 1923, and Lieut. Col. Talbo Ingles, a Filipino army officer, told the 11th Airborne headquarters that the Japanese shot and burned more than 400 civilians, including women and children, in the town of Bay, located near the east coast of southern Luzon, on February 15. This was in reprisal for a guerrilla attack.

It may be a few days before American troops can assault the last-stand Japanese inside the old walled city in South Manila, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler said. Several big buildings must be taken first.

Dismounted 1st Cavalry troopers captured the famed Army and Navy Club and the High Commissioner's building within the last 48 hours. Patrols reached Burnham Green, a park just outside the walled city.

The Intramuros was the home of Manila's dockworkers and almost self-contained. Contrary to popular notion, the Intramuros is not undermined with tunnels, said Dr. Eliodaro Congco, Manila physician who lived in the old city ten years.

The Yanks could pulverize the Intramuros and everybody inside with air power, but they are trying to save the civilians.

YANKS POUND AWAY AT MANILA JAPS

HALLDSON

Manila, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Medieval siege tactics in modern guise were employed against trapped Jap garrisons in Manila's thickly walled Intramuros and on Corregidor today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the past week's fighting has cost the Nipponese 24,000 casualties.

Cannon and howitzers gnawed steadily at the forty-foot-thick outer wall of the Intramuros to cut an entrance way for tanks and infantry seeking to eliminate the cornered enemy and liberate an estimated 7,000 civilians.

The Yanks could pulverize the Intramuros and everybody inside with air power, but they are trying to save the civilians. Arthur Feldman of the Blue network termed this a possibly futile gesture. He was of the opinion the Japs already have killed most of the civilians.

On Corregidor, both entrances of the main tunnel were blocked by explosives, and Yanks swarming over the topside poked through rubble in search of the ventilation vent. When they find it the Japs will be completely sealed off, their doom certain.

Japanese Blow Themselves Up At Corregidor

Set Off Ammunition Dump; Manila Hotel Is Taken; Bataan Cleared of Foe

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Feb. 22 (Thursday).—Japanese hopelessly sealed in Corregidor's network of tunnels blew themselves up by touching off a main ammunition dump yesterday as American forces tightened the squeeze on the remaining enemy garrison there and also in Manila, where the Americans captured the Manila Hotel, one of the luxury spots of the Orient.

General Douglas MacArthur said the enemy on Corregidor fortress, at the entrance to Manila Bay, was destroyed except for minor mopping up.

He declared that a thorough combing of Bataan Peninsula showed not a single Japanese left alive.

First Cavalry Division troops under Major General Verne D. Mudge, fighting up the south Manila shoreline, found the big Manila Hotel battered but not beyond salvage. They also captured Burnham Green, a small park near by.

The cavalrymen thus were within fifty feet of the southern wall of the ancient Intramuros, in which the Japanese are holed up for a bitter final fight. American howitzers are pounding the walled city's thick eastern wall to make way for tanks.

Major General Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry Division, meantime, captured the three-story Ermita Normal School, southeast of the Manila Hotel, and engaged Japanese defenders in the City Hall, three blocks north of the school.

There are still thousands of Japanese on Luzon, but the bulk of the once-strong enemy occupation force has retired or been pushed back into the comparative security of mountains and valleys of the northeast.

General MacArthur said the enemy garrison in South Manila was compressed into an area measuring about 700 yards by 500 within the ancient Intramuros, and the destruction of this force has been slow only because of the American desire to save the lives of civilians inside the walled city.

The Japanese on Bataan were estimated to be several thousand strong when the Americans invaded the southern shore just a week ago to form a vise in conjunction with a strong American force moving down from the north.

On Corregidor, invaded last Friday, MacArthur said more than 1,700 Japanese already had been buried and the count was only partially complete. The main tunnel has been blocked at both ends by explosives.

MacArthur described the Japanese within South Manila's medieval Intramuros as resisting with "savage barbarism . . . seldom displayed in a more repulsive form."

Howitzers and cannon are attempting to breach the outer wall of this medieval citadel to make an entrance way for tanks and infantry seeking to clean up this final enemy strongpoint in the Philippine capital and liberate an estimated 7,000 civilians held as virtual hostages.

MacArthur said final destruction of the Japanese garrison "has been slow, due to the desire to limit civilian casualties as far as possible." He went on:

"It is in no sense a measure of the special skill or tenacity of the enemy, whose savage barbarism has seldom been displayed in a more repulsive form."

City of Bagac Taken

Japanese marines and naval defense forces make up the bulk of the Intramuros garrison.

On Bataan, MacArthur said, the Americans had occupied the City of Bagac and had finished "combing" the area.

Heavy bombers dropped fifty tons of explosives on airdrome and barrack installations on southwestern Formosa and sank a small freighter off the east coast. Another freighter was damaged.

A 1,000-ton freighter was sunk near Hongkong as reconnaissance planes swept the China coast.

A 144-ton bombing of northern Borneo was concentrated in the Miri and Jesselton airdromes on the northern end. Runways were severely cratered and many fires were observed. Fabuan airdrome, at Brunei Bay, Borneo, was also bombed.

More evidence that the Japanese are building defenses northeast of Manila was reported by Fred Hampson, Associated Press correspondent. Enemy truck movements were observed northeast of Taytay and American patrols had drawn fire from guns as large as 120 mm., he said.

Paratroopers of the 11th Airborne Division, recent captors of Fort William McKinley, south of Manila, used artillery and called for aircraft aid in annihilating about 400 Japanese trapped on a ridge southeast of the fort. The Nipponese refused a chance to surrender.

Whole Of Iwo Jima A Battle Zone

By Morrie Landsberg

Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, Feb. 21 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—There is no front line on bloody Iwo. The whole of the small, gourd-shaped island is a battle zone, in the grey mist of day and through the chill blackness of night.

The front line may be the northern edge of the southern airfield captured by Marines yesterday. It may be at the foot of Suribachi Yama, fortified volcanic cone under assault by other leathernecks.

Or it may be just anywhere on the bomb and shell torn beachhead.

Japs Have All The Cover

There is no place on the five-mile-long island one can point to and say "they can't reach me here." They can and do.

Suddenly, unexpectedly, enemy fire streams down in an angry spasm from the commanding Japanese positions.

The Japanese have all of the covef—what little this island has, plus what they have built in pillboxes, blockhouses, caves, and even reinforced foxholes. It will be a great blow to their defenses when they lose Suribachi—the Americans won't have the Japanese in the rear as they do now. In addition to gun positions, the 500-foot high volcano has four underground entrances on the north side where supplies are probably stored.

Japs Fighting Savagely

Marine advances have been made against unrelentingly heavy opposition by the foe fighting savagely to save this rock and sand bastion intended to guard the homeland, some 700 miles away.

Continual naval and air bombardment pouring thousands of tons of explosives into enemy positions failed to lessen the ferocity of Japanese resistance.

American ground troops threatening the central airfield, north of captured Motoyama No. 1, were facing a high volume of small arms fire and intense mortar, automatic weapons, rocket and artillery barrages.

Pounding Assault Kept Up

Mine fields and pillboxes obstructed the drive.

Tanks, naval gunfire and carrier planes kept up a pounding assault against enemy installations to the immediate southern front of the central airfield, which has runways 5,335 and 4,425 feet long, but no hangars.

During the night the Japanese launched a small infantry and tank attack against the Marines' left flank. It was repulsed by combined infantry and artillery fire.

100 Japs Killed

The enemy attempted infiltration during the night. One battalion reported killing 100 Japanese. These tactics were co-ordinated with night-long artillery fire in which an American ammunition dump was hit.

United States warships harassed the enemy with shelling during the night and fired flares to keep the Japanese in their holes or expose their movements.

On the third day of the campaign there were no doubts that Iwo is by far the toughest battle of the Pacific. How long it will be before it is crushed, nobody was inclined to say.

Marines Thrown Back On Iwo, Japs Claim

San Francisco, Feb. 21 (AP)—Japanese propaganda broadcasts today claimed that counterattacks by the Iwo Jima garrison against Marines on the southern coast "had forced the enemy to retreat with heavy losses."

The broadcasts were made about the time Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced that the Marines had gained up to 1,000 yards in the third day of their invasion. Japanese reports were utterly at variance with all American accounts.

One version of the counterattacks broadcast by the Tokyo radio in Japanese and recorded by the FCC said the "enemy was forced to withdraw for the moment and is presently reorganizing his strength about several hundred meters away from our positions."

"Loss Of Initiative"

Another version in English, transmitted by the Domei News Agency, said: "The enemy advanced to a point 200 to 300 yards from the Japanese main positions, but under furious Japanese fire the enemy suffered a telling blow, which has caused him to lose the initiative and the battle situation has come to a stalemate."

Domei claimed that Japanese units in the eastern part of the island "were firmly holding their positions," and asserted that "the enemy forces are now being driven back beachward."

"Landings Foiled"

Later reports from the Tokyo radio said American forces trying to land on the western and eastern coasts of Iwo were foiled by the "violent Japanese counterattacks and the steep terrain."

One enemy broadcast claimed American Marine casualties totaled 7,000 up to 1 P.M. today. (The official American estimate of casualties to 8 A.M. today placed the figure at 3,650, including 3,063 wounded.)

Earlier Account

An earlier broadcast by the news agency said United States Marines were landing continuously on the island, but claimed "the enemy is suffering heavy casualties" and that more than 100 tanks were disabled.

This broadcast, recorded here, said the Americans "managed to extend their beachhead somewhat," although counterassaults by the Japanese defenders of the island were taking a heavy toll.

Domei's dispatch followed a plea by a member of the Japanese Diet, who formerly served in the Iwo garrison as a private, for speed in fortifying the home island of Japan.

Battle Held Vital

"We must win out in the Iwo Jima battle," he was quoted by the Tokyo radio, "or our homeland will be covered by enemy fighter planes. We must not waste a single moment."

Meanwhile, Radio Tokyo today said the commander in chief of Iwo Jima has issued an order of the day declaring that "not one Japanese ought to die before he has killed ten enemy soldiers."

The German-language broadcast to Europe was recorded here. The text of the order:

"The forces of occupation must defend the island of Iwo to the last drop of blood. With explosives and by shock tactics they will annihilate the enemy soldiers and their weapons.

Direct Hits

"Every shot fired must be a direct hit and not one Japanese ought to die before he has killed ten enemy soldiers.

"The Japanese are fully determined to eradicate the enemy to the last man by guerrilla warfare."

Domei said today that four civil administrators told Emperor Hirohito yesterday that "despite air raids, earthquakes, and a lack of foods, there was no need for concern over public peace and order."

The officials represented districts which include the big industrial cities of Nagoya, Kobe, Osaka, and the Kyushu region where there are great heavy industries.

Questioned By Emperor

Domei reported previously that the Emperor had summoned the men to his palace, but today's dispatch gave the first details of the audience. Each spoke for 30 minutes and after listening to the reports Hirohito posed several questions.

Tokyo said the Emperor attended a plenary session of the Privy Council at the imperial palace today.

Domei also reported the second Japanese Cabinet shakeup within eleven days. Hisatada Mirose was dropped as Minister without portfolio and chief Cabinet secretary.

He was succeeded by Finance Minister Sotaro Ishiwata, who, in turn, was replaced in the Finance Ministry by Juichi Tsushima, vice president of the Bank of Japan and president of the North China Development Company.

54 Freed Nurses Reach Hawaii

ERICSON

Honolulu, Feb. 21 (AP)—Fifty-four American nurses wearing jaunty new uniforms flew into Hawaii today on their way home from Bataan and Corregidor, after three years' internment by the Japanese in the Philippines.

The nurses, rescued in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Luzon Island conquest, were met at Hickam Field by Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commanding general of the Pacific Ocean areas, and Maj. Gen. William Ord Ryan, commanding general of the Air Transport Command's Pacific Division, who escorted them to breakfast. Later they were reintroduced to the first real comforts they had known in 36 months.

Almost forgotten luxuries, such as real beds, showers and a beauty parlor set up Hickam Field WAC's awaited them.

Major Juanita Redmond, last American nurse flown out of Bataan before its fall April 9, 1942, was in charge of the group. She had flown from Washington to Kwajalein to meet them, bringing with her 54 specially packed Red Cross cosmetic kits.

Lieut. Col. Elsie Schneider, chief nurse of the Pacific Ocean areas, met the plane with slacks and insigne for the rescued nurses. They had radioed these were the things they needed most.

After a brief rest the nurses will be flown to San Francisco, and then home.

AIR MEDAL TO NURSE

Headquarters, Thirteenth A. A. F., Southwest Pacific (Delayed). —Second Lieut. Helena T. Ilic of 195 Tenth avenue, New York city, a flight nurse in a Thirteenth Army Air Force air evacuation squadron, has been decorated with the Air Medal.

In a mass presentation ceremony at headquarters of this veteran jungle air force she received the honor, together with twenty other nurses.

Lieut. Ilic displayed "courage and devotion to duty" in making numerous flights in hostile South and Southwest Pacific territory to evacuate wounded and sick soldiers, the citation accompanying the medal stated, and "these flights involved flying at low altitudes over mountainous terrain under adverse weather conditions in a transport airplane and often necessitated landing within a few miles of enemy bases."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ilic, Lieut. Ilic left for overseas duty in January, 1944, and has logged 560 hours flying time.

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—A Red Star review broadcast from Moscow today said Japan's military strategy in the Pacific had proved inadequate and that "latest events show that the invasion of Japan proper is not out of the question."

PARLEY DELAYS ON ARGENTINA

Inter-American Conference Puts Off Issue Until End

Mexico City, Feb. 21 (AP)—A determination to prevent any move toward recognition of the present Government of Argentina materialized as the Inter-American Conference got under way today.

Ezequiel Padilla, Mexican Foreign Minister, chairman of the conference, told the Associated Press that if any of the delegates wished to fight on Argentina's behalf, the "conference is prepared" to go into a detailed exposition of what the Argentine Government has done.

Paraguay Demand Fails

The Argentine issue was launched almost immediately after the preliminary meeting opened this morning. Paraguay demanded an important position on the agenda for the Argentine case.

The chiefs of delegation, sitting as a steering committee, turned this down and relegated the Argentine quetsion to the end of the meeting.

Padilla said he was looking for this solution of the Argentine issue: "A resolution expressing our friendship toward the Argentine people, and separating the questions of the people there and of the Government."

It was clear he expected no compromise with the Government of President Edelmiro Farrel so long as it refrains from full co-operation with the other countries for hemisphere security.

Padilla Silent On Details

Padilla refused to go into details on the record that would be brought out on Argentina if some delegations wished to drive for a resolution favorable to the Argentine Government.

However, it is known several governments represented here have prepared extensive dossiers on the activities of Nazi agents in Argentina and the position of the Argentine Government during the war.

The conference on war and post-war problems of the Western Hemisphere, by taking up the Argentine question at the start, would have given it precedence over security, economic and political issues on the agenda.

Padilla Elected President

Today's session was a preliminary gathering of the heads of delegations to fix the agenda, elect a president and establish rules for the meeting.

Padilla was named president of the conference, his nomination having been placed by Bolivia and seconded by United States Secretary of State Stettinius.

Padilla observed that leaving the Argentine question for discussion at the end of the meeting would contribute to the success of the gathering.

Dr. Celso R. Velazquez, head of the Paraguayan delegation, called for moving up the Argentine matter, but Padilla replied the program had been approved previously by the participating nations and should stand.

Priority Emphasized

Julian C. Caceres, head of the Honduran delegation, observed that the meeting had not been called to take up Argentina's request for discussion of her diplomatic isolation but for consideration of war and peace problems and that these should have priority.

The ensuing vote was considered indicative of the treatment which Argentina will receive here, and as a victory for those nations which oppose recognizing the Argentine regime of President Farrel until it gives extensive proof of intent to co-operate with the United Nations.

First plenary session of the conference was called for tonight, with President Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico as the main speaker.

Stettinius and Padilla will address the second business session tomorrow afternoon.

Camacho In Democracy Plea

In his address Camacho appealed for establishment of political and economic democracy in this hemisphere and declared no international organization can function with the presence of dictatorship or regimes existing through violence.

Without mentioning any countries by name, Mexico's chief executive insisted democracy was the strongest bulwark against the "tortuous machinations of those who seek internal unrest as an excuse for foreign clashes."

The Mexican President urged that the base of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals be broadened. He declared that if the future international-security organization depends exclusively on the opinion of the major powers, this war will result in an "enormous and grotesque fiction."

However, he said, Mexico would play its part in the organization, since it feels certain that this time "words will not be just words."

Brazilian Elected

The Argentine discussion put the first flash of life into what had been a formal, tradifional ceremony. The delegates had spoken softly before.

Pedro Leao Velloso, Brazilian Foreign Minister, was elected unanimously president of the commission that will discuss means of intensifying the war effort of the American republics until final victory.

Velloso's name was proposed by the Ecuadorean Foreign Minister, Dr. Camilo Ponce Enriquez.

Proposed By Chilean

Secretary Stettinius was voted by acclamation president of the second commission on the agenda that will take up political problems, including the Dumbarton Oaks proposals and suggestions for reorganizing the Pan American Union to make it a regional system in the future world-security organization.

Stettinius was proposed by Chilean Foreign Minister Joaquin Fernandez y Fernandez, who praised the United States for its defense of democracy.

Colombia was named head of the third commission on inter-American affairs.

ARGENTINE ISSUE RAISED IN MEXICO

Chapultepec Castle, Mexico, Feb. 21 (A. P.)—The Argentine issue exploded at the first preliminary meeting of the inter-American conference today with a demand by Paraguay that it be given immediate consideration.

The head of the Paraguayan delegation, Dr. Celso R. Velazques, brought up the Argentine case at a meeting of the heads of delegations to agree upon agenda, elect a president, and pass on rules for the conference.

Paraguay demanded that the Argentine issue receive immediate consideration, which would have meant that it would take precedence over security, economic and political issues. This was turned down, however, and Argentina is left for discussion after all the other points are cleared away, a procedure which is expected to contribute enormously to the success of the conference.

Belvedere Peak Recaptured By Yanks

Rome, Feb. 21 (AP)—American troops striking over Italian mountain terrain so forbidding that at times they used ropes to scramble up the steep slopes, have captured Monte Belvedere and several villages on the peaks west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway.

The Germans fought back viciously, but all counterattacks were repulsed and the fighting for the dominent heights continues, an Allied communiqué said today.

Once before Allied troops had held the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Belvedere, but the Nazis recaptured it November 29 and had held it since.

Patrols Active

Patrols continued to be very active on the rest of the Italian front, with no changes of positions reported. The Germans still were peppering Allied positions with propaganda leaflets.

The attack in the Belvedere area was launched Monday night. The mountain villages of Polla, Valpiana and Monte Gongolesco were brought into the 5th Army lines.

American troops, especially trained to operate in the snow-capped Apennines, worked their way through heavy mine fields to begin the assault shortly after midnight.

Taken By Dawn

The enemy laid down heavy artillery and mortar fire during the night, but when dawn came Allied planes and artillery silenced many Nazi guns. Belvedere was in American hands at dawn.

While positions on Monte Mancinello—the Pizzo di Campino Ridge west of Belvedere—still were being consolidated, the Germans launched four unsuccessful counterattacks.

In one of these, 30 of the enemy came forward with their hands raised as if to surrender, then dropped to the ground and opened fire. Fifth Army troops drove them off.

Yanks Recapture Monte Belvedere

Rome, Feb. 21 (AP)—American troops on the 5th Army front have captured the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Belvedere, 30 miles southwest of Bologna, in a night assault up precipices so steep that some had to be negotiated with mountain-climbers' ropes.

German counterattacks were repulsed, but fighting still rages in the area.

The Americans had held the mountain and its villages west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway previously, but it was recaptured by the Nazis November 29.

In the central sector of the 5th Army front south of Bologna, official reports said, there was considerable enemy movement but its purpose was not immediately determined. The shifting enemy units were coming under American artillery and mortar fire.

There were many mortar and artillery exchanges along the Senio River and a strong enemy attack east of Cuffiano was repulsed.

Foe's Battle Transport Smashed

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 22 (AP)—With the first good weather in five days the Allies' Tactical Air Forces based on the Continent flew 2,867 sorties yesterday in magnificent support of the ground forces all along the Western Front. At least twenty-one Allied planes were known to be lost and thirteen others were missing at a late hour. At least eleven German planes were shot down.

The United States Ninth and First Tactical Air Forces, sending 1,767 planes into and beyond the battle zone, attacked fifty fortified towns and twenty-eight rail yards. They destroyed or damaged 1,278 railway cars, eighty-two locomotives, eleven bridges, 338 motor vehicles, 230 buildings and twenty-nine Nazi gun points.

Four hundred American medium bombers hit four rail bridges between Hanover and Osnabrueck in one of their deepest penetrations of Germany and also joined British bombers in support of the Canadian First Army.

The British Second Tactical Air Force flew 800 sorties by mid-afternoon.

Nuernberg Hit Second Day In Row

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—More than 1,200 American bombers, escorted by 650 fighters, today attacked rail and industrial targets at Nuernberg for the second consecutive day.

More than 900 United States Flying Fortresses blasted the Nuernberg yards yesterday. These yards are filled with trains, possibly loading with the records and effects of the German Government ministries, believed moving out of Berlin.

Nazi broadcasts reported spearheads of two American formations were over Thuringia and Franconia, indicating another deep penetration of the Reich, possibly in support of the Russian armies.

Biggest Since October

The 1,200-bomber strike against Nuernberg today was the biggest concentration against a single target since 1,300 planes hit Cologne last October.

An American communiqué said severe damage was done yesterday to 2,500 rail cars packed in the Nuernberg yards and to the Nazi rallying grounds and arena near by. A large tank plant also was bombed and "there was severe damage in the Siemen-Schuckert works which make transformers and electrical equipment."

"Several bomb patterns landed in the 2,500-acre Nazi party rallying grounds adjacent to the marshalling yards," the communique said, explaining that the site contained several stadia, parade grounds and warehouses.

Arena Hit

"One small pattern hit the built-up end of the Luiptold arena, from which Hitler used to speak to 120,000 each year at the Nazi Party Congress. Another great stadium, still under construction, also was damaged."

Today's assault, carrying into daylight the ninth successive day of the fierce aerial punishment of Germany, followed a 1,200-plane strike by the RAF against important targets. The main force of this attack, possibly 750 heavies, pummeled Dortmund, key communications center for the Western front. Refugee-crammed Berlin was struck twice.

Other formations broke off in several directions, striking the much-bombed rail center of Mannheim, two oil refineries south of Duesseldorf on the Rhine, and [illegible] targets.

U. S. Flyers Bomb Berchtesgaden

Thunderbolts Swoop In Through Intensive Flak and Small Arms Fire to Pump Rockets Into Railway Yards.

Rome, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Rocket-firing Thunderbolts of the United States Twelfth Air Force made the first attack of the war yesterday on Adolf Hitler's private town of Berchtesgaden, the mountain hide-out high in the snow-capped Bavarian Alps, it was announced today. There was no indication that Hitler's retreat on Obersalzburg itself was attacked. Presumably, Hitler is at Obersalzburg, though there have been no authoritative reports recently on the whereabouts of the Fuehrer.

The planes, sweeping in from Italian bases, pumped rockets into railyards at low levels, ripped rail tracks, cars and locomotives and smashed at other targets in and near Berchtesgaden, which may be the most heavily fortified spot in all the Reich. They ran into intense flak and small arms fire.

Lieut. Wesley W. Matthias of Columbus, Ohio, one pilot who participated in the attack, said that one of his fellow airmen, in a gesture of defiance, dropped his Thunderbolt's wing tanks "in what he thought was the direction of Hitler's house, but the visibility was poor and we were traveling fast, so we have no idea where the tanks hit."

Reason for Raid.

While there was no official comment on the attack, it was speculated that the surprise strike was directed against the movement of top priority personnel, supplies and Nazi files from Berlin.

"It is supposed to be Hitler's hide-out, an Air Force officer said, adding that if the raiders found railway cars there, "one guess is as good as another as to what they might contain."

The assault fits into a pattern with two attacks yesterday and today from British and French bases by the United States Eighth Air Force on the packed rail yards and locomotive repair shops at Nuerenberg, ninety miles north of Munich, the center of former Nazi propaganda spectacles and an important rail junction. The extraordinarily heavy concentration of traffic at Nuerenberg led to speculation that it might be a movement of governmental offices from Berlin, or a build-up for the defense of Vienna.

Hitler's Hide-away.

Hitler's retreat is at Obersalzberg ("Upper Salt Mountain") on the edge of Berchtesgaden. The only previous attack on the immediate vicinity (other top Nazi leaders have homes in the area, too) occurred several months ago, when a force of American heavies hit Salzburg, Austrian border town just across from Berchtesgaden.

The Thunderbolts knocked out a locomotive and eight rail cars in the attack. At towns near by they set fire to two passenger trains, destroyed a troop train estimated to have 150 soldiers aboard, and destroyed or damaged nearly fifty rail cars, some loaded with tanks.

The Americans, operating as a unit, were led by Major John L. Beck, of Post Falls, Idaho. Telling of the Berchtesgaden raid, Major Beck said that flak was extremely heavy as the raiders approached, but "once we were right over the town, there was not a shot fired at us."

Major Tells of Raid.

"The place looked like a peaceful summer resort," he said. "Rail and road traffic was heavy, and seemingly moved without fear of attack. Evidently Hitler's retreat is unaccustomed to war."

"Our rockets hit an electric train in the Berchtesgaden station loaded with troops," said Lieut. John C. Kittrell of Rochester, N. Y. "At the first shot they swarmed off and headed for the woods. Then we strafed the woods and set a fire there."

The Berchtesgaden operation formed only a part of the total of 2,400 sorties flown yesterday by Allied planes from Italy in what was called officially "an all-out effort against enemy communications" from northern Italy well into southern Germany.

United States Fifteenth Air Force heavy bombers hit Vienna's railyards again today in the ninth straight day of attacks on Nazi communications in southern Europe. An official report said that the Vienna yards were handling a great volume of important Nazi traffic. The report indicated that all participating planes returned safely.

Though this was the first announced air attack in the vicinity of the German dictator's mountain hideaway, Flying Fortress crews reported as long ago as last August that they had flown over the immediate region while bombing targets deeper inside Germany. Berchtesgaden lies in the southeastern tip of Germany, about seventy-five air-line miles southeast of Munich and the same distance from the Italian frontier.

An indication that the Nazi higher-ups might plan to use this lofty and strongly defensible hide-out for a last-ditch fight came on February 7 in a Moscow dispatch which quoted advices from Berne to the effect that the Germans had cleared the entire civil population from all towns near Berchtesgaden. Earlier, there were reports that vast stores of supplies were being built up there.

Any One's Guess as to Hits

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP)—There was no official comment on the Berchtesgaden air raid, but one Mediterranean Allied Air Force officer observed that since Berchtesgaden was known as Hitler's retreat, "one guess is as good as another" as to what the railroad cars hit by the P-47's might have contained.

The town itself would be of real importance as an air target only if it were being used by the Nazis in building up the inner Bavarian citadel for prolonging the war. It has been among the spots mentioned in foreign reports as a possible last-ditch refuge for top-flight Nazis after Berlin falls.

Hitler's strongly guarded residence is at the edge of Berchtesgaden on Obersalzburg, and other high Nazis have homes in the neighborhood.

can heavies smashed Nuernberg in daylight for the second straight day in one of the most concentrated air blows of the war.

Berlin also was hit twice during the night by British bombers which kept the nine-day aerial offensive rolling through the darkness. Altogether more than 5,000 Allied warplanes joined in the day's attack on Germany, many of them giving close support to Western-front troops.

Worms, 12 miles north of Mannheim, is a key point in the communications system supplying the enemy forces in front of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's attacking 3d Army.

Raid Lasts Over Hour

In the big daylight raid the Nazi convention city of Neurnberg, which some unconfirmed reports have said now has supplanted Berlin as the Reich's capital, was battered for more than an hour by the American four-engined bombers.

A bomber train from 8th Air Force bases in Britain 300 miles long and protected by 650 fighter planes swarmed over Nuernberg for the second successive day without interference from the Luftwaffe.

Clouds over the target necessitated instrument bombing as the waves of Flying Fortresses and Liberators unloaded 3,000 tons of explosives—more than 400,000 incendiaries and 14,500 bombs.

Arena Damaged

Reconnaissance photos made after yesterday's attack on Nuernberg by 900 Fortresses showed severe damage to the main freight yards, which had been crammed to 95 per cent of capacity with 2,500 cars loaded with cannon, tanks and other equipment apparently headed for the Eastern fron

Patterns of explosives also had been laid across the rail repair shops, a large tank factory and an electrical equipment plant. The bombs also dug into the Nazi rallying grounds, damaging the Luitpold Arena, where Hitler formerly addressed 120,000 Germans each year at the Nazi Party Congress, and ripping into a great stadium still under construction.

Flak Intense

Total weight of bombs and incendiaries dropped on Nuernberg in 24 hours approached 4,500 tons. Bomber crews reported intense flak.

This was the ninth day of the greatest aerial assault ever directed against Germany. The tempo was stepped up to an average of 100 Allied bombers an hour over the Reich in the last 24-hour period. During the night, the RAF dispatched 1,200 bombers, focusing its main attack on Dortmund and two oil refineries south of Dusseldorf.

Berlin was hit twice by separate forces of RAF Mosquitos and objectives in Mannheim were struck again. Dortmund, center of communications for Germans on the Western front, was left blazing. The RAF reported loss of twenty planes from its widespread operations last night.

Pole Settlement Criticized In Commons

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—A cry of "power politics" and a charge that the Atlantic Charter was violated in the Big Three's treatment of the Polish issue were raised in Commons today. Reports were current that Prime Minister Churchill would demand a confidence vote next week in connection with the Crimea conference decisions.

Churchill told Commons that the Atlantic Charter "is a guide, not a rule."

He made the statement in reply to a query from Maurice Petherick, a Conservative, on whether Article Two of the Charter applied to Poland, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. That article records the powers as desiring to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the wishes of the people concerned.

Churchill is scheduled to give a first-hand report in Commons next Tuesday and Wednesday on the Crimean conference.

What Evidence?

Douglas Lloyd Savory, Conservative party member, touched off a brief exchange on the Government's foreign policy when he asked Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden:

"In view of the fact that eastern Galicia has never been in possession of Russia, what evidence does he (Churchill) have that inhabitants to the east of Poland's Curzon Line have any desire to be incorporated into Russia?"

Eden replied with the assertion that the House knew the strength of the Ukrainian national movement "which has existed for many years in this territory," but added that the Government "could not be expected to have detailed, factual and up-to-date evidence on the question."

Savory drew a burst of cheers as he snapped back with "Are you not bound by the Atlantic Charter to consider these populations before transferring them?"

Population Shift

(Under solution of the Polish problem previously outlined by Churchill, minority populations living in the land affected by the changed frontier would be shifted to territory under domination by their own nationality.)

"This," said Eden, "is not purely a Polish-Russian question. It is also very much a Ukrainian question, and I have not the factual, up-to-date information as to that, although I know there is a large Ukrainian majority in this area."

Laborite Richard Stokes broke in to ask: "Then how can the Government have arrived at their decision if they have not the factual information?"

"If you wish to debate this further, I will gladly do so next week," responded Eden.

Power Politics Charge

Major General Sir Alfred Knox, a Conservative, was cheered as he cried out: "Is not this surrender to power politics?"

Shifting to Anglo-French relations, a Laborite member asked whether Churchill's dramatic offer in 1940 to the French for a union of the two peoples had been repeated recently.

Eden replied that it had not been renewed.

He was then asked whether the time had arrived "when it is possible to make a fresh approach, or are you convinced that circumstances are so different that such an offer is not desirable?"

Tersely Eden suggested there now existed "differences in the two circumstances" and added "what is now being discussed is a possibility of an arrangement of another kind." He did not elaborate.

Amendments Seen

There were rumblings of antipathy to the Big Three's decisions, stemming chiefly from the bypassing of the exiled Polish Government in London. It is likely that a move will be made to offer an amendment to any proposed indorsement of the Government's policy.

Such an attempt, however, would be rejected by Churchill.

Churchill is expected next week to take the position that any attempt to amend the Crimean Charter would constitute a breakdown in the agreement of the Big Three which was made in a spirit of compromise.

The Prime Minister's strategy in seeking a vote of confidence, with the expectation that it will be carried overwhelmingly, probably is dictated by his determination to commit Britain to support of the Yalta policies against the possibility that the Government's complexion will be changed after victory.

Avoided Discussion

Churchill refused to be drawn into a discussion now on what machinery would be set up by the United Nations to carry out the policies of the Crimean Charter.

He stuck by this decision despite persistent questions in Commons about the role of the French and whether France was likely to cooperate. Nor would he discuss whether special plans had been made to speed relief to liberated countries.

Lady Astor Asks Temperate V-Day

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—Winston Churchill, who is known to enjoy at least an occasional pony of brandy or a bit of Scotch, did some fancy side-stepping in Commons today as prohibitionists, led by the Virginia-born Lady Astor, attempted to pin him down in favor of a dry V-day celebration.

With a twinkle in his eyes the Prime Minister attempted to quiet fears that the celebration would develop into a drunken orgy with the subtle expression of hope and belief that "when the time comes we shall celebrate a victorious peace in a manner worthy of the British nation."

Inclined To Be Sensitive

"The drink trade is already making plans to get our men drunk on the one day when we shall all be on our knees thanking God for victory," snapped Lady Astor, insisting that now is the time for closing pubs and bars on V-day.

Without raising his voice, the Prime Minister continued: "Of course Lady Astor is very much inclined to be sensitive on these points—in fact, more sensitive than the average man of a community or their representatives."

Lady Astor, who seldom misses an opening to retort, was silent.

"Armistice Day Plot"

The issue arose on the suggestion of an Irish Presbyterian clergyman, the Rev. Dr. James Little, a Conservative from Belfast, asking the Prime Minister for assurance that "on the cessation of hostilities a weekday will be set apart for prayer and thanksgiving, with cessation of all work and the closing of all licensed premises."

"Carrying out the second part of Dr. Little's suggestion," shouted Laborite Edgar Louis Granville, "would result in anything but a day of prayer. Did he ever hear the song, 'I'm Going to Get Lit Up When the Lights Go up in London'?"

Amid good-natured bantering and laughter the debate closed.

The debate drew no immediate editorial comment but the London Evening News headline read: "Armistice Day Plot To Get Us All Drunk, Says Lady Astor."

Winnie'll Celebrate In Worthy Manner

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, who never has been known as a prohibitionist, had the last word today in a House of Commons tilt with Lady Astor over whether Britain's pubs would be allowed to take the lid off on V-Day.

"The drink trade is already making plans to get our men drunk on the one day when we should all be on our knees thanking God for victory," the Virginia-born Lady Astor said.

"I really think those misgivings are very much exaggerated," Churchill replied. "Of course, Lady Astor is very much inclined to be sensitive on these points."

The Start Is Sober

The V-Day discussion started on a sober note. An Irish Presbyterian clergyman, the Rev. James Little, asked the Prime Minister for assurance that "on the cessation of hostilities a week day will be set apart for prayer and thanksgiving, with the cessation of all work and the closing of all licensed premises."

"I hope and believe that when the time comes we shall celebrate the victorious peace in a manner worthy of the British nation," Churchill replied.

36% Of London Destroyed

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—Nearly 36 per cent of London's City district—the relatively small financial area in the downtown section of the capital—was destroyed in German air-raids between September 3, 1939, and February 29, 1944, the Civil Defense Committee reported today.

A total of 164 acres of buildings was destroyed, the report said. It did not include damage resulting from V-bombs.

The committee said 417 high-explosive bombs of varying sizes were dropped in the City, plus 13 parachute mines, 2,498 oil bombs and many thousands of incendiary bombs.

Forty churches were destroyed or damaged. Other structures hit included the Guildhall, the Bank of England, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, the general post office, the central telegraph office, the Port of London Authority Building, the Holborn Viaduct railway station, two railway bridges, Southwark and Tower bridges, the Tower of London, the central criminal court, many buildings in the temple and all four city police stations.

The number killed up to the end of February, 1944, was slightly more than 200, with 363 seriously injured and 792 receiving first aid. Of these 111 were killed and 433 injured the night of January 10, 1941, at Liverpool street, Cheapside and the Bank subway stations.

Hulten Ordered Hanged March 8

London, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—The execution date for Karl Gustav Hulten, American parachute trooper of Cambridge, Mass., and strip tease dancer Elizabeth Jones, a British subject, was set today for March 8. Both have been convicted of the robbery-slaying of George Heath, London taxi driver. Unless the Home Secretary's Office intervenes Hulten will be hanged at Pentonville Prison and the girl at Holloway Prison. Commutation of the dancer's sentence was regarded as a possibility. The jury recommended mercy for her.

Masaryk to Head Security Group

FOOD RATIONS CUT FOR ALL GERMANS

London, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio announced tonight a 12½ per cent cut in food rations for all Germans.

The broadcast said the reduction was an "emergency measure to help create reserves and provide a better basis on which rations can be worked out for a new period beginning in April."

Farmers were asked to increase deliveries of foodstuffs to the utmost to help "bridge the gap between rationing periods."

Electric power is now cut off throughout Berlin for several hours a day and its women, both rich and poor, have been impressed into building street barricades, reports from the German capital said today.

The Moscow radio today reported new riots inside Germany, including a hunger march by hundreds of refugees in Stassfurt, south of Magdeburg.

Moscow also told of disorders in Munich which were said to have developed into pitched street battles with tank-supported SS units intervening after the city police refused to fire on civilian crowds.

A report from Filippo Anfuso, Benito Mussolini's Ambassador to Berlin, published in the Milan clandestine newspaper, the Partigiano, and reported yesterday to the Office of War Information, declared that Berlin today is "similar to Rome in July, 1943." In the document, said to have fallen into the hands of the Italian resistance movement, Anfuso declared that there are now four separate groups maneuvering for position in the German capital.

German Food Ration Cut by One-eighth; Women Said to Build Berlin Barricades

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Food rations for all Germans were cut by one-eighth tonight to help the Reich withstand the Allies' assault from east and west.

Women were impressed into building Berlin street barricades against the Red Army. Electric power has been ordered cut off in the capital for several hours daily for economy, enemy broadcasts said.

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Moscow radio today reported disorders in Munich which developed into a pitched street battle with tank-supported SS (Elite Guard) units intervening after the city's police refused to fire on civilian crowds.

River Shannon Bothers Member Of Commons

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—Laborite Francis Rowles asked the Government in Commons today: "Are you aware of the agreement between the United States and Eire under which all incoming and outgoing planes between Europe and America must land on the River Shannon?"

A Government spokesman, Alan ... T. Lennox-Boyd, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Aircraft Production, declined to answer specifically, saying simply "that is another question."

The question was raised during a civil air debate. The Government had stated Britain's principal trans-Atlantic airport would be built near London, but Prestwick, near Glasgow, would be kept open.

Millions In Goods Lost On Britain's Rail Lines

London, Feb. 21 (AP)—A disclosure that $7,031,000 worth of goods had been lost in transit on Britain's four main rail lines during the first nine months of 1944 brought suggestions for remedial action in Commons today.

Noel Baker, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of War Transport, said the figure was a little smaller than that for the same period in 1943.

"This is becoming an organized industry," said John Stourton, a Conservative. "Has Scotland Yard been called in?"

William Gallagher, Commons' only Communist member, suggested: "Would it not be desirable for the Government to take over the railways as a whole?"

Vengeful Danish Nazis Wreck Many Buildings

Stockholm, Feb. 21 (AP)—Twenty heavy explosions reverberated in the Danish city of Odense last night when vengeful Danish Nazis were said to have wrecked three newspaper offices, a department store, a publishing house and several small factories.

The Free Danish Press Service said the Nazi Schalburg Corps placed the bombs as acts of counter-sabotages in retaliation against Patriot blasting of plants and railroads working for the Germans.

Sweden Silent on Nazi Killings

CAFFERY TO SEE GEN. DE GAULLE ON BIG 3 PLANS

Embassy Officials Deplore Wording of Statement by White House.

SPRING TOUR CONTEMPLATED

President Is Expected to Make Ceremonious State Visit to France and England.

Paris, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery prepared today to confer with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who refused to meet with President Roosevelt, on the decisions made by the Big Three in the Crimea.

The American embassy deplored as unfortunate the wording of a

30.24 — 23201

White House statement summarizing Mr. Roosevelt's activities after leaving Yalta which said that the President invited Gen. de Gaulle to meet him in Algiers, French North Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt had planned to hold a quick "business session" with Gen. de Gaulle to inform France of the details of the Crimean conference and to obviate lengthy diplomatic correspondence, an embassy official said.

It was learned that Gen. de Gaulle either wrote or personally edited the statement issued by his office in which he turned down the invitation. The sentence saying that Gen. de Gaulle was "happy to learn that President Roosevelt intended to visit a French port" was cited as reflecting the General's bitterness at being "invited" to confer on French soil.

The American embassy explained that the proposal never mentioned Algiers as such but only a warship off the North African coast, presumably near Algiers. Mr. Caffery did meet the President off Algiers.

Plans a State Visit.

President Roosevelt intended, embassy officials said, to return to Washington as soon as possible and then make a ceremonious State visit to France and England in the late spring after the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

A majority of the members of the French Consultative Assembly in private conversations opposed Gen. de Gaulle's response to Mr. Roosevelt invitation and said that if the French leader was determined not to go to Algiers he should have refused more politely.

The French population finally got both sides of the incident when French newspapers published the texts of the White House and De Gaulle statements. Some papers defended Gen. de Gaule's attitude as befitting France's position as a Great Power and others criticized him for pettiness. The newspaper Aurore said that France might envisage a completely independent policy in world affairs, but would have to weigh the risks and accept the costs.

The French Government is exchanging views with the Allied governments on conclusions reached at the Big Three Crimea Conference, it was announced officially last night.

That step was taken, a communique explained, after the failure of President Roosevelt and Gen. de Gaulle to get together in a meeting after the Big Three sessions.

[A Washington dispatch said that France has sought and received assurances from the United States that no secret agreements were made by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta for the government of liberated countries of Europe.]

French Foreign Office spokesmen declared that France definitely intends to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco on April 25.

FRANCE GETS DATA ON STEPS TAKEN BY BIG 3

BRITAIN SEEKS BIG JAP ROLE

Also Wants Greater Voice in Both the Strategic and Political Features of Far East.

Paris, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—The French Government is exchanging views with the Allied Governments on conclusions reached at the Big Three Crimea conference, it was announced officially last night.

That step was taken, a communique explained, after the failure of President Roosevelt and Gen. de Gaulle to get together in a meeting after the Big Three sessions.

[A Washington dispatch said that France has sought and received assurances from the United States that no secret agreements were made by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta for the government of liberated countries of Europe.]

French Foreign Office spokesmen declared that France definitely intends to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco on April 25.

The communique, giving an official account of President Roosevelt's invitation to Gen. de Gaulle for a meeting and its rejection, said that President Roosevelt expressed regret he could not come to Paris as he had been invited to do last November.

Delivered by Caffery.

The President's message, delivered by United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, invited Gen. de Gaulle to confer at Algiers at a date to be set later. Gen. de Gaulle, the communique added, told Mr. Caffery the invitation came "unexpectedly at a moment when many pressing affairs demanded his (De Gaulle's) presence in Paris."

Mr. Cafferty returned to Paris last night after conferring with President Roosevelt at Algiers.

near Algiers.

Caffery is expected to call on de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault later this week to give the French added information on the Big Three Crimean meeting which he received from President Roosevelt.

French envoys to London and Washington also have reported that they have received details of the Yalta conference which they are forwarding to Paris.

Mrs. Roosevelt To Go Along

The embassy seemed inclined today to put the unfortunate incident of the failure of the Algiers meeting in its "dead" file and concentrate on preparations for the President's visit. There were hints that Mrs. Roosevelt was expected to accompany the President on the visit, scheduled tentatively for some time after the United Nations conference at San Francisco, which opens on April 25.

It was suggested in some quarters that the President's second trip abroad this year might also include a visit to the Vatican.

It is also possible that he might meet General de Gaulle before coming here, since some French quarters are urging that de Gaulle head France's delegation to the San Francisco meeting.

Roosevelt Plans French Visit

Paris, Feb. 21 (AP)—The American Red Cross tomorrow will make its first distribution in Paris proper of clothing sent from America for destitute families and refugees. Ten tons of clothing will be handed out from the 65 tons recently received, bringing the total distributed in France to 1,600 tons.

Paris, Feb. 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt hopes to make a ceremonious visit to France in the late spring or early summer, it was learned today as the French Minister of Information announced that General de Gaulle had been unable to meet the President at Algiers, because de Gaulle lacked information on the Yalta conference.

The Minister, Pierre Teitgen, told a press conference that a meeting between Roosevelt and de Gaulle at Algiers would have entailed "grave decisions on essential matters engaging the nation's future" which the French leader was unprepared to make, but which he might have made had Roosevelt come to Paris.

Announcement By U.S. Envoy

The announcement of President Roosevelt's plan to come to France and probably to visit England on the same trip, came from the United States Embassy as Ambassador Jefferson Caffery returned from a meeting with the President newsmen here that the establishment of occupation zones, the projected establishment of an Allied control commission for defeated Germany and a reparations commission, as well as the San Francisco meeting plans, were items on which de Gaulle considered he needed more information before meeting with Roosevelt.

When one correspondent asked whether details on these questions could not have been communicated to de Gaulle at Algiers, Teitgen replied that "when chiefs of states meet, it is not merely to inform one another or simply talk—there are decisions to be made."

He said Roosevelt's invitation did not specify that immediate French adhesion to the Yalta decisions would be asked at Algiers, but the French had assumed that would be the case.

Censorship 'Mistake'

Teitgen blamed a censorship "mistake" for permitting publication in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune of the news of de Gaulle's refusal to meet the President. The invitation and de Gaulle's answer were supposed to be "highly secret," the Minister said.

He added that the Government was investigating the "leak" whereby the news reached two American and one British correspondents and, eventually, the entire Allied press before publication of the incident in French newspapers was permitted.

Teitgen asserted that the French Cabinet meeting of February 13 unanimously supported de Gaulle's decision to reject the President's invitation, but he admitted under questioning that no actual vote was taken at the meetings.

MAJOR ON TRIAL IN ARMY THEFTS

6 Officers, GI's Of Rail Battalion, Back Commander

Paris, Feb. 21 (AP)—Three officers and three enlisted men of the 716th Railway Operating Battalion testified today they had never heard the battalion commander, Major Walter H. Marlin, say anything to encourage his men to help themselves from supply trains on which they were working.

These defense witnesses told the military court trying Marlin on charges of neglect of duty that, on the contrary, the major warned the enlisted men they must take nothing from the trains.

Captain Questioned

Under crossexamination, the officers insisted they were unaware of any real basis for the reports of pilfering from army supplies on trains until military police raided the battalion in November.

When members of the court pressed Capt. Burton W. Gibson, battalion adjutant, for an explanation of why no systematic investigation was started after a series of telegrams had been received from higher authority asking such action, he replied he expected the higher authority to make it.

Capt. Howard Bligh, battalion executive officer, similarly questioned, answered, "My mind just doesn't run that way."

Both Gibson and Bligh testified they attended a four-week officers' training course at Camp Stoneman, Cal., with Marlin.

'Dizzy Blitz' Course

They described it as a "dizzy blitz" period of instruction covering everything an officer should know, but said they had forgotten what, if anything, was taught about inspecting the enlisted men's barracks and protecting property.

Earlier, Col. E. H. Qualls, of Nashville, Tenn., testified American railroad companies were partly to blame for the poor quality of some of the railway-battalion officers.

Qualls, executive officer of the 2d Military Service Command, said Marlin's background and experience did not qualify him to handle a battalion and suggested the railways at home should have given the Army more men of executive experience to command railway troops instead of "letting us have the men they could spare."

SAYS RAILROADERS NEGLECTED DUTIES

Paris, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Col. E. H. Qualls of Nashville testified before a court-martial today that American railroad companies were partly to blame for the poor quality of some United States Army railway operating battalion officers overseas. Col. Qualls, a witness at the trial of Major Walter H. Marlin, charged with failing to prevent the looting of Army supply trains, testified that Major Marlin's background and experience did not qualify him to handle a railway operating battalion.

"Marlin's background in civil life was that of a locomotive engineer—which does not qualify him to command 800 men," the officer testified.

MILITARY CONVICTS NAZI DEATH SQUADS

Paris, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Adolf Hitler's army is giving its suicide assignments to battalions of the damned, made up of German soldiers convicted of military offenses, it was learned authoritatively today. Instead of going to prison, they go back to the front.

Such forces are known to have been used against the Russian Army. The employment of troops in American uniforms at the time of the Ardennes breakthrough indicated that the convict corps had been in action in the west as well.

These troops get the dirty jobs. They clear minefields under fire, spearhead hopeless counter-attacks and are thrown into attacks when other German troops have been stopped. They are forced to fight with the guns of non-convict officers and non-coms in their backs.

Hitler's officers do not follow the battalions of the damned into the certain death traps. They lag in safety behind, shooting down any who falter.

Early in Paris; Sees U. S. Envoy

Paris, Feb. 21 (AP)—Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, conferred today with Ambassador Caffery and Brig. Gen. Frank Allen Jr., chief of public relations at Supreme Headquarters.

Embassy officials denied that Early's visit was connected with any projected trip here by the President. They said Early was attached to Supreme Headquarters as an adviser on public relations.

Parisians to Get U. S. Clothing

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP).—The American Red Cross will make tomorrow its first distribution in Paris proper of clothing sent from America for destitute families and refugees. Ten tons of clothing will be handed out from the sixty-five tons recently received.

Greece Opens Trial of 33 Accused of Collaboration

3 Quisling Premiers in Dock; Some on List Are Absent

ATHENS, Feb. 21 (AP).—Thirty-three Greeks, including three Quisling premiers, went on trial in a packed courtroom on a charge of helping the Germans during the occupation.

Five of the accused were tried in absentia, since they are outside Greece. Three others are dead. After formal accusations, several spectators came forward and added their own charges and demanded restitution for lost jobs and property. The court ruled them out of order.

The former premiers on trial are George Tsolakoglu, Constantine Logothetopoulos and John Rallis. Other defendants included twenty-one former ministers and four provincial governors.

[Logothetopoulos is now in Germany and will be tried in absentia, the British radio said in a broadcast recorded by the Office of War Information. Eight of the three former premiers' cabinet members were on trial, according to the broadcast, which did not identify them. Five hundred witnesses have been called, it said.

[The Athens radio said in a broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission that, according to Greek law, the sentences that may be pronounced vary "from five years in prison to death."]

India Rations Loin Cloths

Bombay, Feb. 21 (AP)—A semi-annual ration of two dhoties, loin cloths of the type worn by Mohandas K. Ghandi, will introduce in Bombay and the suburbs a plan for the rationing of cloth which the Government may later extend to other cloths.

RUSSIANS CONDEMN 'POISONED RUMORS'

DE LUXE

War and the Working Class Denies Plan to Get Generals to Rule in Berlin

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP)—The magazine War and the Working Class characterized as a "myth" today various reports in the foreign press that Russia planned to use captured German generals as the nucleus of a new German Government.

Naming a number of foreign correspondents and writers who it said had contributed to a flood of "poisoned rumors," the magazine, which has come to be regarded as an authoritative reflector of official Soviet policy, declared:

"From nothing has been erected a structure of lies. It should be known that the Soviet Union, much more than any other country, has suffered from German aggression and has invested the greatest share in the cause of Hitler's defeat and is anxious to obtain a solution of the German problem making a revival of German aggression impossible."

"Participants in the collective creation of the myth [that Russia planned a provisional German government founded on the Free Germany Committee in Moscow and the Union of German Officers in the Soviet Union] found common ground in prejudice against the Soviet Union," the magazine charged.

"This is behind the readiness of George Axelsson of THE NEW YORK TIMES, Dorothy Thompson, Constantine Brown and other 'European experts' to imagine and spread all kinds of tales about Soviet policy and the readiness of many editors to publish these tales without a twinge of conscience."

Lists a "Poisoned Rumor"

The magazine applied the term "poisoned rumor" to a dispatch it said had been written by Harold Callender of THE NEW YORK TIMES Paris bureau which quoted diplomatic circles as saying the Soviet Union was holding Field Marshal Friedrich von Paulus, captured at Stalingrad, in reserve for a Soviet-sponsored puppet German government.

Mr. Axelsson was attacked for allegedly discussing the Union of German Officers as if the officers saw the possibility of preparing Germany for a future war, and Mr. Brown was assailed for observing that "the existence of the Free Germany Committee presents a destructive contradiction between the Allies."

It assailed Paul Ward of The Baltimore Sun for "expressing an unhealthy interest in this committee" and attributed a similar view to William Phillips Simms of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

"The known pro-Fascist paper, The New York World-Telegram, stated in an editorial that the Soviet Union is salvaging German militarism with the aid of the Free Germany Committee," the article continued.

The magazine called Raymond Daniell, NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, "malicious" for an alleged statement that the Sofia trials were an attempt by the Bulgarian Government "to liquidate its political opposition."

"The criminals themselves pleaded guilty and confessed their crimes in court," War and the Working Class said. "We see Daniell was even more malicious than the monk who called a pig a perch in order to conceal his sin when eating meat. He made an even more miraculous transformation in terming the Bulgarian Hitlerite servants a 'political opposition.'".

Principle Reported Accepted

Moscow, Feb. 21 (AP)—The magazine War and the Working Class today supported foreign press reports that the agreement of the Big Three Crimean conference on voting procedure for the future international security league satisfied the Soviet demand for "unanimity."

Romania Party Heads Saved

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Soviet news agency Tass said today that intervention by the Allied Control Commission in Romania obtained the release of leaders of the Cralova council of the National Democratic Front who had been surrounded in the prefecture by Romanian Army troops on Feb 17. Tass said the troops had acted after the party staged a demonstration of 10,000 persons at Cralova in which a resolution was adopted demanding a National Democratic Front government for Romania.

Ex-Baltimorean, Captured At Anzio, Freed In Poland

[Lieutenant Dimling, USA, a native of Baltimore, was graduated from Forest Park High School and studied salesmanship at Johns Hopkins University. His brother's residence is in Towson.]

By JOHN N. DIMLING, JR.

Moscow, Feb. 20 [AP—Delayed]. One year ago I was in no-man's land outside of Anzio beachhead when a German counterattack cut me off and I was taken prisoner. It was a mighty tough moment.

But last month sitting in a blacked-out Polish farmhouse behind what was the enemy's line, I had the thrill of my 30-year life. Off in the distance I heard the rumble of tanks. American officers who had eluded German guards that morning could hear the rumble of tanks.

"Lord, they can't be Jerry tanks," I told my side-kick. "They sound like M-4's—Shermans."

The rumble came nearer, then right past on the road a hundred yards from the farmhouse. It blended in with people's voices shouting and screaming with joy in Polish.

"Russky, Russky"

A Polish farmer burst into the room where we were lying low. "Russky, Russky," he yelled. I don't know when news like that could ever sound better. Then and there Marshal Zhukov became our favorite army commander.

The Poles, men, women and children, crowded in and embraced us. They sang one of their hymns. I sang, "God Bless America," and how we meant it!

Soon a Russian tanker poked his head in briefly just for a few seconds' chat with our senior officer, a colonel who used to be with the armored force himself.

The Russian through our interpreter said he was very pleased to see us, shook hands all around, whipped out a bottle of vodka and proposed a toast to our common victory. We offered him cigarettes.

"Keep Going To Berlin"

"Got to keep going to Berlin," he said in Russian as he saluted good-by. And off he went. It was like that all night as the Russian armored spearhead, mostly Stalin and Sherman tanks, raced after the retreating Germany army.

I've never met a better type of rough and ready soldier than the Red Army fighting men. All of them hate the Germans worse than anything else in the world and all of them are determined to get to Berlin just as fast as humanly possible.

Liberation by the Red Army ended what had been one year of modified hell for me. You can't realize what freedom means to you until you lose it. The Germans in handling American prisoners had thought of many ways, large and small, to harass us. They did as little as possible for us. Rations they provided would have broken us by starvation if it hadn't been for Red Cross parcels.

Snagged By "Goons"

As a "Kriegie," our name for war prisoners, or Kriegsgefangener, I suppose my experience has been typical until the Red Army fortunately cut it short.

Four months before the American 5th Army saw Rome the Germans marched me and hundreds of other prisoners from Anzio through the Eternal City in a parade designed to humiliate Allied arms in the eyes of the wavering Italians.

Taken In Ambush

I had been snagged by "goons"—the name the American prisoners gave their captors—while commanding Company A of the 30th Regiment in an attack in the direction of Cisterna by the 3d Division. That was February 1, 1944. Our executive officer was wounded and I had taken over temporarily.

The goons sucked in our attack, then came at us from ambush. A dozen of them with burp guns—Schmeisser automatic pistols—got the drop on me and my company radio operator.

At Velletri they grilled us and an English-speaking goon private sneered, "When our artillery comes from the Russian front we'll push your comrades back into the sea."

"How can you spare anything from the Russian front?" I asked. He couldn't answer that one.

Outside Rome in a kind of car barn the goons assembled over 100 United States officers and enlisted men and trucked us to the Coliseum. There they lined us up in columns of fives and marched us off across the city along streets jammed with curious but undemonstrative crowds.

"Our Victory"

Believe it or not, but some of the Italians furtively gave us the "V" sign. Some of us sang, "Heigh Ho, Methusaleh" to keep up our spirits and we named the whole thing "Our Victory."

On the other side the Germans reloaded us in trucks and off we went to spend seven weeks in a modern Black Hole—a stinking prison camp at Laterina, south of Florence.

The camp had no water supply of its own and what we used was carted in unpurified from an open stream near by. Lice and fleas abounded. Many prisoners suffered dysentery. Our daily ration consisted of ersatz tea or coffee unsweetened in the morning, a small chunk of bread and watery soup and a dab of margarine at noon, and the same thin soup at 5 P.M. Sundays we got nothing at all in the afternoon.

All Got Weak

All of us got so weak it was difficult to walk around. At two roll calls daily there were always a number of prisoners who fainted. Any sudden physical movement made the brain whirl and the effect was like a blackout.

Our senior officer was a British major who protested continually to Germans over camp conditions, but there was no improvement. At last they loaded us on boxcars, 25 prisoners and five guards in each, and shifted us to Moosberg, Bavaria.

They took away our shoes and belts to prevent attempts to escape and furnished us only a small loaf of bread, less than a pound of canned beef and one portion of soup per man for the entire journey.

At Moosberg we were deloused and handed our first Red Cross package. It was like Christmas. In fact, thereafter the weekly issuance of the Red Cross package always was referred to as "Christmas Day."

Another month and they shipped us off to western Poland to a camp at Szubin, once used for the RAF.

Gets First Letter

Six months from the time I was captured I got my first letter from home. It was from my mother, Mrs. Mabel G. Dimling. She always was a very faithful writer.

Prison camp, even in the best circumstances, is hard on morale. But our senior officer, Col. Thomas D. Drake, of the 168th Infantry, was a fine leader, and all of us tried to follow his example in keeping our chins up. Because of illness, he finally was repatriated.

As "Kriegies," we made up our own slang. "Bleater was a habitual complainer. "Hitting the sack" or "getting your flying time" was to stay in bed and save your energy to keep warm when our badly heated barracks were at their coldest.

A "Sakologist"

"Sakologist" was an expert at this maneuver.

"Bashing" meant to wolf down the contents of your Red Cross parcel. "Big-time operator" was a prisoner who traded various items until he finished with more than he started with.

When the men from the Normandy invasion started arriving we dubbed them "hedgerow boys" because of their tales of the fighting in that type of French countryside.

The new arrival got a smile out of the signs posted in the barracks: "No baloney, we've all been through it."

Lost 15-20 Pounds

The worst time at the Szubin camp—Oflag 64—was the seven weeks' stretch late last autumn when Red Cross parcels stopped coming. Our German ration, which was less than subsistence level, wasn't increased during this time. I lost 15 or 20 pounds and bigger men lost even more.

We could tell when big Allied or Russian attacks started because the Germans would shut down on news. We heard no German radio broadcasts for two days after Normandy D-day.

The Germans harassed us with extra roll calls and searches and made petty, obnoxious rules such as ordering us to open our tin Red Cross cans of food immediately upon receipt so we couldn't spread out the period of consumption.

Clothes Confiscated

In October, after our commander refused to assist the Germans, they took away by force about ten per cent of our clothes—things like combat jackets, pants, shirts and caps.

The winter was difficult. Water pipes froze and coal was extremely scarce. Most of us had chilblains.

A few days after we learned the Russian offensive had started the Germans gave us 24 hours' notice on January 20 that our camp would be marched afoot into Germany.

I made a pack from a woolen undershirt and loaded into it my Red Cross food. Most of the others did the same. We looked at the last issue of our camp newspaper, whose slogan was "Freiheit und Weissbrot"—freedom and white bread—and assembled on a gray, frosty morning for the long hike deep into the Reich.

"It's All Your Fault"

It was a bitterly cold Sunday. Trees and telephone wires were covered with ice. A stream of refugees, chiefly in wagons, clogged the road. One German woman screamed at us "it's all your fault."

One German guard so overloaded himself with his own luggage that he was sweating within fifteen minutes. On the sly he threw away his steel helmet and indicated his rifle would be the next thing he would ditch. That moment clinched my ideal that I wasn't going into Germany.

A day's hike or 12 or 15 miles took us beyond Kcynia, or Exin as the Germans called it. We shoved into some big barns on an estate expropriated from the Poles and given to a German Baltic baron named von Rosen, who by now had fled.

Victory Party

There was confusion the next morning when the column resumed its march. Some of us gave the goons the slip.

That night Russian tanks arrived. I don't think any of us could have slept a wink. The Poles brought out food and Schnapps. It was a victory party until dawn.

We stayed in the vicinity of Kcynia until February 3, when a colonel gave us permission to stay or hitchhike in the direction of Moscow as we wished. Then I teamed up with Capt. Ernest Gruenberg, 418 Central Park, west, New York city, and Second Lieutenant Frank H. Colley, of Washington, Ga., for the trip.

"Ya, Boy Scout"

Polish authorities gave us a railway pass to Kutno and a farewell breakfast with the major at Kcynia. It was typical of the rest of the journey.

We were never asked for any kind of transportation credentials and everybody, Poles or Russians, military or civilians, fed us generously without thought of repayment.

Moscow looked like a paradise. We had barely stepped off the train when a Russian soldier volunteered to show us to the subway and accompanied us to the very entrance of the United States Embassy.

"Ya, boy scout," he told us.

We agreed.

Dimling Operated Women's Wear Shop

Winston-Salem, N.C., Feb. 21 (AP). Lieut. John N. Dimling, Jr., was the operator of a women's wear shop in Kannapolis, N.C., before he entered the Army in 1941, his father, John N. Dimling, Sr., said tonight.

He attended school in Baltimore before his family moved here eight years ago, was graduated from Forest Park High School and took a course in salesmanship at Johns Hopkins University.

His parents received a cablegram from him today:

"The Germans and I parted company on January 22. Have just arrived Moscow with two comrades after hitchhiking our way. Am well and hope to see you all soon. . . ."

He has one brother, Navy Lieutenant Judson G. Dimling, 34, of Towson, Md., now overseas.

BRITISH TANKS AID INDIANS

Join In Battle Southwest Of Mandalay In Burma

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 21 (AP)—British tank reinforcements have joined the battle in the Myinmu sector 35 miles southwest of Mandalay and have helped Indian Gurkha troops advance to a point 4 miles south of their original bridgehead across the Irrawaddy River there, Allied headquarters announced today.

Driving inland against stiff Japanese resistance, the British Empire forces captured the village of Gaungbyo, 4 miles south of Myinmu, and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in repulsing a series of counterattacks.

Japs Fighting Hard

Fighting still was dogged and bloody. The Japanese, apparently feeling that their entire stake in central Burma was dependent upon repulsing this Allied thrust, were expending their remaining equipment prodigally.

Twenty enemy tanks, the largest single concentration of Japanese armor ever reported in Burma, were attacked by Allied planes and thirteen were destroyed. RAF and United States Liberator bombers dropped 200 tons of explosives on key Japanese supply dumps at Singaingmyo, 20 miles south of Mandalay, turning the area into a sea of flames.

"Satisfactory" Allied progress was reported from the Singu bridgehead across the Irrawaddy 40 miles north of Mandalay, where two enemy counterattacks were repulsed.

Best Line Abandoned

American and Chinese troops pushing down the old Burma road from the Myitkyina area toward the communications center of Lashio occupied Hsenwi, 25 miles northeast of Lashio, without a fight. In abandoning Hsenwi, the Japanese failed to take advantage of the best natural defense line north of Lashio.

Indian troops of the 15th Corps were reported pursuing Japanese rearguards withdrawing to the southeast from the Kangaw sector east of Akyab on the West Burma coast.

Chinese Repel Several Attacks Near Suichwan

Chungking, Feb. 21 (AP)—Chinese forces have repulsed several attacks on their positions southwest of Suichwan, formerly the site of a big American airbase, the high command announced tonight.

In the Hunan-Kwangtung border region, fighting continued 12 miles northwest of Ichang, west of the Canton-Hankow railroad and about 105 miles south of Hengyang. The Japanese in this sector are trying to reseal a gap in the railroad recently made by the Chinese.

Fighting also continued east of the railroad town of Chenhsein, 80 miles south of Hengyang.

Chinese Say His Fate Is Up to War Crimes Commission

CHUNGKING, Feb. 21 (AP).—K. C. Wu, Foreign Office spokesman, said today the Chinese government has "no specific views on the disposal of the emperor of Japan" after victory, and added that the question would be one for the United Nations War Crimes Commission to decide.

He said the Chinese delegate to the World Trade Union Conference in London who advocated trial and punishment of the emperor as a war criminal spoke in his own behalf and not for the Chinese government.

Pravda Likened To Goebbels

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Representative O'Konski (R., Wis.) today branded as a "lie mixed with red pepper and vodka" a Pravda editorial criticizing his views on the Yalta Big Three conference.

"In fact," O'Konski told the House, "Pravda out-Goebbels Goebbels."

The Russian newspaper, commenting on O'Konski's assertion last week that Poland had been "sold out" and that the Crimean conference was a "second Munich," said the lawmaker in his House speech had "repeated a dirty insinuation of Fascist propaganda" and "spoke like Goebbels."

"Anybody not in 100 per cent agreement with Moscow, according to Moscow, is a Fascist and a mouthpiece of Goebbels," O'Konski told his colleagues.

Mentions Churchill, F. D. R.

"Perhaps that is why Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt handed over all the loot to Stalin at Yalta, because maybe they were afraid that they, too, might be called Fascists if they even had a conscience that said 'no' just once. . . .

"It took Munich to wise up the world to Goebbels. Likewise, it took Yalta to wise up the world to Pravda."

O'Konski, whose parents came to the United States from Warsaw, said: "On four previous occasions Poland has been severed. But on all four occasions it was by European powers.

"But now we have an even greater crime. This time Poland has been partitioned by outsiders . . . not by enemy countries—but by so-called allies.

"Ghastly Crime"

". . . This last partition at Yalta will go down as the most ghastly crime of all ages known to man or beast.

"This is the first time in the history of the world that allies met and divided the spoils of a fellow ally."

When O'Konski finished, Representative Outland (D., Cal.) told the House:

"It seems that members have a solemn obligation to make no statement in this House contributing to disunity with our allies. We're fighting the Germans and Japanese, not Russia."

ODT ASKS BASEBALL TO CUT TRAVEL

1945 World Series May Be Canceled — Other Sports Affected

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The 1945 World Series may be canceled, the annual All-Star major league game is definitely out, and the whole sports world will have to curtail its travel sharply as a result of a Government decree today.

The action, which took the form of a "request" by the Office of Defense Transportation, was addressed initially to baseball, which was asked to cut its travel by 25 per cent, as compared to 1944.

But the ODT is formulating an over-all "home field" policy which is expected to cut out at least one fourth of all passenger-miles traveled by athletic teams, amateur and professional.

Some intersectional football games and basketball contests apparently will go by the boards.

Somewhat Of A Relief

However, the action came as somewhat of a relief to those baseball fans who had been fearing outright cancellation of the national pastime in 1945. It tends to give the game a sort of lease on life on a clarified basis, provided the ODT "requests" are observed.

Here are the four ways in which baseball was asked to cut its travel:

1. Games will be played only in the home city of one or the other competing teams. Exhibition games on neutral fields will be canceled except those played at army and navy establishments, where the military will provide transportation. Preseason training will continue to be held at places in or near the home city of each team.

2. Team rosters, when traveling, will be reduced to a minimum.

3. The World Series games will be held only if transportation and war conditions at the time permit.

4. All clubs will re-examine their schedules and make such further transportation savings as are possible.

Major-league leaders "voluntarily pledged full co-operation" with the Government conservation program in a conference with Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, and Will Harridge, American League chief, baseball's official two-man committee, went over the situation with Johnson and said they were "very well pleased with the whole thing."

"Interesting Findings"

They commented that their two-day visit here, including a conference with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, principally on the game's manpower problems, obtained encouraging and satisfactory results.

Optimistic over chances of continuing this spring, despite this latest restriction, Frick and Harridge said they will report "very interesting findings" to their respective leagues by correspondence.

HOUSE INQUIRY GETS ARMY O.K.

Acceptance Of Communists For Service Probe Subject

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—A con-ressional investigation of the War ...t's p...ies regarding ac-... ...ists for mili-... ...y with

...igation was ordered ... May (D., Ky.) fol-... a conference with army offi-... and concurrent with release of an army directive of December 30 emphasizing that the basic consideration in accepting Communists for service was whether the loyalty of the individual to the Communist party superseded his loyalty to the United States.

Inquiry Would Aid

May himself said he was satisfied with the Army's explanation of its policy but agreed with army spokesmen that an investigation would "clear up the atmosphere."

The Kentuckian had requested an explanation following congressional criticism of the directive which Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) claimed would permit widespread commissioning of Communists.

"The basic consideration is not the propriety of the individual's opinions, but his loyalty to the United States," the ruling, sent to commanding officers, read. "Membership in, or strict adherence to the doctrines of the Communist party organization is evidence that the individual is subject to influences that may tend to divide his loyalty.

Conflicting Influences

"However," it continued, "many good soldiers are subject to conflicting influences. Such influences must be appraised in the light of the individual's entire record. No action will be taken . . . that is predicated on membership in or adherence to the doctrines of the Communist party unless there is a specific finding that the individual involved has a loyalty to the Communist party which overrides his loyalty to the United States.

"No such finding should be based on the mere fact that the individual's views on various social questions have been the same as the views which the Communist party may have advanced. Except in clear cases, no action should be taken against persons who are being trained for combat assignments and who have demonstrated a high degree of ability to serve the United States in that manner, including a willingness to accept combat duty."

SEES BIG NAVY AS PEACE AID

Forrestal Says the Control of Seas Is Vital.

Washington, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—A strong post-war fleet is not incompatible with international collaboration, says Navy Secretary Forrestal, because "the means to conduct war must be in the hands of those who hate war."

The secretary, in his annual report to the President, said the United States and her Allies should keep fleets capable of controlling the world's oceans, prepared to fight, if necessary, for a world order in which our way of life can endure.

While the United States Navy is already the largest in the world, more ships must be built during the next three years not only to "forearm ourselves against heavier losses as we approach Japan," but to maintain and increase the present tremendous margin of power. "The greater our strength, the sooner our victory," he said.

Peak Reached in June.

Mr. Forrestal's report, his first as Secretary and the first annual report of the department in two years, was limited by restrictions of war to discussions of logistics, production, research, training, health and finance.

He said the solution of the problem of preserving in peace an alert nucleus of the effective logistics organization developed in wartime would have a profound effect on naval organization and policy, determining the future of many war-born innovations.

Navy production, he said, reached a peak by June, 1944, "which probably need not be exceeded." Production of capital equipment, such as ships, planes, guns and bases, had begun a gradual decline, while production of expendable material, ammunition, fuel, clothing and repair parts, continued to increase with the tempo of the fighting.

42,248 Craft in 1944.

Ship completions set a record in the 1944 fiscal year, 42,248 naval craft aggregating 4,483,947 tons. These included 32,814 landing craft, 355 auxiliaries, 954 patrol and mine craft, 6,887 small boats, 560 district craft, and 678 combatant ships. Combatant vessels completed included a battleship, six 27,000 ton aircraft carriers, four 11,000 ton light carriers, 69 escort carriers, 13 cruisers, 115 destroyers, 399 destroyer escorts and 71 submarines.

Plane acceptances of all types totaled more than 29,000, an increase of 80 per cent over the preceding year.

Mr. Forrestal said the Navy is still giving its best efforts to solving the problem of rotating personnel so that men overseas for long periods may came home on furlough.

Duty of Press Is Described By Byron Price

Its Responsibility Under Bill of Rights Stressed at Library Ceremonies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Byron Price, Director of Censorship, said tonight "a free press cannot endure unless it is a responsible press" and "the people, in due course, will see to that."

In a speech prepared for ceremonies installing in the Library of Congress an original copy of the Bill of Rights," which includes the charter of American press freedom, the war-time chief censor said: "Our national and our individual welfare demand that freedom of the press not only be preserved in this nation but extended so far as it may be throughout the world by the untrammeled exchange of unbiased news among nations."

The Bill of Rights copy, the only basic document of American history not heretofore included in the library's collection, was presented by Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures. One of the thirteen copies submitted by Congress to each of the original states it was purchased by Mr. Balaban in 1943 from Dr. A. S. Rosenbach, book collector.

The Bill of Rights, constituting the first ten amendments to the Constitution, Mr. Price said, "Are not merely a Bill of Rights to be loved and cherished, they comprise also a tablet of responsibilities to be lived up to. Either in the exact language or by implication every one of the enumerated rights becomes a qualified and elastic right, to be exercised, so to speak, during good behavior. . . .

"Just as freedom of the press is grounded legally in responsibility of the press, so also does a momentous moral responsibility rest upon those who disseminate the printed word. Whoever crowds to the utmost the barrier of indecency, inaccuracy and unfairness, or flirts with treason, does not serve to the future of freedom of the press."

Mr. Price cited the record of the nation's newspapers in three years of voluntary war-time censorship as a "prime example" that "the American press as a whole has long recognized that its responsibilities extend far beyond any compulsion of law."

Co-operation asked by the government has been given by the press "in overflowing measure," Mr. Price said.

Stassen Plan Called Smart

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Congressional Republicans credited Commander Harold E. Stassen today with a brainy political move in deciding to talk with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey before he attends the San Francisco world security conference.

They called it an olive-branch gesture, designed to clear himself of involvement in the snub a lot of people thought President Roosevelt gave the 1944 GOP presidential nominee in selecting the American delegation of eight. Dewey men were conspicuously absent from the group.

Spotlight On Stassen

The President's choice of Stassen as one of three invited Republicans boosted the former Minnesota Governor's political stock by giving him a prominent spot in the public scene.

Stassen may be a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948. Dewey probably will be in the race if he wins re-election as New York Governor in 1946. If he doesn't run, other candidates might like to have his support.

So, as the politicians in Congress figure it, Stassen did two smart things toward keeping peace in the minority family.

To Get GOP Views

First, he deprecated his appointment as "a political liability." Then he said he would get the views of Dewey and a half dozen senators and representatives before he doffs his naval uniform temporarily to become a delegate.

But Dewey, remembering that he got around 22,000,000 votes last November, isn't likely to depend entirely on Stassen, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, or Representative Charles A. Eaton, of New Jersey, the other Republicans who are delegates, to make his views felt.

Dulles To Be On The Job

Most Republicans here th Dewey's Man Friday on inte tional affairs, John Foster Dulles will have his telescope trained on the April 25 conference.

Wants Role Against Japan.

Washington, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Evidence that Britain wants a greater role in the war against Japan is found here in the disclosure of new Roosevelt-Churchill discussions on Pacific fighting.

President Roosevelt, on his return journey from Yalta, met the British leader at Alexandria several days ago.

A dispatch which came direct from the presidential party tells the story of the President's Odyessy, his brief but discussion-packed meeting with Mr. Churchill, which lasted only four hours. The account said the meeting enabled Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill to hold new and important discussions on the Pacific.

"Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words," the report said, "that hi sGovernment was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated."

British Stake Enormous.

Many military authorities here believ that Mr. Churchill's repeated emphasis on the point is to keep Britain's part in the Japa nese war in the forefront of American thinking with a view to obtaining a greater role for her fighting forces and a greater voice in both strategic and political decisions.

The direct stake o fthe British Empire in Asia is enormous, but the manning and direction of the Pacific war up to this time have been almost entirel yAmerican except for the long and bitter figh ting in Burma and New Guinea.

For the future Britain's assignment is understood to be, unless changed, primarily cleanup operations in the southeast Asia and Indies sectors whereas the British have been reported as wanting a part in the decisive assaults on Japan and Japanese-held China.

Disappointed at De Gaulle.

But whatever his friendly discussions with the Prime Minister, Mr. Roosevelt came up against an entirely different situation in his efforts to get together with Gen. De Gaullie.

What Gen. De Gaulle missed primarily was an opportunity to get a first hand account of the Big Three conference at Yalta.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S VIEWS CRITICIZED

Washington, Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt unwittingly did a disservice to the country by her statements on large families, the Rev. Edgar Schmiedeler, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said last night.

The First Lady told her news conference that she is for bigger families only if they are better too, and that she sees "no point in having children of inferior health or inferior mental abilities." She said something besides numbers is required to keep a nation strong.

"I think some of Mrs. Roosevelt's remarks are tantamount—unwittingly so, of course—to a decided disservice to the country of which she bears the honored title of First Lady," Dr. Schmiedeler said in a statement.

"Her worry might well center far more in the vast number of childless and near-childless married women of this country than in those that have what she considers a numerous progeny. One is inclined to ask 'who are these really good families.' Are we to infer there is no quality in large families and there is quality in small ones?"

U.S. Subs Sink 25 More Jap Vessels

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Twenty-five more Japanese vessels, including three combatant ships, have been sunk in Far Eastern waters by United States submarines.

A navy announcement today said the fighting ships included an escort aircraft carrier, a destroyer, and a large converted cruiser.

Noncombatant vessels included a medium transport, fourteen medium cargo vessels, three small cargo vessels, a large cargo transport, two medium cargo transports and a small transport.

1,045 In All

The announcement raised to 1,045 the total number of Japanese ships sunk by American submarines since the start of the war. These include 110 combatant and 935 noncombatant craft.

Sinkings announced by the Navy since January 1 have totaled 121 ships.

While not confirmed by the Navy, the converted cruiser listed in today's communiqué was believed to be one of the enemy's prewar 18,000-ton luxury merchant vessels.

Tarawa Loss Exceeded

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Marine casualties in the first 48 hours of the Iwo Jima assault were heavier than those on bloody Tarawa in the 76 hours required to take that Pacific bastion.

A Pacific fleet headquarters communiqué today placed the first Iwo losses at 3,650 men and officers, although of that number 3,063 were wounded and evacuated.

On Tarawa in late November, 1943, 988 men were killed and 2,163 wounded.

Two marine divisions made the Iwo attack, against one division at Tarawa—about one fourth the size of Iwo.

The rate of losses in neither action, however, approached that of the Marines' bloodiest engagement—at Soissons, France, in the first World War. Fourteen hundred leathernecks fell in a single hour there.

On Saipan, where operations continued from June 15 to July 9, 1944, with both Marine and Army units participating, total casualties yere 2,359 killed, 11,481 wounded and 1,213 missing.

Lehman Reports on Europe

Blames Suffering on Army Needs and on Supplying Countries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Herbert H. Lehman, director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, has prepared a report, it was learned reliably today, giving these major reasons for the acute food and clothing situation in war-devastated Europe:

1. Unquestioned priority by the military over shipping and supplies which has had to be exercised in an admittedly prolonged war.

2. Comparative unwillingness in major supply countries to restrict further their civilian supplies.

The report will be considered next week by the four-power central committee of the U. N. R. R. A.

STIMSON DENIES ARMS WILL BE LEFT IN EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP) — Secretary of War Stimson, in a letter made public today, said that the War Department's policy was to transfer usable military equipment from Europe to the Pacific when Germany fell.

Other high Government officials told The Associated Press Jan. 31 that the bulk of equipment would be left in Europe when American troops are transferred to the Orient, and that the troops would be armed anew. These officials said that such a policy would bring large forces to bear more quickly against Japan and hasten her downfall.

In reply to a query by Representative Engel, Republican, of Michigan, Mr. Stimson wrote that the department's policy "contemplates making maximum use of all equipment which can be utilized effectively in the war against Japan regardless of where the equipment is located."

There will be certain equipmen and supplies in Europe, he added which it "would be ill-advised t ship to the Pacific" because of wea and tear or the nature of the item

The Jan. 31 account has sinc been supported by another high o ficial. The latter said that arm production would be geared meet full Pacific needs, and no based on reassembling equipment from scattered European dumps and depots, because troops would be transferred quickly.

When conditions in Europe stabilize, this source said, the European supplies would be gone over for such equipment as could be used effectively in the Pacific war zone.

U. S. Buys Cuban Sugar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP).—The Commodity Credit Corporation announced today the purchase of 214,500 short tons of refined sugar from refiners in Cuba to help meet Lend-Lease requirements. This sugar, to be delivered before July 1, is to be taken from the 1945 Cuban crop, for which this country is negotiating purchase.

The report will be made by the division's commander, Maj. Gen. Harry J. Collins and will be carried—subject to war developments—over the NBC network at 6.15 P.M.

The War Department, reporting this today, said the broadcast will be part of a special program arranged by the Rainbow Veterans' Association.

Collins, a native of Chicago, took command of the 42d in April, 1943. It last was reported with the 7th Army on the southern flank of the Western front.

REVEALS A SNUB BY GEN. DE GAULLE

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 21 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's refusal of an invitation to meet with President Roosevelt in Algiers recalled to Representative Price (D.-Fla.), the Congressman said last night, that the French General snubbed him and other members of Congress last October at an airfield near Paris.

"Of course we were a little excited and were desirous of meeting with the French General," Representative Price said. "Congressman Henry D. Larcade Jr., of Louisiana, who speaks French fluently, sent word to Gen. de Gaulle by a French soldier that he would like to meet him. Then we waited for an answer.

"De Gaulle, surrounded by his aids, without a smile on his face, approached within fifteen feet of where we were standing. He told an interpreter to inform us if we wanted to see him, we would have to make an appointment to see him at his Paris office—fifteen miles away."

Representative Price said that the Congressmen boarded a plane and did not try for a formal appointment.

Welles has been critical of the hemispheric policies of the United States in recent months, since he resigned from his State Department post.

U.S. Building Machinery Barred to Foreign Buyers

Cubans and Venezuelans Can't Buy at Surplus Sale

KEARNEY, Neb., Feb. 21 (AP).—Cuban and Venezuelan representatives were barred from purchasing certain types of construction equipment as the sale of more than a million dollars worth of government surplus property got under way here today.

Representatives of the Cuban highway department and of the International Electrical Company, of Caracas, Venezuela, had come to the sale intending to purchase certain heavy equipment.

J. G. Morris, head of the machinery division of the Kansas City regional office of United States Treasury Procurement, said "the need for these articles in the United States is too critical." He asserted he acted on instructions from Washington.

The equipment involved was motor graders, crawler tractors, cranes, drag lines and motorized shovels. It was indicated the Cubans and Venezuelans would be able to purchase some of the many other items on sale.

An estimated 1,500 dealers, some of whom had to sleep in hotel lobbies last night, were here for the sale.

New Editor Is Appointed At William and Mary

Replaces Writer of Editorial on Racial Equality

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 21 (AP).—Miss Ruth Weimer, twenty-one years old, a senior at the College of William and Mary, Bedford native of Marion, Ill., is the new editor of "The Flat Hat," college publication.

Miss Weimer's appointment as editor follows a controversy at the college over a Feb. 7 editorial written by Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle, of Jackson, Mich., in which she said Negroes should be admitted to the college at some future date, "be our classmates . . . and marry among us."

As a result, publication of "The Flat Hat" was suspended, and Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, announced that "the writer of the editorial of Feb. 7 cannot continue as editor," and a faculty committee would be appointed to "advise" publications.

Miss Weimer, on "The Flat Hat" staff four years, lists her home as Girard, Kan.

Gripsholm Docks With 1,209

Jersey City, N.J., Feb. 21 (AP)—Joyously welcomed by uniformed WACS—the girls they left behind them—463 sick and wounded American soldiers came back from German prison camps today on the exchange ship Gripsholm.

A WAC-filled Army boat, its loudspeaker blaring the strains of "Don't Fence Me In," met the Swedish ship at quarantine, and a WAC band at the pier serenaded the men, who were among the Gripsholm's 1,209 passengers.

Fifty-five ambulances were at the Hudson River pier to take the servicemen to the Army's Halloran General Hospital on Staten Island.

Vessel's Sixth Such Trip

Passengers running from port to starboard to wave a tthe circling Army boat caused the Gripsholm to list as much as 10 degrees, said Lieut. Com. James Kahn, Navy public relations officer who went aboard at quarantine.

Kahn said he was informed that the white-painted ship, which flies the yellow and blue colors of neutral Sweden, ma le the thirteen-day crossing from Marseille without incident. It was the Gripsholm's sixth exchange voyage.

548 Civilians Aboard, Too

The Gripsholm also carried 548 United States civilians, many of whom had lived in Europe for 20 years or more; 46 American merchant seamen, 78 Canadian army wounded and 74 Latin-American civilians.

The American soldiers, all ill or wounded, included many aviators who were shot down over Germany. The ship's officers said there were 184 litter cases aboard.

The Army said interviews with the men would be permitted tomorrow.

Krepper Is Convicted On Saboteur Charge

Newark, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP)—A Federal court jury tonight convicted Carl Emil Ludwig Krepper, 60, of Newark, former clergyman accused of acting as contact man for the Nazi saboteurs, on charges of conspiracy to obstruct, interfere with and injure the defense of the United States.

During his five-day trial, the FBI introduced as evidence handkerchiefs taken from two convicted German saboteurs who landed in this country in June, 1942, bearing Krepper's name and a Rahway, N.J., address written in invisible ink.

Krepper faces a maximum of 2 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine as a result of the conviction. Three other indictments are outstanding against the ex-minister.

SAYS U.S. RISKS FATE OF ROME

Scientist Sees Trouble Due To Agricultural Policies

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—A new book by Joseph A. Cocannouer holds that Holland and Denmark will be the first of Europe's overrun nations to return to former greatness—because of their agriculture—while the United States risks the fate of Rome and Egypt because of its agricultural policies.

The book, "Trampling Out the Vintage," is published by the University of Oklahoma Press. Its author is a scientist and farmer whose boyhood efforts to advance sound agriculture in Oklahoma's sand hills impelled him to go to college without money for tuition, food or other expenses.

Cocannouer taught agriculture in rural schools, then went to the Philippines, China and Europe, studying and obtaining degrees at universities around the world.

Sure Basis Of National Life

Cocannouer holds that the soil is the basis of national life, and for entirely too long a time, he declares, America has trusted largely to fate for her food supply.

This time began when city people ceased to understand agriculture, stopped realizing that it behooved them to keep the food stream flowing unimpaired and that only as agriculture succeeded could they succeed.

In China's attitude toward agriculture Cocannouer sees the reason for that nation's survival for 5,000 years. Not, he points out, the Chinese farmer's attitude alone but, more important, the fact that every other Chinese, nobleman or coolie, business man or fisherman, maintained a profound interest in farming.

Rome Robbed Small Farmers

Rome, he says, robbed her small farmers of their land and drove them disgruntled into cities. Babylon treated her farming class as slaves. Egypt, through corruption in high places, lost interest in agriculture. He thinks the fall of each of these great powers was directly due to its attitude toward agriculture.

"And," he writes, "what about the nations resting under the heels of despotism in Europe today? All are in much the same plight at present. I venture to predict that the nations which have revolved most closely around their agriculture will be the first to return to their former greatness. Their whole people will be united from the start. I would head the list with Holland and Denmark.

"What about France? France has long possessed one of the most industrious farm populations of Europe, but the French farmer has ever been self-centered. His government has been set apart. France has revolved in two orbits, the peasant class and the upper ruling class. For that reason France will find difficulty getting up momentum."

America Slowest To Realize

Cocannouer says that of all leading modern nations, America probably has been slowest to recognize that the farmer's success is society's success; that his failure must be the failure of all. He adds that the people should be taught why the agricultural problems of their country are their problems and proposes that every teacher be required to pass an examination on the facts of agriculture.

"How," he asks, "can a teacher instruct any boy or girl about the foundation upon which his or her nation rests without knowing something at least about the character of a well-run farm? Or without knowing something about agricultural economics? And the answer must come now.

"Yes, the answer must be followed by action, if there is not to be a dropping of the national curtain, as was the case with Egypt and Rome. This is no fantastic dream."

Threat Made To Break Roosevelt-News Ban

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Washington newspaper men are studying with interest a threat by Westbrook Pegler to break the voluntary censorship code by reporting President Roosevelt's next visit to Hyde Park, regardless of White House wishes, the New York Herald Tribune said in a story from Washington.

The Herald Tribune reported that some correspondents and editors were inclined to agree with Pegler's objection to making the President's presence at Hyde Park a military secret when he traveled openly during last fall's presidential campaign. However, the story said, apparently few newspapermen desire to break the censorship code.

Director of Censorship Byron Price said: "I doubt seriously whether the responsible editors and publishers want to destroy the voluntary code to which we have adhered for three years."

Price added: "No responsible editor or publisher has recommended any change in the code," although he had invited such suggestions.

Miss Thompson's Comment

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Dorothy Thompson, New York columnist, said tonight that articles she wrote saying Russia planned a provisional German Government founded on the Free Germany Committee in Moscow and the union of German officers in the Soviet Union were based on the committee's own statements.

The Russian magazine War and the Working Class in its current issue declared statements by American writers that such a plan was scheduled to be used were myths and had contributed to a flood of "poisoned rumors."

The Soviet publication accused George Axelson, Harold Callender and Raymond Daniell, of the New York Times; Constantine Brown, of the Washington Star; Paul W. Ward, of the Baltimore Sun, and William Phillips Simms, of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, along with Miss Thompson as having erected "a structure of lies" on the subject.

New York, Feb. 21—The Turkish radio at Ankara today quoted "an unconfirmed report from the BBC" stating that American forces had landed in the Bonin Islands. The Turkish broadcast was recorded by the Blue network.

A NEW SHAKE-UP IN JAP CABINET

By Associated Press.

In the second Jap Cabinet shake-up within eleven days, Hisatada Hirose was dropped as Minister without portfolio and Chief Cabinet Secretary, the Jap Domei news agency reported today.

He was succeeded by Finance Minister Sotaro Ishiwata, who in turn was replaced in the Finance Ministry by Juichi Tsushima, vice-president of the Bank of Japan and president of the North China Development Company.

Hirose was appointed Chief Cabinet Secretary in the last shake-up of Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso's unstable government. At that time, February 10, the Jap press hailed Hirose's appointment as a significant political change.

The Japanese Domei news agency said today that four civil administrations told Emperor Hirohito yesterday that "despite air raids, earthquakes, and a lack of foods, there was no need for concern over public peace and order."

The officials represented districts which include the big industrial cities of Nagoya, Kobe, Osaka, and the Kyushu region where there are great heavy industries.

The Japanese broadcasts were recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD RUSSIAN (180)
BY W.W.HERCHER

LONDON, THURSDAY, FEB. 22-(AP)-THE SOVIET FIRST UKRAINE ARMY BY-PASSED THE STOUT GERMAN DEFENSE HEDGEHOG OF GUBEN YESTERDAY AND DROVE TO THE CONFLUENCE OF THE NEISSE AND ODER RIVERS, 54 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN AND SEPARATED ONLY BY THE WIDTH OF THE ODER FROM A JUNCTURE WITH THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY, WHICH WAS REPORTED FIGHTING TO ENCIRCLE FRANKFURT 21 MILES TO THE NORTH.

IN THE SAMLAND PENINSULA OF EAST PRUSSIA THE BERLIN RADIO CLAIMED THAT A SURPRISE GERMAN OFFENSIVE HAD REESTABLISHED A FIRM CORRIDOR FROM KOENIGSBERG TO THE ESCAPE PORT OF PILLAU, 20 MILES SOUTH.

MOSCOW MERELY ACKNOWLEDGED SOME ADVANCES BY THE ENEMY IN THAT SECTOR AND SAID THE DESPERATE EFFORT WAS COSTING THE GERMANS ENORMOUSLY IN MEN AND EQUIPMENT, WHILE ANOTHER TRAPPED GERMAN FORCE SOUTHWEST OF KOENIGSBERG LOST 85 TANKS AND 400 VEHICLES IN TWO DAYS.

MOSCOW'S NIGHTLY COMMUNIQUE AND AN EARLY MORNING SUPPLEMENT SAID THE FIRST UKRAINE FORCES OF MARSHAL IVAN S. KONEV HAD SEIZED A STRATEGIC RIDGE IN THE FOREST ON THE EASTERN APPROACHES TO GUBEN AND HAD DRIVEN UP TO THE NEISSE RIVER ON BOTH SIDES OF THE TOWN, CAPTURING MORE THAN 50 POPULATED PLACES IN ADVANCES THAT MEASURED SEVEN TO 13 MILES ON A 50-MILE-WIDE FRONT.

PLACES TAKEN INCLUDED KUSCHERN, ON THE NEISSE AT ITS CONFLUENCE WITH THE ODER, AND THE CITY OF PFOERTEN, 10 MILES SOUTH OF GUBEN AND SIX MILES NORTHEAST OF FORST. THE CITY STRONGHOLD OF PREIBUS, AND THE TOWN OF LEIPPA, BOTH ON THE NEISSE'S EAST BANK 23 AND 27 MILES SOUTHEAST OF GUBEN, ALSO WERE CAPTURED.

FEB 221945

MOSCOW WAS OFFICIALLY SILENT CONCERNING OPERATIONS OF THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN FORCES OF MARSHAL G.K.ZHUKOV DIRECTLY EAST OF BERLIN, BUT PRAVDA, OFFICIAL COMMUNIST PARTY PAPER, ASSERTED THE RED ARMY NOW STOOD BUT 34 MILES FROM THE GERMAN CAPITAL, AND THE GERMAN RADIO ANNOUNCED THAT ZHUKOV HAD "TEMPORARILY" SLASHED COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN BERLIN AND FRANKFURT, ON THE WEST BANK OF THE ODER 38 MILES FROM BERLIN.

PRAVDA DID NOT SPECIFY THE LOCATION, BUT THIS SHORTEST DISTANCE FROM BERLIN YET GIVEN BY THE RUSSIANS INDICATED THAT ZHUKOV HAD CROSSED THE ODER, A DEVELOPMENT WHICH THE GERMANS LONG HAVE CONCEDED BUT WHICH MOSCOW NEVER HAS ANNOUNCED.

GERMAN WAR REPORTER HANS ARNTZ BROADCAST THAT THE ROADS AND RAILWAY BETWEEN BERLIN AND FRANKFURT HAD BEEN REOPENED, BUT ADDED THAT A GREAT [illegible] WAS IN PROGRESS AND THAT THE

30. 24— 23207

BATTLE FOR ENCIRCLEMENT OF FRANKFURT WAS [illegible]

INHABITANTS HAD FLED THE SHELL-TORN CITY.

OTHER NAZI BROADCASTERS SAID GERMAN FORCES WERE FIGHTING DEFENSIVELY "BETWEEN BERLIN AND THE FRANKFURT-KUESTRIN FRONT" 30-ODD MILES EAST OF BERLIN, BUT CONTENDED THE RUSSIAN BRIDGEHEADS ON THE WEST BANK OF THE ODER STILL WERE "FAR TOO SMALL" FOR A MAJOR OFFENSIVE TOWARDS BERLIN. THEY ACKNOWLEDGED SOME ENLARGEMENT OF THE RUSSIAN FOOTHOLD AT KIENITZ, 10 MILES NORTHWEST OF KUESTRIN, HOWEVER.

THE SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY OF MARSHAL K.K.ROKOSSOVSKY MEANWHILE CONTINUED ITS STEADY DRIVE NORTHWARD THROUGH THE POLISH CORRIDOR TOWARDS DANZIG, NOW 33 MILES AWAY, AND WAS HONORED BY AN ORDER OF THE DAY FROM PREMIER STALIN ANNOUNCING CAPTURE OF CZERSK, 45 MILES SOUTHWEST (CORRECT) OF DANZIG.

FEB 221945

THE SOVIET COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED THAT ROKOSSOVSKY ALSO TOOK 40 OTHER TOWNS IN THE POLISH CORRIDOR, THE NORTHERN-MOST BEING PENSKERFELDE.

WITH DANZIG THUS ENDANGERED, THE GERMANS PENNED ON THE SAMLAND PENINSULA IN EAST PRUSSIA WEST OF KOENIGSBERG MADE A DESPERATE EFFORT TO BREAK OUT TO THE PORT OF PILLAU, 20 MILES SOUTH, BEFORE THEIR ENTRAPMENT WAS FURTHER SOLIDIFIED.

MOSCOW ACKNOWLEDGED SOME WITHDRAWALS IN THE FACE OF THIS VIOLENT PUSH, WHICH NOW HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS FOR THREE DAYS, BUT SAID THE FIGHTING THERE COST THE GERMANS 60 TANKS TUESDAY. OTHER GERMAN FORCES CAUGHT IN EAST PRUSSIA SOUTHWEST OF KOENIGSBERG WERE SQUEEZED CLOSER AND LOST NINE COMMUNITIES, MOSCOW REPORTED.

THE GERMANS ON SAMLAND APPARENTLY WERE HOPING TO MAKE A "DUNKERQUE" ESCAPE FROM PILLAU, BUT MOSCOW ACCOUNTS SAID RUSSIAN PLANES WERE COVERING

THE BALTIC COASTAL AREA AND DANZIG BAY WAITING FOR GERMAN SHIPS.

OTHER RUSSIAN PLANES TUESDAY NIGHT AND WEDNESDAY MORNING RAIDED STETTIN AND STARGARD AND THE BESIEGED SILESIAN CENTER OF BRESLAU, HITTING TRAINS AND WAR FACTORIES, THE SOVIET COMMUNIQUE SAID.

FEB 221945

THE COMMUNIQUE ACKNOWLEDGED THAT ON THE NORTH BANK OF THE DANUBE RIVER EAST OF KOMAROM THE GERMANS STILL WERE COUNTER-ATTACKING HEAVILY BUT SAID THEY WERE REPELLED AFRESH AND LOST 38 TANKS TUESDAY.

MIGHT LEAD COMMONS

BY ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, FEB 21-(AP)-HIS CONFIDENCE OBVIOUSLY UNDIMINISHED BY POTSHOTS AT HIS POLICY IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL STOOD READY TONIGHT TO STAKE HIS COALITION GOVERNMENT ON A MOVE TO OBTAIN UNQUALIFIED BRITISH BACKING OF THE CRIMEA CHARTER AS THE CORNERSTONE OF FUTURE PEACE.

UNOFFICIAL, YET APPARENTLY AUTHENTIC, REPORTS THAT HE WOULD SEEK A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE ON THE BIG THREE'S DECISIONS WERE REGRDED HERE AS A LIKELY FORERUNNER OF A MOVE ON THE PART OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO OBTAIN CONGRESSIONAL ENDORSEMENT ON THE CONFERENCE RESULTS.

THE COMMONS TEST PROBABLY WILL COME NEXT WEDNESDAY AT CONCLUSION OF A TWO-DAY DEBATE WHICH WILL BE OPENED BY THE 70-YEAR-OLD PRIME MINISTER

WITH A REVIEW OF THE WAR SITUATION AND A FIRST-HAND INTERPRETATION OF WHAT THE CRIMEA DECISIONS WILL MEAN TO GLOBAL STABILITY.

OUT OF A BRIEF COMMONS DISCUSSION OF FOREIGN POLICY TODAY THERE EMERGED INDICATIONS OF THE LINE OF ATTACK WHICH CRITICS WILL TAKE IN ATTEMPTING TO PREVENT A WHOLESALE VOTE OF APPROVAL.

FROM DOUGLAS LLOYD SAVORY, CONSERVATIVE BELFAST UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR, CAME A QUERY WHETHER THE BIG POWERS WERE NOT BOUND BY THE ATLANTIC CHARTER TO CONSIDER THE WISHES OF THE POLISH PEOPLE BEFORE TRANSFERRING THEM FROM THEIR HOMES TO OTHER TERRITORY.

LATER MAJ.GEN.SIR ALFRED KNOX ASKED: "IS THIS NOT SURRENDER TO POWER POLITICS?"

FEB 221945

BUT FOREIGN SECRETARY EDEN DECLINED TO ENGAGE IN DEBATE ON THE ISSUE UNTIL NEXT WEEK AND CHURCHILL BROKE SILENCE ONLY ONCE TO SAY THAT "THE ATLANTIC CHARTER IS A GUIDE, NOT A RULE."

HDD LDN XX TARGETS

THE GLOW OF LARGE FIRES FROM THE ATTACK ON DORTMUND COULD BE SEEN THROUGH THIN CLOUDS AND SMOKE ROSE TO A GREAT HEIGHT, THE AIR MINISTRY SAID.

NIGHT FIGHTERS AND INTRUDER AIRCRAFT OF THE BOMBER COMMAND SUPPORTED THE HEAVIES AND ATTACKED AIRFIELDS. THE RAF ANNOUNCED THE LOSS OF 21 PLANES FROM THE NIGHT'S OPERATIONS.

INDICATING THE DAYLIGHT RAIDS WERE ON A SCALE IN KEEPING WITH THE GREAT OFFENSIVE WHICH HAS SEEN APPROXIMATELY 10,000 HEAVY BOMBERS SWEEP OVER THE REICH SINCE FEB. 12, GERMAN RADIOS BROADCAST A RAPID FIRE STREAM OF WARNINGS THROUGHOUT THE MORNING.

THE MAIN TARGET OF THE RAF NIGHT ATTACKS WAS DORTMUND, EASTERN GATEWAY TO THE INDUSTRIAL RUHR WHERE MANY TRUNK RAILWAYS FROM CENTRAL GERMANY MEET. IT IS NOW ONE OF THE MAIN BOTTLENECKS IN THE ENEMY'S COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM FEEDING THE WESTERN FRONT, ESPECIALLY THE AREA OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE.

FEB 221945

"THIS GREAT INDUSTRIAL CITY WITH ITS MANY STEEL PLANTS HAS BEEN ABOUT HALF DESTROYED BY THE RAF," THE AIR MINISTRY SAID, "BUT ITS RAILWAY CENTERS MUST BE ATTACKED AT FAIRLY FREQUENT INTERVALS IF WE ARE TO KEEP THEM OUT OF ACTION."

AFTER LAST NIGHT'S ATTACK RETURNING CREWMEN SAID THEY COULD SEE THE GLOW OF HUGE FIRES MORE THAN 100 MILES AWAY.

TWO OIL REFINERIES SOUTH OF DUESSELDORF WHICH HAVE BEEN FREQUENT TARGETS FOR U.S. DAYLIGHT RAIDERS ALSO WERE BOMBED LAST NIGHT BY BRITISH HEAVY BOMBERS, WHILE MOSQUITOS SHOOK BERLIN IN TWO SEPARATE RAIDS ABOUT MIDNIGHT.

FEB 221945

AS USUAL MOST OF THE VERSATILE LITTLE MOSQUITOS CARRIED 4,000-POUND BLOCKBUSTERS TO THE NAZI CAPITAL.

THE DUESSELDORF REFINERIES ORIGINALLY WERE USED FOR PRODUCTION OF LUBRICATING OIL, BUT THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN FORCED TO COVERT THEM TO THE PRODUCTION OF GASOLINE IN AN EFFORT TO KEEP THEIR WAR MACHINE RUNNING.

THE SPLATTERING OF DORTMUND'S CLOGGED RAILROAD YARDS BY THE RAF DOVETAILED WITH THE CAMPAIGN BY THE U.S. ARMY STRATEGIC AIR FORCE TO WRECK ALREADY BADLY SNARLED NAZI COMMUNICATIONS.

ATTACKING IN TWO WAVES FROM OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE TOWN AT NOON YESTERDAY, MORE THAN 900 FLYING FORTRESSES SMACKED THE HUGE MARSHALLING YARDS AND DEPOT AND ADJACENT REPAIR SHOPS AT NUERNBERG, 90 MILES NORTH OF MUNICH.

THE FORTRESSES WERE UNCHALLENGED BY THE LUFTWAFFE, BUT FLAK WAS INTENSE. SIXTEEN BOMBERS, CARRYING 144 MEN, AND 23 ESCORTING FIGHTERS WERE LOST. MUSTANGS AND THUNDERBOLTS SHOT DOWN 14 NAZI PLANES, AND DESTROYED 39 OTHERS ON THE GROUND.

POWERFUL AMERICAN ARTILLERY FIRE SUPPORTED THE ATTACK HOUR AFTER HOUR, WHILE ROCKET-FIRING FIGHTER PLANES MADE HALF-HOURLY RUNS OVER ENEMY POSITIONS.
OTHER TROOPS CLEARED OUT A NUMBER OF HILLTOP VILLAGES WEST OF BELVEDERE, INCLUDING THE VICIOUSLY-DEFENDED COMMUNITIES OF CORONA AND POLLA, AS WELL AS SEVERAL MOUNTAINS IN THIS SECTOR OF THE GERMANS' APENNINE BUTTRESSES SOME 28 MILES SOUTHWEST OF BOLOGNA.
MEANWHILE, THREE MILES WEST OF BELVEDERE, FORCES COMMANDED BY LT.COL.HENRY HAMPTON OF OAKLAND, CALIF., IN A BRILLIANT MOUNTAIN-SCALING MANEUVER SUNDAY NIGHT, LABORED UP A FIVE-MILE-LONG RIDGE RUNNING FROM SOUTHWEST TO NORTHEAST. THEY HAD TO USE ROPES AND OTHER ALPINE EQUIPMENT AND THEN STOOD OFF SMALL BUT BITTER GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS FO 30 HOURS.
THERE WAS HEAVY MORTAR, ARTILLERY AND MINEFIELD OPPOSITION, WITH COMBINATIONS OF ALL THREE AT MOST PLACES.

WITH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 20-(AP)-TROOPS OF THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY HAVE CLEARED THE GERMANS FROM [redacted] THE SAAR RIVER NORTH OF AUERSMACHER, KLEINBLITTERSDORF, ON THE EAST BANK OF THE SAAR, NORTHEAST OF AUERSMACHER, AND FROM THE VILLAGE OF BLIESGERSWILLER, NORTHEAST OF AUERSMACHER.

FEB 221945

THE PUSH THROUGH THIS NECK OF GERMAN TERRITORY BOUNDED BY THE CURVING SAAR AND BLIES RIVERS NORTH OF SARREGUEMINES NETTED APPROXIMATE 500 PRISONERS FROM THE JUMP-OFF LAST FRIDAY TO MONDAY MIDNIGHT.

FEB 221945

AUERSMACHER, RECAPTURED FROM THE ENEMY YESTERDAY, WAS A PILE OF MUD AND WRECKAGE TODAY, BUT THE AMERICANS SCRAMBLED INTO THE DRY CORNERS OF SHATTERED BUILDINGS TO BUILD FIRES AND EAT THEIR MEALS.

GERMAN TROOPS DRIVEN NORTHWARD STILL HELD THEIR POSITIONS IN THE WOODS NORTH OF KLEINBLITTERSDORF. (30 WORDS CENSORED)

NO CHANGE WAS REPORTED IN THE AMERICAN POSITIONS AROUND FORBACH, SIX MILES TO THE WEST IN ALSACE, BUT ALSO NEAR THE GERMAN BORDER BECAUSE OF THE CURVING FRONTIER IN THIS AREA.

XXX LT. GEN. ALEXANDER M. PATCH'S TROOPS IN XXXX THAT AREA WERE REPORTED LAST NIGHT TO BE HOLDING HILLS IN THE KLEINWALD, A FORE NEAR FORBACH.

FEB 221945

NO CIVILIANS WERE LEFT IN AUERSMACHER, BUT A GROUP OF 54

A RAGING FIGHT WAS CENTERED AROUND AN OLD CASTLE ON THE SOUTHERN EDGE OF FORBACH, SIX MILES TO THE WEST IN ALSACE BUT ALSO CLOSE TO THE GERMAN BORDER BECAUSE OF THE CURVING FRONTIER IN THIS AREA.

FEB 221945

ZINZING, HESSELING, ALSTING AND GROSS-BLIEDERSTROFF, ALL IN THE AREA EAST OF FORBACH, WERE CLEARED OF THE ENEMY.

ALSTING IS BUT A LITTLE MORE THAN THREE MILES SOUTH OF SAARBRUECKEN AND THE SIEGFRIED LINE FORTIFICATIONS. THE ONLY SIZEABLE TOWN BETWEEN FORBACH AND SAARBRUECKEN IS STIRING-WENDEL.

THE IMPORTANCE THE GERMANS ATTACH TO HOLDING THE INDUSTRIAL CITY OF FORBACH IS INDICATED BY THE RESISTANCE THEY ARE MOUNTING THERE, INCLUDING A HEAVY ARTILLERY CONCENTRATION.

ACTIVITY WAS LIGHT ALONG THE REMAINDER OF THE SEVENTH ARMY FRONT.

NO CIVILIANS REMAINED IN AUERSMACHER WHEN THE AMERICANS ENTERED, BUT A GROUP OF 54

FEB 221945

BROTHERS AND THE NAZIS HAD REFUSED HIM PERMISSION TO LEAVE.

THE CAVE IN AN OLD LIMESTONE QUARRY WAS CAPABLE OF

HOLDING THOUSANDS, SCHIRRA SAID, AND THE GROUP OF 30 ADULTS AND 24 CHILDREN HAD ENOUGH FOOD TO LAST THEM FOUR MONTHS. THEY HAD BEEN LIVING IN THE CAVE FOR THREE MONTHS. FEB 221945

SCHIRRA HAD A LONG, RAMBLING TALE TO TELL OF HIS EXPERIENCES WITH THE GERMANS. HE SAID HE HAD RECEIVED HIS FIRST CITIZENSHIP PAPERS IN BUFFALO IN 1925 AND DENIED THAT HE HAD EVER BEEN A MEMBER OF A BUND OR ANY OTHER NAZI ORGANIZATION IN THE UNITED STATES. HE INSISTED THAT HE HAD NOT JOINED THE NAZI PARTY HERE AND SAID HE HAD MADE HIS LIVING BY PICKING UP SCRAP PAPER AND IRON UNTIL THE NAZIS PUT HIM TO WORK ON CONSTRUCTION OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THE CIVILIANS IN THE CAVE WERE FOUND BY LT. JOHN G. LARSON, 7 NORTH NINTH AVENUE, MT. VERNON, N.Y., WHO REPORTED HIS DISCOVERY TO CAPT. W.J. FREDERICK OF JENKS, OKLA.

FEB 221945

AT THE SAME TIME THERE WAS REASON TO BELIEVE THAT BRITAIN HAS DEVISED A PLAN DESIGNED TO BRING A COMPROMISE BETWEEN THE ARABS AND JEWS IN PALESTINE, BUT ITS PROVISIONS WERE UNAVAILABLE HERE.

FEB 221945

WELL INFORMED SOURCES EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT THE PRESENT ANOMALOUS SITUTATION IN PALESTINE WILL NOT BE PERMITTED TO CONTINUE FOR LONG. THE PERIOD FOR XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX LIMITED JEWISH IMMIGRATION INTO PALESTINE PROVIDED IN BRITAIN'S WHITE PAPER EXPIRED LAST YEAR. THE ZIONISTS ARE PRESSING FOR REMOVAL OF ITS RESTRICTIONS AND THE ARABS ARE EQUALLY OPPOSED TO any MITIGATION OF THE WHITE PAPER'S TERMS.

SOME CONCRETE STEPS TO END THIS SITUATION ARE EXPECTED.

WHETHER THEY WILL INVOLVE PARTITIONING PALESTINE OR WHETHER BRITAIN WILL ATTEMPT TO ESTABLISH A TRI-NATIONAL GOVERNMENT OF BRITISH, JEWS AND ARABS IS NOT KNOW, BUT BOTH ARE POSSIBILITIES.

RESCHLINGEN, GERMANY, FEB 20-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A LITTLE MAN WITH WATERY, BLUE EYES POPPED OUT OF A HILLSIDE CAVE TODAY WITH A STRANGE STORY OF HOW HE WAS IMPRESSED INTO THE NAZI LABOR SERVICE WHILE ON A VISIT FROM AMERICA AND OFFERED TATTERED EVIDENCE TO PROVE THAT HE ONCE LIVED IN THE UNITED STATES.

FEB 221945

THE LITTLE MAN IDENTIFIED HIMSELF AS FRANK SCHIRRA, 50, AND SAID HE CAME TO THE UNITED STATES IN 1924 AND TOOK OUT FIRST CITIZENSHIP PAPERS A YEAR LATER IN BUFFALO, N.Y.

WHILE ARTILLERY SHELLS WHISTLED OVER THIS GERMAN HILLSIDE, SCHIRRA FISHED INTO HIS PURSE AND PRODUCED A RECEIPT FROM THE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING SECTION OF THE BUFFALO EVENING NEWS DATED APRIL, 1936, AND A NEW YORK STATE DRIVER'S LICENSE FOR THE SAME YEAR. BOTH WERE OFFERED TO BOLSTER HIS STORY WHICH MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS ARE INVESTIGATING.

SCHIRRA SAID HE HAD WORKED IN THE BRIDGE DEPARTMENT OF THE LACKAWANNA STEEL CORPORATION PLANT UNTIL HE LOST THREE FINGERS FROM HIS RIGHT HAND IN AN ACCIDENT. WITH HIS COMPENSATION HE BOUGHT A SMALL FARM IN ERIE COUNTY BUT COULDN'T MAKE IT PAY SO HE MOVED B

HE SAID HE RETURNED TO GERMANY TO VISIT HIS FIVE BROTHERS AND

30.24 — 23223

80-YEAR OLD MOTHER AT AUERSBACHER, NEAR HERE, IN 1937. THE GERMANS, HE DECLARED, TOOK UP HIS PASSPORT AND REFUSED TO ALLOW HIM TO RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES. MEANWHILE, HE OBTAINED A DIVORCE IN GERMANY FROM THE FRENCH WIFE HE MARRIED IN 1921.

SCHIRRA SAID THE GERMANS TOLD HIM THEY SUSPECTED HE HAD COME TO GERMANY "FOR OTHER REASONS" THAN TO VISIT HIS FAMILY. THEN THEY TOLD HIM THEY WANTED HIM TO WORK FOR THEM AND PROMISED HIM TRAINING IN BERLIN.

HE REFUSED, SCHIRRA SAID. FROM THE PROCEEDS OF SCRAP PAPER AND IRON COLLECTIONS HE MANAGED TO START A RESTAURANT, BUT IT LATER FAILED. THEN JUST BEFORE THE WAR THE GERMANS GRABBED HIM AND MADE HIM WORK ON THE WEST WALL. A COUPLE OF YEARS AGO HE WAS PUT TO WORK IN A NEARBY MINE.

FEB 221945

SCHIRRA TOLD HIS STORY BEFORE THE ENTRANCE OF A CAVE WHICH LED INTO A LABYRINTH OF TUNNELS WHICH HE BOASTED "CAN HOLD 20,000 PEOPLE."

"THERE ARE 94 IN HERE NOW--24 CHILDREN," HE DECLARED. "WE MOVED IN THREE MONTHS AGO TO GET AWAY FROM THE BOMBINGS. WE HAVE PLENTY OF FOOD, ENOUGH FOR FOUR MONTHS.

FEB 221945

"WE HAD ENOUGH FOOD FROM THE COUNTRYSIDE, WE HAD A COW IN HERE AS WELL AS GOATS, SHEEP, RABBITS AND CHICKENS."

ONE OF A GROUP OF CAVE INHABITANTS DISPUTED SCHIRRA'S CLAIM, ASSERTING THERE WERE ONLY A FEW POTATOES LEFT AND NO MEAT. THE OLDEST OF THE CAVE DWELLERS IS 70, THE YOUNGEST TWO.

SCHIRRA SAID THAT ABOUT HALF OF THE CAVE COMMUNITY WERE NAZI PARTY MEMBERS WHO JOINED TO GET WORK PERMITS BUT HE DECLARED HE "NEVER JOINED THE PARTY."

MANILA, FEB 19-(DELAYED)-(AP)-CIVILIANS WHO FLED THE ERMITA DISTRICT OF SOUTH MANILA, TO TAKE REFUGE IN THE CATHOLIC ATENEO DE MANDA COLLEGE WHILE THE JAPANESE HELD THE AREA SUFFERED UNSPEAKABLE MISERY AND HORROR, DR.MARTIN FISHER SAID TODAY WHEN HE REACHED

SAFETY OF AMERICAN LINES.

"I SAW IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR SIGHTS OF HUMAN MISERY AND DESTRUCTION, BUT NEVER WAS THERE ANYTHING TO COMPARE WITH WHAT IT WAS LIKE IN SOUTH MANILA LAST WEEK," HE SAID.

FISHER, HIS WIFE, ROSE, AND DAUGHTER, BARBARA, 17, GERMAN REFUGEES WHO HAD FLED HITLER'S DOMINATION, WERE AMONG THE 7,000 CIVILIANS RESCUED WHEN AMERICAN TROOPS CAPTURED THE GENERAL HOSPITAL. THEY SAVED ONLY A FEW PERSONAL EFFECTS FROM THEIR WAR-BATTERED HOME.

"WE HAVE SEEN ALL THERE IS---THEY CAN DO NOTHING WHICH WOULD SURPRISE OR SHOCK US NOW," SAID FISHER. HIS UNCLE, OSCAR GREENWALL, LIVES AT 325 EAST 80TH ST., NEW YORK CITY.

AT LEAST 2,000 CIVILIANS OF THE ERMITA DISTRICT TOOK REFUGE IN THE CATHOLIC ATENEO COLLEGE GROUNDS, FISHER SAID. MANY WERE WOUNDED.

FISHER AND THREE FILIPINO DOCTORS WERE THE ONLY MEDICAL MEN IN ATENEO AND THEY WORKED UNCEASINGLY.

"WITH THE NUMBER OF WOUNDED INCREASING HOURLY, WE ASKED AND WERE GIVEN PERMISSION BY THE JAPANESE TO GET MEDICAL SUPPLIES FROM A NEARBY WAREHOUSE,"FISHER SAID.

"WEARING RED CROSS EMBLEMS AND CARRYING A HUGE RED CROSS FLAG, WE WERE ALLOWED TO PROCURE JUST WHAT WE COULD CARRY---ONE OF THE PADRES AND MYSELF.

"WE HAD SO FEW BANDAGES AND DRESSINGS THAT THE PADRES TORE OFF THEIR WHITE GIRDLES TO MAKE MORE, AND WHEN OUR SUPPLY OF MORPHONE WAS EXHAUSTED WE USED RUM, BRANDY AND WHISKY FROM THE PHARMACY.

"THE FILIPINO SURGEON HAD ONE NEEDLE WHICH HE USED ALMOST CONSTANTLY.

"A FEW DAYS BEFORE WE WERE LIBERATED FROM THE PHILIPPINE GENERAL HOSPITAL A JAPANESE SOLDIER CAME INTO THE SURGERY AND THROUGH AN INTERPRETOR MADE US A SPEECH.

"HE TOLD US, 'WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO YOU PEOPLE AND TO THE FILIPINOS OF THE CITY IS BUT A SAMPLE OF WHAT IS TO COME. OUR REINFORCEMENTS ARE COMING. THE JAPANESE EMPEROR WILL REPAY FOR THIS DAMAGE. EVEN WORSE IS TO COME.'

"WE WERE FURTHER DEPRESSED WHEN FIRE BROKE OUT IN THE MAIN BUILDING. WE STRUGGLED ALL NIGHT TO GET THE WOUNDED TO THE GENERAL HOSPITAL AREA.

"SOME, ALTHOUGH BADLY TORN BY SHRAPNEL, MANAGED TO DRAG THEMSELVES TO THE HOSPITAL. AT LEAST 1200 PEOPLE ESCAPED FROM BURNING ATENEO TO THE HOSPITAL, BUT HOW MANY PERISHED IN THE MAIN BUILDING PROBABLY NEVER WILL BE KNOWN.

"ALL DURING THE DAY THE PADRES AND CIVILIANS BRAVED WITHERING FIRE TO BRING MORE WOUNDED TO THE HOSPITAL ON IMPROVISED STRETCHERS. SOME EVEN CARRIED WOUNDED ON THEIR BACKS. THE FIRING SEEMED TO INCREASE IN INTENSITY, BUT THE CARE FOR THE WOUNDED WENT ON.

"WORKING IN A DAZE THROUGHOUT, I REMEMBER LITTLE OF WHAT TRANSPIRED UNTIL DAWN WHEN SHOUTING AND SCREAMING IN FRONT OF THE HOSPITAL TOLD US THAT LONG AWAITED LIBERATION HAD ARRIVED.

"FILIPINO NURSES CAME UP TELLING THE AMERICANS WERE IN FRONT OF THE BUILDING AND TO REMAIN CALM.

"THE FIRST SOLDIER WAS DELUGED WITH KISSES FROM EVERYONE.

"WITH MY FAMILY I WENT BACK TO ATENEO TO WORK WITH THE WOUNDED AND ON THE FIRST NIGHT IN WHAT SEEMED LIKE YEARS WE SLEPT UNAWARE OF THE SOUNDS OF BATTLE."

ABOARD VICE ADM.R.K.TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF IWO JIMA, THURSDAY, FEB. 22-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-AMERICAN MARINES BY SHEER DRIVE AND COURAGE HAVE WON A THIRD OF THE FORTRESS ISLAND OF IWO IN A RELENTLESS BATTLE WHICH, YARD FOR YARD, IS COSTING MORE IN DEAD AND WOUNDED THAN THE SWIFT CONQUEST OF TARAWA.

PUSHED BACK BY ADVANCING DEVILDOGS, POUNDED BY 14-INCH NAVAL GUNS AND BY SHORE ARTILLERY, THE JAPANESE SHOWED NO SIGNS OF CRACKING UP. THE ENEMY, HAVING NO AIR SUPPORT OF HIS OWN, ALSO WAS HAMMERED THROUGHOUT THE DAY BY MORE THAN 800 SORTIES OF U.S. CARRIER PLANES.

JAPANESE CASUALTIES REMAINED UNDETERMINED AS THE BITTER FIGHT 700 MILES FROM HONSHU, MAIN NIPPON HOME ISLAND, ENTERED ITS FOURTH DAY. IT WAS GENERALLY AGREED, HOWEVER, THAT THEIR LOSSES HAVE BEEN HEAVY.

MARINE ARTILLERY IS OPERATING FULL FORCE, ADDING ANOTHER LETHAL WEAPON IN SUPPORT OF THE DOGGED GROUND FIGHTERS.

A LARGE NUMBER OF THE 3,300 AMERICAN ENLISTED MEN AND 150 OFFICERS OFFICIALLY REPORTED KILLED, WOUNDED OR MISSING UP TO 8 A.M. YESTERDAY, BECAME CASUALTIES IN THE INITIAL HOURS OF THE FRONTAL ASSAULT ON THIS MOST HEAVILY DEFENDED JAPANESE ISLAND IN THE PACIFIC.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ IN ANNOUNCING THE CASUALTIES SAID 3063 WOUNDED HAD BEEN EVACUATED FROM THE ISLAND. THEY WERE CARRIED OUT OFTEN UNDER FIRE AND ALWAYS UNDER DIFFICULT BEACH CONDITIONS.

A NAVY HOSPITAL SHIP MOVED CLOSE TO THE SHORE TO FACILITATE THE TRANSFER OF THE WOUNDED.

IN THE FIGHTING FOR TARAWA ATOLL IN THE GILBERTS, 994 MARINES WERE KILLED AND SEVERAL THOUSAND WOUNDED IN THE 72-HOUR BATTLE WHICH

30.24 - 23225

ENDED WITH ANNIHILATION OF THE ENEMY GARRISON.

IN THE FIGHTING ON IWO THE PATTERN OF BATTLE HAS NOT CHANGED. THE FOURTH MARINE DIVISION INCHED TOWARD THE CENTRAL AIRFIELD 5,000 YARDS NORTH OF THE CAPTURED MAJOR AIRDROME AND LEATHERNECKS IN THE SOUTHERN SECTOR OF THE ISLAND BEGAN THEIR SLOW, HAZARDOUS CLIMB UP 550-FOOT HIGH MT. SURIBACHI.

FEB 221945

VERY HEAVY OPPOSITION SOUTH OF THE CENTRAL AIRFIELD SLOWED UP THE DRIVE BY MARINE VETERANS OF THE BATTLES OF ROI-NAMUR, SAIPAN.

IT WAS A CASE OF TAKING EACH ONE OF COUNTLESS PI

LBOXES, FREQUENTLY WITH THE AID OF FLAMETHROWERS, AND FACING EXPOSURE TO ENEMY FIRE IN OPEN COUNTRY.

TANKS SUPPORTED THE ADVANCE ON BOTH FRONTS, IN THE CENTER OF THE ISLAND AND ON THE NARROW SOUTHERN PENINSULA TOPPED BY MT.SURIBACHI.

THE DRIVE UP THE STEEP SLOPES OF THE VOLCANIC CONE, INTO WHICH LOW-DIVING CARRIER PLANES DROPPED BOMBS, WAS MADE THROUGH MINEFIELDS AGAINST JAPANESE FIRE FROM MANY PILLBOXES AND CAVES.

ONE HIGH MARINE OFFICER SAID THE CAPTURE OF SURIBACHI WOULD BE SLOW GOING, AND THE CITADEL PROBABLY WILL PROVE TO BE A MAZE OF TUNNELS.

FEB 221945

NAVY PI

OTS ATTACKED THEIR OBJECTIVES WITH CAUTION TO AVOID BOMBING THEIR OWN TROOPS. THEY ACCURATELY PITCHED THEIR EXPLOSIVES AMONG NIPPONESE MACHINEGUN EMPLACEMENTS ON THE RIM OF THE CRATER.

THROUGHOUT THE DAY THE FLASH OF NAVAL GUNFIRE BROKE THROUGH THE MIST AND DRIZZLE. AT TIMES A DOZEN SMOKE GEYSERS ROSE FROM THE ISLAND WHILE ALONG THE BEACHHEAD MORE PUFFS SHOWED WHERE MARINE ARTILLERY WAS BOOMING.

THE JAPANESE CONTINUED TO FIRE ROCKETS AT THE BEACHHEAD SETTING OFF ONE AMMUNITION DUMP.

LIQUID FIRE AND EXPLOSIVES WERE KILLING THE FEW JAPANESE WHO MANAGED TO DASH FROM THE FEW REMAINING CREVICES IN BANZAI CHARGES.

MACARTHUR, DESCRIBING THE FIGHTING IN MANILA AS STILL BITTER, UNDERSCORED ITS SEVERITY BY ANNOUNCING ENEMY CASUALTIES OF 92,000 FOR THE SIX WEEKS OF THE LUZON CAMPAIGN AS AGAINST AMERICAN CASUALTIES OF 12,929--2,676 KILLED, 245 MISSING AND 10,008 WOUNDED.

THIS SHOWED 24,000 JAPANESE AND 3,246 AMERICAN CASUALTIES IN THE LAST WEEK ALONE.

FEB 221945

MACARTHUR SAID A SURVEY OF MANILA DISCLOSED THAT THE JAPANESE OCCUPATION ARMY THOROUGHLY LOOTED ALL PRIVATE POSSESSIONS OF VALUE AND APPARENTLY SHIPPED THE STOLEN GOODS TO TOKYO.

AgFX

FIGHTING IN DOWNTOWN MANILA WAS PARTICULARLY SEVERE IN THE VICINITY OF THE CENTRAL POLICE STATION. IN MOPPING UP AROUND THE MANILA HOTEL, AMERICANS DREW 20 MM. FIRE FROM HOTEL WINDOWS.

TO THE SOUTH, FIRST CAVALRY AND 11TH AIRBORNE TROOPS ENCOUNTERED A STRONG ENEMY FORCE AROUND THE PASIG MATERNITY HOSPITAL AND PASIG COLLEGE.

FEB 221945

FOUR HUNDRED JAPANESE, TRAPPED BY 11TH AIRBORNE PARATROOPERS ON A RIDGE SOUTHEAST OF CAPTURED FORT WILLIAM MCKINLEY YESTERDAY, REFUSED AN ULTIMATUM TO SURRENDER FROM LT.COL.GEORGE PEARSON OF SHERIDAN, WYO.

THE NOTE WAS CARRIED THROUGH THE LINES BY A FILIPINO RIDING A HORSE. THE JAPANESE COMMANDER READ THE NOTE, SHOOK HIS HEAD IN REFUSAL AND SHOT THE HORSE, SENDING THE FILIPINO BACK AFOOT.

PLANES AND ARTILLERY OPENED ON THE ENEMY IMMEDIATELY AND AT NIGHTFALL MANY JAPANESE ALREADY WERE DEAD.

INSPECTION OF THE GENKO DEFENSE LINE AT THE SOUTHERN FRINGE OF THE CAPITAL NEAR NICHOLS FIELD REVEALED 1,227 PILLBOXES AND BUNKERS. THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION BROKE THE LINE AFTER A WEEK OF FEROCIOUS FIGHTING.

FEB 221945

JUST SOUTH OF THE INTRAMURO, 37TH DIVISION YANKS CLEANED OUT JAPANESE POCKETS ON THE UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES CAMPUS IN CLOSE-QUARTER FIGHTING AND DROVE THROUGH TO THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S FORMER RESIDENCE, NOW BOMB-BLASTED, ON THE BAY FRONT.

HEAVY AND MEDIUM BOMBERS ATTACKED FORMOSA "IN FORCE" DESPITE DIFFICULT FLYING CONDITIONS. AIRDROMES AND INDUSTRIAL TARGETS WERE BOMBED EFFECTIVELY. FIGHTERS DESTROYED 15 LOCOMOTIVES AND 50 RAIL CARS IN LOW-LEVEL SWEEPS.

A 1,000-TON FREIGHTER WAS SUNK OFF THE FRENCH INDO-CHINA COAST AND ANOTHER WAS DAMAGED.

AIRDROMES ON THE NORTH AND EAST COAST OF BORNEO WERE HIT WITH 80 TONS OF BOMBS.

MANILA, THURSDAY, FEB.22-(AP)-A STORY OF CONTRASTS:

AMERICAN AND FILIPINOS FORCES UNDER GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR WITHDREW INTO BATAAN PENINSULA THE LAST WEEK OF DECEMBER, 1941. AMERICAN REINVASION FORCES OPENED THE SECOND BATTLE OF BATAAN BY LANDING JUST WEST OF THE PENINSULA ON THE ZAMBALES PROVINCE COAST JAN. 29. TODAY--LESS THAN A MONTH LATER--MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED NOT A LIVING JAPANESE REMAINED ON THE PENINSULA.

-AMERICAN CONCERN FOR THE SAFETY OF THOUSANDS OF CIVILIANS WHO ARE VIRTUAL HOSTAGES OF JAPANESE BITTER-END FIGHTERS CORNERED INSIDE MANILA'S OLD WALLED CITY SLOWED THE BREACHING OF THE MASSIVE STONE BARRIER AROUND THE CROWDED AREA.

YANK ARTILLERYMEN SENT SHELLS THUDDING AGAINST THE INTRAMUROS WALLS TO KNOCK HOLES BIG ENOUGH FOR TANKS AND DOUGHBOYS TO SURGE INSIDE FOR THE TOUGH CLEANUP JOB.

CIVILIANS WHO HAVE MANAGED TO ESCAPE FROM THE INTRAMURO TOLD OF JAPANESE ATROCITIES COMMITTED AGAINST THE HELPLESS NONCOMBATANTS. GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID THE ENEMY WAS SHOWING THE "GREATEST SAVAGERY" TOWARD THE PEOPLE AND PRIVATE PROPERTY.

AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN AND PARATROOPERS CONTINUED THEIR DESTRUCTION OF JAPANESE REMAINING ON FORT CORREGIDOR AT THE ENTRANCE OF MANILA BAY. FLAMETHROWERS AND RIFLEMEN WIPED OUT ENEMY SUICIDE CHARGES FROM TUNNELS WHICH WERE BEING PROGRESSIVELY SEALED OFF WITH EXPLOSIVES.

FEB 221945

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FEB 21-(AP)-FIFTH CORPS MARINES, AHEAD OF THEIR INVASION TIMETABLE, BATTLED NORTH TODAY ON IWO TOWARD THE LAST USABLE AIRFIELD IN JAPANESE HANDS WHILE NEWLY-LANDED ARTILLERY THUNDERED IN CONCERT WITH WARSHIPS AND CARRIER PLANES AT THE FOE'S VOLCANIC ENTRENCHMENTS.

MASTERING THE TOUGHEST ISLAND FIGHT OF THE PACIFIC WAR, THE WELL-SUPPLIED DEVILDOGS MOVED ON MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO. 2 ATOP A PLATEAU IN THE CENTER OF THE EIGHT SQUARE MILE ISLAND.

THAT TWO-RUNWAY BASE IS 700 YARDS NORTHEAST OF THE THREE-RUNWAY BOMBER FIELD, MAIN OBJECTIVE OF THE INVASION, WHICH THE MARINES CAPTURED TUESDAY NOON--27 HOURS AFTER LANDING, 30 HOURS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE. FEB 221945

THEY INCHED FORWARD 200 YARDS NORTH OF MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.1, ALSO KNOWN AS SURIBACHI, BEFORE THEY HAD TO DIG IN AS ENEMY ROCKETS AND ARTILLERY SHELLS POURED DOWN FROM OVERLOOKING POSITIONS.

FEB 221945

THOSE MARINES WERE ON THE NORTH FLANK OF A WEDGE WHICH HAS BEEN DRIVEN ACROSS THE NARROW SOUTH END OF IWO, GIVING THE AMERICANS A FIRM HOLD ON ONE THIRD OF THE ISLAND, 750 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO.

THE WEDGE LINKS AN EAST COAST BEACHHEAD TWO AND A HALF MILES IN WIDTH TO HOLDINGS OF 2,000 YARDS ALONG THE PENETRATED WEST SHORE.

ON THE SOUTH FLANK, AT THE ISLAND'S TAPERING TIP, 566-FOOT HIGH MT.SURIBACHI, A VOLCANO, IS SEALED OFF BY MARINES MEETING STIFF OPPOSITION FROM NIPPONESE ON ITS SLOPES. ITS BIG GUNS, HOWEVER, HAVE BEEN SILENCED DURING A SIX-DAY CONTINUOUS BOMBARDMENT BY REAR ADM.W.H.P.BLANDY'S WARSHIPS WHICH ALREADY HAVE EXPLODED MORE THAN 8,000 TONS OF HOT STEEL ON IWO'S DEFENSES.

FEB 221945

UP THE EAST COAST FROM MT.SURIBACHI, MARINES ON THE NORTH FLANK HAD THE TOUGH JOB OF FERRETING NIPPONESE OUT OF A ROCK QUARRY. THE QUARRY IS NEAR THE COAST SOUTHEAST OF MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO. 2 AND IS A POSITION WHICH MUST BE CRACKED TO FACILITATE GETTING AT THE BULK OF THE NIPPONESE GARRISON ON THE NORTH PART OF THE ISLAND.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ ANNOUNCED TODAY IN A COMMUNIQUE COVERING ACTION THROUGH 6 P.M. TUESDAY THAT "A LARGE PORTION OF OUR ARTILLERY IS NOW ASHORE AND IN POSITION TO SUPPORT BOTH FLANKS OF THE BEACHHEAD."

HE ALSO REPORTED "SUPPLIES ARE BEING PLACED ASHORE SATISFACTORILY." NIMITZ SAID NO ESTIMATE OF CASUALTIES IN THE COSTLY ASSAULT OF IWO LONG-PLANNED DEFENSES WAS AVAILABLE UP TO TUESDAY NIGHT. TOKYO RADIO MADE THE UNCONFIRMED BUT FANTASTIC CLAIM THAT AMERICAN CASUALTI IN THREE DAYS EXCEEDED 7,000.

FEB 221945

DESPITE THE INITIAL AMERICAN SUCCESSES, THERE WAS NO DISCOUNTING THE FACT THE JAPANESE ON IWO STILL HAVE PLENTY OF FIGHT LEFT.

ALL LAST NIGHT, THE SKIES OVER THE EMBATTLED ISLAND PRESENTED THE WEIRD SIGHT OF BURSTING STAR SHELLS, TRACER BULLETS AND FLAMES FLARING UP FROM BURSTING EXPLO IVES WHILE AGROUND SLEEPLESS MARINES SCURRIED FROM FOXHOLE TO FOXHOLE WITH AMMUNITION FOR THE ADVANCE.

FEB 221945

ONE AMERICAN OFFICER IN POSITION TO MAKE BETTER THAN AN OFFHAND GUESS SAID "THE FIGHT MAY NOT BE OVER FOR SOME TIME" ALTHOUGH HE, LIKE ALL OTHERS, ARE CONFIDENT OF THE ULTIMATE RESULT.

FEB 221945

THE OBSTACLES OVERCOME BY MAJ.GEN.CLIFTON B.CATES 4TH DIVISION IN CAPTURING THE BIG BOMBER FIELD GIVE AN INDICATION OF WHAT LIES AHEAD IN EVEN MORE TREACHEROUS TERRAIN.

HAMILTON W.FARON, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT WITH THE FOURTH, SAID THE MARINES CLAMBERED UP STEEP CLIFFS, STRUGGLING THROUGH FOOT-DEEP VOLCANIC SANDS, TO GET AT THE AIRFIELD'S EDGE. MANY ENEMY DEAD WERE LEFT ON THE SLOPES. BUT THERE WERE AMERICAN DEAD TOO.

THE MARINES SOUGHT COVER FROM ENEMY FIRE IN SHELLHOLES DUG OUT EARLIER BY THE BOMBARDING FLEET. FARON SAID THE BEACHES AND RIDGES APPROACHING THE SOUTH END OF THE AIRFIELD WERE "AN ARTILLERY AND MORTAR DUELING GROUND FOR NEARLY 24 HOURS."

FEB 221945

THE BATTLE FOR MT.SURIBACHI TO THE SOUTH IS EQUALLY AS BITTER. WITH THE JAPANESE HARD TO GET AT IN ROCKY FORTIFICATIONS.

FROM AN ASSAULT TRANSPORT OFF IWO, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT JAMES S.LINDSLEY REPORTED:

"IT WAS A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT FOR ANYONE PLAYING ON THIS TEAM TO SEE THE WARSHIPS SLAM THEIR BIG SHELLS INTO ENEMY POSITIONS ON SURIBACHI

30.24 - 23229

AND NAVY BUZZ BOYS (FLIERS) SLAP HOME THEIR BOMBS AND RAKE THE MOUNTAIN WITH ROCKETS AND MACHINEGUN FIRE."

FEB 221945

MORRIE LANDSBERG, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT, RELAYED REPORTS FROM VICE ADM.RICHMOND KELLY TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP THAT MARINE ARTILLERY ALSO IS POUNDING THE CAVES OF SURIBACHI.

THE ENEMY HAS PILLBOXES EVERY 10 FEET IN THE SECTOR AROUND THE VOLCANO.

THROUGHOUT THE ISLAND, "THOUSANDS OF JAPANESE ARE FIGHTING BACK WITH EVERYTHING AT THEIR COMMAND," LANDSBERG SAID, "WITH ROCKETS, MORTARS, ARTILLERY, MACHINEGUNS AND THE EVER PRESENT SNIPER FIRE."

HEAVY RAINS DRENCHED THE MARINES LATE TUESDAY AND WINDS WHIPPED UP THE SEA BUT HELLCATS, HELLDIVERS AND AVENGERS KEPT SHUTTLING FROM THEIR CARRIERS TO SUPPLY AN AIR COVER WHICH THROUGH TUESDAY HAD NOT PERMITTED A SINGLE ENEMY PLANE TO REACH THE ISLAND FROM OTHER BASES.

JAPANESE CASUALTIES WERE UNDETERMINED BUT GENERALLY BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN HEAVY AS A RESULT OF THE NON-STOP AIR AND SEA BOMBARDMENT.

ALL THROUGH WEDNESDAY, LANDSBERG REPORTED, THE FLASH OF NAVAL GUNFIRE BROKE THROUGH THE MIST AND DRIZZLE ENSHROUDING THE ISLAND. THE DESTRUCTIVE FORCE OF THE SHELLING WAS SEEN IN THE NUMEROUS SMOKE GEYSERS RISING FROM THE ENEMY'S POSITIONS.

OTTAWA, FEB 21-(AP)-PLANS FOR A DOMINION-PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE VIRTUALLY HAVE BEEN COMPLETED BY CANADIAN GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS BUT THE WIDELY DISCUSSED MEETING PROBABLY WILL NOT BE HELD UNTIL AFTER A FEDERAL ELECTION, EXPECTED BEFORE JULY 1.

DOMINION-PROVINCIAL RELATIONS WILL BE ONE OF THE PRIME PROBLEMS OF THE GOVERNMENT

FEB 221945

DOMINION-PROVINCIAL RELATIONS WILL BE ONE OF THE PRIME PROBLEMS OF THE GOVERNMENT WHICH IS ELECTED THEN.

THREE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS FACING THE CONFERENCE WHEN IT CONVENES WILL BE:

1. SHOULD THE PROVINCES HAVE THEIR SOURCES OF REVENUE EXTENDED AFTER THE WAR TO MEET THE EXPANDING DEMANDS FOR INCREASED PUBLIC SERVICES?

2. WHAT WILL BE THE DIVISION OF RESPONSIBILITY AS BETWEEN THE DOMINION AND THE PROVINCES IN POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION TO PROVIDE "FULL EMPLOYMENT, HIGH NATIONAL INCOME AND SOCIAL SECURITY?"

3. DOES THE DOMINION'S FAMILY ALLWANE PLAN ENCROACH ON JURISDICTION OF THE PROVINCES?

THE PROVINCES FOR YEARS HAVE PROTESTED THAT CANADA'S CONSTITUTION, WHICH RESTRICTS THE PROVINCES TO DIRECT TAXATION AND GIVES THE DOMINION A FREE REIN IN BOTH THE INDIRECT AND DIRECT FIELDS, HAS UNFAIRLY CRAMPED THE PROVINCES.

NIGHT LEAD POLITICS (NEWISH)

OTTAWA, FEB. 21-(CP)-AN IMPORTANT BUT NOT NECESSARILY DECISIVE POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT IS EXPECTED FROM PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING WITHIN THE NEXT THREE DAYS.

IT WILL RELATE TO THE HOLDING OF A SESSION OF PARLIAMENT AND THE TIMING OF A GENERAL ELECTION. FROM A USUALLY WELL-INFORMED SOURCE THE CANADIAN PRESS (CAPS TCP) LEARNED TODAY THAT THE MOST PROBABLE DATE FOR THE ELECTION IS JUNE 11.

FEB 221945

THERE STILL IS DOUBT AS TO WHETHER THE 19TH PARLIAMENT WILL MEET AGAIN TO PASS MONEY APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE NEW FISCAL YEAR BEGINNING APRIL 1 AND IT WAS LEARNED TODAY THAT NO DISCUSSIONS IN CABINET HAVE TAKEN PLACE WITH A VIEW TO PREPARING FOR A SESSION.

SINCE THE GREY NORTH BY-ELECTION FEB. 5, FOLLOWING WHICH MR. KING SAID THE GOVERNMENT WOULD GIVE CONSIDERATION TO WHETHER A FURTHER MEETING OF THE PRESENT PARLIAMENT WOULD SERVE A USEFUL PURPOSE, THE CABINET HAS HELD ITS REGULAR MEETINGS--FULL CABINET ON TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS AND WAR COMMITTEE OF THE CABINET ON WEDNESDAY.

TOMORROW'S MEETING MAY BE SIGNIFICANT IN THAT ANY PROPOSALS THE PRIME MINISTER HAS TO TAKE UP WITH THE CABINET PRIOR TO A PROCLAMATION RELATING TO THE SUMMONING OF PARLIAMENT MAY BE DISCUSSED.

PARLIAMENT STANDS PROROGUED UNTIL FEB. 28 BUT A PROCLAMATION CALLING IT TO MEET ON THAT DATE FOR THE "DISPATCH OF BUSINESS" OR POSTPONING THE MEETING UNTIL A LATER DATE IS EXPECTED SOME TIME THIS WEEK SO THAT MEMBERS WHO MUST COME FROM A LONG DISTANCE WILL BE ABLE TO MAKE PREPARATIONS.

FEB 221945

THE POSSIBILITY THAT PARLIAMENT MAY BE DISSOLVED WITHOUT A FURTHER SESSION IS STILL KEPT IN THE FOREFRONT OF POSSIBILITIES, ALTHOUGH IT RAISES THE QUESTION OF MEETING THE FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS OF THE COUNTRY ON GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S WARRANTS, UNBACKED BY PARLIAMENTARY SANCTION, FOR A PERIOD OF SOME MONTHS.

WHILE A MINIMUM OF 60 DAYS IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY BY ELECTROAL OFFICIALS TO ARRANGE FOR AND HOLD A GENERAL ELECTION, AT THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE WHICH STUDIED MEANS OF TAKING THE OVERSEAS VOTE LAST SESSION JULES CASTONGUAY, CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER, SAID HE WOULD LIKE TO HAVE 80 DAYS.

THAT ALMOST RULES OUT THE PROSPECT OF AN APRIL ELECTION BEING BROUGHT ABOUT BY AN IMMEDIATE DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.

PATTON'S TROOPS SEIZE SAARBURG IN SWIFT ADVANCE

Americans Complete Conquest of Vital Moselle-Saar Triangle.

DRIVE TOWARD TRIER

Seventh Army Mops Up in Forbach, Canadians Capture Moyland.

PARIS, Feb. 22 (AP). The rampaging U. S. Third army broke across the Saar river at two points 65 miles from the Rhine today and completed a whirlwind conquest of Ger- 80-square-mile Mosellemany's Saar triangle as 7,000 Allied warplanes struck simultaneously at enemy rail lifelines.

FEB 22 1945

A field dispatch said Third army officers and men were in high spirits as they ripped across western Germany's ramparts with a speed reminiscent of their historic dash in France, seizing the fortress city of Saarburg and 29 other Reich towns on a 25-mile front.

Saarburg, once a thriving city of 10,000, was deserted save for 100 aged civilians.

Smash Toward Trier

This powerful thrust 18 miles deep into the Reich collapsed all enemy resistance in the triangle and rammed a steel spearhead to a point five miles from Trier, fortified city of 88,000 population on the mountainous route to the Rhine.

While Trier's battlements came under Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's guns, artillery to the south tore at the fortified hills into which the Germans had been chased east of the Saar river. The attackers were confident the enemy soon would be driven from these positions.

To the fury of the Allied air attack—a new technique under which swarms of battle planes unload their cargoes of destruction on communications centers—was added the shock of two other Allied armies hammering at Germany's first line of defense.

Forty miles southeast of the Third army, the U. S. Seventh army captured two-thirds of the French gateway city of Forbach, two miles from the Saar basin's steel city of Saarbruecken.

The Canadian First army on the north end of the front captured Moyland and fought nearly to the edge of Calcar, bitterly-defended highway center two miles southeast and 15 miles from Wesel in the western Ruhr industrial basin.

Sever Goch-Uedem Highway

Scottish infantry severed the Goch-Uedem railway and were locked in a furious milling struggle two miles west of the latter town, which is a vital feeder point for the enemy on that sector of the front.

On this spring-like day, the best flying day in months, five Allied Air forces pooled their planes in a unique operation designed to paralyze all rail traffic in Germany and set the stage for the final big push from the east and west to crush Hitler's Reich.

Enemy territory between the

FEB 23 1945

Western and Western fronts was divided into five sectors. Against 150 targets there the great air fleets unleashed their bombs as flying artillery. Many targets were small, hitherto unbombed rail centers, whose importance have grown since many major rail points were erased.

It took Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's hard-hitting veterans just three days to mop-up the triangle with a total of 48 towns after breaking through formidable Siegfried Line fortifications at the southern base. In all approximately 70 towns have been captured all along the front since the big attack began Tuesday.

Without giving the Germans time to rest, Patton's troops manned assault boats and crossed the Saar river south of Saarburg, a German town from which the enemy had been driven except for a small section on the east bank of the river.

One force went across near Serig, two and a half miles south of Saarburg, and the others forged across the stream a mile and a half farther south near Thaben-Rodt.

Patton was striking all along a 55-mile front northward to the vicinity of the fallen fortress of Pruem, and in gains up to three miles was inexorably squeezing the Germans from the fortification-studded Eifel mountains east of the Duchy of Luxembourg.

Two other Allied armies were hammering at Germany's first line of defense 175 miles apart.

It was the 94th infantry division of Patton's Third army which was the first to cross the Saar near the apex of the triangle.

A front dispatch said that the Germans made little effort to challenge the crossing, which threatens to undermine the Siegfried line positions along the Moselle valley at that point, but ahead of the infantry was a belt of pillboxes.

Nazis Blow Up Bridges

Swift as was the mop-up of the major part of Saarburg, the Germans still had time to blow the bridges there and balk another crossing.

Six miles north of Saarburg, tanks in a three-mile push reached the Saar where it joins the Moselle river, five miles southwest of Trier. Trier's frowning fortifications now were within range of Patton's guns.

Other forces on the right were within a mile and a half of Konz, a German town on the east bank of the Saar near the river's confluence with the Moselle.

Few prisoners were being taken in the rapid mop-up of the Moselle-Saar triangle, which is 18 miles from its 10-mile wide base to its apex at the junction of the two rivers.

It was apparent that the Germans, caught off guard by the Patton steamroller, were recovering and now were executing an ly withdrawal to more de- ible positions.

xty miles northeast of Trier, a city of 88,000 and a key to the forefield of the Rhineland defenses, lies Coblenz on the Rhine.

German broadcasts, insisting that Allied bigger blows were to come, declared Patton's strategy was to draw off forces guarding the Roe river front, where the U. S. First and Ninth armies are deployed for a possible blow straight at the heart of the Rhineland.

At any rate, Patton's troops were caving in German defenses in mountainous Rhenish Prussia, along a 55-mile front.

North of the Moselle river, the Third army was within nine miles of closing a pincers on a stretch of the Westwall lying between the fallen fortress of Pruem and a secondary road center and base at Bitburg, 15 miles to the south.

This threat of envelopment, which saw 24-hour gains of three miles through two breaches in the Westwall in both the Pruem and Bitburg area, forced the Germans to give up two stubbornly-held strongpoints.

One was the Luxembourg border town of Vianden, 14 miles west of Bitburg, and the other was the German border town of Dasbourg, in the center of the enemy's squeezed salient eight miles north of Vianden.

55 Pillboxes Smashed

Fives miles northeast of Dasbourg, armored forces bowled over 55 pillboxes in a mile-and-a-half push that captured the village of Reiff.

In the past 24 hours, the Third army captured 1,925 prisoners. The Eleventh armored, the Sixth armored and the 26th infantry divisions were disclosed to be on the Third's firing line.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army was locked in bitter fighting for complete control of Forbach, a French town of 11,000 population two miles southwest of Saarbruecken, a field dispatch said, after crossing a main highway in the center of Forbach.

The Germans had moved up heavy weapons to buck up the resistance being offered by their outclassed Volkssturm (Peoples Army) recruits.

Spicheren, two and a half miles south of Saarbrucken, was captured and fighting raged in the nearby forest of St. Arnaul.

Fighting flared six miles east of

Patch's Forces Also Move Into Saar District

(Map on Page A-4.)

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American 3d Army, running high, wide and handsome again, stormed within 5 miles of Trier today, crossed the Saar River against disintegrated German resistance and swept up 33 more Nazi towns in the Moselle Valley.

Already tanks and infantry were within sight of the main defense works covering Trier, a city of 88,000 and keystone of the whole German defense system before the Middle Rhine. They were a mile and a quarter from Konz, site of a large fort at the confluence of the Saar and Moselle Rivers.

While Gen. Patton's columns advanced 3 miles or more immediately north of the industrial Saar district, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army smashed into the district from the south, advancing to within 2 miles of ruined Saarbruecken, the capital.

Half of Forbach Taken.

His Americans captured half of Forbach, French gateway to Saarbruecken, from raw conscripts of the Volkssturm who were bolstered by heavy German weapons. Spicheren fell; the Siegfried Line was within view.

The Canadian 1st Army in the north pounded to within 2,000 yards of bitterly contested Calcar in its drive toward the Ruhr Valley.

A report from Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army Group headquarters said German resistance in the Saar-Moselle triangle, now virtually cleared, had "completely disintegrated." The Saar crossing south of Saarburg was unopposed. Saarburg itself was almost cleared. There were indications of a general German withdrawal into the rugged Hochwald.

Despite the spectacular gains of the 3d Army and the slow chipping progress of the British and Canadian troops in the north, it was evident that Gen. Eisenhower had not yet loosed his full-scale offensive.

Await Zero Hour.

Between these forces was the greatest potential weight on the whole western front—the British 2d and the American 1st and 9th Armies—still waiting for their hour as the flooded Roer River slowly receded before them.

Reports reaching Gen. Bradley's headquarters told of a tremendous explosion just before midnight near the Urfttalsperre Dam on the Roer headwaters. Its reservoir empties into the larger Schwammenauel Lake, now 90 per cent empty. It was not immediately apparent whether the dam had been breached, loosing new floods on the Roer. The river up to midnight was sufficiently low and slow to allow bridging on the 1st Army front near the dams, southwest of Cologne.

Bright sun bathed the western front again today, and planes took off early. In 5,400 sorties yesterday, bombers smashed such centers as Duisburg, Nuernberg, Berlin, Wurms and Calcar—the latter 17 times.

One of the towns captured in the Patton advance was Tawert, 6½ miles southwest of Trier, a city of 88,000. Others taken in the Moselle-Saar triangle were Sudlingen, Nannebach, Nittel, Kahren and Krutweiler.

Opposition Is Slight.

Added to the 40 captured yesterday, Gen. Patton's men have seized 73 German villages in two-day advances of more than 12 miles. Opposition was generally slight.

The Saar was crossed in assault boats by the 94th Infantry, which forged the breakthrough into which Gen. Patton hurled an armored division.

The Germans speculated that Gen. Patton's 3d Army drive was connected with "the imminent Aachen offensive" on the Roer.

"Increased pressure on German flanks west of Pruem, both from the north and south, aims at forcing the Germans to withdraw troops from the hitherto quiet Aachen sector to the Our River," the enemy said.

"The time is short for the Allies and as Patton's originally more ambitious plans of cutting off the entire German Our-Sure front have met with too strong resistance, he is now confining himself to an attack around Pruem."

Spectacular Gains.

Gen. Patton's most spectacular gains, however, were well south of Pruem. His armor and foot troops pushed a dozen or more miles into the Reich in the area at the extreme north tip of the rich Saar district, doubly important to the German war machine for its coal and steel since the loss to Russia of Silesia and the imminent peril to the Ruhr. His troops were well in the Hochwald, wooded ridges south of Cologne Plain.

The main part of Saarburg (population, 5,663), on the western bank of the Saar River was cleared. Gen. Patton's troops stood along the west bank of the river for 35 miles south of Saarburg to the Saarbruecken area, where the 7th Army front began. The 7th has crossed the Saar below Saarbruecken at at least two places.

Gen. Patton has a substantial bridgehead at Saarlautern as well as the new one south of Saarburg. Among the towns captured was the fortified village of Trassem near Saarburg, where substantial ruins of blind King John's old 14th century castle still stand.

Luxembourg Cleared.

Cavalry units cleared the last German stragglers from Luxembourg in a final mopup of the border town of Vianden. Tanks captured Dasburg and pushed on east to take Daleiden and Reipeldingen. Five miles northeast of Dasburg, other armored elements captured Reiff and nearby Roscheid and knocked out 55 Siegfried Line pillboxes.

The 90th Division, in mile advances on a 3-mile front, overran Binscheid, Lichtenborn, Stalbach, Hickeshausen, Hallenbach and Euscheid, all about 9 miles southwest of Pruem.

In the last three days, 2,600 Germans have been captured in the Moselle-Saar triangle alone. On the whole 55-mile 3d Army front, 1,925 captives were taken yesterday. Since January 29, the 3d Army announced it had knocked out 936 Siegfried Line pillboxes north of Vianden alone—an area embracing only half its front.

The 7th Army pressing on Saarbruecken's ruins has captured 1,800 more Germans in six days, supreme headquarters said.

Breach Is Widened.

Below firmly secured Goch, on the Canadian 1st Army front to the north, the breach in the Goch-Uedem Railroad was widened steadily in a push toward the next defense point of Weeze. The British Empire troops there were within 11 miles of Geldern, 17 of the Ruhr city of Wesel and 27 miles of the large industrial Ruhr center of Krefeld.

The 10th division thrown against the Allies in the north was identified as the panzer Lehr outfit, veteran tankers of the Ardennes campaign. Their surrender ultimatum to the United States 101st Division at Bastogne evoked a defiant reply of "nuts" from Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, since promoted. The panzer Lehr Division suffered a severe trouncing on the Goch-Calcar road near Moyland yesterday.

7,000 PLANES RIP NAZI SUPPLY LINES

100 Communication Hubs Hammered in Greatest Blow of War.

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 23.—(AP) Allied air chiefs hurled an estimated 7,000 bombers and fighters at approximately 100 Nazi communications hubs yesterday in the greatest simultaneous assault in history — a supreme coordinated blow to knock out Germany's railway system—and the attack continued into the night.

The Berlin radio said 2,000 Russian planes also had battered targets along the Eastern front, principally in East Prussia.

100 Tons Dropped a Minute

Altogether nearly 10,000 sorties were flown from the west and south before dark, but the peak was reached at around noontime when through careful planning and timing explosives cascaded down at an estimated average of 100 tons a minute.

On D-Day 13,000 sorties were flown, but these were spread over a period of 24 hours while in this historic new assault almost the maximum power of all Allied air forces in Europe was concentrated against the enemy within a few hours.

Some 30,000 airmen from seven

The U.S. Eighth air force took over a 38,000-square mile area from the Danish frontier to a line between Nuernberg and Pilsen. The 15th air force in Italy took everything south of that line. Tactical air forces covered objectives between the Western and Italian fronts and the bomber targets while the RAF bomber command, in action during the day as well as at night, blasted four targets in the Eighth Air force zone.

Launch "Buckshot Blitz"

The "Buckshot Blitz"—an entirely new idea which Allied air chiefs had mapped and held in readiness for a break in the weather—was spearheaded by more than 1,400 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 800 fighters of the U.S. Eighth air force.

Two divisions of this gigantic fleet poured into Germany from the north and a third attacked from the south. Over the Reich they broke up into wolf packs of up to 100 bombers each and hammered at least 24 freight yards and other rail targets in the heart of Germany during the noon hour.

In addition the RAF and U.S. 15th air forces sent out heavy bombers and the attack was swelled by four tactical air forces based on the continent, including the U.S. 12th in Italy. More than 4,500 sorties were flown by these medium and fighter bombers from their advanced bases.

Medium and light bombers of the U.S. Ninth air force flew nearly 600 sorties against more than 50 targets, including 46 vital railroad bridges in a huge arc extending south from Hannover to the Saar basin. Fighter bombers of the same command flew more than 1,000 sorties and destroyed or damaged at least 129 locomotives and 1,506 rail cars. Pilots reported various railroads cut in 109 places.

The size of the RAF fleet participating in the daylight action was not disclosed, possibly because the British planes carried over their attack into the night in a virtually continuous operation.

It was estimated that upwards of 1,000 four-engined Lancasters and escorting fighters were out during the day, however, and the RAF announced the targets included two important viaducts at Bielefeld and Altenbeken, near Paderborne, which carry two main rail lines between Berlin and the Ruhr, and benzol plants at Scholven and Osterfeld.

Mosquitos Raid Berlin

The momentum of the massive assault raged unchecked into the night. The RAF announced that swift Mosquito bombers, carrying two-ton block-busters, again had raided Berlin and the overworked German "achtung" warning service said other bomber formations were over the Reich.

The tremendous daylight assault was amazing to behold, either from the air or the ground.

One Eighth air force pilot, Lt. John Mitenbuler of Loraine, Ohio, gave this vivid description:

"The bombers were hitting bridges, freight yards, tunnels and transportation everywhere. There were so many planes in the air you couldn't move. Bombers and swarms of fighters were piled layer on layer. The country there will never stop bouncing.

"Fires were burning everywhere as far as I could see. In one freight yard every time a salvo of bombs hit, big balls of flame would shoot up, sometimes higher than the planes themselves."

Instead of dropping their bombs from 20,000 feet or higher as usual, the four-engined Fortresses and Liberators swept over their targets at about 10,000 feet. Bomber gunners were so close to the ground they used their machineguns to shoot at railway cars and other objects.

1,100-Plane RAF Raid On Reich Followed by New Attacks by Yanks

Berlin Battered Twice, Worms and Duisburg Hit In British Night Action

BULLETIN.

LONDON (AP).—Vast fleets of 2,200 American planes attacked 20 communications centers in Middle Germany today. Specific targets were not identified.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Allied airmen returned to the attack on Germany by daylight today after a fleet of more than 1,100 RAF night bombers had blasted the western front railway centers of Worms and Duisburg and struck a fresh blow at Berlin.

German radios began sounding alerts throughout the western half of the Reich before 10 a.m., suggesting that attacking Allied planes were out in force.

The RAF night raiders loosed tons of high explosives and incendiaries on the railway hubs, smashing for the second successive night at the communications system through which the Germans are trying to supply their hard-pressed troops on the western front.

Berlin Raided Twice.

Berlin—which also was hit the previous night—again was bombed twice. The first attack was at 9 p.m. and the second a half hour later.

The blow at Worms, 12 miles north of Mannheim, was by a force of about 500 heavies and was in support of the American 3d Army, which was advancing less than 60 miles away.

Worms lies on the main railway following the west bank of the Rhine from Coblenz and is an inland port.

Duisburg is the western exit of the Ruhr and the attack on it was aimed at bottling up the military traffic through this great industrial region. Approximately 3,000 tons of bombs were dropped the night before on Dortmund, eastern gateway of the Ruhr.

The Air Ministry announced that "more than 1,300 acres of Duisburg and its satellite towns have been damaged."

The greatest railway network in Europe—one which explains how Hitler keeps his troops going despite the odds—lies in the triangle formed by the cities of Dortmund, Duisburg and Cologne.

The jolting night attacks followed the United States 8th Air Force's greatest concentrated raid on a single target in over four months.

3,000 Tons of Bombs Dropped.

More than 1,200 Fortresses and Liberators dropped 3,000 tons of bombs, including 400,000 small incendiaries, into the Neurnberg marshaling yards. Reconnaissance planes had reported 2,500 freight cars in the yard waiting to pull out for the eastern front.

The high toll of locomotives shot up by Allied fighters in the last three weeks probably accounts for the jammed condition of so many railroad yards. A total of 189 locomotives was declared disabled yesterday.

The tactical air forces on the continent flew 2,600 sorties yesterday in support of the front-line troops. Spitfire bombers made more than a dozen attacks on rocket sites and supply lines in Holland. At least 1,500 enemy vehicles of all description were raked in widespread strafing attacks.

Little opposition was encountered in the sky, although at least seven Nazi planes were shot down. Ten others were destroyed on the ground.

Photographs taken of yesterday's heavy raids by more than 2,300 Italy-based bombers and fighters on communications lines in Northern Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia showed great damage on the Vienna rail yards.

AIR FORCES TO PLAY ROLE IN PEACE PLAN

S. King

LONDON, Feb. 22 — (AP) A hint that powerful air forces would play a major role in a broad Allied plan to keep the peace came today from Prime Minister Churchill, along with assurances that Nazi V-bombs would be borne in mind when armistice terms are laid down for Germany.

FEB 22 1945

Brushing aside a suggestion that "the whole question of the limitation of aerial warfare" be taken up after the defeat of Germany, the Prime Minister bluntly replied: "I certainly do not think that the victorious Allies should deprive themselves of defenses which are possible through the air."

Without elaborating, Churchill implied that any sweeping world-wide disarmament such as that after the last war certainly was not included in the "Big Three" peace plan.

And with a sharp "yes, sir" the Prime Minister assured the House that he would "bear in mind" when imposing peace terms the Germans' V-bomb attacks on civilians and that he would see to it that Germany was never again in the position to manufacture such weapons.

Churchill was on the floor only a few minutes during today's sessions amid sparring for next week's debate on foreign policy. The government served notice that it would demand a blanket endorsement of the entire Crimea conference declaration.

With a small bloc in Churchill's own conservative party threatening to revolt against the "Big Three" plans for Poland, the government carried the challenge directly to them in setting down a motion for a vote of confidence on an all-or-nothing basis.

The motion makes no specific mention of Poland but does call on the House to give particular support to the Three Big powers' program of unity of action. The motion reads:

"This House approves the declaration of joint policy agreed to by the three great powers at the Crimea conference and in particular welcomes the determination to maintain unity of action not only in achieving final defeat of the common enemy but thereafter in peace as in war."

U. S. Fleet Units Suffer Damage in Jap Air Blows

POPKING

By the Associated Press.

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 22 (Via Navy Radio).—United States Fleet units in the vicinity of Iwo Jima have suffered some damage from attacks by Japanese fighters and bombers, Japanese counterattacks have been beaten back and Marine casualties have risen to 4,553 in the desperate battle for the island, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The attack by Japanese planes was the first against the surface units since the start of the battle for the island 750 miles south of Tokyo. Seven of the enemy planes were shot down. Admiral Nimitz did not elaborate on the extent of damage or the type of ships hit.

The casualties include 385 killed and 4,168 wounded in action up to 5:45 p.m. yesterday.

(During the "initial hours" after the landings Admiral Nimitz said yesterday the Marines' casualties totaled 3,650. Of these, about 600 were listed as killed or missing and 3,063 wounded.)

Marines Launch Attacks.

Japanese counterattacks, accompanied by numerous attempts at infiltration of our lines, were beaten back during the night and the leathernecks, strengthened by the 3d Marine Division, which landed yesterday, launched attacks both to the north and south against the divided forces of the enemy.

The northward drive toward the Central Iwo airfield met heavy resistance from small arms, mortars and automatic weapons. At noon the troops, advancing slowly through hard rain, had knocked out numerous enemy gun positions and generally weakened enemy defenses.

There was little change in front-line positions, Admiral Nimitz's communique admitted, however.

Forces facing Mount Suribachi, volcanic Japanese fortress on the southern tip of the island, co-ordinated their drive with the northern troops and by noon were beginning an assault on the face of the cliff "under most difficult combat conditions."

Ships Continue Shelling.

Heavy naval gunfire continued to pound enemy-held positions throughout the northern part of the island and fleet aircraft supported ground forces with heavy bombing, strafing and rocket attacks.

The veteran 3d Division landed on Iwo at a critical hour, bolstering two other hard-pressed divisions with veterans of the invasions of Bougainville and Guam. Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine commands the 3d Division.

Although the Nimitz communique today placed Marine casualties at 4,553, Elmont Waite, Associated Press war correspondent, reported in a dispatch from headquarters—24 hours later than the period covered in the first official count—that "American casualties already are approximately twice Tarawa's losses."

There were 3,151 marine casualties at Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands during that 72-hour invasion battle.

The commitment of three Marine divisions in the four-day-old Iwo invasion meant as many as 45,000 men may be either ashore or in the process of being sent against the enemy.

FEB 23 1945

Encounter Tough Going.

Men of the 3d, 4th and 5th Marine Divisions, having sealed off the southern third of Iwo, encountered tough going at the south tip of the island against Japanese on the slopes of Mount Suribachi and to the north near the island's center in a drive to capture Motoyama Airfield No. 2.

Flame-throwers and tanks were sent against enemy pillboxes on the slopes of Mount Suribachi yesterday afternoon. The Japanese, who previously had weathered a terrific bombardment by warships of the United States 5th Fleet, knocked out four of the tanks. The sector is strewn with land mines. East of the volcano, the enemy staged a counterattack in daylight for the first time but it was hurled back.

Fourth Division marines of Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, who captured the three-runway bomber base, Motoyama Airfield No. 1 Tuesday, did succeed in inching north yesterday afternoon up the slopes of a plateau toward the fighter base, Motoyama No. 2.

On the southwest coast, the 5th Division Marines of Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey are striving to flank the fighter base, the only airfield still in enemy hands.

Admiral Nimitz referred in an earlier communique to "bitter resistance" by Japanese defending the two-runway field.

"Everywhere the Japs are standing until death rather than yield," Correspondent Waite reported.

Battle Against Terrain.

It was a battle against terrain as well as fierce enemy opposition.

Deep volcanic sands impeded and at times stalled the heavy equipment, which includes mobile guns, tank destroyers and tanks.

An encouraging note was the diminution of enemy mortar fire on the beaches, where all-important supplies are being landed. Earlier the supply men were as much "up front" as the most advanced outpost from the standpoint of "taking it."

Yesterday, for the seventh straight day the 16 and 14 inch guns of the newest type American battleships joined with the guns of heavy cruisers in shelling all sectors of Iwo's 8 square miles.

Carrier-based Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers gave the marines close support.

Admiral Nimitz, in his first official reference to enemy casualties, said 850 Japanese dead have been counted and added that the information "is incomplete."

No Accurate Count Possible.

Obviously during so terrific a battle, going on day and night since the marines landed at 9 a.m. Monday, no accurate count of the foe's dead is possible. Many have died in caves in areas still to be cleared.

Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg, studying casualty reports aboard the expeditionary flagship of Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, said 3,063 wounded "were carried out often under fire and always under difficult beach conditions.

"A Navy hospital ship moved close to the shore to facilitate the transfer of the wounded."

A high marine officer told Mr. Landsberg the Japanese may hold on to Mount Suribachi for a considerable time as it is believed to be "a maze of tunnels." The Japs even had machine-gun emplacements on the crater's rim. Navy dive bombers attacked them.

Of the fight generally Mr. Landsberg reported:

"It was a case of taking each one of countless pillboxes, frequently with the air of flame-throwers, and facing exposure to enemy fire in open country."

644 MARINES KILLED IN 58 HOURS' FIGHT

Attack Inches Toward Airfield, Japs Strike Back Twice

WAITE

U.S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Friday, Feb. 23 (AP). The 28th Regiment of the United States Marines raised the United States flag on the summit of Mount Suribachi at the south tip of Iwo Island at 10.30 A.M. today.

Americans landed on tiny island between Luzon and Samar. Page 3

Fleet Headquarters, Friday, Feb. 23 (AP)—The bloody cost of the battle for Iwo mounted to 5,372 Marines killed, wounded and missing by 6 P.M. Wednesday, the Navy announced today while reporting only minor advances through Thursday against fierce Japanese opposition.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed that 644 Marines had been killed, 4,168 wounded and 560 were missing at the end of the first 58 hours of the operation.

1,222 Dead Japs Counted

In the same period of time, 1,222 dead Japanese had been counted.

No invasion of the Pacific war for a comparative period has cost so many American casualties. At Tarawa, previously considered the bloodiest fight of the war, Marine casualties for its entire 72 hours slightly exceeded 3,000.

FEB 23 1945

Today's communique reported more of the same type of bitter fighting which has built up the casualty totals.

It reported gains Thursday afternoon too slight to affect the virtual stalemate which developed Wednesday.

Toward Fighter Base

The three Marine divisions, the 3d, 4th and 5th, inched forward slightly on the north toward the enemy fighter base in the center of the island and constricted their lines around volcanic Mount Suribachi on the south tip.

The Japanese launched two powerful counterattacks on the flanks of the forces attacking the airfield. Significant, Nimitz did not specifically claim either had been completely blunted.

The Admiral said that artillery and the supporting guns of United States 5th Fleet warships "appeared to have repulsed the assault on the left."

Lacks Reports On Right

He addede, however:

"No reports were available on the action on the right."

On the extreme south tip of the island other Marines surrounded Mount Suribachi "and strong patrols were moving up the cliffs under attack by the enemy, who was using hand grenades and demolition charges," the communiqué said.

Heavy rains hampered the fighting.

Warships and carrier planes, despite bad weather, kept adding to the more than 20,000 tons of explosives which have been pumped into Iwo's enemy garrison—one ton for each Nipponese who was on the island's eight square miles when the invasion was opened Monday.

Supplies Move Steadily

Supplies steadily moved ashore over beaches lined with the debris strewn there on D-Day when enemy mortar fire accurately raked the landing parties.

Observers reported only a few truck got ashore the first two days, during which the landing parties were almost without supplies.

In a broadcast, Larry Tighe, blue network correspondent, said high winds have whipped waves "to heights of six feet" against the shore and "endanger any attempts to keep the supply lines flowing smoothly into the beaches."

Fleet Units Damaged

"Some damage to fleet units" was announced by Nimitz in reporting the first successful attack by the Japanese air force on American warships supporting the invasion. Seven of the enemy aircraft were destroyed by air patrols and anti-aircraft fire.

Although Iwo Jima is only 750 miles from Tokyo, and about 100 south of the enemy's bases on Chichi and Haha islands in the Bonins, the Japanese had been unable at sunset Wednesday to penetrate the air screen thrown about the fleet as it pounded Iwo's defenses.

Landing Wednesday of the reinforcing 3d Marine Division, the mounting casualties, bitter resistance and almost negligible gains all indicated the Marines were up against their toughest assignment of the Pacific war.

Fighting In Two Sectors

Fighting on Iwo is concentrated in two sectors, the northern where the Marines are driving for the central airfield, and the southern where the objective is the enemy-held fortress of Mount Suribachi, an extinct volcano honeycombed with defenses.

Several heavy enemy counter attacks in the northern sector were beaten off Wednesday night, Nimitz reported, and then on Thursday the Marines launched a northward attack of their own. Their drive for the central airfield encountered heavy fire from small arms, mortars and automatic weapons.

By noon Thursday, fighting in a hard rain, this force was advancing slowly. It had knocked out numerous Nipponese gun positions and generally weakened the airdrome's defense, Nimitz reported.

Raids In Other Areas

Today's communique belatedly reported attacks Tuesday by Liberators aimed at neutralizing enemy bases in the Bonin islands just north of Iwo.

It also confirmed a Tokyo broadcast that American warships on Monday moved close enough to the Kuriles, north of Japan, to shell Kurabu Saki at the southern end of Paramushiro. The next day Liberators hit the same target.

Five enemy planes intercepted and four were damaged. Also on Tuesday, Navy Ventura planes made a rocket attack on Miami Saki off Paramushiro.

Today's communiqué reported air attacks on other enemy Pacific bases including Marcus, Babelthuap in the Palau group, Yap in the western Carolines, Pagan in the Marianas and islands in the Marshalls.

Suribachi was isolated early in the invasion from the Japanese farther north when a Marine column drove across the southern edge of Iwo, whose bleak eight square miles conceals its tremendous importance as the southern doorstep guardian to Japan.

Iwo has two completed airfields and one under construction. The most important, known as Motoyama Airfield No. 1, was captured two days ago. It was used by Japanese bombers in their attacks on Saipan, the American B-29 base about 650 miles southward in the Marinas. The central airfield is known as Motoyamma No. 2.

American warships which plastered Iwo for several days in a heavy pre-invasion bombardment, continued to shell the northern area of the island, Nimitz reported. Although weather conditions were adverse, fleet aircraft also maintained their support of the ground forces with heavy bombing, strafing and rocket attacks.

FIRST LANDING HAZARD CITED

Admiral Says Jap Fire Almost Doomed Iwo Beachhead

FEB 23 1945

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 22 (AP)—Japanese artillery fire from Iwo Jima's northern plateau almost doomed the United States Marines' first beachhead there, Vice Admiral John H. Hoover acknowledged in an interview today.

The commander of the forward areas, who watched the invasion of the volcano island from a warship, told Arthur Primm, Mutual correspondent, that D-day "was touch and go for a while" and casualties were heavy.

Found Opening To South

"It was a serious moment and for a while our position on the beach appeared doomed. But later we discovered an area far to the south where we could penetrate to the southern airfield out of range of their neaviest nre.

30.24-23239

"It saved the day."

At first the Japanese expected the Americans to only make a feint at this landing point and actually make a major landing at another part of the island, he said. But they soon saw there was no deception intended by the Americans.

Hoover said Japanese artillery and mortar shells began to fall "thick and fast" among the marines as they scrambled up a 200-foot sloping beach.

With All Fire Power

The Japanese appeared to be holed in with all their fire power in spite of 20,000 tons of explosives unleashed against the tiny island prior to D-day.

The progress on northern Iwo will be slower than on the south end of the little island, Hoover said.

Tremendous natural barriers have added to the difficulty of taking Iwo, he explained. The northern part is steep shored and the southern tip is well fortified by the extinct volcano Mount Suribachi.

Stalls Vehicles

Even in between "it is far from ideal." The volcanic dust is like dry quicksand. It stalls wheeled vehicles.

Admiral Hoover, who has witnessed practically every other landing operation in the Pacific, reported the enemy fire power on Iwo was "far stronger than any other place we've attacked."

How are we to dig the Japanese from underground? "As it has been everywhere—hand-to-hand combat, using flame throwers, small arms and grenades. But even after we clear them out it doesn't necessarily mean they will stay cleared out. The Japs might re-enter during the night."

from the United States to Manila.

Opposition was light.

The small oval island, five miles long and two wide at the middle, commands the strait through which the Japanese sent a war fleet to harass the American invasion of Leyte last October.

Island Lies off Luzon

It lies directly between the extensive southeastern tip of Luzon and the northern end of Samar island, which is practically in American hands. It is 260 airline miles southeast of Manila and about 325 by sea.

In Manila, meanwhile, point-blank shelling of the thick east wall of the Intramuros was intensified as First Cavalry Yanks made ready for a grand assault to clean up the Japanese garrison there. Howitzers and cannon were attempting to pound an entranceway for tanks.

Front reports said 37th division infantrymen seized the three-story City hall, near the Intramuros, after a bitter hand-to-hand fight in which the Yanks withdrew from the building four times in the face of machinegun fire before going in to stay.

Bitter room-to-room fighting continued in the luxurious Manila hotel. The Americans captured the first floor but the enemy was fighting stubbornly on and above the second floor.

On Corregidor, 24th infantry and 503rd paratroop division Yanks continued the grim task of exterminating the remaining Japanese with liquid fire and explosives.

Driving southeast of Manila, 11th airborne forces pushed along the east of Sison in the steadv campaign to push the Japanese into the mountains of northeast Luzon.

Heavy bombers swept enemy defense positions on eastern and western Luzon. Fighters and light bombers destroyed 15 gun positions in the Antipolo-Montalban area west of Manila, where the enemy has been reported girding for a stand.

Fighters and bombers swept the Central Philippines in support of the new invasion and heavy Liberators ranged across the China sea for their daily attack on Formosa and shipping off the China coast.

Sixty tons of bombs were dropped on barracks, supply areas and rail facilities on Formosa. The town of Chosu was raked. Fighters reaching Formosa's east coast destroyed 13 enemy planes on the ground.

Five coastal freighters were sunk off the coast and another was damaged.

Heavy bombers dropped 72 tons of bombs on North Borneo airdromes.

American troops are killing Japanese by the hundreds on the mined approaches to the inner walled city of Manila today while enemy groups still resist on Corregidor from two main tunnels and an assortment of small caves, all cut from one another.

Battle in Manila

Yanks fighting in downtown Manila counted 55 Japanese dead and eleven prisoners, while war to the death ranged through the hallways and up the staircases of the famous Manila hotel, now turned into a fortress.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in Thursday's communique that Bagac had been occupied on Bataan and that patrols found no living Japanese soldier on the peninsula.

The Americans had taken control of the first floor of the Manila hotel and were fighting into the second yesterday. The stubborn enemy, entrenched from the third floor upward, fought back from rooms, corridors and stairways with every conceivable type of portable weapon.

Bitter fighting also went on in the post office building which must be taken before the Intramuros, inner walled city, can be stormed.

A succession of Japanese infiltration attempts cost the Japanese 137 dead around the American-held Army and Navy club, the high commissioner's office and other buildings. Most of the slain carried demolition charges. Patrols found the streets leading to the Intramuros had been heavily mined.

James Hutcheson, Associated Press war correspondent with the troops on Corregidor, fortress island in Manila bay, reported the tortuous task of burning and smoking Japanese troops out of tunnels and caves was proceeding slowly.

Several times Lt. Patrick D. O'Connell of Grand Forks, N. D., led a patrol so close to the Japanese-held rear entrance to the main Malinta tunnel that he could see doors closing the gaps behind ten-foot thick earthen barricades.

Corregidor Virtually Cleared, Battle Rages in Manila Hotel

Americans Take First Floor but Japs Continue to Hold Out in Second

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Feb. 22.—Only scattered enemy remnants were left on Corregidor today, but fanatically resisting Japanese troops still held out on the second floor of the famed Manila Hotel, turning the hostelry into the hottest battle spot in the capital city.

Early front-line reports that elements of the 1st Cavalry Division had captured the big hotel, one of the most luxurious in the Orient, have been corrected to say that they have occupied the first floor, the Japanese the second.

Historic Bataan was cleared of Japanese, Gen. MacArthur reported, and "so far as can be found, no living Japanese soldier is now on the peninsula."

Japs Blow Themselves Up.

Hopelessly sealed in the vast network of tunnels on Corregidor, Japanese troops blew themselves up by touching off one of their main underground ammunition dumps.

Typical of the bitter inch-by-inch struggle for downtown Manila was the battle through most of the night between the Yanks and Japanese on the second floor of the Manila Hotel, where a continual fight to the death went on in the corridors and rooms and on the staircases of the building which stands at Manila's south shore district.

A succession of Japanese infiltration attempts resulted in the killing of 137 of the enemy around the captured Army-Navy Club, the high commissioner's office and other buildings yesterday. Most of the slain enemy troops carried demolition charges.

Battle Flares in Post Office.

Bitter fighting also flared in the long-contested post office building, which must be subdued before the walled Intramuros can be assaulted. An area 700 yards by 500, almost all of it within the Intramuros still, remains in the hands of the enemy.

At daybreak the Americans had a company of soldiers in the post office building, but Japanese resistance was so heavy more artillery shelling is considered likely.

Patrols found heavily mined areas in the streets leading to the gates of the Intramuros.

Yesterday, the 17th day of fighting in downtown Manila, cost the Japanese 555 counted dead. Eleven were taken prisoner.

The Americans cleaned up Bataan in less than a month; it took the Japanese more than three months to drive Americans out in 1942.

On Corregidor, the main body of the Japanese defense garrison was sealed into the tunnel system as paratroopers and infantrymen who invaded the island by air and sea just a week ago caved in the entrances with bombs and grenades.

Associated Press Correspondent C. Yates McDaniel said the trapped Japanese blew themselves up yesterday by igniting one of the principal underground munition depots.

Garrison Nearly Destroyed.

Gen. MacArthur reported the Corregidor garrison "practically destroyed." He said more than 1,700 dead already had been counted, and the count was incomplete.

"Only isolated groups holed up in caves now remain to be mopped up," he said.

Cavalrymen under Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, driving north along the Manila Bay shore to the Manila Hotel, captured Burnham Green, a small park nearby, to approach within 50 feet of the southern wall of the Intramuros.

Southeast of the Manila Hotel, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry Division engaged Japanese in the city hall after capturing the three-story Ermita Normal School. A square block containing the old 31st Infantry Regiment barracks and Army storerooms also was seized.

Howitzers and cannon were pounding the 40-foot-thick eastern wall of the Intramuros to make way for tanks and infantrymen determined to clean up the fight-and-die Japanese.

Gen. MacArthur said the slowness in finishing off the enemy garrison in South Manila was no particular tribute to Japanese skill or tenacity, but rather was caused by the American desire to spare the estimated 7,000 civilians held virtual hostages within the medieval walls.

Gen. MacArthur said the enemy's "savage barbarism has seldom been displayed in a more repulsive form."

Thousands of Japanese still are on Luzon but most of them have the comparative security of mountains and valleys of the northeast. Enemy strength is reported gathering in the foothills east of the capital.

Water pumping plants in Manila are temporarily out of operation, causing some anxiety to the swollen populace which has had to depend on wells.

Airdromes on North Borneo were pounded by 144 tons of bombs as liberators continued the unrelenting air war on widespread targets. Demolition and fire bombs tore up runways and wrecked installations at Miri, Jesselton and Fabuan airdromes.

Fifty tons of explosives hit Formosa's Heito airdrome and nearby barracks.

Two freighters were sunk and another damaged as patrol bombers ranged the China coast.

Veteran U. S. Forces Invade Capul Island

Meet Light Opposition in Battle to Clear Route to Manila.

MANILA, Friday, Feb. 23—(AP) Veteran Yanks of the Americal division invaded tiny Capul island in the San Bernardino straits just off Luzon's long southern tip on Wednesday in a move to clear the Japanese from the main shipping route shores of the 30-mile wide Laguna de Bay in time to prevent the escape of trapped Japanese by barge across the lake.

Seize Enemy Supplies

MacArthur announced that in the 14th corps sector of Luzon—in the northern and central part of the great central Luzon plain—the Americans had captured vast quantities of enemy materiel and supplies.

He said 712 artillery pieces of all calibers and 705 machineguns had been seized or destroyed there.

In the southern Caraballo mountains north of Manila Yanks of the First corps secured high ground

2 JAP FORCES DRIVE WEST FROM PAOCHING

CHUNGKING, Feb. 22—(AP) Two Japanese columns have struck out west and northwest from Paoching, 63 miles west of Hengyang, and are being hotly engaged by Chinese forces, the Chinese High command announced today.

One enemy force had reached a point seven miles northwest of Paoching, one of the main points protecting the west flank of the Japanese corridor across China to Indo-China.

U. S. 14th Air Force planes attacked enemy supply lines and communications all the way from the Taiyuan rail yards in north China to Liuchow and the Lung valley in the south yesterday, meeting no enemy opposition in the air.

Four aircraft were lost in the sweeps.

RUSSIAN FORCES ENCIRCLE GUBEN IN BERLIN DRIVE

Threaten to Outflank Eastern Defense to German Capital.

REDS CAPTURE ZINTEN

Stalin Declares 'Complete Victory' Over Nazis Is Near.

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 23—(AP) Russian troops, threatening to outflank Berlin's eastern defenses, yesterday smashed 11 miles through reinforced German lines and clamped an assault arc around Guben, walled fortress town 51 miles southeast of the Reich capital. Guben's garrison already is being attacked, enemy broadcasts said.

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day that the Germans had lost more than 1,150,000 men—800,000 killed and 350,000 captured — between Jan. 12, when the great Soviet Winter offensive began, and Feb. 20.

"Complete Victory Near"

"Complete victory over the Germans now is near," said the Soviet leader in his order commemorating today's 27th anniversary of the Red army, which, he said, "together with the armies of our Allies is successfully completing the rout of the German Fascist army."

In addition to casualties the Germans lost 3,000 planes captured or destroyed, 4,500 tanks and self-propelled guns, and 12,000 other guns in a 40-day period, Stalin said, and Hungary, Germany's last ally in Europe, has been knocked out of the war with the recent seizure of Budapest.

Stalin's order was issued as Berlin predicted that a final all-out Soviet offensive was imminent now that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army in the southeast has drawn abreast of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army holding points along the Oder river 30 to 40 miles from the capital. Zhukov's army was massed "like a colossus," awaiting attack orders, Berlin said.

Red army forces yesterday toppled Zinten, one of the last large German strongholds in East Prussia, and also drove to within 34 miles south of Danzig, but the main action occurred on Konev's front.

Threatening to turn Berlin's eastern defenses, the First Ukraine army captured 60 localities south of Guben and reached the Neisse river at various points along a winding 40-mile front. Schenkendorf, two miles south of Guben, was the nearest point to the ancient town mentioned officially by the Russians and they seized it in an 11-mile advance through forested territory to the east. Other Soviet forces the day before had reached the mouth of the Neisse at a point eight miles north of Guben and only 49 miles from Berlin.

2,000 Nazis Wiped Out

Two thousand Germans encircled in the snowy forests southeast of Guben were wiped out, the Soviet bulletin said, and an unconfirmed report from Moscow said the Russians already had crossed the Neisse, next to last water barrier before Berlin. German broadcasts also said that the Russians were attempting to force the Neisse and encircle Guben.

Capturing Strega, farther up the Neisse, Soviet troops rolled to within five miles north of Forst and 12 miles northeast of Cottbus, big rail junction town astride the Spree river, last natural defense line before Berlin. The Russians also took Teuplitz, eight miles southeast of Forst.

At Triebel, three and one-half miles south of Teuplitz, the Russians captured another section of the big military autobahn, or superhighway, leading into Berlin.

Farther south the Russians took Gross Saerchen and Dubrau, four miles northeast and six miles east of Muskau, another junction town on the Neisse. These Soviet elements were part of Konev's central columns engaged in driving a wedge between Berlin and Dresden, Saxon capital.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army drove to within eight miles of Danzig territory and to within 34 miles of the former free city with the capture of the Polish "corridor" village of Gogolewo, two miles west of the Vistula river crossing town of Gniew.

Gaining up to five miles on a 45-mile front stretching westward to the Berlin-Danzig railway the Russians seized nine localities, including Long, on trunk line 42 miles southwest of Danzig.

In this area 500 Germans were captured along with 55 guns, 24 armored troop carriers and five self-propelled guns, the bulletin said.

Four more Breslau suburbs Masselwitz, Krietern, Kuenern and Simsdorf, were captured by Russian troops fighting to annihilate the encircled garrison in the lower Sielsian capital.

Bombers Hit Koenigsberg

Soviet heavy bombers made mass attacks Wednesday night on enemy military and industrial objectives in Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital, and in Bratislava, Slovak capital 30 miles east of Vienna. Scores of fires and great explosions were touched off, the communique said.

Bratislava is 53 miles northeast of the Danube town of Komarom (Komarno), and a fierce tank and infantry struggle raged east of Komarom, the Russians said. Moscow already had announced German local gains in the area between Komarom and the Hron river, and last night's communique said further Nazi attacks were repulsed.

The Soviet midnight communique supplement said Russian shock troops, using ladders and assault bridges, had captured an earthen wall surrounding the "citadel" in Poznan, besieged western Polish city. After that Soviet artillery smashed a break in the wall of the fortress and the troops rushed in and captured one building and 360 German troops.

Four thousand Germans were killed during the day in the fighting that preceded the capture of Zinten, the communique said.

The Russians acknowledged that German counter-attacks on Samland peninsula west of Koenigsberg had pressed back Soviet troops from the northern shore of Koenigsberg gulf. The Germans lost 8,000 killed and 86 tanks destroyed in three days, the Russians said. This is in the area where Berlin said its troops had opened up a corridor between Koenigsberg and Pillau, the capital's port.

Reds Capture Zinten

Below Koenigsberg the Russians captured five localities in addition to Zinten.

Zinten, 17 miles southwest of besieged Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital, is 10 miles inland from the Frisches Haff, Baltic lagoon coast against which the remnants of perhaps 20 Nazi divisions are pinned. The German pocket is less than 450 square miles in area.

The Germans said the Russians were using more than 2,000 warplanes to batter Koenigsberg, German positions on the Samland peninsula to the northwest, and the trapped Nazi forces in the pocket below the capital.

Enemy broadcasts said German troops in Brandenburg and Silesia were battling to keep the Russians from establishing bridgeheads across the Neisse. The Spree river, which flows to within 10 miles west of the Neisse, is the last natural defense line before the German capital.

Little activity was reported on the Oder front due east of Berlin, but a German Transocean news agency report said the Russian army there was massed "like a colossus," and predicted a large-scale offensive was imminent.

The assault upon Guben, which is 16 miles south of Fuerstenberg, west bank Oder river stronghold under attack by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army, was launched from the east this morning after the Russians captured "some sectors east of the town," said Nazi commentator Col. Ernst von Hammer.

Reds Gain Southeast Of Berlin, Fall Back In East Prussia

Guben By-passed as Forces Fight for Solid Front Before Capital

BULLETIN.

LONDON (AP).—The Russians again have battered into Guben and street fighting is going on, a German military commentator said today. In East Prussia, he said, Russian pressure has increased to the greatest ferocity with 2,000 Soviet planes joining the assault. Zinten, 17 miles south of Koenigsberg, was evacuated. FEB 23 1945

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The Russian 1st Ukraine Army, having by-passed the German strong point of Guben, 51 miles southeast of greater Berlin, today fought for a solid link with the 1st White Russian Army at the confluence of the Oder and Neisse Rivers.

While the Russians scored new gains southeast of the German capital, other Soviet troops were forced to give some ground in East Prussia in the face of heavy German counterblows west of Koenigsberg.

The Berlin radio said a surprise Nazi counteroffensive had re-established a corridor between Koenigsburg and the port of Pillau, 20 miles south. The Russians acknowledged some German advances in that sector, but said the drive was costing the Germans enormously in men and equipment.

Trying to Encircle Frankfurt.

Moscow announced Soviet forces had seized a strategic ridge position in the forest on the Eastern approaches to Guben, taking more than 50 populated places north and south of the immediate sector.

Farther north Marshal Gregory Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army units were reported attempting to complete the encirclement of Frankfurt. The German radio announced Marshal Zhukov had slashed communications between Berlin and that city on the west bank of the Oder 38 miles from the German capital, but said they had been restored.

Pravda said the Russian Army stood only 34 miles from Berlin in that area. The paper did not specify the location but indicated Marshal Zhukov's troops had crossed the Oder.

Nazi radio spokesmen said German forces were fighting a defensive battle between Berlin and the Frankfurt-Kuestrin front, but declared Russian bridgeheads west of the Oder were "far too small" for a major offensive toward Berlin.

33 Miles From Danzig.

The 2d White Russian Army yesterday drove within 33 miles of Danzig in its sweep up the Polish Corridor. Premier Stalin in an order of the day announced the capture of Czersk, 45 miles southwest of Danzig.

The Soviet communique declared Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's forces had taken 40 towns in the Polish Corridor yesterday, the northernmost being Pehskerfelde.

Moscow said Russian withdrawals were made in the face of violent counterassaults by the Germans on Samland in what apeared to be an effort to set up a "Dunkerque" escape from Pillau for thousands of Nazi troops trapped in East Prussia.

Russian planes, however, were ranging the Baltic coast and Danzig Bay stalking any German ships that might be coming up for such a withdrawal operation.

Moscow said the German counterblows have been in progress for three days and asserted that on Tuesday alone the fighting had cost the Nazis 60 tanks.

Other Russian planes raided the Baltic port of Stettin yesterday morning, as well as the besieged Silesian capital of Breslau, now encircled by Russian troops.

STALIN ISSUES REPORT ON ROUT OF GERMAN ARMY

MOSCOW, Feb. 22 — (AP) Commemorating the 27th anniversary of the Red army, Premier Stalin in an order of the day declared today that Soviet armies "together with the armies of our Allies are successfully completing the rout of the German Fascist army."

"In January of this year the Red army brought down upon the enemy a blow of unparalleled force along the entire front from the Baltic to the Carpathians," Stalin said.

Broke Nazi Defenses

"On a stretch of 1,200 kilometers (about 745 miles) it broke up the powerful defense of the Germans which they had been building for a number of years. In the course of the offensive, the Red army, by skillful actions, hurled the enemy far back to the west."

"In stiff-fighting," Stalin added, "Soviet troops have advanced from the frontiers of East Prussia to the lower reaches of the Vistula for 270 kilometers (168.7 miles); from the Vistula bridgehead south of Warsaw to the lower reaches of the Oder for 570 kilometers (356.2 miles); from the Sandomierz bridgehead into the depths of German Silesia for 480 kilometers (300 miles)."

The Russian leader declared the first consequence of the Red army's drive was to thwart the "German winter offensive in the west which was aimed at the seizure of Belgium and Alsace, and enabled our Allies, in their turn, to launch an offensive against the Germans and thus link up their offensive operations in the west with the offensive operations of the Red army in the east."

He noted that the Russians within 40 days in January and February hurled the Germans from 300 towns, captured about 100 war plants "manufacturing tanks, aircraft, armaments and ammunition, occupied more than 2,400 railway stations and seized a network of railways totalling 15,000 kilometers in length."

"Within this short period," Stalin said, "Germany lost more than 350,000 officers and men in prisoners of war and not less than 800,000 killed.

3,000 Aircraft Seized

"During the same period the Red army destroyed or seized about 3,000 German aircraft, more than 4,500 tanks and self-propelled guns and not less than 12,000 guns.

"As a result, the Red army completely liberated Poland and a considerable part of the territory of Czechoslovakia, occupied Budapest and put out of the war Germany's last ally in Europe, Hungary. It captured the greater part of East Prussia and German Silesia and battled its way into Brandenburg, into Pomerania and to the approaches of Berlin.

"Hitlerites boasted that for more than a century not a single enemy soldier had crossed Germany's borders and that the German army had fought and would fight only on foreign soil.

"Now an end has been put to this German braggadocio. Our Winter offensive proved that the Red army finds more and more strength for the solution of ever more complex and difficult problems. Its glorious soldiers have learned to batter and annihilate the enemy by every rule of modern military science. . . ."

YANK DESCRIBES SPEEDY RED DRIVE

MOSCOW, Feb. 22—(AP) A veteran gunner from the United States army's First Armored division said today that Marshal Gregory Zhukov's Western Poland blitzkrieg "went by me so fast I almost got dizzy."

"The big fact as I saw it was the way the Red army kept driving, driving with every man in it grimly determined to get to Berlin," said Lt. James F. Schildt, Long Island City, N. Y.

The 22-year-old officer who has been in the Army since he was 17 was commanding a battery of 105 MM. guns in the First Armored division's push 100 miles north of Rome when a German counterattack overran his position last June 5.

Last month, escaping from a column of American officer prisoners being marched from Oflag 64 at Zhubin, Poland, into Germany, he saw the tank spearheads of Zhukov's First White Russian army flash by.

"Tommygunners crowded the decks of Stalin and Sherman tanks thick as ants on cubes of sugar," he said. "They seemed impervious to cold and fatigue. Those tanks seemed keeping going day and night without pause.

"Then the infantry afoot came along, just as rugged and tireless as you could want. Some got catnaps riding in horsedrawn carts, but looked as if they were used to 24-hour forced marches. If the horses got tired they usually were changed with some friendly Polish farmer. But the men themselves seemed never to wear out."

Near Kcynia, Poland, where he first met the Red army, Schildt said a fight to wipe out an enemy pocket went on more than a day until 6,000 Germans were killed.

"The Russian soldiers who did this job actually seemed aggrieved because it delayed them a little while in the march on Berlin," Schildt said. "Their losses were much less than the trapped Germans."

Polish civilians in ragged clothing, the American said, stripped the enemy dead of their uniforms, leaving only the steel helmets.

Hitch hiking his way to Moscow in company with other former prisoners of Oflag 64, Schildt said he talked through amateur interpreters with a number of Red army officers, all of whom displayed friendly interest.

"I never met a single Russian who didn't hate the German with all his heart. One Red army officer said 'with you Americans, you had to be taught to hate the Germans.' But we told him, 'as prisoners of war our hating the Germans came natural'."

Schildt is among prisoners who will be leaving Moscow for the United States soon.

Reds Free More Americans in East Prussia

11 U. S. Officers Once Held by Nazis Have Already Hitch-Hiked to Moscow

FEB 23 1945

MOSCOW, Feb. 22 (AP).—A "Red Star" dispatch from Elbing, by Ilya Ehrenburg, indicated today that many American and other Allied prisoners have been liberated by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's army in East Prussia.

Three more American officers liberated by the Red Army in western Poland have arrived in Moscow, bringing to eleven the number who hitch-hiked to the Soviet capital. The new arrivals are Lieutenant David Allen Englander, of 191-21 Foothill Avenue,

Lieutenant James C. Young, also liberated in Poland, said that Captain Richard Rossbach, believed to be a relative of former Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, was free and was reported to be in a hospital with stomach trouble.

Sends Partial List

A dispatch written by Wright Bryan, associate editor of "The Atlanta Journal," while he was in a Nazi prison camp at Szubin, Poland, and brought here by a Soviet officer, gave an incomplete list of Americans in the camp, including the following:

First Lieutenant Edmond L. Rinehart, of 128 East Thirty-eighth Street, New York; Durgin J. Deland, 465 Park Avenue, New York; J. N. Bleeh, 774 Rugby Road, Brooklyn; E. B. Hanley, Granville, N. Y.; W. R. G. Hlhorst (last name garbled in cable transmission), of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Arnold Rubin, of 116-12 Boulevard, Rockaway Beach, N. Y.; Seymour Bolton, 309 West Ninety-ninth Street, New York, and Leo G. Ennis, of Rockville Centre, L. I.

New York Man Tells of Escape

Lieutenant James F. Schildt, of 4720 Forty-first Street, Long Island City, who escaped from Oflag 64 at Zhubin and hitchhiked to Moscow, said today that Marshal Zhukov's western Poland blitzkrieg "went by me so fast I almost got dizzy." Captain Frank Olevsky, of 1221 Haddon Avenue, Camden, N. J., liberated by the Red Army in western Poland, described subtle psychological tortures to which American prisoners of war were subjected in Dietz Castle near Limburg, Germany. In an effort to make him "sing," he said, a German officer "threatened I would be kept in solitary confinement for the rest of the war if I didn't break down with the information he wanted."

Red Magazine Denies Plans for New Reich Based on Generals

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—The Russian magazine War and the Working Class yesterday characterized as a "myth" various reports in the foreign press that Russia planned to use captured German generals as the nucleus of a new German government.

Naming a number of foreign correspondents and writers who it said had contributed to a flood of "poisoned rumors," the magazine, which has come to be regarded as an authoritative reflector of official Soviet policy, declared:

"From nothing has been erected a structure of lies. It should be known that the Soviet Union, much more than any other country, has suffered from German aggression and has invested the greatest shares in the cause of Hitler's defeat and is anxious to obtain a solution of the German problem making a revival of German aggression impossible."

Prejudice Is Charged.

"Participants in the collective creation of the myth (that Russia planned a provisional German government founded on the Free Germany Committee in Moscow and the union of German officers in the Soviet Union) found common ground in prejudice against the Soviet Union," the magazine charged.

"This is behind the readiness of George Axelson of the New York Times, Dorothy Thompson, Constantine Brown and other 'European experts' to imagine and spread all kinds of tales about Soviet policy and the readiness of many editors to publish these tales without a twinge of conscience."

The magazine applied the term "poisoned rumor" to a dispatch which it said had been writen by Harold Callender of the New York Times' Paris bureau, which quoted diplomatic circles as saying the Soviet Union was holding Field Marshal Friedrick von Paulus, captured at Stalingrad, in reserve for a Soviet-sponsored puppet German government.

Mr. Axelson was attacked for allegedly discussing the union of German officers as if the officers saw the possibility of preparing Germany for a future war. Mr. Brown, Washington Star columnist, was assailed for observing that "the existence of the Free Germany Committee presents a destructive contradiction between the Allies."

Unhealthy Interest Claimed.

The publication scored Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun for "expressing an unhealthy interest in this committee" and attributed a similar view to William Phillips Simms of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

"The known pro-Fascist paper, the New York World Telegram, stated in an editorial that the Soviet Union is salvaging German militarism with the aid of the Free Germany Committee," the article continued.

The magazine called Raymond Daniell, New York Times correspondent, "malicious" for an alleged statement that the Sofia trials were an attempt by the Bulgarian government "to liquidate its political opposition."

"The criminals themselves pleaded guilty and confessed their crimes in court," War and the Working Class said. "We see Daniell was even more malicious than the monk who called a pig a perch in order to conceal his sin when eating meat. He made an even more miraculous transformation in terming the Bulgarian Hitlerite servants a political opposition."

ROMANIAN SITUATION IS ASSAILED BY PRAVDA

MOSCOW, Feb. 22 — (AP) The internal situation in Romania was viewed with solemn seriousness today by the official Communist party organ Pravda, which charged that Germany on the eve of her defeat is looking for places to mobilize secret agents and intimating that Bucharest was not being overlooked.

"Soviet public opinion cannot fail to watch impartially the inner struggle of Democratic elements with the Fascists in Romania," Pravda said in a long editorial. The paper called for "a complete elimination of the last remnants" of Romania's "Fascist regime."

"The war is not over yet," it continued. "Hitlerite Germany is not finally crushed. On the eve of her final collapse she seeks to mobilize agents and partisans. We should not forget that Romania is in the Red army's rear, and that in this rear the rule of pro-Fascists should be liquidated."

REDS LIBERATE 2,661 PRISONERS

LONDON, Feb. 22—(AP) The Russians have freed 2,661 British Commonwealth prisoners of war in German camps, Maj. Arthur Henderson, Undersecretary for War, announced today in Commons.

He said the Russian government had sent word they were on their way to Odessa, where they will stay until ships arrive to bring them home.

Henderson gave the first detailed information received here on the movement of American and British prisoners.

He said prisoners from Stalags 20A, 20B and 8B were moving through Mecklenburg, some by rail.

From Stalag Luft 3 some 2,000 American and British prisoners have been transferred to Stalag 2A and to Luckenwalde, 2,000 to Marlag Milag Nord near Hamburg, 2,000 to Stalag 3C east of Frankfurt on the Main and 4,000 to Stalag 7A in Bavaria.

Prisoners from Stalags 8A and 8C are moving through Saxony.

Some prisoners from Stalag Luft 4 are reported to be at Usedom, near Swinemuende on the Baltic.

Stalag Luft 8 was reported to be near Spremberg in Brandenburg whence prisoners are being transferred to the neighborhoods of Nurernberg and Moosburg in Bavaria.

Stalag 8B is reported to be moving to Aussig in Bohemia.

Stalag 344 is said to be moving to Theresiestadt in Bohemia.

E-Boat Wolf Packs Keep RAF Pilots Busy

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—RAF Coastal Command planes made sixteen attacks on German E-boats attempting to attack Allied shipping in calm sea and bright moonlight last night, the RAF announced. The Berlin radio claimed the Nazi speedboats had torpedoed eleven ships, totaling 32,000 tons, in the attacks off the English east coast.

Ten E-boats were dispersed by a Wellington bomber, the British said, while a Beaufighter attacked another force with rockets. Nine E-boats were bombed by another Wellington while a third Wellington dumped explosives on a force of seven of the craft.

All of the RAF planes returned to base. The British made no report of losses in the convoy.

Britain Decorates American For Saving Life of Girl

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Flight Capt. Gilman Benedict Warne of Montclair, N. J., and Miami, Fla., today received Britain's silver medal, MBE (Member of the Order of the British Empire), for heroism in the rescue last August 13 of an American girl pupil from a blazing training plane.

The decoration was pinned on Capt. Warne's dark blue uniform of the British Air Transport Auxiliary (ferrying command), for which he volunteered in 1941, by Capt. Alan Lennox-Boyd, member of Parliament and secretary to the Ministry of Aircraft Production.

The rescue took place when a Hudson trainer caught fire shortly after a take-off. Capt. Warne landed the ship, escaped, and then returned when he realized the pupil, Miss Jane Plant of Baltimore, had failed to get out. He found her unconscious and pulled her from the blazing machine, himself suffering severe burns.

GERMANS DRAFT SCHOOL CHILDREN

KASISCHKE

LONDON, Feb. 22—(AP) The Germans conscripted some of their school children today—boys to dig trenches and fight and girls for auxiliary services—as their military commentators warned that a Russian frontal assault on Berlin was imminent.

The German official news agency DNB announced that the German equivalent of boy and girl scouts had been taken out of school for war service. The Bund Deutscher Maedel (Hitler Girls' organization) has been "split up in small units which will be employed wherever necessary—in signal units or supply depots or nursing services—wherever gauleiters (provincial governors) order," the agency said.

"While boys have been called up for digging defenses and are being trained for Volkssturm (Peoples' Army) in order to be ready for any eventuality, these girl units will be responsible for preparing food, nursing sick boys and other duties," said DNB. "For the time of service girls need not attend schools."

The military commentator for the Transocean News agency said Russian preparations for a frontal assault on Berlin from the Oder river, less than 40 miles away, "are completed."

Other German broadcasts warned again of an impending Allied west front offensive in the Aachen sector, declaring the present attacks were "only like the tuning of an orchestra."

Churchill to Demand Vote of Confidence On Crimea Decisions

DAILY

Bloc of Prime Minister's Own Party May Attempt Revolt on Polish Issue

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Prime Minister Churchill said today the government would demand a parliamentary vote of confidence on the joint policy agreed to by the three powers at the Crimea conference, particularly with reference to "unity of action" in peace as in war.

As leader of the House of Commons, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden set down the government's motion for the debate for next Tuesday and Wednesday even as the parliamentary lobby buzzed with reports of possible revolt among some members of Mr. Churchill's own Conservative party over the Polish issue.

Government spokesmen were openly confident of getting a blanket indorsement of the Crimea decisions.

A Conservative bloc, which does not like the government's attitude toward the Polish question, is known to be undecided just how to attack without giving the impression it is repudiating the entire Crimea declaration.

The possibility some would abstain rather than vote against the government seemed likely. The extent of the revolt reported brewing was not clear, but it was not believed large enough to threaten Mr. Churchill's position.

The government motion did not specifically mention Poland, but read:

"This House approves the declaration of joint policy agreed to by the three great powers at the Crimea Conference and in particular welcomes the determination to maintain unity of action not only in achieving the final defeat of the common enemy but thereafter in peace as in war."

The Prime Minister was in the House again today. In answer to a question he gave assurance that the Allies, in imposing peace terms on Germany, would bear in mind the Nazis' indiscriminate bombing by V-weapons. He declined to take a stand, however, on the "whole question of limitation of aerial warfare."

"I certainly do not think that the victorious Allies should deprive themselves of defenses which are possible through the air," the Prime Minister said.

Provisional Regime For Reich Not Topic At Yalta, Eden Says

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Foreign Secretary Eden informed the House of Commons yesterday that the question of establishing a provisional German government in the Russian-occupied section of the Reich was not discussed at the Crimea conference.

FEB 23 1945

His statement, in answer to a question, added that the communique from Yalta pointed out there was agreement between the three powers on common policies and plans "for the occupation and control of Germany."

Shaw On Yalta Communique

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Yalta communique on the Big Three's Crimea conference was called an "impudently incredible fairy tale" today by George Bernard Shaw.

In an article for the weekly Forward, Shaw said Premier Stalin was first and the rest nowhere on the Polish question.

He added the whole announcement was the "most impudently incredible fairy tale that has ever amused and kept quiet the pack of children we politically are."

Lublin beat London hands down in the Polish dispute, while Washington looked on not knowing what to say, the article continued.

There will be more Lublins and Londons, with Stalin, "so far the voice of destiny," for Lublin every time, Shaw declared.

"Now Churchill and Roosevelt are not Continentities," Shaw said. "Their disadvantage is that whereas Stalin, being a Communist, has made up his mind and knows it, these two are up to their waist in fascism — private enterprise, plus public capital and regulations—and don't know it, being muddled in Cobdenist superstitions, Tory democracy, Monrovian isolation and all sorts of Nineteenth Century odds and ends."

Hulten Case Not Likely To Go Before Lords

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—Private Karl Gustav Hulten's defense counsel is understood to have decided against appealing to the House of Lords to save him from hanging for the robbery-murder of a London taxicab driver.

The fate of the 22-year-old United States parachute trooper thus will be left to the usual review by the Home Secretary, Herbert Morrison, who has power to commute the sentence.

The House of Lords is technically the highest court of the land, but cases rarely are appealed to it.

Death sentences were passed upon Hulten, from Cambridge, Mass., and 18-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Maud Jones for the fatal shooting of the driver, George Heath.

people of Europe and would have eased political tensions which now are mounting to the point of explosion."

The weekly declared the American answer to the issue was that "the Pacific war cannot wait"—an answer it acknowledged to be true but with qualification. "It is no real answer," it declared.

Pride On An Empty Belly

"The few months required to wind up the war in Europe would have made all the difference to her peoples and would not have materially affected the position in the Pacific," said the Tribune. "People can starve to death in less than a few months. Furthermore, in these few months they can accumulate an amount of bitterness and resentment that will last many years and poison international relationship."

The Tribune asserted that food difficulties lie behind the French attitude toward the Big Three Crimean conference—"it is wounded pride superimposed on an empty belly."

It argued that the people of Europe were looking to Britain as a champion in the circumstances and that "Churchill appears to be letting them down."

French military alliance.)

An authorized official said today France was satisfied thus far with the position accorded her in the postwar world by the Crimea conference but was reserving decision on participation in the San Francisco United Nations conference.

This official declared France would delay the decision until full information is received concerning France's postwar role.

Satisfaction thus far was derived from some additional information on the Yalta decisions which has been received from French Ambassadors in Washington, Moscow and London, in reply to French inquiries.

These answers, the Quai d' Orsay official said, indicated the Big Three powers want to give France full equality of status in disposing of the questions pending before the United Nations. Among the most important of these questiions is the blueprinting of a world security plan, including the occupation of Germany, in which France has demanded a full share.

Organist Of American Cathedral Is Missing

Paris, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lawrence K. Whipp, of Denver, Col., organist and choirmaster of the American Episcopal Cathedral in Paris, has been missing since he left his home February 11 to visit a friend, the Very Reverend Frederick R. Beekman, dean of the cathedral, announced today.

Reporting the disappearance to the American Embassy, the dean said he feared Whipp might have been the victim of an attack.

Whipp remained in Paris during the war as custodian of the cathedral. He is in his fifties.

"This case," Prosecutor Lt. Col. Carmon C. Harris told the court, "has shown neglect of duty from Camp Stoneham, Calif., to Versailles."

Maj. Marlin was tried in connection with widespread looting and black market operations by members of the 716th railway operating battalion.

Referring to defense testimony to the effect that Marlin, a 52-year-old former Los Angeles railroad employe, was incapable of commanding a battalion of 800 men and had never been given a chance to learn how, Harris said:

"Someone passed him for a major's commission, someone inspected and passed his battalion for overseas duty. Unfortunately they are not on trial here today. It may be hard to pin the blame because of the maze of red tape between here and there.

"But I suggest that one of these days there will be a clean-up. Let the Army show it is big enough to correct its own mistakes."

Marlin was relieved of command of the 716th battalion after military police raided the outfit in November. Neglect of duty charges were filed against him after more than 100 of his men were convicted and sentenced for pilfering and dealing in the black market. Some received as high as 50 years.

The day before his trial opened headquarters of the European theater of operations issued orders for his return. The defense produced a copy of these orders at today's session. Marlin testified he had received them last night and assumed they were in reply to his request for reclassification.

Four more officers of the 716th battalion are scheduled for trial on charges of neglect of duty, the first possibly tomorrow.

from tiny watch springs to 80-ton locomotives, since last July to meet the needs of Eisenhower's armies.

Capacity Greater

Specialists installed warehouses, crane and quays, poured thousands of yards of concrete for open-air storage dumps, and repaired oil storage tanks so that now Cherbourg has a port capacity far greater than in peacetime.

Antwerp and other ports have eased the strain but thousands of GI's still work all-night shifts in Cherbourg. Production is kept at a maximum, Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, Normandy base section commander, told Eisenhower.

Wounded Cheerful

During a seven-hour inspection Eisenhower spoke to a score of wounded soldiers on a hospital ship. They were cheerful and confident—and proud that their boss came down to see them off. They had served in all branches of the Army and they were bound for England for further treatment. Some would go home.

Accompanied by Col. James P. Gault, his military assistant, and Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, deputy European theater commander, Eisenhower talked with many convalescing battle casualties in general hospitals.

structed to delay production if it got higher than that needed for the needs of the mine itself. However, the Allied authorities put the obstructing technicians in jail and invited Dutch mine experts to help run the business. It now is producing a surplus being used on military railroads.

"There is no indication that the German miners have been trying any serious passive resistance," Capt. Newman said, but there still is a serious manpower shortage. When the Allies entered the area they found considerable numbers of Polish, Russian and Czechoslovak slave laborers who were freed.

Mr. Williamson said it was hoped that these mines, already supplying Army needs, soon would be able to produce enough for civilian use.

Allies to Increase Italian Bread Ration

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 22.—The Allied Commission announced yesterday that the bread ration throughout liberated Italy would be increased to 300 grams daily, effective March 1.

The new order increased by 100 grams the bread ration for liberated territory north of the Garigliano-Sangro line. Provinces below have been receiving 300 grams.

Officials in Rome said President Roosevelt actually gave an order to increase the ration, but that shipping difficulties caused by needs for the Pacific offensive had made it impossible to carry out the order.

U.S. To Equip Greek Army Via Lend-Lease

Athens, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States Government has decided to send to Greece equipment necessary to reorganize the Greek Army, in accordance with decisions reached at the Yalta conference, Under Secretary of War Spahis announced today.

The equipment will be sent on a lend-lease agreement between the American and Greek governments reached two years ago when King George and Emmanuel Tsouderos, then Premier, went to Washington.

Starvation Laid To Arms Shift

London, Feb. 22 (AP)—The British Laborite weekly, Tribune, said today a shunting of Allied power to the Pacific was "wholly responsible for the malnutrition and starvation" in Europe. It demanded to know who was behind the strategy—whether Prime Minister Churchill was "overborne by Mr. Roosevelt or did he share equally in the decision?"

"The Allied offensive in the west lacks punch because Allied armies lack reserves and materials," said the Tribune. "With a fraction of the enormous reserves now diverted to the Pacific, the war in Europe might have ended months ago.

This And Not The Weather

"We have been incapable of backing up the extraordinary achievements of the Soviet armies because as so often before we had dispersed our strength over too many targets. This, and not the weather, is as much responsible for the continued stalemate in the west as the desperate resistance of the Germans."

The Tribune said food problems in Europe had "now reached frightening proportions," and argued that a tiny percentage of the ships sent to the Pacific "would have sufficed to free the starving

First Coke Captured in Reich Moves to Mills Serving Allies

By the Associated Press.

ALDSORF, Germany, Feb. 22.—A vanguard of 16,000 tons of coke yesterday was started on its way to the steel mills of France and Luxembourg from this mining area in the first move to make occupied Germany contribute to the Allied cause.

The coke was a part of captured stocks. This coal area has served as a guinea pig for "solid fuel" experts of Supreme Allied Headquarters and the Allied Military Government for dealing with German industries which might be overrun.

It revealed many complex problems, according to Maj. Thomas Williamson, a former Bluefield (Va.) mining technician. It also revealed that the Nazis are not going in for a scorched-earth policy so far as German "big business" is concerned.

Capt. Elmer Newman, a Harlan (Ky.) coal field mine technician now with the military government and in charge of one of the big mines here, said the Nazi officials and mine owners left a small crew of workers and key managers to take care of the property.

They apparently had been in-country, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Germans hitherto had met such attacks with concentrations of heavy guns, but these were absent as the attack rolled up in the area of Monte Belvedere, from twenty-seven to thirty-five miles southwest of Bologna.

Officially the attack was described as a local one, but the American infantry was meeting increased resistance of small arms, machine guns and mortars.

On the eastern flank of the attack, near the village of Abetaia, infantry advanced after artillery had pounded the enemy lines heavily, and a battle was reported in progress there.

Eastward, on the British Eighth Army front, patrols were active and there was some shelling.

The American attack was a swift follow-up of the surprise assault of the day before that captured Monte Belvedere and a second important height, Monte Grogolesco.

In the developing attack northeast of Monte Belvedere the Americans seized another hill feature and a ridge running from the hill to the area of Belvedere.

Deserters Flocking to Berlin, Says Writer Who Fled in Auto

By JERJE GRANBERG,
Swedish Newspaper Correspondent.
Written for the Associated Press.
Copyright, 1945, by the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22.—I have just left Berlin, where the fateful arrival of German army deserters helped spread creeping paralysis among the capital's 5,500,000 barricaded, bewildered and bomb-dulled inhabitants. I got away to Sweden in an automobile which no amount of money in the world could buy, but two old suits, some socks, ties and 2 pounds of coffee turned the trick.

As the front moved closer and closer to Berlin, more and more deserters slipped into the capital. One forenoon by chance I heard a desperate mother confide in another woman that her son and 37 comrades had arrived in Berlin from the front as deserters. Frantically, she asked advice: Should she hide her son? But how? What should she do? She certainly couldn't report him as a deserter.

Believing it to be an isolated case I didn't give the matter much thought, but the same day a Nazi spokesman urged the population to report all deserters immediately. The severest punishment was threatened for any one hiding them. Even streetcars and trains, he warned, would be searched.

Berlin's fall may not come as fast as most persons seem to believe, presuming the Russians are ready to concentrate their whole strength against the ruins of Berlin instead of cutting off the city with part of their forces and using the rest for other strategic aims. It certainly goes "according to plan," one may predict Berlin's conquest will require six to eight weeks.

High military staffs were evacuated from Berlin in haste last week and the capital is supposed to be declared a fortress soon. Whether the government will remain in Berlin is uncertain, but it seems improbable since all civilian life is to be placed under military authority.

The government was evacuated in part after the last heavy daylight raid on February 3. For some time it had been functioning only formally in the devastated government quarter. Several ministries were laid in ruins that bloody Saturday as a result of the American carpet bombing, and long into the night workers sought to recover archives from the ruins. The same scene was enacted outside Hitler's chancellory, which though blasted open, never was fully laid in ruins.

Roads Crowded.

With the proclamation of Berlin as a fortress the last chance of escape to a future battlefield will be practically eliminated. In reality this opportunity has not existed for the civil population for weeks. Berlin simply can't be evacuated because there is no place to go and no means of travel.

As I drove toward the Baltic coast the roads were crowded with endless caravans of refugee "prairie wagons" from Pomerania to West Prussia, all moving westward. Every house in every village and every town was packed with refugees to the last corner.

Berlin's millions, therefore, must stay put in their ruins. Just the lack of transportation makes evacuation unthinkable. Despite the bombing, Berlin's population is bigger now than before. It is estimated at approximately 5,500,000.

A journey in a subway or a look at the endless streams of people in the Friedrichstrasse or Alexanderplatz stations is enough to remove any doubts in that respect. Subway and elevated trains are so crowded it is impossible to topple over even if one fainted in the stifling air. Where are all these people going? Where do they come from? Where do they live?

These questions are difficult to answer.

Evacuees Return.

Not only have tens of thousands of previously-evacuated women and children and masses of refugees returned to the capital with no other place to go, but there are hundreds of thousands of foreigners.

How will this anthill be supplied when the siege begins? Where will the people go for protection from artillery bombardment.

During the last air attacks the air-raid shelters proved inadequate, and indescribable scenes occurred at the entrances.

Despite all, however, life continues in Berlin—work and business traffic where it hasn't been destroyed. But one senses almost a rural, or perhaps a fatalistic, silence over everything—a breathless tenseness in the face of some hideous uncertainty which is inevitable.

Civilian machinery still was functioning tolerably a few days ago when I left, even though it was limping badly here and there, and government officials still allow themselves time for red tape. But work is mainly concentrated on fortifications. At the same time that people were clearing the debris after the giant February 3 raid, work on barricades proceeded amidst the smoke and conflagration. Since then there has been no halt.

Obstructions Built.

Prisoners of war, among them many Russians, groups of convicts, and all types of foreigners, trucked and dumped together steel girders from the ruins, burned safes, timbers and masses of brick and stone block for the barricades.

The Volkssturm, totally mobilized, was ordered to build obstructions whenever not needed for guard duty. Engineers built more complicated fortifications. Their blasting could be heard from morning until nightfall.

The position of Berlin as a front-line city is emphasized by alerts and Mosquito bomber attacks four or five times daily. At first Berliners were skeptical regarding the barricades because they seemed too improvised. But these since have taken on the shape of real defense lines.

BERLIN, Pag[illegible] weeks before they have [illegible] German defense back as far as the city proper. The first backbone of very strong reserves is massed behind the Oder, and these fortifications must be broken.

Then the Russians face the Berlin suburbs and the city itself with tens of thousands of barricades, mines and ruins transformed into fortresses. As far as the city stretches, fortifications block the streets and byways. When I drove from Berlin it took me 90 minutes to travel 6 miles because the barricades are so thick it is difficult to pass them.

When the Russians come they must count on heavy antitank fire from each barricade. If everything

91 Unable to March Left Behind as Nazis Evacuated Camp

(Wright Bryan, associate editor of the Atlanta Journal, was captured by the Germans in France after being wounded in the leg while serving as a war correspondent. He was freed by the Red Army from a Nazi prison camp in Poland on January 22.)

SZUBIN, Poland, Feb. 20 (Delayed).—Liberation for at least one group of American war prisoners who had been held here by the Germans came within eight days after the Red Army had launched its offensive.

Although the number of prisoners released here was relatively few, there is hope that many others of all Allied forces may be close to freedom if they have not already achieved it. Several of the largest war prison camps were located in this region and German efforts to remove them at the last minute may have been thwarted by the speed of the Russian advance.

In this little Polish Corridor town, a half hour's train ride southwest of Bromberg, was a camp where most of the American ground force officers captured in Africa, Sicily, Italy and Western Europe were living behind barbed wire, waiting impatiently for the end of the war or for an opportunity to escape.

A little more than a week ago they learned from a German communique of the Russian attack beginning more than 100 miles eastward.

Those Able to March Evacuated.

On Saturday, January 20, the German garrison warned the American prisoners to prepare for evacuation of the camp on foot at any time without further notice. Prisoners certified by German doctors as unfit to march were told to ready themselves to leave immediately [illegible] transportation became availa[illegible]

All that day a continuous stream of civilian refugees moved in wagons, carts, bicycles and afoot along the highway passing the camp. Sunday morning the American war prisoners held their last [illegible] formation under German supervision on the camp assembly area and the men marched out the gate in a column of threes, escorted by German guards.

Transportation being unavailable for hospital patients and others unable to walk, they remained behind. This group, including a few doctors and orderlies to care for them, numbered 91. I was one of the group because of a slight bullet wound in the left leg which still was not entirely healed.

Until the last minute we did not know whether guards would be left with us or whether transport might yet be obtained to take us back into the German interior. But when our marching friends moved out of sight down the highway, they were followed in a little automobile by the last German officers and soldiers in Szubin.

Keys Given to Chaplain.

As they left, the German officers handed the keys of the camp to Chaplain Stanley Brach of Newark, N. J., and we were once more under full command of American officers.

Quickly we painted large Red Cross flags to hang on all sides and the roof of the hospital, not knowing whether any Germans were left in the vicinity or where the approaching Russians might be. Rumor placed the Russians about 50 miles away but we had no way of confirming this.

Father Brach, captured in Africa, had been a prisoner since November, 1942, and had been through this once before. In Italy he had been in a camp abandoned by Italian guards on the surrender of their government, but had been retaken by the Germans before Allied prisoners could be evacuated. He said mass Sunday in the hospital ward and told us to be confident, this time we would be free, and to pray for our friends and comrades marching through snow and subfreezing temperatures.

The senior American officer remaining in camp assured us we had adequate food and fuel supplies for several weeks and "the Russians will be here either tomorrow or the next day, or next week, or next month—we don't know when—but they will be here."

Saw American-Built Trucks.

All that day we watched through barbed wire festooned with snow icicles—barbed wire no longer covered on all sides by vigilant German machine gunners—barbed wire which no longer held us in, but [illegible]ch now kept unfriendly intruders [illegible]

[illegible] outside the camp. All day wagons, some open, some covered, plodded along the highway outside the camp. And through the night we could hear a few muffled explosions in the distance.

Monday morning we looked out to the deserted highway and wondered. Then some one saw two American-built, six-by-six military trucks and a light tank go by. They did not pause, but spirits in our camp lifted.

Just after 10 o'clock a vehicle stopped between two principal German barracks across the street from the hospital and heavily armed men scattered to search the premises. From hospital windows we could not tell by their snow-covered winter uniforms whether they were German rearguards or Russian advance units. When the vehicle turned we recognized it as an American-built three-quarter-ton reconnaissance car and when officers came to our gate we saw they were Russians.

An artillery captain was the first Russian officer into our camp. He was the first of three groups of Russian officers who visited us during the day and evening. Like every Russian who has been here, they were alert and soldierly, demanding proper proof of our status, but once it was established, extending all possible courtesy and help.

Spearheads Push Forward.

They told us that Russian spearheads were pushing westward on either side of Szubin, that Berlin was their goal and that things were moving so swiftly our friends in the marching column might be overtaken and liberated. At this writing we still have no definite news about that column but we are constantly hoping.

Russian units that pushed through Monday were armored spearheads and reconnaissance forces. They moved with swift precision and had no time to tarry.

Tuesday Russian soldiers came through in large numbers, riding tanks, trucks, jeeps and motorcycles and in the afternoon the infantrymen came, marching through the snow. All day we heard the reassuring "beep, beep" of American horns on the highway and all day we received visits from Russian officers and soldiers and from Polish townspeople who brought us fresh bread and helped repair the water and electric services of the camp.

The Russians have much lease-lend equipment from America and they like it. Equipment of their own manufacture is abundant and first rate. They are eager to meet Americans. They salute and shake hands and speak of Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill and every one has his eyes on the road to Berlin.

We told one of them we wanted to go to Moscow. He misunderstood, [illegible] we asked him if he was going to Moscow. Quickly he insisted "not Moscow, no. I'm going to Berlin."

Flying American Flag.

It is all moving with the same speed that the Allies pushed across France after breaking out of the Normandy beachhead—the same hasty retreat of the Germans with some armored spearheads forking out over the country, by-passing German strongpoints—the same truckloads of soldiers and supplies following—the same mopping up by infantry and artillery of hard-fighting German rearguards.

Meantime we sit here flying the American flag beside those of Russia and Great Britain.

We are free to walk out the barbed-wire gate if we have business in Szubin. By now we are confident this area is firmly in Russian hands and we know we will be evacuated soon.

Today Maj. Roman Karmen, cameraman war correspondent for Izvestia, arrived here and it is through his courtesy I have started this dispatch toward a cable office. He is the first accredited correspondent I have seen since Ed Beattie of the United Press, John Mechlin of the Chicago Sun and I were captured near Chaumont, France, September 12 and the first time I have been permitted to do any work since then. I was the only one of the group wounded and I was taken to a hospital in Chaumont. I last saw Beattie and Mechlin there the afternoon we were captured. I have not heard of Mechlin since, but Beattie was being held in Berlin the week before Christmas.

An officer here who was taken to Berlin for questioning talked to Beattie, then brought back word he was well.

All of us here now are counting the days until we can start for home. Every patient in the hospital is doing well. None is dangerously ill. They are receiving the best care from the medical staff headed by Capt. Floyd Burgeson of Des Moines, Iowa., assisted by Capt. Robert Blatherwick of Van Hook, N. Dak., and Capt. Louis Tankin of Baltimore, Md.

300 NAZI SUBMARINES USE NORWEGIAN PORTS

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22—(AP) At least 300 Nazi submarines are using Norwegian ports as bases for operations against Allied shipping, a responsible Norwegian source said today.

Central supply and repair points are at Trondheim and Bergen, which again are in service after heavy Allied attacks on U-boat pens, this report said.

Writer Tells How Reds Freed U. S. Prisoners in Poland

Two From D. C. Area Among Those Freed

A list sent from Poland by Mr. Bryan included two men from the Washington area who were freed. They were:

Dr. Vincent Di Francesco of 3356 Pennsylvania avenue S.E., and Lt. C. L. Dyer of Glen Echo Heights, Md.

Dr. Di Francesco, who has been in service three years, is a graduate of George Washington Medical School and was an intern at Providence Hospital, according to his father, who lives at the Pennsylvania Avenue address.

Lt. Dyer, who has been in the Army since June, 1942, had been a prisoner in Poland for more than a year. His wife said he was recovering from wounds in both legs.

Mrs. Dyer, who has heard from her husband every two or three months, said her husband was a native of Washington and had attended schools in the District and Silver Spring. He was an oil burner mechanic before entering the service.

Lt. and Mrs. Dyer have two children, a 7-year-old son and a 13-year-old daughter.

Chinese Capture Burma Lead Mine

Calcutta, Feb. 22 (AP).—Chinese troops under Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan have captured the fabulous Bawdwin silver and lead mines 22 miles northwest of Lashio in Burma, depriving the Japanese of lead production sufficient to supply their whole war machine.

The mines, among the richest in the East, were captured intact yesterday after the Japanese had put up only brief resistance a few miles to the north. Chinese units drove on and captured Namtu, which is on a branch railroad to Lashio.

Cross Namtu River

Other Chinese forces, which have been pushing directly down the old Burma road toward Lashio with the aid of American tank units, were reported across the Namtu River and within less than 25 miles of Lashio.

British troops in central Burma, now separated by only some 120 miles from the Chinese-American forces driving down from the northeast, enlarged their bridgeheads over the Irrawaddy River both north and southwest of Mandalay, which fast was being caught in a three-way squeeze.

The British force fighting in the bridgehead at Singu, 40 miles north of Mandalay, advanced several miles and captured the village of Zigon.

Extend Lower Bridgehead

British and Indian troops extended the recently won bridgehead in the Myinmu sector 35 miles below Mandalay to a depth of 6 miles. Japanese counterattacks had ceased in the area.

Allied planes continued to range at will over all central and southern Burma. Enemy air resistance had dwindled almost to the vanishing point.

[Chungking announced that the first supply convoy from India had safely traversed the Myitkyina-Lungling cutoff of the Stilwell road and had reached Kunming on Tuesday. The cutoff saves more than 100 miles.]

War Step Likely In Middle East

Cairo, Feb. 22 (AP)—Reports that could not be confirmed here said tonight that most of the Middle East would be at war with Germany and Japan before the week end.

Usually reliable informants heard that Turkey, Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Transjordania and Yemen would formally declare war on the two Axis nations.

Turkish Assembly Summoned

ISTANBUL, Feb. 22 (AP).—The Turkish National Assembly was summoned today to meet in special session tomorrow. No reason for the summons was given, but announcement of an important decision was generally expected.

Leader Critical Of Part Australia Has In War

Canberra, Australia, Feb. 22 (AP). Robert Menzies, opposition leader, declared in the House of Representatives today that Australian troops should be fighting with other forces for the relief of Malaya and Singapore, particularly since many Australians were prisoners there.

"I see no reason why our armies should not be engaged in the major task of completing the Far Eastern war," he said, adding that he believed the question of how Australian forces should be based was not only strategic but political.

Menzies also declared that he was gravely concerned over the Polish position. He said that despite the Atlantic Charter a severe modification was being made of Polish boundaries without reference to the Polish people.

Defense Resolutions Offered At Inter-American Meeting

Chapultepec Castle, Mexico, Feb. 22 (AP)—Resolutions looking toward concrete defenses against aggression in this hemisphere, from within or without the Americas, were pouring into the hopper as the Inter-American Conference went into its second day.

Meanwhile, Paraguay indicated that the Argentine discussion is going to pop up again quickly Paraguay fired the first shot on Argentina yesterday, but it was a dud because Buenos Aires' case was officially put off to the end of the meeting.

Uruguay has prepared a resolution for introduction tomorrow which could make conspiracy against the security of any American state by a non-American person or country a criminal offense.

Uruguay Would Extend Law

The Uruguayan delegation said this idea has already been put into law in Montevideo, and they are seeking to have it extended to the entire hemisphere.

It is directed primarily against "Nazi-Fascist conspirators," and is expected to be a basis for approving military sanctions as laid down in the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

There is a possibility that a special power to impose such sanctions will be granted to a new American organization, or a reorganized Pan-American Union.

The Uruguayans have already put in a proposal condemning the use of unilateral force in international relations and guaranteeing, by armed might if necessary, territorial integrity and political independence of all American countries.

Want Argentina Back

A small group of delegates from different nations has been meeting to work out a plan for getting Argentina back into the inter-American fold before the United Nations conference in San Francisco on April 25.

Several countries have economic resolutions ready for introduction. Panama has one on shipping rates and Ecuador has three, including one against the United States' dissolving its foreign purchasing agencies at the conclusion of the war.

This is a problem worrying all the Latin delegations. One Ecuadorean put it this way: "Shove us down stairs, don't throw us out of a fifth-story window by suddenly cutting off all war purchases."

Peru has prepared a resolution on inter-American commerce aimed at promoting trade.

Freedom Of Information

Freedom of information has attracted the attention of a number of delegations as a basis for better relations within the Americas and a step toward democrary.

Cuba has introduced a resolution demanding that all the sessions of the conference commissions be opened to the press. The rules laid down thus far provide for some open meetings and some executive sessions.

Uruguay and the United States have each prepared a resolution expressing the determination of the American nations that there should be complete freedom of access to the sources of news throughout the hemisphere and freedom of exchange of news.

It is expected that at least one of the resolutions will contain a recommendation to the United Nations to adopt the same principles and take concrete steps toward assuring that they are put into effect.

STETTINIUS WARNS ON AXIS

Nazis Still Peril Hemisphere, Inter-American Parley Told

Churchill Government to ask confidence in Yalta.....Page 10

United States delegates to San Francisco conference anticipate an advance meeting with President Roosevelt.....Page 11

Mexico City, Feb. 22 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Secretary of State, tonight sounded an alert against any Nazi attempts to set up a Western Hemisphere base "for an ultimate comeback."

Declaring "the Axis leaders will of course attempt to escape the consequences of their crimes," Stettinius told the Inter-American Conference that "we still face the danger of secret Nazi Fascist infiltration into the political and economic life of this hemisphere."

In his first major diplomatic appearance since the Big Three talks, which he attended, the Secretary said the conferees at Yalta had united in a determination to render Germany forever harmless.

"Inflexibly Resolved"

"The world," Stettinius declared, "may rest assured that the United States, in full agreement with our allies, is inflexibly resolved upon whatever steps may be necessary to insure that neither Germany nor Japan will ever again have the military or industrial capacity to make war. . . ."

Repeatedly emphasizing that from now on there are no longer "purely European problems of war and peace or American problems of war and peace," Stettinius said the Big Three decisions will give strong expression to the objectives of the Atlantic Charter.

He stressed the United States is especially interested in the agreement for joint action to assure freedom of government and independence to the liberated and former satellite nations of Europe.

"U.S. Will Not Shirk"

"The United States will not shirk its responsibilities in seeing to it, so far as it is within our power, that this purpose is achieved," Stettinius said.

He told the conferees he had discussed the meeting with President Roosevelt only about a week ago.

"I reviewed the achievements of the Crimea conference with the President of the United States when I met him again three days after we had left the Crimea," he said.

"It is the President's firm conviction that the results of the Crimea conference have greatly advanced the basic objectives of United States foreign policy."

Stettinius said one of the overall purposes of the Crimea conference was to lay the groundwork for stopping war in the future "at the point, whatever point it may be on the surface of the earth, where war begins."

Objective For Mexico Parley

He declared the same great objective must be before the meeting here in Mexico City and serve as a spur to the maintenance in peace of the same kind of unity which the hemisphere nations have had in war.

Stettinius did not go into the Argentine problem, which has occupied so much of the opening discussions here.

Nor, in fact, did he do more with respect to Pan-American questions than sketch broadly the need for continued unity in this hemisphere in defense and political and economic matters.

He did promise the United States Government will use to the fullest its facilities, including the lending power to the Export-Import Bank, to promote "economically sound industrial development and the modernization of agriculture" in the other hemisphere countries.

Voting Formula Mentioned

He referred to but did not describe the formula agreed on by the Big Three for settling the voting controversy which had tied up the Dumbarton Oaks plan for world security until it was decided in the Crimean talks to hold the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25.

"The agreement reached on voting procedure at the Crimea conference," Stettinius said, "recognizes the two essential elements of a successful world organization—unity of action by the great powers, who alone have the military and industrial strength to prevent aggression; and the equal sovereignty of all nations, large and small, who must act together to create the essential conditions of lasting peace."

Repeats Big-3 Assurances

The Secretary repeated the assurances given by the Big Three in their formal communiqué when the conference broke up more than ten days ago, that the military decisions which have been reached by them "will shorten the war and thus save the lives of tens of thousands of United Nations fighting men."

"The only hope that remains to the Nazis and the Japanese," he continued, "is that the United Nations will now relax their efforts in the belief that the war is as good as over.

"It is thus more important than ever before that we maintain and strengthen this active wartime collaboration of the American republics."

Conferees in Mexico Get Down to Study of Hemisphere Problems

Argentina Ruling Delayed Democracy Prerequisite To Unity, Camacho Says

(Picture on Page A-8.)

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22.—Argentina's position outside the circle of American nations took on ever-increasing importance today as the Inter-American Conference got down to the business of attempting to solve some of the war and postwar problems facing this hemisphere.

Without mentioning any countries by name, President Avila Camacho of Mexico declared in a keynoting address last night that establishment of political and economic democracy throughout the hemisphere is a prerequisite to successful functioning of any international group.

"Events prove," President Camacho said, "that no agreement can become consolidated among the members of any international society when the governments of some of these members (as the dictators practice it) act under the influence of a regime of violence while the rest are trying to give a definite form to the majority desire of the community."

Democracy Called Bulwark.

He insisted that democracy was the strongest bulwark against the "tortuous machinations of those who seek internal unrest as an excuse for foreign clashes."

Deploring the absence of Argentina and El Salvador from this conference, Mexico's chief executive expressed the hope that circumstances soon would enable them to join the common effort of the Americas.

The Argentine question has been docketed for consideration as the final business of the conference, which is scheduled to end March 5, but a strong determination to prevent any move toward recognition of the present Buenos Aires government already has become evident.

Paraguay demanded yesterday that the question be given a prominent place on the agenda, but the delegation chiefs, sitting as a steering committee, turned this down.

Ezequiel Padilla, Mexican foreign minister and conference chairman, said in an interview that if any delegates attempt to support Argentina, the "conference is prepared" to go into a detailed exposition of what the present regime there has done.

Compromise Ruled Out.

Although Padilla declined to go into details, it is known that several governments represented here have prepared extensive dossiers on the activities of Nazi agents in the Argentine.

Padilla made it clear that he expected no compromise with the government of President Edelmiro Farrell so long as it refrains from full co-operation with the other countries for hemispheric security.

In tracing a broad picture of the last few years, President Camacho warned that the Americas still are faced with the threat of totalitarian propaganda.

Turning to the economic phases of the conference, the President said the nations of this hemisphere need a type of economic collaboration that will place just limits on the activities of the most industrialized nations and permit all nations, including the least prepared, to develop their natural resources in a reasonable manner.

Mexico Meeting Head Battles Home Critics, But Wins Fame Abroad

30.21-23245

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22.—Many Mexicans compare their Foreign Minister to President Woodrow Wilson.

Ezequiel Padilla, chairman of the Inter-American Conference which opened yesterday, cuts a different sort of figure, but, like President Wilson, he has achieved a reverent popularity abroad while battling a caustic opposition at home.

This tall statesman wields a powerful influence at the meeting, which is hoping to break the road for economic well being and security in the postwar Americas. For years, Padilla had advocated strengthening the American system and enriching every Western Hemisphere nation by promoting trade on this continent.

A dominant figure among Latin American diplomats, he commands personal attention because of his eloquence and towering figure.

The Mexican Foreign Minister's background, however, is closer to that of a log-cabin statesman like Cordell Hull than to that of college president Wilson.

Presidential Chances Slim.

He rose to prominence in an ideal manner for any aspiring politician. Nevertheless, his chances of becoming Mexico's next President are exceedingly slim. One of his opponents' main charges against him is that he is too friendly to the United States.

Padilla, whose strong strains of Indian blood show clearly in his dark skin, spent his early childhood on his widowed mother's small, isolated farm.

When he was 11, the governor of the province offered him a chance to go to school in the provincial capital. Getting there was a huge financial problem, but his mother wanted him to go. So the village mayor wrote to the mayor of the next village asking him to care for Padilla and send him on to the following town.

The lad set out on horseback and it took him 30 days to complete the 10-day trip because he had to stop at each little town where the schoolmaster had him make a speech to the class.

After the provincial capital, he went on to Mexico City, then Paris. That first trip served him in good stead, because after he returned from France to fight in the revolution with Pancho Villa, he ran for Congress from his home province and was elected.

Gains Fame.

Padilla rocketed to international fame at the last conference of American foreign ministers in Rio de Janeiro, just after Pearl Harbor in January, 1942.

He tells how he flew down with Summer Welles, then United States Undersecretary of State, and stood quietly by as crowds cheered the United States delegate wildly at each stop.

The last day of the conference, Padilla was called on to speak. He had made no preparation. The meeting had been stormy, with Argentina and Chile holding back on the other nations' desire to take all-out measures against the Axis.

Padilla planned his talk as he walked down the aisle to the platform. With simplicity, he appealed for unity in the Americas. The audience roared approval and lined the streets to watch his return to his hotel.

"I can never again achieve the same heights as at Rio," Padilla said recently, but his colleagues believe differently.

They think Mexico City is his chance.

Senate Committee To Rule Tomorrow on Mexican Water Pact

By the Associated Press.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, confronted with a million words of testimony taken during a month of hearings on the proposed United States-Mexico water treaty, plans to decide tomorrow whether to recommend ratification.

Chairman Connally, preparing to leave Saturday for Mexico City to attend the Inter-American Conference, expressed hope he would be able to report there that affirmative action had been taken.

Acheson Speaks for Treaty.

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson, testifying shortly before the hearings were concluded yesterday, declared that ratification would strengthen the position of the United States at the United Nations Conference opening in April in San Francisco by demonstrating the willingness of this Nation to settle amicably with Mexico a long-standing dispute over division of waters of the Colorado River and Rio Grande.

Opposition to the treaty came chiefly from Californians. They contended that California contracts for water to be supplied from the Colorado, amounting to 5,362,000 acre-feet of water annually, would be jeopardized if Mexico is guaranteed 1,500,000 acre-feet a year from the river.

Proponents argued that the terms of the pact are the best which can be agreed on with Mexico, and that unless a treaty is negotiated soon defining Mexico's rights, she will be able to claim a greater amount of water in the future on the basis of past appropriation for beneficial use.

Californians Protest.

The last witness was Representative Lea, Democrat, of California, who read a statement signed by 23 California members of Congress protesting the proposed treaty.

"In order to give away part of California's share of the waters of the Colorado to the republic of Mexico, structures built in California, underwritten by California taxpayers, must be used," the statement said.

"This in itself will establish a precedent without parallel in our history and indicates what might happen to the resources of the various States along both the Canadian and Mexican borders."

The California legislator, urged that Mexico not be guaranteed more than 750,000 acre-feet of water a year, plus any surplus waters reaching the border not required by the United States.

JAPANESE RADIO REPORTS SHAKEUP IN WAR MINISTRY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A shakeup in the Japanese war ministry was reported today by the Tokyo radio along with reports that an American fleet bombarded Paramushiro in the northern Kuriles, that Flying Fortresses reconnoitered the Empire's five major cities and that two U. S. carriers had been sunk off Iwo Jima.

None of the radiocasts had Allied confirmation. They were recorded by the FCC.

The war ministry, Tokyo said, named new chiefs for the military affairs departments of the Tohoku, Tokai and northern military districts, Nagoya arsenal and Osaka military school.

Maj. Gen. Nobusta Yamunna was appointed head of the Nagoya arsenal.

Maj. Gen. Noguasa Ono was made director of the Osaka school.

The names of the other Japanese major generals appointed to new posts were not distinctly heard by the monitors.

"Our people have become nervous," the broadcast quoting the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi complained. "Air raids have had some effect in irritating their nerves. With the enemy landings on Iwo Jima, Japan is exposed to danger. If we waver now, it means defeat."

Domei news agency told of the Kuriles attack, saying eight American warships turned their guns on Paramushiro naval base and were pursued by aerial units. It claimed no ground damage resulted.

Tokyo radio asserted B-29s in apparent aerial survey tours were flying by daylight over Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Osaka, and Kobe and over half the western coast of Korea. The only bomb dropping came from a lone Superfort near Osaka, the account said.

Japanese Imperial headquarters trumpeted the account of the Iwo Jima action, saying suicide airmen sank two American carriers and an unidentified warship and damaged two others while a submarine sank an American cruiser in the Philippines.

An enemy broadcast on the Iwo fighting asserted the night was illuminated by more than 2,000 American flare bombs and that more than 12,000 invading Marines have been killed or wounded. (Latest official American reports place the total at 4,553, including 385 killed.)

Both radio Tokyo and Admiral Chester Nimitz agreed that elements of the Third American Marine division have been landed on Iwo Jima to reinforce the Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions.

Japs Claim 2 Carriers Sunk Off Iwo Jima

By the Associated Press.

A Japanese Imperial headquarters communique today claimed that Japanese suicide flyers sank two American aircraft carriers off Iwo Jima yesterday, while unofficial Tokyo reports asserted more than 12,000 marines have been killed or wounded on the island 750 miles south of Tokyo.

All of the enemy claims, contained in broadcasts recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, were without American confirmation.

The enemy communique also asserted an unidentified American warship was sunk and two others damaged off Iwo, while a Japanese submarine sank an American cruiser in the Philippines.

Other Japanese broadcasts quoted alarmed Tokyo newspapers as warning that "the war situation is really grave" and "if we waver now, it means defeat."

Radio Tokyo said the 3d Marine Division began landing on Iwo from 30 transports at noon yesterday after 50 per cent of the 4th and 5th Marine Divisions were killed or wounded. Tokyo placed the figure at "more than 12,000" by last night.

Army Asked to Explain 18-Year-Old Casualties

By the Associated Press.

Representative Hess, Republican, of Ohio has written to Gen. George C. Marshall asking an explanation for the appearance in recent casualty lists of names of 18-year-old boys drafted less than a year ago.

Mr. Hess told a reporter he informed the Army chief of staff that in "scanning recent casualty lists I have noticed the names of boys who have been in service six months, seven months, and eight months."

He said he asked Gen. Marshall how he reconciled that with statements he said were made to Congress by the War Department, in asking for a lowering of the draft age, that it would be impossible to train battle replacements in less than a year and that 18-year-old youths would be given a year's training before being sent into combat.

Anglo-American Oil Pact Being Redrafted Today

By the Associated Press.

The State Department will make a fresh start today on drafting an Anglo-American oil treaty, beginning this time where an earlier draft ended—in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Department officials have arranged a conference with the Senate group to get an advance idea of just what the legislators are willing to approve and thus avoid a repetition of last year's futile efforts.

Fruit of months of negotiation with the British, the earlier treaty was submitted to the Senate last August 24. It encountered opposition from segments of the American oil industry and also from Chairman Connally of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The result was that it languished in the committee month after month.

Finally, President Roosevelt asked last January 10 for its return for revision.

Rainbow Veterans to Hear Broadcast on Outfit

By the Associated Press.

World War veterans of the 42d (Rainbow) Division will hear a radio report from "somewhere in France" tonight on the outfit's activities in this war.

The report will be made by the division's commander, Maj. Gen. Harry J. Collins, and will be carried —subject to war developments— over the NBC network at 6:15 p.m.

The War Department said the broadcast will be part of a special program arranged by the Rainbow Veterans' Association.

Gen. Collins, a native of Chicago, took command of the 42d in April, 1943. The division last was reported with the 7th Army on the southern flank of the western front.

Articles Declared Based On Committee Statements

By the Associated Press.

Dorothy Thompson, New York columnist, and the Baltimore Sun said last night that articles they wrote saying Russia planned a provisional German government founded on the Free Germany Committee in Moscow and the union of German officers in the Soviet Union were based on the committee's own statements.

Lee B. Wood, executive editor of the New York World Telegram, one of the Scripps-Howard newspapers which carries articles by William Phillips Simms, said:

"It's futile to make statements on publications of that kind."

The New York Times said it had no comment. The Washington Star also declined comment.

Lehman Readies Report For UNRRA Committee

By the Associated Press.

UNRRA Director General Herbert H. Lehman has prepared a report, it was learned reliably yesterday, giving these major reasons for the acute food and clothing situation in Europe:

1. Unquestioned priority by the military over shipping and supplies, which has had to be exercised in an admittedly prolonged war.

2. Comparative unwillingness in major supply countries to restrict further their civilian supplies.

The report will be considered next week by the four-power Central Committee of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Paramushuro Bombarded, Japanese Radio Reports

San Francisco, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Tokyo radio reported that an American fleet had bombarded Paramushiro in the northern Kuriles, that flying Fortresses reconnoitered the empire's five major cities and that two United States carriers had been sunk off Iwo Jima.

None of the radiocasts had Allied confirmation.

"Our people have become nervous," a broadcast quoting the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi complained. "Air-raids have had some effect in irritating their nerves. . . . With the enemy landings on Iwo Jima, Japan is exposed to danger. If we waver now, it means defeat."

Says 8 Ships Attacked

Domei told of the Kuriles attack, saying eight American warships turned their guns on Paramushiro naval base and were pursued by aerial units. It claimed no ground damage resulted.

Tokyo radio asserted B-29's in apparent aerial survey tours were flying by daylight over Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe and over half the western coast of Korea. The only bomb dropping came from a lone Superfortress near Osaka, the account said.

Japanese imperial headquarters trumpeted the account of the Iwo Jima action, saying suicide airmen sank two American carriers and an unidentified warship and damaged two others, while a submarine sank an American cruiser in the Philippines.

An enemy broadcast on the Iwo fighting asserted the night was illuminated by more than 2,000 American flare bombs and that more than 12,000 invading Marines have been killed or wounded.

[The latest official American reports place the total at 4,553, including 385 killed.]

Both radio Tokyo and Admiral

Chester Nimitz agreed that elements of the 3d American Marine Division have been landed on Iwo Jima to reinforce the 4th and 5th Marine divisions.

Tell Of New Shakeup

Another broadcast reported a shakeup in the Japanese War Ministry, affecting new chiefs for the military affairs departments of the Tohoku, Tokai and northern military districts, Nagoya arsenal and Osaka military school.

Maj. Gen. Nobusta Yamunaa was appointed head of the Nagoya arsenal.

ALL-OUT ATTACK AGAINST GERMANS SEEN BY STIMSON

FEB 28 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP) A broad hint that a major Allied offensive on the Western front is impending came today from Secretary of War Stimson.

"I may say that the officers in the War department who have recently been with our troops in that theater have been much impressed with the confidence of the entire command in their ability to carry through an aggressive campaign," Stimson told his news conference.

Gen. Somervell Returns

Among those recently in the European theater and now back in Washington is Lt. General Brehon Somervell, chief of Army Service forces. In this contention, Stimson's next comment was interesting:

"There are no serious difficulties now regarding supplies in the forward dumps of the various armies."

The number of American divisions has been "constantly on the increase" since the opening of the port of Antwerp and particularly during the last four weeks, Stimson said—"in other words, General Eisenhower's hand has been greatly strengthened."

Stimson took the occasion to discount reports of mass surrenders by Nazi troops in the west. He said that in view of "rumors" he had cabled Eisenhower about the reports and had just received from him this answer:

In the Allied advance prisoners are being taken but "there is no indication of mass surrenders. Resistance remains stiff along the entire front.

Stimson made a point of explaining that while no mass surrenders are occurring, the total bag of prisoners is increasing to enormous proportions.

A grand total of 1,134,992 Germans have been captured by the western Allies since November, 1942, when the landings in North Africa occurred, he said. Of these, over 900,000 have been taken since the invasion of Western Europe last June. The secretary made no attempt to set a number on the thousands captured by Russian forces in the east. Counting previous bags in Africa, Sicily and Italy, however, the Western powers probably have taken a million and a half or more Axis prisoners.

U. S. Casualties Mount

Meanwhile the Army and Navy disclosed that American combat casualties exceed 800,000 and are climbing at a clip that would put them at the million mark within two months.

The Army's killed, wounded, taken prisoner or missing make up 711,497 of the aggregate of 801,162, with the Navy accounting for the remaining 89,665. Secretary of War Stimson said the Army figures were based upon the compilation of individual names in Washington through Feb. 14.

Today's report reflected an increase of 18,982 since last week and a rise of approximately 100,000 within the past month. With heavy fighting now under way in the Pacific and a big drive against Germany shaping up, the casualties may soar in the next few weeks.

McKellar Demands Paper-Sale Probe

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) told the Senate today he intends to introduce a resolution asking an investigation of sale of the Nashville Tennessean to Silliman Evans.

He made the announcement after denouncing the newspaper in a Senate speech for what he called its publication of "dirty, venomous, corrupt and damnable falsehoods" about him and E. H. Crump, Memphis Democratic leader.

Charges Bidding Blocked

McKellar said Evans bought the paper from the Government, which had come into possession of stocks and bonds of the publication through loans to banks.

He had reports from "more than one person," McKellar went on, that there were people willing to offer a larger price than Evans "but somehow, some way, they were prevented from bidding on it."

If an investigation shows "honest and reliable" bidders were prevented from bidding, McKellar added, he will ask that the sale be set aside, although it occurred some years ago.

Calls Crump Honest

Of Crump, McKellar said, "there is no finer man in our State or in America. He is honest as the day is long. Everybody knows it except those who don't want to know it."

McKellar said Evans "even had Jennings Perry write a book attacking me and Mr. Crump." Perry is editor of the Tennessean.

If there was "one word of truth" in the book, the Senator added, it slipped in inadvertently.

TERROR RAIDS DENIED BY U.S.

FEB 24 1945

Stimson Calls Report 'Excusable, But Incorrect'

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, today expressed belief an "excusable but incorrect interpretation" of remarks by a briefing officer had led to reports that the Allies had decided on terror bombing of the German civilian population.

"Our policy has never been to inflict terror bombing on civilian populations," Stimson replied to a news conference question as to whether this indicated a change in our air policy.

"I have investigated that report," the Secretary said, "and find that it arose from what I consider an excusable but incorrect interpretation of some remarks by a briefing officer at supreme Allied headquarters.

Basic Policy Same

"As a matter of fact, the basic policy of United States Army Air Forces has not been changed. Our efforts are still confined to the attack of enemy military objectives. Communication centers which we attack become our objective in that they feed the front on which our Allied armies are now engaging the German forces.

"From the beginning of their operations, the mission of the United States Strategic Air Force in Europe has been to destroy Germany's ability to wage war.

"This means the destruction of her aircraft factories, her oil refineries, the war manufacturing plants and transportation facilities that provide material with which to make war."

The AP Dispatch

An Associated Press dispatch from Paris February 17 said:

"The Allied air bosses have made the long awaited decision to adopt deliberate terror bombing of the great German population centers as a ruthless expedient to hasten Hitler's doom.

"More such raids as the British and American heavy bombers carried out recently on the residential sections of Berlin, Dresden, Chemnitz and Cottbus are in store for the Reich and their avowed purpose will be creating more confusion in the German traffic tangle and sapping German morale. . . ."

2 Others Back Version

The dispatch was written by Howard Cowan, of the AP Paris staff, and was passed by Allied supreme headquarters censorship. Two other members of the AP Paris staff attended the "briefing session" at which Cowan obtained material for his dispatch and supported his version.

This apparently was the briefing to which Stimson referred.

After differing versions of the story had appeared, the AP staff attempted to obtain further clarification but supreme headquarters officers declined to be quoted on the subject.

However, the AP Paris Bureau filed through supreme headquarters censorship on February 21 the following dispatch:

"The newly unleashed fury of the Allied aerial onslaught against key German centers is now being described as obliteration bombing.

A Byproduct

"Although admittedly any bombing of populated areas is bound to cause terror, the air forces here take the position that terror is a byproduct of the bombing and not its intent or purpose, which they describe as obliteration of road and rail bottlenecks of traffic within the war-bound Reich.

"Cities, the bigger the better, are natural bottlenecks of communications arteries over which the refugee population is swarming and the Wehrmacht is moving in a desperate juggling of forces to meet the impact of the land assault from the west and east.

"The pattern of the terrific aerial pasting of these centers, both behind Germany's Eastern front and along the Rhine in the west, became apparent soon after the Red Army loosed its present offensive."

PROPOSED OIL PACT FAVORED

Anglo-U.S. Agreement Said To Be Liked By Industry

FEB 28 1945

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman Connally (D., Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported tonight a generally favorable reaction from the oil industry to a proposed new Anglo American petroleum agreement.

He said there is one principal difference between the present draft and the original agreement President Roosevelt recalled from the Senate after protests came from oil men. It eliminates the compulsory powers of a projected international commission.

Oil representatives attended a day-long session at which Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator, and his staff outlined the proposal behind guarded doors of the committee.

Producers Satisfied

Connally said that the producers "were, in the main, satisfied with the proposal worked out by the petroleum administration."

The chairman called another session for next week, he said, to allow further consideration and additional conferences of Ickes's office and the State and Justice departments.

"The new agreement is based upon voluntary procedure and the international petroleum commission it would set up would have no authority to require compliance with its regulations by the oil industry here or elsewhere," Connally explained.

"It would make studies and recommendations on the need for production and on distribution and other phases of the international oil pictures, but these regulations would require the action of the participating governments before being carried out."

If an agreement is reached here, the proposal will be taken up with the British for negotiation, and later submitted to the Senate for ratification as a treaty requiring a two-thirds vote for approval.

If the pact is adopted, it would be followed later by the negotiation of a multilateral agreement in which other nations, including Russia, would be invited to join, Connally said.

800 YANKS DIED ON PRISON SHIP

U.S. Flyers Sank It Off Luzon, Survivor Says

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—More than 800 Americans perished when United States bombers sank a jammed Japanese prison ship off Luzon in December, a survivor revealed today.

But he said the bombing actually saved American lives, asserting that without it even more of the 1,600 men jammed in the suffocating holds would have smothered. A "great number," he said, already were dead when the bombs fell.

The survivor, Lieut. George Karl Petritz, USN, 27, of Rockford, Ill., said at a navy sponsored press conference the 1,600 were packed in three tiny, unventilated holds. He said he was in the afterhold with 800 men, in space not big enough to accommodate more than 40 normally. Two smaller holds held 400 each.

Sank 100 Yards Offshore

The ship went down only about 100 yards offshore, but less than half of the prisoners got off the vessel, Petritz said, although Japanese civilians had been taken off hours before while the prisoners were held aboard under threat of rifles.

The bombing attack caused not more than 30 casualties in his hold, he said, all of whom died twelve hours after the Japanese could have evacuated them had they chosen to do so. Prisoners who died from suffocation even before the attack were left in the hold with no effort to remove them.

Air Attack Next Day

The ship left Manila, presumably headed for Japan, on the night of December 13, and the air attack began on the morning of the next day, continuing intermittently. The ship headed toward the beach and on the afternoon of December 15 sank in deep water. Japanese civilians were evacuated on December 14, but Formosa soldiers left aboard as guards met all attempts by the prisoners to leave the hold with rifle fire.

When the ship sank, less than 800 got free of the vessel, and of those, only he, and an army sergeant escaped recapture, Petritz said. They made contact with Filipino guerrillas, and after six weeks, on January 27, he was rescued by the 7th Fleet and taken aboard the flagship of Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid. Except for the sergeant and himself, the prisoners who survived the sinking were "herded" through the water by Japanese machine guns and recaptured.

Saw No Atrocities

Petritz entered the Navy in August, 1940, and reported to the Asiatic station in May, 1941, in command of a patrol craft operating out of Cavite. After the fall of Bataan he continued to operate inside Manila Bay, based on Corregidor. When that fortress island finally fell he was taken prisoner.

He was with the group of American prisoners who were marched down Dewey boulevard in what he said was an attempt to impress the Filipino natives and to embarrass and humiliate the American prisoners.

Petritz said he personally had not witnessed any Japanese atrocities and that life in Bilibid and other Luzon prison camps, while extremely rugged, was bearable.

Lieutenant Petritz has been awarded the Navy Cross for heroism in his services as skipper of the patrol craft before his capture.

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Army and navy casualties since Pearl Harbor have reached 801,162, the two services reported today.

Secretary of War Stimson listed army casualties at 710,487 on the basis of individual names compiled in Washington through February 14. The Navy reported its losses as 89,665.

The aggregate represented an increase of 18,982 over the previous week's report. Of that rise, the Army accounted for all but 827.

FEB 23 1945

Congressmen a chance to make their amends, Cox said, and if they do, the whole episode probably will be forgotten.

Earlier Cox and Rep. Smith (D-Va.) had said there would be a resolution of censure for Hook's remark. They said there was considerable Democratic sentiment to expel the Michigan man but that they would advise against it.

Cox predicted a resolution of censure aimed at Hook would be adopted overwhelmingly. If it is Hook will be brought before the House by the sergeant-at-arms and administered an official rebuke by the speaker.

The two Democrats said a similar resolution of censure might be advanced against Rankin, but they predicted it would be tabled.

Cox said "the only thing that saves Mr. Hook from expulsion is Mr. Rankin's prior remarks" which led up to the fight. Cox thought they were "pretty harsh."

Hook heard the talk of disciplinary resolutions without getting very disturbed.

"If they do, there might be another resolution too," remarked Hook, his thoughts still obviously aimed at Rankin.

"If John Rankin would resign his seat I'd be more than happy to go with him, for the good of the country."

There was a confusion of shouts and short angry words between the two before Rankin plunged down the aisle to grapple with Hook. But as he advanced. They clinched and heaved around for almost a minute before other members came between them.

It was the first time the House had seen a fight since four years ago when former Rep. Beverly M. Vincent of Kentucky and former Congressman Sweeny of Ohio traded punches.

Hook said after the encounter that he once was welterweight champion of Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

After today's furry the word liar, with its adjectives, were stricken from the record by Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) the Democratic whip who happened to be presiding at the time.

Both Hook and Rankin are quick, short-spoken debaters in House oratory, frequently on their feet to argue with colleagues.

Their clash today came as a complete surprise to the representative who actually had the floor, Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.). Hoffman was making an attack on the CIO-Political Action committee.

He yielded briefly to Hook who spoke in defense of Political Action committee associates—and the next thing Hoffman knew he was standing on the fringe of battle.

About 100 members were on the floor to see the fight—but several missed it. It happened too suddenly.

The clash upset the peaceful mid-afternoon atmosphere of the staid House of Representatives shortly after the members had sat attentively through a solemn reading of

Democrats Tangle in Fistfight on Floor of House

SHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP) of "Communist" and "liar" ed into a fist fight between Democratic congressmen on floor of the House of Represenives today.

The contestants: small, white-hatched John Rankin of Mississippi, who shouted "Communist," and strapping Frank E. Hook, New Dealer from Michigan, who retorted "liar."

(The official reporter got Hook's remark as "damned liar" but in the press gallery above the fight most reporters heard it as "dirty liar." In any event, the ugly word was stricken from the record.)

There wasn't one good, solid blow landed but Rankin managed to get in several short jabs at Hook's flushed face before other startled members separated them.

As soon as the fight was over talking about disciplinary action started. Although leaders hurried the House into adjournment to ward off a further flare-up, some Democrats spoke of introducing a resolution to expel Hook when the House meets tomorrow.

Tonight, however, the project apparently simmered down to the prospect of a public invitation to both Hook and Rankin to apologize to the House.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), one of the first to discuss the possibility of a resolution of censure for Hook, said later that when the House meets tomorrow he expects to take the floor before any sort of disciplinary action is proposed.

He will offer both of the battling the aisle to grapple with Hook. But these are the words that led up to the battle as the official reporters for the Congressional Record heard them:

"Mr. Hook: If the gentleman from Mississippi will quit his raving and ranting and get down and at least assist the good citizens of the CIO he would probably be doing a service to this country."

"Mr. Rankin: Whenever I get down to the gentleman's level as it is reflected down here by this FEPC and Communist party that he has been mixed up with—

"Mr. Hook: You are a damned liar when you say Communist party—"

That did it.

Rankin ripped out of his seat shouting "I won't take those words." He hurried down the aisle and tore at Hook, flailing his arms

George Washington's Farewell Address to Congress—a Washington's birthday tradition on Capitol Hill.

FREE EXCHANGE OF NEWS IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP) Senator McFarland (D-Ariz.) called today for the creation of a post-war communications system dedicated to the unhindered interchange of news throughout the world.

A key figure in the Senate Interstate Commerce committee inquiry into future international communications policy, McFarland expressed hope that legislation soon will emerge from its studies.

He praised Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, for his leadership in dramatizing "the importance of a free, uncensored, communications system in the world as a means of helping prevent wars."

He said Cooper has asserted "time and again that it is vital that our government insist that any final peace treaty between the powers guarantee that there shall be a free exchange of news between all lands."

FEB 23 1945

"His (Cooper's) idea is based on the premise that there never has been any free exchange of news in the world."

McFarland declared the real basis of the problem of a world-wide free press "lies fundamentally in low rates for the transmission of news stories all over the world" and in "equal rates for all press users of the same facilities."

The importance of the address was emphasized by the fact that Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the Interstate Commerce committee and of its communications subcommittee this week designated McFarland to take active charge of its preliminary studies.

"What we need," McFarland said, "is an international agreement which will bring the cost of transmitting press all over the world so low that newspapers in all countries will be able to meet the cost of using world wide news."

But, he said, "long before we can even begin to make high-sounding demands at a peace table for a world-wide free press, we must formulate plans for the creation of a communications policy and a communications enterprise which will adequately represent American interest. The plain fact is that we have no such policy and no such enterprise now and never have had it."

RIVERS MEASURE PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP) A $500,000,000 post-war rivers and harbors bill sailed through the House today in the wake of a fist fight that smothered any interest in controversial projects.

Already passed by the Senate, the measure goes now to President Roosevelt who is expected to approve it promptly. He signed a $1,000,000,000 post-war flood control bill last year.

House passage of the rivers bill came on an apathetic voice vote that followed a physical encounter between Reps. Hook (D-Mich.) and Rankin (D-Miss.).

The fight, exciting climax of an argument over a subject other than the legislation, caused Rankin to change his mind about offering a controversial amendment.

Previously, he had an amendment to add the $66,000,000 Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway and perhaps other projects that held up passage of similar legislation last year.

These projects probably will be put in a second bill to be considered by committees later in the year. Among them are the Tennessee-Tombigbee, the $38,500,000 Beaver-Mahoning waterway, and the $25,000,000 Santee-Congaree development.

Separate bills also have been proposed for the Missouri Valley Authority and the St. Lawrence seaway.

This was the first rivers and harbors measure passed for several years. It authorizes nearly 300 projects—navigation, irrigation and hydroelectric power. Among them are the $60,000,000 Alabama-Coosa waterway, the $15,000,000 Trinity river, Texas, program, the $25,000,000 Illinois waterway, and the $58,625,000 Snake River development.

AIR CREW RISKS HALVED

Chances of Completing European Tours Jump to 66 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chances of air combat crews completing their tours of duty in the European and Mediterranean theaters are now nearly double what they were in the winter of 1943.

The Army Air Forces credited the improvement to the establishment of air superiority over the Luftwaffe and an increasing supply of replacements from the United States.

Late in 1943, Air Forces said that the crewmen had only a 36 per cent chance of completing all their assigned missions. By last month this figure had jumped to 66 per cent.

The chances of an individual crew member to live out the war is even better—80 per cent. In the Pacific, a still higher percentage complete their tours of duty, the AAF said. However, the chance for survival is slimmer for those who fail to complete their tours because of the long overwater and jungle flights.

URGE FAVORABLE ACTION ON MONETARY PLANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — (AP) The Commerce department today called for favorable action on the Bretton Woods proposals for international monetary cooperation.

A statement issued by the Department's Bureau of Foreign and Domestic commerce said the agreement reached by delegates of 44 countries at Bretton Woods, N. H., is of "transcendent importance" to the American foreign trader.

Supporting the Treasury and State departments, the Bureau replied to critics of the proposals by saying:

"To argue that a better plan could be devised is to defeat by interminable debate a constructive proposal which itself provides for amendments in the light of actual experience with its operation."

No Mass Surrenders In West, Stimson Says

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said today "no mass surrenders" are occurring on the Western front although more than 900,000 Nazis have been taken prisoner in that theater.

Stimson told his news conference that "in view of rumors of mass surrenders" he had cabled Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The Allied supreme commander replied, the Secretary said, that prisoners are being taken but that there are "no indication of mass surrenders."

Resistance remains stiff along the entire front, Eisenhower told Stimson.

Political Conventions Do Not Need Permits

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The committee on war conventions has decided that "necessary" political assemblies do not require a permit under the Government ban on conventions.

Necessary political conventions, an agency spokesman said today, are those required by State or Federal laws as part of the Governmental machinery. In all cases, however, the committee wants attendance restricted to the minimum needed to transact business.

The exemption, it was explained, extends to conventions of officially recognized political parties to nominate candidates for public office.

Thus, a forthcoming Republican State convention in Virginia to nominate candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General for example, will not require a permit.

Controls Over Objector Camps To Be Tightened

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Selective service said today it plans to tighten controls over members of the conscientious objector camp at Germfask, Mich.

Controls will be tightened "as much as possible under existent laws," selective service said, and additional legislation may be asked to "strengthen the control of a small percentage of the conscientious objectors who have been difficult to discipline."

An investigation disclosed, a statement said, that of about 8,000 men in conscientious objector camps and the armed forces, fewer than 100 have been disciplinary problems.

CURB ON SPECULATION SOUGHT BY TREASURY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Treasury is seeking to determine whether speculation in stocks and real estate can be effectively curbed through taxation.

Secretary Morgenthau, disclosing this at a news conference today, said he approved the general purposes of a recent proposal by Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, for a wartime excess profits tax on gains from speculation.

Mr. Morgenthau said, however, he was not prepared to endorse any specific proposal at this time.

"Like Eccles, I'm also worried about unhealthy gains in values of capital assets," the Secretary [illegible] Such assets include farm [illegible] urban real estate, and securi[illegible] There are no price ceilings on th[illegible] and values have risen sharply du[illegible] ing the war.

"We are studying it, as to what can be done," Mr. Morgenthau said. "We haven't got beyond the study stage. If we can discourage speculating on farm land, for example, I think we would be doing a lot of people a real service."

Mr. Eccles' plan would impose extremely high tax rates on profits from quick turnover of stocks and real estate.

New Insignia For Mountain Men

WASHINGTON—(AP) The Army's crack mountain troops will wear a special insignia on the left sleeve.

Men of the 10th Mountain Division, at Camp Swift, Tex., will be among the first to receive the new tab with the word "Mountain" in white letters appearing on a blue background on a cloth arc to be worn just above the division shoulder patch. The tab is similar to those worn by men of airborne divisions above their divisional insignia.

SHIP NAMED FOR SEAMAN KILLED BY ENEMY ACTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP) Names assigned to the last ten hulls in the current Liberty Ship construction program were announced today by the U. S. Maritime commission.

Nine men and one woman, who lost their lives as a result of enemy action while they were in the service of the American merchant marine, complete a list of seamen so honored.

Among those honored was Allen G. Collins, third mate aboard the SS John Baxom, killed when his ship was sunk by enemy aircraft December 2, 1943. Born in Rocky Hill, Conn. His widow, Mrs. Marjorie Collins, of Nashua, N. H., survives.

11 War Correspondents Posthumously Honored

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Eleven American war correspondents killed in action while serving with the Army on battlefronts of the world have been awarded the Purple Heart, Editor and Publisher said today.

The newspaper trade publication said it had been informed by the War Department that the awards had been made to:

Asahel Bush, Associated Press; Frederick Faust, Harper Monthly; Jack Frankish, United Press; Stanley Gunn, Fort Worth Star Telegram and Houston Chronicle; Bede Irvin, Associated Press.

Gripsholm Repatriates Report Bad Food in Nazi Prison Camps

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Merchant seamen repatriated on the Swedish liner Gripsholm brought back to America today a picture of critical food conditions in their Nazi prison camp—conditions they said were aggravated by Allied bombing of German transportation facilities.

"Transportation in Germany is all shot to hell," said Capt. Henry Stephenson of New Rochelle, N. Y., whose ship was torpedoed in the Atlantic in 1942 and who spent more than two years in a camp 16 miles from Bremen.

Capt. Stephenson said there had been only one issue of Red Cross food parcels in the camp when he left last January 15 and because of the disrupted transportation there was little chance of more getting through.

Allied bombings have been so effective, some seamen said, it took their train four to five days to reach the Swiss border by a roundabout route. Normally, they said, the trip required only eight hours.

The 46 merchant mariners, all captured when their ships were sunk by the Germans, were among the first to disembark when the Gripsholm arrived at Jersey City yesterday from Marseille with 1,209 passengers.

Also aboard were 463 American soldiers and 78 Canadian military personnel, all ill or wounded. The Americans were taken to Halloran General Hospital, where they were to be interviewed today, and the Canadians to Canada. Only a few of the 548 United States civilians and 74 Latin American nations aboard were permitted to leave the ship last night.

Awards ranging from the Purple Heart to the Silver Star were presented to 140 of the American soldiers by Brig. Gen. Ralph G. De Voe at Halloran Hospital, where the men were taken for physical examinations preparatory to receiving furloughs.

The repatriates found it difficult to express their joy at being back on American soil, which some never expected to see again.

"I can't believe I'm home," said Stanley Maloposki, 21, formerly of Perth Amboy, N. J., who spent 17 months in a prison camp. "Things in Germany are bad. The food is rotten and the only good food we got was from the Red Cross once or twice a week. Germany seems to be as short of clothing as it is of food. Everything is black market there."

Walter E. Feldheim of Baltimore, a seaman on the freighter Carlton, torpedoed in the Barents Sea in 1942, clasped a letter from his wife. "It's worth a million," he said. "I never thought I'd see good old America again."

John J. Seato, another seaman from Baltimore, told of being 19 days on a lifeboat after the sinking of the Carlton. They landed on the northern tip of Norway and were taken in custody by the Germans.

They were placed aboard a Nazi transport for Denmark, but that ship struck a mine and sank, Seato said. Rescued by another ship, they were taken to Denmark and then to Germany.

George Allen Riggins, 30, of Norfolk, Va., an oiler in the engine room of the Carlton, said he was picked up from a lifeboat by a German torpedo plane eight hours after his ship was sunk.

He was taken to a German prison camp for Russians, in the northern part of Norway. Shortly thereafter, he said, he was transported to the German camp Milag, where he remained from September, 1942, until the exchange of prisoners.

James Akins, 34, of New Britain, Conn., another survivor of the Carlton, saw his 2½-year-old daughter, Eline, for the first time when he stepped ashore.

Despite harrowing experiences, some declared their intention of going back.

William E. Weaver, 37, of East Tallassee, Ala., who spent 41 days in a lifeboat and two years in a prison camp, asked: "How can we win a war if guys like us stay on the shelf?"

An officer of the Gripsholm said the civilians were "the most miserable bunch of people who ever boarded this ship."

"They shuffled aboard carrying their babies in flimsy baskets," said the officer, referring to the scene at Marseille. "Their ragged clothing barely covered their skinny bodies. We had to delouse all of them before the Red Cross could reclothe them.

"They all suffered from malnutrition. No one gained less than 10 pounds during the trip. And they couldn't get used to people saying 'please' and 'thank you' to them, or being eager to do little things to help them out. They didn't know what to expect."

Miss Martha V. Ellesor of Washington, a Red Cross military service worker who made the round-trip crossing, said many of the servicemen ate their first white bread in months when they boarded the Gripsholm.

Among the civilians who remained aboard the ship was 31-year-old Princess de la Torres Tasso, the former Fanny Goodyear of Buffalo, N. Y., an heiress to the Goodyear rubber fortune. She and her husband, an Italian prince, traveled with their 5-year-old son Alexandro.

Among the few civilian passengers permitted to leave the ship were Alfred J. Benwell, who was Salvation Army commissioner in Holland at the time of the Nazi invasion, and his wife Emma. He is English but she is an American citizen.

During Christmas week last year in Amsterdam, they said, they were given just 600 grams of bread, a kilogram of potatoes and an ounce of cheese. The Nazis had held them as house prisoners.

Today the merchant seamen will be the guests of the United Seamen's Service. Each of them will be decorated in behalf of the War Shipping Administration and will be taken to see a Broadway show.

Count Grandi's 'Apologia' For Fascism

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Count Dino Grandi, in a copyrighted article in this week's Life magazine, places the entire blame for Italian fascism and its ill-fated alliance with Germany squarely on Benito Mussolini, claiming for himself a constant effort to preserve peace.

Yet despite his unyielding determination on the alliance, Grandi says, Mussolini hated Hitler from the first as a rival for world power.

Grandi is the first of Mussolini's highest-ranking associates to set down his own case—an apparent effort to vindicate himself.

Life's editors urged that the "apologia" be read with the realization that it is "primarily a Fascist's attempt to soften the hard judgment of history—and, perhaps, of an Allied commission on war criminals."

One Of Fascism's Big Four

Grandi, one of fascism's original "big four," was Mussolini's Foreign Minister from 1929 to 1932; Ambassador to London from 1932 to 1939, and finally Minister of Justice, to which post Mussolini relegated him after recalling him from the Court of St. James's for failure to promote Axis policy.

He traces fascism from its inception to its death sentence, with all its intrigue, Mussolini's immense ego, his hatred of Hitler, and finally his downfall at a memorable meeting of the Grand Council.

Grandi himself played a game of appeasement, and was "a favorite of Britain's Cliveden set," Life notes parenthetically.

Duce-Fuhrer Rivalry

Of Mussolini's hatred for Hitler, Grandi says that early in the game "a cutthroat contest set in between the two dictators. Hitler was the cleverer man. He tickled Mussolini's vanity by encouraging him to believe that he was in truth the founder-leader of a universal doctrine that would conquer the world.

"Mussolini was dazzled by that vision. He used to say, 'We are going to have a religious war in Europe and I am the creator of the conquering religion of fascism.'

"Mussolini's desire to belittle his rival became a mania. He would say, 'The fellow has no intelligence, no dynamism, no political flair. The Germans understand me much better than they understand Hitler.' Yet Mussolini sent hundreds of spies to Germany to report on the German people."

First Open Clash Of Dictators

Grandi tells of the first open clash between the two dictators at Venice in 1934. Hitler was treated with condescension. To challenge Mussolini, he ordered the assassination of the Austrian Chancellor Dollfuss, whose wife and family at the moment were the guests of Mussolini.

Mussolini considered it a personal attack, "mobilized on the Brenner and waited for the support of Britain and France. It did not come."

"From that moment of bitter disillusionment with the democracies, the League of Nations and Hitler, poison was distilled," Grandi records.

Grandi's London Experience

It was then that Grandi was sent to London, where, he says, he learned to know "the value of real friendship . . . but to be Ambassador in London while Mussolini controlled policy from Rome was no easy task."

He crossed swords with Ribbentrop, ignored Axis policy and sought to reconcile Britain and Italy. After the military alliance between Hitler and Mussolini he was ordered to make a speech justifying Mussolini's policy. He refused twice; finally put his feelings aside and spoke to a small group, hoping it would not be reported. But Rome published it around the world.

"Next day I called on Lord Halifax, the Foreign Secretary," Grandi goes on. "He said, 'Dear Grandi, don't take it to heart. Everyone understands. All that matters is that you [illegible] stay to work with us for peace.'"

The alliance had a secret clause by which Hitler pledged himself to do nothing to endanger European peace for three years, Grandi says. The late Count Ciano called this to Ribbentrop's attention when the latter conveyed Hitler's message just before the invasion of Poland, reminding Italy of its duty as a military ally.

Went As Pro, Returned Anti

Ciano had gone to Salzburg to see Ribbentrop as a pro-German; he came back anti-German, Grandi says.

"For the first time Ciano turned to me for help and we acted together," Grandi goes on. "My idea was to take advantage of Germany's violation of agreement and to denounce the alliance. Meanwhile, we did everything we could to keep Italy out of war."

Grandi says he and Ciano double-crossed Mussolini by demanding military supplies from Germany which Germany could not possibly furnish, and thus prolonged Italy's non-belligerency until Mussolini finally declared war himself.

Drew Up Resolution

When Grandi joined his old regiment, he recalls, there was "unbelievable lack of military preparation," and "officers and men talked freely of how they hated Mussolini." Later he says he contacted friends and drew up, in the trenches in Greece, a resolution which ultimately played a role in Mussolini's downfall.

The resolution called for the revival of Parliament and constitutional liberties, and demanded that Mussolini hand back to the King both command of the armed forces and "the supreme initiative of decision as head of the state." The resolution lay dormant, apparently, until July 22, 1943, when Grandi talked to Mussolini, "tried to persuade him that his duty as a patriot was to quit, to give up the dictatorship voluntarily and to let the nation express its will."

Made Will Before Council Met

Grandi warned Mussolini he would repeat all he had said in the resolution before the Grand Council. Before going to the council meeting Grandi made his will, wrote to his wife and children and arranged for the King to be informed of the resolution.

Grandi's story agrees with previously published reports of the final council meeting.

Mussolini told the council he had called the meeting to speak of "events in Sicily and to make military decisions."

"He was cold, arrogant, sure of himself, obviously confident of his power to master the assembly as he had always mastered it," says Grandi.

Grandi Offered Resolution

Grandi read the text of the resolution and told the council, he says, that "the Italian people were betrayed by Mussolini on the day when he first began to Germanize Italy." The Duce, he relates, broke in several times, crying, "That's not true. It's not true!"

Grandi's supporters faltered at first. There was bitter debates. Finally they forced the resolution to a vote. At 3 A.M., the result was "nineteen—for. Seven—against. One—Suardo—abstaining."

Mussolini arose, stared at each man.

"Scorza's (the Fascist party secretary) mouth opened to give the habitual 'salute the Duce.' But the words did not come.

". . . sentence had been passed on Fascist dictatorship."

Danger of Radical Curbs On Press Ended, Editor Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—American newspapers now are out of danger of radical wartime restrictions of Government control, Edwin L. James, managing editor of the New York Times, said yesterday before a group of teachers attending a course on "The Newspaper—Its Making and Its Meaning" sponsored by the Times.

"It is my belief that there is a danger which has been safely passed for a period as long as we can see," he said. Mr. James added that censorship in this war was more intelligent than in the World War, and he praised the work of Byron Price as director of the Office of Censorship.

"I hope there will be no censorship of the peace conference this time," the speaker added. "A great deal of harm was done by the censorship which surrounded the Versailles conference."

Mr. James said that a free press was not so much a guarantee to publishers that they may print what they please as it is a guarantee to the people that they may read what they wish.

Former Pastor Convicted Of Plot to Aid Spies

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 22.—Carl Emil Ludwig Krepper, former Lutheran minister, was convicted by a Federal Court jury last night after two hours' deliberation on charges of conspiracy to obstruct, interfere [illegible] and injure the defense of the [illegible] States.

[illegible]ing the five-day trial the [illegible]rnment alleged that Krepper [illegible] an agreement with Lt. Walter Kappe of the German Navy intelligence to act as contact man for eight Nazi saboteurs who landed in this country from submarines. FBI agents testified that Krepper told an American undercover agent posing as a Nazi saboteur that he maintained three hideaways for German agents but that none had contacted him.

Testifying on his own behalf, Krepper admitted making an agreement with Kappe to help propagandize the German cause in this country but said he had regarded the agreement as at end when the United States declared war on Germany.

He faces a maximum sentence of two years and a $10,000 fine.

New Bedford Plants Obtain Few Workers From 'Labor Draft'

By the Associated Press.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 22.—The War Manpower Commission's program for channeling workers into war essential jobs was described as "temporarily unsuccessful" today.

Paul N. Devine, New Bedford WMC area director, said the first test of the so-called "labor draft" plan produced "only meager results" after the WMC reduced textile mill ceilings by 118 persons to aid needed personnel in tire cord factories.

He said only 12 textile workers accepted such jobs last night after interviews and that 48 of the 118 ordered to appear did not report.

Mr. Devine added that the 48 will be sent registered letters ordering them to appear for interviews and that if they do not then report within three days their employers will be ordered "to fire them."

The WMC area director said a house-to-house canvass of 1,000 of 3,500 textile workers to date has produced seven textile workers willing to accept referrals to the tire industry.

Earlier the Massachusetts Federation of Labor sent an open letter to the State's congressional delegation asking an investigation and describing the WMC action as "unconstitutional and unnecessary."

The Socialist party of America issued a similar statement as the Mayor, mill officials and leading New Bedford citizens joined in protest against the WMC order.

Meanwhile, a Federal court test of the edict was to be made March 5 when the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO) will seek an order restraining the WMC from carrying out its program.

Evans Says He Was Only Bidder At Auction

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 22 (AP)—Commenting on Senator Kellar's assertion today that he would ask a Senate investigation of the purchase of the Nashville Tennessean seven years ago, Publisher Stillman Evans said he was the only bidder at a court auction of the publication.

"The Nashville Tennessean was in Federal receivership in the court of the late United States District Judge John J. Gore," Evans said.

"The court advertised it for public sale at public auction in January, 1937, the auction to be held on the steps of the Davidson county courthouse in Nashville, Tenn. I was the only bidder. The sale of the property to me was later confirmed in due course of law by Judge Gore."

Welles Assails Argentine Snub At Mexico Talks

Terms Exclusion a Sign of Disintegration in Inter-American System

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP).—Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State and a pioneer of good-neighbor diplomacy, took sharp issue tonight with the exclusion of Argentina and El Salvador from the American Foreign Ministers' Conference at Mexico City.

In an address prepared for the fifteenth anniversary dinner of the Pan-American League, Mr. Welles said that he saw evidences "of disintegration in the structure of that inter-American system which had been so steadily built up during the years before the second world war—years in which every other form of decent and righteous international order was crumbling into ruins."

"Two of the sovereign American republics, Argentina and El Salvador, were not invited to this meeting," Mr. Welles said. "And yet this meeting has been called primarily to consider the project for international organization formulated at Dumbarton Oaks, as recently implemented by the further agreements reached between the chiefs of state of the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain, and, nominally, to consider as well the way in which the inter-American system, as it had been established, can fit within the framework of the new international organization.

"How can the inter-American system reach decisions upon such vital questions as these, which involve the future of every American people, unless all of the American peoples participate in these decisions?"

Mr. Welles said further that "the great rock upon which real Pan-American solidarity rests is the assurance that no American nation will undertake to interfere in the internal or external affairs of its neighbors.

"The refusal to grant recognition to a government which comes into power in an American republic constitutes unquestionably an interference in the domestic affairs of that country."

Strike Halts Production At Huge Steel Plant

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22.—A walkout halted all production today at the huge Pittsburgh works of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., despite a back-to-work order by CIO President Philip Murray.

About 8,500 steel workers union members were idle, some because of an overtime grievance.

A company spokesman said it was "impossible to estimate how many are actually on 'strike' and how many others were forced to quit due to lack of materials or other reasons."

The stoppage began when 700 maintenance men and boiler firemen walked out Tuesday. Coke oven operators and firemen then stopped work and a resultant shortage of gas and steam caused all of the mill to cease activity, the company said.

Complacency Scored As Stupid, Dangerous

Cleveland, Feb. 22 (AP)—Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, today described as "stupid, dangerous and immoral," any complacency about the war "either in Europe or in the Pacific."

Appearing at a luncheon sponsored by the Cleveland Advertising Club to honor medical WACs, army and navy nurses and the Red Cross, Patterson described the German breakthrough attempt last December, and said the battle of the Ardennes, where the breakthrough was stemmed was "the costliest engagement in American history."

Lindbergh Still Tops With Fliers

ST. LOUIS — (AP) Increased visits by servicemen to the city's exhibit of Lindbergh trophies is attributed by Miss Esther Mueller, staff assistant in charge, to Col. Charles Lindberg's appearance in the South Pacific.

A visiting British army air officer told Miss Mueller:

"Col. Lindbergh is still the top man in aviation to fliers in both Great Britain and the United States. Aviation has never produced a man who can handle a plane better or who has better mechanical skill."

A Navy mechanic from the South Pacific told of the thrill Lindbergh's surprise visit brought to his group:

FEB 231945

"We were working on planes at the Navy base when a new civilian in mechanics' overalls took over the instruction. We called him 'Slim' along with everyone else. Later an officer asked us where Col. Lindbergh was and were we surprised when the civilian called 'Slim' crawled out from under an airplane and we learned it was Lindbergh who had been instructing us all day. We hadn't heard he was anywhere near our base."

Servicemen with autographs from Lindbergh want to compare them with those in the trophy display. Many are disappointed when told the "Spirit of St. Louis" airplane is in the Smithsonian Institution museum in Washington.

Newsman Wounded On Iwo

Chicago, Feb. 22 (AP)—Keith Wheeler, 33, war correspondent for the Chicago Time, was wounded on Iwo Jima "but will recover completely," the newspaper said today. A navy message said he was wounded "on job but not critically."

Typhoon Survivors Home

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP). Four seamen who escaped by life raft and were rescued ninety-six hours after their ship, the U. S. S. Monaghan, and two other destroyers, capsized and sank during a typhoon Dec. 18 in the China Sea, have arrived here. Fireman First Class William Frederick Kramer, of Long Island City, Queens, N. Y., is one of the men.

THAT JAMES F.BYRNES TRY BRITAIN'S METHOD OF CURBING NIGHTLIFE BY MAKING IT NON-EXISTENT.

"WE SHOULD BE MOST GRATEFUL," SAID THE EDITORIAL, "THAT NO SUCH OFFICIAL RESTRAINTS THREATEN OUR BRITISH LIBERTIES AND THAT WE ARE NOT COMPELLED TO FLEE LIKE CINDERELLAS WHEN BIG BEN BOOMS THE STROKE OF 12. LONDON, FEB. 22-(AP)-THE WORLD-WIDE CAMPAIGN OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF NEWSPAPER EDITORS FOR UNCONTROLLED AND UNRESTRICTED FLOW OF NEWS "FROM AND TO ALL COUNTRIES" RECEIVED ENTHUSIASTIC ENDORSEMENT TODAY FROM THREE LEADING SPOKESMEN OF THE BRITISH PRESS.

LORD ROTHERMERE, PROPRIETOR OF THE LONDON DAILY MAIL AND CHAIRMAN OF THE NEWSPAPER PROPRIETORS' ASSOCIATION, DECLARED THAT BRITISH AND AMERICAN NEWS ORGANIZATIONS MUST TAKE THE LEAD IN BREAKING DOWN ALL INTERNATIONAL BARRIERS ON NEWS AFTER THE WAR AND PLEDGED HIS ASSOCIATION TO TAKE PART IN ANY DELIBERATIONS TO THAT END.

PRESIDENT OF THE NEWSPAPER SOCIETY, AND COL.J.J.ASTOR, PROPRIETOR OF THE INFLUENTIAL LONDON TIMES AND PRESIDENT OF THE EMPIRE PRESS UNION, WAS ISSUED IN RESPONSE TO AN INVITATION LEFT HERE BY THREE ASNE REPRESENTATIVES WHO ARE ENGAGED IN A WORLD TOUR IN BEHALF OF PRESS FREEDOM.

LONDON, FEB. 22-(AP)-WALLACE B.PHILLIPS, PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN LONDON, SERVED PUBLIC NOTICE HERE TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES "INTENDS TO BECOME THE MOST FORMIDABLE COMPETITOR IN WORLD TRADE."

FEB 231945

AT A CHAMBER LUNCHEON PHILLIPS, WHO HAS JUST RETURNED AFTER A FIVE-MONTH VISIT TO THE UNITED STATES, TOLD AMERICANS AND THEIR BRITISH GUESTS THAT U.S. BUSINESS MEN WERE READY TO INVEST HERE, BUT WANTED TO RETURN TO THE GOLD STANDARD, TOGETHER WITH THE ASSURANCE THAT NEW MONEY WOULD NOT BE FROZEN HERE INDEFINITELY.

THEY ALSO WANT BRITAIN'S IMPERIAL PREFERENCE TO GIVE WAY UNDER THE AMERICAN RECIPROCAL TRADE AGREEMENTS, PHILLIPS SAID.

DESPITE THE DESIRE OF AMERICAN BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS FOR LOWER AMERICAN TARIFFS, PHILLIPS SAID, THERE IS A POSSIBILITY THAT SOME TARIFF ITEMS MAY BE INCREASED IF BRITAIN PERSISTS IN IMPERIAL PREFERENCE AND IN CONTINUING RESTRICTIONS ON IMPORTS OF AMERICAN GOODS.

"UNFORTUNATELY," HE ADDED, "THERE APPEARS TO BE VERY LITTLE AMERICAN APPRECIATION OF THE STERN FINANCIAL REASONS FOR MAINTAINING IMPORT CONTROLS."

PHILLIPS REMINDED HIS AUDIENCE THAT BEFORE THE WAR AMERICAN EXPORTS WERE APPROXIMATELY $4,000,000,000, COMPARED TO BRITAIN'S $2,000,000,000. THE AMERICAN PROGRAM CALLS FOR AN INCREASE TO BETWEEN $7,000,000,000 AND $10,000,000,000, HE SAID.

"WHEN WE COMPARE THESE TRULY PRODIGIOUS FIGURES WITH THE VERY MODEST SUGGESTED INCREASE IN BRITAIN'S EXPORTS BY 50 PER CENT IT CAN READILY BE SEEN THAT AMERICA INTENDS TO BECOME THE MOST FORMIDABLE COMPETITOR IN WORLD TRADE," PHILLIPS DECLARED.

FEB 231945

MENTIONING THE BRITISH PUBLICATION, "THE ECONOMIST," WHICH LAST DECEMBER "TOOK A GOOD STRONG CRACK AT AMERICA," PHILLIPS SAID THAT "DESPITE ENORMOUS NUMBER OF AMERICANS WHO RECENTLY CAME TO AND STILL ARE IN ENGLAND, AND THE INFINITELY SMALL NUMBER OF BRITONS IN AMERICA, OUR TWO COUNTRIES' PROCESSES OF REASONING ARE AS FAR APART AS THE POLES.

"IF OUR TWO COUNTRIES ARE EVER GOING TO ACHIEVE A CLOSER UNDERSTANDING," HE ADDED, "INDIVIDUALS ON BOTH SIDES MUST QUIT CALLING THE OTHER FELLOW'S KETTLE BLACK.

"THE BRITISH WILL ALWAYS SUFFER MOST FROM THIS FORM OF ARGUMENT, AS THERE ARE AT LEAST 100 EDITORIAL WRITERS IN AMERICA TO EVERY ONE HERE."

OFFICIAL RELATIONS BETWEEN THE TWO GOVERNMENTS, HE SAID, HAVE NEVER BEEN BETTER THAN NOW.

IS ABSENCE OF OPPOSITION FROM THE ENEMY AND THE BRILLIANT SU. [illegible]INY WEATHER OVER MOST OF THE OBJECTIVES PERMITTED CAREFUL BOMBING AND EXCELLENT RESULTS. A FEW OF THE BOMBERS RAN INTO CLOUDS AND HAD TO AIM BY INSTRUMENTS.

THE ESCORTING FIGHTERS FANNED OUT LATER TO STRAFE MOVING TRANSPORTATION TARGETS AND MACHINE-GUNNED AT LEAST 100 LOCOMOTIVES, 300 RAILCARS AND 30 MOTOR VEHICLES.

THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTERS, TAKING ON WHAT OPPOSITION DEVELOPED, SHOT DOWN SIX ENEMY PLANES--FOUR JET-PROPELLED.

TACTICAL AIR FORCE FIGHTERS SPED BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE BATTLE LINES, MAKING REPEATED FLIGHTS, AND RUNNING INTO MORE ACTION THAN PLANES OF THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE. A LATE COUNT LAST NIGHT SHOWED 21 ENEMY PLANES DESTROYED IN THE AIR AND WO ALLIED PLANES MISSING.

THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE ARMADA WAS ASSIGNED TO A 38,000-SQUARE-MILE ZONE ROUGHLY THE SIZE AND SHAPE OF THE STATE OF INDIANA, BORDERED ON THE WEST BY HAMBURG, HANNOVER AND KASSEL AND ON THE EAST BY BERLIN AND LEIPZIG.

WITHIN THIS CORRIDOR ACROSS CENTRAL GERMANY THE BOMBER PACKS FLUNG MORE THAN 14,000 500-POUND HIGH-EXPLOSIVE BOMBS ON AT LEAST 14 RAIL JUNCTIONS LOCATED ON TWO OR MORE MAIN RAIL ROUTES ENGAGED IN SHUTTLING SUPPLIES TO GERMAN FORCES BOTH ON THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS.

TIMED ALMOST SIMULTANEOUSLY WITH THESE RAIDS WERE OTHER ATTACKS WHICH THE GERMAN RADIO INDICATED WERE MADE BY A FORCE OF BRITISH HEAVY AND LIGHT BOMBERS. THE ENEMY RADIO ALSO FLASHED AN ALARM THAT BOMBER FORMATIONS WERE HEADING OVER AUSTRIA--PROBABLY AMERICAN HEAVIES FROM ITALY TAKING THEIR ASSIGNED PART IN THE BIG SHOW.

PILOTS OF THE CONTINENT-BASED U.S. NINTH AIR FORCE REPORTED THE BEST FLYING WEATHER SINCE LAST SUMMER, AND THREE TACTICAL AIR COMMANDS MADE UP OF FIGHTERS AND LIGHT AND MEDIUM BOMBERS HURLED THEIR MAXIMUM STRENGTH AT NAZI COMMUNICATIONS IN CONTINUING WAVES.

THE SECOND BRITISH TACTICAL AIR FORCE ALSO LEFT ITS BELGIAN BASES IN GREAT STRENGTH TO JOIN THE TIDAL WAVE OF ALLIED AIR POWER BURSTING UPON GERMANY. THE TOTAL NUMBER OF PLANES IN THE AIR PROBABLY WAS MORE THAN THE TENTATIVE 7,000 FIGURE. VISIBILITY WAS 50 MILES IN THE WESTERN RHINELAND AND ONLY SCATTERED CLOUDS AND A LIGHT HAZE WERE ENCOUNTERED EAST OF THE RHINE.

"TODAY'S MASS ASSAULT WAS POINTED AT TEMPORARILY PARALYZING ALL GERMAN RAIL COMMUNICATIONS," SAID AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE STAFF OFFICER. "NEARLY ALL GERMAN INDUSTRY HINGES ON TRANSPORTATION--ON THE MOVEMENT OF NUMEROUS RAW MATERIALS TO FACTORIES, OF COMPONENTS TO ASSEMBLY CENTERS AND OF FINISHED PRODUCTS TO THEIR DESTINATIONS.

A196

"BECAUSE GERMANY'S OIL PRODUCTION HAS DROPPED TO A NEW AND CRITICAL LOW AS THE RESULT OF ALLIED STRATEGIC BOMBING, NEARLY THE ENTIRE BURDEN OF THIS VITAL INDUSTRIAL TRANSPORTATION HAS FALLEN ON THE NAZI RAIL SYSTEM.

"TODAY'S ATTACK REPRESENTS AN INTENSIFICATION OF THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST GERMANY'S RAIL LINES. THE BLOW WILL PAY DIVIDENDS AT BOTH THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS BY CRIPPLING THE INDUSTRY BEHIND THE ENEMY'S WAR MACHINE AND BY SNARLING SUPPLY ROUTES TO BATTLE AREAS."

EMPHASIS, HE SAID, WAS PLACED ON HITTING SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED FREIGHT YARDS, SINCE THEIR IMPORTANCE HAS INCREASED WITH THE FREQUENT BATTERING OF GERMANY'S LARGER RAIL CENTERS.

OPERATING IN SMALL PACKS AND CLOSELY PROTECTED BY MUSTANG AND THUNDERBOLT FIGHTERS, THE HEAVIES MADE BOLD LOW SWEEPS IN DEPOSITING THEIR BOMBS ON THESE TOWNS. AMONG OTHERS: LUNEBURG, STENDAL, HALBERSTADT, UDWIGSLUST, UELZEN, SALZWEDEL, WITTENBERGE, HILDESHEIM, KNEIENSEN, PIENE, NORTHEIM, VIENENBURG, SANGERHAUSEN AND GOTTINGEN.

THEIR CLOSEST APPROACH TO BERLIN WAS AT STENDAL, ABOUT 50 MILES WEST OF THE CAPITAL. THE 500-POUND BOMBS EMPLOYED BLAST CRATERS ABOUT 35 FEET IN DIAMETER AND A SINGLE DIRECT HIT WILL RIP UP RAILS FOR 40 FEET.

A FIELD DISPATCH FROM ROGER D.GREENE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, WHO IS WITH BRITISH FORCES FIGHTING IN THE KLEVE SECTOR, SAID ALLIED GROUND TROOPS WERE HEARTENED BY THE STEADY ROAR OF THE VAST SKY FLEET.

FEB 231945

"EVEN NIGHT-FLYING MOSQUITOS JOINED IN THE FAR-FLUNG DAYLIGHT ASSAULT, AND HEAVY BOMBERS WHICH NORMALLY FLY AT FIVE MILES UP IN THE SKY SWOOPED DOWN IN LOW LEVEL ATTACKS AT 1,500 FEET," HE SAID.

THE DAYLIGHT ASSAULT FOLLOWED RAIDS BY 1,100 RAF BOMBERS DURING THE NIGHT, CENTERED ON THE RUHR RAIL WEB IN THE DUISBURG AREA, WESTERN EXIT OF THE VAST INDUSTRIAL BELT, AND ON THE CITY OF WORMS. TWO SEPARATE BLOWS WERE LEVELLED AT BERLIN AT HALF-HOUR INTERVALS, AND BREMEN ALSO WAS BOMBARDED.

THE FIERCEST NIGHT AIR BATTLES FOUGHT OVER GERMAN SOIL THIS YEAR ENSUED AS GERMAN FIGHTERS TRIED TO DEFEND THE DUISBURG AND WORMS AREAS. BRITISH NIGHT FIGHTERS ESCORTING THE BOMBERS ENGAGED IN NUMEROUS DOGFIGHTS IN BRIGHT MOONLIGHT, AND THE GLOW OF FIRES FROM BELOW LIGHTED THE SKY FOR MILES.

"THE WHOLE TOWN OF WORMS EEEMED ON FIRE," SAID ONE PILOT.

THE AIR MINISTRY REPORTED THE LOSS OF 39 BRITISH BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS AGAINST 13 NAAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN.

FEB 231945

PARIS, FEB.22-(AP)-HATS SEEM TO BE REGAINING THEIR IMPORTANCE IN THE PARIS WORLD OF FASHION AS THE FINISHING TOUCH TO THE WELL-DRESSED WOMAN'S COSTUME.

DURING THE PAST FOUR YEARS PARIS HAT FASHIONS HAVE RANGED FROM TINY, RIDICULOUS PANCAKES TO VOLUMINOUS HEADGEAR--CONCEIVED PARTLY AS A GESTURE OF DEFIANCE AGAINST GERMAN RESTRICTIONS ON THE USE OF MATERIALS.

NOW, HOWEVER, BOTH MINIATURE AND OVERSIZE HATS APPEAR HOPELESSLY OUTDATED. FASHION DESIGNERS OFFER A RICH CHOICE OF MEDIUM-SIZED HATS SUITABLE TO ALL TYPES AND ALL TASTES.

TWO LINES OF SPRING HATS--ONE FOR "GROWNUPS" AND THE OTHER FOR YOUNG WOMEN--WERE LAUNCHED BY LEGROUX SOEURS IN ONE OF THE SEASON'S FIRST STYLE SHOWS.

"IT'S ABOUT TIME GROWNUP WOMEN STOP ADOPTING GIRLISH STYLES," SAID GERMAINE LEGROUX, ONE OF THE TWO FAMOUS SISTERS. "LONG FLUFFY HAIRDOS ARE FOR FLAPPERS AND UPBRUSHED COIFFURES FOR THE OLDER GENERATION--SO OUR MODELS ARE IN TWO ENTIRELY DIFFERENT GROUPS."

MOST OF THE GIRLISH HATS WERE DESIGNED TO BE WORN WELL BACK ON THE HEAD AND WERE TRIMMED WITH BOWS OR FLOWERS BEHIND THE CROWN.

MANY HAD RIBBONS HANGING DOWN OVER THE NECK. LEGROUX SHOWED MANY MEDIUM-SIZED SAILOR HATS WITH SLIGHTLY UPTURNED BRIMS.

FOR OLDER WOMEN LEGROUX PRESENTED TOQUES AND CANOTIERS ALL TILTED UP FRONT, SOME WITH BROAD BRIMS IN STRAW OR FELT. FEW FLOWERS WERE USED IN TRIMMING, BUT SOME MODELS WERE COVERED WITH PINK ROSES AND HAD BROWN TULLE VEILS.

"WE FEEL CONFIDENT THAT WHEN HISTORY IS WRITTEN, THE CONTRIBUTION OF AMERICAN RAILROADS IN THE FORM OF RAILROAD MEN IN THE TRANSPORTATION CORPS AND MILITARY RAILWAY SERVICE WILL BE ONE TO WHICH YOU CAN ALWAYS POINT WITH PRIDE," HE SAID.

THE SUCCESS OF THE HUGE TRANSPORTATION TASK "WAS MADE POSSIBLE ONLY BECAUSE THE AMERICAN RAILWAY CORPORATIONS INDIVIDUALLY AND COLLECTIVELY HAVE SACRIFICED TRAINED MANPOWER FROM THEIR OWN ORGANIZATIONS TO ACHIEVE THIS PURPOSE."

THE RELEASE OF THIS LETTER FOLLOWED A DAY AFTER COL.E.H.QUALLS OF NASHVILLE, TENN., EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF THE SECOND MILITARY SERVICE COMMAND, TESTIFIED THAT AMERICAN RAILWAY COMPANIES WERE PARTLY TO BLAME FOR THE POOR QUALITY OF SOME OF THE RAILWAY BATTALION OFFICERS OVERSEAS BECAUSE THE RAILROAD COMPANIES SHOULD HAVE GIVEN THE ARMY MORE MEN OF EXECUTIVE EXPERIENCE.

MOSCOW, FEB 22-(AP)-CAPT.EUGENE N.WITT, 29, OF 2037 IDLEWILD AVE., RICHLAND, MICH., TOLD A GRAPHIC STORY TODAY OF SPENDING 36 HOURS IN THE BOMBED RAILYARDS OF BERLIN EN ROUTE TO A PRISON CAMP IN POLAND WHERE HE EVENTUALLY WAS FREED.

FEB 231945

THE TALL INFANTRY OFFICER SAID HE WAS FORCED TO STOP OVER IN HITLER'S CAPITAL LAST NOVEMBER BECAUSE THE GERMAN RAILWAY SYSTEM SEEMED BADLY DISORGANIZED.

"WE WERE THERE A DAY AND A HALF JUST AS THE TIME OF AN RAF NIGHT RAID WHEN WE COULD HEAR BOMBS WHISTLING DOWN," HE SAID. "THERE WERE 46 AMERICAN OFFICERS IN TWO BOXCARS. THE MOMENT THE SIRENS SCREAMED OUR GUARDS LOCKED THE DOORS AND WENT OFF TO AN UNDERGROUND SHELTER. WE SWEATED IT OUT WITH RATHER MIXED FEELINGS, I GUESS.

"THE OLD GRAY-HAIRED GERMAN SERGEANT IN CHARGE OF OUR GUARD ACTED AS A SORT OF COOK'S TOUR GUIDE WEN ALLIED PLANES WERE NOT AROUND, IN RETURN FOR CIGARETTES. HE LEFT THE BOXCARS PARTLY OPEN PART OF THE TIME SO WE COULD SEE BERLIN. EVERYTHING BORDERING THE RAIL-YARDS WAS IN RUINS. WE DIDN'T SEE A BUILDING IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD THAT HADN'T BEEN HIT.

FEB 231945

"WHEN THE TRAIN FINALLY GOT GOING AGAIN THE GUARD POINTED OUT WHAT HE SAID WAS THE SPORTSPALAST. WE WERE SURPRISED TO SEE UNITED STATES AND BRITISH FLAGS, PAINTED ON ITS OUTSIDE WALL YEARS AGO, WERE STILL THERE.

"THE OLD GUARD ADMITTED 'TH WAR'S LOST FOR US'. BUT HE RAVED ABOUT AMERICAN DAYLIGHT RAIDS, CLAIMING 'YOU'RE MORE INHUMAN THAN THE BRITISH AND RUSSIANS.'

WITT, CAPTURED SEPT.21 IN BITTER FIGHTING FOR FOURNOY, SOUTH OF METZ, WAS AMONG AMERICAN OFFICERS FROM OFLAG 64 AT SZUBIN, POLAND, WHO WERE LIBERATED BY THE RED ARMY LAST MONTH. HE WAS WITH THE FIRST GROUP TO REACH MOSCOW AND WILL RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES SHORTLY.

IT CAPTURED THE GREATER PART OF EAST PRUSSIA AND GERMAN SILESIA AND BATTLED ITS WAY INTO BRANDENBURG, INTO POMERANIA AND TO THE APPROACHES OF BERLIN.

THEIR CAPTIVITY STARTED AT "STARVATION MANOR," A NORMAN ABBEY WHERE THE WEHRMACHT HERDED AND STARVED ITS FIRST PRISONERS TAKEN IN THE AMERICAN INVASION OF FRANCE. IT ENDED A MONTH AGO WHEN MARSHAL GREGORY ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY SWEPT ACROSS WESTERN POLAND INTO BRANDENBURG.

MCCORMICK, THEN WITH THE 90TH INFANTRY DIVISION, FELL INTO GERMAN HANDS JUNE 16. FIVE DAYS LATER EVERETT, ATTACHED TO THE SECOND DIVISION, WAS CAPTURED.

IWO JIMA, FEB.22-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-THE ABSENCE OF ENEMY TANKS IS A PUZZLE TO UNITED STATES MARINES FIGHTING THE JAPANESE ON IWO JIMA.

SO FAR AS FOURTH MARINE DIVISION HEADQUARTERS KNOWS, ONLY THREE NIPPONESE TANKS HAVE BEEN OBSERVED IN ACTION. THE ENEMY WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE A HEAVY FORCE OF ARMORED VEHICLES ON THE ISLAND.

MAJ. GEN. CLINTON B.CATES, DIVISION COMMANDER, HOPES THAT THE HEAVY NAVAL SHELLING HAS KNOCKED OUT THE TANKS, BUT SUSPECTS THE JAPANESE MAY BE HOLDING THEM BACK.

CATES DESCRIBED ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS AGAINST HIS LINES AS MOSTLY LIGHT. HE SAID HE BELIEVED THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO BE CONCERTED COUNTER ASSAULTS, BUT THEY HAVE BEEN DISRUPTED BY MARINE ARTILLERY AND NAVAL GUN FIRE.

ONLY A FEW JAPANESE MANAGED TO INFILITRATE INTO THE AMERICAN SECTOR. ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS ON THE WHOLE HAVE LEFT MARINE LINES INTACT.

ONE OF THE CHIEF DIFFICULTIES OF THE OPERATION HAS BEEN THE LOCATING AND SILENCING OF NIPPONESE GUN EMPLACEMENTS. THE DEFENDERS HAVE BEEN WORKING FOR MONTHS STRENGTHENING GUN POSITIONS TO MEET THE AMERICAN INVASION.

THE ENEMY POSITIONS ARE WELL CONCEALED AND ARE DUG IN DEEPLY. EVEN WHEN LOCATED THEY ARE HARD TO PUT OUT OF ACTION.

THE NATURE OF THE TERRAIN IS SUCH THAT THE JAPANESE ORIGINALLY WERE ABLE TO COVER ANY POSITION ON THE ISLAND WITH ARTILLERY FIRE. THEY DISPOSED THEIR GUNS TO TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF IT.

NIPPONESE FIRE APPEARED SOMEWHAT LESSENED YESTERDAY AS THE MARINES LAUNCHED AN ATTACK TO THE NORTH. THIS INDICATED THE TERRIFIC POUNDING GIVEN JAPANESE EMPLACEMENTS BY NAVAL UNITS, MOBILE MARINE ARTILLERY AND WARPLANES WAS TAKING EFFECT.

ABOARD A U.S. BATTLESHIP OFF JAPAN,FEB.17-(DELAYED)-(AO-)THIS MIGHTIEST NAVAL TASK FORCE OF ALL TIME PACED TIRELESSLY BACK AND FORTH ACROSS JAPAN'S FRONT DOORSTEP FOR TWO DAYS AND TWO NIGHTS FLINGING HUNDREDS UPON HUNDREDS OF AIRPLANE SORTIES AGAINST TOKYO AREA WITHOUT ONCE COMING UNDER ATTACK.

AMAZING AND INCREDIBLE AS WAS TOKYO'S FAILURE TO REACT TO THE FIRST FULL-SCALE ASSAULT, IT WAS AN ANTI-CLIMAX AND A DISAPPOINTMENT TO THE MEN OF THIS TASK FORCE WHO EXPECTED AND WERE FULLY PREPARED FOR BRISK AND INTERESTING COUNTER-MOVES BY JAPAN'S LAND-BASED AIRPLANES AND POSSIBLY BY REMNANTS OF HER FLEET.

BUT SHE DIDN'T COME OUT. NO ENEMY WAR SHIPS APPEARED AND NO ENEMY AIRCRAFT PENETRATED THE TASK FORCE'S PROTECTIVE SCREEN OF DESTROYERS AND PATROL PLANES.

ONLY THREE JAPANESE PLANES EVEN REACHED THE SCREEN AND THEY WERE SHOT DOWN FAR BEYOND SIGHT OF THE TASK FORCE.

OF THE WARSHIPS IN THIS GREAT NAVAL STRIKING ARM, ONLY A COUPLE OF DESTROYERS FAR OUT AHEAD EVEN GOT TO SEE ANY ENEMY AIRPLANE OR TO FIRE ITS GUNS.

WE FULLY EXPECTED A JAPANESE AIR ATTACK THURSDAY AFTER OUR PLANES STRAFED A SMALL CRAFT AT 9 A.M. A DESTROYER LATER SANK IT, RESCUING ONE JAPANESE SURVIVOR.

IT WAS ASSUMED THAT THE BOAT HAD RADIOED TOKYO GIVING THE LOCATION OF THE ATTACK.

LATER A CARRIER PLANE SHOT DOWN A BETTY BOMBER. A COUPLE OF HOURS LATER CARRIER PLANES STRAFED TWO JAPANESE FREIGHTERS FAR TO THE WEST WHICH WE ASSUMED ALSO RADIOED THEIR DISTRESS.

THE ANITICPATED ATTACKS FAILED TO MATERIALIZE AND THE BATTLESHIP'S CAPTAIN THAT NIGHT SAID OVER THE LOUDSPEAKER: "WE ARE NOW WIHIN A FEW HUNDRED MILES OF TOKYO. IN THE MORNING WE WILL KNOCK DOWN THE FRONT GATE AND KICK THEM IN THEIR BUCK TEETH."

FEB 231945

MEXICO CITY,FEB.22-(AP)-THE LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATIONS ARE REFLECTING A DEFINITE TREND OF GROWING ANXIETY FOR THEIR POST-WAR ECONOMIC SECURITY IN THE FLURRY OF PROPOSALS ON THIS SUBJECT EITHER ALREADY IN THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HOPPER OR ABOUT TO BE THROWN IN.

THE MOST RECENT AND PRESSING WORRY APPEARS TO BE A FEAR THAT THE UNITED STATES WILL SUDDENLY CUT OFF ITS HUGE WAR-TIME PURCHASES OF LATIN AMERICAN RAW MATERIALS AND OTHER PRODUCTS AND GO BACK TO ITS PRE-WAR SOURCES FOR GOODS.

AMERICAN WAR PURCHASES IN THIS HEMISPHERE HAS BROUGHT A HUGE DEVELOPMENT OF LATIN AMERICAN RESOURCES WITH THE ATTENDANT RISE IN EMPLOYMENT, STANDARD OF LIVING, AND HAPPIER MINISTERS OF FINANCE.

BUT AS THE END OF THE WAR DRAWS NEARER, THEY FEAR THAT THE UNITED STATES WILL CURTAIL ITS PURCHASES SUDDENLY, CAUSING A USEREADTION IN EACH C

TREMENDOUS REACTION IN EACH COUNTRY THAT MAY TAKE YEARS BEFORE A NORMAL SITUATION IS RESTORED.

IN ADDITION, THE LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATIONS LOOK UPON A DEVASTATED EUROPE AS A QUESTIONABLE SOURCE OF TRADE SINCE PRACTICALLY ALL EUROPEAN COUNTRIES WILL NEED CREDITS TO REVITALIZE THEIR ECONOMIES AND TO REBUILD. SUCH CREDITS WILL HAVE TO COME FROM THE UNITED STATES AND FOR THAT REASON THEY LOOK TO THE UNITED STATES TO FIND OUT WHICH WAY THE PENDULUM OF POST-WAR BUYING AND SELLING WILL SWING.

THIS SENTIMENT CAN BE EVIDENCED IN THE PERUVIAN PROPOSAL, READY FOR THE CONFERENCE HOPPER, WHICH IS INTENDED TO KEEP AMERICAN BUYING CAPITAL IN THIS HEMISPHERE AFTER THE WAR, AS IT IS NOW, AND AWAY FROM OTHER AREAS. SIMILARLY, THE BRAZILIAN SUGGESTION, ALREADY PREPARED FOR INTRODUCTION, SEEKS TO GIVE LATIN AMERICA PRIORITY IN INDUSTRIAL-EQUIPMENT AT LEAST ON A COMPETITIVE BASIS WITH EUROPE AND ASIA.

THE UNITED STATES, IT KS KNOWN, IS PREPARED TO DEAL WITH THIS SUBJECT IN A CONCRETE WAY AND HAS MORE THAN ONCE ASSURED THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS THAT IT IS READY TO ASSIST IN THEIR INDUSTRIALIZATION AND SOLVE THEIR PRESENT ECONOMIC PROBLEMS.

HOWEVER, THE AMERICAN DELEGATION APPEARS PREOCCUPIED ITSELF PRIMARILY WITH SETTING UP THE FREE TRADE POLICY THE ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATION HAS ADOPTED AS ITS ECONOMIC DICTUM.

(220) WASHINGTON,FEB. 22-(AP)-THE SENATE HEARD A PLEA TODAY FOR INTERNATIONAL COMMUNICATION RATES LOW ENOUGH TO ENABLE NEWSPAPERS IN ALL COUNTRIES "TO MEET THE RISING COST OF USING WORLD WIDE NEWS."

IT CAME FROM SENATOR MC FARLAND (D-ARIZ) IN CHARGE OF AN INTERSTATE COMMERCE SUBCOMMITTEE NOW SURVEYING THE GROUNDWORK FOR AN INTERNATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS POLICY.

ASSERTING THAT KENT COOPER, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, HAD ATTEMPTED TO DRAMATIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF "A FREE, UNCENSORED, COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM IN THE WORLD AS A MEANS OF HELPING PREVENT WARS," MCFARLAND DECLARED: HIS IDEA IS THAT IF PEOPLE KNOW THE TRUTH, IT WILL BE DIFFICULT IF NOT IMPOSSIBLE FOR FUTURE WOULD-BE DICTATORS OR OTHER LEADERS TO TAKE THEM INTO WAR.

"MR.COOPER'S THESIS IS BASED ON THE PREMISE THAT THERE NEVER HAS BEEN ANY FREE EXCHANGE OF NEWS IN THE WORLD," HE ADDED.

FEB 231945

MC FARLAND SAID THAT THE REAL BASIS OF THE PROBLEM OF A WORLD-WIDE FREE PRESS "LIES FUNDAMENTALLY IN LOW RATES FOR THE TRANSMISSION OF NEWS STORIES ALL OVER THE WORLD."

"IT LIES IN EQUAL RATES FOR ALL PRESS USERS OF THE SAME FACILITIES."

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS AND NEWS AGENCIES, HE CONTINUED, "ARE OB-VIOUSLY AT A DISADVANTAGE WHEN THEY MUST PAY A HIGHER RATE PER WORD THAN NEWSPAPERS OF SOME OTHER COUNTRIES SIMPLY BECAUSE THE TRANSMISSION FACILITIES ARE THE PROPERTY OF THE OTHER COUNTRY OR THE NATIONALS OF THAT COUNTRY."

(380) (ADVANCE FOR AMS FRIDAY, FEB. 23)

BY JAMES J.STREBIG
ASSOCIATED PRESS AVIATION EDITOR

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON,FEB. 22-(AP)-THE NATION'S AIRLINES ARE HOPEFUL OF LEASING RATHER THAN BUYING DOUGLAS DC-3 TYPE ARMY TRANSPORT PLANES AND THUS CONSERVING THEIR CAPITAL FOR PURCHASE OF NEW AIRCRAFT WHEN POST-WAR MODELS REACH THE MARKET.

WITH A TREMENDOUS DEMAND FOR AIR TRANSPORTATION PUSHING THEM, THE AIRLINES MUST BUY WHATEVER PLANES THE ARMY WILL RELEASE, EVEN THOUGH CONVERSION COSTS SOME TIMES RUN ABOVE $100,000. THE RESULT IS SECOND-HAND EQUIPMENT WHICH THEY BELIEVE CANNOT BE OPERATED PROFITABLY AT PROSPECTIVE POST-WAR FARES AND CHARGES.

A LEASE PLAN HAS BEEN DRAWN UP AND MAY BE MADE EFFECTIVE SOON. IT WILL WORK LIKE THIS: A BASIC TYPE PRICE OF $100,000 WILL BE USED, FROM WHICH WOULD BE SUBTRACTED CONVERSION COSTS, UP TO $40,000. ON THE BASIS OF A FIVE-YEAR LEASE, THE VALUE OF THE AIRCRAFT AT THE END OF THE PERIOD WOULD BE FIGURED AT $20,000, WHICH WOULD BE SUBTRACTED FROM THE ORIGINAL COST, LEAVING $40,000 TO BE PAID OVER THE FIVE-YEAR PERIOD.

UNDER THE PRESENT PLAN, THE PRICE IS BASED ON THE CONDITION OF THE AIRCRAFT AND THE AIRLINE THEN OVERHAULS AND CONVERTS IT, EITHER IN ITS OWN SHOPS OR BY FLYING IT TO A DOUGLAS PLANT. IT SHOULD BE EXPLAINED HERE THAT, WHILE THE TWO-ENGINE DOUGLAS ARMY TRANSPORT IS BEST KNOWN AS THE C-47, WHAT THE AIRLINES GET BACK ARE MOSTLY C-53'S. THIS LATTER VERSION IS MORE EASILY CONVERTED SINCE IT IS USED FOR LIGHTER WORK BY THE ARMY AND HAS ONLY A SINGLE DOOR INSTEAD OF THE BIG DOUBLE DOORS ON THE C-47.

THE ORIGINAL COST OF A DC-3 BEFORE THE WAR WAS $120,000 TO $140,000, DEPENDING UPON EQUIPMENT. THE COST OF C-53'S USED BY THE ARMY HAS BEEN FROM $40,000 TO $80,000, WITH MANY OF THEM ABOVE $60,000. CONVERSION COSTS HAVE RANGED UP TO $110,000, AND AVERAGED AROUND $75,000, WHEN DONE BY THE MANUFACTURER. THE AIRLINES HAVE LOWER CONVERSION COSTS WHEN THEY CAN DO IT IN THEIR OWN OVERHAUL SHOPS.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST CONVERSION OF ARMY-WORN EQUIPMENT ARE GENERALLY THESE:

D149KX (BATAAN PRISONER)

SAN FRANCISCO,FEB. 21-(AP)-SAN FRANCISCO TODAY WELCOMED THE FIRST THREE HEROES OF BATAAN TO REACH THE UNITED STATES SINCE LIBERATION OF PRISONERS OF WAR HELD BY THE JAPANESE IN THE PHILIPPINES.

THE THREE, ALL NAVAL OFFICERS WHO ARRIVED BY PLANE AFTER NEARLY THREE YEARS IN JAPANESE PRISON CAMPS, ARE LT.EMMET MANSON, WORTHINGTON, MINN.; WHO WAS WOUNDED DURING THE SIEGE OF CORREGIDOR; LT. EARL E.BAUMGARDNER, 34 COWELLS, YONKERS, N.Y., AND LT.GEORGE W.GREEN WHO IS GOING TO ALABAMA ON LEAVE BUT WHOSE HOME TOWN WAS NOT IMMEDIATELY AVAITABLE.

MANSON WAS A DENTAL OFFICER ATTACHED TO THE NAVY BASE AT OLANGAPO, LUZON ISLAND, WHEN WAR BROKE OUT. AFTER HIS CAPTURE HE WAS HELD FOR A YEAR IN BILIBID PRISON AND THEN TRANSFERRED TO CABANATUAN FROM WHICH HE WAS RESCUED IN THE DARING RANGER RAID WHICH LIBERATED THE PRISONERS WHEN THE CAMP STILL WAS BEHIND ENEMY LINES.

ON ARRIVAL, HE TELEPHONED HOME AND WAS TOLD BY HIS SON, FRANK, NOW 5 YEARS OLD BUT ONLY 11 MONTHS WHEN HIS FATHER SAW HIM LAST: "HELLO DADDY, COME HOME QUICK. WE'RE GOING FISHING."

MANSON SAID HE EXPECTED TO SPEND THREE MORE DAYS HERE BEFORE GOING HOME.

IN A NAVY ARRANGED INTERVIEW, HE DECLARED PRISONERS KEPT IN CONTACT WITH THE OUTSIDE WORLD THROUGH A SECRET HOME MADE RADIO SET. HE SAID THEY HARVESTED VEGETABLES FOR THEIR GUARDS BUT WERE FORCED TO TRAP AND EAT DOGS TO FEED THEMSELVES. HE SAID MEN WEAKENED BY HUNGER AND DISEASE WERE FORCED TO DO A HUNDRED PUSH-UPS AND WERE KICKED AND CLUBBED IF THEY WERE UNABLE TO COMPLETE THE STINT.

THE LIEUTENANT LIMPED SLIGHTLY FROM THE EFFECTS OF BERI-BERI.

CONVERSION REQUIRES HIGHLY SKILLED LABOR, THE SUPPLY OF WHICH IS VERY SHORT, AND MANUFACTURE OF THE CONVERSION KITS BURDENS MANPOWER AND FACILITIES ALREADY OVERLOADED WITH WAR WORK.

PARTS NEEDED IN CONVERSION WORK ARE SCARCE.

TRANSPORTS GET GENERALLY ROUGH USAGE IN THE ARMED SERVICES, CONTRIBUTING TO A SHORT LIFE AND HIGH MAINTENANCE COSTS.

THE MANUFACTURERS ARE CONCERNED WITH THE PRESENT OUTRIGHT PURCHASE SYSTEM MUCH AS ARE THE AIRLINES, BECAUSE DEMAND FOR THEIR PRODUCTS WILL DEPEND UPON THE CARRIERS' ABILITY TO BUY. DOUGLAS IN PARTICULAR IS INTERESTED BECAUSE OF THE LOAD PUT ON ITS FACILITIES BY CONVERSION WORK. IT FEELS THAT IT COULD TURN OUT NEW DC-3 PLANES WITH LESS STRAIN ON SKILLED WORKERS AND ENGINEERS AND DO IT WITHOUT AFFECTING ITS ARMY PRODUCTION SCHEDULE.

THE AIRLINES ARE MAKING A PROFIT WITH THE DC-3 NOW BECAUSE OF THE RATES CHARGED--ABOUT 60 CENTS A TON MILE--AND THE HEAVY LOAD FACTOR. BOTH WILL DECLINE AFTER THE WAR, AND MANY PEOPLE IN THE INDUSTRY FEEL THAT THEY CANNOT MAKE MONEY WITH THE DC-3 UNDER PROSPECTIVE POST-WAR CONDITIONS.

THE CARRIERS ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO BUYING CIVILIAN VERSIONS OF THE DOUGLAS C-54 SKYMASTER AND THE CURTISS-WRIGHT C-46 COMMANDO, BOTH DOING HEAVY SERVICE FOR THE ARMY; THE LOCKHEED C-69 CONSTELLATION, SOON TO GO INTO TRANS-OCEANIC SERVICE FOR THE ARMY, AND THE BOEING C-97 STRATOCRUISER, ALSO BEING READIED FOR LONG HAUL USE. IN ADDITION, THEY HAVE BEEN PROMISED A VARIETY OF LOW-COST, HIGH PERFORMANCE TRANSPORTS AS SOON AS CONDITIONS PERMIT CONSTRUCTION, TEST AND MANUFACTURE.

2 U.S. Armies Cross Roer to Cologne Plain; Russians Seize Poznan, Break Into Breslau; Marines at Edge of Iwo's Central Airfield

Nazis' Defenses Are Pulverized in Pre-Dawn Attack

PARIS, Feb. 24 (Saturday) (A. P.).—The American First and Ninth Armies launched their long-awaited drive toward the Rhine yesterday on a 22-mile front along the Roer River, quickly captured the ancient fortress city of Juelich and fought their way into Duren.

After hurdling the still-swollen Roer in the opening assault of what may be the final great offensive of the Western Front, the doughboys of both armies advanced up to two miles to the east of the river.

Juelich as well as five other smaller towns east of the Roer were seized by Lieutenant General William H. Simpson's Ninth Army, which pushed steadily ahead along the whole portion of its offensive arc in the initial stages of the drive.

They captured Glimbach, Gevenich and Boslar, northeast of Minnich, Rurich northeast of Linnich and Selgersdorf southwest of Juelich.

Lieutenant General Courtney H. Hodges' First Army, driving ahead on the right flank of the Ninth, fought into the streets of Duren, the German stronghold ten miles southeast of Juelich, and also captured the towns of Huchen and Stammein.

Birksdorf, a northern suburb of Duren, also was broken into.

Allied 'Big Push' On, Germans Report

Paris, Feb. 23 (A — German broadcasts said tonight that General Eisenhower had started his "grand-scale offensive" toward the Ruhr and Cologne, had bridged the Roer River at several places, and had advanced two miles east of the river in tremendous power with tanks, artillery and infantry.

Supreme headquarters maintained complete silence on any new attack. The Germans said the big push had been preceded by a three-hour artillery barrage by "thousands of guns." The Nazis said the attack was made on a 35-mile front, from Roermond to Dueren, by the American 9th and 1st armies.

Nazis List Three Bridgeheads

The Germans said the main bridgeheads were at these points:

1. Birkesdorf, a suburb of Dueren about a mile north of the city proper. This was said to be the largest bridgehead, and the Nazis said Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's 9th Army shock troops had turned south and penetrated the outskirts of Dueren. Birkendorf is 21 miles southwest of Cologne.

2. Gevenich, 2 miles east of the Roer and northeast of Linnich. The town is 26 miles west of Cologne and 13 from the Ruhr railroad and factory center of Muenchen Gladbach.

3. Seigersdorf, 3 miles southeast of Juelich and 22 miles southwest of Cologne.

Heaviest Artillery Fire

The Nazi communiqué said the United States 9th Army attacked "after the heaviest artillery fire," and radio reports said the American tanks were striking down the 15 miles toward Dueren, attempting to roll up Nazi lines east of the Roer that have checked the Allies since December.

The British 2d Army, last reported in the Roermond area where the Roer flows into the Maas, was said by Berlin to be fighting alongside the Canadians in the Goch-Rhine sector farther north.

Allied Planes Strike

Fogs that blotted out parts of the battlefield at dawn gave way to good weather. An early wave of bomber takeoffs indicated that the Germans were in for another paralyzing air onslaught like yesterday's.

Both south and north of the Roer sector, the American 3d and Canadian 1st armies made gains. Still farther south, the American 7th Army moved within a mile and a half of the Saar capital of Saarbruecken and won two thirds of Forbach.

Patton Gets Nearer Trier

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d Army advanced up to 2½ miles in the Moselle Valley and to within 4½ miles of Trier, keystone of German defenses before the middle Rhine.

The 3d Army forced a third crossing of the Saar River northwest of Saarburg and started fighting in the Siegfried Line, which lies just east of the river. In the Preum sector, the columns squeezing the German salient east of Luxembourg moved within 8 miles of a junction. Town after town fell.

Canadians Gain

Canadian 1st Army gains on the north flank of the Roer River front ranged up to a mile and a half. The fortified road bastion of Calcar was slowly being invested. Scottish vanguards pushed half a mile down the Goch-Weeze road. Canadians fanned out to the north and moved a mile and a half toward the subsiding Rhine.

At Linnich the Allies were 16½ miles from the heart of Muenchen Gladbach, Ruhr industrial and railroad center. Linnich and its sister fortress cities of Dueren and Juelich, on the Roer, were but piles of red brick as the result of months of Allied artillery and air bombardments.

20 Miles To Cologne

At Dueren the United States 9th

30.21.23265

Army was 20 miles from Cologne. The Allies moved up to Dueren's western edge last December. Between Linnich and Dueren, the Germans have built three earthen defense lines. The whole Roer River sector is beyond the Siegfried Line, which has been breached totally by 35 miles in the Aachen area.

The Germans said the Roer offensive started with a violent drumfire barrage last night, with the Allies using phosphorous shells, among other things.

Nazis Admit Bridgeheads

"The Americans established several small bridgeheads across the Roer between Linnich and Juelich (6 miles southeast)," Berlin asserted. "Heroically fighting Germans have succeeded in sealing off the bridgeheads and frustrated the bringing up of fresh enemy reinforcements.

"The Allied grand scale offensive, which began this morning, will probably be the signal for resumption of the Russian offensive. The German command has reckoned with such a co-ordinated synchronized attack."

Roer Subsiding

Along the Roer, which the Germans flooded through dams at the headwaters, the British 2d and American 9th and 1st armies have been standing in mighty strength for weeks. The Roer has been subsiding and the current yesterday was reported to be only three to five miles an hour, slow enough for engineers to bridge it.

Linnich is 55 miles south of Goch, center of the Canadian offensive which has attracted ten first-rate German divisions. This, with reported large-scale withdrawals from the Western to the Russian front, has considerably thinned German lines.

The German radio said Field Marshal Montgomery had also begun "new breakthrough" attempts at the northern end of the Allied line, in co-ordination with the American attacks in the Aachen sector, but did not name the exact point of Montgomery's attack.

Three Towns Shelled

The crossings of the Roer were preceded by the shelling last evening of Koerenzig, 1½ miles northeast of Linnich, with phosphorous missiles, the Germans said.

They said still other attacks were believed to be taking shape south of Dueren, where heavy artillery barrages were directed at Niederau and Kreuzau, 2 and 3½ miles south of Dueren.

A field dispatch from the 3d Army front said that overnight the 94th Infantry made a third crossing of the Saar and entered Ockfen, 4 miles northeast of Saarburg. Its spearhead was aimed toward Trier, scarcely 5 miles distant.

Patton Takes Five More Towns

The two bridgeheads won south of Saarburg were being steadily exploited. One group was engaged in house-to-house fighting in Serrig, east of the river. The other was driving ahead against small arms and mortar fire east of Taben.

Patton's troops also captured five more towns in gains up to 2½ miles on a 15-mile front from southeast of Pruem to north of Wallendorf.

It's Decisive Chapter—Nazis

Raschke

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP).—DNB's No. 1 commentator declared tonight that a new American offensive on the Western Front "heralds a climax of fighting unprecedented in this war for which Germany shall need all her strength to hold out."

"The start of the all-out American offensive in the sector between Roermond and Aachen," said Commentator Martin Hallensleben, "indicates that a new chapter—a decisive chapter—of this war is about to be written.

"This attack must be taken as the overture to a gigantic offensive the aim of which will be—and is—not only to bring the West Front into movement again, but to stab in the back the German Reich, which is at grips with Bolshevist hordes in the East.

"The aim of the gigantic offensive is to knock out Germany and thereby end this war. The Allied high command has, to all intents and purposes, the same intentions as the Russian high command: break through, split up, destruction."

Hallensleben predicted that the American blow would be followed soon by "a new general Russian superoffensive."

"The fact," he added, "that the Allies in the West launched their offensive first at this time is undoubtedly one of the results of the Yalta conference and shows the three Allies are bent on speeding the end of the war.

"The battles in Europe in the next few weeks will reach proportions never before witnessed."

Berlin radio in a broadcast tonight said American reinforcements were pouring into the Linnich area bridgehead on the Roer despite heavy German shelling.

Americans Use Russian Tactics In Roer Attack

Record Barrage Precedes Blow; Bridges Are Built on Cables Hidden in Water

By Wes Gallagher

AT THE ROER RIVER, Germany, Feb. 23 (AP).—The United States 1st and 9th Armies surged across the Roer River in the darkness just before dawn today in a "Russian-style" attack preceded by the most concentrated American artillery barrage yet laid down on the western front.

American ingenuity solved the problem of the flooded Roer, and before daylight broke over this smoke-strewn valley the Americans were bursting through weakly held Nazi defenses east of the river.

German strong points were pulverized by an artillery barrage involving about 2,000 guns and using close to a quarter of a million shells.

The attack more closely resembled Russian-type warfare than any previously undertaken on the western front. The jabbing, ripping artillery barrage was followed by infantry swarming across the river in assault boats and on foot bridges.

Cables Planted in Advance

One of the keys to a crossing of the swiftly running river, flooded recently by the enemy's opening of the big Schwammenauel Dam, was provided by American Army engineers. Night before last, engineer patrols crept across the river and planted steel cables from bank to bank, then submerged them in the muddy water, where they escaped detection yesterday.

When the artillery barrage opened this morning at 2:45 a. m. for the initial forty-five-minute preparation engineers hauled the cables taut and used them to support footbridges which were erected in a matter of a few minutes.

By the time set for the jump-off most of the assault waves already were on the east, or German, bank of the river.

The Germans, who apparently had expected the attack twelve hours before it began, threw in the largest number of jet planes yet used against the 9th Army. Twin-engined jets plunged like comets through masses of American fighter planes, dropped bombs and were gone in a matter of seconds, before the fighters or flak guns could touch them. They sped straight along the front at terrific speed, making no attempt to avoid the flak, which burst sometimes half a mile behind them.

Although their speed allowed them to operate in skies dominated by the Allied air forces, it also hampered their accuracy, and the bombs fell in a wide area.

The Moon Was Too Bright, And 3 A. M. a Lifetime Away

FEB 24 1945

By Don Whitehead

WITH AMERICAN INFANTRY ON THE ROER RIVER, Feb. 23 (A. P.).

THE moon was very bright—too bright—for a night attack. But orders had been issued for H-hour at 3.30 A. M. "Hell, the Krauts can see us coming a mile away," a soldier growled.

The men in a battalion command post in a basement near the flooded Roer River didn't have much to do now except to wait for the hour of attack which had been held up for days by the Germans releasing water from the dams to the south. All plans had been made and troops were in position near hidden assault boats in which they were to cross the river.

Captain Robert Neilson, of Bloomington, Calif., looked at his watch. His face was drawn and his eyes red from lack of sleep. It was midnight.

"It will be a lifetime from now till 3 o'clock," he commented. Outside, guns boomed occasionally. There was an undercurrent of tenseness in the little room. A truck idled by outside and the slight noise made everyone look up.

MAJOR RAY WATERS, of Richfield, Utah, laughed. "When I walked down the road a few minutes ago I tried to tip-toe. Those noises sound awfully loud at night with the Jerries just across the river," he said.

A telephone rang and someone reported figures were moving about on our side of the river. Captain Neilson began checking units to see who they were.

"We'd feel silly as hell if the Jerries came over and stole our boats," Waters chuckled.

They appeared relaxed and easy, but these men were sweating out those last hours before the attack.

Lt. Col. Fred Needham, Auburn, Calif., slept in the next room, resting up for the hard grind ahead.

Neilsen's check disclosed the men on the river bank were our troops putting out smudge pots to be used if necessary to throw up a smoke screen.

We decided to go down to the command post of Capt. Jerry Hooker, St. Petersburg, Fla., who was to lead one of the assault companies in the river crossing. The road toward the river was deserted and there was no sign of troops waiting inside the dark ruins of houses along the way.

Hooker looked much too young to be commanding a company. He looked younger even than his 24 years as he talked to ta[illegible] some Lt. Sam Jenkins, Cartersville, Ga., his weapons platoon leader.

"Don't wait for a signal from me," Hooker told Sam. "Three minutes before H-hour, shove 'em off."

Sam said, "Okay, will do," and he went out into the night.

WITH Captain Hooker were Sergeant Charles Courtney, of Fort Worth, Tex.; T/5 Robert Ogilvie, of South Pasadena, Calif.; Lieutenant Francis Ahrnsbrak, of Marshall, Okla., and Sergeant George L. Woods, of Riverside, Calif.

Captain Hooker pulled out a bottle of Scotch with a couple of drinks left in it. "I have been saving this," he explained.

He took a drink and handed the bottle to Lieutenant Ahrnsbrak, saying, "Have one, Francis."

Captain Hooker slung an automatic weapon across his shoulder. "I wish it were darker. It's a lot harder to get shot if they can't see you." Then he hung a grenade on his chest strap.

Suddenly the big guns, which had been firing only occasional rounds, opened up with a mighty roar.

"There the fireworks go," someone said.

Punctuating the booming of the artillery was the clatter of machine guns raking the enemy-held shore of the river. The soft moonlit night turned into a hellish roar of guns, the whispering of shells and the sound of the explosions.

At 3:15 Captain Hooker said quickly:

"Okay, boys, let's go."

They stepped into the night. Houses were disgorging troops who moved silently in the moonlight.

Chains of Tracers

We climbed into the attic of a battered house some hundreds of yards from the river to watch the attack go in.

Artillery shells burst in ripples of flame along the German-held bank of the Roer. Bright red chains of tracer bullets streaked across the leaden water. There was a continuous, pulsing roar of guns and angry outbursts of machine guns that grated against the nerves like some one dragging fingernails across a blackboard.

The dull glow of fire lit the sky and the smoke of explosions drifted upward, forming a fog in the moonlight.

Figures materialized from shadows, lifted assault boats and walked to the river. They slid the craft into the swollen stream and clambered in and began paddling furiously.

FEB 24 1945

The current caught the boats and they seemed to shoot downstream. Most of the boats got across safely, with a few German guns challenging them on the crossing, but some swamped in the swift stream and the men were thrown into the icy water—to be dragged under by the weight of their gear.

Once ashore, the Americans began clawing their way forward against mounting German opposition. Fog began to settle over the river, shielding movements, but then German guns began bombarding the river bank and its approaches. T[illegible]

The heavy crump of the shells made the old building tremble and the crash of artillery and explosions became louder. But on the ground floor a youth snored serenely as though it was a quiet spring night. He was Private First Class Allen Clawson, 2803 N. 13th st., Philadelphia, Pa.

"That guy can sleep through anything," a soldier remarked, and Private Clawson snored on.

Across the river fighting raged as the American infantry fought deeper into the German positions.

Eisenhower Asks Private For Farm Job After War

By The Associated Press.

IN FRANCE, Feb. 23—Two Kansas citizens talked over post-war employment this week. One was going to England for a rest, the other was returning to the front.

"What was your job before the war?" asked Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of Abilene, Kan.

"Farming," replied Pfc. Rolla Ummel of Ness City.

"How about giving me a job after the war?" General Eisenhower suggested.

"I don't know, sir, but I'll keep you in mind," Private Ummel promised. Stars and Stripes related the story today.

Gen. White Heads 'Hell On Wheels'

With the U.S. 2d Armored Division, Western Front, Feb. 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Isaac D. White now commands the famous "Hell on Wheels" 2d Armored Division, it was disclosed officially today.

Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, "Old Gravel Voice," who led the tanks in North Africa, Sicily, Normandy and the Ardennes campaigns, has been given a higher command. Harmon previously had declined promotion to stay with the 1st Army outfit.

White, 44, was a major when the division was activated in July, 1940. He is from Des Moines, Iowa. The general previously commanded Combat Command B of the 2d Armored Division. He is the son of the late Maj. Gen. D. M. White, veteran of the Civil and Spanish-American wars.

Reds Set For Drive On Berlin

Fall of Poznan Clears Way; Cost Germans 48,000

Fletcher

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP).—Russian shock troops, including Stalingrad veterans, conquered the west Polish stronghold of Poznan (Posen) yesterday after a month's siege, killing or capturing 48,000 Germans and opening vital supply arteries for the impending knockout offensive against Berlin.

The last big Polish city held by the enemy fell to artillery, tank and infantry teams which blasted their way through six huge three-story subterranean fortresses and scores of lesser ones, finally reaching the cornered Nazis' last refuge, the citadel, an old fortress on the west bank of the Warta River.

Combined with Soviet artillery which blew gaps in its walls Russian ladder teams scaled its moated sides and with bayonets and grenades snuffed out the last German resistance.

A total of 23,000 Germans, including the commander and his staff, were captured at Poznan and 25,000 were killed, Moscow announced on the 27th anniversary of the Red Army. Hundreds of planes, guns and freight cars also were seized.

Other Soviet forces broke into the southern part of Breslau, besieged Silesian capital with a population of 630,000, capturing 20 city blocks, while in Pomerania the Russians captured Arnswalde, a seven-way road junction 38 miles southeast of Stettin, Baltic port for Berlin. Arnswalde, encircled since Feb. 11, had a prewar population of 110,000.

SQUEEZE TRAPPED FOE

In East Prussia another Russian Army squeezed the remnants of 25 or 30 trapped German divisions into a 325-square-mile area southwest of Koenigsberg, besieged provincial capital, Moscow announced.

These Russian triumphs occurred as Berlin said that other Soviet forces, threatening to turn Berlin's eastern defenses, had broken into Guben and Forst, 51 and 57 miles southeast of Berlin, crossing the Neisse River and establishing bridgeheads less than 10 miles from the Spree, last water barrier protecting the Reich capital. Moscow's communique ignored developments in this area.

Red Army troops also were attacking on the approaches to Goerlitz, Silesia's second largest city, on the upper Neisse River forty-eight miles east of Dresden, Saxony capital.

Poznan's capture represented a great strategic victory, released thousands of Russian troops for the assaults inside Germany and freed communication arteries feeding the Berlin, Stettin and Dresden fronts.

The last big Polish city held by the enemy fell to artillery, tank and infantry teams which blasted their way through six huge subterranean fortresses and scores of lesser ones, finally reaching the cornered Nazis' last refuge, the citadel, an old fortress on the west bank of the Warta River. Combined with Soviet artillery, which blew gaps in its walls, Russian ladder teams scaled its moated sides and with bayonets and grenades snuffed out the last German resistance.

A total of 23,000 Germans, including the commander, Major General Mattern, and his staff, were captured at Poznan and 25,000 were killed, Moscow announced on the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Red Army. Hundreds of planes, guns and freight cars also were seized.

Poland's third largest city, with a pre-war population of 270,000, Poznan lies 100 miles east of Frankfurt, besieged Oder River stronghold thirty-three miles from Berlin, and nine railways and six highways converge there. From Poznan communication spokes jut out to all parts of eastern Germany.

Premier Stalin's order of the day announcing the liquidation of the German garrison called Poznan "a fortress and strategically important defense center in the Berlin direction," and named nineteen Soviet generals and forty-two other commanders as distinguishing themselves in the siege.

The German garrison in Poznan was surrounded Jan. 27 by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army, which flowed around it and raced on to Berlin's approaches, then stopped and began widening its Pomeranian flank on the north while Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army deepened the southern flank in Brandenburg and Silesia.

Nazis Predicted Drive

Enemy broadcasts for several days now have predicted that Zhukov's central army, which has reached to within thirty to fifty miles of Berlin, was getting ready for an all-out offensive now that Konev's army has wheeled into line in the Guben-Forest area due south of the Kuestrin-Frankfurt-Fuerstenberg strongholds east of Berlin.

Konev's troops have reached the confluence of the Neisse and Oder Rivers eight miles north of Guben and only six miles southeast of Fuerstenberg, southernmost of Berlin's outer bastions being attacked by Zhukov's forces.

Dispatches from Russia said that Konev had hurled in big tank reserves in his crossing of the Neisse River, and was striking toward Cottbus, key rail city on the Spree River, twelve miles west of embattled Forst and forty-seven miles from Berlin.

Soviet artillery fire had blocked rail and highway traffic between Forst and Cottbus and hundreds of Red Army planes were pounding enemy positions all along a sixty-mile front from Guben south to the Czechoslovak frontier.

Russian Artillery Pounds Guben Area Hard

FEB 24 1945

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Russians have captured Poznan, in Poland, Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Moscow, Feb. 23 (AP)—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army laid down a pulverizing artillery barrage today on German fortified points and communication centers between Cottbus, Guben and Forst, as the Russians pressed hard for control of springboards on the west bank of the Neisse River, southeast of Berlin.

The heavy Russian shelling blocked rail and motor traffic routes leading east and northeast from Cottbus. Russian vanguards approached within 12 miles of that city on the Spree River.

The Germans said today the Russians had fought into Guben and Forst, but declared the Soviets had been ejected from Guben.

Assaults' Intensity Grows

The intensity of the assaults mounted in the areas of Guben, Weiswasser and Goerlitz, controlling vital communications for an outflanking drive on the German capital.

Guben, on the Neisse river, 8 miles south of the Oder River bend and 51 miles from Berlin, was increasingly threatened with encirclement. Konev was reported to have reached the Neisse on either side of this big industrial town, which the enemy appeared to be turning into another Breslau die-hard fortress.

Cottbus A Bastion

Knoev must also overcome Cottbus, German bastion on the Spree River line, farther southwest, before he strikes directly at Berlin. The woody and hilly terrain in this sector was fiercely defended by German field guns and Volkssturm battalions.

Russian shock troops attempting to cross the Neisse at Weisswasser were meeting with stiff resistance.

Goerlitz Attack Reinforced

Konev sent powerful reinforcements into the fighting at the outskirts of Goerlitz, whose investments would achieve the dual purpose of securing his flank and clearing the way for new thrusts at Dresden.

The siege of Breslau continued with undiminished fury.

Resumption of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's offensive from the middle Oder River sector due east of Berlin appeared hinged on further advances by Konev's troops south of Zhukov's forces.

Warning To Germans

The Moscow radio early today followed up the Stalin order with a German-language broadcast declaring "the zero hour has struck" and added that "dissolution of the German Army in the East is in full swing."

"It is up to the German people in the army and factories to stop the war," the broadcast said. "Peace will not be negotiated with the generals."

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's 2d Russian Army, striking out for Danzig, gained up to five miles yesterday on a 45-mile front stretching as far west as the Danzig-Berlin railway.

In the Polish corridor, the Russians were fighting close to Gniew, only 32 miles south of Danzig, the Poznan, capital of the early Polish kings, fell after a siege of twenty-seven days. Stalin said 23,000 Germans of the hold-out garrison, including the Commander, Major-Gen. Mattern and his staff, were taken prisoner. The city was whittled down in ruin by a slow block-by-block fight which had pushed the Germans first into the northern edge and finally into a narrow citadel.

The fall of Poznan, 100 miles east of the Oder and 137 miles west of Warsaw, opened to eventual Russian use a network of nine railways and six highways radiating from Russian rear bases to their Pomeranian, Oder and Silesian fronts.

Reported in Another Bastion.

Meanwhile, today the Germans reported that the Russians, fighting within thirty-two miles of Danzig, had broken into another encircled town, the Vistula fortress of Grudziadz.

Southeast of Berlin Marshal Ivan Konev directed a battle of mounting fury at the Neisse River fortresses of Guben and Forst and was reported reinforcing a toehold on the west bank of the Neisse. Guben, fifty-one miles southeast of Berlin, was reported nearly encircled, and the Germans told of street fighting in both that town and Forst, which is fifteen miles to the south. The fall of these two bastions would tear open the Germans' Neisse defenses and open the way for a smash into the gap between the Oder and the Spree toward Berlin.

Moscow dispatches said that Konev's First Ukrainian Army was believed to have edged a Neisse River bridgehead to within ten miles of Cottbus, on the Spree, twelve miles west of Forst. A battle was reported raging along the Neisse for seventy miles from the river's junction with the Oder near Fuerstenburg t othe Goerlitz area east of Dresden.

Stalin Sees Victory Near.

The Russians had smashed forward eleven miles to reach the Guben area and the mounting action indicated that the end-the-war stroke heralded last night by Stalin may soon be loosed by the Russian High Command.

"Complete victory over the Germans now is near," Marshal Stalin declared last night in a special order of the day which said that the great Russian winter offensive had already cost the Germans more than 1,150,000 killed or captured.

Marshal Stalin's proclamation, commemorating the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Red Army, said that the Russians had killed 800,000 Germans and captured 350,000 since January 12.

23,000 NAZIS TAKEN AS POZNAN FALLS AFTER 27-DAY SIEGE

London, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Marshal Stalin tonight announced the capture of Poznan, Poland's third largest city, after crushing a hold-out Nazi garrison which had blocked the main railway from Warsaw to the Berlin front on the Oder.

More than 25,000 Germans were killed during the siege of Poznan, the Soviet communique said.

Moscow also announced the capture of previously encircled Arnswalde, thirty-eight miles southeast of Stettin, and said Soviet troops had penetrated Breslau.

Koenigsberg Now 'Half Destroyed'

Moscow, Feb. 23 (AP)—The surrounded German force in East Prussia apparently contains elements of 34 divisions, Ilya Ehrenburg, Red Star correspondent, reported in a dispatch today.

The dispatch said Koenigsberg was "half destroyed" and is crowded with a host of civilian refugees.

Among those trapped in Koenigsberg, the writer said, is Erich Koch, the former Nazi governor of the Ukraine.

Soviet Officer In Captured Reich Town Phones To Berlin

Moscow, Feb. 23 (AP)—Izvestia reported with glee today that a Red Army major had talked by telephone with a Nazi secretary in Berlin's city hall.

"Everything is true in this story," said the account.

"Not long ago one of our detachments, after successfully outflanking a small German town, entered it so suddenly that inhabitants did not know what had happened until they drew their curtains the next morning.

Threatens To Complain

"Two hours later a passenger train arrived from the east and the chief conductor threatened to complain to the Reichsminister of Railways when ordered to halt his departure for the west.

"Surprised, the German garrison had not had time to disrupt communications and at the telephone station the girl switchboard operator placed a call to Berlin for one of our officers, Major Sergeive, who knows German.

"When Berlin answered he asked for the burgomeister. He was informed the burgomeister was absent, but the latter's secretary, Salzbach, answered.

"Things Are Bad"

"This is the burgomeister of ——," said the major. "How are things getting along?"

"Badly. The people say they've come quite close already," was the answer. "How is it with you?"

"Oh fine. One hour ago the Soviets captured our town."

"Don't joke so foolishly, I'll complain to the burgomeister," the Berlin official said.

"You're welcome to complain to Hitler himself," said the major. "This is a Soviet officer. See you soon, Herr Salzbach."

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—Gauleiter Erich Koch, reported in a Moscow dispatch today to be trapped in Koenigsberg, besieged Junkers capital, is known among his cronies as "the Czar of East Prussia."

The domineering and autocratic manner of the former governor of the Ukraine has caused him to clash frequently with other Hitler satellites — notably Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering—and his wholesale graft has made him one of the richest men in the Nazi party.

Arrest Reported

Some doubts were expressed in German refugee circles here that Koch still was in Koenigsberg, however. Information had been received here that the gauleiter had been arrested by the Sicherheitsdienst (Heinrich Himmler's super-Gestapo) at Rostock on charges of deserting his post.

These sources said a Dr. Meyer, gauleiter for northern Westphalia, had been arrested on a charge of conspiring with Koch to start a movement among gauleiters to insist that Hitler attempt to negotiate a peace.

At any rate, the 50-year-old Koch, when he was in Koenigsberg, was cock of the walk.

Wanted First Honors

Koch always insisted that the first honors anywhere in East Prussia rightfully were his own. When Goering arrived one day at an airport near Koenigsberg he insisted on precedence over Koch in the matter of a Luftwaffe honor company's salute. The two men nearly came to blows. The matter was settled the Nazi bigwigs, who ruled that Goering, as a Minister of the Reich, outranked the gauleiter.

Koch assumed ownership of virtually all East Prussian coastal shipping companies. While doing so, he told an acquaintance of mine who formerly was in Franz von Papen's entourage:

"Why don't you come and visit me in Koenigsberg?" Man, I'll show you how to become a millionaire in a few weeks."

Bought Up Concerns

Koch's technique was somewhat like this: First, he consistently favored one set of East Prussian shipping companies by giving them Government contracts, issuing clearances and the like. This brought the disfavored other half to the verge of bankruptcy. Through middlemen, Koch then offered to buy up these concerns, and they sold out at low figures.

From then on, all business was swung in the direction of all Koch's newly acquired possessions. That made the other half go on the rocks. These, too, sold out at low figures to prevent bankruptcy.

Finding how well this trick worked, Koch began to apply it to other business undertakings. He soon became a multimillionaire.

10 Million Germans Lost in Soviet War, Red Analyzer Claims

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP).—Germany's losses in the war with Russia approximate 10 million men, a Russian radio commentator estimated in a broadcast from Moscow today.

Speaking on the 27th anniversary of the Red Army, the commentator "Analyzer," said the Germans lost an average of nearly 30,000 men a day in killed and captured during the Russians' 1945 Winter offensive. This figure did not include the wounded. The average for the first three years of the war was somewhere in the vicinity of 7,000 men killed or captured daily, the commentator said.

"The total number of Germans killed or captured for the first three years of Soviet-German hostilities were in excess of 7,800,000," the report asserted, adding:

"In fighting on White Russian soil last Summer, 505,000 German officers and men were wiped out. A battle fought in the south a little later cost Hitler another 25,000 men.

Nazis' Losses Put At 12 Million

New York, Feb. 23 (AP)—Premier Stalin's announcement that the Soviet winter offensive had cost the Germans more than 1,150,000 in killed or captured raised to at least 12,100,000 the casualties which the Russians say the Germans have suffered on the Eastern front in nearly four years of war.

Stalin announced on November 5, 1943, that the Germans had lost 2,700,000 men in four months. Added to the claims of previous communiqués this brought total German casualties to 9,100,000.

On April 24, 1944, a Soviet communiqué reported a total of 450,000 Germans killed and captured during the Soviet winter and spring offensive.

Chiang Lauds Russ Army

Chungking, Feb. 23 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told Premier Marshal Stalin today that his able military leadership and the gallantry of the Red Army forces had won the deep admiration of the Chinese people.

Evoked by the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Red Army, the message said the collapse of Nazidom was now only a matter of days.

Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative Yuan, wired Stalin that China was looking forward to the day when Chinese and Russians would fight shoulder to shoulder against "the common enemy of the world."

Prime Minister Churchill on plans for final defeat and long-range control of Germany and to pave the way for political reconstruction and the peaceful organization of the world after the war. The text of the message:

"In anticipation of our common victory against the Nazi oppressors, I wish to take this opportunity to extend my heartiest congratulations to you as supreme commander of this the twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the Red Army.

"The far reaching decisions we took at Yalta will hasten victory and the establishment of a firm foundation for a lasting peace. The continued outstanding achievements of the Red Army, together with the allout effort of the United Nations forces in the south and the west, assure the speedy attainment of our common goal—a peaceful world based upon mutual understanding and co-operation.'

The message was released through the State Department.

Marines At Second Airfield

Battle for Iwo Gradually Sways In Favor of U. S.

By ELMONT WAITE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HQ., Guam, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP).—The raging battle for Iwo swayed slowly in favor of three United States Marine Divisions Friday as they occupied one end of an airfield in the island's center and strewed the volcanic slopes of Mount Suribachi on the south tip with Japanese dead.

It still was a slugging match, with the Leathernecks requiring more than three days to cover 700 yards up sloping ground to the south tip of the two-runway fighter field.

The Japanese, constantly blasted by the guns of U. S. Fifth Fleet and dived on by carrier planes, fought back from concrete pillboxes.

THIRD DIVISION AT FIELD

The first Devildogs to get to the fighter field were elements of the U. S. Third Marine Division under Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, veterans of the Solomons and Guam campaigns. That division entered the fiery struggle Wednesday at a time when the Fourth and Fifth Divisions had been halted in their push north from the southern third of the island in American hands.

The communique disclosed for the first time that the three divisions are fighting side by side in a coordinated push on the fighter field.

The Third is in the center. Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth is on the left flank toward the southwest coast. It was held to no gain Friday afternoon.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth Division is on the right flank toward the southeast coast. It advanced slightly.

Headquarters, assessing the situation up to 6 p. m. Friday, said the Leathernecks had scored limited gains against "elaborate enemy defenses."

It was the first report of any real gains since Wednesday noon when they began the 700-yard drive from captured Motoyama bomber field, No. 1, in the south end of the island, north toward Motoyama fighter field, No. 2.

The advance, by three divisions in an enveloping movement is up slopes toward the plateau on which the fighter field is located. The Japanese have put up such bitter resistance, even throwing in strong counterattacks, that many of the Marine casualties have occurred there.

Today's communique made no further addition of casualty figures which up to Wednesday night had exceeded 5,000.

In the drive toward the only other usable airfield still in enemy hands, the Fourth Marine Division on the right fank edged forward 300 yards.

In the center of the advancing line, other elements succeeded in occupying the south end of the airfield which, in American hands, would base fighters within flying range of Tokyo, 750 miles to the north.

On Mt. Suribachi, on the south tip of Iwo, where Marines raised the U. S. flag Friday, a total of 717 enemy dead has been counted with the cleanup continuing. That was added to a previously announced figure of 1,222 Nipponese dead counted elsewhere on the island's eight square miles.

"In all sectors, the enemy is resisting our advance from concrete pillboxes, entrenchments and caves," the communique said.

The guns of the warships, which began unlimbering on Iwo three days prior to Monday's landings, still thundered in support of the attacking Devildogs.

Carrier-based planes, including a new type of Hellcat divebomber, also aided the slow drive.

Japanese on Kangoku Rock, just west of Iwo, fired mortars at the Marines but an American destroyer's guns knocked out the rock's defenses and also destroyed several landing craft.

MORE SUPPLIES LANDED

The unloading of supplies, now facilitated by steel mats spread over the loose, volcanic ash, continued.

The communique said "their rate of movement across the beaches is considerably improved in spite of the surf created by recent southeasterly weather."

However, the Japanese still managed to keep the beaches under fire during Friday afternoon.

To neutralize any bases just north of Iwo where the Nipponese might shuttle planes from Tokio, carrier aircraft made an offensive sweep over Chichi in the Bonin Islands.

Marines creeping forward through cold rain toward the airfield as well as those searing the enemy out of numerous strongpoints on Suribachi, to the south, were supported throughout Thursday night and Friday forenoon by naval gunfire. Carrier planes bombed and strafed enemy defenses.

A fight to the bitter end was expected on Iwo, a key bastion at the southern doorstep to Japan. Lieutenant General Holland M. Smith, commanding the marine expeditionary forces, told The Associated Press that "the fanatical enemy will fight to the bitter end." He added:

"It must not be forgotten that the Japs consider Iwo a part of their homeland. They have caused us some very serious difficulties.

The fierce resistance on the northern sector was paralleled on the steep, fortified slopes of Suribachi, which is 566 feet high. Some marines of the 28th Regiment, 5th Division, slashed and fought their way to the summit Friday forenoon and planted the American flag amid volcanic ash and lava rock.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz condensed the drama into this special communique: "The 28th Regiment of the United States Marines was observed raising the United States flag on the summit of Mount Suribachi on Iwo Island at 10:35 a. m. today."

Japanese Loss Heavy

Casualties on both sides were high, but the counted enemy dead already were virtually double the number of Americans reported killed. In the first fifty-seven hours of the savage fight for the island—from the invasion at 9 a. m. Monday up to 6 p. m. Wednesday—American casualties were estimated by Nimitz to total 5,372. Of this total, 644 were killed, 560 missing and 4,168 wounded.

Japanese air strength appeared to be reviving after crippling blows to Tokyo airfields delivered last week by American carrier planes. One small group of Japanese aircraft attacked shipping near Iwo Thursday and two other small groups approached the area. American fighters and anti-aircraft fire shot down six planes.

REPEL FOE'S COUNTER-BLOW

Capture of Volcanic Height Ends Threat to Rear of Three U. S. Divisions.

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—American Marines reached the summit of Mount Suribachi at the southern tip of Iwo Jima today, and began a renewed drive on the central airfield after repulsing two Japanese counterattacks.

The Stars and Stripes were raised over the volcanic Suribachi fortress ninety-seven hours after the costly invasion began and Marines began cleaning out Japanese still clinging to the crater with flamethrowers.

Little progress was made elsewhere in the most costly fight in which the Marines have ever been engaged—a fight that cost 5,372 American casualties, including 644 dead, in the first three days.

Japanese swimmers made a hopeless attempt to attack American forces on the western side of the island from the rear last night. They were mopped up on the beaches this morning.

Carrier aircraft sweeping over the Bonin Islands in protective sweeps to eliminate repeated enemy attacks on American shipping assembled off Iwo shot down three Japanese planes.

Surmounting of Suribachi was the brightest spot in the entire Iwo compaign.

The Leathernecks won command of the 566-foot height from which the Japanese had cast down a deadly mortar and artillery fire on other Marines spread out over the south third of the embattled island. Its capture eliminated the threat to the rear of three Devildog divisions attempting to drive north where the main strength of the enemy garrison is dug in.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz condensed the drama into this special communique: "The Twenty-eighth Regiment of the United States Marines was observed raising the United States flag on the summit of Mount Suribachi on Iwo Island at 10:35 A. M. today.

The extinct volcanic cone had been encircled by the Fourth Marine Division under Major-Gen. Clifton B. Cates. Then for twenty-eight hours the Leathernecks clambered up the 45-degree cliffs despite grenades and demolition charges hurled down into their faces by the desperate defenders.

Before that Mount Suribachi was hammered steadily for more than a week by naval guns and aerial bombs. The defenders fought on until killed in their dugouts by Marines advancing hole by hole and cave by cave with flamethrowers, grenades and rifles.

In his earlier communique, Admiral Nimitz reported strong Japanese counter-attacks on both flanks of the American force edging—only feet or yards at a time—toward the southern fringe of Iwo's central airfield.

Plane Base in U. S. Hands.

The main airdrome to the south already is in American hands.

One of the counter-thrusts apparently was repulsed, but there was no report on the other, on the American right flank.

By official count, 644 United States Marines were killed, 4,168 wounded and 560 were missing up to 6 P. M. Wednesday. This count covered the first fifty-eight hours of the Iwo fighting. During the same period 1,222 Japanese dead were counted.

No invasion of the Pacific war has been so costly for the Americans. Even on Tarawa, previously considered the bloodiest fight of the war, Marine casualties slightly exceeded 3,000 for the seventy-two hours required to kill every Japanese on the island.

The northern battle line of the three United States Marine divisions fighting on Iwo fringed the southern end of the central airfield, which is on a plateau. This is where the Japanese launched two counter-attacks yesterday with rifles and mortars, but came under the withering fire of American artillery and naval guns.

Jap Air Power Revives.

Japanese air strength appeared to be reviving after crippling blows to Tokyo airfields delivered last week by American carrier planes. One small group of Japanese aircraft attacked shipping near Iwo yesterday and two other small groups approached the area.

American fighters and anti-aircraft fire shot down six planes.

Enemy bombers made a similar attack at sunset Wednesday, causing "some" damage to fleet units.

The most cheering note in today's communique was the report that conditions on the beaches were generally improved, and a substantial quantity of supplies were unloaded.

The beaches still were littered with the debris born of D day when enemy artillery and mortars raked the American landing parties.

Marine combat correspondent Sgt. David Dempsey wrote that a thick layer of debris extended for two miles along the beaches and "wrecked hulls of scores of boats testify to the price we paid to get our troops ashore on this vital island."

Dempsey said that Japanese artillery, rockets and heavy mortars for two days "laid a curtain of fire along the shore. Their weapons had been aimed at the beach long before we landed. They couldn't miss, and they didn't."

He added: "Scattered among the wreckage is death. . . . On D day beach parties suffered heavy casualties in killed and wounded. . . . Death is not a pretty sight, but it has taken possession of our beach."

Vice - Admiral John Hoover, commander of forward areas who watched the invasion from a warship, disclosed in an interview that Monday's invasion "was touch-and-go for awhile" and for a time "our position on the beach appeared doomed."

With Mount Suribachi in American hands, the danger to the beaches will be greatly lessened. Intense fire from the northern plateau area prevented the use of the northern sector of the beach at first, and Mount Suribachi menaced — although to a lesser extent—operations at the southern end.

The Twenty-eighth Marine Regiment which raised the flag on the mountain is commanded by Col. Harry B. Liversedge of Pine Grove, Cal., who holds the Navy Cross after leading successful attacks in the New Georgia Island campaign in the Solomons.

New Weapon Used by Japs

By MORRIE LANSBERG

ABOARD ADMIRAL TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF IWO JIMA, Feb. 23 (Via Navy Radio) (AP).—The Japanese are using a new weapon—1,000-pound rocket mortars—in their desperate fight for Iwo Jima.

This was confirmed tonight by American gunnery experts. The missiles exploded on Iwo's southeast beach where the U. S. Marines landed four days ago.

The shell is described as having a nose fuse and a rocket motor. Launching platforms probably are required to launch these shells, and they probably were fired from rough terrain to the north which offers the enemy excellent cover.

The appearance of the new weapon again emphasizes the fact that Iwo's defenses are first rate. Another example of the Nipponese strength developed today when several hits by rocket firing planes were necessary to destroy an enemy pillbox.

The pillboxes are of concrete, covered with sand. Most of them are not new. This shows that the Japanese began long ago to build Iwo into the fortress that it is.

Gunnery experts said the rocket mortars probably were launched by jet propulsion, carried through the air by rocket power and then detonated at their destination by their nose fuses.

The enemy also used regular rockets, artillery, dual purpose antiaircraft guns, regular mortars and automatic weapons.

Japs Fling Themselves Into Volcano On Iwo

By Morrie Landsberg

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship Off Iwo, Volcano Islands, Feb. 23 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—American Marines watched Japanese soldiers fling themselves into volcanic Mount Suribachi yesterday as the Leathernecks drew up the steep slopes of the dominating formation on the southern tip of Iwo Island.

In contrast to the fierce resistance to the north, "a number" of enemy troops chose spectacular suicide to being hunted down in caves of the 566-foot high mountain while others defiantly heaved grenades at Marines moving into position to assault the isolated fortress of lava rock.

First Jap Raid

There were no trails leading to the crater rim from which the Japanese jumped. Possibly the Japanese realized they had no choice except being killed or surrender—and Japanese just don't surrender to United States Marines. Or they may have been stunned or crazed by the incessant bombardment by naval warships and carrier planes.

Enemy planes succeeded in making their first raid last night. They came in the half twilight of the mist-shrouded sunset last night. In front of us we could see blasts of fire from United States ships shelling Japanese positions on Iwo. In the distance, on the gray horizon broken by red bursts of anti-aircraft fire, were the striking Nipponese planes. Sometimes there would be flames that told of the fiery finish of a plane. Seven, in all, were shot down, by our planes and ships' guns. But some ships were damaged.

Fight In Cold Rain

The 4th Marines fought in cold rain in the central sector of the island against continued strong opposition.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, of the 4th Division, told Jim Lindsley, Associated Press correspondent, that a series of Jap sorties against the marine lines were supposedly the Japanese version of a co-ordinated counterassault. He said most of the attacks were light.

Lindsley also reported that the Marines were puzzled by the almost complete absence of Japanese tanks. The fact that only three enemy armored vehicles were seen led Cates to believe that either the enemy tanks were knocked out by the United States bombardment or that the Japanese were saving them for later counteroffensives.

Landing Hampered

Bad weather hampered the landing of supplies and shore-to-ship movements. A heavy surf tossed small boats about and many erews lost the way in the foglike mist. On the beach, handling of supplies was difficult because our vehicles were unable to travel over the soft lava sands. Even the jeeps couldn't make it. They had to be pulled out.

Steel matting was installed as far as possible on the beach to facilitate the use of vehicles. The beach was under intermittent fire by Japanese artillery and mortars.

Mines As Well As Gunfire Made Suribachi Difficult

By Hamilton Faron

With the 5th Marine Division, Iwo Jima, Feb. 22 [AP—Via Navy Radio—Delayed] — American Marines are fighting man-to-man in the battle for the conquest of Mount Suribachi, the most heavily defended Japanese position so far encountered on Iwo Jima.

[Leathernecks of the 28th Regiment reached the rim of the 566-foot mountain at noon today, a day after this story was written.]

Standing on the rolling plain near the base of the extinct volcano, I watched flame throwers sear into caves in the lower terraces, saw Marines using pistols, carbines and grenades, driving the Nipponese from countless positions on the side of the steep cliff.

Time To Duck

I watched, that is, until a series of sharp reports—like a string of Fourth of July firecrackers—warned of enemy light machine guns going into action from snipers' positions, or until the whine of a single bullet told me the sniper had the range.

Mortar shells also clumped down with dismaying regularity, forcing everybody to dive for the protection of shell holes scattered across the plain.

Moving closer to the base of the volcano, which the Marines have nicknamed "Mortar Mountain" and "Snipers' Summit," fire of all types increased in frequency.

Mighty Blast

Then came the land mines. Crouching and half-running, I moved toward the command post of the 28th Marine Regiment. There was a mighty blast of flame. Debris flew into the air. As I dropped to the ground for protection from flying bits of metal I saw three Marines throw themselves aside fro mthe blast, about 25 feet away. A few seconds later I moved forward. One Marine was dead, another was wounded. First-aid men quickly arrived.

The men had been inching around a rocky promotory seeking to track down a sniper and had tripped over a wire on a land mine.

Grenades Hurled Down

From the mouths of Jap caves, in adidtion to arms fire, all kinds of grenades are dropped down the cliffs on Leathernecks moving up the mountain side.

Lieut. Col. George A. Roll, of Westview, Pa., co-ordinating scattered reports at 5th Division headquarters, summarized the Suribachi fight this way:

"It's got to be a man-to-man fight, the way they're dug in. We can't hope to do it another way, despite our superiority in strength and equipment."

Whole Blood Saves Men On Iwo

Iwo, Volcano Islands, Feb. 23 [AP—Via Navy Radio] —Large-scale administration of whole blood forwarded from the United States has saved an uncounted number of lives in the bloodiest battle of the Pacific war, according to Commander R. S. Silvis, 4th Marine Division surgeon.

"I know five men whose lives were definitely saved by the difference between whole blood and plasma," Dr. Silvis said yesterday.

Flown From 'Frisco

"These cases are the demarcation line, plainly drawn. There are scores of other cases where whole blood probably meant the difference between life and death. The number probably runs into the hundreds."

The blood was flown in iced containers from San Francisco to Guam and brought daily by plane to this battle front, where the Yanks and the Japanese are contesting for a tiny bit of lava on the ocean highway to Tokyo.

There is no shortage yet, Silvis said, but "tell the folks at home to keep it coming."

Needed For Hemorrhages

Silvis said that plasma is nearly as efficient as whole blood in shock cases, but not for injuries with heavy hemorrhages.

"Plasma replaces the blood fluid," he explained, "but not the cells."

"We were prepared for a few deaths due to the reaction. But so far there has not been even a mild reaction in any case, much less a death due to transfusion."

Most Wounds Gaping Holes

Silvis said the nature of wounds in this battle makes whole blood administration especially important. There are very few bullet wounds.

Most wounds are deep gaping holes torn by shell fragments, with profuse bleeding and heavy shock.

Iwo Pounded Heavier Than Normandy, Africa

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—Lt. Cmdr. John McClain, the first man to return from the battle of Iwo Jima, said today it was preceded by a naval bombardment heavier than Normandy received.

He flew here with the first motion picture films of the battle. The movie coverage was his job.

McClain, a native of Marion, Ohio, has lived in recent years in Hollywood where he was a writer before being commissioned in the Navy.

Describing the action at Iwo he said "I never saw in my life such naval bombardment—not even was at the North Africa and Normandy landings." He said he believed that the first assault troops got ashore without heavy casualties because the shelling of the Japanese back from the beaches and into their caves.

28 U.S. Ships Hit, Japs Claim

San Francisco, Feb. 23 (AP)—An Imperial headquarters announcement claiming that "28 enemy warships had been sunk or heavily damaged" in waters adjacent to Iwo Island in fighting from February 2 until today was broadcast by the Japanese Domei news agency.

There was no confirmation of this claim from any Allied source. The Domei dispatch, beamed to North America and recorded here, follows:

"Instantaneously sunk were one aircraft carrier, one battleship, three cruisers and three vessels of unidentified category, while vessels sunk otherwise were one aircraft carrier, one cruiser, one vessel of unidentified category, two mine sweepers and four landing transports."

"Damaged were one cruiser and eight landing transports, while two vessels of unidentified category were set ablaze. Since these are only the confirmed war results and do not include results attained by our special attack corps, members of which are expected to inflict substantial damage, losses actually suffered by the enemy must have been far greater than indicated by the imperial headquarters announcement."

A broadcast by the Domei news agency said "the war situation on the island has not undergone any major change."

1,900 Planes

Berlin, Railway Lines Lashed in Huge Attack

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP).—Great fleets of R. A. F. heavy bombers roared over Germany again last night and early today, maintaining the massive air support to the new Allied offensive on the Western Front by hammering the Reich's battered traffic centers and rail lines.

One of the targets for the huge armada once more was much-battered Berlin but emphasis in the assault remained on the Nazis' transportation. Pforzheim, a communications center in the upper Rhineland, was one of the rail hubs hammered.

The air over the English coastline reverberated for hours with the sound of heavy motors as formation after formation of bombers winged toward Germany. One great fleet required more than an hour to pass over the North Sea.

The British heavies made a concentrated raid on Pforzheim, between Munster and Bielefeld. Berlin was pounded for the fourth consecutive night.

Twelve thousand American and British bombers and fighters—air power more massive than employed on "D" Day in France—virtually have paralyzed Germany's vast rail network during the last two days.

An estimated 20,000 tons of explosives rained down on Germany's battered transportation system in 48 hours of unusually fine flying weather. Hundreds of vital centers in the great German rail web were smashed.

Five thousand planes of seven Allied air commands were thrown into the campaign of amputating the Reich's rail sinews yesterday, following up the overpowering assault of 7,000 planes Thursday.

Nearly 2,000 American bombers and fighters stabbed so close to the Eastern Front they came within 150 miles of linking up with a similarly powerful air offensive undertaken by the Russians.

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—At least twenty freight yards and other rail targets were blasted today by 1,900 American planes continuing the gigantic offensive to knock out the German transport system that feeds both the Eastern and Western fronts.

A force of more than 1,250 Fortresses and Liberators and 650 fighters followed the same pattern as yesterday's assault and spread out in small formations to smash at widespread targets from the relatively low altitude of 6,000 to 12,000 feet.

There was every indication that this operation was only part of a free-for-all attack by all seven Allied air commands in this theater and Italy which probably were putting 5,000 planes into the air following yesterday's blow by 7,000 bombers and fighters.

From Italy Fortresses and Liberators again carried out a giant assault today with attacks on rail lines near Vienna, Innsbruck, Klagenfurt and Villach.

20,000 In Three Days

It was the eleventh day of ruinous attacks on Germany from both west and south in which 20,000 planes probably have been thrown against the Reich in the last three days.

More than 1,100 aircraft from Italy joined in the attack yesterday, hitting 54 separate rail targets in Germany, Austria and Italy, and the RAF kept the offensive going last night, with Mosquito bombers hitting Berlin and other objectives.

Eighth Air Force targets today were located in a triangular area stretching from Leipzig to south of Nuernberg.

Among the first places indentified as targets were Crailsheim, Kitzingen, southeast of Wurzburg; Ansbach, Neumarket and Treuchtlingen, all junctions through which German troops and supplies pass on the way to the Russian front.

10,000 Sorties

About 10,000 sorties were flown by dusk yesterday, probably exceeding the size of the attacks when 13,000 sorties were flown in a full 24 hours on D-day.

American, British and French tactical planes—light, medium and fighter bombers—based on the Continent flew more than 3,300 sorties, with some planes making two or three missions and racing up and down hundreds of miles of railroads.

These tactical outfits claimed the destruction of 290 locomotives, 841 freight cars, 300 motor vehicles and 65 bridges. Rail tracks were cut temporarily at 279 places, at least.

Allied losses, excluding those of the 15th Air Force in Italy, totaled 8 American heavy bombers, 5 American medium bombers, 21 light bombers and 40 fighters. Losses among Italian-based planes were 23—an over-all total of 97.

Yesterday's Targets

Among targets of the 15th Air Force in Germany yesterday were Immenstadt, Memmingen, Kempten, Rosenheim, Landshut, Plattling, Grafing, Weilheim, Altenmarkt and Partenkirchen.

In Austria the Italian-based planes attacked Spittal, Klagenfurt, Pichel, Lienz, Piesendorf, Reutte, Sillian, Jenbach, Worgl, Rattenburg, Rodstadt, Bischofen and St. Johann.

The destruction of 50 locomotives and 50 cars was claimed by the 15th Air Force, with almost every rail line leading into and out of Munich hit.

The Germans gave the first word today that these attacks were continuing at high gear.

40,000 Took Part

At 11 A.M., the German radio said that advance elements of a great armada stretching out 200 miles had reached the Brunswick area. Another formation was spotted over Austria, suggesting that 15th Air Force bombers from Italy also were out.

Approximately 40,000 airmen took part in yesterday's raids, during which some 8,000 tons of explosives were loosed on targets from Denmark to Austria.

Allied air chiefs have had the operation up their sleeves for some time, and have only been waiting for a break in the weather to give the word.

The destruction of fifty locomotives and fifty cars was claimed by the Fifteenth Air Force, with almost every rail line leading into and out of Munich hit.

The Germans gave the first word today that these attacks were continuing at high gear.

At 11 A. M., the German radio said that advance elements of a great armada stretching out 200 miles had reached the Brunswick area. Another formation was spotted over Austria, suggesting that Fifteenth Air Force Bombers from Italy also were out.

The attack on Berlin last night was in line with concentrated Allied effort to knock out vital German communications centers.

Approximately 7,000 Allied bombers and fighters hammered about 100 enemy communications centers yesterday in one of the greatest air assaults in history. Approximately 40,000 airmen took part in the raids, during which some 8,000 tons of explosives were loosed on targets from Denmark to Austria.

Allied air chiefs have had the operation up their sleeves for some time, and have only been waiting for a break in the weather to give the word.

Turks Join War At Big 3 Edict

LONDON, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Turkey declared war on Germany and Japan tonight after nearly six years of uneasy neutrality, frankly admitting that the declaration was exacted by the Big Three as the price of admission to the World Security Conference at San Francisco in April.

Hinting that the weight of Russian armies might be thrown into the Pacific war as soon as Germany is crushed, the Ankara announcement implied strongly that the Soviet Union was aligned with Britain and the United States in demanding that still-neutral nations declare war on Japan as well as Germany if they expected to have a voice in the future world organization.

DEADLINE OF MARCH 1

Turkey's move is not likely to be of much military importance to the Allies.

Asking the Turkish Assembly to approve the war declaration, Foreign Minister Hasan Saka said that the Big Three at the Crimea conference had agreed on belligerent status as qualification for membership in the United Nations, and pointed out that invitations to meet the deadline of March 1 had been presented to other nations as well as Turkey. The Assembly's vote was unanimous.

From Cairo it was reported that other nations in the Middle East, where President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill stopped off for conferences on their way home from the Crimea, also might declare war on Germany and Japan, including Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Transjordan.

RED ACTION HINTED

The suggestion that Russia had joined the western Allies in demanding neutrals declare war on Japan as well as Germany was contained in the following statement to the assembly by Foreign Minister Hasan Saka, as broadcast by the Ankara radio:

"In the name of his government the British Ambassador handed to me a memorandum in which it was stated that, in accordance with a decision of the Crimea conference taken by the three great Allied leaders, those nations will be qualified as 'associative nations' by the side of the United Nations who will have declared war on the Axis Powers before March 1, 1945."

The Foreign Minister, informing the assembly that adherence to the United Nations declaration would be expected also, said that the declaration of war within the framework of the decisions of the Crimea conference offered "the occasion and the possibility of contributing yet another decisive move in the Allied cause."

Turkey is hardly likely to get any troops into battle, at least in the war with Germany, and unanimous approval of the war declaration by the assembly was probably less valuable to the military purposes of the Allies than was maintenance of Turkish neutrality in the face of terriffic German pressure in the early years of the war.

She has a strong army of half a million or more men, considerably better off now in arms and motorized equipment than at the start of the war. Britain has sent large amounts of munitions and equipment to Turkey, much of it captured German material which fell into British hands during the rout of Nazi Marshal Rommel in Libya in 1943.

The Turkish Navy is hardly more than a token force—one battle cruiser 33 years old, two overage cruisers and a few destroyers, submarines, gunboats, minelayers and minesweepers. The Turkish air force is efficient but small.

Shortly before he spoke to ask for the war vote Saka signed with U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt a formal lend-lease agreement which had been under negotiation for several months.

The lend-lease signature on the same day that Turkey went to war was a coincidence, but Turkey's lend-lease shipments may now be augmented if Turkey proceeds from the declaration to positive military action.

Turks Declare War On Japs, Germans

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—Ankara announced today that the Turkish Assembly had voted unanimously to declare war on Germany and Japan as a result of a decision of the Big Three to qualify as "Associated nations" all countries which take up arms against the Axis before March 1.

The Assembly also voted unanimously to adhere to the United Nations declaration.

The disclosure that a declaration of war was the price of a seat at the San Francisco conference on world security in April was made by the Turkish Foreign Minister.

Told Of Invitation

He told the Assembly that the British Ambassador on February 20 had handed the Ministry a memorandum in which Turkey was invited to the San Francisco conference if the declaration of war was adopted.

The Turkish Government "reached the conclusion that acceptance of Great Britain's request to declare war would be entirely in keeping with our alliance and would serve the interests of the policy which we have unfalteringly followed always, and of which we have established many proofs and manifestations," the Foreign Minister said.

The Turkish announcement pictured Russia in the front against Japan.

Others May Declare

The Foreign Minister said the British memorandum stated that, "in accordance with the decision taken by the three great Allied leaders, those nations will be qualified as associated nations by the side of the United Nations who will have declared war on the Axis powers before March 1, 1945."

The Big Three at their Yalta meeting held out the same price for a seat at San Francisco to Egypt, Iceland, Chile, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela, the Ankara broadcast said.

Cairo dispatches yesterday said Egypt, along with several other Middle Eastern countries, might declare war.

All the South American countries named have entered their declarations of belligerency recently.

Turkey's declaration of war on Germany and Japan bring several hundred thousand soldiers to the Allies' side.

Ankara said that Turkey had been invited to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco in April.

By any standards the Turk is a good soldier and fighting in his own element—rough terrain where individual courage is the yardstick of success—he probably is as good as any in the world.

Turkey's small but effective air force is manned by an ardent group of young Turks who combine the old fighting tradition with a love of good machinery.

The Turkish air force has not been previously tested in battle but British and American instructors, who have assisted in building up the force, testify that the individual pilots show uniform daring in the air.

Well developed air bases will be available for the operation of British and American bomber forces. These bases, secretly situated in the southwestern corner of the country for the most part, have been steadily improved throughout the war years with Allied assistance.

Organizationally the Turkish army is modeled on the German Wehrmacht.

So far as he follows international affairs the average Turkish soldier is pro-Allied. His father discovered he did not like Germany when that nation was an overbearing and dictatorial ally in the last war. But most of all he is obedient and loves a fight.

By American standards the lot of the Turkish soldier is a poor one. His uniform is badly made of poor material and his pay is fantastically low (approximately 20 cents a month). His officers have the right of life and death over him.

But the Turkish peasant stock from which the common soldiers are drawn is used to a tough life. The normal hardships of battle are little [illegible] than he is accustomed to [illegible] daily life.

New Dutch Regime Sworn In by Queen

LONDON, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Holland voluntarily reshuffled her cabinet today to give the resistance movement a sacrifice-earned voice in the Government. By retaining E. N. Van Kleffens as Foreign Minister, it assured small nations of an able champion at the coming World Security Conference at San Francisco.

Queen Wilhelmina swore into office the new government, headed by Professor P. S. Gerbrandy as Premier and War Co-Ordinator. Only five of the old cabinet retained their posts.

Retention of Van Kleffens, one of Europe's most experienced statesmen, indicates that Holland will take a front-line place in the fight to prevent the small countries from being assigned a weak role in the prospective world league.

New Dutch Cabinet Sworn In by Queen

London, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Queen Wilhelmina swore into office today a new Dutch Cabinet formed by Premier P. S. Gerbrandy. It includes five men who were not in the former Gerbrandy cabinet. E. N. Van Kleffens continues as Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Commons Debate Extended

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—Next week's Commons debate on the Crimea Conference, originally scheduled for two days, has been extended to three days. Each session will run three hours longer than normal. Prime Minister Churchill expects to demand a vote of confidence in the debate, which starts Tuesday.

REPORT DORIOT DEAD

London, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Jacques Doriot, French arch-collaborationist, was killed when Allied dive-bombers attacked his automobile in south Germany, the Berlin radio said today.

Doriot, leader of the French People's party, had been mentioned repeatedly as most likely to succeed Pierre Laval during the Vichy regime. His stormy career began as a Communist in the Chamber of Deputies twenty years ago. He attempted to merge the principles of Communism and Fascism, openly approved collaboration with Germany and urged a French declaration of war on Britain and the United States.

BritaintoGet30,000U.S.Houses

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The United States plans to ship to Britain 30,000 temporary houses, comparable in size to the standard British bungalow, Duncan Sandys, Minister of Works, said today.

Reds 'To Pursue Nazis To Argentina'

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today:

"The conscience of our people is so outraged by Hitler's army that it seems that even if the Germans went to Argentina we would follow them there."

Previous Moscow broadcasts have charged that Nazis were fleeing to Argentina via Spain.

Tedder Maintains Liaison With Reds

LONDON, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder has been made responsible for liaison between the western Allies and the Russians, Reuters said today, without quoting any authority. Military officials in London declined to comment on the report.

(A BBC broadcast recorded by NBC said Marshal Tedder had conferred with Premier Josef Stalin on the assault now in progress to coordinate the bombings with the ground action.)

ATTEMPT ANTWERP RAID

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Germans made an unsuccessful bid last night to provide fighter protection for E-boats attempting to break into Allied shipping routes to Antwerp, the Air Ministry disclosed today.

None of the Nazi fighters were shot down, but they were driven off and for the third straight night aircraft of the R. A. F. coastal command broke up E-boat formations in the lower end of the North Sea.

Drive For World Press Freedom Seen Gaining

London, Feb. 23 (AP)—Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuter, news agency, declared today that the campaign for international press freedom was gathering force and saw hope that clashing British-American and Russian conceptions of a free press might eventually "draw together."

Praising the drive begun in America for free access to the news and untrammeled transmission of news between countries, Chancellor said full success depended on the realization that "there are two different conceptions of press freedom—our conception and the Russian conception."

"Only Practical Line"

He pointed out that the Soviet press was controlled by the state and said criticism of the Government there by the press would be "unthinkable."

"If Russia is to play a part in this press freedom movement," he continued, "the only practical line is to emphasize the standards accepted in common."

He spoke before the Czechoslovak Institute and told the leaders that "you will soon have to work out measures in Czechoslovakia for the re-establishment of a strong, independent, democratic newspaper press."

French Plan New Deal

He said he had just returned from Paris, where leaders were planning a new deal for the French press. There was a realization in France, he continued, that the central problem was to discover means of maintaining an independent financial basis for newspapers and "to avoid the risk of newspapers being subsidized by special interests with resultant suppression or distortion of the news."

He said he believed that in time the reconstituted newspaper industry of France would be able to support another world news agency operating from Paris and join the agencies now existing in Britain and the United States.

Danger Cited

Chancellor said the campaign begun in America for "world right of interchange of news protected by international compact" was in danger of becoming confused by minor issues.

"This danger is inevitable," he said, "but I should like to emphasize the deep idealism with which this campaign has been launched and the disinterestedness of the man who is its real sponsor."

Chancellor said after his address that he referred to Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, when he spoke of the "real sponsor" of the free press program.

France Approves Lend-Lease Pact

PARIS, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—The cabinet approved today a Lend-Lease agreement recently negotiated in Washington. Its terms have not been made public, but are understood to call for roughly $2,000,000,000 in U. S. raw materials, armament and machinery. France in turn would supply about $1,000,000,000 in goods.

France Plans Profits Refunds To U.S. Firms

Paris, Feb. 23 (AP)—Thousands of American and English business men are going to receive from the French Government more than $30,000,000, representing the profits from German operation of their Paris firms during the occupation.

Checks totaling $8,000,000 already are en route to some of the 38,000 individuals and firms which, a Finance Ministry official said, would profit by France's gesture.

The sums range from $520,000 for the du Pont Company, Wilmington, Del., to $1.14 for the Thomas Crowell Company, of New York.

"We've decided to pay American and English firms and individuals the full amount now and hope to collect from the Germans after the war," said the official.

A Government census placed the total amount involved at $30,376,400.

Havas Chief Gets 5 Years

PARIS, Feb. 23 (AP).—Emile Jore, chief of the Havas news agency's foreign service until the liberation of France, was sentenced today to five years' imprisonment. The Paris purge court convicted him of collusion with Germany during the occupation. A colleague named Holstein, reported to have fled to Germany, was sentenced in absentia to death.

GOULD PROPERTIES BLOCKED BY FRENCH

Paris, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—The French Government blocked all the property of Frank J. Gould and his wife in Monte Carlo tonight. The action was taken by agreement with the principality of Monaco.

The Goulds have a home in the principality and are reported to have important holdings there. Mrs. Gould is under investigation in connection with dealings with the Monaco Bank, which French authorities said was controlled by the Germans. She has said that she made an investment of about $100,000 to keep the Germans from kidnaping her ailing husband.

Her property in France has been sequestered pending the outcome of an investigation, but no formal charge has been lodged against her.

ARMY BLACK MART INQUIRY DEMANDED

Paris, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—An exhaustive investigation of factors lying behind black market operations by Army supply troops in France was urged yesterday by an Army prosecutor in addressing a court-martial which acquitted Major Walter H. Marlin of a charge of neglect of duty.

The prosecutor, Lieut.-Col. Carmon C. Harris, declared in closing the case that an investigation should be made regardless of how far and how high it may reach. He said the case had disclosed "neglect of duty from Camp Stoneham, Cal., to Versailles."

Major Marlin was commander of the 716th Railway Battalion in France and was tried in connection with alleged pilfering operations by about 100 members of his command.

During the trial a defense witness testified that Marlin was incapable of commanding a battalion of 800 men and never had been given a chance to learn how.

"Some one passed him for a major's commission and unfortunately they are not on trial here today," Col. Harris said yesterday. "I suggest that one of these days there will be a clean-up. Let the Army show it is big enough to correct its own mistakes."

Lieut.-Col. J. Richard Baldwin, chief of the military railway branch in the Army's rail division, said yesterday in Washington that the civilian experience of Marlin fully warranted his command of a railway battalion. He said it covered thirty-six years of railroading including several years in supervisory jobs.

Baldwin said that Marlin was recommended for the major's rank by L. D. McDonald, vice-president of the Southern Pacific. Marlin applied for the commission on September 21, 1942, and was appointed several months later.

More Hills Won By Allies in Italy

ROME, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Swift and well-timed "one-two punches" by U. S. mountain troops and the Brazilian Expeditionary Force have knocked the Germans off the last heights from which they had dominated for months the long stretch of Highway 64 from Pistoia to the battlefronts southwest of Bologna, the Allied Command announced today.

Brazilian troops in their first major victory of the war captured 3000-foot Monte Castello on Wednesday and then American doughboys on their left took the summit of 3500-foot Monte Torraccio.

OVERLOOK BOLOGNA ROAD

From these heights the enemy long had hampered troop and supply movement over a large section of Highway 64, leading northward from Pistoia to Bologna.

The co-ordinated action was described officially as a local attack and the nature of the terrain beyond into the Panaro River valley supported the assumption.

The Germans hastily organized numerous small counter-attacks which were smashed with heavy enemy losses. Allied casualties were described as relatively low, particularly in view of the deeply entrenched defenses.

BUILD AERIAL TRAMWAY

An aerial cable tramway was constructed over the difficult terrain for evacuation of casualties. The line makes a vertical descent of 1350 feet in a complete run of only 1800 feet.

This reduced the time needed to evacuate the wounded from ten hours to four minutes.

Yanks Win Second Italian Peak

Rome, Feb. 23 (AP)—American troops, exploiting the capture of Mount Belvedere west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway, today stormed through elaborate German trench systems and seized 3,500-foot Mount Torraccia in a 2-mile advance.

The Americans launched their attack from both sides of Belvedere and advanced in the face of fierce resistance.

The attacks were over terrain so difficult that some casualties were being evacuated by a cable tramway which makes virtually a vertical descent of 1,350 feet in a complete run of 1,800 feet.

Counterthrusts Repulsed

German counterattacks involving mostly 60 to 80 men were thrown against the Americans, but all were repulsed.

Brazilian troops on the Americans' right flank captured Mount Castello and dug in on the peak under heavy mortar fire yesterday. They suffered less than 50 casualties—nearly all wounded.

The mountain had been stormed three times previously by the Brazilians, and yesterday's attack brought the total Allied casualties to 400.

Rome Has 3 Flourishing Cigarette Black Marts

By Noland Norgaard

ome, Feb. 20 (AP)—The cigar-hungry civilian back in the ited States may be interested know that he is not the only man the world who has difficulty in tting what he wants to smoke.

Let him consider the plight of Italian friend who complained me last night that Rome's black rket never offers the somewhat usual brand of American cigar-es he happens to prefer.

'I cannot get anything except ndard brands—and, of course, English cigarettes," he ex-ained.

Still Well Stocked

Despite somewhat more stringent ntrols imposed on the sources of pply lately, Rome's black mar-ets are well stocked with both merican and British cigarettes ent to Italy for the Allied armies.

How these supplies reach the lack market is now the subject f investigation, but so far respon-ibility has not been fixed publicly.

It seems apparent, however, that igarette bootleggers are supplied through the theft of American cigarettes after they arrive in this country for the troops.

Prices Listed

Black market prices for standard brand American cigarettes run from 140 to 150 lire ($1.40 to $1.50) per pack. English brands usually are about $1.20.

Rome has three well-patronized cigarette black markets. One flourishes in a street beside the Central Railroad station, another in the big general black market center on the Tor di Nona, just across the Tiber River from the Italian Ministry of Justice, and the third on the Viale Giulio Cesari.

To Americans old enough to re-member well the days of American prohibition there is something familiar in the workings of all three of these busy spots.

"Contact Man"

The "contact man" whom one ap-proaches to make a purchase sel-dom carries his own wares. When he is satisfied that the customer is on the level he calls a helper wh produces the cigarettes.

Even the substantial profit fron straightforward black-market sale are insufficient for some Italians Recently, Romans who bought care fully sealed British cigarette opened the packs to find they con tained only wadded waste paper.

At the present time, American troops in Italy are receiving one package of cigarettes a day. Per-haps a few nonsmokers take the trouble to peddle their weekly ration to black-market operators, but their contributions would be only an insignificant part of the fairly liberal black-market stock.

Favorite Story

Occasionally, an Italian purchas-er runs into trouble with the law forbidding him to possess Allied military supplies. A favorite story told in Rome concerns a business man found in possession of three packages of American cigarettes and sentenced to one day in jail for each package.

He sent a messenger to inform his wife that he would be away from home for three days. The good woman sent back a parcel with the messenger. Jail attendants who opened it found six more packs of cigarettes.

Terror In Berlin Raid Shelter Described

FEB 24 1945

By Stig Carlson

[Swedish newspaper correspondent who recently returned to Stock-holm from Berlin] (AP)

Stockholm, Feb. 23—While the German home front has held to-gether under the Nazis' iron grip, the big question now is whether the nerves of the people—reduced to the barest necessities of life—can continue to stand up under Allied bombings and the threat of the Russian advance.

Berliners nowadays actually are very tough in respect to bombings. Not even the devastating effects of the last large-scale American air at-tack on February 3 could make them forget the still greater and imminent danger outside the east-ern gates of Berlin nor long delay the work of erecting barricades in every street.

I was in Berlin during that last great American attack. After ex-periencing more than 700 alerts and at least half as many raids, I can say that this unquestionably was one of the war's worst bomb-ings.

Thousands In Shelter

I sought safety in an under-ground railway tunnel which is one of Berlin's "safest" shelters. Thou-sands of people were packed to-gether there. They stood in clusters or sat on overcoats along the mas-sive concrete walls—a grotesque scene in the ghostly light.

Then the first bombs came. The ground heaved, lights flickered. It seemed as though the concrete walls bulged. People scrambled about like frighened animals.

Girls in a group of Russian la-borers began to sing. "Shut up!" somebody shouted, but the girls sang on.

Then came the next load of bombs—six or seven right above us and a string farther away. The lights in the tunnel went out. We sat in musty darkness. Some pocket torches were lighted, but proved useless in the cloud of chalky dust which came welling through the tunnel. It penetrated eyes, mouth, nose and ears.

Kneeled And Prayed

People kneeled on the asphalt and gravel of the railway tracks and prayed.

After the ear-shattering explo-sions there came complete silence.

Air pressure had increased in the tunnel, and I held my mouth open to equalize the impact of the next salvo on my eardrums.

A heavy bomb crashed through the tunnel roof a couple of hundred yards away and a wave of cold air followed by dust swept over us.

In the distance someone yelled for a doctor. The clamor for help was taken up by many voices, which were drowned in the next wave of bombs, more fearful than the first.

Upper Floors Hit

Explosions shook the concrete structure to its very foundation. By the crash you could tell several bombs had pierced through the pper floor of the elevated railway tation.

"For heaven's sake, stop it!" a woman screamed somewhere in the darkness.

"Shut up with that," broke in a ugh man's voice. A stir ran through the tightly packed people.

Four more strings of bombs tum bled down on us, shaking the ground like a series of earthquakes.

Finally there came a prolonged silence and we sat awaiting the clear signal. It was difficult to breathe in the dust. No one said much. Some women discussed in low voices the various types of Allied bombers, speaking with as much familiarity as though they were talking about asparagus.

Some Were Killed

The all-clear finally came. Above in the railway station there were dead. One man on a stretcher ap-parently had had his lungs crushed by the air pressure. Hardly any of the crowd gushing out of the tun-nel paid any attention to the dead. Everyone had his own troubles to take care of.

In the square a hurricane of fire raged. Smoke and flames limited visibility to less than 100 yards. I was blinded by smoke and soot.

Even before I arrived at my hotel I knew I had been bombed out for the fourth time. The Esplanade Hotel had been crushed by nine heavy bombs—of which six were full hits.

People's Court Burning

Bomb craters blocked the Belle-vue Strasse and many buildings along it were burning, including the detested People's Court across the street from the one-time Ameri-can Consulate General.

Outside the court many Berlin-ers had stopped. Streams of others were rushing by with bundles and suitcases. Half-suppressed taunts could be heard. The report spread that Dr. Roland Freisler, president of the court, had been killed.

Apparently nobody regretted his death. He had pronounced too many death sentences.

Time Bombs Later

Freisler was surprised by the alarm during a court session. He ordered the prisoners into a shel-ter, but was hit on the temple by a splinter as he was about to go down himself.

For two days after this raid de-tonations could be heard through-out the city as duds and time bombs exploded.

That night I traveled by car from the Stettiner Railway Station to Tempelhof Airfield. It took me two hours instead of the normal fifteen minutes. Great fires raged through-out the oldest part of Berlin, and at least every other street was blocked off because of danger from unexploded bombs. Life convicts were removing the charges.

More than 25,000 persons were killed. A full hit on one under-ground station alone killed 320 refugees from the east.

Water, gas and electricity were restored temporarily only after a long time, and for two weeks it was possible to telephone only from one sector of the city.

Postal and telegraph service also was knocked out.

250 U. S. CAPTIVES ARE FREED SO FAR

Moscow, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—The United States military mission to-day received approximately 150 additional names of American prisoners of war who were liber-ated from Oflag 64 at Szubin, Poland, making the total to date 250.

The names were reported by detachments sent by Major-Gen. J. Russell Deane to Praga, Brest Litovsk and Lwow to locate and assist former prisoners of war.

Seven United States 8th Air Force flyers who crashed behind Red Army lines, and an American engineer sergeant who escaped from Stalag 3C in western Poland, arrived by Soviet plane in Moscow last night. They were Major Rob-ert Rosenthal, of 1595 East Thir-teenth Street, Brooklyn; First Lieutenant Robert H. Stropp, of Rome, N. Y.; Second Lieutenant Harry N. Schultz, of St. Louis; Technical Sergeant Howard U. Ganson, of Buffalo; Sergeant Paul L. Kerr, of Philadelphia; Technical Sergeant Charles N. Weber, of Elkton, S. D.; Staff Sergeant George A. Windish, of Louisburg, Kan., and Sergeant George Luka-shuwitz, of 1789 Bathgate Avenue, the Bronx.

1,000 U.S. Prisoners In Reich Moved West

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Government said today that more than 1,000 American prisoners of war in Germany had been moved westward from Oflag 64 and Stalag III-B to Stalag III-A at Lucken-walde.

The announcement stated:

"Other Americans from Oflag 64 and a large number of American prisoners of war from Stalag Luft IV are in the vicinity of Swine-mund. About one half of the Amer-icans formerly detained at Stalag Luft III are en route to Moosburg, while the destination of the other half is reported to be Nuernberg. A small number of American of-ficers from Stalag Luft III were moved to Stalag IIIA at Lucken-walde.

"Pending notification to the con-trary, relatives and friends are urged to continue to address mail to individual prisoners of war to their last known addresses."

Chinese Advance On Burma Road

CALCUTTA, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Troops of the Chinese 50th Division pushing down the old Burma Road from northeastern Burma have cap-tured Panghai, on the north bank of the Namtu River opposite Namtu and about 20 miles northwest of the important center of Lashio, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Two Japanese counter-attacks against the new British-Indian bridgehead across the Irrawaddy River opposite Myinmu, 35 miles be-low Mandalay, were reported to have been repulsed.

There was no official indication that either of the Allied forces con-verging on Mandalay had made ap-preciable progress in the past 24 hours, and it was apparent that Jap-anese resistance was stiffening.

Allied planes continued their me-thodical bombing in the Lashio area and around Mandalay. Fighters shot up many river craft and blew a hole in the Irrawaddy River oil pipeline.

Indian troops had about completed the clean-up of big Ramree Island on the west Burma coast about 75 miles below captured Akyab.

CHINESE PLAN TO AID AMERICANS ON COAST

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 23 (AP)—A Chinese Army spokesman said today that American suc-cesses in the Philippines and on Iwo would hasten the Chinese counter-offensive against the Jap-anese on the mainland.

The Americans, he said, were in a position to land anywhere on the China coast any time they want to, and the Japanese had shifted approximately three divisions from Manchuria, mainly to the coast south of Shanghai.

He admitted, however, that the Japanese had resealed the gap the Chinese recently slashed in the Canton-Hankow railroad, one of the main enemy lines of interior communication.

Plane Designer Honored

Chungking, Feb. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer pinned the Distinguished Service Medal on Brig. Gen. Mervin E. Gross, 44, of Holly Hill, S.C., for exceptionally meritorious service with the head-quarters of the Army Air Forces in Washington. Gross played a major part in the development and design of American combat planes.

M'Arthur Troops Pour Into Manila Walled City

MANILA, Feb. 24 (Saturday) (A.P.)—The grim job of cleaning out Manila's remaining Japanese was under way in earnest today as 37th Infantry Yanks poured through a shell-made breach in the thick outer wall of the In-tramuros and engaged the corn-ered enemy in bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

General Douglas MacArthur said the Americans were "successfully seizing all remaining points of re-sistance." He reported that de-struction of the final enemy pocket in the Philippine capital was "in its final phases."

INVADE BIRI ISLAND

An American force took complete control of San Bernardino Straits, vital shipping lane between the United States and Manila, by invad-ing tiny Biri Island on Thursday.

Only light opposition was reported in this second invasion in two days of tiny islands lying in San Ber-nardino Straits between the long southeast tip of Luzon and northern Samar.

With seizure also of Capul Island, invaded Wednesday, the Yanks now control the straits through which supplies may flow from the United States to Manila.

HOLE BLASTED IN WALL

American penetration of the me-dieval Intramuros came after a two-siege in which howitzers and cannon finally were wheeled up to blast away at the 40-foot-thick outer wall to clear an entrance way for tanks and infantrymen.

The Yanks could have pulverized the entire Intramuras, an area of about one-third of a square mile, with aerial bombs, but have been trying to spare the lives of thousands of civilians held virtual hostages inside.

At least 1500 Japanese troops, mainly Marines and Naval corpsmen, are hopelessly penned up in the old Spanish citadel determined to fight and die.

ISLAND TAKEN BY MACARTHUR

Landing Is Made to Clear Sea Route to Manila.

Manila, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Doughboys of the Americal Division, heroes of battles in the Solomons, mopped up Japanese today on little Capul Island off the south tip of Luzon after a new Philippine invasion aimed at clearing the shipping lane from the United States to war-torn Manila.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announcing the Yank landing on Capul Wednesday, said that those Yanks of the American Eighth Army encountered only light opposition. The island lies in San Bernardino Strait between Luzon and occupied Samar Island.

Capul is a controlling point in the straits through which units of the Imperial Japanese Navy steamed in an attempt to smash the American Leyte beachhead last October.

Only 260 Miles From Manila.

It lies 260 air miles from Manila, where other Yank fighters are locked in a fierce battle against a bitterly resisting Japanese garrison.

From the shattered southern portion of the capital Associated Press War Correspondent Fred Hampson reported Thirty-seventh Division Infantrymen seized the Manila Hotel, the City Hall and all of the General Post Office except the basement.

"The hotel was won," he said, "after a room-to-room and corridor-to-staircase fight through the succeeding floors. The Post Office was no less difficult."

Fight For City Hall

The three-story city hall was won after the Yanks had withdrawn from the building four times in the face of machine-gun fire.

The 1st Cavalry pounded with howitzers and cannon at the heavy walls of the Intramuros to prepare tunneled paths for its tanks.

Corregidor Greets First U.S. Plane In 3 Years

With the 503d Paratroopers on Corregidor, Feb. 22 [AP—Delayed]—The first American plane in three years landed atop the Rock today.

Lieut. James R. Thomas, of Louisville, Ky., had the distinction of piloting the first observation plane from the Bataan airstrip. He had an Associated Press correspondent as the first passenger.

Thomas landed on a strip hurriedly made by a bulldozer on the old parade grounds. It was less than 100 yards long. As he circled the strip, Thomas remarked: "Here we go." The correspondent sweated it out.

The little plane headed for a rubble pile and tree stumps at the near edge of the strip. Thomas gunned the engine at the last moment to hedge hop, then settled to the field.

Soldiers around the strip grinned, and one yelled: "Hooray, boys, our reinforcements have arrived."

Thomas is a trained paratrooper and a member of the 62nd Parachute Battalion.

Manila Room Service, A La American Plan

With the 37th Division in Manila, Feb. 22 [AP—Delayed]—This is the way a battle report reads when you are fighting the Japanese:

10.15 A.M.—First Cavalry elements attached to this division entered the Manila Hotel without resistance, killing eleven Japanese stragglers around the Army and Navy Club.

Halls Barricaded

10.45—Cavalry reports many halls and doorways barricaded.

10.55—Cavalry reports small arms fire from Japanese in some of the first-floor rooms.

11—Cavalry reports Japanese setting off mines in the first-floor lobby and hallways and on the second floor. Troops shooting it out with Japanese behind sandbag barricades in hallways and rooms.

Noon—Cavalry reports first floor secure, but the Japanese still are resisting on the stairways.

This kind of fighting continued for two days before the cavalry was able to report "Manila Hotel secured." The cost was not light, but all the Japanese inside are dead. Not one surrendered.

Not only is it house-by-house fighting, it's room-by-room. One American doughboy said, "We go from the hall to the rooms and into the clothes closet. You almost have to look under the carpets. You find them everywhere."

Another said Malinta hill seemed to shake like an apple on a tree." Some occupants of the bomb-wrecked concrete barracks a mile away feared the skeleton buildings would collapse around them.

Men in foxholes atop Malinta said it felt as though the hill was trying to jump from under them.

Whether the Japanese were motivated by a desire to destroy the Americans while they (Japanese) took refuge in the tunnels, or whether it was a grandiose suicidal plan, remained a mystery.

Hundreds Of Japs Killed

Col. George M. Jones, of Memphis, Tenn., the American commander on Corregidor, believed concussion must have killed hundreds of Japanese.

An estimated 30 to 50 Japanese dashed from the entrance of the main tunnel behind the smoke of the explosion. The Americans above opened up with machine guns and grenades. Twenty-seven Japanese bodies were found outside the tunnel this morning. The Americans made no attempt to enter the tunnel.

Japs Still Being Killed On Guam

Mighty Blast Set By Japanese Rocks All Corregidor

FEB 24 1945

By James Hutcheson

With 11th Corps Troops on Corregidor, Feb. 22 [AP—Delayed]—All Corregidor shuddered last night from a mighty blast set off by the desperate Japanese.

Flames shot from three openings of tunnels which honeycomb the rock. A great chunk of Malinta hill's solid-rock south face was blasted loose. The resulting avalanche buried several American soldiers alive, injured others, and ripped out the road encircling the hill.

Rocks and boulders showered the beachhead like giant hailstones, causing additional lesser injuries. Hundreds of stunned soldiers dashed wildly into the comparative safety of the bay.

Like 50 Flame Throwers

"It was like a blast from fifty flame throwers," said one officer.

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 23 (AP)—There still is fighting going on with Japanese on Saipan, from where the B-29's first started flying to Tokyo.

And Japanese still are being killed right here on Guam, where Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has his headquarters.

The Admiral reported in today's communiqué a three-day fight with an organized group of 350 Nipponese on February 15, 16 and 17.

Elements of the Negro 24th Regiment killed or captured 131 of the enemy in a hide-and-seek engagement over mountainous terrain.

26,000 Japs Killed

Saipan was invaded in mid-June, 1944, and Japanese organized resistance was reported officially at an end on July 8, with more than 26,000 Nipponese killed. More than 3,000 Americans were killed and upward of 13,000 wounded.

Today's communiqué also disclosed that "routine patrols" killed 94 Japanese and captured 15 in the week ended February 17 on islands in the Marianas, including Guam, and on Peleliu, in the Palau group.

American casualties in these recent activities were seven killed and three wounded.

PARAMUSHIRU HIT HEAVILY

170 Tons of Shells Struck Main Airfield in Recent Ship Blow

AN ALEUTIANS BASE, Alaska, Feb. 19 (Delayed) (AP)—For twenty minutes just before midnight last night (Monday by Japanese time) north Pacific warships of Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher's force heaped additional fuel on the flames of fear burning in the Japanese homeland by a bombardment of the enemy's largest airfield on Paramushiru.

One hundred and seventy tons of shells hurtled down on the targets in the brief period.

On this sixth surface raid of the northern Kuriles since Pearl Harbor, the criss-crossed airstrip, the hangers, shops, radio station and shore installations at Kurabu Cape at the southern tip of the island were hit.

Rear Admiral John L. McCrea, commander of the tactical force of warships, said there were no casualties or damage to the American cruisers and destroyers, which retired in good order after the midnight attack.

World Air Authority Urged

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 22 (Delayed) (AP)—All trunk airline routes should be controlled by an international authority, Air Minister A. S. Drakeford told parliament today. He said this would avert international friction.

Americas Given U. S. Peace Plan

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—The United States today proposed a resolution to the Inter-American Conference meeting here which may develop into giving the Pan-American Union the power of sanctions to keep the peace in this hemisphere.

The United States suggested in its proposal that the inter-American system should be improved and strengthened to enable it to assume its obligations as a regional system in the general international organization that will be set up at the San Francisco Conference

It suggested that the system be changed so it may function "in a manner consonant" with the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

The "big three" suggestions call for the use of political, economic and military sanctions, when necessary, to maintain the peace.

The United States proposes five major changes to improve the Pan-American Union so it can assume its new duties as a regional organization:

1. That the international conference of American States should meet regularly at four-year intervals.

2. That the meeting of American foreign ministers should be held every year.

3. That the governing board should be broadened.

4. That an Inter-American Economic and Social Council be created as well as an Inter-American Education and Cultural Council.

5. That the Pan-American Union be given the power to co-ordinate the 36 inter-American organizations functioning in this field at present.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., in announcing the proposal at a press conference, said it represents the careful thought of the United States to give practical effect to the co-operation of the inter-American system.

WANTS STRONGER SETUP

"We should study and strengthen the system," he added, "so it can play a vital role in the international security organization.

"The stronger the inter-American system, the stronger will be the over-all international organization."

The United States proposal states that the methods for further improving the American republics system should be undertaken at the Ninth International Conference of American States to meet in Bogota after the war.

Regional Oaks Plan Asked

Mexico City, Feb. 23 (AP)—Proposals were put before the Inter-American Conference today which in effect would set up a regional Dumbarton Oaks plan, with compulsory sanctions if the frontier of any American country was violated.

Colombia presented the proposal, which provides for joint diplomatic, economic, communications and military penalties against any country that threatens or actually breaks the peace of this hemisphere.

Bolivia To Present Plan

Meanwhile, Bolivia prepared for presentation a plan to set up an American social and economic council which would co-operate on a regional basis with the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

The Bolivian proposal contains detailed stipulations on the conditions of workers, social security and health.

It provides for three subcommittees, one each on economic, social and sanitary subjects.

Urges Regular Meetings

Bolivia recommends regular meetings on a regional basis within the hemisphere of these topics.

Other nations could participate besides those primarily involved. Bolivia proposes, but could not change the agenda of the meeting without the approval of the majority of the group of nations in the region calling the conference.

Would Also Add to Powers of Pan-American Union to Aid in World Security

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23.—Plans for enforcing peace in this hemisphere were placed before the Inter-American Conference today by the United States and several other countries.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. presented two resolutions. The first proclaimed the right of "free and impartial access to information." More than a third of the delegates have expressed support of this resolution, and Uruguay offered its own proposal along similar lines.

The second laid down directives aimed at turning the Pan-American Union into a strong political and economic organization which could function under a world security agency.

Brazil, Colombia and other nations introduced plans for military sanctions by joint American action and a new "Monroe Doctrine," to be enforced by all the republics instead of the United States alone.

Brazil asked that solution of disputes in this hemisphere be reserved to action by American countries—whether peacefully or by force. The world security or-

Texts of U. S. Proposals at Mexico City Parley

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23 (AP)—The text of the United States proposal to the Inter-American Conference on "improvement and strengthening of the inter-American system":

The inter-American system, and the principles, instruments, agencies and modes of action which give it substance constitute the living manifestation of the determination of the sovereign American Republics to act together for the fulfillment of their common purposes in the maintenance of their peace and security and the promotion of the well-being of their peoples;

The inter-American system is and has traditionally been inspired by a deep sense of universal cooperation;

The American Republics have recommended in numerous resolutions the preparation of plans for the improved organization of the inter-American system;

The inter-American system should now be further improved and strengthened to enable it, as the expression of the common ideals, needs and will of the collectivity of American Republics in regard to the adjustment and solution of inter-American problems, to carry out its purposes even more effectively than in the past, and also to assume, in a manner consonant with the principles and purposes of the proposed general international organization, when established, the extended responsibilities and relationships which many devolve upon the inter-American system pursuant to the character and effective functioning of the general international organization;

The conference of the American Republics collaborating in the war effort resolves:

(1) That the inter-American system should be further improved and strengthened in the light of inter-American experience and tradition for the better implementation of the solidarity of the American Republics in the solution of their common problems, and to enable it to carry out the responsibilities which it may undertake in relation to the general international organization, when established;

(2) That the definitive measures to improve further and to strengthen the inter-American system and the adjustment of inter-American instruments necessary thereto should be undertaken by the Ninth International Conference of American States, which should be held at the earliest practicable date; and therefore recommends:

That the definitive measures to be adopted by the Ninth Inter-American Conference of American States should include provisions to give effect to the following stated objectives:

(a) The International Conference of American States should meet regularly at four-year intervals and should be formally constituted as the inter-American organ having final responsibility for the formulation of general inter-American policy and for the structure and functions of inter-American instruments and agencies.

(b) The meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the American Republics should be held annually and on special call during the intervals between the international conference of American States, and should be charged with responsibility for decision appropriate to immediate problems of common interest, including particularly situations and disputes of every kind which may disturb the peace and good relations of the American Republics;

(c) The Governing Board of the Pan American Union should, in addition to its present duties,

Take cognizance, under the international conferences of American States and the meetings of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, of any question affecting the effective functioning of the inter-American system and the solidarity and general welfare of the American Republics;

Convoke a special meeting of Foreign Ministers whenever it shall determine by an affirmative vote of fifteen members that the need for such a meeting exists;

Supervise inter-American agencies which are related to the Pan American Union or may be brought into relationship to it, and receive and consider annual or special reports from these bodies;

Discharge such further duties as may be authorized or directed by international conferences of American States or by meetings of Foreign Ministers of the American republics; and

Should provide for rotation of its chairmanship, on the basis of annual elections;

(d) There should be created an inter-American economic and social council, subsidiary to the Governing Board, which should be empowered:

To carry out recommendations of the international conferences of American States;

To serve as the co-ordinating element for all official inter-American economic activities;

To undertake studies and activities upon its own initiative or upon the request of any American Government;

To collect and prepare reports on economic and social matters for the benefit of the American Republics: and

To maintain liaison with the appropriate organ of the general international organization, when established, and with existing or projected specialized international agencies in the economic field;

(e) There should be created an inter-American educational and cultural council, subsidiary to the Governing Board of the Pan American Union, which should be empowered

To facilitate consultation among leaders of the American Republics in educational and cultural fields:

To arrange for the exchange of information on major educational and cultural developments within the American Republics;

To conduct research in educational and cultural fields in the Americas and to encourage private agencies that are already active in these matters;

To assist those of the American Republics that desire and seek help in developing constructive programs of an educational and cultural nature; and

To maintain liaison with the appropriate organ of the general international organization, when established, and with such specialized international educational and cultural agencies as may be created:

(f) The Pan-American Union should be given direct responsibility, under the direction and supervision of the governing board of the Pan American Union, for the coordination of inter-American instruments, agencies and procedures, and accordingly should be authorized:

To prepare plans and make recommendations for a long-range program to improve the functioning of inter-American agencies and, when necessary to effeciency and economy, for a program for integration of agencies;

To make recommendations for a more equitable basis of contributions by the Governments of the several American republics for the expenses of the inter-American system;

To provide, as the principal secretariat of the inter-American system, for the improvement of secretarial service of all inter-American agencies brought into relation with it;

To prepare the annual budget of the Pan American Union and agencies related to it;

To expedite so far as feasible the establishment of branches of the Pan American Union in the several American republics, in order to advance its work in relation to the individual members of the inter-American system and to other inter-American bodies; and

To strengthen its staff by the addition of needed permanent personnel and by the employment of special experts when necessary and to adjust the salary scale of the Pan American Union in the interest of the effective discharge of its enlarged responsibilities;

(g) The consolidation and extension of existing inter-American peace instruments and the simplification and improvement of inter-American peace machinery should be expedited, and to this end early action should be taken with respect to the draft of an alterntive treaty relating to peaceful procedures prepared by the Inter-American Juridical Committee;

That until the economic and social council mentioned above is established, the Inter-American Financial and Economic Advisory Committee should be continued;

That the following bodies, created by meetings of Foreign Ministers, should be continued pending a decision by the Ninth International Conference of American States as to their functions and status: The Inter-American Juridical Committee, the Emergency Advisory Committee for Political Defense, the Inter-American Defense Board;

That the several Governments of the American Republics prepare proposals with respect to the further improvement and strengthening of the inter-American system, and transmit such proposals to the Executive Committee on Post-War Problems of the Governing Board of the Pan American Union in accordance with a resolution of the third meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs;

That the Inter-American Juridical Committee and the Inter-American Financial and Economic Advisory Committee begin constructive studies and recommendations relative to international organization of American States, and to transmit such studies and recommendations to the Executive Committee on Post-War Problems; and

That the Executive Committee on Post-War Problems of the Governing Board of the Pan American Union be duly authorized to submit, for the consideration of the Ninth International Conference of American States, specific recommendations for the attainment of the objectives stated herein; and to this end to consider the proposals and recommendations transmitted to it and to invite other representatives to participate in its deliberations, and to obtain with the approval of the Governing Board any necessary technical assistance.

Plan to Lift News Curbs

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23 (AP)—The text of the United States resolution on free access to information, presented to the Inter-American Conference today, follows:

Whereas

The progress of mankind depends on the supremacy of truth among men;

Truth is the enemy of tyranny, which cannot exist where truth prevails, so that those who would erect tyrannies are constrained to attempt its suppression or to raise barriers against it;

The representatives of fascism, in their efforts to maintain and extend their despotisms over great masses of men, have in our time made every effort to keep their victims from knowing the truth and to obtain their acceptance, in its place, of cunningly contrived and malicious falsehoods;

It is one of the fundamental lessons of the present World War that there can be no freedom, peace or security where men are not assured of free access to the truth through the various media of public information:

The inter-American Conference on Problems of War and Peace recommends:

(1) That the American Republics recognize the essential obligation of democratic governments to assure to their people free and impartial access to information;

(2) That with this assurance in view they undertake, upon the conclusion of the war, the earliest possible abandonment of those measures of censorship, and of control over the services of press and radio, which have been necessary in wartime to combat the subversive political tactics and espionage activities of the Axis States;

(3) That the Governments of the American Republics take measures separately and in cooperation with one another, to promote a free exchange of information among their peoples;

(4) That the American Republics, having accepted it among themselves, make every effort to obtain acceptance throughout the world of the principle of free access to information for all people, to the end that freedom, peace, and confidence may be established in and among nations.

Argentina to Let Her Ships Call

Buenos Aires, Feb. 23 (A. P.)—The Argentine Cabinet today decreed Argentine merchant ships henceforth will be permitted to call at United States and Canadian east coast ports and at European ports including those in the Baltic and Mediterranean.

The permission was granted subject to approval of the Navy Ministry.

Calls at European ports had been barred since 1940, and traffic with the North American east coast since 1942 when Germany announced a blockade of those areas.

Jap Cabinet Hears Reports

San Francisco, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Japanese Cabinet met today and heard reports from war, munitions and transportation ministers, the Tokyo radio reported in a broadcast intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission.

Jap Construction Gets New Controls

San Francisco, Feb. 23 (AP)—All private construction firms in Japan today were placed under a Government control corporation with wide powers to conscript both men and machines, Domei News Agency said in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

From now on, with the exception of projects undertaken directly by military authorities or other Government agencies, "all undertakings of urgent wartime construction will be entrusted solely to this new corporation," Domei said. Establishment of the control office was formally approved by the Cabinet.

ganization would be limited to tackling only those troubles in this part of the world "which endanger the peace of some other groups of nations."

The United States plan for strengthening the American system leaves the decision on how much power the Pan-American Union should have to the next meeting of American states, scheduled at Bogota, Colombia.

It recommends that plans be made immediately, however, for detailed extension of the inter-American system. Specific proposals included:

1. Regular meetings of the inter-American states every four years. (At present they are scheduled every five years.)

2. Regular meetings of American Foreign Ministers every year, with additional meetings to be called by the Pan-American Union when fifteen countries approve.

3. Strengthening the Pan-American Union by giving it the power to take up any inter-American question and the general welfare of the American republics. (This would mean political and possibly military authority for the union, which now is primarily a clearing house.)

4. Create an Inter-American Economic and Social Council and an Inter-American Educational and Cultural Council under the Pan-American Union.

5. Give the Pan-American Union authority to co-ordinate all the other Inter-American agencies, with more money, personnel, and establishment of branches in several countries.

The United States freedom-of-information proposal urges "the earliest possible abandonment of censorship" and press control "upon conclusion of the war."

"It is one of the fundamental lessons of the present world war," it declared, "that there can be no freedom, peace or security where men are not assured of free access to the truth through the various media of public information."

Mexico, Cuba and other countries carried the principle one step farther in declarations on the rights of man. They urged adoption of assurances of free expression among the basic guaranties to every individual in this hemisphere.

Meanwhile, Bolivia prepared for presentation a plan to set up an American social and economic council which would co-operate on a regional basis with the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

The Bolivian proposal contains detailed stipulations on the conditions of workers, social security and health.

'Large Force' Looses Daylight Blow at Japanese Shipping Key in Malaya

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP)—India-based B-29's of the Twentieth Bomber Command struck at Singapore, harbor crossroads for war traffic between Japan and Japanese-occupied territory, in a daylight attack today.

Headquarters of the Twentieth Air Force here reported a "large force" of the Superfortresses, a term usually indicating about 150 of the big planes, hit at the extensive and well-established dock and harbor facilities. Results of the mission will be announced when operational reports are received in Washington, the preliminary report said.

The attack was the first by the "Superforts" on Singapore since Feb. 1, when Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey's B-29's destroyed a huge floating drydock capable of handling the largest warship in the world.

Singapore's dock and harbor facilities are prime targets for the Superfortresses. The naval yards were among the largest in the world when the Japanese captured the stronghold from the British. There are oil storage tanks, munitions dumps, warehouses and navy work shops in the area.

The Malay Peninsula port also has assumed greater strategic importance to the Japanese since the United States' victories in the Philippines and the punishing blows dealt the Japanese fleet.

The Twentieth Bomber Command made its first strike at Singapore last Nov. 6 and bombed the port again Jan. 11. The Feb. 1 blow destroyed the drydock, returning B-29 crewmen said. The round trip from the India base to Singapore is approximately 3,800 miles.

Big Bomber Hits Osaka

A single Superfortress raided the "vicinity of Osaka" at about 5 A. M. (Japanese time) yesterday, the Tokyo domestic radio reported. The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said that "a small number of bombs" was dropped."

Tarakan, in northeastern Borneo, was raided Thursday by American planes, according to a Tokyo overseas broadcast.

Roosevelt Sends a Message

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Peace-loving nations look to the American Republics "for light on the arduous road to world peace," President Roosevelt said today in a message made public by the State Department here, as follows:

The assembling of the conference of the American Republics on Problems of the War and the Peace moves me to send cordial salutations to you and my felicitations to the Government and people of Mexico as host to this significant meeting. Will you please communicate to the delegates my greetings and confident anticipation of notable accomplishment.

Since the days of their independence, the American Republics have tirelessly explored every pathway to human freedom, justice and international well-being, and today the common men of all peace-loving nations look to them and you for light on the arduous road to world peace, security and a higher level of economic life.

By their moral purpose, their intelligent effort, and their friendly spirit, they will make common cause among themselves and with other nations to attain the noblest objective of human aspiration.

New Envoy Says Italy Hopes To Be One Of United Nations

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—The new Italian Ambassador, Alberto Tarchiani, declared on his arrival here today that "the greatest aspiration of Italy is to become a United Nation."

Achievement of that status, he made clear, will be his over-all objective but more immediately he will be concerned with trying to improve Italy's economic and financial situation so that actual reconstruction may be undertaken.

In this connection, Tarchiani disclosed that the United States has "put at our disposal about $120,000,000" by using Italian lira to pay American soldiers and army expenses in Italy.

Funds For Purchases

This arrangement was worked out some time ago to provide funds for Italiand purchases in this country even though it was generally understood the terms of the unpublished armistice provide that the Italiand people must pay the cost of occupation and control forces.

The greatest immediate political need of Italy, Tarchiana said at a news conference, is to have its relations with the Allies clarified.

"We need to know what cobelligerency means," he said. "We are not at war and we are not at peace. We are not an Allied nation. This general problem must be solved before any of the individual problems of relationship and of economic and financial nature can be solved."

Tarchiani brought with him a staff of nine persons. He hopes to take over the Italian embassy from Swiss protection very soon.

U. S.-Mexico Water Treaty Sent to Senate

Committee Votes 18 to 4 to Share Waters of the Colorado and Rio Grande

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to send the United States-Mexico water treaty to the floor with a recommendation that it be ratified.

The vote was 18 to 4. A two-thirds majority favorable vote in the Senate is necessary for ratification.

Senate action on the pact is expected to follow shortly after the return of the committee chairman, Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, from the inter-American conference in Mexico, probably about the middle of March. Senator Connally leaves tomorrow for Mexico City.

Terms of the treaty provide for a division of waters of the Colorado River and the Rio Grande, and authorize the governments of the two countries to work out a plan for development of the Tiajuana River in California.

Opposition has sprung mainly from Californians, who contend it gives to Mexico waters of the Colorado on which they count for future development of their state.

The State Department has urged ratification to settle a long-standing friction between the two countries over allocation of waters of the international streams, and asserted such action would stand the United States in good stead at the forthcoming San Francisco meeting of United Nations in April.

Backs Yellowstone Compact

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 23 (AP).—Montana completed ratification of the tri-state Yellowstone River Compact today as Governor Sam C. Ford signed a bill providing for distribution of the waters of the stream and tributaries.

Ratification by the North Dakota Legislature is all that remains before the document is sent to Congress for approval. Wyoming completed ratification of the measure last week.

Terms of the compact were approved previously by compact commissioners of the respective states. The compact allocates waters of the Yellowstone River, Clarks Fork, Big Horn, Little Big Horn, Tongue and Powder Rivers in southern Montana, northern Wyoming and eastern North Dakota.

Aid to Free Press Seen In War Message System

Use of Network to Cut World Tolls Urged in Capitol

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—Congressional policy makers sought today a means of using history's greatest communications system as a peace force by breaking down barriers to a free press.

Members of a Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee considering a post-war international communications policy expressed hope war-built facilities can be instrumental in bringing transmission rates down all over the world.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, chairman, indorsed a suggestion yesterday by Senator Ernest W. McFarland, Democrat, of Arizona, that the United States work out an international agreement which "will adequately represent American interests." Senator Wheeler recently placed Senator McFarland in charge of a subcommittee instructed to lay the groundwork for such a policy.

"Our armed forces have built up during this war a communications system costing $250,000,000," Senator Wheeler told a reporter. "It ought to be used for the benefit of the people of the United States, rather than by some foreign country, in bringing about reductions in transmission rates, particularly for the press.

"Rate reductions will do much to remove the barriers to a steady flow of news among countries. And uncensored news can be a potent weapon in removing the misunderstandings which breeed wars."

Insurance-Aid Bill Passed by House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Legislation exempting insurance companies from anti-trust laws until Jan. 1, 1948, was adopted by the House today.

Final action awaits only the formality of Senate ratification of a conference report making some minor changes in a previously-approved version.

The legislation, leaving with the States the power to regulate and tax the insurance business, was offered after the Supreme Court ruled the insurance business to be in interstate commerce, upsetting a 75-year-old concept of the law.

CIO And AFL To Carry Wage Battle To F. D. R.

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP) — The AFL and CIO said today they will urge President Roosevelt to override the advice of War Labor Board public members agains lifting present wage ceilings.

CIO President Philip Murray and the four active members and alternates representing the AFL on the board criticized the findings of the public members, emphasizing that they would carry their fight to crack the Little Steel wage formula direct to Roosevelt.

Murray's statement supplemented one by the CIO members of the board. He said a meeting of the organization's executive board will be called shortly to shape its assault on the wage formula, and campaign to completely overhaul WLB policies.

The public members, after working four months, reported to Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson, and through him to the President, that they did "not recommend a present change in the Little Steel formula as necessary to eliminate any over-all inequity in the war time stabilization program."

"Nor can we now recommend such a change, taken as a single step on one sector of the economic front, toward solution of the problem of reconversion," they added.

The basis on which the public members — William H. Davis, George W. Taylor, Frank P. Graham and Lloyd K. Garrison—arrived at their conclusion represented a shift in generally accepted treatment of the worker's pay.

It accepted as the controlling factor the amount of money earned each week, rather than the basic hourly rates.

Army May Close Canol Project

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Army is about ready to close down its Canadian oil development and write off much of the $134,000,000 investment there as a strategic war expenditure, informed congressional sources said today.

War Department representatives were reported to have told the Senate War Investigating Committee recently that unless the combined chiefs of staff overrule the move, the Canol operation would be shut down after a resurvey of its potentialities this spring.

Formally Criticized

A decline in the needs for petroleum supplies in Alaska probably will be given as the immediate reason for abandoning the development. The committee has formally criticized the project as a waste of money, and Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes told Congress last year that it "ought to be junked now."

Committee members were said to have made it plain that if the War Department comes to Congress for additional appropriations, as it would have to do to keep the controversial development operating, they would fight the move.

Under Secretary of War Patterson won approval of a $16,000,000 appropriation for the project last year with an assertion that the joint chiefs of staff had ruled its continuation "a military necessity."

Congressmen Ask More Stringent Law To Curtail Union Authority of Petrillo

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Congressional resentment at powers over music and radio wielded by James C. Petrillo, music union chief, brought proposals today to broaden legislation limiting his authority.

Chairman Clarence F. Lea of California told the House Interstate Commerce Committee that "members seem to want broader legislation than we have before us."

The bill under consideration, passed in similar form by the Senate, makes it unlawful for any person to interfere with non-commercial broadcasts by students of educational institutions. Some Interstate Committeemen want to circumscribe the limits of interference in other fields of music.

"This fellow has gone too far," Representative Clarence J. Brown told newspaper men. "We've got to clip his wings. But we don't want to interfere with the legitimate functions of a union."

Mr. Lea said he wanted definite fines and imprisonment penalties written into the legislation, to be applied to any violator.

Army and Navy officers told the committee of protests by the union locals against performances by service bands. They said that these were "borderline" cases where the local contended a service band competed with local musicians.

The officers explained that regulations prohibit service men from competing with private arts, trades and professions, and that their bands are permitted to appear at patriotic and non-commercial functions.

Joseph E. Maddy, president of the Interlochen National Music Camp, Michigan, told the committee that Mr. Petrillo, under threat of a union strike, forced the National Broadcasting Company to take Interlochen's High School orchestra off the air and had "blacklisted" the school.

He described the musicians' union as "not democratic," but said in the pending legislation "we've got to protect the union as well as education. The fact that the union is in wrong hands now does not make it a bad organization."

DODGE STRIKE CUTS SUPERFORT PARTS

Detroit, Feb. 23 (A. P.).—Production of parts for B-29 bombers, Bofors anti-aircraft cannon, rockets and tanks in the Dodge main plant of the Chrysler Corporation was interrupted today by a spreading strike following the discharge of seven workers in the bomber parts department.

A company spokesman reported that shortly before noon 6,788 workers had left their jobs. He said the seven men had been discharged for refusing to maintain scheduled production on an automatic gear-cutting machine.

Approximately 13,000 workers are employed in the Dodge main plant and fears were expressed by company representatives that the entire plant might be shut down before night.

Charges by the company that the strike was carefully organized and was "designed to paralyze manufacture of B-29 bomber engines" were not immediately answered by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) Local 3, of which the strikers are members.

'Dash-Four' Has Rockets Under Wings

Paterson, N.J., Feb. 23 (AP)—The Curtiss-Wright Corporation announced today with the sanction of the United States Navy that a new and deadlier model of the Helldiver dive bomber, known as the SB2C-4, or "Dash-Four," now is in combat duty in the Pacific against the Japanese.

The new dive bomber can pour two streams of 20-mm. shells against the enemy from the wing cannon. It also can drop 1,000-pound bombs from wing racks, double the bomb weight its predecessor could carry, and can loose a fuselage bomb weight which the Navy will allow to be described only as "in excess of 1,000 pounds."

The Helldiver's newest and hitherto unpublished punch—it carries eight 5-inch rockets under its wings.

Navy Orders Two New 45,000-Ton Carriers

Three Smaller Flattops and Four Cruisers Ordered

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 23 (AP).—Award of contracts for two new 45,000-ton aircraft carriers by the Navy Department was announced this afternoon by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

The ships will bring to four the number of 45,000-ton flat tops to be built at the yard. Two are already under construction, and one, the Midway, is to be launched late in March.

The Norfolk Navy Yard was advised yesterday that the Navy has awarded contracts there for construction of two 27,500-ton carriers of the Essex class.

Four Heavy Cruisers Ordered

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP).—Contracts have been awarded to the New York Shipbuilding Company, at Camden, N. J., for four heavy cruisers, and the Philadelphia Navy Yard has been directed to start construction of an aircraft carrier, the 4th Naval District public relations office announced today.

Asks Censure of Hook Over House Fisticuffs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The House controversy over what to do with two battling members flared up anew late today with a demand that one of the belligerents—Representative Hook (D., Mich.)—be rebuked.

The House thought it had heard the last of the Washington's birthday battle when Hook and his opponent, Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) stood before the membership today to say they were sorry if their words and acts embarrassed the members.

Nearly everybody thought that ended the affair. But late in the day Representative Smith (D., Va.) put in a resolution declaring Hook called Rankin "a God damned liar" (Hook denies any blasphemy) and demanding that the Michigan Democrat be publicly censured.

The Smith resolution was sent to the rules committee and its chairman, Representative Sabath (D., Ill.), promptly declared:

"It hasn't a chance on the floor. If anyone should be censured it should be Mr. Rankin. It was he who provoked Mr. Hook with his remarks." (Rankin called Hook an associate of Communists).

Sabath told a reporter he had no immediate plans to hold a hearing on the Smith resolution and added the observation that a similar document asking that Rankin be disciplined also will be introduced.

House 'Pugilists' Apologize To Colleagues

FEB 24 1945

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—Words of apology, solemnly voiced to an attentive membership, today closed the Washington Birthday fist-fight incident in the house.

Representative Frank E. Hook, Michigan Democrat, who set off the flurry of fisticuffs by using the word "liar" in an exchange with Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.), arose shortly after the House convened to apologize.

A few minutes later, Rankin followed suit in these words:

"If I have offended the membership of this House, I am sorry."

Cox Asks For Apologies

Hook offered his regrets after Representative Cox (D., Ga.) called upon the two men to beg the pardon of the membership for their brief but lively scuffle on the House floor during a discussion of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

After Hook completed his apology—in his words "just as broad as any member would desire"—Rankin took the floor and said:

"Mr. Speaker, I merely desire to make a statement."

With that he talked at length about his part in the fight, insisting he did not violate the House rules when he clashed with Hook, and said:

"I merely did what any gentleman would do.

Denies He Broke Rules

"If I were to apologize it would be for the disturbance caused members of this body. I didn't violate the rules for what I said."

Indications were that the membership — particularly Democratic leaders—were willing to let the matter drop.

Republicans sat in silence, apparently regarding the proceedings as a family matter among the Democrats.

Representative McCormack (D., Mass.), presiding in the absence of Speaker Sam Rayburn, recognized Cox as soon as the opening prayer was delivered at noon and Cox immediately proposed the two-ply apology.

Hook's Remarks

Hook then walked to the well and said:

"I rise this morning to apologize to this body for the unseemly events of yesterday, which I am sorry to say, did violence to the high repute which this House maintains, and I hope will always maintain in the nation's regard.

"I regret my part in it. . . .

"High, tempers, I agree, are unseemly in the consideration of great issues. It is my regret that I lost mine amid circumstances for which I ask and I hope I receive some attentuation from the generous members of this body."

Neither Looks At Other

He declared, however, he "felt that I could not politely and tolerantly sit by (yesterday) and hear remarks, however cleverly phrased, which impugned my loyalty and the loyalty of those citizens I represent, to our country.

"It is exactly because of this limit to even gentlemanly tolerance that certain rules govern the conduct of debate in this House. I ask, in petitioning the House to forgive my infraction of its rules, that it bear in mind the necessity of enforcing upon all members those fundamental rules of human comity, no matter how adroitly some would seek to impugn upon the rights of others by violating the cannons of fundamental decency and democracy."

Neither Rankin nor Hook glanced at one another as they spoke to a well-filled house and comparatively crowded galleries.

Rankin Steps In

Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) had the floor yesterday when the fight started. He was attacking the PAC. Hook arose to defend the CIO and then Rankin got into it.

Hook shouted something about Rankin's "raving and ranting." Rankin shouted back that Hook was mixed up with the Communist party. That's when Hook called him a liar.

The 63-year-old Rankin tore across the floor, pulled off Hook's glasses, climbed up Hook like a ladder and pummeled him.

Pull And Heave

The Michigan Congressman, husky former wrestler who is 52, clinched with the Mississippian and they pulled and heaved at one another for several seconds.

It was a full minute before other Congressmen—about 100 were on hand—realized what was going on. Then they rushed to the floor to tug the battlers apart. One group grabbed Rankin and another group grabbed Hook. They propelled them to chairs a safe ten yards apart.

It threw the House into a tremendous uproar. Washington never had a birthday like this before.

Await Curfew Parley in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP).—Mayor La Guardia tonight said night clubs and other places of amusement in New York City may continue to operate under their present time schedules until he makes an announcement based on orders he expects to receive from Washington on the midnight curfew request.

The curfew, requested by War Mobilization Director Byrnes, is scheduled to become effective throughout the nation at midnight next Monday.

At present night clubs in New York City may stay open until 4 a. m. six nights a week, but must close at 3 a. m. on Sunday.

"All the people operating may continue status quo until I make an official announcement in New York City," La Guardia told a press meeting.

He said he expected to confer tomorrow with Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, regional director of the War Manpower Commission.

Mayor La Guardia conferred with officials in Washington yesterday on the curfew, which local entertainment operators said would be a crushing blow on their $100,000,000 business. Some clubs already have dismissed their troupes, effective next Monday.

"All the people operating may continue status quo until I make an official announcement in New York City."

La Guardia said he thought the night club situation in New York posed a different problem than in any other city. He did not amplify that statement.

The mayor also said he wanted to deny reports that the War Manpower Commission would extend the midnight curfew to 1 a. m. at his request.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—Government officials worked late tonight to complete a policy statement covering enforcement of the midnight curfew for entertainment places.

Spokesmen for the War Manpower Commission said there was "a good chance" it may be ready for announcement tomorrow. It will be aimed primarily at clarification of just which night spots must close each midnight beginning next Monday.

WMC officials conferred on the program for several hours and later called on War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, who issued the curfew edict to conserve coal, transportation and manpower. Byrnes has turned enforcement and interpretation over to WMC.

The WMC committee stayed on the job tonight to iron out details, but members declined to discuss the plan.

Officials said Byrnes had made it clear to WMC that he wants the curfew strictly enforced and as few exemptions as possible.

FEB 24 1945

WMC May Postpone Statement On Curfew

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP) — The War Manpower Commission said today a lot of the inquiries it is getting about midnight closing of night spots may have to go unanswered beyond the first time the curfew tolls.

"We are trying hard to get a policy statement out before the curfew goes into effect next Monday midnight, but the more we get into this matter of possible exemptions, the more complicated it becomes," a spokesman for the agency said.

Appeals To Patriotism

"We may have to ask for patriotic compliance across the board until we can get the details worked out."

Officials of WMC had stated earlier that they hoped to have such a statement ready today.

Appeals for rulings as to whether the closing edict applies in specified cases have been pouring in on WMC ever since War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes assigned to that agency the job of enforcing and interpreting the ban.

To Save Coal, Manpower

Byrnes requested the midnight curfew to save coal, transportation and manpower. He made it applicable to night clubs, bars and other specific entertainment spots, both public and private, and then added:

"And similar enterprises."

That phrase has brought a flood of questions as to whether bingo parties to lodge meetings where beer is available are covered by the ban.

Byrnes exempted restaurants serving food exclusively and thereby gave WMC a major headache. There have been dozens of queries whether places which served beer as a sideline only are exempt. Another question is whether restaurants may stay open if they stop serving drinks at midnight.

THE BRITISH HEAVIES MADE A CONCENTRATED RAID ON THE PFORZHEIM COMMUNICATIONS HUB BETWEEN MUNSTER AND BIELEFELD, AND ALSO ATTACKED BERLIN. IT WAS THE FOURTH SUCCESSIVE NIGHT OF AERIAL ATTACK FOR THE GERMAN CAPITAL.

AT LEAST 500 LOCOMOTIVES AND 7,000 RAIL CARS HAVE BEEN SHOT UP OR LEFT STRANDED ON TWISTED, TANGLED TRACKS DURING THE LAST TWO DAYS. RAIL CUTS, MOSTLY ON MAIN LINES, HAVE BEEN MADE IN AN ESTIMATED 300 TO 1,000 PLACES.

PLANES FROM ALLIED TACTICAL AIR COMMANDS ON THE CONTINENT FLEW NEARLY 2,500 SORTIES AND THE 15TH U.S. AIR FORCE IN ITALY SENT ALOFT 1,100 PLANES, JOINING THE FLOOD OF ALLIED AIR POWER OVER GERMANY. THE ITALIAN-BASED PLANES WERE STRIKING FROM THE SOUTH FOR THE 11TH CONSECUTIVE DAY.

THEY SHOT UP AT LEAST 2,897 RAILCARS, 1,091 MOTOR TRANSPORTS, 113 LOCOMOTIVES, 224 TANKS AND ARMORED VEHICLES AND 602 BUILDINGS. THIRTY RAILYARDS AND 68 TOWNS WERE ATTACKED AND 205 RAIL CUTS MADE.

THE NINTH AIR FORCE MADE 400 BOMBER AND 1,133 FIGHTER BOMBER SWEEPS WITH THE LOSS OF 17 PLANES. THE FIRST TACTICAL AIR COMMAND OF FRENCH AND AMERICAN SQUADRONS MADE 700 SORTIES WHILE THE SECOND TACTICAL AIR FORCE BASED IN BELGIUM WAS LIMITED BY POOR WEATHER TO LESS THAN 200 SORTIES OVER THE NORTHERN SECTOR OF THE FRONT.

IN FULL COORDINATION, THE R[illegible] AIR FORCE [illegible]PORTED BY MOSCOW DISPATCHES TO HAVE SWIRLED INTO ACTION IN GREAT FORCE WEST OF THE RIVER NEISSE, MAIN GERMAN DEFENSE LINE GUARDING THE SOUTHEAST APPROACHES TO BERLIN.

IN THE ZONE BETWEEN LEIPZIG AND NUERNBERG--WITHIN 150 MILES OF THE RUSSIAN OPERATIONS--SOME 1,250 FLYING FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS GUARDED BY 650 MUSTANG FIGHTERS SOWED 3,250 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON AT LEAST 20 FREIGHT YARDS AND OTHER RAIL TARGETS.

LATE IN THE AFTERNOON RAF BOMBERS ESCORTED BY MUSTANGS AND SPITFIRES POURED INTO THE RUHR AND MADE CONCENTRATED ATTACKS ON THE GREAT ARMAMENTS CAPITAL OF ESSEN, HOME OF THE KRUPP WORKS, AND ON A BENZOL PLANT AT GELSENKIRCHEN.

TACTICAL AIR COMMANDS ON THE CONTINENT HURLED FIGHTERS AND LIGHT AND MEDIUM BOMBERS AT GERMAN COMMUNICATION CHOKE POINTS IN HUGE NUMBERS, AND JOINING THE FLOOD OF ALLIED AIR POWER OVER GERMANY WERE AMERICAN HEAVYWEIGHTS FROM ITALY, STRIKING UP FROM THE SOUTH FOR THE 11TH STRAIGHT DAY.

TARGETS OF THE ITALY-BASED FLEET WERE VITAL RAIL LINES NEAR VIENNA, INNSBRUCK, KLAGENFURT AND VILLACH. MUSTANG AND LIGHTNING FIGHTERS WHICH ACCOMPANIED THE FORCE RANGED OVER A WIDE AREA, STRAFING TRAINS BROUGHT TO A STANDSTILL BY THE BOMBERS. THEY REPORTED DESTRUCTION OF 50 LOCOMOTIVES AND ENORMOUS QUANTITIES OF ROLLING STOCK OF ALL KINDS.

THE GERMAN RADIO TRIED TO EASE THE EVER-GROWING PRESSURE OF THE AIR ONSLAUGHT BY ANNOUNCING THAT "GERMAN FIGHTERS ARE ENGAGING THE ENEMY FIGHTER FORMATIONS OVER THE BATTLEFIELD AND GERMAN BOMBERS ARE POUNDING ENEMY RESERVES WITH SHRAPNEL BOMBS."

IN THE PAST 72 HOURS THE TEMPO OF THE GREAT ROUND-THE-CLOCK ATTACK HAD BEEN STEPPED UP TO A 20,000-PLANE FIGURE, WITH AN ESTIMATED AVERAGE OF 280 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES PLUMMETING ON GERMAN TRANSPORTATION EVERY HOUR DURING THAT PERIOD.

THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE, TAKING ADVANTAGE OF A SECOND DAY OF CLEAR WEATHER, AGAIN OPERATED IN SMALL, LETHAL PACKS CLOSELY PROTECTED BY FIGHTERS. THEY WENT DOWN AND BLASTED THEIR TARGETS FROM LOW BOMBING ALTITUDES BETWEEN 6,000 AND 15,000 FEET.

RETURNING CREWMEN DECLARED THE GERMAN AIR FORCE WAS ABSENT AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WEAK. THEY DESCRIBED THE RAIDS AS "JOYRIDES OF DESTRUCTION."

"IN YESTERDAY'S BIG BLOW THE THIRD DIVISION RAN INTO A SUDDEN SPELL OF BAD WEATHER AROUND NUERNBERG, SO TODAY WE WENT BACK FOR A MOP-UP JOB," SAID A STAFF OFFICER. "WE BLASTED NUERNBERG WITH 2,100 BOMBERS TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY AND TODAY WE WENT AFTER THE SPOKES RADIATING OUT FROM THAT RAIL CENTER. WE GOT IN VISUAL ATTACKS WITH WHAT PROMISES TO BE GOOD RESULTS."

AMONG THE TARGETS WERE YARDS AT CRAILSHEIM, KITZINGEN, ANSBACH, NEUMARKT, TREUCHTLINGEN, SCHLUCHTERN, STEINAU, MEININGEN, LICHTENFELS, PLENFIELD, OTTINGER AND WURZBERG--ALL OBJECTIVES ON MAIN RAIL LINES.

COMPETENT AUTHORITIES SAID AT LEAST 500 LOCOMOTIVES AND SOME 7,000 RAIL CARS HAD BEEN SHOT UP OR STRANDED ON TORN TRACKS DURING THE LAST TWO DAYS OF INTENSIFIED AERIAL BLOWS. RAILROADS WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN CUT IN APPROXIMATELY 550 DIFFERENT PLACES.

DURING THURSDAY'S RECORD OPERATIONS EIGHT HEAVY BOMBERS, FIVE MEDIUMS, 21 LIGHT BOMBERS AND 40 FIGHTERS WERE REPORTED MISSING, NOT INCLUDING LOSSES OF THE 15TH AIR FORCE BASED IN ITALY. AT LEAST 40 GERMAN PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN AND 24 MORE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND.

PHOTOS TAKEN OF THURSDAY'S ATTACK ON THE CENTRAL GERMAN RAIL WEB BY THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE SHOWED THE UTTER DEVASTATION OF 20 DIFFERENT FREIGHT YARDS, SOME OF THEM PATTERNED BY AS MANY AS 300 DIFFERENT BOMBS.

BERLIN, HUB OF A GREAT PART OF GERMAN COMMUNICATIONS, WAS ATTACKED LAST NIGHT BY RAF MOSQUITOS FOR THE THIRD SUCCESSIVE NIGHT ANDMNUMEROUS OTHER OBJECTIVES, INCLUDING AIRFIELDS, WERE HIT BY RAF INTRUDER PLANES.

THE AIR MINISTRY DISCLOSED THAT RAF LANCASTERS CLOGGED THE VITAL MITTELLAND CANAL NORTH OF MUENSTER IN A MOONLIGHT ATTACK WEDNESDAY NIGHT WHICH HAD NOT BEEN PREVIOUSLY ANNOUNCED. THE WATERWAY IS LINKED TO THE BIG DORTMUND-EMS CANAL IN THE ENEMY'S WATER COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM BETWEEN CENTRAL GERMANY AND THE RUHR.

IN VIEW OF THE ALLIES' RAIL-TEARING CAMPAIGN, GERMANY'S CANALS ARE TAKING ON EVER GREATER IMPORTANCE, ALTHOUGH HAULING TRAFFIC BY WATER IS A SLOW AND TEDIOUS JOB.

AFTER THE WAR WITH GERMANY STARTED IN 1939 TURKEY SIGNED A 15-YEAR MUTUAL ASSISTANCE PACT WITH BRITAIN AND FRANCE, PLEDGING AID IN EVENT OF AGGRESSION BY A EUROPEAN POWER LEADING TO WAR IN THE MEDITERRANEAN. SHE REMAINED A NEUTRAL NONETHELESS WHEN ITALY DECLARED WAR, AND LATER WHEN GERMANY INVADED YUGOSLAVIA AND GREECE.

IN MARCH, 1941, TURKEY SIGNED A NON-AGGRESSION TREATY WITH RUSSIA AND IN JUNE OF THE SAME YEAR SIGNED ANOTHER WITH GERMANY, PLEDGING CONSULTATION BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES IN ADVANCE OF "MAJOR DECISIONS."

MATTERS REMAINED ON THAT BASIS UNTIL LAST YEAR, WHEN BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES STRENGTHENED THEIR DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIONS BY HALTING SUPPLIES OF WAR MATERIALS TO TURKEY. SHORTLY THEREAFTER TURKEY SUSPENDED CHROME ORE SHIPMENTS TO GERMANY, AND IN AUGUST SEVERED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS. STILL LATER SHE SEVERED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH JAPAN.

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT, HOWEVER, INFORMED ANKARA THAT HER SUSPENSION OF WAR MATERIALS SHIPMENTS TO GERMANY AND SEVERENCE OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH BERLIN WERE NOT SUFFICIENT, AND THAT "FURTHER STEPS" WERE NEEDED TO JUSTIFY HER POSITION AS A FRIEND.

WHETHER TURKEY'S DECLARATION OF WAR WILL BE FOLLOWED BY SIMILAR ACTION ON THE PART OF THE VARIOUS ARAB NATIONS IS A MATTER OF CONSIDERABLE BEHIND-THE-SCENES DISCUSSION IN CAIRO, WHERE ARAB LEADERS RECENTLY MET AND DISCUSSED A POSSIBLE ARAB FEDERATION.

CAIRO DISPATCHES HAVE REPORTED A LACK OF UNANIMITY ON THE QUESTION. ONE POSSIBILITY IS THAT EGYPT MAY DECLARE WAR IN ORDER TO ACT AS SPOKESMAN FOR THE OTHERS.

ARAB LEADERS DOUBT THAT ANY FORCES FROM THE ARAB STATES COULD BE TRAINED AND EQUIPPED IN TIME TO PARTICIPATE IN EUROPEAN BATTLES, BUT THEY ARE AWARE THAT SUCH TROOPS MIGHT WELL BE USED IN THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN AND THEY ARE NOT DISPOSED TO INCUR SACRIFICES AND HARDSHIPS UNLESS CERTAIN OF REWARD.

"WE WERE BARRELING OVER GERMANY AT 9,000 FEET AND THERE WAS AMAZINGLY LITTLE INTERFERENCE," REPORTED LT.COL.JOHN M.JACOBOWITZ OF 511 SOUTH STERLING ST., STREATOR, ILL., WING COMMANDER OF A LIBERATOR FORCE.

LT.LESTER O.GRAHAM OF GALLATIN, MO., PILOT OF THE LIBERATOR "ANGEL," SAID "EVERYTHING WAS ZEROED IN. TRACKS AND ALL JUST JUMPED UP IN THE AIR AND THEN SETTLED BACK IN RUIN. OUR PLANE SHOOK FROM CONCUSSION."

SGT.DALE L.HYETT OF PITTSBURG, KAS., TAIL GUNNER ON A FORTRESS THAT BOMBED FROM 11,400 FEET, SAID HE COULD FEEL THE BLAST IN THE PLANE WHEN BOMBS HIT THEIR TARGET.

~~OF JUELICH~~. Add Paris W Front (Bealmear) xxx broken into.

THE CITADEL IN THE NORTHERN PART OF JUELICH STILL WAS HOLDING OUT, BUT HAD BEEN BY-PASSED.

THE CITADEL IS A CLUSTER OF BUILDINGS SURROUNDED BY WALLS WHICH MEASURE MORE THAN 2,000 YARDS AROUND. THE WALLS ARE 13 TO 14 FEET THICK AND SOME 50 FEET HIGH, PROTECTED BY A MOAT 20 FEET DEEP AND 70 TO 100 FEET WIDE. IT WAS BELIEVED TO BE LIGHTLY HELD AND EXPECTED TO FALL MOMENTARILY, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT WES GALLAGHER SAID IN A DISPATCH EARLY TODAY.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT DON WHITEHEAD, WITH THE FIRST ARMY, SAID CASUALTIES IN THE ATTACK WERE SURPRISINGLY LIGHT IN VIEW OF THE TRICKY MANEUVER OF CROSSING THE FLOODED RIVER IN DARKNESS.

JUELICH, THE BATTERED HULK OF A MEDIEVAL CITY, CRUSHED BY THE TREMENDOUS ARTILLERY BOMBARDMENT WHICH ACCOMPANIED THE OFFENSIVE, FELL TO SIMPSON'S TROOPS WITHIN 12 HOURS.

STORMING THE CITY DID NOT PROVE NEARLY AS HARD AS EXPECTED, A FRONT DISPATCH SAID.

THEY KICKED OFF AT 3:30 A.M., AND BEHIND THE GREATEST AMERICAN ARTILLERY BARRAGE IN HISTORY, QUICKLY SHREDDED THE ROER RIVER LINE WHICH HAD KEPT THEM MIRED EAST OF AACHEN SINCE LAST AUTUMN. PROGRESS WAS DESCRIBED OFFICIALLY AS SATISFACTORY.

ENEMY BROADCASTS DECLARED THE BIG PUSH WOULD BE SYNCHRONIZED WITH TEMPESTUOUS RUSSIAN BLOWS FROM THE EAST DESIGNED TO KNOCK GERMANY OUT OF THE WAR AND SAID THE OFFENSIVE WAS ON A 35-MILE FRONT WHICH MIGHT BE BROADENED BY A BRITISH SECOND ARMY ONSLAUGHT "AT ANY HOUR."

BY ASSAULT BOATS, INFANTRY BRIDGES AND AMPHIBIOUS JEEPS AND TANKS THE AMERICANS STRUCK IN THE MOONLIGHT BEHIND A 45-MINUTE BARRAGE IN WHICH GUNS MASSED 100 TO THE MILE CAVED IN DUG-OUTS AND TRENCH SYSTEMS AND LEFT MANY ENEMY FRONT LINE TROOPS TOO STUNNED TO RESIST.

A FIELD DISPATCH CALLED IT A "RUSSIAN STYLE OF ATTACK" COMBINING MAN AND GUN POWER.

BY 9 AM The ATTACK WAS GETTING ALONG WELL AND THE FIRST STREAMS OF PRISONERS CAME BACK--AN EXHAUSTED DISPIRITED LOT. THEY TOLD THEIR QUESTIONERS THAT THEY KNEW THE ATTACK WAS COMING, BUT DID NOT EXPECT IT THIS MORNING. NEITHER DID THEY EXPECT SUCH A VIOLENT ASSAULT, THEY SAID.

A FRONT DISPATCH FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT WES GALLAHER SAID THAT EVERY BIT OF GROUND ACROSS THE ROER RIVER HAD BEEN CAREFULLY PLOTTED FOR THE ARTILLERY RAIN OF DEATH WHICH PRECEDED THE INFANTRY LUNGE ACROSS THE STREAM.

UNDER THIS STEEL CURTAIN THE AMERICANS WADED OUT INTO SMALL ASSAULT BOATS AND PADDLED ACROSS THE ROER OR DASHED OVEER TINY FOOTBRIDGES. THEY WERE FOLLOWED BY AMPHIBIOUS "ALLIGATORS" SPLASHING ACROSS CARRYING HEAVIER EQUIPMENT.

FEB 24 1945

SMOKE GENERATORS ALSO LAID DOWN A THICK BLANKET TO CAMOUFLAGE THE AMBITOUS ATTACKS DEEPER INTO GERMANY.

WAITING TO RECEIVE THE SHOCK OF THE ASSAULT WERE SIX GERMAN DIVISIONS SPREAD THINLY ALONG THE ARCHING FRONT GUARDING THEIR INDUSTRIAL MIGHT IN THE RUHR BASIN AND THE RHINELAND.

AT LEAST TEN OF FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S CAREFULLY-HOARDED DIVISIONS HAD BEEN PINNED DOWN BY THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE ON THE NORTH FLANK, AND THAT MANY OR MORE WERE TRYING TO HOLD BACK THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, HAMMERING TOWARD THE RHINE THROUGH THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS.

THE THIRD ARMY RIPPED ACROSS THE SAAR RIVER AT A THIRD POINT SOUTH OF THE ROCKING FORTRESS OF TRIER, AND WELDED TWO OTHER CROSSINGS INTO ONE BRIDGEHEAD AT LEAST TWO AND A HALF MILES WIDE AND AS MUCH AS TWO MILES DEEP.

TO THE NORTH IN THE EIFELS, THE THIRD ARMY ALSO WIDENED TWO WEST-WALL BREACHES TO NINE AND 19 MILES, NARROWED THE GAP BETWEEN THEM TO FOUR MILES, CAPTURED 10 MORE GERMAN TOWNS AND WAS THREATENING TO FORCE THE ENEMY INTO A 12-MILE RETREAT BACK TO THE PRUEM RIVER.

TO THE SOUTH, THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY POUNDED AT THE GATES OF SAARBRUECKEN, FIRST CITY AND CAPITAL OF THE SAAR COAL AND STEEL BASIN, AFTER CAPTURING NEARLY ALL THE GATEWAY TOWN OF FORBACH.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY RESUMED ITS DRIVE AFTER A TEMPORARY BREATHER, SCORING ADVANCES AT A NUMBER OF POINTS, PARTICULARLY IN THE SECTOR WHERE IT LAST WAS TWO MILES FROM THE ENEMY BASE OF UEDEM AND 15 MILES FROM THE NORTHWEST CORNER OF THE RUHR.

SCOTTISH INFANTRY IN THE CENTER CLEARED A LARGE WOODED SECTION AND FOUGHT SOUTH TO LITTLE MORE THAN A MILE OF WEEZE, CROSSROADS TOWN FOUR MILES SOUTH OF THE ENEMY'S FALLEN STRONGPOINT OF GOCH.

MORE THAN 2,000 AMERICAN WARPLANES CARPET-BOMBED GERMAN TARGETS AHEAD OF THE CHARGING FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES, CUTTING A WIDE SWATH BETWEEN THE ROER AND THE RHINE.

IN ALL, MORE THAN 5,000 ALLIED PLANES FLEW TO THE ATTACK, TEARING AT GERMAN TRANSPORT ALREADY BATTERED BY HEAVY BLOWS OF THE DAY BEFORE.

REPORTS FROM THE FRONT SAID THE AMERICANS MADE GOOD PROGRESSP TOWARD THE RHINE BEFORE RESISTANCE BEGAN TO STIFFEN. AOUNT OF ADVANCE AND EXACT LOCATION OF THE CROSSINGS WERE UNDER A SECURITY BLACKOUT.

THE GERMANS DECLARED ONE OF THE STRONGEST BRIDGEHEADS WAS FORGED JUST NORTH OF THE STRONGHOLD OF DUEREN, 21 MILES FROM COLOGNE, AND HAD BEEN EXTENDED INTO DUEREN ITSELF. THEY SAID THE ASSAULT, DESIGNED TO SEIZE ALL GERMANY WEST OF THE RHINE, ALSO HAD ESTABLISHED BRIDGEHEADS FARTHER NORTH IN THE AREAS OF JUELICH AND LINNICH.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT WES GALLAGHER DECLARED THAT COMBINED WITH ALLIED BLOWS ALREADY BEING DELIVERED FROM THE WEST, "THE FATE OF GERMAN ARMIES WEST OF THE RHINE WILL BE DECIDED IN THE BATTLE NOW OPENED."

FEB 24 1945

A53

THE TWO ARMIES JUMPED OFF TOGETHER, LT. GEN. COURTNEY H.HODGES' FIRST ARMY CROSSING THE ROER DUE EAST OF AACHEN.

LT. GEN. WILLIAM H.SIMPSON'S NINTH ARMY CROSSED ON THE FIRST'S IMMEDIATE NORTH FLANK.

INITIAL CROSSINGS WERE MADE SWIFTLY AND WITH LESS OPPOSITION THAN EXPECTED AS THE GERMANS' LINES BUCKLED UNDER THE TREMENDOUS BARRAGE, AND TROOPS IN THE TRENCHES WERE LEFT GROGGY.

THE AMERICANS FOUND THE ROER--WHICH THE GERMANS HAD TRIED TO CONVERT INTO A MOAT--HAD BEEN FILLED WITH UNDERWATER SPIKES, STAKES, STICKY FLOATING MINES AND WIRE.

IN THE SWIFT CURRENT SOME BOATS CAPSIZED, SWEPT OTHERS DOWNSTREAM, AND MADE IT DIFFICULT TO LAUNCH INFANTRY BRIDGES.

FROM THE EAST BANK CAME MORTAR FIRE, BUT THERE WAS LESS ARTILLERY FIRE THAN HAD BEEN FEARED.

WITH THE CROSSINGS THE AMERICANS PUT THE TWO MAJOR BARRIERS TO THE RUHR AND RHINELAND BEHIND THEM--THE SIEGFRIED LINE AND THE ROER, WHICH THE GERMANS HAD FLOODED BY BLOWING UPSTREAM DAMS.

BEFORE THEM, THE ATTACKERS EXPECTED TO ENCOUNTER AN ELABORATE SYSTEM OF TRENCHES, ANTITANK DITCHES AND PILLBOXES, ALL CONSTRUCTED SINCE THE CAPTURE OF AACHEN LAST FALL.

A54

BEFORE THEM ALSO ON THE COLOGNE PLAIN ARE NUMEROUS CITIES, TOWNS AND VILLAGES, ALL PROBABLY FORTIFIED AS HAVE BEEN MOST OF THE COMMUNITIES INTO WHICH THE ALLIES HAVE FOUGHT SO FAR IN GERMANY.

MORE THAN 1,300 U.S. WARPLANES, REACHING OUT AHEAD OF THE ARTILLERY, SMASHED RELENTLESSLY AT THESE FORTIFICATIONS AND COMMUNICATION LINES EXTENDING ALL THE WAY TO THE RHINE.

AP CORRESPONDENT ON WHITEHEAD REPORTED FROM THE FIRST ARMY FRONT THAT THE ROER WAS CROSSED WITH SURPRISING SPEED AND WITH EXTREMELY LIGHT CASUALTIES.

AT ONE POINT THE CHARGING INFANTRY FOUND TRENCHES UNOCCUPIED AND DID NOT RUN INTO MORTAR FIRE UNTIL AFTER DAYBREAK, WHEN RESISTANCE BEGAN TO RISE.

THOSE IN ASSAULT BOATS FOUND THE CURRENT RUNNING AT 10 TO 12 MILES AN HOUR AND SOME WERE LOST IN THE CROSSING, BUT THERE WAS NO ESTIMATE OF THE NUMBER.

RESUMPTION OF THE DRIVE TOWARD THE RHINE, INTERRUPTED WHEN FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT UNCORKED HIS ARDENNES OFFENSIVE, WAS HELD UP FOR DAYS, IT WAS DISCLOSED, BY GERMAN FLOODING OF THE ROER.

THE GERMANS IN NUMEROUS BROADCASTS DECLARED THE BIG PUSH HAD OPENED FROM THE WEST ALONG A 35-MILE FRONT, AND THAT SHOCK TROOPS AND TANKS HAD BROKEN ACROSS THE ROER AT THREE POINTS WITHIN 21 MILES OF THE RHINE.

FARTHER NORTH, IN THE PRUEM AREA, THE THIRD ARMY IN GAINS OF TWO MILES OR MORE WIDENED THE BREACH IN THE WESTWALL TO 18 MILES AND WAS THREATENING WITH ENCIRCLEMENT GERMAN FORCES WHICH HAD RESISTED THE INVASION OF THE REICH AT THE LUXEMBOURG BORDER.

ONE GERMAN BROADCAST, ADMITTING THE BORDER STAND WAS DOOMED, SAID AN ATTEMPT WOULD BE MADE TO FORM ANOTHER LINE ALONG THE PRUEM RIVER, AS MUCH AS 12 MILES EAST OF THE DUCHY'S BORDER.

THE ENEMY'S SHRINKING SALIENT HERE WAS BEING PINCHED FROM NORTH AND SOUTH, AND WAS BUT SIX MILES WIDE AT ITS BASE. ITS COLLAPSE AND A RETREAT TO THE PRUEM WOULD PUT PATTON'S TROOPS AND TANKS FROM ONE TO 12 MILES INSIDE GERMANY FROM NORTH OF PRUEM SOUTH TO ECHTERNACH.

THE THIRD ARMY CAPTURED 1,92 PRISONERS IN THE LAST 24 HOURS.

LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S SEVENTH ARMY WAS CLOSING ON ANOTHER CITADEL IN THE PERIMETER OF GERMANY'S DEFENSES, BATTLING HOUSE TO HOUSE THROUGH THE LAST THIRD OF FORBACH, FRENCH TOWN TWO MILES SOUTHWEST OF SAARBRUECKEN.

OTHER AMERICAN FORCES SIMULTANEOUSLY BROADENED THE ATTACK, PRESSED TO WITHIN A MILE AND A HALF OF SAARBRUECKEN FROM THE SOUTH AND SEIZED WOODED HILLS OVERLOOKING THE CITY.

FOR THE MOST PART, GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR'S CANADIAN FIRST ARMY WAS TAKING A BREATHER ON THE NORTH END OF THE FRONT, BUT IT WAS LASHING OUT NORTH, EAST AND SOUTH IN LIMITED GAINS.

FLOODS ON THE RHINE AND MAAS, WHICH HAD BEEN IMPEDING THE ATTACK, RECEDED THREE FEET DURING THE NIGHT, BUT THEY STILL WERE HIGH.

DUTCH TROOPS WERE DISCLOSED TO BE FIGHTING WITH THE CANADIANS ALONGSIDE BRITISH, SCOTTISH AND WELSH UNITS.

CANADIAN FORCES CAPTURED TILL, NORTHEAST OF FALLEN MOYLAND ON THE EASTERN FLANK OF THE 25-MILE FRONT, AS OTHER FORCES PUSHED A FEW HUNDRED YARDS DOWN THE HIGHWAY FROM MOYLAND TO THE ROAD CENTER OF CALCAR.

SCOTTISH INFANTRY ON THE CENTER OF THE FRONT WON SOME YARDAGE AND HAD CUT SOUTH OF THE GOCH-UEDEM RAILWAY, REGAINING TERRITORY LOST IN A COUNTERATTACK YESTERDAY.

PS343PEW

BY GERMAN ACCOUNT THE OFFENSIVE WAS PRECEDED BY TERRIFYING DRUMFIRE OF "MANY THOUANDS OF GUNS" LAST NIGHT. BERLIN SAID THE ATTACK ROLLED OUT AT 5:45 A.M. TODAY, AND THAT AT LEAST THREE ROER BRIDGEHEADS WERE FORGED, ONE OF WHICH SPREAD INTO THE RUBBLE OF THE STRONGHOLD OF DUEREN, 21 MILES FROM COLOGNE ON THE RHINE.

A DNB COMMENTATOR ASSERTED THE OFFENSIVE "HERALDS A CLIMAX OF FIGHTING UNPRECEDENTED IN THIS WAR, FOR WHICH GERMANY SHALL NEED ALL HER STRENGTH TO HOLD OUT."

IF THE GERMAN ANNOUNCEMENT WAS TRUE, THEN EISENHOWER HAD COMMITTED PARTS OF FIVE OF HIS ARMIES TO BATTLE, WITH THREE MORE IN RESERE.

THE GERMANS SAID, HOWEVER, THAT FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY HAD BEGUN "NEW BREAKTHROUGH" ATTEMPTS WITH AN IMMENSE ARTILLERY BARRAGE, BUT DID NOT NAME THE SECTOR.

FEB 24 1945

A204

ENEMY BROADCASTS SAID LT.GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON'S NINTH ARMY SPEARED THE "ALLIED GRAND SCALE OFFENSIVE" WHICH PROBABLY WOULD BE THE SIGNAL FOR "RESUMPTION OF THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE" IN THE EAST.

BUT, THEY INSISTED, LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES' POWERFUL FIRST ARMY LIKEWISE HAD A HAND IN THE ONSLAUGHT AS THE BATTLE SPREAD FROM ROERMOND, NORTH OF AACHEN, 35 MILES SOUTHEASTWARD ALONG THE ROER TO THE RUINS AND FLOODLANDS OF DUEREN.

BY THESE ACCOUNTS, THE MOST MENACING OF THE ROER BRIDGEHEADS WAS ONE CARVED BY THE NINTH ARMY AT BIRKENDORF, A NORTHERN SUBURB OF DUEREN, WHEREUPON TANKS SLASHED A MILE SOUTHWARD INTO DUEREN ITSELF.

A SECOND BRIDGEHEAD, THE GERMANS SAID, WAS PLANTED FIVE MILES NORTHWEST AT SELGERSDORF, AND A THIRD WAS HACKED OUT TWO MILES BEYOND THE ROER AT GEVENICH, 13 MILES FROM THE INDUSTRIAL CITY OF MUENCHEN-GLADBACH IN THE WESTERN REACHES OF THE RUHR BASIN.

A NAZI TRANSOCEAN DISPATCH SAID GERMAN GRENADIERS CROUCHED IN THEIR DUGOUTS UNDER THE "TERRIBLE ORDEAL" OF THE PRELIMINARY BOMBARDMENT, "AND WHEN THE AMERICANS ADVANCED MET THEM FROM HALF CAVED-IN DUGOUTS WITH A HAIL OF MACHINEGUN AND SMALL AUTOMATIC FIRE."

THESE ACCOUNTS PUT THE FOCAL POINTS OF ASSAULT AT LINNICH, 15 MILES NORTHEAST OF AACHEN, AT JUELICH, SIX MILES FARTHER SOUTH, AND DUEREN, NINE MILES SOUTH OF JUELICH.

THIS IS THE LOGICAL ROUTE TO THE RHINE, BUT THE ROER HAS PRESENTED

A FORMIDABLE OBSTACLE BECAUSE OF FLOODS CREATED WHEN THE ENEMY BLEW
TSERVOTICUPSATES TO A GIANT

A FORMIDABLE OBSTACLE BECAUSE OF FLOODS CREATED WHEN THE ENEMY BLEW THE SLUICE GATES TO A GIANT RESERVOIR UPSTREAM.

THE GERMANS SAID THE AMERICANS SURMOUNTED THE DIFFICULTY BY SCREENING ENGINEERS WITH ARTIFICIAL FOG AND PHOSPHOROUS SHELLS WHILE THEY THREW PONTOON BRIDGES ACROSS THE STREAM.

THE ONLY NEWS FROM ALLIED SOURCES WAS A PARIS RADIO BROADCAST IN MID-AFTERNOON THAT "AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE WEST FRONT LAUNCHED AN OFFENSIVE EARLY TODAY."

TRUE OR NOT, THE ALLIES DREW A SECOND STRAIGHT DAY OF NEAR PERFECT FLYING WEATHER, AND HUNDREDS OF FIGHTERBOMBERS BATTERED GERMAN RAILROADS AND FORTIFIED TOWNS BETWEEN THE ROER AND THE RHINE, WHILE MORE THAN 1,200 U.S.HEAVY BOMBERS STRUCK RAIL CENTERS OF SOUTHEASTERN GERMANY IN A FOLLOW-UP TO YESTERDAY'S 8,000 PLANE BLOW.

FEB 24 1945

A205

SOUTH OF THE ROER, LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY FORCED A THIRD CROSSING OF THE SAAR TWO MILES NORTHEAST OF THE FALLEN CITY OF SAARBURG AND FOUGHT INTO THE GERMAN VILLAGE OF OCKFEN NINE MILES SOUTH OF THE FORTIFIED CITY OF TRIER.

PATTON WAS TRYING TO WELD TOGETHER TWO OTHER CROSSINGS SOUTH OF SAARBURG, WHERE VETERAN TROOOPS, FRESH AND CONFIDENT, WERE ASSAULTING THE GERMANS IN THEIR PILLBOXES BACK IN THE HILLS. ONE SMALL COUNTER-ATTACK WAS BRUSHED OFF.

NORTH OF SAARBURG, AT THE CONFLUENCE OF THE SAAR AND MOSELLE RIVERS, THIRD ARMY FORCES WERE DRAWN UP ON HILLS FROM WHICH THEY LOOKED FOUR MILES NORTHEAST TO TRIER, THE FIRST BIG FORTIFIED HURDLE IN ANY MARCH ON THE RHINE, 60 MILES NORTHEAST ALONG THE MOSELLE FROM TRIER.

D WESTERN

BEGUN. Add to: W Front (Lead) X-X of Wallendorf.

THE BATTERING BY 15,000 PLANES IN THE LAST 48 HOURS WAS EXTENDED BY ALLIED AIR FORCES TODAY, AND THE GERMANS SAID GEN. EISENHOWER STRUCK WITH HIS GIGANTIC ARMIES AT 5:45 A.M. ON THE ROER RIVER FRONT ON BOTH SIDES OF LINNICH, 25 MILES WEST OF COLOGNE ON THE RHINE.

LT.GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON'S U.S. NINTH ARMY HAS BEEN ARRAYED THERE, BALKED FOR WEEKS BY THE FLOOD STAGE OF THE NOW-SUBSIDING ROER AND POSSIBLY REINFORCED BY THE NUMEROUS AMERICAN DIVISIONS WHICH SECRETARY OF WAR STIMSON SAID YESTERDAY HAD BEEN LANDED AT ANTWERP.

THE GERMANS REPORTED THE AMERICANS CROSSED THE ROER WITH TANKS NORTH OF LINNICH AND INFANTRY CROSSED SOUTH OF THE TOWN.

THE AMERICAN TANK FORCES BEGAN MOVING SOUTHWARD TOWARD DUEREN, THE INDUSTRIAL STRONGHOLD 20 MILES WEST OF COLOGNE, THE GERMANS SAID.

A92

THE CROSSINGS OF THE MUDDY ROER WERE PRECEDED BY THE SHELLING LAST EVENING ON KOERENZIG, 1 1/2 MILES NORTHEAST OF LINNICH, WITH PHOSPHORUS MISSILES, THE GERMANS SAID.

TO THE SOUTH OF THE LINNICH AREA THE AMERICANS ALSO WERE ATTACKING WITH TANK AND INFANTRY FORMATIONS ALONG THE ROAD LEADING TO BIRKESHOF, AMILE NORTH OF DUEREN, THE BROADCAST ADDED.

IT SAID YET OTHER ATTACKS WERE BELIEVED TAKING SHAPE SOUTH OF DUEREN, WHERE HEAVY ARTILLERY BARRAGES WERE DIRECTED AT NIEDERAU AND KREUZAU. RESPECTIVELY TWO AND 3 1/2 MILES SOUTH OF DUEREN.

LT. GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON'S THIRD ARMY TANKS AND INFANTRYMEN WHO RIPPED TWO HOLES YESTERDAY IN THE NORTHERN EDGE OF THE SAAR, GERMAN COAL AND IRON MINING REGION, MOVED AT A PACE SO RAPID THAT ONE FRONT LINE ARMORED FORCE OFFICER SAID "THIS LOOKS LIKE THE PAYOFF."

A FIELD DISPATCH FROM THE THIRD ARMY FRONT SAID THAT OVERNIGHT THE 94TH INFANTRY MADE A THIRD CROSSING OF THE SAAR AND ENTERED OCKFEN, TWO MILES NORTHEAST OF SAARBURG. THIS SPEARHEAD WAS AIMED TOWARD TRIER, SCARCELY FIVE MILES DISTANT.

THE TWO BRIDGEHEADS WON SOUTH OF SAARBURG WERE BEING STEADILY EXPLOITED. ONE GROUP WAS ENGAGED IN HOUSE TO HOUSE FIGHTING IN SERRIG, EAST OF THE RIVER. THE OTHER WAS DRIVING AHEAD AGAINST SMALL ARMS AND MORTAR FIRE EAST OF TABEN.

FEB 24 1945

A75

PATTON'S TROOPS ALSO CAPTURED FIVE MORE TOWNS IN GAINS UP TO TWO AND ONE-HALF MILES ON A 15-MILE FRONT FROM SOUTHEAST OF PRUEM TO NORTH OF WALLENDORF.

ALONG THE LOWER EDGE OF THE SAAR BASIN THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY WON POSITIONS OVERLOOKING SAARBRUECKEN, THAT INDUSTRIAL REGION'S LARGEST CITY. IT ALSO CUT THE ROAD BETWEEN SAARBRUECKEN AND FORBACH, ONLY TWO MILES TO THE WEST.

YESTERDAY'S COORDINATED AIR BLOW TO KNOCK OUT GERMANY'S RAILWAY SYSTEM WAS NOT UNLIKE THE ISOLATION PROGRAM THAT PRECEDED THE ALLIED LANDINGS ON THE NORMANDY COAST. APPROXIMATELY 7,000 BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS STRUCK AT NEARLY 100 ENEMY COMMUNICATIONS HUBS DURING THE DAY. THE ATTACK CONTINUED INTO THE NIGHT.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE FAVORED OPERATIONS BOTH IN THE AIR AND ON THE GROUND. MUCH OF THE SNOW AND ICE THAT HAS HAMPERED GROUND OPERATIONS DURING THE WINTER WAS GONE.

PATTON'S THIRD ARMY TROOPS, MOVING WITH A SPEED REMINISCENT OF THEIR FAMOUS BRITTANY BREAKTHROUGH LAST SUMMER, WERE WIDENING TWO BRIDGEHEADS ACROSS THE SAAR RIVER 18 MILES INSIDE GERMANY BELOW CAPTURED SAARBURG. SIXTY-FIVE MILES OR SO AHEAD LIES THE MIDDLE RHINE--AND SUCH CITIES AS COBLENZ, MAINZ AND LUDWIGSHAFEN.

THIRTY-FIVE MILES TO THE SOUTHEAST ALONG THE SAAR'S LOWER FRONTIER, LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S U.S. SEVENTH ARMY WAS BATTERING THE OUTER RAMPARTS OF SAARBRUECKEN, LARGEST CITY OF THE REGION. HIS TROOPS YESTERDAY HAD CLEARED TWO-THIRDS OF FORBACH, TWO MILES AWAY.

(THE SWISS RADIO SAID THIS MORNING THAT THE AMERICANS HAD ENTERED SAARBRUECKEN AND HAD CUT THE FORBACH-SAARBRUECKEN ROAD AT TWO PLACES).

AT THE EXTREME NORTHERN END OF THE FRONT, THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, DRIVING SOUTH, LAST WAS REPORTED ALMOST IN CALCAR, ONLY 15 MILES FROM WESSEL, GATEWAY TO THE RUHR.

ALONG THE ROER, WEST OF COLOGNE, THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH AND THE BRITISH SECOND ARMIES STOOD IDLE. IT IS THESE MIGHTY FORCES THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN PREDICTING ARE MOST LIKELY TO GET THE GO-AHEAD SIGNAL FOR AN ALL-OUT PUSH INTO GERMANY FROM THE WEST.

A16

IN BLASTING THE SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM AND FLOODING THE ROER THE GERMANS ALREADY HAVE PLAYED ONE OF THE TRUMP CARDS WITH WHICH THEY HAVE BEEN HOLDING BACK OPERATIONS IN THAT SECTOR. THE SCHWAMMENAUEL RESERVOIR NOW IS ABOUT 90 PER CENT DRAINED. WHETHER THE GERMANS CAN CAUSE FURTHER FLOODS IS NOT CLEAR.

PATTON'S RAMPAGING TANKS AND INFANTRYMEN YESTERDAY COMPLETED A WHIRLWIND CONQUEST OF THE 80-SQUARE-MILE MOSELLE-SAAR TRIANGLE, SEIZED SAARBURG AND 29 OTHER GERMAN TOWNS ON A 55-MILE FRONT, AND RAMMED A STEEL SPEARHEAD TO WITHIN FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF TRIER, AS WELL AS THROWING TWO BRIDGEHEADS ACROSS THE SAAR.

AS WELL AS THROWING [illegible]

TRIER, A FORTIFIED CITY OF 88,000 POPULATION, GUARDS THE MOSELLE, 60 MILES SOUTHWEST OF THAT RIVER'S JUNCTION WITH THE RHINE AT COBLENZ.

PATTON ALSO WAS STRIKING HARD IN THE VICINITY OF FALLEN PRUEM TO THE NORTHWEST, SQUEEZING THE GERMANS FROM THE FORTIFICATION-STUDDED EIFEL MOUNTAINS EAST OF THE DUCHY OF LUXEMBOURG. THIRD ARMY TROOPS REGISTERED THREE MILE GAINS IN THAT AREA.

AT THE ROER RIVER IN GERMANY--FIRST ADD OFFENSIVE (TOP A67) (BY GALLAGHER) X X X A WIDE AREA.

HERE IS WHAT I SAW FROM A RINGSIDE SEAT NEAR THE RIVER BANK BEGINNING YESTERDAY AFTERNOON:

THE SKY WAS FULL OF AMERICAN P47S AND P38S IN THE LATE AFTERNOON CIRCLING OVER THE RIVER. SUDDENLY OUT OF THE SUN THREE TWIN-ENGINE JET PLANES DROPPED THROUGH THE FIGHTER SCREEN AND LEVELED OFF AT 2,000 FEET, DROPPING ONE HEAVY BOMB APIECE ALONG WITH A REGULAR SNOWFALL OF TINY ANTI-PERSONNEL BOMBS NOT MUCH BIGGER THAN 50-CALIBER BULLETS WHICH BURST LIKE FIRECRACKERS.

JEEP DRIVER JOSEPH FINNICH, A FORMER TAXI DRIVER FROM ALLAQUIP, PA., CLEARED A SIX-FOOT FENCE BY A GOOD THREE FEET ENROUTE TO A FOXHOLE. IT WAS A RECORD.

OPERATING A 50-CALIBER FLAK GUN IN A NEARBY PIT WAS CORP. WILEY WILLIS, HARLAN, KY., WHO SNORTED: "THOSE THINGS ARE HERE AND GONE BEFORE YOU CAN GET A GOOD CRACK AT THEM."

AN ARTILLERY OBSERVATION AND COMMAND POST OVERLOOKING THE RIVER UNDER COMMAND OF LT. COL. PATRICK SEAWRIGHT, 17 GORDON AVE., SAVANNAH, GA., OFFERED A RINGSIDE VIEW OF THE ATTACK. IT WAS DOWN THE ROAD A MILE A ND ENROUTE THE JETS APPEARED AGAIN IN ANOTHER QUICK ATTACK. EVEN THE P47S IN FULL DIVE COULD NOT GET CLOSE TO THEM.

ALTHOUGH A 500-LB. BOMB HIT A BUILDING IN WHICH THE COMMAND POST IS LOCATED A FEW HOURS BEFORE, IT WAS FUNCTIONING CALMLY AND THE OPERATIONS OFFICER MAJ. GORDON COLTRIN, 245 UPPER TERRACE, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., EXPLAINS HOW THE GREAT BARRAGE WILL OPERATE.

"FOR THE FIRST MINUTE WE WILL CUT LOOSE WITH EVERY GUN ON QUICK FUSES WHICH CATCH THEM OUTDOORS," HE SAID. "AFTER THAT WE SEND IN DELAYED STUFF AND GO DOWN IN THE CELLARS AFTER THEM."

THE COMMAND POST WAS SET UP IN A CELLAR WHICH SAVED THE LIVES OF THE MEN WORKING THERE SINCE THE BOMB COMPLETELY DEMOLISHED ONE WING OF THE BUILDING. IT WAS A TYPICALLY-DESIGNED HITLER CELLAR WHICH MEANS REINFORCED CONCRETE FOR USE IN AIR RAIDS.

EVERY ROOM WAS CROWDED TO CAPACITY FOR THE BIG ASSAULT. IT WAS [illegible]

A BRIGHT MOONLIT NIGHT, ALMOST MEDITERRANEAN IN QUALITY AND THE FRONT WAS QUIET IN THE EARLY EVENING ALTHOUGH THE ROADS WERE RESTLESS WITH DOUGHBOYS MOVING UP FOR THE JUMP-OFF. SOME ARE CURSING, OTHERS WERE GRIMLY SILENT AND ALWAYS A CHEERFUL MINORITY WAS WISE-CRACKING THEIR WAY TO POSSIBLE DEATH.

ACROSS THE RIVER EVERY INCH OF GROUND HAD BEEN CAREFULLY PLOTTED AND IN A FEW HOURS A RAIN OF DEATH WOULD COVER EVERY GERMAN POSITION.

IT WAS QUIET EXCEPT FOR A SPORADIC SHELL RIGHT UP TO THE OPENING BARRAGE.

FEB 241945

IN THE CELLAR COLTRIN GAVE QUIET COMMANDS TO HIS COMPUTERS WHO RELAYED THEM TO WAITING BATTERIES. THE COMPUTERS HANDLED THEIR LIGHTNING JOB WITH VETERAN SKILL ALTHOUGH IN PEACETIME T-4 DANIEL NOVITSKY, HAZELTON, PA., WAS A TIME CLERK, T-4 CHARLES OTTINO, 620 EAST 152ND ST., NEW YORK CITY, WAS A SINGER, AND T-5 AUSTIN STEPSONY, 72 PARDEE ST., ROCHESTER, N.Y. AND CORP. JAMES WHITECOTTON, AUBURN, CALIF., WERE STUDENTS.

COLTRIN GAVE A TIME CHECK AND IN A FEW SECONDS THE AMERICAN FRONT FOR MILES ERUPTED INTO FLAME AND A MIGHTY ROAR OF SOUNDS.

THE MOONLIT LAND WAS SPLIT BY FLAME AND GUNS. THE ATTIC OF THE BUILDING GAVE A GOOD VIEW OF THE RIVER SINCE THE BOMB HAD KNOCKED ALL THE SLATES OFF THE ROOF.

ACROSS THE RIVER SOME THOUSAND YARDS AWAY BURST FLASHING RED BLOSSOMS LIKE SOME GIGANTIC FIREWORKS SHOW. IT SPREAD FOR MILES ALONG THE RIVER. SOME SHELLS STARTED FIRES WHICH BURNED STEADILY AMONG THE DEADLY TWINKLE OF THE BURSTING SHELLS.

"WE SURE ARE GIVING IT TO THEM," DECLARED LT. LOUIS DISKIN, 1882 CORNELIA ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y., A SIGNAL OFFICER WHO RECENTLY WAS GIVEN A BATTLEFIELD PROMOTION FROM SERGEANT. "I NEVER SAW ANYTHING LIKE THIS BEFORE."

UNDER THIS STEEL EXPLOSIVE CURTAIN THOUSANDS OF DOUGHBOYS WADED OUT INTO SMALL ASSAULT BOATS AND PADDLED ACROSS OR DASHED OVER TINY FOOTBRIDGES. THESE WERE FOLLOWED BY AMPHIBIOUS ALLIGATORS WHICH SPLASHED ACROSS WITH HEAVIER EQUIPMENT LIKE SEA-GOING DINOSAURS.

THE BARRAGE THEN LIFTED FARTHER INLAND AND STARTED SWEEPING BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE FRONT FROM GERMAN STRONGPOINT TO GERMAN STRONGPOINT LIKE A GIANT SCYTHE.

"THEY SPOILED OUR BREAKFAST YESTERDAY MORNING AND NOW WE ARE SPOILING THEIRS," GRINNED CAPT. RICHARD POWELL, ANGLE ISLAND, SAN FRANCISCO. POWELL WAS BURIED IN THE BOMB ATTACK THE MORNING BEFORE BUT WAS DUG OUT WITH MINOR SCRATCHES AND REFUSED TO LEAVE HIS POST.

"I BET THE GERMANS DON'T KNOW WHAT HIT THEM," OPINED EXECUTIVE OFFICER MAJ. JOHN FRERICHS, 625 EDITH ST., MEMPHIS, TENN.

IT WAS SEVERAL HOURS BEFORE THE GERMANS STARTED TO RETALIATE.

JUST BEFORE DAWN THEY STARTED FIRING ROCKETS INTO AMERICAN LINES UP THE RIVER AT CROSSING SITES.

"I BET THOSE KRAUTS WONDER WHAT IS GOING ON," SAID PVT. ALTON DECKER, DERBY, ME.

ALTHOUGH THE MAIN ARTILLERY BARRAGE LIFTED AT 3:30 A.M., INCESSANT ARTILLERYY FIRE WENT ON AND ON FOR HOUR AFTER HOUR AND COUNTLESS THOUSANDS OF ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION POURED EASTWARD. THE BURSTING SHELLS ECHOED BACK ACROSS THE RIVER LIKE A SUMMER THUNDERSTORM.

AT THE FIRST LIGHT OF DAWN THE ENTIRE EAST BANK OF THE RIVER AS FAR AS I COULD SEE WAS COVERED WITH SMOKE FROM SHELLS AND SMOKE GENERATORS.

A NEGRO SMOKE GENERATING UNIT MOVED DOWN TO THE RIVER AND SENT UP CLOUDS OF WHITE SMOKE, CLOAKING OPERATIONS.

AS MORTAR SHELLS STARTED TO FALL AROUND THE RIVER ONE BIG NEGRO

SAID "THIS HERE SMOKE IS ALL RIGHT BUT I WOULD LIKE IT JUST A BIG BIT BETTER IF IT WAS MORE SOLID LIKE AND DIDN'T LET THOSE THINGS THROUGH."

FEB 24 1945

Q108

IN A DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO KNOCK OUT THE FOOTBRIDGES WHICH WERE ONE OF THE LARGEST CONTRIBUTING FACTORS TO THEIR UNDOING THE GERMANS ROLLED UP SELF-PROPELLED GUNS AND TRIED TO DIRECT THEIR FIRE ON THE CROSSINGS. THESE DID NOT LAST LONG AS SCORES OF ARTILLERY-SPOTTING CUB PLANES WHICH HUNG LIKE BUTTERFLIES ALL OVER THE FRONT SPOTTED THEM AND DIRECTED ARTILLERY FIRE ON THEM.

HUNDREDS OF P47 AND P38S SWEPT OVER THE FRONT FROM DAWN ON AND THE GERMAN JET PLANES DID NOT MAKE A SINGLE APPEARANCE UNTIL NOON.

THE DAZED GERMANS COULD NOT PUT UP A FLAK DEFENSE UNDER THE ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND THE P47S TWISTED AND DOVE, RAKING THE GERMAN POSITIONS IN THE FORESTS AND TOWNS WITH MACHINEGUNS AND BOMBS.

BY 9 A.M. THE ATTACK WAS GOING WELL ON THE ENTIRE FRONT AND THE FIRST STREAMS OF PRISONERS WERE MARCHED BACK. THEY WERE TIRED AND DISPIRITED. THEY SAID THEY KNEW THE ATTACK WOULD COME SOMETIME BUT DID NOT EXPECT IT THIS MORNING, NOR DID THEY EXPECT AS BIG OR AS VIOLENT AN ASSAULT.

UNDER THE STRAIN OF THE ATTACK SOME AMERICAN TELEPHONE LINES TO FORWARD BATTALIONS CRACKED AND LINEMEN SUCH AS STAFF SGT. EUGENE MITCHELL, FREDRICHSBURG, VA., WENT OUT TO KEEP THE LINKS BETWEEN THE DOUGHBOYS AND THE ARTILLERY GOING.

ENGINEERS SWEPT INTO THE FIGHT AND PUT UP BIGGER BRIDGES, WORKING UNDER CLOUDS OF SMOKE WHICH MADE THEM FEEL THEIR WAY AND COME OUT OF THE FOG EVERY FEW MINUTES TO AVOID BECOMING ILL.

"THIS IS OUR TOUGHEST BRIDGING SINCE THE ORIGINAL LANDINGS," LT. COL. C.H. DUNN, MOLINE, ILL., AN ENGINEER OFFICER, SAID. "WE PUT IN ONE FOOTBRIDGE FIVE TIMES THIS MORNING AND THEN FINALLY HAD TO ABANDON IT AND MOVE TO A PLACE WHERE THE CURRENT WAS NOT SO BAD."

PROGRESS WAS GOOD ALL ALONG THE FRONT, HOWEVER, AND IN PLACES WELL AHEAD OF SCHEDULE.

"IF THE WEATHER HOLDS GOOD WITH THE SUN OUT, THERE IS A GOOD CHANCE WE CAN GET TWO DAYS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE IN THE NEXT 36 HOURS," SAID LT. COL. HAROLD HASSENFELT, OCONTO, WISC., AN OPERATIONS OFFICER.

BY ROGER GREENE

FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS, FEB. 23-(AP)-TWO U.S. ARMIES STORMED ACROSS THE FLOODED ROER RIVER TODAY IN AN OFFENSIVE THAT MAY WELL MARK THE BEGINNING OF THE LAST GREAT PHASE OF WORLD WAR II.

ALREADY HARD HIT BY FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S NORTHERN OFFENSIVE BETWEEN THE MAAS AND THE RHINE, THE ENEMY IS BOUND TO BE DESPERATELY PRESSED FOR MANPOWER, GUNS AND MATERIEL TO COMBAT THE SWEEP OF THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES.

THE GERMANS LONG SINCE HAVE SCRAPED THE BOTTOM OF THEIR BARREL OF RESERVES TO MEET THE TEMPESTUOUS RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE IN THE EAST AND ALLIED PUNCHES IN THE WEST.

HOWEVER, THE ENEMY IN THE PAST FEW MONTHS HAS ERECTED A DEEP DEFENSE BELT ON THE ROER FRONT, INCLUDING CONTINUOUS LINES OF FIRE TRENCHES SUCH AS CHARACTERIZED THE BATTLEFIELDS OF WORLD WAR I.

IN ATTITION THERE ARE A MAZE OF FORTIFIED VILLAGES, ANTITANK DITCHES AND CONCRETE PILLBOXES, THE LINES EXTENDING IN DEPTH TO POSSIBLY THREE MILES.

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND IS BELIEVED TO HAVE REVERTED TO THE LAST WAR'S TRENCH SYSTEM OF DEFENSE IN DEPTH AS A RESULT OF THE COLLAPSE OF ITS LONG-CHERISHED THEORY THAT ARMORED SPEARHEADS CAN BE PERMITTED TO BREAK THROUGH AND SUBSEQUENTLY BE ANNIHILATED BY THE REFORMING FORWARD WALL.

THE ENEMY IS FAVORED BY TERRAIN BETWEEN THE ROER AND THE RHINE WHICH IS MARKED BY A SERIES OF HIGH FEATURES DIFFICULT TO STORM AND BY GIANT INDUSTRIAL SLAGHEAPS AND WOODED VALLEYS IDEAL FOR AMBUSCADES.

GIVEN DRY WEATHER, ALLIED TANKS WILL FIND THE GROUND SUITABLE FOR FANNING OUT ACROSS FIELDS, INSTEAD OF HUGGING ROADS UNDER SHELLFIRE.

THE ROER RIVER IS FLOODED BY THE THAWS, FIVE WEEKS OF RAIN, AND ENEMY BLOWING OF THE BIG ROER DAMS.

NORMALLY ABOUT 40 TO 50 FEET WIDE, THE RIVER AT THE FLOOD CREST EXTENDED TO A WIDTH OF 500 FEET--SOME PLACES MUCH WIDER--AND NOW AVERAGES 250 FEET AS THE WATERS DROP STEADILY.

WITH THE U.S. 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB 23(A)-RISING OUT OF A SEA OF MUD AND THROWING ASIDE THE CLOAK OF MILITARY SECRECY, THE NINTH U.S.ARMY SLAMMED ACROSS THE SWOLLEN ROER RIVER IN GREAT STRENGTH TODAY.

THE GREATEST AMERICAN ARTILLERY BARRAGE OF THE WAR, INVOLVING HUNDREDS UPON HUNDREDS OF GUNS, THUNDERED A PRELUDE TO THE OFFENSIVE WHICH OPENED AT 3:30 A.M.

LT. GEN. WILLIAM H. (TEXAS BILL) SIMPSON'S FLEDGLING 9TH ARMY REACHED THE WEST BANK OF THE ROER LAST NOVEMBER BUT WAS HELD UP WHEN THE FIRST ARMY FAILED TO CAPTURE THE VITAL ROER RIVER DAMS.

THOUSANDS OF DOUGHBOY INFANTRYMEN DROVE ACROSS THE RIVER EARLY THIS MORNING ALONG A BROAD FRONT.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY'S OFFENSIVE AND THE NINTH'S STRIKE MEAN THE FATE OF THE GERMAN ARMIES WEST OF THE RHINE WILL BE DECIDED IN THE BATTLE NOW OPENED.

VAST STOCK PILES OF AMMUNITION HAVE BEEN ACCUMULATED FOR THE OFFENSIVE AND THIS IS THE FIRST TIME AN OFFENSIVE HAS OPENED WITH MORE THAN ENOUGH TO MEET ANY EMERGENCY.

FEB 24 1945

THERE ARE MORE THAN 100 GUNS FOR EVERY MILE OF FRONT AND ONE SMALL AREA ACROSS THE RIVER WAS HIT WITH 17,000 SHELLS IN THE LAST 20 MINUTES OF THE BOMBARDMENT.

WHEN THE NINTH ARMY BECAME STALLED, LAST NOVEMBER AT THE ROER BY THE POSSIBILITY OF HAVING THE RIVER DAMS BLOWN BEHIND THE ADVANCING FORCES, IT MARKED TIME WHILE THE FIRST ARMY TRIED TO CAPTURE THE STRATEGIC DAMS FROM THE ENEMY. THEN CAME THE GERMANS' WINTER OFFENSIVE AND MANY CRACK DIVISIONS ATTACHED TO THE 9TH WERE DRAWN OFF TO MEET THE EMERGENCY IN THE ARDENNES FOREST.

ONLY RECENTLY THE 9TH WAS REVITALIZED SECRETLY IN ONE OF THE AMERICAN ARMY'S OUTSTANDING FEATS OF LOGISTICS.

PVT. AL COHEN, 2055 ANTHONY AVE., BRONX, N.Y., "THIS SITTING IS NOT GOOD. THERE IS TOO MUCH TIME TO MULL OVER AND WORRY ABOUT THE COMING ACTION. AFTER A FELLOW GETS STARTED HE HASN'T MUCH TIME TO DO ANY LONG RANGE WORRYING."

PVT. WAYLON BROWN, RFD 5, GREENVILLE, N.C., "LET'S CROSS OVER AND GET ON INTO GERMANY AND FIND A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE. I DON'T LIKE THIS PLACE. IT LEAKS, AND STINKS, TOO."

PVT. ROBERT W. MILLER, BEAVER DAM, WIS., "MY FONDEST HOPE IS THAT I SEE THE RUSSIANS COMING OVER THE RIDGE WHEN I GET ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER. LET'S GET OVER AND SEE."

CPL. LEWIS PELTON, AHSAAHA, IDA., "SURE, I'LL GO ALONG WITH THE FOURTH PLATOON ANYWHERE." WHERE THEY GO, I GO. BUT I DON'T LIKE THIS RIVER CROSSING. I SURE DON'T."

PVT. ROY A. SHIRLEY, RFD 15, SOUTH RICHMOND, VA., "I COULD SWEAT IT OUT RIGHT HERE FOR THE DURATION."

LT. ROBERT WEISBERG, 1716 67TH ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y., "I WOULD KIND OF LIKE TO HAVE NOEL COWARD ALONG WITH US WHEN WE JUMP, THAT'S ALL."

PVT.RALPH SMITH, 306 KRAMER ST., DALLAS, TEX., "ALL I CAN SAY IS THAT I HOPE WE MEET THE RUSSIANS ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER."

PVT.JESSE PROPST, ST.FRANCIS, MO., "NOBODY IS ROARING TO GO, BUT IF WE MUST, WE MUST."

PVT.JULIAN P.GONZALES, MEQUITE ST., SAN ANTONIO, TEX., "WE ARE PRETTY SNUG HERE, BUT IF WE GOTTA GO I'VE NEVER SEEN ANY ACTION BEFORE AND I AM SORT OF CURIOUS TO SEE HOW IT IS GOING TO BE."

MAJ. CARL SCHOFIELD, ST. ALBANS, VT., SAID THAT "ONE VOLKSSTURMER CLAIMED HE WAS HAULED FROM BED IN THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT AND PUT INTO A BUNKER. SHORTLY AFTERWARDS OUR DOUGHBOYS HAULED HIM OUT."

SEVENTY OF THESE OVERAGE GERMANS WERE ORDERED TO GUARD A SECTOR A MILE AND EIGHT-TENTHS WIDE.

"THEY FIRED A FEW ROUNDS," SAID SCHOFIELD, "SOME OF WHICH WERE JUST AS EFFECTIVE AS THOSE FIRE BY GOOD SOLDIERS, BUT THEY GAVE UP QUICKLY WHEN THE DOUGHBOYS REACHED THE IMMEDIATE VICINITY."

ONE HIGH-RANKING VOLKSSTURM OFFICER IN CHARGE OF 15 BUNKERS SAID 90 PERCENT F HIS MEN WERE VETERANS OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR. THEY WERE GIVEN ONLY RIFLES AND MACHINEGUNS AND WERE DENIED ARTILLERY.

WITH SGT. ALFRED SUKEY, 315 SOUTH MAIN ST., ANN ARBOR, MICH., TRANSLATING, THIS OFFICER SAID HE WAS A SERGEANT UNTIL 1940, WHEN HE WAS RELEASED FROM THE ARMY BECAUSE OF WOUNDS. NOW 46 YEARS OLD, HE SAID HE WAS RECALLED LAST NOVEMBER AND MADE A VOLKSSTURM OFFICER.

SIXTY-EIGHT OF THE PRISONERS WERE CREDITED TO CAPT. LEE BOYER, BERRYVILLE, ARK., AND LT. BERNARD YORK, HAZELTON, PA. THEY WERE BROWSING AROUND A TOWN WHEN THEY SAW TWO GERMANS.

"ANY MORE HERE?" ASKED BOYER.

THE GERMANS SAID THERE WERE SIX MORE IN A HOUSE ACROSS THE ROAD, AND BOYER SENT ONE TO GET THEM. WHEN THEY ALL REASSEMBLED, A GERMAN NON-COM REPORTED THERE WERE 60 MORE IN OTHER NEARBY HOUSES.

HE WAS SENT AFTER THEM, BOYER AND YORK WARNING HIM TO RETURN PROMPTLY WITH THE 60. THEY DID.

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY, FEB. 23-(AP)-EVERY PLATOON LEADER WHO TOOK HIS TROOPS ACROSS THE ROER RIVER TODAY CARRIED A PHOTOGRAPH OF THE POSITION HE WAS TO CAPTURE, AND KNEW THE EXACT LOCATION OF ENEMY GUN POSITIONS, FIRE TRENCHES AND IN SOME CASES, EVEN MINES.

FOR THE PAST FEW WEEKS, WHILE LT.GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON WAS MASSING HIS FORCES FOR THIS POWERFUL ATTACK, LIGHTNING PILOTS HAD BEEN FLYING OVER ENEMY LINES DAILY, PHOTOGRAPHING THE LANDSCAPE BETWEEN THE ROER AND THE RHINE.

PRINTS OF THESE PICTURES KEPT SIMPSON INFORMED ON ENEMY MOVEMENTS, AND PHOTO INTELLIGENCE UNITS USED THEM TO PREPARE DETAILED MAPS OF THE COUNTRY WHICH TODAY BECAME A BATTLEGROUND.

PRACTICALLY EVERY SOLDIER FIGHTING ALONG THE MUDDY EAST BANKS OF THE ROER HAD AN OPPORTUNITY TO PICTURE THE AREA BEFORE HAND.

A LIGHTNING SQUADRON COMMANDED BY LT.COL.LEON H.MCCURDY, FORMER CORNELL UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR FROM ITHACA, N.Y., HAS BEEN WINGING OVER ENEMY TERRITORY THROUGH RAIN, WIND AND SNOW SINCE THE NINTH PULLED UP TO THE WEST BANK OF THE RIVER.

ARMED ONLY WITH CAMERAS, MCCURDY'S MEN USUALLY SHOOT FROM 5,000 FEET, BUT ONCE WHEN THE WEATHER WAS PARTICULARLY BAD AND THE GENERAL NEEDED TO KNOW WHAT WAS GOING ON BEHIND ENEMY LINES, CAPT.THOMAS A. ROBERTS, BEEVILLE, TEX., AND THREE OTHERS VOLUNTEERED TO GO IN AT 2,000.

ROBERTS AND SECOND LTS.ARCHIE F.BROWNE, 933 TUXEDO BOULEVARD, WEBSTER GROVE, MO., WILLIAM J.EVANS, 13115 THORNHURST AVE., GARFIELD HEIGHTS, CLEVELAND, OHIO, AND LUTHER S.KILLINGSWORTH, SANDERSVILLE, GA., HAD JUST GONE IN TO MAKE THE RUN WHEN THE SKY OPENED AND GAVE THEM ENOUGH CEILING TO GET BY WITHOUT TOO MUCH ACK-ACK.

EACH PLANE WAS EQUIPPED WITH THREE CAMERAS--TWO WITH 24-INCH FOCAL LENGTH FOR LARGE-SCALE PHOTOGRAPHY AND ONE SMALL-SCALE MAPPING CAMERA WITH SIX-INCH FOCAL LENGTH.

THEY ALL HAVE BEEN CHASED BY ARMED ENEMY PLANES, AND MOST OF THEM HAVE BEEN SHOT UP A FEW TIMES. THEY DON'T MAKE THE HEADLINES AND THEIR ONLY REWARD IS KNOWING THAT THE DOUGHBOYS DOWN THERE IN THE MUD HAVE A LITTLE BETTER CHANCE BECAUSE THEY HAVE SEEN THE PICTURES.

TURKISH PRECEDE LONDON
BY FRANK O'BRIEN (520)
ANKARA, FEB.23-(AP)-TURKEY DECLARED WAR ON GERMANY AND JAPAN TONIGHT IN ORDER TO WIN A SEAT AT THE FORTHCOMING WORLD SECURITY CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO AND ENDED A 5 1/2-YEAR-OLD POLICY THAT HAD VEERED BETWEEN NEUTRALITY AND NON-BELLIGERENCY.
FOREIGN MINISTER HASAN SAKA ASKED FOR THE DECLARATION IN AN ADDRESS TO A SPECIALLY-CONVENED SESSION OF THE ASSEMBLY, PRIME MINISTER SUKRU SARACOGLU CLOSED THE DEBATE WITH A SUPPORTING SPEECH, AND THE ASSEMBLY VOTED UNANIMOUSLY FOR WAR AGAINST THE AXIS.
SAKA'S PROPOSAL TO THE ASSEMBLY FOLLOWED THE PRESENTATION ON FEB.20 OF A MEMORANDUM FROM THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR STATING THAT IT WAS DECIDED BY THE "BIG THREE" AT THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE THAT ONLY NATIONS AT WAR WITH THE AXIS POWERS BEFORE MARCH 1 WOULD BE INVITED TO THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.
THE FOREIGN MINISTER SAID THAT OTHER "ASSOCIATED NATIONS" WERE TOLD SIMILARLY THAT THEY WOULD HAVE TO DECLARE WAR ON THE AXIS TO QUALIFY FOR SAN FRANCISCO, NAMING THEM AS EGYPT, ICELAND, CHILE, ECUADOR, PARAGUAY, PERU, URUGUAY AND VENEZUELA.
(IN LONDON IT WAS CONSIDERED THAT THE ANKARA ANNOUNCEMENT IMPLIED STRONGLY THAT RUSSIA WAS ALIGNED WITH BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES IN DEMANDING THAT STILL NEUTRAL NATIONS DECLARE WAR ON JAPAN AS WELL AS GERMANY IN ORDER TO HAVE A VOICE IN THE FUTURE WORLD ORGANIZATION. SOME REGARDED THIS AS A HINT THAT RUSSIA MIGHT JOIN IN THE PACIFIC WAR AFTER GERMANY IS CRUSHED.)
NATIONS. PREMIER SARACOGLU SAID FLATLY THAT "WE WANT TO TAKE OUR PLACE OFFICIALLY AMONGST THE UNITED NATIONS."
SHORTLY BEFORE HE SPOKE TO ASK FOR THE WAR VOTE SAKA SIGNED WITH U.S. AMBASSADOR LAURENCE A.STEINHARDT A FORMAL LEND-LEASE AGREEMENT WHICH HAD BEEN UNDER NEGOTIATION FOR SEVERAL MONTHS.
THE LEND-LEASE SIGNATURE ON THE SAME DAY THAT TURKEY WENT TO WAR WAS A COINCIDENCE, BUT TURKEY'S LEND-LEASE SHIPMENTS MAY NOW BE AUGMENTED IF TURKEY PROCEEDS FROM THE DECLARATION TO POSITIVE MILITARY ACTION.
WHAT THE MILITARY CONSEQUENCES OF TURKEY'S DECLARATION MIGHT BE WAS NOT CLEAR. AMONG THE MOST-DISCUSSED POSSIBILITIES IS THE SUGGESTION THAT TURKEY MAY PARTICIPATE IN A CAMPAIGN TO CLEAN UP THE AEGEAN ISLANDS, ON WHICH THERE ARE GERMAN AND ITALIAN TROOPS.

FEB 241945

THE GERMANS STILL HOLD A SMALL BUT HEAVILY-DEFENDED CORNER ON THE NORTHWEST COAST OF CRETE WITH APPROXIMATELY 12,000 TROOPS. THE GREEKS NOW CONTROL THE REST OF THAT STRATEGIC ISLAND. IN THE EASTERN AEGEAN THE GERMANS HOLD RHODES IN CONSIDERABLE STRENGTH, AND ALSO COO, LEROS AND MOST OTHER DODECANESE ISLANDS ALONG WITH SCATTERED FORCES IN THE CYCLADES AND OTHER AEGEAN ISLANDS.

ANKARA TOOK TURKEY'S NEW STATUS AS A BELLIGERENT WITH THE SAME CALM WITH WHICH IT HAS ACCEPTED THE DECISIONS OF ITS GOVERNMENT IN MANY OTHER MOMENTS OF WAR CRISIS.

THE DECLARATION ENDED A PERIOD OF AVOIDANCE OF WAR DURING WHICH TURKEY SHIFTED BETWEEN NEUTRALITY AND NON-BELLIGERENCY AS THE FORTUNES OF WAR BROUGHT VARYING PRESSURE UPON HER FROM ALLIED AND AXIS QUARTERS.

AS IN MOST OTHER INSTANCES DURING THE WAR, TURKEY'S DECISION WILL HAVE MAINLY POLITICAL CONSEQUENCES.

THE DECLARATION REGULARIZES TURKEY'S STATUS WITHIN THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION PLANNED AT THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE AND PRESUMABLY CLEARS UP MISUNDERSTANDINGS WHICH IN THE PAST HAVE EXISTED BETWEEN RUSSIA AND TURKEY ON THE SCORE OF TURKEY'S NON-BELLIGERENCY.

TODAY'S ASSEMBLY DEBATE LAID THE STRONGEST STRESS UPON TURKISH-SOVIET RELATIONS. THE MOSCOW RADIO HAS IN PAST MONTHS ATTACKED TURKEY'S POLICY AND THE ATTITUDE OF THE TURKISH PRESS TOWARD RUSSIA AND THE WAR.

FEB 241945

A72

THERE WAS STRONG EVIDENCE IN SPEECHES FROM THE FOREIGN MINISTER AND VARIOUS ASSEMBLY LEADERS WHICH PRECEDED THE WAR VOTE THAT TURKEY NOW HOPES AND BELIEVES THAT RUSSIA AND TURKEY CAN HENCEFORWARD GET ALONG AMICABLY.

SAKA'S SPEECH AND OTHERS LEFT NO DOUBT THAT TURKEY'S DECLARATION OF WAR WAS A DIRECT OUTGROWTH OF HER DESIRE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE AS A FULL-FLEDGED MEMBER OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

THE DECLARATION OF WAR PUT A NEAT FINISHING TOUCH TO THE THREE-YEAR CAREER IN TURKEY OF AMBASSADOR STEINHARDT, WHO IS SCHEDULED TO LEAVE WITHIN A FEW DAYS FOR WASHINGTON PREVIOUS TO TAKING OVER HIS NEW JOB AS AMBASSADOR TO CZECHOSLOVAKIA. STEINHARDT WATCHED THE ASSEMBLY PROCEEDINGS FROM THE DIPLOMATIC GALLERY.

BY JERJE GRANBERG
(SWEDISH NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENT WHO RECENTLY RETURNED TO STOCKHOLM FROM BERLIN)
WRITTEN FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COPYRIGHT, 1945, BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STOCKHOLM, FEB 23-(AP)-YOU HAVE TO BE A BORN EXPLORER TO GET VEGETABLES IN BERLIN TODAY.

A HOUSEWIFE COMPLAINED TO ME A FEW DAYS BEFORE I LEFT THAT AFTER A FOUR-HOUR VEGETABLE HUNT SHE HAD MANAGED TO FIND ONLY ONE TURNIP.

HOUSEHOLDERS WHO DID NOT BUY A WINTER'S SUPPLY OF POTATOES LAST FALL FOR THEIR STORAGE CELLARS BECAUSE THEY FEARED TO LOSE THEM THROUGH AIR RAIDS NOW MUST EAT DEHYDRATED POTATOES--IF THEY CAN GET ANY AT ALL.

THERE IS A DEADLY MONOTONY IN THE DIET. A FOREIGNER TOLD ME: "I HAVE EATEN SO MUCH KOHLRABI (NORMALLY USED AS FODDER IN GERMANY) THAT I WON'T DARE LOOK A DECENT COW IN THE FACE WHEN I RETURN HOME."

ONE CANNOT SAY THAT STARVATION HAS YET STRUCK BERLIN, BUT IN THE PAST TWO TO THREE WEEKS IT HAS BECOME MORE AND MORE DIFFICULT TO BUY THE FULL RATIONS YOU ARE ENTITLED TO, AND THE PROBLEMS OF A HOUSEWIFE ARE TUMBLING AROUND HER LIKE AN AVALANCHE.

MILK IS A CHAPTER IN ITSELF. THE PROPRIETOR OF A DAIRY ON ADOLF HITLER PLATZ HAD TO FETCH HIS SUPPLY OF MILK IN A BABY BUGGY. PUSHING IT TWO MILES DAILY FROM GLEISDREIECK IN CENTRAL BERLIN. BECAUSE HIS DECREIPT "DELIVERY WAGON" COULD NOT CARRY ENOUGH MILK, ALL CUSTOMERS HAD TO BE SATISFIED WITH A REDUCED RATION.

THE SUPPLY BOTH OF WHOLE MILK FOR CHILDREN AND SKIMMED MILK HAS DIMINISHED.

MINERAL WATER CANNOT BE FOUND EXCEPT IN BETTER CLASS RESTAURANTS, AND BEER IS AS THIN AS THE OXEN DRAWING THE BREWERY WAGONS. BUTTER AND FAT RATIONS HAVE SHRUNK NOTICEABLY AND FREQUENTLY MARGARINE MUST BE TAKEN IN PLACE OF BUTTER.

THE MEAT SUPPLY IS SOMEWHAT BETTER. SALT AND MATCHES ARE ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO OBTAIN.

TWO WEEKS AGO A DANISH JOURNALIST WAS EXPELLED FROM BERLIN BECAUSE HE SENT A REPORT THAT BERLINERS WERE EATING RATS, CATS, DOGS AND HORSES AND THE FEW REMAINING ANIMALS IN THE BERLIN ZOO FOR MEAT.

FEB 241945

A188

THAT IS NOT TRUE, AND THE SUPPLY SITUATION IS NOT THAT ACUTE, BUT THE SCALE OF INCREASING DIFFICULTIES IS REFLECTING IN BLACKMARKET PRICES. A POUND OF BUTTER COSTS 800 INFLATED MARKS ($320 AT PRE-WAR RATE), CIGARETTES ARE THREE OR FOUR MARKS EACH, A BOTTLE OF COGNAC 200 TO 400 MARKS, A POUND OF COFFEE APPROXIMATELY 2,300 MARKS.

AS THE RED ARMY MOVES CLOSER, SUPPLIES FOR BERLIN'S 5,500,000 PERSONS WILL BE FURTHER STRANGLED. AS THE AIR BOMBARDMENT IS STEPPED UP DISTRIBUTION WILL BE FURTHER STRAINED.

HOW BADLY DISTRIBUTION ALREADY HAS BEEN DISLOCATED IS SHOWN, FOR EXAMPLE, IN THE LACK OF COAL, WHICH PERHAPS IS BERLIN'S WORST PROBLEM. YOU ONCE COULD SEE PEOPLE GATHERING CIGARET BUTTS IN THE STREETS OF BERLIN, BUT THEY DON'T LOOK FOR THAT ANY MORE--PARTLY BECAUSE HARDLY ANY ARE TO BE FOUND BUT MAINLY BECAUSE THEY NOW ARE GATHERING PIECES OF COAL OR WOOD FOR FUEL.

COOKING IS BECOMING MORE AND MORE OF A PROBLEM. ON THE LAST MORNING OF MY STAY IN BERLIN I PREPARED A CUP OF BOUILLON IN MY HOTEL ROOM ON A TINY CANNED HEAT STOVE, BUT I WAS SHIVERING SO I COULD HARDLY HOLD THE CUP.

IT VIRTUALLY IS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET A HOT BATH IN BERLIN. THE LARGEST REMAINING PUBLIC BATH, THE ADMIRALSBAD, HAS BEEN REQUISITIONED BY THE SS.

ELECTRIC STOVES WERE BANNED A MONTH AGO BUT STILL ARE USED SECRETLY. THE ELECTRIC CURRENT IS SWITCHED OFF SEVERAL TIMES DAILY. THIS HAS HAD UNEXPECTED CONSEQUENCES. AIR RAID WARNINGS ON THE RADIO CANNOT BE HEARD AND STORES, OFFICES AND SHOPS WHICH HAVE REPLACED BLASTED WINDOWS WITH CARDBOARD OR WOOD ARE FORCED TO SHUT DOWN WHILE THE CURRENT IS OFF BECAUSE THEY HAVE NO LIGHT.

AND CAPTURING 350,000 IN THE PRESENT WINTER OFFENSIVE.

ANNIVERSARY EDITIONS OF MOSCOW PAPERS PUBLISHED LARGE PORTRAITS OF PREMIER MARSHAL STALIN, AND THE INSIDE PAGES CONTAINED NUMEROUS PHOTOGRAPHS OF WRECKED GERMAN TOWNS AND BATTLE SCENES.

STALIN CITED THE ANNIVERSARY WITH A SPECIAL ORDER OF THE DAY PROCLAIMING THAT GERMANY'S COMPLETE DEFEAT WAS NEAR.

THE SPOKESMAN REPORTED THAT THE CHINESE HIGH COMMAND HAD RE-ESTABLISHED CONTACT WITH GUERRILLAS OPERATING BEHIND THE JAPANESE LINES AND WAS SUPPLYING AND EQUIPPING THEM.

THE SPOKESMAN ESTIMATED THAT IN THE PAST 20 DAYS OF FIGHTING ALONG THE RAILROAD, THE JAPANESE HAD SUFFERED 7,400 CASUALTIES.

ALTOGETHER, THE SPOKESMAN DECLARED, THE JAPANESE HAD LOST AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A SHOWDOWN ASSAULT ON CHUNGKING AND THEIR PRIMARY CONCERN NOW WAS TO STRENGTHEN DEFENSES ON THE MAINLAND AND THE COAST--PREPARATIONS WHICH ARE FAR FROM COMPLETE.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT, GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK SENT A MESSAGE TO PREMIER-MARSHAL STALIN OF RUSSIA ON RED ARMY DAY SAYING THE COLLAPSE OF NAZIDOM WAS NOW ONLY A MATTER OF DAYS IN VIEW OF THE SWIFT ADVANCE OF THE SOVIET ARMIES.

HE DECLARED THE SUCCESS OF SOVIET ARMS WAS DUE TO STALIN'S LEADERSHIP AND THE GALLANTRY OF THE RED ARMY, THAT THE COLLAPSE OF GERMANY WOULD MEAN THE END OF JAPAN AND BEFORE LONG WORK ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF WORLD PEACE COULD BE EMBARKED UPON.

DR. SUN FO, PRESIDENT OF THE LEGISLATIVE YUAN, ALSO WIRED STALIN SAYING CHINA WAS LOOKING FORWARD TO THE DAY WHEN CHINESE AND SOVIET FORCES WOULD FIGHT SHOULDER TO SHOULDER AGAINST "THE COMMON ENEMY."

MANILA, ~~SECOND~~ ADD ~~THIRD~~ NIGHT LEAD PIPS (McDaniel)

THE YANKS WHO BURST THROUGH THE INTRAMUROS' EASTERN WALL FOUND ANOTHER BLOODY SCENE OF JAPANESE ATROCITIES AGAINST CIVILIANS, FRONTLINE REPORTS SAID.

GEORGE THOMAS FOLSTER OF NBC TERMED THE INTRAMUROS "A WRECKED PLACE OF MURDER," REPLETE WITH "MORE MASS MURDER OF CIVILIANS."

HE SAID HE SAW DEAD CIVILIANS ON ALL SIDES. HE REPORTED FINDING A LARGE PILE OF DEAD FILIPINOS, THEIR HEADS SHAVED AND THEIR HANDS TIED BEHIND THEIR BACKS. THE JAPANESE HAD TRIED TO BURN THE PILE OF BODIES, HE SAID, BUT THE FIRE FAILED TO CONSUME THEM.

BLUE NETWORK CORRESPONDENT ARTHUR FELDMAN SAID SOME CIVILIANS WERE BROUGHT OUT IMMEDIATELY ON YANK ASSAUNT BOATS. AMONG THE FIRST ACROSS THE PASIG RIVER WERE 11 NUNS, TWO PRIESTS AND ONE FILIPINO CIVILIAN. THREE OF THE NUNS WERE ON STRETCHERS.

THIRTY-ONE NUNS REMAINED BEHIND IN THE CONVENT, FELDMAN SAID. "ITS WALLS WERE FAST CRUMBLING, BUT THEY FEARED TO LEAVE THE REFUGE."

30.21-23291

FEB 241945

FELDMAN SAID HE SAW ANOTHER NUN "HOLDING A KERCHIEF FROM WHICH BLOOD WAS SPURTING. THERE WAS A MIDDLE-AGED FILIPINO WHO HAD BEEN BAYONETED THROUGH THE RIGHT SHOULDER BY A JAP. HE KEPT MUMBLING ABOUT THE JAPS KILLING EVERYONE, AND ABOUT HOW LUCKY HE WAS."

MACARTHUR SAID AMONG THE BRUTALITIES PRACTICED BY THE JAPANESE DURING THE CLEARING OF MANILA WAS THEIR SHELLING OF LIBERATED INTERNEES AT THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP, BUT "FORTUNATELY CASUALTIES WERE VERY LIGHT AND FAMILIES HAVE NOW ALL BEEN INFORMED."

FIRST CAVALRY AND SIXTH DIVISION TROOPS CAPTURED THE TOWNS OF SAN MATEO AND TAYTAY IN THEIR PUSH TOWARD THE MARIKINA WATERSHED EAST OF MANILA.

IN THE UNRELENTLESS AIR WAR, HEAVY BOMBERS DROPPED 95 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON NORTHERN BORNEO AIRDROMES, HIT AIRFIELDS AT DAVAO ON MINDANAO WITH 62 TONS AND SWEPT THE CHINA SEA, DAMAGING FOUR SMALL FREIGHTERS NEAR KEELUNG.

JAPANESE SHELLING OF THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP AREA IN MANILA TWO WEEKS AGO WAS DESCRIBED BY DON BELL, A MANILA BROADCASTER WHO HAD BEEN INTERNED THERE, AS A "REALLY SHOCKING CHAPTER OF JAPANESE BRUTALITY."

"THE JAPANESE," HE SAID, "IN SUDDEN SPITE LEVELLED THEIR ARTILLERY NOT ON AN ADVANCING ARMY BUT ON DEFENSELESS CIVILIANS--MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

"CASUALTIES OCCURRED AFTER THE CIVILIANS THOUGHT THEIR SHARE OF SUFFERING HAD ENDED. ALL IS PEACE, REST AND REJUVENATION IN SANTO TOMAS NOW, BUT THAT SHELLING WILL ALWAYS BE REMEMBERED."

FIERCE HAND-TO-HAND AND GRENADE FIGHTING TURNED MANILA'S DOWNTOWN BUILDINGS INTO HELLISH HONEYCOMBS TODAY AS AMERICAN TROOPS CLOSED ON THE JAPANESE DEFENSE CORE IN THE OLD WALLED CITY.

BATTLING FROM ROOM TO ROOM, 37TH DIVISION INFANTRYMEN HAD ONLY THE BASEMENT TO GO BEFORE CLEANING THE JAPANESE FROM THE HUGE GENERAL POSTOFFICE, FIRE-BLACKENED NOW BUT ONCE ONE OF MANILA'S FINE EDIFICES.

WITH THE CITY HALL AND MANILA HOTEL CLEARED OF THE ENEMY, DOUGHBOYS AND TROOPERS OF THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION TURNED TO BLASTING THE NIPPONESE FROM THE NORMAL SCHOOL AND THE UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES.

FEB 241945

THESE BUILDINGS, ALONG WITH THE METROPOLITAN THEATER AND OTHER OFFICE STRUCTURES ARE IN THE VICINITY OF THE WALLED CITY AND MUST BE WRESTED FROM THE JAPANESE BEFORE THE YANK INFANTRY AND TANKMEN CAN TACKLE THE OLD WALLS.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY CONTINUES TO HAMMER THE HEAVY WALLS, PREPARING THE WAY FOR PENETRATION INTO THE AREA WHERE THE JAPANESE ARE EXPECTED TO MAKE THEIR LAST AND MOST DESPERATE STAND.

YANK PARATROOPERS AND DOUGHBOYS ON CORREGIDOR CONTINUE TO MOP UP THE REMNANTS OF NIPPONESE STILL CLINGING TO THEIR TUNNEL AND CAVE DEFENSES ON THE FORTRESS ROCK AT THE ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY.

WHILE FLAMETHROWERS SCORCHED THE NIPPONESE IN THEIR CORREGIDOR HIDING PLACES AND DEMOLITION SQUADS SEALED OTHERS INSIDE

THE TUNNELS, THE YANKS CLEARED A LANDING STRIP ON THE ROCK, AND THE FIRST PLANE HAS LANDED.

THE MOP-UP OF MINOR JAPANESE ELEMENTS ON CAPUL ISLANDS IN SAN BERNARDINO STRAITS WAS PRESSED BY TROOPS OF THE AMERICAL DIVISION WHICH LANDED THERE WEDNESDAY.

SEIZURE OF THE LITTLE ISLAND, BETWEEN LUZON AND SAMAR, GAVE THE AMERICANS CONTROL OF THE STRAIT THROUGH WHICH SHIPS TRAVEL BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES TO MANILA, HEADQUARTERS SAID.

UNITS OF THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION OPERATING SOUTHEAST OF MANILA STRENGTHENED THEIR HOLD ON THE WEST SHORES OF LAGUNA DE BAY, ADVANCING TO MUNTINLUPA AND CUTTING OFF THE ESCAPE ROUTE ACROSS THE LAGUNA F( ) JAPANESE TROOPS IN A POCKET SOUTH OF THE CAPITAL.

"YOU CAN SEE AMPHIBIAN TRACTORS TURNED UPSIDE DOWN LIKE PANCAKES ON A GRIDDLE, DERRICKS BROUGHT ASHORE TO UNLOAD CARGO TILTED AT INSANE ANGLES WHERE SHELLS BLASTED THEM; ANTI-TANK GUNS SMASHED BEFORE THEY HAD A CHANCE TO FIRE A SHOT.

"EVEN BULLDOZERS LANDED EARLY TO CLEAR A PATH FOR OTHER VEHICLES HAD HEAVY CASUALTIES IN THIS QUICKSAND-LIKE BEACH. ARTILLERY COULD NOT BE LANDED FOR 24 HOURS.

"DEATH IS NOT A PRETTY SIGHT BUT IT HAS TAKEN POSSESSION OF OUR BEACH. THE OFFICER IN CHARGE OF A TANK LANDING BOAT GOT A DIRECT SHELL HIT WHILE TRYING TO FREE HIS BOAT FROM THE SAND. HE WAS BLOWN IN HALF. A LIFE PRESERVER SUPPORTS THE TRUCNK OF HIS BODY IN THE WATER.

MARINES KILLED ON THE BEACH WERE BURIED UNDER THE SAND AS THE TIDE CAME IN."

JAPANESE ARE BITTERLY RESISTING THE SLOWLY ADVANCING LINE OF GREEN-JACKETED MARINES. THERE HAVE BEEN NO MASS WILD BANZAI CHARGES WITH WHICH THE ENEMY CLIMAXED ITS CERTAIN DEFEAT ON SOME ISLANDS, SUCH AS SAIPAN.

FRANTIC EFFORTS OF THE CREW.

SMITH OF (38 MAIN ST.) POTSDAM, N.Y., A 23-YEAR-OLD WEST POINT
GRADUATE AND FORMER HARVARD STUDENT WHOSE WIFE LIVES AT BLACK HORSE
LANE, COHASSET, MASS., SAID THE TROUBLE STARTED ON THE BOMB
RUN OVER NAGOYA.

"WE COULD SEE THE FIGHTERS COMING UP, 150 OR 200 OF THEM," HE SAID. "A TWIN-ENGINE FIGHTER HIT OUR NO. 1 ENGINE AND THE FUEL
PRESSURE DROPPED OFF. THIRTY SECONDS LATER THE RING GUNNER RE-PORTED A BAD FIRE THERE. I CUT OUT THE FUEL, FEATHERED THE PRO-
PELLOR AND THE FIRE WENT OUT.

"A FEW SECONDS LATER MILLER GASPER OVER THE INTERPHONE, 'THEY'VE GOT ME.' WE WERE BEGINNING TO DROP BACK AND FIGHTERS WERE COMING
IN FAST. THEN A 20 MM. SHELL TORE THROUGH THE TOP AND EXPLODED
IN THE TUNNEL, DEPRESSURIXING THE PLANE.

"THE SUCTION FORCED A FLIGHT BAG AGAINST THE TURRET AND TEMPORARILY KNOCKED OUT THE RIGHT GUNNER (SGT. LEONARD W. WINTER, 221 WALL ST., SANDOVAL, ILL.) WHEN WINTER CAME TO HE SAW TWO FIGHTERS BORING IN.
HE HIT ONE AND SAW IT GO SMOKING DOWN OVER THE WATER. IN FIVE MINUTES WHILE WE WERE BY OURSELVES WE GOT 50 TO 60 ATTACKS.
JUST THEN THREE B-29S FINALLY FOUND US."

UNDATED INTRAMUROS (300)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 24 1945

SCENES OF SAVAGE JAPANESE BRUTALITY AGAINST THE THOUSANDS OF CIVILIANS HELD WITHIN THE ANCHIENT INTRAMUROS OF SOUTH MANILA WERE DESCRIBED TODAY BY RADIO REPORTERS IN THE PHILIPPINE CAPITAL.

"ELEVEN NUNS, TWO PRIESTS AND ONE FILIPINO CIVILIAN WERE THE FIRST ONES OUT OF THE SMOKING FIERY INFERNO OF INTRAMUROS," SAID ARTHUR FELDMAN OF THE BLUE NETWORK.

"THEY WERE DAZED, SHOCKED, BEWILDERED AND FREIGHTENED. ALTOGETHER THEY WERE PITIFUL AS THEY CAME ACROSS THE (PASIG) RIVER FROM HELL TO A HEAVEN WHICH LAY IN THE SHADOW OF A BROKEN BUILDING. THREE NUNS WERE ON STRETCHERS.

"THIRTY-ONE NUNS HAD REMAINED BEHIND IN THE CONVENT. ITS WALLS WERE FAST CRUMBLING, BUT THESE 31 WERE AFRAID TO LEAVE. IT HAD BEEN A REFUGE DURING THE FRIGHTFUL DAYS AND NIGHTS WHEN AMERICAN STEEL WAS RINGING THE INTRAMUROS ON THE OUTSIDE AND THE JAPS WERE GOING CRAZY ON THE INSIDE.

"ANOTHER ASSAULT BOAT CAME OVER. FROM IT CAME ANOTHER NUN HOLDING A 'KERCHIEF TO AN ARM WHICH WAS SPURTING BLOOD. AND A YOUNG BOY WITH A CRIMSON STAINED BANDAGE AROUND HIS HEAD WAS CARRYING A SMALL STATUE OF THE LORD.

"THERE WAS A MIDDLE-AGED FILIPINO WEARING ONLY TROUSERS AND SANDALS. HE HAD BEEN BAYONETTED BELOW THE RIGHT SHOULDER BY A JAP, AND HE SWAYED DRUNKENLY BACK AND FORTH. TWO MEDICS PUT BANDAGES ON HIM HE KEPT MUMBLING ABOUT JAPS KILLING EVERYONE AND ABOUT HOW LUCKY HE WAS.

"THERE WAS A YOUNG MAN IN A TORN SHIRT WITH A STRING OF BLACK ROSARY BEADS AROUND HIS NECK, AND A 10-MONTHS-OLD BABY IN HIS ARMS. HE WAS TREMBLING AND WEEPING AND SAYING 'I DON'T KNOW WHERE MY SISTER IS.'"

GEORGE THOMAS FOLSTER OF NBC DESCRIBED THE INTRAMUROS AS "A WRECKED PLACE OF MURDER."

"I FEAR THAT THIS IS ANOTHER HORROR STORY," HE SEID. "IT IS ANOTHER CASE OF JAPANESE MASS MURDER OF CIVILIANS. THEY WERE MERCILESSLY CUT DOWN BY THE JAPS, AND THE DYING LIE ABOUT WITH THE DEAD.

"IN ONE ROOM OF THE GOVERNMENT MINT THERE WAS A STACK OF FILIPINO DEAD, THEIR HEADS HAD BEEN SHAVEN AND THEIR HANDS TIED BEHIND THEIR BACKS. BUT THE FIRE THE JAPS TRIED TO START DIDN'T CATCH. OUR SOLDIERS BURIED THEM DECENTLY AND THE WHOLE WORLD SHOULD PRAY FOR THEM. BUT LET US JUST REMEMBER THAT THE BATTLE FOR JAPAN HAS YET TO BE FOUGHT."

APPROXIMATELY 300 WERE CLEARED THROUGH THE CUSTOMS OFFICE WHILE THE REMAINING WERE TAKEN TO ELLIS ISLAND FOR FURTHER QUESTIONING BY IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION OFFICIALS TO CLARIFY THEIR CITIZENSHIP STATUS.

MANY OF THESE RELEASED WERE TAKEN SINGLY OR IN SMALL GROUPS, THEIR FEW BELONGINGS WRAPPED IN CLOTH OR OTHER IMPROVISED COVERING, TO RAILROAD STATIONS OR RED CROSS HEADQUARTERS WHERE FRIENDS WAITED.

SOME HAD BEEN OUT OF THE UNITED STATES SO LONG THAT THEY HAD FORGOTTEN ANY ENGLISH THEY EVER KNEW. MOST WERE HOLLOW-CHEEKED AND GAUNT DESPITE 13 DAYS OF COMPARATIVELY LUXURIOUS EATING ON THE GRIPSHOLM'S 13-DAY CROSSING FROM MARSEILLES.

TWO CHICAGO-BORN BROTHERS, JOSEPH AND VLADYSLAW PLEN, WHO WENT TO POLAND 25 YEARS AGO, SAID THEY SAW A GERMAN OFFICER SHOOT DOWN AN AMERICAN AVIATOR.

WAVES OF CARRIER PLANES HITTING TOKYO, JAPS REPORT FIERCE SKY BATTLES RAGING; YANKS RIP 5 MILES ACROSS COLOGNE PLAIN

1,600 WAR PLANES ATTACKING TOKYO DISTRICT, JAPS SAY

Nimitz Announces Mitscher's Force Overwhelms City's Defenses.

NO DETAILS REVEALED

Military, Naval and Air Installations Smashed, Battleships Take Part.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Sunday, Feb. 25.—(AP) Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's world's largest carrier task force is sending waves of carrier planes against Tokyo today in strength estimated by the enemy at 1,600.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a special communique that Mitscher's mighty air arm which kept the enemy fleet in hiding and overwhelmed Tokyo's defenses Feb. 16 and 17 is back at it again.

A Tokyo broadcast, made while the raid was in progress, described it as even in greater strength than those of Feb. 16 and 17 which destroyed or damaged 659 Nipponese planes and 36 ships, including an escort carrier and three destroyers.

1,600 Planes Take Part

"Following the first raid with carrier planes on Feb. 16 and 17, this time the enemy raided our mainland with a sum total of about 1,600 planes," the broadcast said.

"It is believed that these planes had been giving aid to the operations now going on over Iwo island."

"Our air forces are continuing to corner these carrier planes at each opportunity, and at this moment fierce aerial interceptive battles are taking place," the enemy claimed.

The broadcast said the raid was concentrated on the Kanto district which embraces Tokyo and Yokohama. It includes 10 neighboring prefectures.

Tokyo said the attack on the city of 8,000,000 people began at 7 a.m.

Tokyo's claims drew no immediate navy comment. The headquarters communique reported the raid without elaboration.

(The purpose of the new attack most likely is to keep cut up and pinned down any enemy home air fleet which could be sent 750 miles south to support the Nipponese garrison being pushed back into the north half of invaded Iwo).

Nimitz said the carrier aircraft are attacking military, naval and air installations "in and around Tokyo."

The enemy radio said the attacks ranged from Tokyo to its port city of Yokohama.

As on the other two-day raid, which preceded the Marine invasion of Iwo, Mitscher's task force is backed by mighty 45-000-ton battleships and lesser units of Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth fleet.

The Fifth is in such great strength that it can send a force large enough to handle anything the Japanese home fleet might offer while other big units constantly shell Iwo's eight square miles in support of Leathernecks, who are in the seventh day of their invasion there.

The Feb. 16-17 attack was scored as a "decisive" victory by Nimitz and fulfilled the desires of every officer and man of the United States Pacific fleet.

Nimitz made no reference to the size of the carrier force but the enemy radio reports suggested it was in the same strength as that of Feb. 16 and 17 when some 1,500 Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers blasted Tokyo's 200-odd square miles.

Thus the Fifth once more is challenging the Japanese fleet, twice trounced in engagements dating back to last June, to come out and fight.

In the Feb. 16-17 onslaught, not an American warship was damaged but 49 raiding planes were lost along with between 30 and 40 pilots.

The nature of the targets specified as under attack today supported the likelihood that the new assault is as powerful as was that earlier in the month—the first such large scale carrier attack of the war on Japan proper.

HALF OF DUEREN TAKEN

American Spearheads Strike Within 12 Miles of Ruhr Basin.

FEB 26 1945

PARIS, Sunday, Feb. 25—(AP) The American First and Ninth armies plunged nearly five miles across the Cologne plain beyond the shattered Roer river defense line yesterday, engulfing 30 towns and villages and capturing thousands of the German west bank Rhine force which Gen. Eisenhower declared he was going to destroy.

At dusk on the second day of the powerful push—by German account "the greatest offensive Eisenhower has ever staged"—American spearheads were 12 miles from the western Ruhr basin and 19 from Cologne, and had won half of the Roer river bastion of Dueren.

Expects to Destroy Nazis

Eisenhower confidently told a press conference: "our attack is progressing as favorably as can be expected. I expect to destroy every German west of the Rhine and in the area in which we are attacking."

The thunderous battle flamed along a 22-mile front. Massed artillery was smashing German villages in the path of the surging ground forces, and battle planes bombed and machinegunned columns of Germans trying to reach the front. Rail traffic was paralyzed. Tactical air forces on the continent flew 3,315 sorties during the day, destroying thousands of German vehicles on the highways and hundreds of locomotives and freight cars on railways behind the front.

A late report said that Marshal Von Rundstedt was rushing German reserves from the south into the battle on the approaches to Duesseldorf and Cologne. Other than this report there still was no sign that the enemy was ready to make a new stand.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army on the north flank of the offensive gained momentum after smashing through Baal, 12 miles southwest of Muenchen Gladbach, an industrial city of 200,000 at the western fringe of the Ruhr.

High ground was seized beyond Baal and Simpson's troops were astride the railway to Muenchen Gladbach. They were 25 miles from the big Ruhr center of Dusseldorf. "We're looking down their throats," declared a high-ranking staff officer.

Three miles to the southeast troops of the 102nd division captured Hottorf, five miles north of American-held Juelich, and also completely cleared the enemy from Gevenich, Glimbach, Tepz, Boslar and other villages in the area. Troops of this spearhead also were about 25 miles from Dusseldorf.

Yanks Seize Hottorf

The capture of Hottorf and the plunge beyond put the Americans eight miles from the Erft river, where a new German stand may be made 10 miles from the Rhine.

The 102nd division alone took more than 800 prisoners since they jumped off east of Linnich, and both the Ninth and Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army had taken at least 1,400 in the first 24 hours of the offensive. Hundreds more were streaming back into the prison pens yesterday.

Both armies had swarmed up on high ground dominating the Cologne plain, and front reports said the offensive was ahead of schedule.

In the center, American forces captured Niederzier, 19 miles west of Cologne, and nearby Hambach. A German column trying to flee from Hambach forest was wiped out by artillery fire. The enemy in the past has used wooded areas for stands costly to the Allies.

The First army cleared half of bomb-shattered Dueren and captured the towns of Birkesdorf and Niederau which flank it on the north and south, and the 104th divisions fought on into Arnoldsweiler, two miles northeast of Dueren. The 104th and the Eighth division operating on its southern flank presumably both have troops inside

Dueren.

Four towns on the west bank of the Roer, beyond the northernmost sector of the bridgehead northwest of Linnich, were taken by American troops who closed up to the river on a six-mile stretch of the west bank which had not been cleared previously. They were Porselen, Obertruck, Kempen and Schanz.

Engineers at the cost of the highest casualties since D-Day finally erected bridges across the Roer, and tonight heavy equipment, antitank guns, troops and supplies poured across in a never-ending stream. The German chance to smash the bridgeheads was gone.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher said from the front there was no indication of a German stand, and the Ninth "might well punch through the so-far feeble German defenses to the Rhine in hours or days."

Light Casualties Expected

Eisenhower declared that casualties were expected to be lighter than in previous fighting on this front, but added:

"If the German continues to show the spirit he has now there is only one way he can be beaten—the Allied armies must meet the Russian armies in the center of Germany."

The general of armies disclosed that the Ninth army for the current offensive had been placed under the over-all command of Field Marshal Montgomery for purely operational reasons.

While the Ninth army attack thus was geared to the British-Canadian drive on the north, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley remains in overall command of the U. S. First and Third armies.

Eisenhower left no doubt that the western Allies intended to keep right on attacking and to hurdle the Rhine at the earliest opportunity.

More than 1,100 U. S. heavy bombers continued the campaign to isolate the Rhine-Maas-Roer battlefronts with attack on rail and oil targets of northwest Germany, and tactical planes blasted gun emplacements and traffic on the roads.

First and Ninth Gain 4 Miles—Seize 17 Towns—Patton's Men Take 16 Places —Many Germans Captured.

FEB 25 1945

Paris, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—American troops advanced more than four miles beyond the Roer River today, and there still were no signs of a German stand against the huge offensive now within nineteen miles of Cologne and twelve of Muenchen Gladbach.

DAY

Gen. Eisenhower asserted the goal of this two-army push was to destroy the German Army west of the Rhine on this northern end of the western front and that he expected to be able to do it. He termed progress of the First and Ninth armies "certainly satisfactory."

American infantrymen overran seventeen towns and the prisoner toll soared above 1,400 as they fought forward across the Cologne plain.

Drive Ahead of Schedule.

"All objectives are being taken ahead of schedule, particularly north of Linnich on the Ninth Army front, where the speed of advance showed a marked increase," Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher wrote tonight from the front. These men were a dozen miles or less from industrial Muenshen Gladbadh and twenty-four from Duesseldorf.

Bridgeheads had been secured along a twenty-two-mile front, and had been pushed more than four miles beyond the flood-muddied Roer.

Troops crossing between fallen Juelich and besieged Dueren captured Niederzeir, nineteen miles short of Cologne. Farther north the American Ninth Army's deepest surge toppled Baal, twelve miles from Muenchen Gladbach.

The American battle line was being pressed forward over the trench-slit Cologne plain against an enemy who was stunned by the first shock of the assault.

Push Still Growing.

Berlin broadcasts declared the full force of Gen. Eisenhower's push had yet to be reached, and that "forty Anglo-American divisions are thus far employed in the western offensive." The German High Command reported bitter fighting, but asserted the Americans had been unable "to penetrate to our main battlefield in major depth."

The Germans, staggered by tremendous shelling and hampered by the aerial seal-off of the battlefield, struck back with six tank-led counter-attacks which failed to halt the American onrush.

United States First Army troops cleared one-fourth of Dueren, on the Roer's east bank twenty miles from Cologne on the Rhine.

But thick and strong defenses lie ahead. German resistance was reported stiffening.

Through the night more men and supplies were hurried across the muddy, flooded Roer River, breached at last in sudden, powerful onslaught.

Third Makes Big Gains.

South of this breakthrough bid, the United States Third Army seized sixteen more towns and gained up to four miles along a twenty-mile sector. Germans in northern Holland are thinning their forces, pulling back to the Ijssel River line from the Arnhem area north to the Zuider Zee, another front dispatch declared.

Doughboys of the First and Ninth Armies, headed back for the Rhine where their fathers stood peace watch in 1918-19, were driving well beyond the Linnich-Juelich-Dueren road by nightfall yesterday.

Their push, presumably hatched at Yalta to coincide with huge Russian operations, seized all of Juelich except the ancient, wide-moated citadel there, and enveloped Baal, Korrenzig, Broich and Hambach in brisk street fighting.

Six German divisions spread along the Roer front were spread too thin to halt the drive, but they were backed up by still powerful German forces. Some of these, however, had been sucked out of position by other attacks—three Panzer divisions were rushed over a week ago into the defense against the Canadian Army's push around the Kleve flank of the Siegfried Line.

Counter-attacks Delayed

The Ninth Army, pouring thousands of men over the Roer by nightfall, also captured Selgersdorf south of Juelich, Broich and Altenburg just north of Juelich, and Glimbach, Genevich, Boslar, and Rurich.

Kempen and Oberbruch were taken. North of Dueren, doughboys neared higher ground above the river slope, capturing Daubenrath, Selhausen and Neiderzeir.

The German counter-attacks fell in the Genevich-Glimbach area. So great were the shock of the American attack and the ruinous effect of the aerial seal-off of the battlefield that the first did not come until 9:30 P. M. last night.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher with the Ninth Army said the offensive was General Eisenhower's long-delayed power thrust to break the Western front deadlock. It coincided with the crushing blows the Nazis were receiving from the Red Army on the east.

Gallagher said German resistance thus far had been much less than anticipated. He added that if sunny weather continues, drying the muddy terrain, Lieut. Gen. William Simpson's Ninth Army doughboys might smash through to the Rhine in hours.

Juelich Citadel By-Passed

Simpson's doughboys seized Juelich, on a direct highway leading to Cologne, but by-passed its ancient citadel, a cluster of buildings surrounded by walls 13 to 14 feet thick and some of them 50 feet high. It was lightly defended, however, and its fall was expected momentarily. A moat 20 feet deep and 70 to 100 feet wide protects the structure.

The Ninth captured Genevich, Boslar Glimbach and Rurich, north of Juelich, and Selgersdorf to the south. Most of these towns, including Juelich, were little more than heaps of rubble as a result of the artillery barrage and aerial pounding that preceded the assault. Six hundred fighter-bomber sorties were flown over the Ninth Army front alone.

Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First Army troops on the south flank of the Ninth were four miles closer to Cologne with their smash into the industrial city of Dueren, also on a main highway leading to the prize Rhine city objective.

American infantry met stiff resistance at some of the river crossings, but once the Germans were pushed out of their original positions they seemed to lose their zest for battle, front dispatches said.

The enemy has built a vast system of trenches similar to those of the last war across the Cologne plain, however, and it remained to be seen what progress the Allied drive makes when it bumps up against them. The Yanks were not expected to encounter these until they reached the vicinity of the Erft River, midway between the Roer and the Rhine.

The drive across the Roer began at 3:30 A. M. yesterday behind a moonlight artillery barrage described as the greatest of the war.

EISENHOWER SAYS ASSAULT AIMED AT REACHING RHINE

Opened

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Feb. 24—(AP) Gen. Eisenhower declared today that the new Allied offensive was aimed at reaching the Rhine and that it was progressing satisfactorily in coordination with Red Army operations on the Eastern front.

The Allied leader made it clear, however, that he had no hope of an imminent German collapse and anticipated a hard fight which would end only when Allied armies meet the Russians "in the center of Germany."

Expects Guerrilla Warfare

Even after organized resistance is crushed guerrilla fighting from the mountains may be looked for, Gen. Eisenhower said, and even after that is ended the Germans may persist in underground battles and continue the struggle by assassination and plotting.

Gen. Eisenhower addressed War correspondents on arrival from the front area and came with information of the progress of battle up to 20 minutes before his appearance in front of the great maps in the SHAEF briefing room.

The wrinkles in his forehead were slightly deeper than at the time of the last press conference in November, but the General appeared well and healthy and smiled broadly as usual when he began to speak.

The Allied attack is progressing as favorably as can be expected, he said, adding "I expect to destroy every German west of the Rhine in the area in which we are attacking."

"Given a continuation of conditions as we see them now and a reasonable break in the weather—and I am not asking for July Kansas weather — the attacks we are seeing now should mark the beginning of the destruction of German forces west of the Rhine," he said.

The Commander-in-Chief said he expected Allied losses in the current drive would be lower per division than those of the sweep through France or in the repulse of the December Ardennes breakthrough.

"There is going to be no cessation of aggressive action anywhere on the Western front," he said.

Eisenhower disclosed that the American Ninth army was placed under the command of British Field Marshal Montgomery to meet the exigencies of battlefield coordination.

He also disclosed that operations were coordinated with those of the Eastern front and said he had satisfactory liaison with the Russian army.

"The Russians have furnished me with all the information I needed to know and have done so cheerfully and willingly," he said. "Our liaison with the Russians has always been as close and as intimate as was necessary to meet the situation at a particular moment."

What 'Frightened' Him

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 24 (AP)—Smiling broadly, General Eisenhower told the Allied press today that he and his high staff were not quite as stunned by the Germans' Ardennes breakthrough in December as some folks.

"I wasn't nearly as frightened during the action," he said, "as when I saw newspapers from the United States a few weeks later."

When Will Nazis Quit?—Ike's Through Guessing

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 24 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is not making another guess about how long the war will last.

The Allied supreme commander said today he had had enough of guessing when in October, 1943, he ventured the one about the war ending in 1944.

He said at that time he calculated that, with the Russian pressure, the Germans would fold up by the time Allied troops advanced as far into Europe as they ultimately did last September. It looked like a good bet then—but the Germans just did not quit.

Engineers Bridging Roer Suffer Heavy Casualties

Erect One Span Eight Times So 9th Can Drive On

JUELICH, Germany, Feb. 24 (AP).—Thanks to engineers, who bridged the Roer River under fire and took their heaviest casualties since D-Day, the United States 9th Army drive to the Rhine gained momentum today, smashing forward through a maze of defenses four to four and a half miles beyond the jump-off points.

Although the Germans had been pushed from many observation posts, their gunners had carefully zeroed in the river and raked it with fire. For the second day, grim, mud-soaked engineers disregarded comrades wounded around them and kept the traffic flowing.

One bridge was put in eight times before it finally stayed, and each time the cost was met in blood and courage by the engineers, who often have the dirty Army jobs but seldom get the headlines. This time their casualties were higher in proportion than the attacking infantry.

One young engineer officer was hit four times by shell fragments in five hours before he could be forced off the job into an ambulance. Because of such valor jeeps, trucks and every type of Army equipment were streaming across the Roer tonight.

Raiders Got Across Roer First

Group of Yanks Secured a Battalion Front Without Losing One Man.

With the United States Ninth Army on the Roer, Feb. 23 (Delayed) (A. P.).—This is the story of a group of doughboys who rowed two wooden boats across the Roer River thirty minutes before H-hour and secured a battalion front for assault waves of a division in the center of the Ninth Army attack.

The highest rank in the outfit was a silver bar, but on this tiny spearhead of volunteers hung the fate of whether Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson's great offensive would get off smoothly.

Lieut. Roy L. (Buck) Rogers of Allentown, Pa., and his raiders scrambled up the east banks of the Roer at 3:02 A. M., just twenty-eight minutes before the first assault waves took off. By H hour Rogers and his men had cleared 500 yards of shore on a 200-yard deep perimeter, knocked out five machine-gun nests, six automatic weapon positions, killed fifteen Germans and captured eight.

And in all this thirty minutes of fighting not one American boy was killed.

The raid really began in the basement of an old German schoolhouse on the west banks of the Roer.

Pvt. Milton Fischer of 8602 Park Forest, Woodhaven, L. I., pulled his lifebelt tight around him and suggested that this "might be the one we all go home on."

Then it was time to go. Rogers said goodby just as if he were going out to play football again for the University of Minnesota.

"Buck Rogers raiders ride again," some one remarked as the men went away in the darkness.

When Rogers got back to the schoolhouse cellar and was sitting on a box of K rations, some one said:

"The General wants to see you."

Buck walked over to where his general was standing among a group of officers, all beaming like proud fathers.

"I suppose you know our bridgehead is going very smoothly," said the General.

"I'll pin this 'on-the-spot' Bronze Star on you now. There will be a Silver Star coming up later."

Then every one in the room shook the big guy's hand.

It was exactly 3 A. M. when the raiders had placed their two little boats in the water and began to row across the river.

As their paddles dug into the racing stream a German machine gun fifty feet away opened fire in the group's direction, but the stream of red tracers kept pouring high.

At 3:02 A. M. the boats hit the Roer's east bank. They fanned out around the Nazi machine gunner until somebody got close enough to throw a hand grenade. Then they got organized.

A squad on the inside flank, led by Sergt. Albert Charpentier of Lawrence, Mass., had the job of curving in toward German mine fields.

Moving south, Roger's raiders ran across four more machine-gun nests and several batches of Krauts—and captured them all.

"There was nothing spectacular about this raid," Rogers said later. "It was all very methodical."

Queens Man Second Across

ON THE ROER RIVER, Feb. 23 (Delayed) (AP)—Maj. Edward J. Regan of Providence, R. I., was credited today with having been the first man across the Roer River on the American First Army front. According to the same reckoning, the next was Lt. Col. Robert O. Kleefelt of 70-01 113th Street, Forest Hills, Queens.

Danbury Soldier Aids In Capture Of Rurich

With the Ninth Army, Feb. 23—(Delayed)—(AP)—The commanding general of the forces assigned to attack Rurich today got that old German city six miles north of Juelich somewhat before he expected it.

He had ordered his infantrymen pushing north to stand by for an attack on the town after an artillery barrage. He was pacing the floor in his command post, waiting for the roar of the opening guns.

His field telephone rang.

"Tell the general Rurich is his," the caller reported.

Capt. Alcee Peters, Monroe, La., and his doughboys had decided to try to infiltrate and capture Rurich before the artillery barrage started. They [illegible]ked.

Unwitting German Officer Brings Yanks Breakfast

By The Associated Press.

WITH AMERICAN 102D DIVISION IN GERMANY, Feb. 24—Men in Lieut. Col. John Wohner's battalion had German Army rations for breakfast this morning in Glimbach, which they captured yesterday.

The Ozark Division sentries were startled at 5 A. M. when a German quartermaster came into town, driving a horse and wagon. The prisoner said he didn't know the Americans had taken the place and was bringing in food for the German garrison.

His wagon was loaded with potatoes and sauerkraut.

U. S. Fighting Man, 18, Is Paging Gen. Patton

He Wants to Join 3d Army and Eisenhower Agrees

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Feb. 24 (AP).—Eighteen-year-old Herbert Wills, a private in a reinforcement camp, is going to see a general about a job.

His search for employment started last September when Lieutenant General George S. Patton's troops were knocking the Wehrmacht groggy. Anxious to fight with the 3d Army, Wills made inquiries, but his Niagara Falls draft board was unimpressed. He was only seventeen.

So Wills returned the next day, forged his age on a draft registration blank and waited for the Army to catch up with him. It did, three months later, but by that time the youngster was a crack rifleman at Fort Benning. He was also slated for overseas.

Yesterday, Private Wills and General Dwight D. Eisenhower arrived at a reinforcement camp. Inspecting the new troops, General Eisenhower asked Wills what outfit he wanted.

"Third Army, Sir," said the private.

"See George Patton and tell him I sent you," said the general. A "Stars and Stripes" correspondent related the story today.

Use Of Red Cross Food By Foe Foreseen

Birkesdorf, Germany, Feb. 24 (AP)—United States 1st Army intelligence officers are investigating a possibility that German troops have been consuming food from Red Cross packages intended for French prisoners of war.

Lieut. Col. Mark Plaisted, of Springfield, Ill., discovered in Birkesdorf three empty cartons, each of which had contained 48 pounds of Red Cross foodstuff.

"It seems conclusive the Germans were using this food themselves," he said, "but we are having an investigation made. We know no prisoners have been held in Dueren for months, and yet these boxes all are new and freshly opened."

GERMANS GLOOMY OVER YANK DRIVE

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP) Amid unconfirmed reports that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Russians were crossing the final German defense lines before Berlin, Nazi commentators said the "greatest mass of men and material ever assembled since the Normandy invasion" were forcing open the historic gate between the Maas river and the Eifel mountains.

Gloomy German broadcasts telling of crushing blows on the east and west coincided with the latest Hitler speech demanding the "very last ounce of strength" from the bomb-battered German people and with propaganda exhortations to hold fast against the flood of disasters.

Commentator Sertorius declared Gen. Eisenhower had hurled not less than 40 divisions at the Maas-Eifel sector alone and predicted still greater Allied blows to the south.

On the west front Cologne was reported aflame after an aerial hammering and Berlin admitted "many" bridgeheads had been merged across the Roer river between Linnich and Dueren in the last 24 hours as American Doughboys wedged deeper into Nazi defenses.

"By using his vastly superior air force," said a Transocean commentator, "Eisenhower has been able to stop all movements behind the German front."

Behind the lines the home front began to feel the pinch of the disruption of the transport system as supplies dwindled and it became a question of whether still more drastic food cuts might be imposed.

A commentator for the German News agency DNB described the American western assault as "the greatest offensive Eisenhower ever has staged."

A Nazi radio propagandist, Alex Schmalfuss, said that while Field Marshal Von Rundstedt had made thorough preparations to meet the Allied offensive, "nobody is harboring any illusions that the battle will not be one of utmost severity."

DNB said that the current Allied offensive had been timed to start with the mighty Russian Winter assault but that the German counteroffensive last December had thrown the Allies off schedule.

Russians Optimistic

They Look Forward to Meeting Western Armies Inside Reich

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—The Soviet Embassy said today that Red Army officers and men "see the hour approaching" when they will meet somewhere inside Germany the American, British and Allied armies. The statement was made in commenting on the offensive just launched on the western front.

An article in the embassy's information bulletin also said, "The strength of an army is composed of two factors, materiel and morale, and Americans have proven themselves strong in both respects in the present war."

KONEV CROSSING NEISSE IN FORCE

Report Says He Is Menacing Junction Of Cottbus

London, Sunday, Feb. 25 (AP)—Russian shock troops, driving to within 3 miles of the heart of burning Breslau, yesterday hurled the enemy out of fifteen more blocks in the Silesian capital, while other Soviet forces pushed to within 33 miles south of Danzig.

A front dispatch said that Red Army troops also had smashed in growing strength across the Neisse River and were threatening Cottbus, big rail center 47 miles from Berlin, but Moscow officially has not confirmed this important development which threatens to turn the Reich capital's eastern defenses along the stalemated Oder River sector.

Oltaschin Taken

The raging battle in Breslau's streets was the main event mentioned by Moscow, and in their smash into the southern part of the bombarded city the Russians captured the suburb of Oltaschin, 3½ miles from the heart of Breslau.

In one of the briefest communiqués issued since the Russians opened their winter offensive January 12, Moscow announced slight gains in German Pomerania near the Polish frontier and the capture of nine more localities in the shrinking Nazi pocket southwest of Koenigsberg, besieged East Prussian capital.

Melee In Streets

The assault on Breslau — Germany's eighth-largest city, of 630,000 population—mounted in intensity, and an enemy broadcast said that in a wild melee in the streets one Soviet force had penetrated to the neighborhood of the German barracks deep inside the city before being thrown back to "the outer town ring."

Berlin said the Russians were using "several army corps," and that these had been ordered to take the important industrial and communications city quickly and avoid a long siege. Russian artillery barrages had been stepped up, and Berlin acknowledged that German nests inside Breslau had been wiped out by the Russians.

100,000 Men In City

A Nazi garrison believed to number 100,000 men fought savagely to hold Breslau and delay the Russian advances on Berlin and Dresden.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army, attacking on a 70-mile front, gained up to 7 miles from their previous positions, capturing ten localities in the Polish "corridor" and in Pomerania on the west.

Flanking the Vistula River town of Gniew one Soviet group seized Dzierzazno, 4 miles east of Gniew and 33 miles south of the former free city of Danzig. In this area the Russians were within 8 miles of the border of Danzig territory and were attacking toward the ten-way road and rail junction of Starogard, on the Berlin-Danzig trunk railway.

With the capture of Maxhausen, nine miles west of Gniew, one Soviet column was within nine miles south of Starogard, while another unit seized Ossowo, 11 miles southwest of Starogard, in a two-day three-mile gain.

"Fighting on the Neisse is raging in full blaze with massive Russian forces fiercely attempting to widen their narrow bridgeheads."

The struggle along the river extended over a 60-mile front from the Guben area south to the approaches to Goerlitz, Silesia's second city 48 miles east of Dresden, Saxon capital.

Little activities aside from artillery duels and reconnaissance was reported on the Oder river front due east of Berlin, but yesterday's capture of Poznan in western Poland opened what had been a supply bottleneck for Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army. The Germans expected a grand scale assault in this sector shortly.

German and Moscow accounts agreed that fighting inside encircled Breslau, Silesian capital 165 miles southeast of Berlin, had mounted in fury.

Defenders to Fight to Death

The Soviet radio said Breslau's garrison, believed to number 100,000 men, had been ordered to fight to the death and therefore Konev had told his assaulting forces "to tear it to pieces stone by stone."

Street battles were in full swing in the southern part of this eighth city of Germany. It is the largest Reich city ever tackled by the Russians. With tanks, grenades and flame throwers Stalingrad veterans were blasting their way through street barricades and ripping into one fortified building after another, routing the enemy out of cellars and attics and intervening floors.

Other rear hedgehog positions by-passed by the bulk of the Russian forces were being reduced by Red army shock troops and the Russians also were battling to extend their Pomeranian flank before launching the all-out frontal push toward Berlin.

A Paris radio report said the German garrison had fled Koenigsberg, besieged East Prussian capital, after opening an escape corridor to Pillau, Baltic port 23 miles to the west, but the Germans said their troops still were holding out there.

Southwest of Koenigsberg the exhausted remnants of perhaps more than 20 divisions were squeezed into a narrow pocket, and Berlin

In the Polish "corridor" between the Vistula river and the German Pomeranian frontier other Soviet forces were pushing relentlessly northward toward Danzig. Behind their front another German garrison was on its last legs in encircled Grudziadz. Berlin said the garrison had "withdrawn to the southern fringe of the town where they were holding against further strong Russian attacks."

a Moscow dipatch that both cities "seemed in immediate danger of being cut off from communications."

Reported heavy fighting in East Prussia, the Germans said a Soviet attack failed north of Mehlsack and Zinten, both south of encircled Koenigsberg.

Poznan Is Cleared of Foe.

Clearing their supply lines along the direct-line route to Berlin, Russian troops wiped out the last German resistance in long-encircled Poznan and Arnswalde

Marshal G. K. Zhuvok's First White Russian Army in its drive to the Oder River, fell yesterday after a month's siege. The Germans lost 48,000 killed or captured.

Arnswalde Falls

Farther north, the German garrison in Arnswalde, a smaller but formidable Nazi fortress town bypassed by other Zhukov units driving through Pomerania toward Stettin, was liquidated. Arnswalde is a seven-way road junction 38 miles southeast of Stettin, Baltic port for Berlin. It had been encircled since February 11.

Moscow announced that a total of 23,000 Germans, including the commander and his staff, were captured at Poznan and 25,000 were killed. The booty also included

Konev's Troops Fight to Breach Nazi Lines on Neisse and Spree Rivers—Foe's Defenses Are 12 Miles Deep.

London, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army engaged the Germans in a large-scale tank battle today in the no man's land region of Goerlitz, southeast of Berlin, as the Russians assaulted in force the enemy's Neisse and Spree river lines.

Russian attempts to establish bridgeheads on the west bank of the Neisse were beaten back, the German communique said. A Moscow dispatch declared that Marshal Konev's troops were attacking a defense system some eight to twelve miles deep in trenches and anti-tank ditches.

While Soviet dispatches did not put Marshal Konev's troops far beyond the Neisse it seemed they might be holding several salients well on the Berlin side.

Reds Break into Breslau.

The German war bulletin said the Russians were thrown back to the north at Goldberg, thirteen miles southwest of Liegnitz and thirty-six miles due west of the by-passed and surrounded Nazi stronghold of Breslau. Marshal Konev's assault troops have broken into the southern defenses of Breslau, and have rolled the Germans back in the direction of Hirschberg, in the Katzbach Mountains on the road to Prague.

To the north Marshal Konev's tanks and tommygunners drove into the streets of Guben and Forst, fifty-one and fifty-seven miles southeast of Berlin, against German veterans and Volkssturm units. Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore said in

The capture of Poznan shortened by some fifty miles the first White Russian Army's communications with the rear.

A Moscow broadcast said last night that Germany's losses in the war with Russia were approximately 10,000,000 men.

The Russian commentator, "Analyser," speaking on the twenty-seventh anniversary of the Red Army, said that the Germans lost an average of 30,000 men a day killed and captured during the Russian offensive this year.

The average for the first three years of the war, the commentator said, was about 7,000 Germans killed or captured daily.

The figures did not include any wounded.

Simultaneously, the Russians stepped up pressure on besieged Breslau in an effort to reduce that German Silesian stronghold and free additional Soviet units for Marshal Ivan S. Konev's flanking drive on Berlin from the southeast.

The Paris radio, which sometimes is unreliable, said today that the Germans had evacuated the besieged East Prussian capital of Koenigsberg, abandoning the civilian population "to its fate," and that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian troops had crossed the Oder River in force. Last German reports insisted Koenigsberg still was in their hand despite a Russian breach just south of the city).

Poznan, Nazi stronghold in Western Poland which was bypassed by hundreds of planes, guns and freight cars.

In capturing the city, Soviet tank and infantry teams blasted their way through six huge underground fortresses.

An official Russian war bulletin said Soviet units, after fierce fighting broke through the southern defenses of Breslau, captured the radio station and a motor car works and cleared the Nazis from the southern park area.

City Heavily Defended

This great industrial Oder River city of 630,000 bristles with Nazi fortifications, but Moscow said Konev's assault groups were routing the Germans "from one block house after another."

Berlin said other units of Konev's forces, far to the northwest, had broken into Guben and Forst, 51 and 57 miles southeast of Berlin in the Neisse River area where the Russians have laid down terrific artillery barrages in the last few days, suggesting the imminence of a new push off for the German capital.

The German accounts said the Russians had crossed the Neisse River, establishing bridgeheads less than 10 miles from the Spree, last water barrier protecting the German capital from Konev's advance.

Other spearheads of Konev's troops were battling on the approaches to Goerlitz, Neisse River citadel 48 miles east of Dresden.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army, meanwhile, squeezed the remnants of 25 to 30 German divisions trapped in East Prussia into a 325-mile square area southwest of Koenigsberg.

HITLER GOADS REICH ONWARD

FEB 25 1945

Hints Fear Of Revolt—Death To Shirkers Threatened

London, Feb. 24 (AP)—Adolf Hitler told the Old Guard of the Nazi party today that Germany had taken such a "terrible" beating that now "there is no greater terror in store for us," and he called upon every man, woman and child in the Reich to fight until the last breath, threatening shirkers with death.

Hitler's speech to his old party comrades on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the announcement of the National Socialist program, read for him by an aide and transmitted to the press by the DNB news agency, contained hints of fear of an uprising inside Germany.

Anyone who showed himself a coward, refused to join the Volkssturm (home guard) or attempted to sabotage the fanatical defense of the country would be annihilated, Hitler warned. Threats against slackers and unbelievers in the Nazi regime were sprinkled throughout the speech.

Fear Of Russians Paramount

Predicting that a turning point in the war would come this year but without saying in whose favor the turn would be, the Führer likened Nazi Germany's role to that of the central European nations who centuries ago held off the invasions of Huns and Turks "who threatened to turn our continent into a desert."

"We shall be weighed in this century, and particularly in our own decade, according to whether we are steadfast enough to encounter an invasion from central Asia such as the world has seen many times before since the dawn of history," he declared.

Germany's preoccupation with fear of the Soviet invasion was shown clearly in Hitler's emphasis on the "Jewish Bolshevist plague" and his references to the Western Allies only as the aides of the Russians.

Hitler In Martyr's Role

Assuming a martyr's role, Hitler declared he would be "happy to bear everything others have to bear to the last, as far as this is possible for a human being."

He even expressed regret that his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden had not been destroyed in a recent Allied air-raid, for "whatever I can call my own is no more valuable than what belongs to my people."

Only toward the end of his long harangue did Hitler show anything but pessimism. Then he declared, "Twenty-five years ago I predicted the victory of our movement. Today, filled as always with belief in our nation, I predict final victory for the German race."

Hitler And "Providence"

"This Jewish Bolshevist annihilation of nations and its Western European and American procurers can be met with in one way," Hitler told his people, "——by using every ounce of strength with extreme fanaticism and stubborn steadfastness which a merciful God gives to men in hard times for the defense of their life."

Again and again he repeated that one hope was that "Providence" would not let the nation down when it put up a last-ditch fight.

The speech was read at the party gathering in Munich by Hermann Esser, secretary of state in the propaganda ministry, and was prefaced with the explanation that "consciousness of my duty and work do not allow me to leave my headquarters."

This "Unnatural Alliance"

He asserted that when the early members of the Nazi party met on February 24, 1920, to proclaim their principles, "the same coalition of deadly enemies was united against the German people then as it is today."

"The unnatural alliance between capital exploitation and Bolshevik murder that is trying to throttle the world today was the enemy on whom, on February 24, 1920, we declared war to preserve the nation. As today, seemingly contradictory factors had united these extreme forces as an expression of the uniform will of the selfsame agitator and profiteer. International Jewry had for a long time adopted both guises to destroy peoples' freedom and happiness."

Germany faces, Hitler stated, "the most infamous and bloody tyranny of all times against man's freedom," but, he added, if his party had not come to power and reconstructed the country, "neither the German Reich nor the German nation would exist today."

Couldn't "Bear Sign Of Weakness"

"Never again must we stray from the path of building up the character of our nation. Uninfluenced by class distinction, we shall be above stupid pride of various strata of society and we shall be filled with conviction that the carriers of the eternal values of the people are our best sons and daughters."

"The life which is left to us should serve only one task," the Führer cried to his beleaguered Reich, "namely, to make up for all the wrongs done by international Jewish criminals and their henchmen to our nation. It must be our unshakable will to think of Germany alone until our last breath. Man after man, woman after woman, in towns and in country, we shall live only for the task of liberating our nation from this distress, to reconstruct Germany's culture."

Hitler Urges Last-ditch Fight

Calls On Germany to Resist With Fanaticism —Predicts Turning Point in War.

Chester FEB 25 1945

London, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Adolf Hitler today called on Germany to fight to the end, and warned that "whoever is weak falls and must perish." In a message to a Munich celebration marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the formation of his National Socialist program, he described Germany as an "unshakable community of people," and repeated over and over that Providence would not let the German nation down if it put up a last-ditch fight.

He made no personal appearance, pleading pressure of affairs, the Berlin radio said. He told the party Old Guard: "The very last ounce of strength must be thrown into the battle with the utmost fanaticism and stubborn steadfastness."

He threatened death to any one who "shows himself to be a coward or who even sabotages the fight" and declared he valued his own life "only for what it is worth to the nation." Any one who did not join the Volkssturm (home guard) would be annihilated, he warned.

Predicts Turning Point.

Hitler also predicted an "historical turning point" in the war this year. He was vague on this subject, however, and offered no prospect of any immediate change in Germany's fortunes.

He appealed to a "merciful God" Who, he said, "gives strength to a man in the difficult times when his life is at stake."

"Providence shows no mercy to weak nations but only recognizes the right of existence of sound and strong nations," the message said, and declared that without the "National Socialist reconstruction there would neither be a German Reich nor a German people today."

"Not at a talking shop at Geneva, nor by any other convention, will Bolshevism be beaten back, but solely by our determination to win victory and by the strength of our arms," the message said.

Warns Allied Peoples.

In his message Hitler also declared that all the Allied peoples "will sooner or later be victims of those spirits they have invoked today," and added: "They have given us such a terrible lesson that there is no greater terror in store for us."

In a harangue against capitalism, Bolshevism and the Jews, Hitler said that the "enemy on whom we (the National Socialist party) declared war on February 24, 1920, because we wanted to preserve our nation," was the same one threatening to engulf the world today. He said: "The same coalition of irreconcilable enemies was fighting against the German people at that time, just as they are fighting Germany now."

It was just a quarter of a century ago that Hitler, in a prison cell, began drafting the Nazi program to overthrow the German republic.

The Nazis' ascent to power after a thirteen-year fight, Hitler declared, "was the result of a tough fanatical battle which often seemed completely hopeless."

He Reads British Papers.

"I recently read in the British papers that the Allies intend to destroy my Berghof (Hitler's mountain house)," he said. "I almost regret that this did not happen so far, since my personal property is of no greater value than that of other Germans. I shall be happy——as far as this is possible for anybody—to bear al lthat others have to bear.

"The only thing I should not be able to bear would be the weakness of my nation."

Hitler concluded: "I predict the final victory of the German race. The life which is left to us should serve only one task, namely, to make up for all the wrongs done by the international Jewish criminals and their henchmen to our nation.

"It must be our unshakable will to think of Germany alone until our last breath. Man after man, woman after woman, in towns and in the country, we shall live only for the task to liberate our nation from this distress, to reconstruct Germany's culture."

Text of Hitler's Message

The text of a message by Adolf Hitler "on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the announcement of the National Socialist (Nazi) party's program," as transmitted by Berlin yesterday and recorded by The Associated Press:

The consciousness of my duty and my work do not allow me to leave headquarters at the moment when, for the twenty-fifth time, that date is being commemorated on which the fundamental program of our movement was proclaimed and approved at Munich.

The evening of the 24th of February was under the auspices of prudence, a development the significance of which probably only today becomes clear to us in its terrible meaning. An unreconcilable enemy already was at that time united in a common struggle against the German people in the same manner as it is today.

The unnatural alliance between exploiting capitalism and destructive Bolshevism which today threatens to strangle the entire world has been the enemy to whom we threw the gantlet on Feb. 24, 1920, in order to safeguard the existence of our nation. The same as in these years, the apparently contradictory factor in the co-operation of such extreme forces was only the expression of a unique desire of a common instigator and profiteer. International Jewry has long used both forms for the annihilation of liberty and the social welfare of nations.

Difference Over the Years

However, there is an enormous difference between the Germany of 1920 and the Germany of 1945. The Germany of 1920 had been completely paralyzed, the Germany of today is defending herself with the utmost fanaticism. The social order of 1920 had been antiquated and was bound to collapse. Today there exists an unshakable community of the people.

If the former Germany had possessed only a small fraction of the power of resistance inspiring the Germany of today she would not have capitulated. If the German people today possessed only a part of the former weakness it would have ceased to exist long ago. February 24, 1920, will later be regarded as a great milestone in the history of mankind. Without German National Socialist reconstruction there would be neither a German Reich nor a German people today.

Providence shows no mercy to weak nations but only recognizes the right of existence of sound and strong nations. The fact that the National Socialist movement in 1933 succeeded after roughly thirteen years in gaining power by legal means was the result of a stubborn and hard struggle which often seemed to be hopeless.

Who dares to deny that even the strongest will power would not have sufficed to defy this devilish coalition threatening us today without Germany's successful material rearmament after the National Socialist revolution? Nobody but the foolish bourgeois can believe that the flood from the east would not have come if Germany had met it with theoretical international laws instead of guns, tanks and planes.

Recalls Other Invasions

Just as the Hun assault could not be beaten back by pious wishes or fair warnings, just as the invasion of our Reich from the southeast in the course of centuries was not warded off by diplomatic tricks and the Mongolian onslaught did not spare old monuments of culture, this danger also will not be overcome by right in itself, but only by strength supporting this right.

Right itself is nothing but dutw to defend the life interusted to us by the Creator of the world. It is the sacred right of self-preservation. Whether this self-preservation will be successful depends solely on the greatness of our efforts and on willingness to make any sacrifice to preserve this life for the future.

Attila's power was broken not at a meeting of the League of Nations but in battle on the Catalaunian Plains. Not at talking shop in Geneva nor by any other convention will Bolshevism be beaten but solely by our determination to win victory and by the strength of our arms.

We all know how difficult this struggle is. No matter what we shall lose, it is by far not what it would be if this struggle was not successfully concluded.

Several areas in the eastern part of the German Reich now experience Bolshevism. The crimes committed against our women and children and men by this Jewish plague are the most terrible fate ever conceived by human beings.

This Jewish Bolshevist annihilation of nations and its western European and American procurers can only be met with in one way: by using every ounce of strength with the extreme fanaticism and stubborn steadfastness which merciful God gives to men in hard times for the defense of their own lives.

Warns Those Who Waver

All those who weaken will be crushed and left to decay. In the same manner as once the coward bourgeois compromise parties had been first driven into a corner by the Bolshevist wave and then been swept away, all those bourgeois states will disappear today whose stupid representatives think they can conclude a treaty with the devil, cherishing the hope that they will be more cunning than he is satanical.

It is a gruesome repetition of the former inner-German process which is now going on in a gigantic world political field of the present war. But just as we formerly overcame the narrow-minded party particularism and knocked down the Bolshevist opponent in order to create a National Socialist people's state, we shall today win a victory over the medley of bourgeois democratic-state conceptions and will crown this victory by annihilation of Bolshevism.

Just as once all the compromising bourgeois parties were swept away by the Bolshevist flood, so today all bourgeois states are disappearing. Their misguided representatives believe they can come to terms with the devil in the hope of outwitting him. It is a horrid repetition of what once happened in Germany, but on a global scale.

Just as we then smashed the Bolshevist enemy despite petty-bourgeois particularism and set up a National Socialist state, so victory shall be ours t oday despite bourgeois democratic states.

The greatest king of our history, Frederick II, was threatened with succumbing to superiority of a world coalition and it was due only to his heroic soul that a nucleus of the coming Reich was created and remained victor in the end.

All peoples whose statesmen have made a pact with the Bolshevist devil will sooner or later become its victim.

But let there be no doubt that National Socialist Germany will carry on this struggle until in the end, and that will be the case this year, the historic turning point comes.

No power in the world will weaken our hearts.

Sees "One Task" Ahead

Our enemies have destroyed so much that is beautiful and holy that we can now live only for one task—to create a state which will rebuild what they have destroyed. It is, therefore, our duty to maintain liberty of the German nation for the future, not to permit German labor to be carried off to Siberia but to mobilize it for reconstruction on behalf of our own people. It is frightful what the homeland has to endure and tasks of the front ae superhuman, but if a whole people are to show themselves equal to such suffering, as our nation does, then Providence will not deny us in the end the right of survival.

We have suffered so much that it only steels us to fanatical resolve to hate our enemies a thousand times more and to regard them for what they are—destroyers of an eternal culture and annihilators of humanity. Out of this hate a holy will is born to oppose these destroyers of our existence with all the strength God has given us and to crush them in the end. During its 2,000-year history our people have survived so many terrible times, we have no doubt but we will also master our present plight.

If the homeland continues to do its duty and even does still more, if the soldier at the front takes the valiant homeland as an example and stakes his life for his native land, then the whole world will be shattered in its assault against us. If the front and the homeland are jointly determined to destroy those who renounce the law of self-preservation, those who act like cowards or those who sabotage the fight, then they will save the nation. Then at the end of this struggle a German victory must come, and we will enjoy our proud good fortune.

Cites Present Youths

When this war comes to an end, we shall put victory into the hands of a young generation. This youth is the most precious thing that Germany possesses. It will be an example for all generations to come.

This, too, is work of National Socialist education and the result of a challenge which twenty-five years ago went out from Munich.

My own life has only the value which it possesses for the nation's work unswervingly to re-establish and strengthen our fronts for revenge and attack, to create weapons of proved as well as of novel design, to put them into action to stiffen the spirit of our resistance and, if necessary, also as in the past, to eliminate all those pests who do not want to participate in the preservation of our nationhood or even oppose it.

I recently read in the British papers that the Allies intend to destroy my Berghof (evidently referring to the American attack on his mountain home near Berchtesgaden last week). I almost regret that this did not happen thus far, since my personal property is of no greater value than that of other Germans.

I shall be happy—as far as this is possible to anybody—to bear all that the others have to bear. The only thing I should not be able to bear would be the weakness of my nation.

What makes me very happy and proud, however, is the conviction that the German people in its greatest distress shows its hardest character. In these weeks and months may every individual German remember that it is his duty to sacrifice all for the German nation's preservation for centuries to come.

Whoever suffers must know that many Germans have lost more than he. The life which is left to us should serve only one task—namely, to make up for all the wrongs done by the international Jewish criminals and their henchmen to our nation. It must be our unshakable will to think of Germany alone until our last breath. Man after man, woman after woman, in towns and in country, we shall live only for the task of liberating our nation from this distress, of reconstructing Germany's culture, as well as her National Socialistic life.

It is our firm will never to cease working for the true people's community, far from any ideology of classes, firmly believing that the eternal values of a nation are its best sons and daughters, who, regardless of birth and rank, just as God gave them to us, must be educated and employed.

Twenty-five years ago I predicted the victory of our movement.

Today, filled as always with belief in our nation, I predict the final victory of the German race.

Himmler, Not Hitler, Orders Last Stand

Moscow, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler—and not Hitler—is sending the rallying cries to the eastern front for battles to the last man, a dispatch from the captured citadel of Poznan in western Poland said today.

The dispatch said that German captives told Red Army commanders that Himmler had ordered the long, futile fight in Poznan. Similar orders which went to the Nazi garrisons in Budapest had come from Hitler.

COLOGNE DISTRICT AFLAME IN RAIDS

Jameson

London, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—More than 1,100 United States Eighth Air Force bombers swarmed over northwest Germany today in a series of flaming attacks on rail yards, oil refineries and submarine bases, as the record Allied aerial offensive against the Reich continued unabated into its twelfth straight day.

In support of Gen. Eisenhower's mighty new offensive, rail targets behind the western front were attacked heavily, as the airmen kept up their knockout effort against the Nazi transportation network launched two days ago. Bombers also attacked U-boat pens at Hamburg and Bremen and oil refineries at Hamburg and at Misburg, near Hannover.

While this broadside was under way, heavy bombers of the Italy-based United States Fifteenth Air Force belted German communications for the twelfth consecutive day, hitting the Graz rail yards on the main line from Yugoslavia to Vienna, and Klagenfurt, just north of the Yugoslav border.

Tactical Air Force bombers in swarms smashed at German front line positions in support of the ground forces in the west. Fighter pilots who flew over the western front at mid-day said the whole area around Cologne, goal of the new Allied offensive, seemed to be in flames. The Flying Fortresses and Liberators crossed the North Sea from Britain in a huge formation, then broke up in more than a half dozen task forces. More than 500 fighters accompanied the raiders.

As a result of the almost continuous hammering by close to 20,000 planes since last Thursday, Germany's spiderweb rail network was reported in complete chaos.

Pilots who made low-level inspection flights over hundreds of miles of the blitzed rail systems reported traffic at a complete standstill.

Wreckage is piled high in the major yards. Hundreds of trains have been knocked out on tracks or bottled up by rail cuts and blown bridges resulting from perhaps the greatest sustained aerial assault in history.

5,000 Locomotives Hit

It was estimated by competent observers that at least 5,000 locomotives and 7,000 freight cars have been shot up or stranded since Thursday night.

A force of 500 to 750 R. A. F. bombers last night attacked Pforzheim, southeast of Karlsruhe and an important junction on the main line to the U. S. Third Army front. Crews reported dropping saturation loads of high explosives on the vital junction for Nazi supply movement.

Berlin was hit for the fourth successive night by R. A. F. Mosquitos carrying 4,000 pound blockbusters.

Shortly before dusk two fleets of British heavies hit the industrial cities of Essen and Gelsinkirchen, in the Ruhr.

'SKY SCOUTS' AID FLIERS

Former Bomber Pilots Now Check Weather, Act as Escorts

LONDON, Feb. 24 (AP)—The United States Eighth Air Force disclosed another of its secrets today in announcing the existence of "Sky Scouts," former heavy-bomber pilots who now fly Mustang fighters ahead of bomber forces as last-minute weather observers.

More than once the reports of these scouts have resulted in changes of targets after the bombers were en route. The scouts were organized last July by Col. Budd J. Peaslee of Santa Cruz, Calif. On one occasion one of three scouting forces checked sixteen possible targets while the bombers were coming in. The scouts also do duty as fighters.

FIVE NEUTRALS DENIED SEATS

Cannot Attend San Francisco Parley Under Any Terms

London, Feb. 24 (AP)—Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal, Argentina and possibly Eire have been banned from the San Francisco world security conference, it was reliably reported tonight.

Even a declaration of war—the price of admission to the peace table for other neutral nations—apparently has been turned down in the cases of these nations.

Only a change of government, it was reported in responsible quarters, might win some of these countries a place back in the good graces of the major powers and a seat—with a vote—in the projected world security league.

It is significant that none of the countries apparently was cut in on the Big Three decision to give other neutrals until March 1 to make up their minds.

But at the same time it was obvious that nations which profited through dealings with the Nazis when the Axis were in ascendency will have to pay in the loss of prestige.

Result Of Russ Fiat

The decision—confirmed by Turkey's announcement that it had until the first of next month to make up its mind—was regarded here as chiefly the result of an ultimatum laid down by Russia.

Earlier Russia had indicated she would refuse to share the peace table with any representative of Generalissimo Franco's regime.

Eire's position was considered a bit different here. Although neutral, she has been making an important contribution to Britain's economy, both through manpower and resources and volunteers for the fighting forces.

British Navy Denies Deserting Convoy

London, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The British Admiralty today described as "entirely without foundation" the statement of a repatriated American seaman that British escort ships had once abandoned a Murmansk-bound convoy to engage German warships, with the result that thirty-four Allied merchantmen were sunk by submarines and torpedo planes. In a formal statement the Admiralty denied the charge and said: "The attention of the Admiralty has been called to reports which have appeared in the American press concerning the conduct of British naval vessels escorting a convoy to Russia two and a half years ago. A further press notice will be issued."

British Dispute Story of Convoy Left To Be Sunk

Sailor's Tale of Murmansk Run in '42 Supported by U. S. Officer's Statement

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 24 (AP).—The Navy Department today removed its censorship from a statement given to The Associated Press by an officer that a Murmansk-bound convoy was instructed by its escort to scatter because the German battleship Tirpitz and twenty-three other warships were approaching.

The British Admiralty earlier today had described as "entirely without foundation" the statement this week of Merchant Marine Seaman Walter Sankiewicz, of Baltimore, recently repatriated from Germany, that British escort ships had once abandoned a Murmansk-bound convoy to engage German warships with the result that thirty-four Allied merchant vessels were sunk by torpedo planes and submarines.

When the Admiralty's denial was published today, the Navy Department was asked to permit publication of a paragraph previously deleted by Navy censors from a story obtained from Lieutenant (j. g.) Charles M. Ulrich, U. S. N. R., of Pitman, N. J. The Navy thereupon said it had no objection to its publication.

Interviewed at Norfolk in July, 1943, Lieutenant Ulrich said he had been in command of a Navy gun crew aboard a merchant ship bound for Murmansk in convoy with thirty-nine other ships a year before; that, on ths sixth day out of Iceland and for five days thereafter, the convoy was attacked repeatedly by Nazi torpedo planes and dive bombers; that several ships were sunk, and that:

"At the end of the fifth day our escort radioed us to scatter because the Tirpitz and twenty-three other war ships were heading for our convoy."

This was the paragraph which was deleted by Navy censors when the story was submitted for review.

After the convoy dispersed, Lieutenant Ulrich said, his ship "tried to sneak around Franz Josef Land and Novya Zembla, but an ice floe blocked us, and we sailed southwest of the floe."

"We heard radio messages from near-by ships that they were being sunk," he said.

"A squadron of seven Junkers-88s with gold-tipped wings found our ships and attacked.

"We put up a fire. They dropped bombs all around us, blew part of our stern off and opened our plates. We counted twenty-one bombs. The ship was set afire. We abandoned ship in two lifeboats."

Ten days later the boats reached Novya Zembla, 400 miles from the scene of the attack, Lieutenant Ulrich reported, adding that there were twenty-three men in each boat and that two men froze to death.

The Americans remained in a hospital for five weeks and then returned to the United States, where Lieutenant Ulrich received the Silver Star and his gunners received letters of commendation for their conduct under fire.

Assassin's Bullet Misses Radescu in Bucharest

Romanian Premier Reports Firing by Street Group

LONDON, Feb. 24 (AP).—The Swiss radio, quoting Bucharest reports, said tonight that the Premier's office, the Royal Palace and the Ministry of the Interior in the Romanian capital had been attacked by "a group of stateless individuals."

The broadcast said a Romanian government proclamation subsequently announced that order had been restored, but some gunfire was reported, and there were disorders in the province of Bucharest as well as the city.

[Premier Nicolae Radescu, in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said two persons were killed and eleven injured by a "handful of people" who fired on the palace and on government buildings, and said that he himself had been the target of an assassin's bullet fired through a window in the Interior Ministry.]

Martial Law in Craiova

MOSCOW, Feb. 24 (AP).—Martial law has been declared in the Romanian town of Craiova, dispatches reaching Moscow said today, amid protests and demonstrations against the government of Premier Nicolae Radescu.

[A Moscow broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission Thursday quoted "Pravda," Communist party newspaper, as criticizing the Radescu government for "anti-democratic" policy and declaring: "Romania is in the rear of the Red Army and the rule of pro-Fascist elements must be liquidated in this rear."]

NORSE PATRIOTS STRIKE

Increasing Sabotage in Denmark and Netherlands Also Reported

LONDON, Feb. 24 (AP)—The last ramparts of Hitler's war-won empire were defended tonight by a desperate Wehrmacht against patriot sabotage from within. In a series of blows, patriots in Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands added their weight to Allied land and air attacks against Germany's hard-pressed forces.

Norwegian Forces of the Interior received new orders to sabotage and hinder German attempts to evacuate troops from Norway where at least 100,000 Germans still are trying to escape from the country. Norwegian patriots attacked inland communications, hampering the transfer of the vitally needed troops.

Norwegian underground leaders meanitme warned patriot groups to stand by for action. Norwegian officials here repeatedly told the homefront to be on the alert for "final action."

The Germans were reported stepping up the arrest of Norwegian leaders in an efort to clean out the underground in Oslo and other coastal ports.

In Denmark a new wave of sabotage broke out with patriots reported attacking German ammunition dumps and other strategic points.

In the Netherlands sabotage against German ammunition dumps was reported by underground messages received by the Netherlands Government here.

He succeeds Air Marshal Sir John C. Slessor, who is taking another assignment.

Two Soldiers Killed In France as Army Breaks Ration Racket

Paris, Feb. 24 (AP)—Two members of a gang of nine Negro soldiers were killed and two military police were wounded in a raid of the gang's headquarters that broke up what was described by officials today as one of the biggest ration rackets in the European theater of operations.

Officials told this story:

The soldiers deserted and drew Army food in wholesale lots for the black market. They took over a hotel in the little town of Ermenonville to provide storeroom space.

The men were drawing rations for 250 men daily, using forged requisition forms and stolen Army trucks to transport the food from Paris to Ermenonville. Black market operators motored to the little town to pick up the stolen supplies.

Military police found 1,100 cans of evaporated milk, more than 2,000 pounds of meat and numerous grocery staples in the storerooms.

The seven, who signed confessions, are awaiting trial on charges of desertions and theft, with possible death penalties.

As a result of this and other less sensational cases the Army routine for requisitioning food supplies has been strengthened.

ALLIES HAMMER BOLOGNA DEFENSES

ROME, Feb. 24—(AP) Allied activity intended to tie down a maximum number of German divisions spread along the Fifth army front in Italy today, accompanied by a continued aerial offensive from Italian bases against the enemy's southern European communications.

U. S. infantrymen and Brazilian troops consolidated their newly-won heights around Monte Belvedere, 30 miles southwest of Bologna. American raiding parties punched into German fortified holdings south of Bologna. Farther to the right, artillery fire blasted the enemy from some positions.

Key points in the network of railroads in northern Italy essential for an enemy withdrawal behind the Alps were left smoldering by more than 60 hours of day and night bombing by American and British war-planes.

Several sharp German counterattacks hurled against newly-won American positions at Mount Della Torraccia have been beaten off, Allied headquarters announced.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, in a desperate bid to win back the former German positions south of Bologna, marched some of his men for six days and then loaded them into trucks for the final dash to the front.

On the Eighth army Adriatic front the situation was reported quiet, with only normal patrol activity.

Allied Headquarters announced today.

Fifth Army infantrymen completed the conquest of Mount Torraccia, two miles north of Belvedere, in the face of several sharp Nazi attempts to win back the ground.

Southwest of Belvedere, Italian partisans captured the mountain village of Rocca Corneta. Good weather along the front enabled the air force to give strong support to the ground action. The situation remained quiet on the Eighth Army front east of Bologna.

Olive Oil Harvest Reaches 29,000 Tons

Rome, Feb. 24 (AP)—A drive to bring in liberated Italy's olive oil harvest so far has produced 264,770 quintals (about 29,000 tons) of pressed oil, the Allied commission announced today, expressing satisfaction with the progress of the drive.

In previous years March collections have shown a big drop compared with January and February. This year, however, owing to the lateness of the crop, the present collection rate is expected to be maintained.

EGYPTIAN PREMIER IS MURDERED

Ahmed Maher Shot After Reading Declaration Of War On Axis

Lord Winster finds outlook better for Arab League.... Page 11

Cairo, Feb. 24 (AP)—Prime Minister Ahmed Maher of Egypt was shot and killed in the Chamber of Deputies tonight shortly after he had read a royal decree declaring war on the Axis.

The Prime Minister had just completed his reading of the decree by King Farouk and was leaving the chamber when three shots were fired at him from close range.

Witnesses said the assailant was a 22-year-old member of the Extremist party and some identified him as a young lawyer. His name was not announced, although he was arrested immediately.

All three bullets struck Ahmed Maher in his stomach, and he died half an hour late

The King, notified of the attack on the Prime Minister, hurried to the parliamentary building at once.

Egypt and other nations of the Middle East had been expected to enter the war against Germany and Japan since Turkey's declaration yesterday.

Consequence Of Conference

Government sources said the decision to join the Allies was the consequence of recent conferences conducted with Middle Eastern leaders near here by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

It was after these meetings that Ahmed Maher began emergency councils with other officials of the Government, culminating in the decision to enter the war.

The Chamber of Deputies was convened in secret session tonight to hear the royal decree declaring war.

Ahmed Maher was head of the Saadist party which swept the polls in the Egyptian elections last month. He subsequently formed a coalition government.

Suez Rights Retained

Although the war has been fought on Egyptian soil, the country never was a belligerent.

The agreement dissolving the British protectorate over Egypt in 1936 ended British military occupation of the country, but British interests in the defense of the Suez Canal were maintained, permitting full use of Egyptian bases by the British when the Germans invaded North Africa.

Rommel's eastward advances carried well inside the western border of Egypt and within less than 60 miles of Alexandria, but it was the British Army, not the Egyptian, which defended the country and subsequently drove the Germans back.

Big 3 Decision Forces It

The decision of Egypt and other nations of the Middle East, like that of Turkey, is explained in diplomatic circles to be the result of the Big Three agreement making a declaration of war on the Axis a condition of participation in the United Nations meeting at San Francisco April 25.

For Egypt the question became complicated with internal politics and opposition groups were fighting the war declaration. A vote was not necessary under Egyptian law, however, and the Premier recommended that the King declare war by decree.

The Parliament was convened at 5.30 P. M., and Ahmed Maher made a brief statement reviewing the reasons for the Government action, then normally read the royal decree.

How Shooting Occurred

He was heard in absolute silence. Concluding, he stepped from the Speaker's dais and walked toward a corridor.

A newspaper photographer halted him, asking that he pose in the doorway. At that instant a young man stepped close, produced a pistol and fired into the Premier's body at point-blank range.

The wildest tumult ensued. Scores of Deputies rushed into the corridor as the Premier sank to the floor. A well-known Egyptian physician, Aly Ibrahim Pasha, who was seated in the chamber, went to the Premier's side, but death occurred before he could stanch the flow of blood.

The Premier's daughter was present in the chamber. Fighting her way to his side, she was overcome by hysteria and collapsed.

Decree Stands

The King was notified immediately and reached the chamber before his chief minister died.

It was made known that regardless of the assassination, the decree placing Egypt at war stands as read.

The Cabinet issued a formal announcement of the death, expressing its sorrow and declaring, "a criminal hand has assassinated him. He died while carrying out his duty in the service and to the glory of his homeland and his King."

A Government statement later said the assassin was considered to be pro-Axis but "it is understood the crime is not connected in any way with Egypt's declaration of war."

It was learned, however, that there was no connection between the assassination and the death sentences passed on the slayers of the late Lord Moyne.

U.S. Voices Distress To Egyptian Minister

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, today telegraphed to Cairo the "deep distress" of the United States Government because of the assassination of the Egyptian Prime Minister.

Grew sent this telegram to S. Pinckney Tuck, American Minister:

"Please inform the Egyptian Foreign Minister the deep distress caused this Government by the report of the assassination of Prime Minister Ahmed Maher Pasha. The loss to Egypt of this distinguished leader has profoundly shocked the American people."

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 24—Adolf Hitler may be dubbed "the forgotten man" as far as the Germans are concerned.

He is discussed more abroad than in Germany. Of course, the people sometimes wonder where he is living and whether he is still deaf as a result of the July 20 bomb attempt, but on the whole the people talk about him very little. Marshal Hermann Goering is as little discussed as Hitler, but reports that he is a prisoner are untrue because he is frequently seen.

More and more one begins to understand that in these grim times each German is being left more and more to his own initiative and resources. He is beginning to look toward the future. In spite of short rations and air-raid losses, almost every Berlin family is attempting to scrape together a small store of food and clothing as a reserve for the bitter end.

A more grotesque turn to this thought for the future is the fact that some Berliners are attempting to obtain "a guardian Jew." In spite of German persecution, it is estimated that between 1,000 and 2,000 Jews or persons with Jewish blood remain in Berlin.

Persons with big bank accounts and good black-market connections are reported to be competing with one another in smothering these Jews with food, wine and clothing so that, "when the moment comes," they will be able to count on their good-will and friendly solicitude. Persons of smaller means are said to have offered bread-ration coupons to Russian workers and prisoners in the hope that they may be able to depend on them as guardian patrons.

Although Berliners are visibly frightened of the Russians, they are even more horrified at the prospect of gas warfare. This fear was intensified at the end of January when local party leaders distributed instructions on how to combat gas.

Under the influence of propaganda built around the story of Frederick the Great, the Germans are clinging even now to the hope of a miracle.

Four months ago I visited the scene of the attempt on Hitler's life. His headquarters at the end of July was just east of Rastenburg in East Prussia. Even though the headquarters had been moved we were not allowed to see too much. Hitler's barracks and headquarters had been mostly destroyed. Over the entire area a clever camouflage made it look like a park from the air.

Amid the rubbish in the streets of Berlin just before I left, I found three Nazi party badges. If I had taken the trouble, I probably could have found more.

Badges Found in Street.

Perhaps this should not be taken as a certain sign of flight from the party, but badges also were found in the street a couple of years ago when flight from the party was stopped by stringent Nazi measures.

On the whole the party has been obliged to take a back seat to "volksgemeinschaft" (community feeling).

This is primarily due to the fact that the party has such great problems to solve that it has not had time to beat its usual propaganda drums.

For years the party has taken over virtually all public functions and responsibilities. Now it is beyond its depth and unequal to the major tasks, such as caring for millions of refugees and increasing numbers of wounded.

TURKEY'S PART IN WAR PLAN

Ankara Looks for It to Aid in Cleanup of Crete.

Ankara, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The military consequences of Turkey's declaration of war against Germany and Japan have not yet been made clear, but the belief was being expressed today that this country may participate in a campaign to clean up the eastern Mediterranean islands.

Approximately 12,000 Germans still are clinging to a small but heavily defended corner of the northwest coast of Crete. The Greeks now control the rest of that strategic island. In the eastern Ægean the Germans hold Rhodes in considerable strength, and also Kos, Leros and most other Dodecanese Islands.

The Germans for the most part are without adequate arms and ammunition. Cut off from the homeland, they get their food now in pirate raids against islands they do not hold.

How Berlin Views It.

London, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio said today that Turkey's declaration of war against Germany and Japan was "an event of little importance." The Tokyo radio reported the Turkish move without comment.

The Greeks Uneasy.

Athens, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The Greek public took a cold view today of Turkey's eleventh-hour entry into the war on the Allied side. The Greeks fear that the Turks' belated belligerency was prompted by a desire to claim at least some of the Dodecanese Islands, which Greece regards as her own.

The Swedish Viewpoint.

Stockholm, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Sweden's policy of neutrality has been unchanged by the Turkish declaration of war on the Axis, it appeared today. The Foreign Office withheld comment, but from other well-informed sources it was understood that Sweden received no deadline notification to declare war on the Axis as a prerequisite for participation in the San Francisco conference.

Greeks are convinced that the new turn of events will cloud post-war territorial settlements in the Aegean area, where Greece is intent on holding her own against all claimants.

There was no official comment from the foreign ministry.

The usually well-informed newspaper Anexartisia quoted Turkish quarters in Athens as saying that Turkey would send a division to the Western front to symbolize her participation in the Allied cause.

MOVE BY TURKEY FEARED BY GREEKS

ATHENS, Feb. 24—(AP) Greeks, fearing that Turkey's declaration of war against Germany may result in claims to at least some of the Dodecanese islands, took a cold view today of the Turkish entry into the conflict.

(Ankara dispatches said that one of the most likely military results of Turkey's declaration would be Turkish assistance in cleaning up German-held islands in the Aegean, including the Dodecanese, which lie off the Turkish coast and were Italian before the war. The remainder of the island-dotted Aegean is largely Greek.)

Turk Entry Into War Fulfills Yalta Ruling

FEB 25 1945

Washington, Feb. 24—(AP)—The belated rush of pro-Allied countries to declare war on the Axis is regarded here as conforming with decisions reached at Yalta to simplify the task of establishing a lasting peace.

This is particularly true in the case of Turkey, it was said, since Washington officials now feel that Turkey should be qualified for some voice in future United Nations meetings as contrasted with such countries as Spain and Argentina.

The records of the Madrid and Buenos Aires governments are considered here to have favored Axis interests at critical periods of the war.

March 1 Is Deadline

President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill determined at Yalta that all countries like Turkey which feel they have a right to sit at the forthcoming peace conference would have to fall in line by March 1.

Mr. Roosevelt's first direct published comment on the Crimea conference came in a message to Marshal Stalin released here yesterday as officials were studying the Ankara government's decision to assume full belligerent status. Occasion for the message to Stalin was the twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the Red Army.

"The far reaching decisions we took at Yalta," the President said, "will hasten victory and the establishment of a firm foundation for a lasting peace."

The United States, American diplomatic officials said, has a direct interest in encouraging the countries which have been aiding the Allied war effort to get formally into the war.

This interest arises from the American Government's desire to wipe out minor distinctions among the Western Hemisphere nations and to have all, except Argentina under its present government, represent in United Nations peace conferences. The first will be the meeting opening at San Francisco April 25.

Broke With Axis

Turkey, it was pointed out proclaimed itself many months ago to be a non-belligerent ally of Britain. Subsequently, under Allied pressure, Ankara broke relations with the Axis and took other political and economic measures which the Allies argued would aid the war effort.

Spain, conversely, under a government which both Washington and London have considered pro-Fascist and which Moscow recently has assailed, took various economic steps which the Allies urged but did so only on a bargaining basis and while insisting upon full neutrality.

Sweden and Switzerland likewise maintained their neutrality but are regarded here as having been favorably disposed toward an Allied victory from the first although their geographical positions prevented their taking the same attiude which Turkey finally assumed.

HEBREW AGENT DEPORTED

Eri Jabotinski Sent From Turkey to British-Controlled Area

ANKARA, Turkey, Feb. 24 (AP)—Eri Jabotinski, representative in Turkey of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, with headquarters in Washington, has been deported from Turkey to British-controlled Palestine. Mr. Jabotinski is a subject of Palestine.

He told correspondents in Ankara that he had been courteously treated by Turkish police, who allowed him to wind up his affairs in Istanbul, where he was arrested. Mr. Jabotinski asked correspondents to mail a letter of protest he had written to the British Ambassador in Turkey.

Key Town Retaken In Chinese Attack

Chungking, Feb. 24 (AP)—Lienhwa, key town on the Japanese supply route to Kanhsien and Suichwan, former American air bases in Kiangsi province, has been recaptured, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Situated in western Kiangsi province 90 miles east of the Japanese-held Canton-Hankow railroad, Lienhwa also was one of the strongholds protecting the east flank of the enemy's China-Indo-China corridor. Its recapture marked the first real success of Chinese counterattacks designed to interrupt the flow of enemy supplies to the fallen airbases.

Local militia co-operated with Chinese regulars in the attack Thursday and the town was completely occupied Friday. The Japanese were driven eastward, the high command stated.

In Hunan province, the Japanese continued their attacks west of Paoching, 63 miles west of Hangyang in what might be the opening of a drive against other Chinese airbases.

Meanwhile, the Japanese units struck southwestward from Siang-Siang, 60 miles north of Hengyang, and advanced 7½ miles.

The Chinese Catholic newspaper Social Welfare today urged British action in the Orient in addition to the Burmese campaign which, it said "is a long way from Singapore." It suggested that the British might invade Malaya in a drive toward Singapore.

JAP KEY CAPTURED

Chingking, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Chinese troops have recaptured Lienwha, key point in the Japanese supply line to Kanhsien and Suichwan, fallen American air bases in Kiangsi province, the Chinese high command announced today. Lienhwa, ninety miles east of the Japanese-held Canton-Hankow railway junction of Hengyang, protected the east flank of the enemy's China-Indo-China corridor.

Chinese regulars, collaborating with local militia, attacked Thursday. The Japanese garrison was driven eastward. The town was reoccupied completely the following morning.

CHINESE COLUMNS CLOSE ON LASHIO

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 24—(AP) Two Chinese formations converged today on Lashio, Burma road railhead and the biggest Japanese base in eastern Burma, from positions less than 25 miles away.

One force drove across the Namtu river and captured the town of the same name 25 miles northwest of Lashio.

A communique announced that these troops, members of the 50th Chinese division, then fought on southward and seized some hills after a sharp fight.

In the hills near the Burma road less than 25 miles northeast of Lashio, Chinese wiped out Japanese elements which tried to make a stand, the war bulletin said.

Southwestward, British Fourteenth army troops were patrolling the south bank of the Irrawaddy river west of Mandalay, where a bridgehead has been secured as an outflanking threat to Mandalay itself.

Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air command and other aircraft were active.

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The Chinese Fiftieth Division driving down the old Burma Road from northeastern Burma has plunged across the Namtu River and captured the town of Namtu, about twenty miles northwest of Lashio, Southeast Asia Command headquarters announced today.

The division had captured Panghai on the north bank of the river only the day before. Troops of the Chinese First Army drove Japanese from positions near the Burma Road south of Hsenwi.

Grim-faced Yanks of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th (Buckeye) and Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry divisions, the first to enter Manila, slaughtered the last remnants of an enemy garrison once estimated at 20,000.

Many more enemy dead remain to be counted in the fire-scarred and rubble-strewn city where "the enemy apparently expected to turn the tide of battle in a supreme effort," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Final victory crowned a battle so bitter that at times Americans were fighting on one floor of a building against Japanese above them or in the basement.

Its last stages were marred by Japanese practice of murder and rapine against unarmed civilians.

Highlighting air attacks, planes ranged over the China sea to attack an enemy convoy, sinking a destroyer. An 8,000-ton freighter transport probably was sunk. Three other vessels were damaged. Another enemy destroyer was damaged off the French Indo China coast and a 2,000 ton freighter possibly damaged off Swatow, China.

U. S. Casualties Light

Contrary to all expectations, American casualties in the intramuros fighting were light, reported Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson with the troops.

He said most of the 3,000 rescued were women and children. Few male civilians escaped death. Many of the freed, the bulk Filipinos, had been wounded or burned. There were a number of priests and nuns.

The last Japanese were dynamited in caves and tunnels under the walled city.

Hampson disclosed that Manila's famed waterfront pier seven, one of the longest concrete piers in the world, was captured yesterday by the cavalrymen but the Japanese had wrecked the port terminal.

MacArthur significantly pointed out in announcing the victory that it "presages the early clearance of the entire archipelago," meaning all the Philippine islands. Several large islands, notable Mindanao, still are in enemy hands although they have been by-passed.

The communique disclosed a 10th division, the Thirty-third, is in action on Luzon, operating in mountains east of the central plain.

"Troops of the 37th infantry and First Cavalry division of the 14th corps overwhelmed the enemy's final positions in South Manila and completed the destruction of the trapped garrison," MacArthur announced. "More than 12,000 enemy bodies have already been counted in Manila with many more to come.

"It was here the enemy apparently expected to turn the tide of battle in a supreme effort.

3,000 Civilians Released

"Three thousand civilians caught in the walled city and held there by this incorrigible enemy were successfully released by our troops in the final onslaught. They comprised many nationalities, the bulk being Filipinos.

"A number of Catholic priests and nuns were included. All had suffered unbelievable indignities and dangers.

"This operation and the tremendous and disproportionate losses in men and material sustained during the progress of our advance through Luzon following the catastrophic defeat in Leyte dooms General Yamashita's Philippine campaign and presages the early clearance of the entire archipelago."

Manila was first entered Feb. 3. The slugging match started a few days later when the Japanese devastated a square mile of the main business district on the north side, blew up all bridges over the Pasig river and then put up a building and street defense on the south.

Yank Forces Complete Liberation of Manila

12,000 Japs Killed in Bitter Battle for Philippine Capital.

MANILA, Sunday, Feb. 25.—(AP) Manila, strewn with the bodies of more than 12,000 Japanese, was completely liberated Saturday — three weeks to a day after Yanks first entered it.

The death gasp of the enemy's fanatical garrison was emitted within the centuries-old walls of the Intramuros where 3,000 frightened and tortured civilians were rescued—a day after the dramatic behind-the-lines liberation of 2,146 civilians southeast of the city at Los Banos.

YANKS DRIVING LAST JAPANESE FROM MANILA

Americans Enter Intramuros — Some Civilians Already Liberated

Manila, Feb. 24—(AP)—Three regiments of 37th Division infantrymen fought from building to building inside the ancient Intramuros today, clearing the last Japanese from Manila amid tragic scenes of Nipponese brutality.

Fierce fighting in this closing phase of the three-week battle for the Philippine capital was announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who also disclosed American troops had invaded a second small island, Biri, to complete control of San Bernardino Straits between Luzon and Samar.

Half-starved, bayonetted, beaten and rapid civilians, held by the doomed Japanese garrison inside the centuries-old Intramuros during the two-week American siege were treated at field hospitals, but many non-combatant dead remained among the rubble.

The Japanese commander of the old walled city had not replied to an American offer that he and his men would be permitted honorable surrender if the civilians, held as virtual hostages, were released.

Death Fight Looms

The enemy appeared determined to fight and die there.

Three days of shelling the 20-foot-thick northeast wall came to a thundering climax early yesterday. In one hour 7,000 shells thudded into the medieval masonry.

The wall was breached in two places after this most concentrated ground shelling of the Pacific war.

The Third Battalion of the 129th Regiment, under Col. John D. Frederick, of Springfield, Ill., then dashed across a wide boulevard and an old golf course which was once a moat, and leaped into the Intramuros to engage in hand-to-hand combat with the near-crazed defenders.

Simultaneously, the Second Battalion of the 145th Regiment, under Col. Cecil B. Whitcomb, of Cleveland., O., moving under a heavy smoke screen, crossed the Pasig River near its mouth in assault boats. The move caught the Japanese by surprise.

The Yanks landed near the wrecked Philippines mint, crossed the golf course and poured through another breach in the wall.

Once inside, veteran Yank street fighters began the job of building-by-building cleanout.

Engineers In Action

Two-man tommy-gun teams could be seen darting into a rubble-filled building entrances, spraying the hallways and firing bursts as they proceeded from room to room.

Behind the second wave of doughboys came sappers removing mines from the approaches, and behind them were bulldozers clearing the rubble for tanks.

American artillery laid down a rolling barrage inside the walled city ahead of the doughboys.

The Yanks could have pulverized the Intramuros and everyone inside with aerial bombs long before, but they wanted to spare civilian lives. Nonetheless many non-combatants were injured, perhaps killed, in the intense but necessary artillery barrage.

An hour after the troops entered, the first of the civilians began to trickle out. In a half hour about 30 civilians were huddled near the wall of Letran University.

By mid-afternoon most of the assault troops, including part of the 148th Regiment under Col. Lawrence K. White, of St. Louis, Mo., were within the walls.

The first civilians to reach safety were 11 nuns—three of them on stretchers. Thirty-one other nuns chose to remain behind in a convent, preferring that refuge although its walls were fast crumbling.

were not detected by the Japanese.

Parachutists Come In

Before dawn Friday units of the 11th Division moved across Laguna de Bay in amphibious craft.

As the guerrillas and amphibious forces closed in, big transport planes loaded with paratroops roared away from Nichols Field, on the outskirts of Manila. These troops, a selected detachment of the 511th Parachute Regiment, jumped directly over the prison camp.

All three forces attacked simultaneously. The Japanese camp commander, members of his staff

Last Known Prison Camp

Liberated were 1,589 Americans, 329 Britons, 56 Canadians, 33 Australians, 89 Dutch, 22 Poles, 10 Norwegians, 16 Italians, 1 Frenchman and 1 Nicaraguan.

Los Banos was the last known Japanese prison camp on Luzon Island. In previous dramatic rescues of American and other United Nations nationals the Rangers and guerrillas freed 511 military prisoners, while doughboys liberated 3,700 civilians at Santo Tomas and 800 military prisoners and 550 civilians at old Bilibid penitentiary in Manila.

lowed two of the rescuing force were killed and two wounded.

Amphibious Troops Arrive.

The attack was opened when the paratroopers under the command of Col. Robert H. Soule dropped directly on the camp, surprising the Japanese garrison at its morning calisthenics. At the same time, the guerrilla forces, which had quietly infiltrated the area surrounding the camp for several days, attacked by land.

By the time the Japanese commander, his staff and 243 guards had been killed, amphibious the guerrillas into the area adjacent to Los Banos were so skillfully conducted they went undetected by the jungle-sensitive Japanese until the moment of the strike.

Rescue Made Smoothly.

The complicated operation went off so smoothly that the first load of 1,000 men, women and children reached safety within four hours of the moment the first paratroopers dropped to overpower the unsuspecting guards.

civil officials throughout the conquered territory of Southeast Asia was found safe and well today in the Los Banos Camp—breathing easy for the first time in three years of hide and seek.

He is William Heath Donald, Australian high adviser and friend of Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

[It was previously reported that Mr. Donald had been found among prisoners in the Santo Tomas internment camp, who were rescued several weeks ago.]

Mr. Donald, who intervened in person with the "Young Marshal" Chang Hsueh-liang in 1936 to free General Chiang Kai-shek from confinement at Sian, left Chungking for his first vacation in a decade in 1941 and was recuperating in the Solomon Islands when Madame Chiang summoned him to return.

He got as far as Manila five days after the war broke out.

"Time and again," said Mr. Donald, "Japanese searched the camp records for my name. I always was known as W. H. Donald. I registered on the internees' list truthfully as William H. Donald. That confused the Japanese. But what fooled them most was my recorded age—nearly 70. 'See that,' they would shrug their shoulders and say. 'That's not the same man. We're looking for a much younger man.'"

2,146 Freed At Los Banos By Americans And Filipinos

Los Banos, Philippines, Feb. 24 (AP)—More than 2,000 civilian prisoners of the Japanese—most of them Americans—were free today, liberated by Yank soldiers and Filipino guerrillas in a daring rescue.

The liberating forces struck yesterday from the sky, over land and across water, far behind the Japanese lines, to free 2,146 men, women and children and wipe out the entire Japanese garrison at the Los Banos internment camp, about 45 miles southeast of Manila.

Six Yanks Lost In Operation

The internees, pinched by hunger and showing signs of more than three years' internment, quickly were carried to safety. Some of them, including the aged, were brought out on litters.

American casualties in the sensational operation totaled six—two soldiers killed, two wounded and two internees slightly injured.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who ordered the rescue, said Providence was certainly with the doughboys and the guerrillas. He declared: "Nothing could be more satisfying to a soldier's heart than this rescue. I am deeply grateful."

Eleven Nurses Rescued

Among the rescued were eleven United States navy nurses. They were captured at the Canacao Naval Hospital, near Cavite, in January, 1942. First interned at Santo Tomas camp, they volunteered to take over duties at the Los Banos Hospital when the Japanese opened the latter camp in May, 1943.

The rescue was engineered by Col. Robert H. Soule with 1,500 soldiers of the 11th Airborne Division and the guerrillas.

The guerrillas filtered into the area through volcanic country for several nights before the actual strike. These jungle-wise fighters and 243 guards were at morning exercise. The Nipponese, taken completely by surprise, were killed to the last man in a brief battle.

"O God . . . A Long Time"

As the Yanks entered the camp, however, their hopes sagged when no internees were sighted. A Filipino, bleeding from a Japanese bayonet wound, directed them to the barracks. There the internees, clutching little bags of clothes, hugging children beside them, crying and yelling greetings, came pouring from the buildings.

One American said: "O God, it's been a long time we have waited for just such Hollywood American stuff."

In an amtrack under machine-gun fire on the way out of Los Banos, one woman said: "After so many years of Japanese war, what is one more little affair? Give me another one of those cookies."

Rice Allowance Cut

The internees at Los Banos were in better physical shape than the 3,700 civilians liberated at Santo Tomas. They had better food supplies than the others until last October. Recently the Japanese cut rice allowance to a starvation grams a day.

Many of the rescued were thin and pale but generally looked better than the starved Santo Tomas people.

The internees, lined up for morning roll call, were ordered back into their barracks and surrounded by a defense guard of Yanks. As speedily as possible they were removed across the bay in amtracks to a safe rendezvous.

Japanese snipers fired on the rescuers and the rescued as they passed through Los Banos city to Yank Amphibious Forces and Filipinos Share in Liberating Captives.

ATTACK LOS BANOS CAMP

Rescuers Sweep In on Jap Guards and Kill All in Perfectly Timed Operation.

Manila, Feb. 24 (A. P.). — Striking with quick precision from the sky, by land and over water deep into enemy territory at dawn yesterday, American troops and Filipino guerrillas brought relief and freedom to 2,146 Allied and co-belligerent captives in the civilian internment camp at Los Banos, thirty miles south of Manila.

In writing the fourth heroic act in the drama of liberation in the Philippines, 1,500 men of the Eleventh Airborne Division and American-led Filipinos killed the Japanese camp guard to the last man and within a matter of hours carried to safety 1,589 Americans, 329 Britons, 89 Dutch, 56 Canadians, 33 Australians, 22 Poles, 16 Italians, 10 Norwegians, one Frenchman and one Nicaraguan.

Only two of the captives were wounded in the brief battle at the camp and in the running fight with snipers which fol-troops reached t[illegible] by beaches of Laguna de Bay and began evacuating the internees in Amtracks.

The internees, lined up for morning roll call, were quickly surrounded by a defense cordon and motor vehicles rolled up to remove litter cases. The entire group was then taken to safety.

Although pinched by hunger, the liberated captives of Los Banos were in stronger condition than were their fellow sufferers in Santo Tomas prison camp.

Of their number, many of them in advanced years, were carried to freedom in litters.

Yesterday's dramatic raid brought the total of men, women and children rescued this month to approximately 7,700.

This great release may be the last, although American forces may come across other civilian and war prisoners as they penetrate deeper into Luzon.

Truly, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, God was certainly with us today.

The daring exploit matched the drama of the rescue by American Rangers and Filipino guerrillas of the men of Bataan, Corregidor and Singapore from the Cabanatuan prison camp, and the liberation of internees from Santos Tomas University and Bilibid prison.

Elements of the Eleventh Division crossed Laguna Bay the night before the morning of the attack while the paratroopers were taking off from Nichols Field in Manila. Movements of out of danger, however, the internees survived two short, sharp clashes with snipers and patrols from the 8,000 Japanese soldiers estimated by intelligence officers as being within striking distance of the operation.

Some of the internees were thin, many were pale, but generally they looked better than the Santo Tomas internees because the Japanese had been enforcing food restrictions at Los Banos only since October. Thereafter they subsisted for the most part on a basic diet of a few mouthfuls of unhusked rice daily.

RESCUE OF 2146 THRILLS M'ARTHUR

Manila, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—"God was certainly with us," Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, when American troops rescued 2,146 civilians from the Los Banos internment camp today.

Immediately after announcing the dramatic rescue, he said:

"Nothing could be more satisfying to a soldier's heart than this rescue. I am deeply grateful. God was certainly with us today."

Marines Open All-Out Drive on Iwo, Seize Half of Jap's Last Airfield

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Sunday, Feb. 25—(AP) Three Marine divisions, driving straight into the face of the most modern weapons Japan has yet employed in the Pacific and over a maze of long-built defenses, captured half of the enemy's last airfield on Iwo Saturday afternoon.

Pushing their lines north to encompass nearly the whole south half of the island, they ground out gains of 300 to 500 yards.

But it was paid for in blood every inch of the way past pillboxes, blockhouses and fortified caves. On one flank alone 100 caves, 30 to 40 feet deep, had to be knocked out.

Bud Foster, NBC war correspondent aboard the expeditionary flagship of Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner off Iwo, said today the "final all-out drive" is on.

Warships of the fleet have moved in closer to Iwo in backing up the offensive.

The Marine invasion army of Lt Gen. Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, perhaps exceeding 40,000 men, apparently passed the crisis on Iwo Friday and, with steadily unloaded equipment, is north bound in accumulated power, screened by artillery, carrier planes and warship guns.

But today's communique went to unusual ends to emphasize that the Nipponese power of resistance also remains great despite absence of supporting warships and planes.

Headquarters in its communique of inter-locking Nipponese underground strongholds; it described pillboxes with bulkheads four feet thick; it mentioned enemy rockets weighing around 1,000 pounds.

The three attacking divisions had to move across mine fields. The Leathernecks were paced by tanks and the Japanese opposed these with weapons similar to the American bazookas.

The Nipponese also continued to pour in fire of heavy type rockets.

Seizure of the south half of Motoyama airfield No. 2, which has two runways, puts the devildogs well atop the plateau on which the field is located. It is the last enemy airfield in enemy hands, Being 700 yards north of the captured bomber base.

The advance was scored by Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third division.

On the right, Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth Marine division has extended the east coast beachhead northward 600 yards. This made its width more than 5,000 yards.

On the left of the third division, Maj. Gen. Keller C. Rockey's Fifth division, advanced "several hundred yards," today's morning communique reported.

"In every zone of the fighting, the enemy resisted our advance to the full extent of his armament," announced Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

The total count of enemy dead on the island, cut down out of an original garrison of 20,000, has reached 2,799.

The last report of Marine casualties dates back to 6 p.m. Wednesday when it was placed at 5,372 including more than 600 killed.

Nimitz's reference to Japanese usage of a bazooka-type weapon augmented previous reports of the enemy's modern armaments. Previously it was disclosed the Japanese are using rocket mortars, presumably fired from launching platforms. Their caves and tunnels have been described as steel-reinforced and the product of many years of labor.

The Fourth division, in a 500 yard area on the east coast alone, neutralized about 100 caves yesterday. Many were between 30 and 40 feet deep.

Enemy artillery fire "into the interior of the area of our control" is diminishing, Nimitz said.

Marine artillery fire against the northern Volcanic positions, where the bulk of the enemy garrison is entrenched, has intensified.

Battleships, cruisers and destroyers of the Fifth fleet kept pounding away as they have done since three days before the invasion opened Monday in a move to obtain air bases within 750 miles of Tokyo.

MARINES OPEN ALL-OUT TANK ATTACK ON IWO

Planes, Artillery and Naval Guns Back Up Their Concentrated Assault.

MEET TERRIFIC RESISTANCE

Yanks Able Only to Inch Ahead, but Turning Point of Battle Is Believed Reached.

Guam, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Led by tanks and backed by a terrific bombardment from aircraft, heavy artillery and the guns of warships standing offshore, the American Marines on Iwo Jima opened their most concentrated attack of the six-day battle today, but were only inching forward against a virtually unyielding enemy opposition.

The tank-supported attack was launched from the southwestern tip of the airdrome in the morning and by noon was making slow progress, Fleet Admiral Nimitz reported. Terrific resistance from Japanese artillery, small arms and automatic weapons made every inch of ground gained a bitter, costly affair.

The Marines appeared, however, to have reached the turning point in their conquest of the island, having taken Mount Suribachi at the south end of the island and being now engaged in mopping up operations against remnants of the garrison at that one-time enemy stronghold.

Dig Japs Out of Pillboxes.

They dug out Japanese from pillboxes and blockhouses extending even inside the crater of the volcano. More than 700 already have been killed.

Supplies on the beaches grew from a trickle to a flood as the advance toward the island's center overran Nipponese gun positions which had been shelling the debris-littered shore.

[London heard the Tokyo radio make a claim that the Americans now have 65,000 men on the tiny island.

[Tokyo radio claimed that the Americans have established two new beachheads on the southeast coast of Iwo Jima, BBC reported today on a broadcast recorded in New York by CBS.]

Have 1000-pound Rockets.

The Nipponese are opposing the three Marine divisions with such modern weapons as 1,000-pound rocket mortars, presumably fired from launching platforms.

They are using deep pillboxes, linked by tunnels, which were years in the building and can only be knocked out by a direct shell hit, flamethrowers or a well-placed hand grenade.

But the over-all significance of this morning's communique, despite the fact it records limited advances, is its strong suggestion the crisis is past.

Across the beachhead which naval authorities have admitted actually appeared doomed in the early stages engineers have built roads under fire which are getting ashore the necessary equipment for bone-crushing blows.

Across a beachhead which naval authorities have admitted actually appeared doomed in the arly stages engineers have built roads under fire which are getting ashore the necessary equipment for bone-crushing blows.

The outstanding development in the morning communique was stated thus:

"The unloading of supplies is continuing and their rate of movement across the beaches is considerably improved in spite of the surf created by recent southeasterly weather."

Second Airfield Reached

Friday afternoon, Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third Marine Division, landed during a critical hour Wednesday, fought on to the south tip of the two-runway Motoyama Airfield No. 2.

It is the last usable airfield on the island in enemy hands. The big bomber base known as Motoyama Airfield No. 1 was captured by the Fourth Marine Division Tuesday.

It took from Tuesday to Friday to cover those 700 yards to the second airfield.

The U. S. Third Marine Division, veterans of the Solomons and Guam campaigns, is in the center of an enveloping drive aimed at the fighter field.

On the right, Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, Fourth Division gained 300 yards yesterday.

On the left, Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marine Division was unable to gain. That division is on the southwest coast, flanking the menaced airfield. It was under mortar fire from Kangoku Rock, less than 2,000 yards offshore, until a Fifth Fleet destroyer knocked out the position.

The Japanese have elaborate defenses in the rock-strewn north plateau sector defending the fighter field. Each burned position has to be burned or blasted into wreckage.

At the island's south end, along the 566-foot slopes of Mt. Suribachi, where the Japanese have more caves and tunnels, Col. Harry B. Liversedge's 28th Regiment of the Fifth Division mopped up the positions with grenades, flamethrowers and automatic weapons. The 28th gained command of the volcano Friday morning by reaching the summit and raising the United States flag.

The morning communique today supplied no additional figures for Marine casualties which up to 6 P. M. Wednesday, after 58 hours of invasion action, were placed at 5,372, including 644 killed.

(A Navy spokesman in Washington said the Iwo casualties approximated 6,000).

Far from complete reports of the enemy dead total approximately 2,000, including 717 counted in the volcano area.

Woman on Hospital Ship Views Iwo Landings

Bonnie Wiley Heard No Whimpering When Wounded Marines Were Brought Aboard.

Bonnie Wiley, the first woman war correspondent in the Pacific, accompanied amphibious forces to Iwo Jima, making the trip aboard a hospital ship.

By BONNIE WILEY.

Aboard a United States Hospital Ship Returning From Iwo Jima, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Marines are very tough. I found that out on this trip—a trip that carried the unconcerned Navy doctors and nurses so close to Iwo Jima it looked as though I could have tossed a rock onto the beach.

There is no whimpering aboard this ship where the wounded of this bloodiest, stiffest battle in all 168 years of Marine Corps history are being treated.

Even the worst cases are more interested in what happened ashore than in their own wounds. Many are not badly injured. One group, all of whom suffered only slight wounds, got together on our ship's decks the afternoons of Feb. 21 and 22 to compare stories of their lucky escapes.

"Those Japs acted like a bunch of doggone fools," said one marine, who was wounded by shrapnel in his leg as he tossed grenades into an enemy pillbox.

"We would toss in a few grenades and out would come these doggone Japs in a frantic charge. They acted like they were doped. They weren't yelling, though—not until they were hit." He continued:

"I dropped two grenades right in their fire trench and they sure started yelling then."

Our hospital ship, greeted by the boom of war guns, plowed into the Iwo Jima battleground the morning of D day plus one.

Grand-stand View of Battle.

Doctors and nurses lined the rails watching flashes from the ships' guns of the amphibious fleet and answering puffs from the island. Smoke was blasting up from hits ashore, ringing the island like a San Francisco fog.

We watched waves of Marines waiting in small boats to back up their buddies who already had made beach landings. If I weren't too dumb I would have been terribly afraid. News of the battle was blaring over our ship's loudspeaker as I sat on deck writing.

At first I used binoculars to watch gun flashes on the horizon as we neared the little island. Later I didn't need any glasses.

We were interrupted soon—very soon—by a new voice blaring forth on the loud speaker:

"All stretcher bearers attention!"

Over the side came the ship's first wounded. War is not unreal. These are real men and they are wounded. They are not complaining.

"Help these other fellows. I'm not hurt bad," one begged.

The guns kept booming and the flashes grew brighter.

But the Island Wasn't Taken.

At first, I kept waiting for the pleasant voiced announcer to explain that this is the way the might of the American Navy took Iwo Jima. But Iwo wasn't taken yet. The island still was fighting back—viciously. It still was, as our ship left the scene laden with wounded.

For hours I watched the wounded lifted carefully by stretcher bearers up the swaying gangway into this white ship. I saw one youthful Marine, face drawn in pain, jump off a stretcher protesting somebody worse off than he should be carried aboard.

"Don't let them carry me. Don't let them. I can walk, see?" and off across the deck he went limping badly but walking proudly.

There were unexpected reunions too.

Tokyo's Version of Iwo Battle

An unsupported claim that American casualties on Iwo Island up to Friday night "totaled 17,000" was broadcast by the Tokyo radio yesterday, The Associated Press reported.

The broadcast, beamed to North America and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said that "the enemy's advance has been stemmed—as a matter of fact, the enemy has had to withdraw his line somewhat."

The Japanese radio had nothing to say about the American capture of Mount Suribachi, claiming instead that fighting continues there "without distinction to day or night, as our matchless drawn-swords continue to penetrate into the enemy midst."

"More than 40,000 enemy troops are caught and unable to move in a small area about three kilometers in length running from the south dock toward the west, and one kilometer deep from the coastal area to Sunajigahara," Tokyo said. "With this concentration of enemy men as a target, our shells are being well aimed, and not one shell explodes but that it makes its mark."

Another unconfirmed radio Tokyo broadcast heard by the Blue Network reported that eight more United States warships, including two battleships, five cruisers and one warship of unidentified type, had been sunk or damaged in the Iwo area.

On Friday the Domei news agency broadcast an Imperial Headquarters announcement that "twenty-eight enemy warships had been sunk or damaged" in waters adjacent to Iwo from Feb. 2 to Feb. 23.

PHOTOGRAPHER WINS PRAISE FOR WAR JOB

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24 (AP)—The outstanding series of pictures of the Iwo invasion, published this week in American newspapers, was taken by Joe Rosenthal, Associated Press staff photographer on assignment with the wartime picture pool.

One of the pictures was described by one editor as "the most beautiful of the war" and another was referred to by a publisher as "the greatest picture of the Pacific war."

Mr. Rosenthal often said: "They wouldn't let me carry a gun (he wears glasses with lenses a half inch thick), but I can pack my camera right with the boys in the front lines and show they're fighting."

He wanted to do something. His brother, Sol, has been in an Army hospital in England for many months and another brother, William, is also in the Army. A third brother, Marcus Roth, is an electrician in a San Francisco area shipyard. Finally Mr. Rosenthal went on leave as an Associated Press photographer here and joined the Maritime Service as a warrant officer photographer. He was sent to England, then to the Mediterranean and finally back to the United States, always just missing action.

[Before joining The Associated Press in 1941, Mr. Rosenthal was bureau manager of the Times Wide World in San Francisco.]

U.S. Offers Security Plan To Mexico City Conference

Mexico City, Feb. 24 (AP)—The United States presented long-range plans to the inter-American conference today to keep tight controls on subversive activities throughout the hemisphere.

The plan fitted closely with the Washington attitude toward Argentina. It was learned on best authority that the main condition for United States recognition of Argentina is far-reaching action by Buenos Aires to block any activities which would threaten the hemisphere's peace.

Mere gestures, such as a declaration of war, would fail to satisfy this demand, it was understood.

A Cuban resolution calling for "all the nations of America to declare war on Nazi Germany and on Japanese militarism" stimulated terrace chatter, however, on the possibility of Argentina's entrance into the war.

Only One Not At War

Argentina has broken relations with the Axis, but is now the only American nation not at war with either Germany or Japan.

The issue of Argentina, with this development in the United States' position, shifted away from the Government of President Edelmiro Farrell toward erection of defenses within the hemisphere against any fifth column.

Unless Argentina joined a continent-wide program, it was pointed out, the barricade would have a gaping hole.

The United States subversive-activities proposal would set up, as a joint American project, machinery to stop future enemy espionage, economic domination, psychological, financial and political infiltration during the war-to-peace transition.

Policy After Last War

After World War I, officials said, all controls were dropped eighteen months following victory.

While the United States resolution here refers specifically to the period between the war and re-establishment of normal peace conditions, it was learned that Washington intends to broaden the proposal at the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

There it would be put as a permanent, co-operative defense to insure permanently against development of the groundwork for aggression.

Attacking another angle of the strategy against allowing hemisphere relations to weaken to the point that an enemy could penetrate the continent, the United States introduced two and prepared five more resolutions on economics.

Two Proposals Ready

The two proposals before the conference deal with health, nutrition and sanitation, and with the relaxtation of wartime trade controls.

The United States takes the position that, if wartime purchases are cut suddenly, it will throw many Latin American countries into complete economic tailspins which are likely to result in revolutions and a severe setback to the cause of democracy.

A plan is being worked out with the Foreign Economics Administration, it was learned, to give advance notification of contract termination and provide for tapering off in buying so that the Latin nations can adjust themselves.

Another method which probably will be used to bridge the gap between war economies and peacetime trade is direct Government assistance through the Export-Import Bank.

Will Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State, is scheduled to present United States views on economics Tuesday. He is expected to take up transition problems and long-range economic programs.

For the long-range, United States officials believe a plan should be adopted to diversify Latin-American economies and do away with dependence on the export of a single product.

This fits closely with the Latin hopes for United States aid in industrialization and mechanization of agriculture.

Presentation of the economic program was delayed, it was learned, because a plane carrying half of the economic experts was grounded for three days.

Johnston in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 24 (AP)—Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who arrived today for the Inter-American Conference, said he considered the meeting primarily of economic rather than political interest because "economic unbalances are the principal cause of wars."

ple in the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a world organization.

In a broadcast which is the opening shot, he hinted that several decisions on unanswered questions of the peace organization, rather than one decision, were reached in the Crimea conference. It has been announced only that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin agreed on voting procedure for the proposed security council.

Stettinius noted that as originally drawn up in Washington the Dumbarton Oaks proposals were incomplete.

Supplemented At Yalta

"They had to be supplemented in several important respects," he said. "This was one of the great accomplishments of the Crimea conference." He did not elaborate.

However, there have been some reports that the Big Three agreed on a system of trusteeships for the old League of Nations mandates. They may also have discussed how to integrate other parts of the old League organization into the new machinery.

Stettinius spoke in the first of a series of seven broadcasts which he said are designed "to put before the people of the United States the facts about the proposed world organization." Others on tonight's program, speaking from Washington, were Dean Acheson and Archibald MacLeish, assistant secretaries of state.

Polish Decision Applauded

Acheson said that the Dumbarton Oaks amplifications worked out in the Crimea were the most important decisions reached there but that "for the immediate future, the decision on the Polish question was a great achievement."

MacLeish declared it was "more or less an accident of history" that the Curzon Line agreed on in the Crimea "was not the boundary of Poland after World War I."

Such a boundary, he declared, was favored by Allied representatives at the Versailles conference in 1919 because "they found that to the east of this line the population was predominantly Russian and Ukrainian, while to the west of it the population was predominantly Polish.

The Text of Stettinius' Radio Speech Hailing Peace Talks

Stettinius On Dumbarton Oaks

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Secretary of State, speaking from Mexico City, tonight launched a campaign to build up interest and understanding among the American peo-

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—The text of the radio talk of Secretary Stettinius tonight from Mexico City was as follows:

It is particularly appropriate that a series of broadcasts on the building of the peace should be opened from a conference of American nations in Mexico City. This conference propitiously follows the meeting in the Crimea which revealed the broad pattern of aims and purposes of the nations associated in the war and precedes the United Nations meeting to be held in San Francisco.

We Americans of all the American republics have lived our lives—have lived our histories—in the discovery and the building of new worlds.

We know that worlds can be discovered such as men in older continents had never imagined. We know that worlds can be built such as men in other ages had never seen. We are not frightened, therefore, or discouraged or dismayed when we are brought face to face with the necessity of creating something new—an effective world organization.

Delegates from the American republics are assembled in this beautiful city of Mexico to strengthen the fraternal ties developed through many decades, and to improve the inter-American system of relations.

They are engaged in the serious business of considering how their friendship and unity of purpose may best contribute to a world organization for peace, security and a better way of life. This meeting affords a forum where the ideas and opinions of the American republics may be given expression.

"Past of Bold Explorations"

Already we have offered to the conference resolutions intended to accomplish the more effective cooperation of the American republics with the proposed new world structure.

Our entire American past is a past of bold explorations, of hardy settlement, of arduous construction, of difficult beginnings. We are accustomed to labors without precedent. We are hardened to the seeming impossible. We know how to do what was never done before. We have brought a vast and untamed continent to human order within a space of time which would seem impossible to those who measure what can be done in the future by what has been done before. In the Americas, we have sought to foster a spirit of neighborliness, which is indispensable to a new society of mankind.

We have good reason, therefore, for approaching the greatest labor of human history with such high hopes, with such unshakable determination. We have not listened in the past, and we will not listen in the future, to voices of frustration and defeat which tell us that we cannot do what we believe we must do. There is nothing in our American history that needed doing which did not find the men to do it.

But this labor of the construction of a peaceful world is not a labor to be spoken of in terms of hope and purposes only. Much has already been accomplished. Four nations have agreed among themselves on proposals for the organization of a peaceful world, and those proposals had been submitted to the people of the earth for their consideration.

Sovereign Rights Stressed

Never before has a proposal worked out by specialists and experts and agreed upon by representatives of several nations been submitted to such searching examination by the peoples of the world before its submission to a formal conference. At the San Francisco conference, all of the United Nations will take part in setting up the permanent machinery for international security. They will participate as independent sovereign states. Sovereign equality of nations, large and small, is a basic principle underlying the proposals.

Those proposals not only embrace the sovereign equality of nations, but they also intend that the power of all nations shall be used in the interests of world peace, security and freedom. Only on such a foundation may we realize the aspiration of mankind for a new and better world, with greater opportunity and well-being for all people.

The fact that the nations which took part in the primary discussions at Dumbarton Oaks were the nations which now bear, and have borne, the principal burden of the war, makes it natural, and indeed inevitable, that Great Britain, the Soviet Union, the United States and China should have taken primary responsibility for the initiation of these proposals, as they have been obliged to take primary responsibility for the prosecution of the war.

The Dumbarton Oaks proposals, however, were incomplete. They had to be supplemented in several important respects. This was one of the great accomplishments of the Crimea Conference.

The voting procedure agreed upon at the Crimea Conference is a procedure, as I stated to the Inter-American Conference two days ago, which recognizes "the two essential elements of a successful world organization—unity of action by the great powers who alone have the military and industrial strength to prevent aggression; and the equal sovereignty of all nations, large and small, who must act together to create the essential conditions of lasting peace."

Asks All Facts Be Known

Once the world organization is established and measures for social and economic welfare are undertaken, the true democracy of the organization of the world for peace will become apparent.

It is to put before the people of the United States the facts about the proposed world organization that the Department of State has undertaken this series of broadcasts. I like to think that our people for the next few weeks will study, discuss and reflect on these proposals which are so significant to the destiny of all mankind.

It is my belief, and the belief of my colleagues in the department, that our duty in this regard is to put the facts before the country and let the facts speak for themselves. This is the democratic method. It is the only method that will be acceptable to our people.

Here in Mexico City we have sought to support that democratic method by offering a resolution which declares the right of peoples to have free access to information. In this way, and only in this way, will truth, the enemy of tyranny, assert itself for the freedom and security of mankind.

150 B-29's Made Singapore Raid

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Upward of 150 B-29's attacked the Singapore dock area today with good results. Smoke billowed up 20,000 feet from the Japanese-held harbor facilities there as the American raiders drew away.

Reporting this second strike of the month against Singapore from India bases the 20th Air Force said that only weak fighter opposition was encountered and none of the B-29's was lost to enemy action.

The announcement suggested this may have been the biggest raid thus far on Singapore.

It was the fourth strike by Superfortresses against the former British base at the tip of the Malay Peninsula.

On February 1, the big bombers hit and sank a floating dry dock there capable of handling the world's largest ships.

The air force pointed out that Singapore harbor is "the main clearing center for enemy war supplies and equipment between the Japanese homeland and its troops in occupied territories."

SUPERFORTS STRIKE SINGAPORE DOCKS IN DAYLIGHT RAID

Force of 150 Big Bombers Hit at Extensive Harbor Area.

Washington, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—India-based B-29s of the Twentieth Bomber Command struck at Singapore, harbor crossroads for war traffic between Japan and Japanese-controlled territory, in a daylight attack today.

Headquarters of the Twentieth Air Force here reported a large force of the Superfortresses—a term usually indicating upward of 150 of the big planes—hit at the extensive and well-established dock and harbor facilities. Results of the mission will be announced when operational reports are received in Washington, the preliminary report said.

[The Tokyo domestic radio today broadcast a series of air-raid alarms accompanied by reports that American planes were over the Tokyo-Yokohama industrial districts. Alerts were also reported sounded in the Shizuoka prefecture and at the Yokosuka naval station.]

Struck on Feb. 1.

The raid was the first by the Superforts on Singapore since February 1, when Brig.-Gen. Roger M. Ramey's B-29s destroyed a huge floating drydock capable of handling the largest warship in the world.

Singapore's dock and harbor facilities are prime targets for the Superfortresses. The naval yards were among the largest in the world when the Japanese captured the stronghold from the British and there are oil storage tanks, munitions dumps, warehouses and Navy work shops in the area.

The Malay peninsula port also has assumed greater strategic importance to the Japanese since the United States' victories in the Philippine Islands and the punishing blows dealt the Japanese fleet by Admiral Halsey's carrier task forces.

The Twentieth Bomber Command made its first strike at Singapore last November 6 and bombed the port again January 11, resulting in destruction of the drydock. The round trip from the Superforts' India base to Singapore is approximately 3,800 miles.

Uruguay Joins Allies After War Declaration

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Uruguay today joined the United Nations, having declared war against Germany and Japan last Thursday.

The Uruguayan Ambassador, Juan Carlos Blanco, signed for his country. The list of signatures now includes all American nations except Argentina.

U.S. Army Investigating Switzerland Complaint

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, today said an Army investigation was under way into a Swiss complaint that United States planes attacked Swiss towns Thursday.

Mr. Grew asserted that if American planes were responsible, reparation would be made "insofar as that is humanly possible."

He disclosed in a statement that the Swiss Minister had declared United States aircraft had bombed and strafed, causing deaths of sixteen and injury to many more.

ALLOT HOUSES TO BRITISH

WPB Heads Order Materials for 30,000 Pre-Fabricated Homes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—The War Production Board announced today the allotment of materials for 30,000 pre-fabricated houses for England, to be built here for $50,000,000 and shipped under lend-lease.

The allotment was made to the Foreign Economic Administration, which supported the British request for temporary emergency dwellings. Officials said the British were unable to replace bombed dwellings because of the labor shortage.

"The material will come out of allocations that would otherwise have been made to our own civilian economy and will represent practically no impact upon the military effort," said Samuel W. Anderson, WPB's program vice chairman.

"The urgency of the need of the people of England for a partial solution to their severe shelter problem exceeds the urgency of the needs of the civilian economy of our country for these materials."

Italy Would Welcome Bid To San Francisco Parley

Tarchiani Says Nation Already Has Paid for Fascist Crimes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—Alberto Tarchiani, the new Italian Ambassador, asserted today that his people have paid long enough for Mussolini's crimes and now merit full partnership in the United Nations.

Italians "want to put an end to the status of co-belligerency," the Italian envoy said in an interview, adding:

"They are beginning to feel that Italy has paid heavy penance long enough for what the Fascists did and should be invited now into the family of United Nations."

Tarchiani called Mussolini's war declaration on Britain and the United States "a criminal disaster." The Italian people, he said, have sought to give "every aid" to the Allies in the war against Germany and "would be grateful" if invited to the San Francisco United Nations Conference on April 25."

Earlier at a news conference Mr. Tarchiani listed Italy's contributions to the Allied war effort as the entire Italian Fleet, five divisions of troops, of which two are at the front; 200,000 soldiers aiding behind the lines and some 50,000 merchant seamen ready to man Allied transports.

ARMY-NAVY JOURNAL ANALYZES DE GAULLE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Army and Navy Journal suggested today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle might have snubbed President Roosevelt "in the belief that, to calm down his [General de Gaulle's] feathers," the President would support French territorial demands.

General de Gaulle rejected the President's invitation to meet him in Algiers after the Yalta conference.

While France is expected to take part in the San Francisco conference in April, a meeting set up by the Yalta conferees, "her officials do not permit to be lost sight of their profound concern over the area of Germany which their Government will be allowed to occupy," the unofficial service publication said.

"General de Gaulle is determined to control the entire Rhineland and is also arguing that French forces shall garrison a part at least of Austria," the publication asserted. "Having a representative on the European Advisory Commission, he will insist upon his rights to the zones he holds to be essential to France."

DRAFT TO CALL MORE 30 TO 33

Selective Service Issues Order On Age Group

Manpower-bill fight to center on criminal-penalties ..... Page 5

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Selective service tonight ordered increased drafting of men 30 through 33 years old, by permitting their deferment only if they are "necessary to" an essential industry.

Heretofore men of that age only had to be "engaged in" such an industry.

The new instructions to draft boards mean that a larger number of the approximately 1,500,000 men in that age bracket holding occupational deferments will enter military service this year, a selective service spokesman said.

30 Per Cent Of Draft

While unable to estimate how many of the 30-33's will be needed to fill the Army's mounting manpower demand, the spokesman called attention to testimony of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, last week that men over 30 would make up 30 per cent of the entire draft call by the end of this year.

"If all other factors are equal, a father should be given greater consideration for occupational deferment than a nonfather in this age group," Hershey's memorandum to draft boards directed.

The local boards were instructed that the 30-33 registrants, to be eligible for deferment, must be "necessary to and regularly engaged in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety or interest."

"Regularly Engaged"

Being "regularly engaged in" such activity continues to be the deferment rule for men aged 34 through 37.

"Physically fit men in the 30-through-37-year-old group — especially those under the age of 34—are confronted with the prospect of induction to the extent necessary to fill the calls," the selective service announcement said.

The agency emphasized the heavy demand for combat replacements, the virtual exhaustion of physically fit men in the 18-25-age group, and the "extremely limited" supply of men 26 through 29.

"The prospect for registrants 18 through 29 is that they will be inducted unless the information submitted to local boards by employers indicates that they are . . . indispensable and irreplaceable in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety and interest."

Details Of Method

The same memorandum gave details of the method by which a limited number of men under 30 holding key positions in war industries will be considered for deferment.

Fifteen Government agencies were designated to certify whether registrants should get strong consideration, as an aid to the decisions of local boards.

The new procedure also calls for the filing of a new form for under-30 men whose deferment is sought.

Employers may file the form with the local board even though the Federal agency having jurisdiction refuses to issue a certificate or if the employer does not come within the jurisdiction of any Federal agency, selective service said. In such cases the local board will use its best judgment, but certified requests are to be given the most serious consideration.

The list of agencies which may issue certificates follows: Army Service Forces, Navy Department, Army Air Forces, War Production Board, Maritime Commission, Petroleum Administration for War, Office of Defense Transportation, War Food Administration, Coordinator of Fisheries, Rubber Reserve, Solid Fuels Administration for War, Review Committee on Deferment of Government Employees, National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel, Office of Scientific Research and Development and the Procurement and Assignment Service.

MINE SHUTDOWN FEARED BY WPB

Krug Asks Coal Wage Pact As Steel Crisis Threatens

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The possibility of a coal-mine shutdown, aggravating an already dire steel shortage, heightened official tension today as John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers made their opening moves toward new coal wage demands.

A plea for an early pay settlement—Lewis' present contract with bituminous operators expires April 1—was voiced by J. A. Krug, War Production Board chairman.

"Work stoppages in the bituminous fields would seriously and immediately impair steel production," Krug said in a statement evidently aimed at members of Lewis' policy committee, gathering here for their opening deliberations Monday on wage demands.

Talks Start Thursday

UMW negotiations with mine operations with mine operators will open Thursday.

The contract deadline will find steel mills with 3,000,000 tons of unfilled first-quarter orders—tonnage which must get priority over second-quarter requests of the armed forces and other claimants.

The second-quarter demands themselves exceed estimated supply by about 3,000,000 tons, but are being slashed deeply by WPB.

Meanwhile, the Government gave back to private owners 72 soft-coal mines which feed steel mills in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

Solid Fuels Administration officials said the return should not be construed as a conciliatory gesture by the Government in connection with the wage negotiations.

Move Explained

Harold L. Ickes, SFA Administrator, said Federal control was ended, after five months, because a UMW union of supervisory employés which threatened to strike last fall had now given assurance of continued work if private operation were resumed.

Krug disclosed new steps to deal with the steel problem. He appointed an emergency committee headed by his chief of operations, H. G. Batcheller, and made up of representatives of the Army, Navy, SFA and War Manpower Commission.

Norman W. Foy, former WPB steel director, has agreed to return from private affairs to serve on the panel.

FEB 25 1945

January Output Low

Steel output in January fell 350,000 tons below expectations because of bad weather, shortage of fuel and other problems. "Some important military requirements" next quarter will not be met, Krug said, unless production can be stepped up.

There was evidence also that WPB, in order to meet urgent Army demands for supplemental steel allotments in recent weeks, had over-extended itself in granting tonnage.

WPB usually allots more steel than is in sight, since experience has shown ten per cent or so of allocations in any quarter are normally not used. However, it now appears steel users are cashing virtually all their allotments tickets."

WPB has resorted to issuance of special directives to steel mills, diverting orders to meet emergency needs.

G-E TO PRODUCE JETS AT SYRACUSE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 24—(AP) Mass production of jet engines for the air forces has been inaugurated at the General Electric company's second largest wartime plant, in Syracuse, it was announced today.

The entire Syracuse plant of more than 600,000 square feet of floor space has been converted to production of jets, the company said. The production schedule called for such speed that there was no ceremony when the first unit passed its final tests and was turned over to the air forces.

Conversion of the big plant began several months ago, with award of the first large-scale jet contracts to G-E. Formerly it had been turning out turbine-electric power units for destroyer escorts.

Subsequently, G-E said, another jet contract was made by the air forces with the Allison division of General Motors, which also will produce the engines on a volume scale.

The company said the engines are designed to drive planes at "lightning-like" speed at altitudes of more than six miles.

The first G-E jet was developed at the company's Lynn, Mass., works in 1941-42. Two of these models were used to fly the first propellerless jet-propelled plane in the United States—the Bell P-59A Airacomet, which took off in October, 1942.

Jet research has continued at the Lynn works, and numerous experimental engines have been produced there. Results of these studies are incorporated in the engines now coming from the Syracuse plant.

CAPEHART SAYS MANPOWER BILL UNNECESSARY

Indiana Senator Says Shortage Can Be Solved Without Legislation

Washington, Feb. 24—(AP)—Senator Capehart, (R.-Ind.), said today that if there really is a manpower shortage, it can be solved "the American way" without legislation.

The Senator, whose phonograph factory is turning out tank and plane parts, expressed some doubt at a news conference whether a shortage of workers actually exists.

"Labor and management have done a remarkable job of production for more than three years," he said, "and now at the tail end of the war the Government is asking for a work-or-fight bill."

He handed reporters a paper headed "six reasons for shortage of manpower if there is a shortage." His six points:

"1. Poor management.

Location Seen Vital

"2. Poor locations of new war plants by the Government.

"3. Hoarding of labor by employers, particularly the large employers.

"4. Slow-down or curtailment of production by agreement among employes.

"5. Unfair wage ceilings in different factories.

"6. Hoarding of labor on the part of Government."

Discussing his list, Capehart said it is obvious the Government can do nothing about poor management, and it's too late to relocate factories which were mistakenly built where labor isn't available.

"However," he said, "there is something the Government could do about hoarding of labor, slow-down of production and unfair ceilings on wages.

FEB 25 1945

Cites Wage Issue

He urged that the War Labor Board speed its adjustment of wages between plants drawing labor from the same pool, so that one manufacturer won't be able to offer a ceiling of $1.10 an hour to the detriment of another industry across the street which can offer only 80 cents.

Saying he didn't want to accuse any individual or organization of fostering slowdowns, he declared that "a good deal of it is going on all over the country."

"My opinion is if the Government will put its good old-fashioned heart and soul into the problem of solving the manpower situation they can do it by voluntary methods," he said.

HEROINES BACK FROM MANILA

Liberated Army Nurses And Specialists Flown Home

Hamilton Field, Cal., Feb. 24 (AP) Heroines of Corregidor and Bataan came home today.

There were 68 of them, arriving at 1.45 P.M. on three big transports and one hospital plane—67 Army nurses and specialists and one Red Cross worker.

Back home! Away from the blood and dirt of war.

Back home! Away from the body and soul hunger of a prison camp.

"Back home! Oh, it's so good! It's so good! You just can't know!"

Lonaconing Nurse In Group

Such was the refrain repeated again and again by the women who nursed the wounded and the dying in the bitter, desperate days of America's defeat and who then suffered through nearly three years of Japanese captivity.

The nurses and specialists were the first group of the many thousand liberated Americans in the Philippines to be brought home. They were rescued from Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila February 2. Among them was Lieut. Eleanor O. Lee, of Lonaconing, Md.

They were taken from here to Letterman Hospital, San Francisco, for a physical check-up and treatment until they are released to visit relatives and friends in various parts of the United States.

Almost Mobbed On Landing

As the three transport planes and one hospital plane swung over San Francisco in formation, the nurses sat in complete silence. Tears started coming to some eyes.

When the planes landed at Hamilton Field and the nurses stepped out, some openly crying with joy, they were almost mobbed by old army friends and other well-wishers.

The repatriates could hardly get used to the experience of being free Americans homeward bound again.

They exclaimed with wonder and glee over such ordinary things as a United States copper penny—"a good old penny." They stared often, some with wide, weary eyes. Some appeared to have recovered normal vitality, but they were all underweight.

Major Maude Davidson, 59-year-old senior chief nurse, was alert and eager despite long, progressive malnutrition.

"I can still be pretty tough," she said.

Major Davidson, a little more than 5 feet tall, weighed 156 pounds when she was captured on Corregidor May 6, 1942. She weighed 80 pounds when liberated.

"Grapevine" News Of Mrs. R.

The younger nurses (average age about 30) were anxious to pick up the threads of life.

"Where is Mrs. Roosevelt now?" asked Lieut. Eunice F. Young, of Arkport, N.Y.

She explained that the news of Mrs. Roosevelt's Australia visit in September, 1943, had reached Santo Tomas internees by way of the grapevine.

The song, "Remember Pearl Harbor," was brand new to these Americans. They were just hearing for the first time the lines of that and other popular songs of the last three years.

They spoke with almost reverent pride of Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the gallant American commander who was captured with them on Corregidor.

Too Busy For Fright

Major Davidson, a native of Tannington, Canada, told some details of the fall of Corregidor.

The nearly exhausted nurses on the rock were too busy to be frightened when they were captured by the Japanese, she said. They had 900 wounded soldiers to care for—in cots, crowded together and three tiers high—in Corregidor's tunnels.

"There was some arrogance" on the part of the Japanese, but no nurse was slapped or in any other way mistreated, Major Davidson said. This was also the case later during the long internment at Santo Tomas.

Two Great Days At Santo Tomas

Two great days at Santo Tomas the nurses recalled were September 21, 1944, when American carrier planes raided the Manila area for the first time, and February 3, 1945, the day of delivery.

"More than anything else," Major Davidson said, "that raid (by the carrier planes) saved the morale of the internees."

When the nurses were rescued from Santo Tomas, they were each given a one-rank spot promotion by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Series of Signals

Two days before the United States 1st Cavalry drove on their rescue mission to Santo Tomas, American planes dropped a note which said: "Roll out the barrel."

The nurses said this note was the topper of a series of signals that deliverance was growing near—a series begun Sept. 21, 1944, when carrier bombers struck Manila. That night the camp phonograph played "Pennies From Heaven."

A month later, on the night of Oct. 20, Don Bell, former radio correspondent, ended the brief news report which the Japanese permitted him to read daily over the camp loudspeaker: "Better late than never." He pronounced "late" as "Leyte." The Japanese didn't catch on.

In January, as the Americans pushed down the Luzon plains, the camp phonograph again confirmed the hot rumors sweeping Santo Tomas. The record: "Get Out of Town Before It's Too Late."

W. L. B. Dissent Calls Mill Rise Danger to South

'Serious Repercussions' Seen in Doubling 'Little Steel' Limit at 23 Plants

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—Industry members of the War Labor Board have declared the W. L. B.'s decision in the textile case involving twenty-three Southern companies "may have serious repercussions on the entire Southern economy."

The four industry representatives dissented from the board's directives of Tuesday night dealing not only with the twenty-three Southern mills but with twenty-five New England and six New York and Pennsylvania firms. The statement applied only to the Southern situation, however.

The board's majority decision, still subject to approval of Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson, raised the minimum for 50,000 cotton and rayon textile workers from 50 to 55 cents an hour and granted a five-cent general increase to preserve job differentials.

Emil Rieve, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations textile workers, quit as a labor member of the W. L. B. in protest against what he termed its lack of authority in making this and other decisions final, rather than subject to the veto of Mr. Vinson or the C. I. O.

FEB 25 1945

Executive Order Conflicts

The industry members said the majority action conflicts with the executive order limiting fringe or secondary wage adjustments. They added:

"We believe it necessary to call attention to the fact that in the textile cases and in the packing house case as well, industry members voted in the negative not only on disposition of specific issues, but also on the paragraphs found under 'effectuation of the order.'"

"We opposed this action of the majority of the board because we believe that the orders should carry the restraining language of Executive Order 9,328 whenever this board deals with the so-called fringe issues. Until that executive order has been changed by the appropriate authority, this board should continue to operate in accordance with its explicit provision."

37½% Over Legal Minimum

"The 55 cent minimum is 37½ per cent higher than the highest minimum under the fair labor standards act," said the management representatives. "In order to increase the minimum to 55 cents, the board, under the circumstances of the rate structure here involved, give a five cent and more across-the-board, general increase to all employees. The result will be increases in these twenty-three mills since January, 1941, totaling far more than double the amount permitted by the Little Steel formula—indeed the increases will be near 50 or 60 per cent.

1945

"But that is not all the board has done. It has imposed the new 55-cent minimum and across-the-board increases on a small segment of the textile industry—even of the Southern textile industry. In the South alone this case affects but twenty-three out of 854 plants—less than 3 per cent. It affects but about 17,500 employees out of 360,000—less than 5 per cent.

"The board imposed on these companies a burden which may well make it very difficult for them to operate in competition with the vast majority of the rest of the Southern industry. And if it be said that the condition will soon ameliorate itself because the rest of the industry in the South will necessarily fall in line, the board is imposing on that industry an added wage bill—estimated at about $71,600,000 a year—which may have serious repercussions on the entire Southern economy."

14,000 at Dodge Ordered to End Strike by W.L.B.

Tomorrow Set as Deadline by Regional Board in Row at Plane-Parts Factory

DETROIT, Feb. 24 (AP). — The regional War Labor Board ordered today nearly 14,000 striking employees of Chrysler Corporation's Dodge main plant to end a strike which since Friday has "virtually halted" production of plane and tank parts.

If the workers don't return to their jobs Monday morning, the board said, officers of Local 3, United Automobile Workers, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, will be summoned to a show-cause hearing.

Meanwhile, Mike Novak, local president, called a union meeting for Sunday afternoon. He said a back-to-work proposal from U. A. W.-C. I. O. officials was rejected by the strikers at a Friday night meeting.

Fears Strike Will Spread

A company spokesman, who said "less than 500" workers reported for work this morning, expressed fear the strike would affect the corporation's twelve other Detroit plants.

The walkout followed the discharge of eight employees accused by the company of loafing and refusing to meet production rates. A union spokesman charged the company with a "speed-up."

Novak said: "We won't go back until the eight men are taken back, and until three foremen, who were in their departments, are fired."

He said the union favors Army control of the plant and an investigation of the "entire Chrysler company set-up" by the Senate War Investigating Committee, headed by Senator James M. Mead, Democrat, of New York, which is scheduled to open an inquiry into Detroit war production.

10,000 Ship Workers Out

PASCAGOULA, Miss., Feb. 24 (AP).—Approximately 10,000 shipyard workers of the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation were on strike today, and from Washington the War Labor Board termed their action "a direct interference with the war."

E. L. Mancil, president of the local Metal Trades Council, American Federation of Labor affiliate, said the strike was voted at the regular meeting of the union last night. Company officials said 6,000 day-shift workers filed away from their jobs and night-shift workers failed to show up.

At Washington the War Labor Board ordered the workers back to their jobs and said processing of their labor disputes scheduled for a hearing before the shipbuilding commission April 13 would be halted if the back-to-work order was not obeyed.

Company officials said that work at the yard was "completely paralyzed."

W. R. Guest, executive vice-president, said work on one 18,000-ton vessel, scheduled for a trial run Monday, and assembly of a Sea Mule, scheduled for trans-shipment to the Pacific this week end, had been halted.

Mancil said union members decided on the move because of "delays" in action on grievances filed with the shipbuilding commission of the W. L. B. He said these grievances included demand for a union shop at the yard, passes into the yard for union representatives, hiring rates for mechanics, pay differentials for welders working with galvanized materials, handling of grievance procedure and conditions in yard food canteens.

Five Types of Planes Now Fly From Carriers

Washington, Feb. 24 — (AP) — The types of planes now employed in carrier service has been increased to five with the addition of the fast and versatile Chance Vought Corsair fighter plane, the Navy disclosed.

First line carrier planes now include three fighter types, the Corsair, the Grumman Hellcat and the Eastern Aircraft Wildcat; one dive-bomber, the Curtiss Helldiver; and one torpedo bomber, the Eastern Aircraft Avenger.

New Type Jap Plane Shot Down

Washington, Feb 24 (A. P.).—The Navy reported today that a new type of Japanese fighter plane had been encountered off Formosa recently and shot down. The new fighter, known as the "George," was described as a streamlined, mid-wing single seat plane with greater speed than other Jap aircraft of this type. It was believed to be a Navy plane.

FEB 25 1945

Commander Frederick E. Bakutis of Brockton, Mass., commanding officer of a fighter squadron aboard a big Essex class carrier, was credited with downing the first plane of the type seen. It gave him a total of 7 1/3 Japanese planes shot down in the air.

Glider Sets Flight Record

Towed 1,320 Miles by Transport on Non-Stop Trip in India

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—A distance record for a non-stop glider flight was claimed by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation today for a C-46 commando tow of a glider loaded with 4,000 pounds of Christmas packages. The flight covered 1,320 miles in 7 hours 45 minutes. The company said the previous longest non-stop glider tow was 1,177 miles.

The flight was made on Christmas Eve from Karachi, India, to a field near Calcutta, with the big transport pulling an Army glider designed to carry fifteen men or light mobile equipment. No extra fuel tanks were used for the flight

Wac, 20, Is [illegible]eserter; Gets 3 Years Hard Labor

4 W. A. C. Officers on Army General Court of Eight

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., Feb. 24 (AP).—Colonel Bradford A. Shaw, air base commandant, announced today the conviction by an Army general court martial of Wac Private Irene Way, twenty years old, of Zanesville, Ohio, who was charged with desertion. She was sentenced to confinement at hard labor for three years, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and dishonorable discharge.

The Wac was arrested on Jan. 24 with Jake Williams, of Buffalo, N. Y., who was convicted of harboring a deserter from the Army. In that case Federal Judge Harold P. Burke ruled that a Wac was a soldier.

The Army court was composed of eight members, four of them Women's Army Corps officers. Private Way's conviction and sentence are subject to review by higher Army authorities.

N.Y. TO DISREGARD MIDNIGHT CURFEW

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 — (AP) With one eye on city hall and the other on Washington, New York's 12,000 amusement places rang with eleventh-hour gaiety tonight, little knowing when the midnight curfew would toll for them.

Cash registers clanged overtime and the return of the speakeasy was predicted freely as the $100,000,000 industry tried to reconcile these developments:

1. The War Manpower commission announced in Washington that the lid would slam Monday with minor exceptions to permit servicemen's functions and all-night restaurants to serve food only.

2. Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, pondering the new regulations, repeated that the "status quo"—4 a. m. closing weekdays, 3 a. m. Sundays—would continue until he made an official announcement, probably tomorrow.

How LaGuardia could keep his promise that there would be "ample notice" remained unexplained. "Ample notice" means two weeks in show business.

The mayor brought into the open a report that military leaders were concerned about the curfew when he said, following a conference with Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, that New York faced "a dangerous and serious situation," adding:

"I am particularly concerned about the opening of speakeasies, which we must prevent. Military and naval officials here are also fearful about such a prospect."

A resolution declaring that "crime will be on the increase and speakeasies will flourish" under the curfew was adopted by the executive board of the United Restaurant Liquor Dealers of Manhattan, which claims 1,500 members.

Asking license fee rebates to cover expected losses in revenue, the dealers praised LaGuardia for efforts to have the curfew modified, and declared: "No man in the United States knows better than our mayor the irreparable damage that will result from this edict."

LaGuardia had conferred with WMC and other officials in Washington earlier this week and was scheduled to see Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional WMC director, tomorrow before promulgating New York's enforcement rules.

Local 802, American Federation of Musicians (AFL), announced a contract termination policy for duration of the curfew, providing generally for [illegible]orter dismissal notices and arbitr[illegible]on of disputes.

BY ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, FEB. 24-(AP)-MILD AND BITTER.

THAT IS A FORM OF BREW CALLED BEER IN BRITAIN. AND THAT IS THE WAY THE BRITISH PEOPLE HAVE TAKEN WARTIME RESTRICTIONS ON THEIR NIGHT LIFE--MILDLY AND BITTERLY, MIXED.

MILDLY, BECAUSE THAT IS THE WAY THE BRITISH ARE, BUT A LITTLE BITTERLY, TOO, BECAUSE THERE IS NOT ENOUGH BREW, OR WHISKY TO GO AROUND; NOT ENOUGH TIME TO DINE AND DANCE AND PERHAPS TAKE IN A THEATER IN THE EVENING; NOT ENOUGH TAXIS, AND TOO FEW LIGHTS TO RISK WALKING HOME; AND NOT ENOUGH FOLDING MONEY.

SO THE UNITED STATES' NEW CURFEW ON LATE-HOUR REVELRY HAS DRAWN LITTLE MORE THAN A SARDONIC SMILE IN SOHO, THE HEART OF LONDON'S CAFE DISTRICT; ONLY A NOSTALGIC MOAN IN THE MAYFAIR SECTOR, HOME ABROAD FOR MANY AMERICANS; AND HARDLY A PEEP OF PROTEST IN PICCADILLY, LONDON'S "TIMES SQUARE" AND GATHERING SPOT FOR GIS.

FOR, BY CONTRAST, THE MIDNIGHT DEADLINE ON AMERICA'S NIGHTLIFE SEEMS MILD TO THOSE WHO HAVE STRUGGLED FOR FIVE YEARS UNDER MUCH MORE STRINGENT RESTRICTIONS. TAKE A FEW EXAMPLES:

OVER HERE, IT IS A FAST MAN WHO CAN BEAT THE EARLYBIRDS TO THE BAR OF HIS LOCAL PUB IN TIME FOR A DOUBLE WHISKY FROM THE ONE OR TWO BOTTLES RATIONED OUT DAILY TO EACH ESTABLISHMENT.

OVER THERE--AT LEAST IN WASHINGTON AND NEW YORK--THERE IS NO CURB ON ELBOW-BENDING AMBITIONS EXCEPT THOSE IMPOSED BY CAPACITY OR PURSE.

OVER HERE IT IS GO-HUNGRY-OR-ELSE FOR THE WORKING THEATER-GOER WHO WOULD CATCH AN EVENING SHOW, BECAUSE THE CURTAIN GOES UP AT 5:30 P.M.

30.34-23317

OVER THERE IT WILL STILL BE POSSIBLE TO DINE DOWNTOWN FROM MENUS WITHOUT PARALLEL HERE, SEE A SHOW AND STILL HAVE TIME FOR A NIGHTCAP OR THREE.

HERE, HOWEVER, WHERE AMERICA'S PROHIBITION YEARS AND SPEAKEASIES HAVE BEEN THE FAVORITE TARGET OF BRITISH SCORN AND RIDICULE, THE WELL-TO-DO HAVE FOUND ONE DODGE FOR MAKING MERRIE WITHIN THE LAW AFTER THE 11 P.M. CLOSING HOUR--THE BOTTLE CLUB.

FOR THE PRICE ANYWHERE FROM $2 UP AND AN INTRODUCTION TO THE "SECRETARY," ALMOST ANYONE CAN BECOME A MEMBER, BUY A BOTTLE FROM THE MANAGEMENT (THE PRICE USUALLY IS $12 A BOTTLE) AND DRINK THE WQIFH AWA

RETARY," ALMOST ANYONE CAN BECOME A MEMBER, BUY A BOTTLE FROM THE MANAGEMENT (THE PRICE USUALLY IS $12 A BOTTLE) AND DRINK THE WEE HOURS AWAY. THE UNFINISHED BOTTLE MAY BE CHECKED FOR THE NEXT NIGHT OUT.

BUT BOTTLE CLUBS ARE THE EXCEPTION RATHER THAN THE RULE, FOR WITH THE V-BOMB PUTTING A PREMIUM ON SLEEP AND HIGH TAXES THE AVERAGE ENGLISHMAN HAS LEARNED TO BUDGET HIS ENTERTAINMENT.

MOST OF THEM ARE READY FOR HOME WHEN THE LOCAL PUB PROPRIETOR PROMPTLY AT 11 P.M., CRIES OUT:

"TIME, GENTLEMEN, TIME, PLEASE.

"COME ALONG, GENTLEMEN, COME ALONG PLEASE."

BUT STILL THERE ARE SOME WHO FIND A SECRET SATISFACTION IN THE COMING CLAMP-DOWN IN THE LAND OF PLENTY.

ALBERT SIPPED HIS MILD AND BITTER IN A FLEET STREET PUB AND SUMMED UP THE SITUATION:

"THEY'VE HAD IT,"

HE SAID. FEB 25 1945

"AND WITH OUR SCOTCH," SAID HIS CRONY 'ERBERT.

BY LOUIS P.LOCHNER

CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS BUREAU IN BERLIN

LONDON, FEB. 24-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER COMMEMORATED THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF HIS PARTY'S FOUNDING TODAY BY PICTURING HIMSELF AS A MARTYR AND THE GERMAN PEOPLE IN THE ROLE OF WELL-BEHAVED CHILDREN TO WHOM THE ALMIGHTY OWES A REWARD.

THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE GERMAN SITUATION, WITH ALLIED ARMIES CLOSING IN FROM THE EAST AND THE WEST, WAS SAID TO HAVE PREVENTED THE FUEHRER'S CUSTOMARY ATTENDANCE AT THE ANNUAL POWWOW OF THE NAZI PARTY'S ELITE. BUT HIS SECRETARY OF STATE, IN THE PROPAGANDA MINISTRY, HERMANN ESSER, WHO READ HITLER'S MESSAGE, KNOWS THE MASTER'S STYLE WELL AND PROBABLY PERFORMED ABLY AS A TEAR JERKER.

THE SPEECH, TO ANYONE WHO SAW HITLER COMING UP THROUGH 13 YEARS OF STRUGGLE FOR POWER, WAS TYPICAL OF HIS ORATORY IN TIMES OF EXTREME CRISIS.

WHEN REASON FAILS AND HE HAS NOTHING POSITIVE TO OFFER, HE FALLS BACK ON PLAINTIVELY REMINDING HIS SATELLITES OF HIS "UNSELFISHNESS." ALSO, HE PASSES FROM THE REALM OF HARD FACTS INTO THE MYTHICAL AND THE MYSTICAL.

TWO NEW NOTES, NEVERTHELESS, WERE INTRODUCED INTO WHAT OTHERWISE WAS MOSTLY A REPETITION OF THE PLATITUDES NOW SHOPWORN THROUGH A QUARTER CENTURY OF USE.

FIRST HE PLAYED DEFTLY UPON THE GERMANS' OBVIOUS FEARS OF BEING SENT TO SIBERIA IN FORCED LABOR, AND HELD OUT THIS PROSPECT AS THE SINGLE, TERRIBLE ALTERNATIVE TO CONTINUED FIGHTING.

SECONDLY, HE TRIED TO TURN THE AMERICAN AIR RAID ON BERCHTESGADEN TO HIS OWN ADVANTAGE BY MAKING IT APPEAR THAT WORLDLY GOODS MEANT NOTHING TO HIM.

THIS FITS IN WITH THE LONG ESTABLISHED PARTY PROPAGANDA WHICH HAS DEPICTED HITLER AS A MAN WITHOUT PERSONAL WANTS. NOTHING IS SAID OF HIS BERGHOF--HIS HOME ABOVE BERCHTESGADEN--WHICH HARBORS A PRIVATE COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS UPON WHICH HITLER HAS SPENT MILLIONS.

IT WAS SOMEWHAT SURPRISING THAT HITLER ONCE AGAIN VENTURED INTO THE REALM OF PROPHESY AFTER MOST OF HIS PREVIOUS PREDICTIONS PROVED WRONG.

"THIS YEAR THAT HISTORICAL TURNING PONT IN THE WAR WILL COME," HE INSISTED.

BUT AS EARLY AS 1940 HE ALREADY HAD PUT THAT YEAR DOWN FOR "THE GREATEST VICTORY OF ALL TIMES."

B18 FEB 25 1945

AS IN OTHER RECENT PRONOUNCEMENTS, HE SEEMED TO BE PREPARING AN ALIBI FOR HIMSELF IN THE EVENT OF DEFEAT. IN SUCH A CASE THE GERMAN PEOPLE WILL BE BLAMED. THIS NOTE WAS FIRST SOUNDED SOMETIME AFTER STALINGRAD. THEN HE ASSERTED THAT IF THE GERMAN PEOPLE COULD NOT STAND THE ORDEAL, HE WOULD HAVE NO PITY FOR THEM AND THEY WOULD GO DOWN DESERVEDLY.

AS USUAL HITLER TRIED TO SOW DISSENSION AMONG THE ALLIES BY PREDICTING THAT BOLSHEVISM WOULD INUNDATE THE WESTERN ALLIES OF THE SOVIETS.

HITLER CLOSED HIS ORATION WITH THE STEREOTYPED: "I PROPHESY VICTORY FOR THE GERMAN REICH AT THE END OF THIS STRUGGLE."

BUT WHEN ONE READS THE SPEECH CAREFULLY THERE IS NOTHING REALLY CONCRETE UPON WHICH A GERMAN COULD BASE HOPE FOR FULFILMENT OF THESE PROMISES.

WHILE VAGUELY REFERRING TO THE INVENTION OF NEW AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF OLD WEAPONS, HIS LINE OF REASONING IS MUCH MORE MYSTICAL THAN PRACTICAL.

HITLER VIRTUALLY SAID GOD OWED THE GERMAN PEOPLE VICTORY BECAUSE THEY HAD STOOD UP UNDER TRIAL. HE REASSERTED THAT GERMANY FAILED TO GO UNDER AFTER 1920 BECAUSE HE AND HIS NATIONAL SOCIALIST PROGRAM SAVED THE NATION. THEREFORE HE ARGUED THAT THE NAZI MOVEMENT SOMEHOW WOULD PULL THE NATION THROUGH ITS CURRENT CRISIS.

LONDON, FEB. 24-(AP)-BERLIN BROADCASTS TODAY CALLED THE AMERICAN ATTACK AT THE ROER LINE "THE GREATEST OFFENSIVE EISENHOWER HAS EVER STAGED," AND ONE SAID "40 ANGLO-AMERICAN DIVISIONS ARE THUS FAR EMPLOYED IN THE WESTERN OFFENSIVE."

BERLIN PREVIOUSLY HAS REPORTED THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY WAS PARTICIPATING IN THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY'S PUSH IN THE KLEVE SECTOR, NORTH OF THE ROER RIVER BREAKTHROUGH. TODAY'S BROADCAST DID NOT SPECIFY WHERE ANY BRITISH DIVISIONS WERE ATTACKING WITH THE AMERICANS.

GERMANS SAID THE U.S. NINTH AND FIRST ARMIES JUMPED OFF AFTER A "HITHERTO UNEXPERIENCED" ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND "THE GREATEST-EVER SOFTENING UP PROCESS BY ALLIED AIRCRAFT."

ANOTHER BROADCASTER SAID THE AMERICANS WERE USING UNPARALLELED AMOUNTS OF MATERIEL, AND ADDED THAT "ALTHOUGH VERY THOROUGH PREPARATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE BY FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT, NOBODY IS HARBORING ANY ILLUSION THAT THE BATTLE WILL NOT BE ONE OF THE UTMOST SEVERITY."

THE GERMANS ALSO PREDICTED THE OFFENSIVE WOULD SPREAD SOUTHWARD.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD AERIAL

BY WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, SUNDAY, FEB. 25-(AP)-FLEET RAF MOSQUITOS HIT BERLIN LAST NIGHT WITH TWO-TON BLOCKBUSTERS, THE AIR MINISTRY ANNOUNCED TODAY.

THE ATTACK ON THE MUCH-BOMBED CAPITAL FOLLOWED HEAVY BLOWS YESTERDAY BY GREAT FLEETS OF ALLIES PLANES ON GERMAN SUBMARINE YARDS AND OIL REFINERIES, CARRYING THE WAR'S MOST DEVASTATING AERIAL OFFENSIVE AGAINST GERMANY INTO ITS 12TH STRAIGHT DAY.

ALLIED TACTICAL AIR FORCES ON THE CONTINENT FLEW 3,515 SORTIES DURING THE DAY IN CLOSE SUPPORT OF GROUND OPERATIONS AND REPORTED DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 169 LOCOMOTIVES, 1,259 FREIGHT CARS, AND MORE THAN 1,000 MOTOR VEHICLES.

NINTH AIR FORCE MARAUDERS BOMBED CLATTEN AND ZULTICH, 26 AND 22 MILES SOUTHWEST OF COLOGNE, AND RHEINDAHLEN, 18 MILES WEST OF DUSSELDORF. ALL THREE WERE POINTS AT WHICH THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED BRINGING UP RESERVES FROM THE SOUTH IN AN EFFORT TO MEET THE AMERICAN NINTH ARMY OFFENSIVE.

THE NINTH AIR FORCE LISTED LOSSES OF SEVEN MEDIUM OR LIGHT BOMBERS AND THREE FIGHTERBOMBERS.

RAIL TARGETS NOT HIT IN THE PREVIOUS TWO-DAY "BUCKSHOT BLITZ" WHICH PARALYZED THE TRANSPORTATION NETWORK IN WESTERN GERMANY ALSO CAME UNDER THE SHATTERING CASCADE OF HIGH EXPLOSIVES AS THE BRITAIN-BASED U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE STRUCK WITH 1,600 PLANES AND THE RAF FOLLOWED DURING AFTERNOON WITH UPWARDS OF 700.

FROM ITALY HEAVY BOMBERS OF THE U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE STRUCK RAILYARDS AT GRAZ ON THE MAIN LINE FROM VIENNA TO YUGOSLAVIA AND AT KLAGENFURT JUST NORTH OF THE YUGOSLAV BORDER. FLYING FORTRESSES ALSO BOMBED THE YARDS AT FERRARA IN THE PO VALLEY AND LIBERATORS ATTACKED OTHER RAIL TARGETS AT PADUA AND UDINE. THUNDERBOLTS STRAFED TRAINS MOVING IN NORTHERN ITALY.

FIGHTER BOMBERS OF THE NINTH AIR FORCE HIT TARGETS IMMEDIATELY AHEAD OF THE WEST FRONT OFFENSIVE.

WITH RAIL TRAFFIC IN WESTERN GERMANY REPORTED VIRTUALLY AT A STANDSTILL AS A RESULT OF THE PAST TWO DAYS BOMBING BOTH AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOMBERS SHIFTED THEIR ATTACK TO REFINERIES STILL PRODUCING A TRICKLE OF FUEL FOR THE ENEMY FORCES AND TO THE YARDS BUILDING THE LATEST TYPE U-BOATS.

THE MAIN TARGET OF THE RAF HEAVIES AND ESCORTING MUSTANGS AND SPITFIRES WAS A SYNTHETIC OIL REFINERY AT KAMEN, NEAR DORTMUND. MORE THAN 1,100 FORTRESSES AND 500 ESCORTING FIGHTERS SPLIT INTO TASK FORCES HITTING NATURAL OIL REFINERIES AT MISBURG, HAMBURG, HARBURG AND U-BOAT YARDS AT HAMBURG AND BREMEN.

SCATTERED TRANSPORTATION TARGETS ALSO WERE BOMBED BY FORTRESSES WITH THE ESCORTING MUSTANGS STRAFING RAILLINES. RETURNING PILOTS REPORTED NO TRAFFIC MOVING IN NORTHWESTERN GERMANY.

MORE THAN 29 LOCOMOTIVES, 80 RAIL CARS, 131 OIL CARS AND SEVEN SMALL BOATS WERE SHOT UP.

THE GERMAN RADIO DRAGGED ANTI-RUSSIAN PROPAGANDA INTO ITS ATTEMPT TO EXPLAIN AWAY THE TREMENDOUS AIR ASSAULTS BY SUGGESTING THAT BRITISH AND AMERICAN COMMANDS HAD UNDERTAKEN THE "SCORCHED EARTH" CAMPAIGN WITH MASSED AIR FLEETS IN ORDER TO DESTROY EVERYTHING POSSIBLE BEFORE IT FELL INTO THE HANDS OF THE RED ARMY AND COULD BE EXPLOITED BY THE SOVIETS.

MONTGOMERY'S CANADIAN FIRST ARMY ON THE NORTH END OF THE FRONT LASHED OUT IN NEW ATTACKS. RECONNAISSANCE FORCES PRODDED ALMOST TO THE ROAD CENTER OF CALCAR WITHOUT RESISTANCE. (BRUSSELS RADIO SAID THE CANADIANS HAD ENTERED CALCAR.)

ON THE CENTER OF THAT FRONT, SCOTTISH INFANTRY FOUGHT TO WITHIN A MILE OF WEEZE, A RAILHEAD THREE MILES SOUTH OF THE CAPTURED WESTWALL STRONGPOINT OF GOCH.

LT. GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY IN THE PAST 24 HOURS CAPTURED 1,400 PRISONERS--AS MANY AS THE U.S. NINTH AND FIRST ARMIES TOGETHER--AS IT GAINED FOUR MILES AND ENGULFED 23 MORE TOWNS IN A DRIVE WHICH WAS ABOUT TO WIPE OUT A 32-MILE STRETCH OF THE WESTWALL IN GERMANY'S EIFEL MOUNTAINS.

ALL ESCAPE BY HIGHWAY OUT OF THE TWO BY THREE-MILE SALIENT--ALL THAT IS LEFT OF ONCE POWERFUL WESTWALL POSITIONS EAST OF LUXEMBOURG --WAS CUT OFF BY THE CAPTURE OF NEUERBURG IN A SURPRISE ASSAULT.

ALREADY 1,000 BEWILDERED PRISONERS HAD BEEN FLUSHED FROM THE SALIENT AND A FRONT DISPATCH SAID UNDETERMINED NUMBERS OF OTHER GERMANS WERE MILLING AROUND, GROPING FOR A WAY OUT. ENEMY TANKS WERE DESTROYED AT THE RATE OF FIVE A DAY FOR THE LAST FIVE DAYS IN THE SALIENT STRUGGLE.

30.24-23319

ONE THOUSAND OF THE PRISONERS CAME FROM THE CENTER OF THE ENEMY'S CRUMBLING SALIENT, NOW BUT FOUR MILES DEEP AND THREE MILES WIDE.

A FRONT DISPATCH SAID AMERICANS WERE ON HEIGHTS LOOKING DOWN ON NEUERBURG, IN THE CENTER OF THE SALIENT, AND THE GERMANS WERE BADLY DISORGANIZED AND TRYING FRANTICALLY TO ESCAPE.

ON THE SOUTH END OF THE 50-MILE FRONT, THE 94TH INFANTRY CAPTURED OCKFEN, ON THE EAST BANK OF THE SAAR RIVER NINE MILES SOUTH OF THE FORTRESS OF TRIER. SERRIG, IN A SECOND BRIDGEHEAD FOUR MILES SOUTH, ALSO WAS CLEARED. THE LATTER BRIDGEHEAD NOW WAS A MILE AND A HALF DEEP AND TWO MILES WIDE.

ON THE ROER FRONT EVERY OBJECTIVE OF THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES WAS TAKEN AHEAD OF SCHEDULE, A FRONT REPORT SAID, AND THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT THE BRIDGEHEADS WERE REINFORCED AND DEEPENED.

THE GERMANS THREW IN SIX COUNTERATTACKS LAST NIGHT, 18 HOURS AFTER THE OFFENSIVE BROKE, EMPLOYING AS MANY AS 20 TANKS. DEADLY ARTILLERY FIRE DROVE THE ENEMY BACK.

WHILE THE NINTH ARMY SWUNG RAPIDLY BEYOND LINNICH, 15 MILES NORTHEAST OF AACHEN, INFANTRY SIX MILES SOUTHEAST AT JUELICH DROVE TWO MILES EASTWARD ALONG A BROAD HIGHWAY TO WITHIN 19 MILES OF COLOGNE.

BEHIND THEM, ARTILLERY SMASHED THE THICK WALLS OF THE ANCIENT, MOATED CITADEL IN THE NORTHERN EDGE OF JUELICH AND INFANTRY STORMED THROUGH THE BREACHES, WIPING OUT THE LAST RESISTANCE INSIDE.

THE BATTLE FOR A SECOND ROER STRONGHOLD AT DUEREN, SIX MILES FARTHER SOUTHEAST WAS MUCH STERNER.

ONCE A CITY OF 40,000, DUEREN WAS REDUCED TO A HEAP OF RUBBLE FROM WHICH THE GERMANS FOUGHT SAVAGELY. THE GRIP ON THE CITY WAS TIGHTENED BY A PUSH OF MORE THAN TWO MILES BEYOND THE ROER, AND INFANTRY WAS METHODICALLY ATTACKING THE LAST OF THE CITY'S STRONGPOINTS.

THREE MILES SOUTH OF DUEREN, HODGE'S TROOPS WHO HAD CROSSED THE ROER CLEARED HALF OF THE TOWN OF NIEDERAU.

THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT FIGHTING FLARED ON BOTH SIDES OF HEINSBERG, 20 MILES NORTH OF AACHEN ON A SECTOR WHICH LAST WAS REPORTED HELD BY THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, BUT THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

IT WAS REVEALED OFFICIALLY THAT THE 29TH INFANTRY DIVISION TOOK JUELICH, WHILE THE 102ND INFANTRY DIVISION WAS OPERATING TO THE NORTH BEYOND LINNICH.

THE FIRST ARMY'S EIGHTH INFANTRY DIVISION AND THE VETERAN 104TH TIMBERWOLF DIVISIONS PACED THE ATTACK ON THE SOUTHERN SECTOR OF THE FRONTGM

THE NEAREST APPROACH TO COLOGNE--19 MILES--WAS AT NIEDERZEIR, BETWEEN DUEREN AND JUELICH.

U.S. NINTH ARMY MEN CLEARING JUELICH WIPED OUT RESISTANCE IN THE ANCIENT MOATED CITADEL THERE AFTER SHELLS SMASHED THAT CLUSTER OF BUILDINGS, AND THEN DROVE TWO MILES BEYOND JUELICH DOWN THE BROAD HIGHWAY DUE EAST TO COLOGNE. THEY WERE WITHIN 21 MILES OF THE RHINE CITY.

ALONG THE MIDDLE OF THE WESTERN FRONT, THE U.S.THIRD ARMY CAPTURED 1,400 PRISONERS YESTERDAY, INCLUDING 1,000 TAKEN FROM THE THE CRUMBLING BULGE NORTHEAST OF VIANDEN. THE BULGE NOW IS FOUR MILES FROM EAST TO WEST AND THREE FROM NORTH TO SOUTH.

CAVALRY UNITS ADVANCING FOUR MILES TOOK SEVEN TOWNS FROM TWO TO FOUR MILES NORTHEAST OF VIANDEN. THE 90TH INFANTRY DIVISION SEIZED SIX MORE UP TO 12 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM. THE SIXTH ARMORED DIVISION GAINED A MILE AND A HALF TOWARD NEUERBURG, AT THE JUNCTION OF THE WAHL AND ENZ RIVERS ABOUT SEVEN MILES NORTHEAST OF VIANDEN. IT WAS 2 1/2 MILES FROM HIGH GROUND OVERLOOKING NEUERBURG, CENTER OF THE BULGE IN WHICH BADLY-DISORGANIZED GERMANS WERE SEEKING FRANTICALLY

TO ESCAPE.

THE THIRD HAS TAKEN 5,206 PRISONERS IN THE LAST THREE DAYS.

A DISPATCH FROM THE CANADIAN FRONT IN THE NORTH SAID THE GERMANS WRE WITHDRAWING TROOPS FROM THE DUTCH ISLANDS AT THE MOUTH OF THE RHINE ESTUARY AS WELL AS PULLING BACK TO THE IJSSEL RIVER NORTH OF ARNHEM.

THE ROCKET ZONE NEAR THE COAST PRESUMABLY STILL IS GARRISONED, IT SAID, BUT THERE IS CONTINUOUS ENEMY MOVEMENT EAST FROM THE MAIN PART OF HOLLAND NORTH OF THE RHINE ESTUARY.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY'S OFFENSIVE SLOWED DOWN TO CONSOLIDATION, BUT SCOTS WHO CUT THE UEDEM-GOCH RAILWAY FANNED THROUGH A WOODED AREA TO WITHIN A MILE OF WEEZE, THE NEXT GERMAN ANCHOR POINT SOUTH OF GOCH. OTHER TROOPS PRODDED STUBBORN GERMAN LINES NEAR CALCAR.

THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY HAD A TOUGHER JOB THAN THE NINTH CROSSING THE ROER IN THE DUEREN SECTOR WHERE IT FLOWS HIGHER AND FASTER, BUT HAD GAINED UP TO TWO MILES IN THE FIRST DAY.

U.S.CASUALTIES WERE DESCRIBED AS LIGHT, ALTHOUGH GERMAN OPPOSITION STRENGTHENED DURING THE DAY. FEB 25 1945

BRIDGEHEADS WERE CONSOLIDATED OVERNIGHT AND ENGINEERS THREW FOOTBRIDGES OVER THE ROER DESPITE HEAVY GERMAN SHELLING. INFANTRYMEN MADE SLOW PROGRESS THROUGH THICK MINEFIELDS.

THE MAGNIFICENT AIR SUPPORT IN THE OPENING PHASE UNDOUBTEDLY WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE LIGHT TO MODERATE RESISTANCE FIRST ENCOUNTERED, A FRONT REPORTER SAID. GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS HURRYING UP WERE BOMBED AND MACHINE-GUNNED REPEATEDLY. THE AIR FORCES FLEW MORE THAN 4,900 SORTIES YESTERDAY, MOSTLY IN DIRECT SUPPORT OF THE LAND OFFENSIVE. FLYING WEATHER APPEARED MUCH LESS FAVORABLE EARLY TODAY.

U.S.NINTH AIR FORCE FLIERS REPORTED A DAY OF TREMENDOUS DESTRUCTION OF GERMAN ROLLING STOCK. THEIR SCORE ALONE WAS GIVEN AS 1,514 RAILWAY CARS DESTROYED AND AS MANY DAMAGED; 89 LOCOMOTIVES WRECKED AND 33 DAMAGED, 817 TRUCKS DESTROYED AND 414 DAMAGED, AND 179 ARMORED VEHICLES AND TANKS WRECKED AND ANOTHER 126 DAMAGED.

THE GERMANS WERE KNOWN TO HAVE AT LEAST SIX DIVISIONS FACING THE AMERICANS ON THE ROER RIVER FRONT. FEB 25 1945

"MOST OF THEM ARE POOR QUALITY TROOPS," DECLARED MAJ.JOHN C. LAWTON, BALTIMORE,MD., (114 WEST UNIVERSITY PARKWAY) AS HE WATCHED THE FIRST, BEDRAGGLED, SHELL-SHOCKED PRISONERS COME ACROSS THE RIVER UNDER GUARD. MAJ.OSCAR STONESEIFER, HARRISBURG,PA., IN ANOTHER REGIMENTAL COMMAND POST, SAID "WE ARE GOING MUCH BETTER THAN EXPECTED."

THE RIVER, WHICH HAD BEEN FLOODED BY THE GERMANS, NOW HAS A MAXIMUM WIDTH OF 250 FEET AND IS WITHIN ITS BANK AT MANY POINTS. IT STILL IS RUNNING AT 10 TO 12 MILES PER HOUR.

DESPITE THIS HANDICAP THE AMERICANS CROSSED THE STREAM, USING ASSAULT BOATS, INFANTRY BRIDGES AND AMPHIBIOUS JEEPS. TANKS ALSO CROSSED TO SUPPORT THE INFANTRY.

AMERICAN ENGINEERING INGENUITY PROVIDED ONE OF THE KEYS TO THE CROSSING OF THE ROER. WEDNESDAY NIGHT ENGINEER PATROLS SNEAKED ACROSS AND PLANTED STEEL CABLES FROM BANK TO BANK, THEN SUBMERGED THEM IN THE STREAM. WHEN THE ARTILLERY BARRAGE OPENED AT 2:45 A.M., THE ENGINEERS HAULED THE CABLES TAUT AND USED THEM TO SUPPORT FOOTBRIDGES WHICH WERE ERECTED IN A FEW MINUTES.

SMOKE GENERATORS LAID DOWN A THICK BLANKET IN ORDER TO SCREEN THE ASSAULT. THE DOUGHBOYS FOUND THAT THE ROER HAD BEEN FILLED WITH UNDERWATER SPIKES, STAKES, FLOATING MINES AND WIRE. IN THE SWIFT CURRENT SOME BOATS CAPSIZED. IT WAS DIFFICULT TO LAUNCH THE INFANTRY BRIDGES.

LESS THAN SIX HOURS AFTER THE ATTACK OPENED, STREAMS OF EXHAUSTED AND DISPIRITED PRISONERS BEGAN COMING BACK. THEY TOLD THEIR QUESTIONERS THAT WHILE THEY KNEW AN ATTACK WAS COMING, THEY HAD NOT EXPECTED IT THAT MORNING OR IN SUCH VIOLENCE.

WHILE SIX NAZI DIVISIONS FACED THE FURY OF THE NEW DRIVE, AT LEAST TEN OTHERS WERE BEING PINNED DOWN BY THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE ON THE NORTH FLANK. THAT MANY OR MORE WERE TRYING TO HOLD DOWN THE U.S. THIRD ARMY'S RHINE-BENT OFFENSIVE THROUGH THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS.

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S TROOPS CROSSED THE SAAR RIVER AT A THIRD POINT SOUTH OF THE NAZI FORTRESS OF TRIER, AND WELDED TWO OTHER CROSSINGS INTO ONE BRIDGEHEAD AT LEAST TWO AND A HALF MILES WIDE AND AS MUCH AS TWO MILES DEEP. TO THE NORTH THIRD ARMY DOUGHBOYS WERE THREATENING TO FORCE THE NAZIS INTO A 12-MILE RETREAT TO THE PRUEM RIVER.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY, RESUMING ITS PUSH, SCORED ADVANCES AT A NUMBER OF POINTS, PARTICULARLY IN THE SECTOR WHERE IT WAS NEARING THE ENEMY BASE OF UEDEM AND THE NORTHWEST CORNER OF THE RUHR.

IN THE SOUTH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY HAMMERED AT THE GATES OF SAARBRUECKEN, CAPITAL OF THE SAAR COAL AND STEEL BASIN.

THIS PILE OF RUBBLE THAT ONCE WAS A THRIVING CITY DATING BACK AT LEAST 800 YEARS, FELL YESTERDAY TO THE 29TH INFANTRY DIVISION, WHICH PUSHED ON EAST NEARLY TWO MILES TODAY TO THE OUTSKIRTS OF STETTERNICH.

ON THE NORTHERN EDGE OF THE CITY, THE CENTURIES-OLD CITADEL, WITH ITS 140-FOOT THICK WALLS, FELL QUICKLY TO INFANTRY ATTACKING WITH FLAMETHROWERS.

THE TASK FORCE THAT KNOCKED OUT THE HANDFUL OF DEFENDERS WAS UNDER A BRIGADIER GENERAL, WHO RODE AROUND UNDER FIRE ON A BULLDOZER, ROUNDING UP ARMORED WEAPONS AND FLAMETHROWERS FOR THE ASSAULT.

THE 102ND INFANTRY DIVISION, WHICH MADE THE DEEPEST PENETRATION AT LINNICH. REACHED HOTTORF, FOUR AND A HALF MILES FROM THE JUMP-OFF. IN THIS SECTOR A SERIES OF SMALL COUNTERATTACKS WERE BEATEN OFF.

THE 102ND AND 29TH DIVISIONS HAD BEZN SITTING ALONG THE ROER FOR WEEKS, PLANNING CROSSINGS, AND CAPITALIZED ON THEIR LONG STUDY. OTHER DIVISIONS ARE TAKING PART IN THE ASSAULT TOWARD THE RHINE, BUT THEIR IDENTITY HAS NOT YET BEEN DISCLOSED BY THE ARMY.

"WE HAVE PROGRESSED VERY NICELY, AND CASUALTIES HAVE NOT BEEN AS HIGH AS EXPECTED," A NINTH ARMY OFFICER SAID.

THE MODERATE GERMAN RESISTANCE IS EXPECTED TO STIFFEN, AND THERE ARE INDICATIONS THE ENEMY HIGH COMMAND IS DRAWING REINFORCEMENTS FROM OTHER SECTORS OF THE WEAKENED FRONT TO MEET THE OFFENSIVE ALONG THE ROER.

THE 29TH DIVISION HAD ONE OF THE TOUGHEST TASKS, FIGHTING FROM RUBBLE HEAP TO RUBBLE HEAP THROUGH THIS TOWN, WHICH IS SO FLATTENED IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO TELL WHERE STREETS BEGIN AND HOUSES BEGIN.

BACK ON THE RIVER, ENGINEERS STILL HAD A BIG JOB AHEAD, BECAUSE THE RIVER WAS SOWED WITH ALL TYPES OF MINES.

"THIS IS THE HARDEST CROSSING WE HAVE HAD," MAJ. HARTZELL MICHAEL, ENGINEER OFFICER FROM GREENSBURG, PA., DECLARED. A CORPS ENGINEER SAID HIS MEN HAD TWICE THE CASUALTIES FOR ANY ONE OPERATIT

CORPS ENGINEER SAID HIS MEN HAD TWICE THE CASUALTIES FOR ANY ONE OPERATION SINCE THE TIME THEY LANDED IN FRANCE. FEB 25 1945

COMING BACK FROM THE FIGHTING EDGE OF TOWN WAS A LINE OF GERMAN PRISONERS, GUARDED BY BEARDED SOLDIERS. ONE GROUP WAS GUARDED BY PVT. LEROY PAMTEMUELD, NEW BRAUNSFELS, TEX. THE GERMANS WERE SHORT, LESS THAN FIVE FEET SIX ON THE AVERAGE, AND SOME LOOKED 16 YEARS OLD OR LESS.

ONE GROUP OF SOLDIERS SITTING ON THE STEPS OF A RUINED HOUSE WERE ESPECIALLY GLAD TO SEE THE BRIDGES COMPLETED AND THE TRUCKS AND JEEPS COMING ACROSS, BECAUSE THEY WERE MUNITIONS CARRIERS.

"WE HAD TO CARRY ALL AMMUNITION YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT ACROSS THERE BY HAND," SAID PVT.JAMES MCKENNA, 230 EAST 154TH ST., NEW YORK CITY.

IN HIS DETAIL WERE PVT.PATRICK WEST, 689 MELROSE AVE., THE BRONX, N.Y., PVT.WILLIAM HARRIS, BRACKVILLE, PA.; PVT.LEONARD MADSEN, 311 PERRY ST., SIOUX CITY, IOWA; PVT.JAMES MEDLIN, AUSTELL, GA., AND PVT.FINES MATHEWS, WHITEHALL, ILL.

THE ENTIRE RIVER CROSSING OPERATION, BECAUSE OF PECULIAR CONDITIONS, THREW THE BRUNT OF MAKING THE DRIVE A SUCCESS ON ARMY FORCES SELDOM HEARD OF IN THE NEWS OF ORDINARY BATTLE.

ONE WAS A NEGRO SMOKE GENERATING UNIT UNDER NEGRO CAPT. AUGUSTUS SHAW, FORMER EL CENTRO, CALIF., ATHLETIC COACH WHO LIVES AT PASADENA, CALIF. "WE MADE SO MUCH SMOKE THEY MADE US TURN IT OFF," HE GRINNED.

WITH HIM WAS T/4 JOHN DUVALL, 1117 21ST ST., WASHINGTON, D.C.

THE RIVER CROSSING PUT A HEAVY STRAIN ON TELEPHONE AND RADIO COMMUNICATIONS, AS IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET ARTILLERY OVER EARLY IN THE FIGHT AND INFANTRY HAD TO BE SUPPORTED BY GUNS ON THE WEST BANK.

"IT WAS ROUGH GOING BUT WE CAME OUT PRETTY WELL," SAID LT. DONALD BURBAS, INTERNATIONAL FALLS, MINN., COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER, POINTING OUT THAT MORTARS SHOT OUT THE LINES ALMOST AS FAST AS

30.941-23333

LINEMEN COULD PUT THEM UP.
"IT WAS OUR TOUGHEST SHOW," SAID CPL.FRANCIS COSTILOW, 240 EXCHANGE ST., AKRON, OHIO. "WE WERE WORKING ON ONE LINE WHEN A BIG ROCKET CAME IN RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF US, KILLED ONE MAN AND HURT SOME OTHERS."
IN A CELLAR ALONG THE RIVER GETTING A FEW HOURS SLEEP WERE CPL. MAURICE F.SINGER, 2817 COLD SPRING LANE, BALTIMORE, MD., AND PVT. HERMAN PUMERANTZ, NEW LONDON CONN.
ONE OF THE SMOOTHEST OPERATIONS WAS PULLED OFF BY A FORCE SOUTH OF THE 29TH DIVISION IN CAPTURING HAMBACH AND NIEDERZIER.

B27
LT.COL.JASPER WILSON, SIKESTON, MO., OPERATIONS OFFICER, SAID: "THEY DID IT PERFECTLY. HAMBACH WAS TAKEN WITH ONLY SEVEN CASUALTIES AND NIEDERZIER WITHOUT ANY.
"IT WAS A NIGHT ATTACK IN WHICH NOT A SINGLE VEHICLE WAS USED, JUST INFANTRY AND ARTILLERY. THE ARTILLERY BUTTONED UP THE TOWN WITH SHELLING WHILE INFANTRY SPRINTED ACROSS OPEN GROUND. THEN THE FIRE LIFTED AS THE FIRST MAN ENTERED AND THE GERMANS WERE CAUGHT IN CELLARS."
THERE WERE FEW GERMAN PLANES OVER THE FRONT TODAY, BUT FLAK GUNS UNDER SGT.CLIFTON TENANT, HAMPTON, S.C., SHOT DOWN ONE ME-109, "PILOT AND ALL." OVER JUELICH.
GERMAN PRISONERS TAKEN TODAY SAID A TERRIFIC BARRAGE, ONE OF THE BIGGEST THAT THE AMERICANS AD LAID DOWN IN THE WAR, KNOCKED OUT THEIR COMMUNICATIONS AND EVEN THEIR RADIOS AND MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THEIR RUNNERS TO OPERATE, ACCOUNTING FOR THE CONFUSION AND LACK OF ARTILLERY FIRE IN THE EARLY HOURS.
MAJOR HARRY G.SANDERS, OF 941 HARRISON ST., MONTERREY, CAL., ONE OF THE FIGHTER BOMBER PILOTS OF THE 29TH TACTICAL COMMAND PARTICIPATING IN THE OPERATIONS, SAID:
"WE WERE CALLED UPON TO PROECT THE BRIDGE ACRO

FEB 25 1945

"WE WERE CALLED UPON TO PROTECT THE BRIDGE ARO

"WE WERE CALLED UPON TO PROTECT THE BRIDGE ACROSS THE ROER. WE JUST FLEW UP AND DOWN THE RIVER LOOKING FOR ENEMY AIRCRAFT AND WATCHING THE WAR FROM A GRANDSTAND SEAT."
"WE WERE OVER THE TARGET AREA WHEN ENEMY AIRCRAFT WERE REPORTED IN THE VICINITY BETWEEN JUELICH AND LINNICH," SAID MAJ.ROBERT BLACKBURN OF 1056 63RD ST., DES MOINES, IOWA. "WE EASED OVER BUT DID NOT FIND THEM. IT WAS INTERESTING TO WATCH GERMAN ARTILLERY ON ONE SIDE AND AMERICAN ON THE OTHER. WE FLEW ABOUT 40 MILES NORTH TO JUELICH AND BOMBED THE TOWN."
CAPT.FRANK M.THOMAS OF TALLULAH, LA., WHO ATTACKED MERSCH, SAID:
"WE HAD TO LEVEL BOMB AT 1,500 FEET. WE WERE TOLD THERE WERE TANKS IN THE TOWN AND WE LAID A PATTERN OVER THEM. THE TOWN WAS REALLY LEVELED."
MAJ.H.W.SHELTON, OF HELENA, ARK., WHO LED AN ATTACK TO DESTROY A FACTORY AT VIERSEN, EIGHT MILES WEST OF MUNCHEN-GLADBACH, SAID:
"THE FACTORY SPREAD IN ALL DIRECTIONS."
"WE DIVE BOMBED A RAILROAD JUST OUTSIDE OF NEUSS AND DISHED OUT LOTS OF DAMAGE," SAID CAPT.JOHN E.HALL, OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., "THE FLAK WASN'T TOO BAD."
CAPT.N.C.BLOOM, OF TROY, PA., REPORTED: "THE ENTIRE NORTHWEST HALF OF THE TOWN OF MUNCHEN-GLADBACH WAS IN FLAMES. I COULD SEE FLAMES THAT WERE UNCONTROLLED."
"A BIG ARTILLERY BATTLE WAS GOING ON BENEATH US," SAID 1ST LT. JOHN J.REYNOLDS OF 533 BEACHWOOD AVE., COLLINGDALE, PA. "WE WERE DOWN ABOUT 500 FEET AND COULD BARELY SEE THE GROUND BECAUSE OF THE HEAVY SMOKE."
CAPT.WILLIAM B.COBB OF LAKEWOOD, OHIO, WHO BOMBED AMELN, 15 MILES NORTHWEST OF COLOGNE, SAID "THERE WERE SUPPOSED TO BE HEAVY GUNS IN THE TOWN SO THE VILLAGE REALLY TOOK A BEATING."
1ST.LT.OSCAR E.THEIS, OF THORDALE, TEXAS, WHO LED THUNDERBOLT DIVE BOMBING ON CRANTERATH, REPORTED: "MY EIGHT THUNDERBOLTS DESTROYED AT LEAST 20 BUILDINGS IN THE TOWN. THERE WAS SMOKE AND HAZE BELOW US--DOUGHBOYS WERE IN BALL A COUPLE OF MILES AWAY."
CAPT.RALPH W.YOTHERS, OF PITCAIRN, PA., WHO DIVE BOMBED ERKLENZ, SAID: "THERE WERE FIRES BURNING ALL OVER THE PLACE FROM BAAL ALL THE WAY TO MUNCHEN-GLADBACH."

FEB 25 1945

B42
CAPT. FRANCIS M.NORR, OF TREMENTON, UTAH, SAID: "AFTER ALL THE PLASTERING THE BOYS GAVE AMELN TODAY, I DON'T THINK THE GROUND FORCES WILL HAVE MUCH TROUBLE THERE."
"A GROUND HAZE COVERED THE PATTERN AND WE BOMBED THROUGH IT," SAID 2ND LT.WILLIAM P.MULLINS OF SWEETWATER, TEXAS. "ALL OUR BOMBS HIT THE TOWN."
CAPT.DEAN E.MESS, OF LOWELL, OHIO, REPORTED: "WE DIVE-BOMBED WETSCH-WELL THROUGH AN OVERCAST THIS MORNING. THE WEATHER WAS AGAINST US BUT THE MORE BOMBS WE GOT ON THOSE STRNGPOINTS THE EASIER IT IS FOR THE FOOT SOLDIERS."

MOMENT." Add Paris Eisenhower (Kennedy) xxx moment."
GERMAN STRENGTH AND MORALE IS LOWER THAN EVER BEFORE, THE GENERAL SAID, BUT DESPITE THIS THE GERMANS ARE RESISTING FANATICALLY, THROWING BOYS, OLD MEN AND CRIPPLES INTO THE BATTLE. THEY CAN BE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE THE FIGHT IN MOUNTAIN AREAS AFTER ORGANIZED FIGHTING IS ENDED, AND TO PERSIST IN UNDERGROUND BATTLES EVEN AFTER MOUNTAIN BANDS ARE CRUSHED, HE SAID.
HE SAID THAT THE WRESTING OF SILESIA, THE RUHR AND THE SAAR FROM THE ENEMY WOULD DEPRIVE THE GERMANS OF THE MEANS TO CARRY ON ORGANIZED MODERN WAR, BUT AFTER THAT THEY MIGHT STILL OBTAIN SMALL ARMS.
IN RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS FROM A FRENCH CORRESPONDENT ON WHETHER HE FAVORED THE FRENCH ARMY'S PARTICIPATION IN THE BATTLE OF GERMANY AND IN THE OCCUPATION OF THAT COUNTRY THE GENERAL SAID "I WANT MORE FRENCH DIVISIONS IN THE BATTLE AND THE FARTHER THEY GO INTO GERMANY THE BETTER I WILL BE PLEASED."
THE GENERAL ADDED HE HAD ALWAYS FAVORED ARMING FRANCE AND HAD HELD OUT FOR IT IN THE FACE OF DISAPPOINTMENTS AND SOMETIMES AT THE COST OF "ROBBING" AMERICAN DIVISIONS.
HE EXPRESSED HIS ADMIRATION FOR THE FRENCH NATION AS A WHOLE, WHICH HE SAID WAS FIGHTING LOYALLY WITH THE ALLIES THOUGH ITS PEOPLE WERE NOT GETTING MUCH TO EAT. HE SAID THE SUFFERING IN FRANCE WAS SUCH THAT HE MARVELLED THAT THERE HAD NOT BEEN MORE CRITICISM OF THE ALLIES OVER THE FOOD SITUATION.
THE GENERAL SAID THAT, WHILE THERE UNDOUBTEDLY WAS DISSATISFACTION IN GERMANY, NO COUNTER-NAZI MOVEMENT SEEMED TO BE MAKING HEADWAY AND THAT OPPOSITION TO THE NAZI REGIME WAS APPARENTLY WITHOUT LEADERS OR ORGANIZATION.
ON THE CONTRARY, HE SAID, THE NAZIS ARE LEAVING UNDERGROUND ORGANIZATIONS BEHIND IN TERRITORY THEY ARE YIELDING. HE ADDED THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD ADVISED HIM, AS A RESULT OF THEIR OWN EXPERIENCES, TO CLEAN UP ALL OCCUPIED TERRITORY THOROUGHLY, REMOVING NAZI REMNANTS WHICH COULD PROVE DANGEROUS.
"IF THE GERMAN CONTINUES TO SHOW THE SPIRIT HE HAS NOW THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY HE CAN BE BEATEN--THE ALLIED ARMIES MUST MEET THE RUSSIAN ARMIES IN THE CENTER OF GERMANY," HE SAID.

AIR ATTACKS HAVE, HOWEVER, HAD A DISASTROUS EFFECT ON GERMAN COMMUNICATIONS, HE SAID, COMMENTING:
"I CAN CONCEIVE OF NO WORSE HEADACHE THAN THE GERMANS ARE NOW HAVING WITH THEIR COMMUNICATIONS AT A TIME WHEN THEIR FORCES ARE STRETCHED AND THEY HAVE SUCH URGENT NEED TO MOVE THE TROOPS."

A212

DISCUSSING HIS DECISION TO PLACE THE NINTH U.S. ARMY UNDER MONTGOMERY'S 21ST ARMY GROUP THE GENERAL SAID: "I WANT TO BRING UP THIS POINT, A QUESTION OF COMMAND. YOU SHOULD KNOW HOW THE HIGH COMMAND LOOKS UPON THESE DIFFERENT ARRANGEMENTS MADE FROM TIME TO TIME FOR THE CONTROL OF ARMIES, CORPS AND DIVISIONS IN THE FIELD. WE ARE OPERATING AS YOU KNOW WITH ALLIES, AND THESE TROOPS OF DIFFERENT NATIONALITIES GENERALLY ARE FIXED IN POSITION AND MOST ASSUREDLY AN ARMY IS SUCH A LARGE FORMATION THAT YOU DON'T HUSTLE IT AROUND LIKE YOU DO A SQUAD. WHEN A PLAN IS PUT INTO OPERATION THE ARMIES ARE GIVEN THEIR GENERAL MISSIONS, THEIR GENERAL AREAS IN WHICH TO OPERATE, AND THEY MUST BE SUPPLIED AND ADMINISTERED AND ALWAYS COMMANDED FROM AN ADMINISTRATIVE STANDPOINT BY COMMANDERS OF THEIR OWN NATIONALITY.
"THEREFORE, WHEN WE TALK ABOUT ONE ARMY PASSING TO THE COMMAND OF THIS OFFICER OR THAT OFFICER WE MEAN THAT AN ARMY, IN CARRYING OUT ITS MISSION, WILL BE COORDINATED ON THESE FLANKS WHERE COORDINATION IS NECESSARY BY A PARTICULAR OFFICER. WE CALL THAT OPERATIONAL COMMAND. NOW, IN THE OPERATION THAT STARTED YESTERDAY MORNING I PLACED THE NINTH ARMY UNDER FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S OPERATIONAL COMMAND."
THE GENERAL SAID VON RUNDSTEDT'S BREAK-THROUGH LAST DECEMBER COST THE GERMANS HEAVILY--TWO AND A HALF TO ONE AGAINST ALLIED LOSSES IN PERSONNEL AND TWO TO ONE IN MATERIAL--BUT HE DECLINED TO EXPRESS AN OPINION AS TO WHETHER IT HAD PROLONGED THE WAR.
BUT FOR BAD WEATHER WHILE THE GERMANS WERE PULLING OUT HEAVIER LOSSES MIGHT HAVE CRIPPLED THE GERMANS ON THE WESTERN FRONT. THE OFFENSIVE WAS A DESPERATE GERMAN GAMBLE, HE ADDED.
THE ALLIED COMMAND HAD REALIZED THAT THE GERMANS MIGHT PUT ON SUCH AN OFFENSIVE AND HAD KNOWN THE ARDENNES WAS THE ONLY PLACE WHERE THEY COULD LAUNCH IT, HE SAID. THIS WAS THE AREA WHERE THE ALLIES COULD BE HURT LEAST AND CONSEQUENTLY THE FRONT THERE WAS LIGHTLY HELD, HE SAID.
HE REMARKED JOCULARLY THAT HE WAS NOT FRIGHTENED BY THE GERMAN ATTACK UNTIL TWO OR THREE WEEKS LATER WHEN HE READ NEWSPAPERS FROM AMERICA.

FEB 25 1945

A213

THE GENERAL SAID THERE WERE SATISFCTORY ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE RUSSIANS FOR THE RETURN HOME OF ALLIED WAR PRISONERS LIBERATED BY RUSSIAN ARMIES.
OTHERS HAVE BEEN THRUST INTO VARIOUS CORNERS OF GERMANY, HE SAID, AND THE SWISS RED CROSS AUTHORITIES ARE DOING A SPLENDID JOB IN THEIR BEHALF. HE SAID FOOD AND OTHER RELIEF WOULD BE SENT INTO GERMANY FOR ALLIED WAR PRISONERS AS LONG AS THERE WAS ANY CHANCE OF IT REACHING THEM, AND THAT ALL ALLIED PRISONERS WOULD BE TREATED ON AN EQUAL BASIS.

BIRKESDORF, GERMANY, FEB 24-(AP)"THE FIGHTING 45", A GROUP OF MEN LED BY A HELL-FOR-LEATHER YOUNG MAN FROM TEXAS, WERE AMONG THE HEROES OF THE U.S. FIRST ARMY'S DRIVE ACROSS THE ROER RIVER.
FOR 15 BLURRED HOURS THEY BATTLED THROUGH AN AREA WHICH WAS SUPPOSED TO BE THE BATTLEGROUND FOR 200 DOUGHBOYS. THEY WENT INTO THIS SHELL-SMASHED CITY SHOOTING TOMMYGUNS FROM THEIR HIPS AND THEY ROUTED THE GERMANS IN AN ALL-DAY FIGHT.
LT.ERNEST ANDREWRATHA OF TEXAS STARTED ACROSS THE SWOLLEN RIVER AT 3:30 A.M., YESTERDAY WITH A FULL COMPANY WHICH HAD BEEN HIDING IN THE MOONLIGHT FOR HOURS WAITING FOR THE ATTACK.
SWIFTLY HIS MEN LAUNCHED ASSAULT BOATS. SEVERAL BOATS WERE LOT EITHER BY DIRECT MORTAR HITS OR FROM BEING SWAMPED IN THE SWIFT CURRENT OF THE STREAM. TWO OF THEM PLUNGED OVER A SMALL DAM AND SANK.
"NOBODY KNOWS YET HOW MANY OF THOSE MEN WERE LOST," SAID LT.COL. CHARLES FERNALD OF 1875 1/2 WEST 25TH ST., LOS ANGELES, CALIF., WHO COMMANDED TROOPS IN THIS SECTOR. "MANY OF THEM MAY TURN UP WITH OTHER UNITS."
BUT WHEN ANDREWRATHA REACHED THE EASTERN ENEMY-HELD BANK HE HAD ONLY 21 INFANTRYMEN AND 23 MACHINEGUNNERS WITH HIM. THE MACHINE-GUNNERS HAD LOST THEIR HEAVIER WEAPONS BUT THEY STILL HAD THEIR TOMMYGUNS AND LIGHT MACHINEGUNS.
THE TEXAS KNEW THERE WAS ONLY ONE THING TO DO AND THAT WAS TO ATTACK. SO THESE 45 DOUGHBOYS WENT INTO BATTLE.
THE GERMANS WERE HOLED UP IN A FACTORY NEAR THE RIVER BANK AND ANDREWRATHA AND HIS MEN WENT IN AFTER THEM AS THE MOONLIGHT FILTERED THROUGH THE WINDOWS. WHEN THE FIGHTING WAS OVER THERE WERE 18 GERMAN PRISONERS. THE OTHERS WERE DEAD.
THEN ANDREWRATHA AND HIS MEN BEGAN CLEANING OUT ADJOINING STRONGPOINTS. BEFORE THEY HAD FINISHED THEIR WORK THAT DAY THEY HAD CLEARED SEVEN FULL BLOCKS AND WERE STILL GOING STRONG WHEN OTHER TROOPS FROM THEIR COMPANY ARRIVED TO GIVE THEM SUPPORT.

WITH THE NINTH ARMY, FEB 24-(AP)-A AMERICAN MEDIC FROM THE BRONX AND A GERMAN FIRST AID MAN TODAY CARED FOR THEIR WOUNDED IN THE SAME BASEMENT AT RURICH WHILE A CORPORAL FROM TAXAS PLAYED A PIANO IN A SHELLED-RUINED PARLOR UPSTAIRS.

THE GERMANS HAD BEEN USING A BEAUTIFUL OLD CHATEAU AS A HOSPITAL. WHEN AMERICAN TROOPS CAPTURED RURICH YESTERDAY, CAPT. MILTON HAUT OF LAKEWOOD, N.J., MOVED HIS FIRST AID STATION INTO THE SAME BASEMENT AND TOLD THE GERMAN DOCTOR IN CHARGE THAT HE COULD REMAIN THERE UNTIL THE TIDE OF BATTLE HAD MOVED FARTHER NORTH WHEN HIS STAFF AND PATIENTS WOULD BE EVACUATED TO THE REAR.

HAUT AND HIS MEN, WERE OPERATING SO CLOSE BEHIND THE ASSAULT TROOPS, THAT ARTILLERY SHELLS STILL WERE BURSTING OUTSIDE AND HITTING THE WALLS OF THE CHATEAU WHICH BY TONIGHT WAS IN SHAMBLES.

THE ONLY THING THAT REMAINED UNTOUCHED WAS A BEAUTIFUL GRAND PIANO. THIS AFTERNOON, WHILE ON HIS WAY TO THE FRONT, CORP. DLN GAYER, OF EDINBURG, TEXAS, DROPPED IN THE PLAYED THE "MOONLIGHT CONCERTO."

THE MEDICS PLANNED TO MOVE OFF FOR BAAL LATE TODAY AND SEND THE GERMAN FIRST AID MEN BACK TO PRISONER OF WAR CAGES.

BY TOM YARBROUGH

ON THE ROER RIVER WITH THE U.S.EIGHTH INFANTRY,FEB.24-(AP)-THIS DIVISION'S COMBAT ENGINEERS PAID AN ABNORMALLY HARD PRICE FOR THE CROSSING OF THE ROER RIVER.

THE SPEED OF THE STREAM'S CURRENT MADE THE OPERATION SO DIFFICULT THAT IT WAS THREATENED WITH DISASTER FOR MORE THAN 24 HOURS AND REMAINED A "TOUCH AND GO" PROPOSITION UNTIL TODAY. THE RIVER IS ABOUT 100 YARDS WIDE AT THIS POINT.

CASUALTIES WERE HIGH, BUT SOME OF THE MEN WEARING LIFEBELTS WHO WERE SWEPT DOWNSTREAM ARE EXPECTED TO RETURN.

THE COMBAT ENGINEERS HAD FULL RESPONSIBILITY FOR GETTING THE TROOPS ACROSS THE WATER AND THEIR EFFORTS TO SECURE A CABLE ON THE OPPOSITE BANK OF THE RIVER PROVED FRUITLESS THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT AS BOAT AFTER BOAT WAS SWAMPED OR HIT BY ENEMY SHELLFIRE.

THE EXPENDITURE OF EQUIPMENT WAS HEAVY, BUT "FOR A WHILE," SAID ONE OFFICER, "WE WERE SPENDING MEN FASTER THAN EQUIPMENT."

IN THIS SECTOR THERE WASN'T A SINGLE BRIDGE FOR HEAVY EQUIPMENT UNTIL THIS MORNING. THAT'S WHY IT WAS "TOUCH AND GO"--UNTIL MORE MEN AND MATERIEL COULD GET ACROSS AND SUPPORT THE DOUGHBOYS ALREADY SHOOTING THEIR WAY THROUGH DUEREN WITH RIFLES, MACHINEGUNS AND BAZOOKAS.

FOOTBRIDGES, CONSISTING OF SMALL PONTOONS FASTENED TO A CABLE STRUNG ACROSS THE RIVER, SNAPPED ONE AFTER ANOTHER IN THE SWIFT CURRENT AND THE INITIAL JOB OF BUILDING UP A BRIDGEHEAD OF MEN ON THE FAR BANK WAS DONE WITH FERRIES MADE BY LASHING TWO PONTOONS TOGETHER.

FOR 14 HOURS ALL ATTEMPTS TO SECURE A FOOTBRIDGE FAILED.

FIRST LT. LEONARD E. ATLAS, 134 SOUTH VICTORIA, ST. PAUL, MINN., SAID, "IT LOOKED BLACK AS HELL FOR A WHILE. IT WAS BRUTAL."

THESE COMBAT ENGINEERS ARE COMMANDED BY LT. COL. E.M.FRY, JR., OF OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA. IT IS TO THEIR EVERLASTING CREDIT THAT THEY NEVER GAVE UP. ANY FALTERING WOULD HAVE MEANT FORSAKING THOSE COMPARATIVELY FEW MEN WHO HAD REACHED THE OTHER SIDE--SOME OF WHOM SWAM THE LAST FEW YARDS WITHOUT THEIR RIFLES. THE GERMANS HAD THEM ENGAGED ACROSS THE RIVER AND THEY HAD NO ADEQUATE MEANS OF GETTING AMMUNITION AND FOOD. NEITHER COULD THEY GET THEIR WOUNDED BACK.

FEB 25 1945

FRY'S EXECUTIVE OFFICER, MAJ. FRANK W. LLOYD, BIRMINGHAM, ALA., WAS KEPT SO BUSY AT BATTALION HEADQUARTERS THAT HE WIRED DOWN THE LISTENING SWITCH ON HIS TELEPHONE.

ONE ENGINEER GOT BACK TO HEADQUARTERS TODAY AFTER SPENDING (CENSORED) DAYS ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER UNDER THE VERY NOSES OF THE GERMANS. HE IS SGT. MICHAEL A.CAMILLO OF LINWOOD, PA. HE WENT ACROSS AT NIGHT AND GOT STRANDED WHEN THE GERMANS SHOT UP HIS BOAT. HE LAYED LOW FOR (CENSORED) DAYS UNTIL THE AMERICANS MADE THEIR BIG CROSSING.

CAMILLO, A 26-YEAR-OLD FORMER BOILERMAKER, WAS SO GLAD TO GET BACK THAT HE MADE HIS EXPERIENCE SOUND ALMOST FUNNY.

"ALL I DID WAS MISS THE BOAT," HE SAID, ROUSING HIMSELF FROM HIS FIRST PEACEFUL NAP IN SEVERAL DAYS.

THEN HE TOLD HOW HE STAYED IN THE SAME HOUSE WITH SOME GERMAN SOLDIERS, SHUTTLING FROM ROOM TO ROOM IN ORDER TO FIND ONE WHERE THEY WEREN'T. HE SAID HE LIVED ON NOTHING BUT BEET JUICE "AND FINALLY KEPT THE GERMANS AWAY BY PAINTING AND ERECTING A SIGN SAYING 'ACHTUNG! MINEN! (ATTENTION! MINES!)'."

HE HAD GONE ACROSS IN A BOAT WITH SEVERAL OTHERS ON NIGHT PATROL.

"WE LANDED IN A GERMAN MACHINEGUN NEST. I HEARD THEM COCK THE GUN AND SHOVED THE BOAT BACK INTO THE STREAM BEFORE MY BUDDIES GOT OUT.

"MY SHOULDERS WERE TOO WIDE TO HIDE BEHIND A TREE AND THE GERMANS DRILLED HOLES DOWN BOTH SIDES OF MY JACKET, BUT I MADE IT TO THE HOUSE AND HID. FROM THEN ON, IT WAS A GAME OF HIDE AND SEEK."

HE KNEW THE AMERICANS WERE COMING EARLY FRIDAY WHEN AN ARTILLERY BARRAGE "TOOK THE HOUSE APART PIECE BY PIECE" AND EVENTUALLY, SOME DOUGHBOY FIGHTING HOUSE-TO-HOUSE KICKED ON THE DOOR.

"WE HAD A JAM SESSION," SAID CAMILLO, "ME HUGGING HIM AND HIM HUGGING ME."

TO THE NORTH, DOUGHBOYS CAPTURED OBERZIER, AND HALF OF NIEDERAU, THREE MILES SOUTH OF DUEREN, WAS CLEARED AGAINST STUBBORN BUT NOT HEAVY RESISTANCE.
MAJ. GEN. TERRY ALLEN'S TOUGH, DISCIPLINED 104TH "TIMBERWOLF" DIVISION AND THE EIGHTH INFANTRY DIVISION COMMANDED BY MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM WEAVER WERE THE TWO SPEARHEADING DIVISIONS WHICH MADE THE MOONLIGHT CROSSING OF THE COER YESTERDAY.
LATE TODAY HODGES TROOPS WERE METHODICALLY ATTACKING THE LAST STRONGPOINTS INSIDE DUEREN AND HAD A FIRM HOLD ON ALL OF THIS NORTHERN SUBURB OF THE CITY.
IN ARNOLDSWEILER, TWO MILES NORTH OF DUEREN, TROOPS UNDER LT. COL. FRED NEEDHAM, AUBURN, CALIF., BATTLED TO CLEAN OUT APPROXIMATELY 200 GERMANS HOLED UP IN STRONGPOINTS.
A TENSE SITUATION WAS EASED SWIFTLY AT DAWN TODAY WHEN DOUGHBOYS FOUGHT THEIR WAY ON TO A RIDGE JUST NORTH OF DUEREN FROM WHICH THE GERMANS HAD BEEN ABLE TO OBSERVE EVERY MOVE MADE BY ENGINEERS TRYING TO BRIDGE THE RIVER.
THE ENGINEERS TRIED VAINLY YESTERDAY TO PUT BRIDGES ACROSS AS SHELLS FELL AROUND THEM. TWICE DIRECT HITS KNOCKED OUT THE BRIDGES BEFORE THEY WERE COMPLETED. ENEMY OBSERVERS ON THE RIDGE WERE DIRECTING FIRE SQUARELY ON THE SPANS.
BUT ONCE THE RIDGETOP WAS CLEARED, THE ENEMY HAD TO SHOOT BLINDLY, AND THE ENGINEERS QUICKLY BRIDGED THE STREAM IN SEVERAL PLACES.
THAT WAS WHEN THE FIRST ARMY'S PUSH ACROSS THE ROER BEGAN TO GATHER MOMENTUM AND WIPED OUT ANY CHANCE THE GERMANS MIGHT HAVE HAD IN THOSE EARLY HOURS TO DRIVE THE WEDGE BACK INTO THE STREAM.
ONCE THE BRIDGES WERE IN, SUPPORTING WEAPONS QUICKLY FOLLOWED, GIVING THE INFANTRY THE SUPPORT OF THEIR FIREPOWER.
THE FLOOD SITUATION ON THE ROER APPEARED BRIGHTER TODAY WITH AN OFFICIAL REPORT THAT ALL THE WATER HAD DRAINED FROM SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM, AND ONLY A PUDDLE REMAINS IN THE BASIN.
TONIGHT FRESH TROOPS AND EQUIPMENT POURED ONTO BRIDGEHEADS ACROSS BRIDGES WHICH WERE BUILT WITH COURAGE AND PAID FOR BY THE BLOOD OF MEN WHO DIED ON THE JOB.
FEB 25 1945
THERE WAS ONE GROUP UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MAJOR RAY WATERS OF RICHFIELD, UTAH, AND UNITS DIRECTED BY LT.ALLEN DEAN OF PHILLIPS, TEXAS, CAPT.FRANK SCHIELE, STATEN ISLAND, N.Y., AND CAPT. MAX EISNER OF PITTSFIELD, MASS. THE WORK THEIR MEN DID WAS MAGNIFICENT.
PUTTING IN BRIDGES IS ONE OF THE MOST DANGEROUS TASKS IN ALL CROSSING OPERATIONS. AS ONE BRIDGE WAS BEING PUT UP EARLY YESTERDAY A SHELL LANDED SQUARELY ON THE SPAN, KILLING TWO MEN AND WOUNDING 18 OTHERS. TEN MEN ARE MISSING. THAT IS AN EXAMPLE OF THE COST OF BUILDING BRIDGES OVER WHICH THE POWER OF THE FIRST ARMY IS FLOWING EASTWARD TONIGHT.
STORIES WERE MOUNTING TODAY OF THE EXPLOITS OF DOUGHBOYS FIGHTING ACROSS THE RIVER WITH ARMOR AND SUPPORTING WEAPONS DENIED THEM BY THE LACK OF BRIDGES.
LT.PAUL ZIMMERMAN OF SONOMA, CAL., NEVER LED A UNIT INTO COMBAT BEFORE BUT HE TOOK OVER COMMAND TWO DAYS BEFORE THE ATTACK AND HIS MEN WERE IN THE THICK OF THE FIGHT.
"ZIMMERMAN AND HIS MEN CLEANED UP EVERYTHING IN THEIR AREA AND DID A WONDERFUL JOB," SAID LT.COL.CHARLES FERNALD.
GAINS WERE MADE AGAINST AN ENEMY FIGHTING HARD FROM PREPARED POSITIONS.
"THERE WERE NO SIGNS THAT THE GERMANS INTEND TO QUIT," SAID FERNALD. "THEY FOUGHT HARD AS INDIVIDUALS AND HAD TO BE DUG OUT OF HIDING PLACES WITH GRENADES AND BAZOOKAS."
FERNALD SAID REPLACEMENTS WHO HAD GONE THROUGH COMBAT TRAINING NEAR THE FRONT BEFORE GOING INTO ACTION HAD TURNED OUT WELL.
"USUALLY MEN WHO SHAGGED THROUGH REPLACEMENT DEPOTS DON'T KNOW WHAT THEY ARE DOING WHEN THEY GET INTO COMBAT, BUT THESE NEW MEN CAME THROUGH IN GREAT STYLE," HE ADDED.
ONE STRATEGIC POINT IN DUEREN--AN INSANE ASYLUM WHICH THE GERMANS USED AS AN OBSERVATION POINT AND COMMAND POINT--WAS CAPTURED BY TROOPS UNDER LT.COL.WILLIAM SUMMERS OF (3630 SOUTH YORKTOWN) TULSA, OKLAHOMA.
AS THE DOUGHBOYS CLOSED IN ON THE ASYLUM, GERMANS TRIED TO ESCAPE BY RUNNING ACROSS THE FIELD. BUT DOUGHBOYS WITH AUTOMATIC RIFLES MOWED TEN OF THEM DOWN AS THEY RAN.
CAPT.HAYDEN BOWER OF HOLLYWOOD, CAL., LED TROOPS IN ONE OF THE TOUGHEST FIGHTS OF THE CROSSING. THEIR OBJECTIVE WAS A PAPER FACTORY AND APARTMENT HOUSE STRONGLY DEFENDED BY THE GERMANS. THE FACTORY HAD A CONCRETE PILLBOX ON THE SIXTH FLOOR WHICH THE ENEMY WAS USING AS A STRONGPOINT AND OBSERVATION POINT OVERLOOKING THE ENTIRE RIVER CROSSING AREA.
"THEY COULD SEE EVERYTHING WE WERE DOING AND ALL OUR GUNS ON THE OTHER SIDE," SUMMERS SAID.
BOWER AND HIS MEN CLEANED OUT BOTH THE FACTORY AND THE APARTMENT HOUSE AND CAPTURED THE GERMANS IN THE PILLBOX.

FIRST LEAD EISENHOWER
BY EDWARD KENNEDY

PARIS, FEB. 24-(AP)-GEN. EISENHOWER TODAY DECLARED THE GERMANS MIGHT FIGHT ON---EVEN WITH SMALL ARMS AFTER THEIR WAR PLANTS ARE LOST--UNTIL THE WESTERN ALLIES AND RUSSIANS MEET "IN THE CENTER OF GERMANY."
THE NEW ALLIED OFFENSIVE IS AIMED AT REACHING THE RHINE AND DESTROYING ALL GERMANS BEFORE THAT RIVER, HE SAID, AND IT IS PROGRESSING SATISFACTORILY.
BUT THE ALLIED SUPREME COMMANDER MADE IT CLEAR HE HAD NO HOPE OF ANY IMMINENT GERMAN COLLAPSE, DECLARING:
"IF THE GERMAN CONTINUES TO SHOW THE SPIRIT HE HAS NOW, THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY HE CAN BE BEATEN---THE ALLIED ARMIES MUST MEET THE RUSSIAN ARMIES IN THE CENTER OF GERMANY."

A170
THE ENEMY'S LOSS OF SILESIA, THE RUHR AND THE SAAR WOULD DEPRIVE IT OF MEANS TO CARRY ON ORGANIZED MODERN WAR, EISENHOWER ADDED, BUT EVEN THEN THE GERMANS MIGHT STILL OBTAIN SMALL ARMS.
"I EXPECT TO DESTROY EVERY GERMAN WEST OF THE RHINE AND IN THE AREA IN WHICH WE ARE ATTACKING," HE TOLD CORRESPONDENTS.
"THERE IS GOING TO BE NO CESSATION OF AGGRESSIVE ACTION ANYWHERE ON THE WESTERN FRONT."
"GIVEN A CONTINUATION OF CONDITIONS AS WE SEE THEM NOW--A REASONABLE BREAK IN THE WEATHER--AND I AM NOT ASKING FOR JULY KANSAS WEATHER--THE ATTACKS WE ARE SEEING NOW SHOULD MARK THE BEGINNING OF THE DESTRUCTION OF GERMAN FORCES WEST OF THE RHINE."
ANSWERING A QUESTION ON COORDINATION OF THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS, THE ALLIED SUPREME COMMANDER DECLARED "OUR LIAISON ALWAYS HAS BEEN AS CLOSE AND INTIMATE AS WAS NECESSARY TO MEET THE SITUATION AT ANY PARTICULAR MOMENT.
"THE RUSSIANS HAVE ALWAYS FURNISHED ME ALL THE INFORMATION I NEEDED TO HAVE, AND HAVE DONE IT WILLINGLY AND CHEERFULLY," HE ADDED.
EISENHOWER DECLARED PROGRESS OF THE NEW AMERICAN FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES OFFENSIVE WAS "CERTAINLY SATISFACTORY," AND THAT HE DID NOT EXPECT U.S. CASUALTIES TO BE AS HIGH AS IN THE LATE FALL AND WINTER BATTLES ON THE SAME FRONT.

EISENHOWER DECLARED:

"IF THE GERMANS CONTINUE TO SHOW THEIR PRESENT SPIRIT AND DETERMINATION THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY THEY CAN BE DESTROYED: THAT IS WHEN THE ALLIED ARMIES MEET THE RUSSIAN ARMY IN THE CENTER OF GERMANY."

LT.-GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON'S U.S. NINTH ARMY IS UNDER COMMAND OF FIELD MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY FOR THE PRESENT FOR REASONS OF

FEB 25 1945

PURELY OPERATIONAL COORDINATION, HE ADDED.

WD1239PEW

"I WANT TO BRING UP THIS POINT, A QUESTION OF COMMAND," HE SAID. "YOU SHOULD KNOW HOW THE HIGH COMMAND LOOKS UPON THESE DIFFERENT ARRANGEMENTS MADE FROM TIME TO TIME FOR THE CONTROL OF ARMIES, CORPS AND DIVISIONS IN THE FIELD. WE ARE OPERATING, AS YOU KNOW, WITH ALLIES, AND THESE TROOPS OF DIFFERENT NATIONALITIES GENERALLY ARE FIXED IN POSITION AND MOST ASSUREDLY AN ARMY IS SUCH A LARGE FORMATION THAT YOU DON'T HUSTLE IT AROUND LIKE YOU DO A SQUAD. WHEN A PLAN IS PUT INTO OPERATION, ARMIES ARE GIVEN THEIR GENERAL MISSION AND THEIR GENERAL AREAS IN WHICH TO OPERATE AND THEY MUST BE SUPPLIED AND ADMINISTERED AND ALWAYS COMMANDED FROM AN ADMINISTRATIVE STANDPOINT BY A COMMANDER OF THEIR OWN NATIONALITY.

"THEREFORE WHEN WE TALK ABOUT ONE ARMY PASSING TO THE COMMAND OF THIS OFFICER OR THAT WE MEAN THAT AN ARMY, IN CARRYING OUT ITS MISSION, WILL BE COORDINATED ON THESE FLANKS WHERE COORDINATION IS NECESSARY BY A PARTICULAR OFFICER. WE CALL THAT OPERATIONAL COMMAND. NOW IN THE OPERATION THAT STARTED YESTERDAY MORNING I PLACED THE NINTH ARMY UNDER FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S OPERATIONAL COMMAND."

EISENHOWER SAID THAT WHILE THERE UNDOUBTEDLY WAS DISSATISFACTION IN GERMANY, NO COUNTER-NAZI MOVEMENT APPEARED TO BE MAKING HEADWAY.

ON THE CONTRARY, THE NAZIS ARE LEAVING AN UNDERGROUND ORGANIZATION BEHIND IN LOST TERRITORY, EISENHOWER CONTINUED, AND THE RUSSIANS HAVE ADVISED HIM FROM THEIR OWN EXPERIENCES TO CLEAN UP ALL OCCUPIED AREAS THOROUGHLY OF NAZI REMNANTS.

HE TERMED GERMAN STRENGTH AND MORALE LOWER THAN EVER. BUT THE GERMANS CAN BE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE TO FIGHT IN THE MOUNTAINS AFTER ORGANIZED WAR IS ENDED AND TO PERSIST IN UNDERGROUND BATTLE EVEN AFTER MOUNTAIN BANDS ARE CRUSHED, HE WARNED.

WHEN A FRENCH CORRESPONDENT ASKED IF HE FAVORED THE FRENCH ARMY'S PARTICIPATION IN THE BATTLE FOR AND OCCUPATION OF GERMANY, EISENHOWER REPLIED: "I WANT MORE FRENCH DIVISIONS IN BATTLE, AND THE FARTHER INTO GERMANY THEY GO THE BETTER I'LL BE PLEASED."

LONDON, FEB 24-(AP)-AN UNBROKEN STREAM OF RUSSIAN TROOPS, ARMOR AND SUPPLIES FOR MARSHAL G.K.ZHUKOV'S ODER RIVER FRONT TODAY FLOWED THROUGH CAPTURED POZNAN -- WHERE THE RED ARMY KILLED AND CAPTURED 48,000 GERMANS IN THE SIEGE THAT OPENED UP THE MAIN ROUTE BETWEEN MOSCOW AND BERLIN.

THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY COMMUNICATIONS WITH THE REAR WERE SHORTENED BY SOME 50 MILES, ELIMINATING THE TORTUOUS STRETCH OF SECONDARY ROADS FORMERLY RELIED ON.

MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV, MEANWHILE, ASSAULTED IN FORCE THE GERMAN'S

NEISSE AND SPREE RIVER LINES -- SOME EIGHT TO 12 MILES DEEP IN TRENCHES AND ANTI-TANK DITCHES.

SOVIET DISPATCHES HAVE NOT PUT KONEV FAR BEYOND THE NEISSE, BUT IT SEEMS HE MIGHT BE HOLDING SEVERAL SALIENTS WELL ON THE BERLIN SIDE.

A LARGE SCALE TANK BATTLE RAGED IN THE GREAT NO-MAN'S LAND REGION OF GOERLITZ.

FARTHER NORTH OF THIS SECTOR, KONEV'S TANKS AND TOMMYGUNNERS SURGED INTO THE STREETS OF GUBEN AND FORST AGAINST A NAZI GARRISON MADE UP OF SEASONED VETERANS AND VOLKSTURMERS. BOTH THE CITIES SEEMED IN IMMEDIATE DANGER OF BEING CUT OFF FROM COMMUNICATIONS.

THE INDICATIONS WERE THAT KONEV MIGHT SWEEP AROUND BOTH FORTRESS TOWNS LEAVING THEM TO THE FATE OF POZNAN, BRESLAU, BUDAPEST AND SO MANY OTHERS. BOTH CITIES WERE IN IMMEDIATE DANGER OF BEING CUT OFF.

SOUTHEAST OF BRESLAU KONEV'S MOTORIZED INFANTRY ROLLED THE GERMANS BACK IN THE DIRECTION OF HIRSCHBERG, IN THE KATZBACH MOUNTAINS ON THE ROAD TO PRAGUE.

IN BRESLAU, ITSELF, THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED THE RADIO STATION, A BIG FACTORY AND MOVED INTO THE RESIDENTIAL SECTION FROM THE SOUTH UNDER HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE.

UP ON ZHUKOV'S RIGHT FLANK, THE RUSSIAN, AFTER CAPTURING ARNSWALDE, MOVED THE MAIN BODY OF BESIEGING FORCES TO CATCH UP WITH ADVANCE UNITS PUSHING NORTHWESTWARD TOWARD STETTIN, BALTIC PORT FOR BERLIN.

HE WROTE A STORY IN A FOXHOLE ON IWO ISLAND DURING A FLURRY OF MORTAR FIRE. THEN HE LEFT HIS GEAR IN THE HOLE WHILE HE AMBLED DOWN TO THE BEACH TO SEND IT OUT TO THE SHIP.

RETURNING AN HOUR LATER HE FOUND A JAPANESE MORTAR HAD SCORED A DIRECT HIT ON HIS FOXHOLE, SCATTERING HIS GEAR OVER HALF AN ACRE.

IWO JIMA, VOLCANO ISLANDS, FEB. 23(DELAYED)-(AP)-THIS SECTION OF THE LAVA SHORE OF IWO LOOKS MUCH DIFFERENT AND A WHOLE LOT BETTER THAN IT DID FIVE DAYS AGO WHEN AMERICAN MARINES CAME STORMING OFF THE OCEAN AND CHARGED INTO A SEETHING CATARACT OF JAPANESE FLAME AND STEEL.

MONDAY MORNING THE TANKS CROUCHED IN SHELL CRATERS AND FOXHOLES, ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE ENEMY EXPLOSIVES. THE BEACHES WERE LITTERED WITH BOATS LOADED WITH AMERICAN EQUIPMENT WHICH WERE HIT BEFORE THEY REACHED SHORE.

TODAY MARINES WERE WALKING UPRIGHT AND THE BEACHES WERE COVERED, NOT WITH WRECKAGE, BUT WITH HUGE PILES OF SUPPLIES WHICH WERE STEADILY BEING TRANSPORTED TO THE FRONT LINES.

THERE WERE STILL OCCASIONAL MORTAR FIRE. NOW AND THEN JAPANESE WOULD TOSS A SHELL AT AN UNLOADING VESSEL, BUT I OBSERVED NO HITS. PERIODICALLY A SHELL DROVE MARINES AND SEABEES INTO FOXHOLES, BUT MOSTLY THEY CARRIED OUT THEIR JOBS AS CASUALLY AS IF THEY WERE ON MANEUVERS.

EVERYWHERE THERE WAS EVIDENCE OF WAR'S HORRIBLE WASTAGE. AT INTERVALS ALONG THE BLEAK SHORES WERE HUGE PILES OF WRECKED OR ABANDONED YANK EQUIPMENT--WRECKED RIFLES AND CARBINES, STEEL HELMETS OFTEN PITIFULLY DENTED OR TORN WIDE OPEN BY SHELL FRAGMENTS, ABANDONED MESSKITS AND SHELTER HALVES.

WITH THE 5TH MARINE DIVISION,IWO JIMA,FEB.24-(AP)-THIS IS A BEACH OF BLACKNESS--OF BLACK TREACHEROUS SAND, BLACK SMOKE FROM BURSTING SHELLS AND ROARING FIRES AND BLACK EMBERS OF SHELL-BLASTED EQUIPMENT.

AND TODAY, FOUR DAYS AFTER I FIRST CLAMBERED ONTO IWO JIMA WITH ASSAULTING MARINES, THE MELEE OF WRECKAGE IS COMPLICATED BY TRAFFIC JAMS AS SUPPLIES ROLL ASHORE UNDER FIRE FROM ENEMY GUN EMPLACEMENTS ON THE NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN HIGHLANDS.

ON THE FIRST DAY AS WE RAN OUT OF LANDING CRAFT AND HIT THE SHORE THE BEACH SEEMED DESERTED EVEN THOUGH HUNDREDS OF MARINES HAD ALREADY LANDED. THE PARTY OF WHICH I WAS A MEMBER FRANKLY FELT ALONE AS WE RAN TOWARD THE FIRST TERRACE, OUR FEET SINKING INCHES DEEP INTO THE SAND AND SLIPPING BACKWARD EVERY STEP.

BUT THE MARINES WERE THERE WE LEARNED IN THE FIRST FEW YARDS. THEY WERE IN SHELLHOLES RIPPED BY TERRIFIC NAVAL BOMBARDMENT, IN HAND-SCOOPED DEPRESSIONS, IN GRITTY BLACK SAND WHICH LOOKS AND FEELS LIKE OVER-SIZE GUNPOWER.

ALL DROPPED INTO CONVENIENT HOLES FOR SHELTER FROM MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE ROARING ALONG THE ENTIRE BEACH.

THE FIRST ENEMY DEAD SOON WERE SEEN. A PILLBOX ON THE BEACH WAS BLAZING. OUR PATH LEAD NEARBY. TWO JAPANESE DEAD WERE IN FLAMES IGNITED BY A SHELL HIT. NOT FAR AWAY ANOTHER PILLBOX HAD BEEN HIT. ONE ENEMY SOLDIER LAY IN THE SAND ANOTHER JUST INSIDE THE PILLBOX--MAYBE THERE WERE OTHERS WITHIN, BUT THERE WAS NO TIME TO INVESTIGATE.

THERE WERE MARINES, TOO, MEN WHO HAD DIED ON THEBLACK SANDS OR BEEN WOUNDED WHILE CHARGING UP THE SLOPES.

HERE AND THERE A BUDDY HAD TAKEN TIME TO PLUNGE A RIFLE INTO THE SANDS TO MARK THESPOT A MAN HAD FALLEN. OTHERS LAY UNMARKED.

ON WE CLIMBED, FINALLY REACHING THE TOP OF THE SAND TERRACES JUST BELOW THE EDGE OF MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO. 1, THE BIG PRIZE OF THE ISLAND INVASION.

THERE "DIG IN" WAS THE ONLY ORDER AND EVERYBODY DID--FOR HIMSELF. HEAVY FIRE CONTINUED AS HOLES WERE SCOOPED OUT TO PROVIDE SHELTER. ONLY THEN WERE ENTRENCHING TOOLS UNSLUNG FROM PACKS. THERE HADN'T BEEN TIME FOR ANYTHING BUT BURROWING INITIALLY. THROUGHOUT THAT FIRST DAY DIGGING CONTINUED. THE SIDES OF DUGOUTS SLIPPED DOWN AS FAST AS HOLES WERE DUG.

A BOMB SHATTERED JAPANESE BETTY LAY NEARBY. ITS FUSELAGE WAS RIPPED TO BITS TO PROVIDE SHORING FOR DUGOUT SIDES. BELOW, ON THE BEACH, SHELLS CONTINUED TO POUR DOWN. FIRES RAGED. BITS OF WRECKAGE FLEW HIGH INTO THE AIR. TANKS, AMTRACKS, ALL VEHICLES OF AMPHIBIOUS WARFARE FOUND THE GOING TOUGH--IMPOSSIBLE IN MANY PLACES. MANY WERE OVERTURNED--OTHERS BLOWN UP BY HITS FROM JAP EMPLACEMENTS ON SURIBACHI OR THE HIGHLANDS IN THE NORTH.

THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT THE SHELLING CONTINUED AND AT DAWN WRECKAGE LITTERED THEBEACH IN ALL DIRECTIONS. BUT THE MARINES KEPT COMING. A HOWITZER COMPANY HAD BEEN SET UP AND PLUGGED AWAY AT THE JAPANESE THROUGHOUT THENIGHT, SLOWING BUT NOT SILENCING THE ENEMY FIRE.

REGULARLY ENEMY GUNS POUNDED AWAY, AIMED NOW AT THE SUPPLIES MOVING ASHORE.

THEY HIT MANY TIMES IN THE SUPPLY DUMPS. SOME STRUCK INFLAMMABLE MATERIAL, SENDING THE FLAMES HIGH INTO THE AIR. EACH TIME MEN SCATTERED IN ALL DIRECTIONS AS THEY HEARD THE WARNING WHISTLE OF THE SHELL. THEN, EACH TIME THEY RAN BACK TO THEIR UNLOADING JOBS ALMOST BEFORE THE DEBRIS HAD SETTLED TO THE BLACK BEACH.

YANK HOWITZERS CONTINUED POUNDING AWAY, AIDED BY NAVAL GUNFIRE AND PLANES. LESS AND LESS FREQUENT WERE THE ENEMY BURSTS. BUT THEY WERE NOT HALTED.

EVEN TODAY AS I STARTED TO LEAVE THE BEACH MORTAR SHELLS HIT WITHIN A FEW FEET OF WHERE I BOARDED A SMALL BOAT.

BUT THE MEN ON THE SHORE AREN'T BOTHERED BY SHELLING NOW--THEY'VE GOT A BIGGER PROBLEM OF KEEPING SUPPLIES MOVING.

BULLDOZERS ARE CUTTING ROADWAYS UP THE CLIFFS, TRACKED VEHICLES ARE RUSHING SUPPLIES TO FORWARD AREAS. CONGESTION IS THE PROBLEM TODAY DESPITE THE INTERMITTENT SHELLING AND THE DEBRIS-LITTERED SANDS.

IWO DAY-BY-DAY

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FEB.24-(AP)-THE FIGHT FOR IWO, NOW IN ITS SIXTH DAY, IS FAR FROM OVER BUT THE MARINES APPEAR TO HAVE THE SITUATION WELL IN HAND.

HERE IS THE DAY-BY-DAY PROGRESS FOR THE FIRST FIVE DAYS:

MONDAY, FEB.19--THE FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS LANDED ON THE SOUTHEAST COAST AT 9 A.M. AFTER WARSHIPS AND PLANES HAD BLASTED THE ISLAND FOR THREE DAYS. ENEMY MORTAR FIRE, FROM MT. SURIBACHI ON THE SOUTH TIP AND FROM POSITIONS ON THE NORTH PLATEAU, TOOK A HEAVY TOLL OF MARINES ON THE BEACHES. LOOSE VOLCANIC ASH STALLED THE EQUIPMENT. FOR A TIME, THE BEACHHEAD APPEARED DOOMED. THEN THE MARINES FOUND A SOFT SPOT FURTHER SOUTH AND PUSHED INLAND TO MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.1. BY NIGHTFALL, A WEDGE WAS DRIVEN TO THE SOUTHWEST COAST.

TUESDAY, FEB.20--BY NOON, THE AIRFIELD WAS IN MARINE HANDS, ACHIEVING ONE OF THE MAIN OBJECTIVES OF THE INVASION. STIFF, EFFECTIVE ENEMY RESISTANCE HALTED THE MARINES AFTER SLIGHT GAINS NORTH OF THE AIRFIELD. THE JAPANESE WERE USING ROCKETS.

WEDNESDAY, FEB.21--IN THE MORNING LIMITED ADVANCES WERE SCORED NORTHWARD. THEN THE FIGHT DEVELOPED INTO A STALEMATE. THE U.S.THIRD DIVISION LANDED. BY NIGHTFALL, COUNTED MARINE CASUALTIES TOTALLED 644 DEAD, 4,168 WOUNDED AND 560 MISSING. THE INCOMPLETE COUNT OF ENEMY DEAD WAS 1,222.

FEB 25 1945

THURSDAY, FEB.22--THE JAPANESE REPEATEDLY COUNTERATTACKED AND THE VIRTUAL STALEMATE CONTINUED. THE MARINES SCORED MINOR ADVANCES BUT THEY WERE FIGHTING IN A HEAVY RAIN AND AGAINST WELL-ENTRENCHED, HEAVILY-GUNNED OPPOSITION. AT SUNDOWN, MARINES WERE CLIMBING THE SLOPES OF MT.SURIBACHI AS THE DEFENDERS HURLED DOWN GRENADES AND DEMOLITION CHARGES.

FRIDAY, FEB.23--AT 10:35 A.M. THE UNITED STATES FLAG WAS RAISED ATOP MT.SURIBACHI AND THE MARINES BEGAN MOPPING UP THE POSITION, SECURING THE REAR OF THEIR FORCES ON SOUTHERN IWO. BATTLING UP VOLCANIC SLOPES, THE MARINES FOUGHT THEIR WAY ON TO THE SOUTHERN TIP OF MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.2 BY NIGHTFALL. SUPPLIES, WHICH FOR THE FIRST TWO DAYS WERE NEGLIGIBLE, BEGAN TO FLOW IN GREAT AMOUNTS OVER THE BEACHES.

THE MARINES APPEARED TO BE OVER THE HUMP.

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS,GUAM,FEB.24-(AP)-BITTEREST FIGHTING ON IWO JIMA IS IN PROGRESS ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE CENTRAL AIRFIELD, BUT AMERICAN MARINES CONTROL A SMALL PART OF THE FIELDS SOUTH SIDE, SAID LT.COMDR.J.MUTRIE TODAY AFTER A FLIGHT OVER THE ISLAND.

FIGHTING FOR SURIBACHI CRATER WAS STILL GOING ON WITH THE LEATHERNECKS RANGED ALONG THE RIM DIRECTING THEIR FIRE TOWARD WHAT APPEARED TO BE A TRENCH INSIDE THE CRATER'S WESTERN EDGE, MUTRIE SAID.

AN AMERICAN CRUISER WAS THROWING SHELLS INTO CAVES IN THE SIDES OF PEAK.

THE NORTHERN SECTION OF THE ISLAND APPEARS TO BE STILL STRONGLY HELD BY THE ENEMY, THE OFFICER REPORTED.

"ITS LARGELY ROUGH AND HONEYCOMBED WITH CAVES THAT GIVE A

"MARINES WITH FLAMETHROWERS COULD BE SEEN WORKING THEIR WAY SLOWLY ALONG THE COAST, DRIVING THE JAPANESE FROM HOLES. SHELLS FROM A CRUISER OFFSHORE WERE BURSTING BEHIND THE JAPANESE LINES.

"ALONG THE EASTERN BEACH NAVY AND COAST GUARD LSTS AND LCIS, AND SMALLER CRAFT, WERE UNLOADING AS A STEADY STREAM OF VEHICLES OF ALL TYPES ROLLED TOWARD THE FRONT.

"JAPANESE GUNS FROM THE NORTHERN PLATEAU WERE EVIDENTLY TRYING TO HALT THIS MOVEMENT OF SUPPLIES AND AMMUNITION, BUT MANY OF THEIR SHELLS EXPLODED HARMLESSLY."

THE SOUTHERN AIRFIELD, CAPTURED BY THE MARINES, AND THE CENTRAL FIELD WERE LITTERED WITH THE WRECKAGE OF JAPANESE PLANES.

YANKS FIRST ENTERED THE INTRAMUROS SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER MOUTH ON FRIDAY.

CIVILIANS ESCAPING FROM INTRAMUROS TOLD OF JAPANESE BRUTALITIES BEFORE AMERICAN ARTILLERY BREACHED THE WALLS, PERMITTING YANK INFANTRYMEN TO CHARGE INTO THE AREA LATE FRIDAY.

THE NONCOMBATANTS, HUNGRY, BEATEN AND WOUNDED, WERE HELD VIRTUAL HOSTAGES BY THE NIPPONESE WHO HAD REFUSED AMERICAN PLEAS THAT THE MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN BE ALLOWED TO LEAVE THE AREA BEFORE THE YANK BARRAGE STARTED.

MANY CIVILIANS DOUBTLESS WERE KILLED AND WOUNDED IN THE FURIOUS BOMBARDMENT WHICH HURLED 7,000 SHELLS INTO THE WALLS IN THE LAST HOUR OF THE THREE-DAY SHELLING.

MAJ.GEN. RO

RT S. BEIGHTLER, COMMANDER OF THE 37TH DIVISION, WHO SENT ELEMENTS OF THREE REGIMENTS INTO THE INTRAMUROS, SAID IT WOULD TAKE TWO OR THREE DAYS TO DIG OUT THE ESTIMATED 1,500 JAPANESE MAKING THE LAST STAND.

WHILE SMALLER JAPANESE SUICIDE GROUPS MAY YET HAVE TO BE CLEARED FROM SOME OF THE BUILDINGS NEAR THE INTRAMUROS AND THE WATERFRONT, AMERICAN OFFICERS SAID THE CLEANUP OF THE OLD WALLED CITY WOULD END MAJOR NIPPONESE RESISTANCE IN THE CITY.

THE BATTLE IN THE INTRAMUROS CLIMAXED THREE WEEKS OF FIGHTING TO SWEEP THE JAPANESE FROM MANILA, OCCUPIED BY THE ENEMY JAN. 2, 1942, AFTER GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR HAD DECLARED IT AN OPEN CITY AND RETIRED WITH HIS YANKS AND FILIPINO FIGHTERS TO BATAAN.

THE AMERICANS ENTERED THE CITY FEB. 3, LIBERATED 3,700 INTERNEES HELD BY THE JAPANESE IN SANTO TOMAS UNIVERSITY, AND THE NIPPONESE, AFTER FIRING CIVIC AND BUSINESS BUILDINGS IN THE DOWNTOWN AREA, RETIRED SOUTH OF PASIG RIVER FOR THEIR LAST STAND IN THE INTRAMUROS AND IN SURROUNDING EDIFICES.

GEORGE THOMAS FOLSTER OF NBC, TERMING THE INTRAMUROS "A WRECKED PLACE OF MURDER," REPORTED FINDING A LARGE PILE OF DEAD FILIPINOS, HANDS TIED BEHIND THEIR BACKS. THE JAPANESE, HE SAID, HAD TRIED TO BURN THE BODIES BUT FAILED.

"MORE MASS MURDER OF CIVILIANS," HE SAID.

ARTHUR FELDMAN OF THE BLUE NETWORK SAID A MIDDLE-AGED FILIPINO, BAYONETTED THROUGH THE RIGHT SHOULDER BY AN INTRAMUROS JAPANESE, "KEPT MUMBLING ABOUT THE JAPS KILLING EVERYONE, AND ABOUT HOW LUCKY HE WAS."

THE INTRAMUROS WAS SUCCESSFULLY STORMED, AND AT SMALL COST TO THE YANKS. MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S.BEIGHTLER, THE 37TH DIVISION COMMANDER WHO WAS OBLIVIOUS TO ENEMY MACHINEGUN FIRE AS HE WATCHED THE FIGHT FROM AN OBSERVATION POST, FIGURED IT WOULD TAKE TWO OR THREE DAYS MORE TO CLEAN OUT THE ESTIMATED 1,500 JAPANESE.

INVASION THURSDAY OF LITTLE BIRI ISLAND, AT THE EASTERN END OF SAN BERNARDINO STRAIT, CAME JUST A DAY AFTER OTHER YANKS LANDED ON CAPUL ISLAND, AT THE WESTERN END. ONLY LIGHT OPPOSITION WAS ENCOUNTERED ON BOTH.

MACARTHUR SAID THE LATEST SEIZURE COMPLETED AMERICAN CONTROL OF THE STRAITS THROUGH WHICH SUPPLIES MAY FLOW TO MANILA FROM THE UNITED STATES.

IN THE UNRELENTING AIR WAR, U.S. BOMBERS DUMPED 95 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON AIRDROMES ALONG NORTHERN BORNEO, 62 TONS ON MINDANAO AIRFIELDS AND SWEPT THE CHINA SEA, DAMAGING FOUR FREIGHTERS.

THE LOS BANOS INTERNMENT CAMP IS ON THE SOUTHERN END OF LAGUNA DE BAY, A LARGE INLAND BODY OF WATER SOUTH OF MANILA, DOWN THE WESTERN SHORES OF WHICH AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN HAVE BEEN DRIVING FOR DAYS.

LOS BANOS IS THE LAST JAPANESE PRISONER INTERNMENT CAMP ON LUZON ISLAND TO BE EMPTIED BY CONQUERING AMERICAN FORCES.

THE CAMP IS AT LOS BANOS ON THE MAIN HIGHWAY RUNNING SOUTH FROM MANILA THROUGH LAGUNA PROVINCE. IT NESTLES AT THE FOOT OF

THE CAMP WAS ESTABLISHED BY THE JAPANESE IN MAY 1943. THE FIRST AMERICAN IMPRISONED THERE WERE 800 MEN AND 13 U.S. NAVY NURSES FROM THE CANACAO HOSPITAL NEAR CAVITE.

LATER OTHER MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WERE TRANSFERRED TO LOS BANOS UNTIL THE POPULATION GREW TO 2,146.

DONALD SAID THAT WHEN THE JAPANESE CAME TO THE CAMP ON A SEARCHING TRIP, FELLOW INTERNEES WARNED HIM TO TAKE COVER. "BUT I WOULD SIT QUIETLY AFTER A QUICK GLANCE TO SEE THAT THE SEARCHER WASN'T AN OLD JAPANESE ACQUAINTANCE," HE SAID.

"INTERNEES HELD MY IDENTITY IN STRICTEST CONFIDENCE. THAT IS SOMETHING FOR WHICH I SHALL EVER BE GRATEFUL. THE JAPANESE SEEMED TO FEEL I WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR GETTING AMERICAN AND BRITISH SYMPATHY FOR CHINA, AND MY REPUTATION WITH NIPPON'S WAR LORDS WAS NOT VERY HEALTHY." Add Manila Donald (McDaniel & Schedler) xx younger men."

DONALD SAID HE WAS ANXIOUS TO COMMUNICATE WITH MADAME CHIANG. "I AM READY TO DO WHATEVER SHE SAYS," HE SAID, "IF I CAN HELP CHINA AGAINST JAPAN.

SUCKING ON A PIPE WHILE AWAITING TRANSPORTATION TO AN AMERICAN CAMP, DONALD SAID "THE SWORD OF DAMOCLES HUNG OVER MY NECK UNTIL TODAY."

(REPORTS THAT DONALD HAD BEEN RESCUED AT SANTO TOMAS CAME ORIGINALLY FROM SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA. THERE WAS NO INDICATION WHETHER THESE REPORTS WERE PUBLISHED TO FURTHER MISLEAD THE JAPANESE, OR WHETHER AUSTRALIANS JUMPED TO THE CONCLUSION THAT DONALD WAS STILL IN SANTO TOMAS, WHERE HE WAS ORIGINALLY INTERNED.

(OBVIOUSLY HE WAS AMONG THE MANY SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES WHOM THE JAPANESE TRANSFERRED TO LOS BANOS.

(THIS STORY FROM MCDANIEL AND SCHEDLER WAS THE FIRST RESPONSE OF ASSOCIATED PRESS STAFF MEN IN THE PHILIPPINES TO REPEATED QUERIES FROM FIRST HAND STORIES ABOUT DONALD. IT IS NOW APPARENT WHY THE AP MEN MADE NO PREVIOUS ANSWER TO THESE REQUESTS. THEY WOULD HAVE BEEN FORCED TO ANSWER THAT DONALD WAS NOT AT SANTO TOMAS, AND THE JAPANESE, MONITORING ALL RADIOCASTS IN THE PACIFIC, WOULD HAVE BEEN TIPPED OFF THAT HE MIGHT STILL BE IN THEIR HANDS. SUCH A REPLY PROBABLY WOULD HAVE STARTED A SEARCH FOR HIM AT LOS BANOS, AND QUITE LIKELY MIGHT HAVE RESULTED IN THE JAPANESE GE DARMERIE FINDING OUT THAT THEY HAD THEIR HANDS ON THE MAN THEY HAD BEEN HUNTING FOR YEARS.)

FOURTH NIGHT LEAD IWO (160)

BY ELMONT WAITE

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, SUNDAY, FEB.25 -(AP)-TANK-LED MARINES, DRIVING AGAINST ROCKETS, BAZOOKA-TYPE GUNS AND THICK WALLED PILLBOXES, CAPTURED THE SOUTH HALF OF IWO'S CENTRAL AIRFIELD SATURDAY, BACKED BY A FIFTH FLEET SO STRONG THAT TODAY A POWERFUL PORTION OF IT ONCE MORE IS SENDING CARRIER PLANES OVER TOKYO.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ DISCLOSED IN HIS REGULAR MORNING COMMUNIQUE THE MARINES NOW OWN VIRTUALLY HALF OF IWO THROUGH ADVANCES UP TO 500 YARDS SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

A113FX

HE FOLLOWED IT WITH A SPECIAL COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCING IN BRIEFEST TERMS THAT VICE ADM.MARC A.MITSCHER'S WORLD'S LARGEST CARRIER FORCE POURED WAVES OF DIVEBOMBERS, TORPEDOBOMBERS AND FIGHTERS AT THE JAPANESE CAPITAL CITY TODAY (SUNDAY).

THERE WAS NOTHING TO INDICATE THE NEW TOKYO ASSAULT WAS IN LESS FORCE THAN THE OTHER WHICH FOR TWO DAYS PUT 1,500 CARRIER PLANES OVER THAT METROPOLIS OF WAR INDUSTRIES AND GREAT MILITARY DEFENSES.

ON IWO, THE MARINES ARE ENCOUNTERING SOME OF THE MOST MODERN WEAPONS JAPAN HAS EMPLOYED IN THE WAR.

UNLOADING OF SUPPLIES ON THE IWO BEACHES SPEEDED UP.

CARRIER PLANES GAVE CONSTANT AIR SUPPORT TO THE MARINE AND ALSO SWUNG NORTH TO BLAST ENEMY BASES IN THE BONIN ISLANDS.

ON THE SOUTH TIP OF IWO THE CONTINUING MOPUP ON THE SLOPES OF CAPTURED MT.SURIBACHI HAS NETTED THE DESTRUCTION OF 115 ENEMY EMPLACEMENTS.

ARMY BOMBERS BASED IN THE MARIANAS ALSO BACKED UP THE INVASION WITH RAIDS IN MID-WEEK ON CHICHI AND HAHA IN THE BONINS, THE COMMUNIQUE BELATEDLY REPORTED.

EARLIER, IN A COMMUNIQUE COVERING ACTION UP TO SATURDAY NOON, NIMITZ SAID THERE WERE "NO MARKED CHANGES IN THE LINES" NEAR THE ISLAND'S CENTRAL AIRFIELD,.....

SOUTH OF THIS CRUCIAL CONTEST MARINE PATROLS ENTERED THE CRATER OF MT. SURIBACHI, NIMITZ SAID IN HIS SATURDAY NIGHT COMMUNIQUE. THEY WERE MOPPING UP ENEMY TROOPS STILL RESISTING FROM BLOCKHOUSES, PILLBOXES, CAVES AND CREVICES ON THE STEEP SLOPES AND WITHIN THE EXTINCT VOLCANO.

FROM THE SUMMIT OF SURIBACHI, WHICH DOMINATES THE TINY VOLCANIC ISLAND, THE AMERICAN FLAG WAVED DEFIANTLY AMID THE CLOUDS OF BATTLE SMOKE. IT WAS PLANTED THERE FRIDAY BY A MARINE UNIT OF 14 MEN LED BY LT. HAROLD G. SCHRIER OF RICHMOND, MO.

THE VIOLENT FIGHT FOR THE CENTRAL AIRFIELD, KNOWN AS MOTOYAMA NO. 2, FLAMED ABOUT 4,000 YARDS NORTH OF SURIBACHI. IN BETWEEN IS THE ISLAND'S MOST IMPORTANT FIELD, MOTOYAMA NO. 1, CAPTURED SEVERAL DAYS AGO WHEN THE MARINES DROVE ACROSS THE SOUTHERN END OF THE ISLAND TO ISOLATE SURIBACHI. THESE AIRFIELDS HAD BEEN USED BY THE ENEMY FOR ATTACKS ON THE AMERICAN SUPERFORTRESS BSES IN THE MARIANAS WHICH ARE MOUNTING INCREASINGLY HEAVY AIR ASSAULTS ON JAPAN.

SATURDAY'S ATTACK ON THE CENTRAL AIRFIELD WAS LAUNCHED AT THE SOUTHWESTERN END OF THE AIRDROME. THIS LINE HAD BEEN GAINED BEFORE DUSK FRIDAY BY ELEMENTS OF THE THIRD AND FOURTH MARINE DIVISIONS.

THE FOURTH ADVANCED A MAXIMUM OF 300 YARDS AGAINST ELABORATE DEFENSES TO REACH THE SOUTHWESTERN END OF THE AIRDRIME. THE THIRD MEANWHILE PUNCHED AHEAD IN THE CENTER TO OCCUPY THE SOUTHERN TIP OF THE FIELD. THIS TIP MARKS THE END OF THE NORTHEAST-SOUTHWEST RUNWAY, WHICH IS ABOUT 1,600 YARDS LONG.

ON THE LEFT FLANK, THE FIFTH MARINE DIVISION WAS UNABLE TO MAKE ANY APPRECIABLE GAIN. THIS DIVISION IS FIGHTING FROM THE SOUTHWEST COAST, FLANKING THE AIRFIELD.

APPARENTLY ENEMY OFFENSIVE ACTIVITY FRIDAY NIGHT WAS UNIMPORTANT FOR THERE WAS NO MENTION OF IT IN SATURDAY NIGHT'S COMMUNIQUE. ON PREVIOUS NIGHTS, THE JAPANESE HAD LAUNCHED INFILTRATING COUNTER-ATTACKS, ALL OF WHICH HAD BEEN REPULSED.

THERE WAS NO QUESTION BUT THAT THE C[illegible]TRAL AIRFIELD WAS [illegible]E TOUGH CORE OF ENEMY RESISTANCE. LT. GEN. HOLLAND M. SMITH, COMMANDING THE MARINE EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, SAID TWO DAYS AGO THAT THE NIPPONESE HAD CONCENTRATED THEIR STRENGTH THERE.

THERE WAS A VAST IMPROVEMENT ON THE BEACHES, WHICH SEVERAL DAYS AGO WERE STREWN WITH BATTLE DEBRIS.

JAMES LINDSLEY, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT, REPORTED FROM IWO THAT BY FRIDAY MARINES WERE WALKING UPRIGHT ALONG THE VOLCANIC SANDS OF THE BEACHHE

D. THEY DUCKED FOR SHELTER AS THE ENEMY LOBBED AN OCCASIONAL MORTAR SHELL IN THAT DIRECTION. HUGE PILES OF SUPPLIES, HOWEVER, WERE TO BE SEEN EVERYWHERE. LEATHERNECKS AND SEABEES WERE GOING ABOUT THEIR JOBS CASUALLY AS IF ON MANEUVERS.

ALONG THE COASTLINE, MARINES COULD BE SEEN WORKING THEIR WAY ALONG SLOWLY, USING FLAMETHROWERS TO DRIVE THE ENEMY FROM HIS HOLES. A STEADY STREAM OF VEHICLES OF ALL TYPES MOVED TOWARD THE FIGHTING LINES.

ON EVERY HAND THERE WAS EVIDENCE THAT THIS FIGHT WAS NOT ONLY THE TOUGHEST OF THE PACIFIC WAR BUT PROBABLY THE BITTEREST IN MARINE CORPS HISTORY. THERE HAD BEEN NO ESTIMATE OF AMERICAN CASUALTIES SINCE THE REPORT COVERING ACTION UP TO 6 P.M. WEDNESDAY. AT THAT TIME THE TOTAL WAS 5,372, INCLUDING 644 DEAD..

FLYERS REPORTED TO ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT BOB GEIGER ABOARD MITSCHER'S FLAGSHIP THAT THE JAPANESE OFFERED ONLY WEAK RESISTANCE AND THAT MANY ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, PROTECTING IMPORTANT AIRCRAFT CENTERS, WERE UNMANNED.

JAPANESE KILLED AND CAPTURED ON LEYTE--THE VAST MAJORITY WERE KILLED--ALREADY HAS EXCEEDED 125,000. THEMOPUP STILL GOES ON.

ON LUZON, MACARTHUR'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF FEB. 21 PLACED ENEMY CASUALTIES, THE BULK OF THEM KILLED, AT 92,000 FOR SIX WEEKS.

TODAY HE REPORTED 12,000 ENEMY DEAD COUNTED IN MANILA. HE DID NOT SPECIFY THE TIME PERIOD, MAKING IT POSSIBLE THERE IS SOME OVER-LAPPING WITH THE FEB. 21 FIGURE.

BUT HE ADDED MORE THAN 2,000 MORE ENEMY DEAD ON CORREGIDOR AND SAID SEVERAL THOUSAND MORE UNDOUBTEDLY WERE KILLED INSIDE CORREGIDOR'S TUNNELS.

WITH U.S. LOS BANOS RESCUE FORCES, PHILIPPINES, FEB. 23-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE 2,146 CIVILIAN INTERNEES LIBERATED BY AMERICAN FORCES FROM THE LOS BANOS CAMP IN AN ELECTRIFYING DELIVERY TODAY, WERE RUSHED ACROSS THE EASTERN EDGE OF LAGUNA DE BAY AND THEN TAKEN IN AMBULANCES AND TRUCKS TO THE 41ST FIELD HOSPITAL.

SAFE BEHIND AMERICAN LINES AFTER MORE THAN THREE YEARS OF IMPRISONMENT, THE INTERNEES, MOST OF THEM AMERICANS, WERE GIVEN IMMEDIATE MEDICAL AID, WHERE NECESSARY. THEY ENJOYED THEIR FIRST FULL MEAL IN MANY MONTHS AND RECEIVED CIGARETTES, CLOTHES AND COMFORT ARTICLES.

THE LIBERATED PEOPLE WERE JUBILANT AS RED CROSS WORKERS HANDED THEM 3,489 MESSAGES FROM HOME.

THE FIRST 1,000 OF THE RESCUED REACHED THE FIELD HOSPITAL AROUND NOON AND THE ALLIGATORS TURNED BACK ACROSS THE BAY TO PICK UP THE OTHERS. AS THE WAR TURNED AGAINST THEM THE JAPANESE CAMP COMMANDER AND GUARDS BECAME INCREASINGLY HARSH AND RESTRICTIONS WERE TIGHTENED.

TOWARD THE LAST THE JAPANESE ISSUED ONLY ENOUGH RICE FOR A FEW TABLESPOONS TWICE DAILY.

MEANWHILE INDIVIDUAL FOOD RESERVES DWINDLED AND THE INTERNEES WERE FORCED TO BARGAIN WATCHES AND OTHER JEWELRY WITH CAMP GUARDS FOR FOOD. ONE VALUABLE WATCH BROUGHT EIGHT POUNDS OF RICE AND A SMALL QUANTITY OF CHEAP BEANS.

THE INTERNEES ATE DOGS, CATS AND EVEN GARDEN SLUGS. EARLIER THEY HAD EATEN CARABAO AND HORSE MEAT. MOST OF THEM HAD BEEN WITHOUT TOBACCO FOR SEVERAL WEEKS AND THEY SMOKED DRIED MELON LEAVES ROLLED IN TOILET PAPER.

THE JAPANESE CUT ALL ELECTRIC WIRES FORCING TOTAL NIGHTLY BLACKOUTS AND WARNED THE INTERNEES TO STAY INDOORS WHEN AMERICAN PLANES WERE OVERHEAD, ON PENALTY OF DEATH.

INTERNEE MORALE OFTEN BECAME LOW BUT SOMEHOW, THEY SAID, THEY KNEW AND EXPECTED THEY WOULD SURVIVE TO ENJOY FREEDOM AGAIN.

THE AMTRACKS WERE COMMANDED BY LT. COL. J.W. GIBBS OF ROSEBUD, TEX., ON WHOSE SHOULDERS RESTED THE JOB OF REACHING THE BEACH EXACTLY ON THE MINUTE AND GATHERING INTERNEES FOR THE RETURN TRIP.

IT WAS DARK ENOUGH SO WE COULD SEE THE DULL SPECTRAL GLOW OF BURNING MANILA, ALIGHT FROM FIRES, ALL OF WHICH ACCENTUATED OUR TAUNT NERVES.

INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS SAID POSSIBLY 8,000 NIPPON TROOPS WERE WITHIN STRIKING DISTANCE OF THE DARING OPERATION.

STANDING NEAR THE TOP OF THE BOAT WAS BRIG. GEN. COURTNEY WHITNEY, SR., OF WASHINGTON, D.C., AND HIS SON, COURTNEY, JR., A MEMBER OF GEN. DOUGLAS MACAARTHUR'S STAFF AND ACTIVE IN THE UNDERGROUND MOVEMENT.

IT IS NOW 15 MINUTES MINUS H-HOUR AND IF WE GET INTO TROUBLE IT SHOULD HIT US FROM HERE ON. WE HAVE TO KEEP A SHARP WATCH FOR A SUICIDE WATER TRY.

"DON'T HESITATE TO SHOOT ANY UNUSUAL OBSTACLE," CAME THE

STERN WARNING FROM GIBBS.
OUR AMTRACK, WHICH WAS THE LEAD SHIP, SWUNG FROM THE FORMATION AND TURNED DOWN THE COLUMN LINE STARTING TOWARD THE BEACH WHEN OVERHEAD CAME A DULL ROAR. GUNS TURNED SKYWARD AND THE LITTLE BOATS SEEMED SMALL AND NAKED WHEN THE DAWN BECAME GRAY.
OUR FEAR TURNED INTO A THRILL AS C-37 TRANSPORT PLANES TOPPED BY LIGHTNINGS CAME INTO VIEW.

EXACTLY ON THE NOSE, THE PARATROOPERS DROPPED AND IN A MATTER OF MINUTES HAD DISAPPEARED. THE TIMING WAS PERFECT. THE FIRST AMTRACK WAS ON THE BEACH AND SLIPPING INTO THICK UNDERGROWTH HEADED FOR LOS BANOS.
GUERRILLAS WERE ALREADY STATIONED ALONG THE BEACHHEAD WITH MACHINE GUNS. THESE CIVILIANS, CARRYING UNITED STATES AND PHILIPPINE FLAGS, GAVE A TREMENDOUS OVATION. ALONG THE ROAD INTO THE INTERNMENT CAMP THE AMTRACKS GROUND THROUGH TROPICAL GROWTH IN WHICH WE FEARED SNIPERS MIGHT BE HIDING OR ENEMY TROOPS WAITING TO AMBUSH US.
FEB 25 1945
HURRYING THROUGH THE MAIN GATES INTO THE CAMP AREA WE SAW THIN WISPS OF SMOKE SEEPING FROM A NIPA BUILDING. THERE WERE ONLY SCATTERED RIFLE SHOTS. OUR HEARTS SUDDENLY BECAME COLD.
UNLIKE THE ENTRANCE INTO SANTO TOMAS, WHERE AMERICANS MOBBED US, HERE WE SAW NO SIGN OF LIFE.
RIFLE FIRE WHIRRED OVERHEAD. GREEN CLAD PARATROOPS CRIED, "STRAIGHT AHEAD, PAL--THEY ARE WAITING AROUND THE CORNER."
WHILE WE WERE WAITING MOMENTARILY A FILIPINO CAME UP TO US BLEEDING PROFUSELY IN THE CHEST FROM A JAPANESE BAYONET WOUND. ALTHOUGH WEAK FROM LOSS OF BLOOD, HE CAREFULLY POINTED OUT ROAD TURNS INTO THE CENTER OF THE CAMP.
A LONG LINE OF PEOPLE CLUTCHING LITTLE BAGS OF CLOTHES--HUGGING CHILDREN BESIDE THEM--CRYING AND YELLING GREETINGS TO US CAME POURING FROM THE BUILDINGS.
THE FIRST AMERICAN I GREETED WAS AN OLD TIME MANILA FRIEND AND HIS WIFE--JACK BURNELL OF FRANKLINTON, N.C., WHO WAS AN EXECUTIVE FOR A TOBACCO FIRM.
"OH GOD, IT'S BEEN A LONG TIME WE HAVE WAITED FOR JUST SUCH HOLLYWOOD AMERICAN STUFF," BURNELL SAID.
DRESSED IN A WHITE SHARK-SKIN COAT AND WRINKLED TROUSERS, CAME DEWEY SMITH, FAR EASTERN REPRESENTATIVE OF A MOTOR COMPANY. FELLOW INTERNEES SEEMED TO TAKE HEART, SEEING HIM TOGGED OUT IN HIS BEST.
"I TELL YOU NOW, FROM EXPERIENCE, THERE IS NOTHING LIKE A GOOD MATTRESS, AFTER SOME OF THE SO-CALLED BEDS WE HAD AROUND THIS PLACE," SAID CLAUDE GARDNER, OF KENOSHA, WIS.
GARDNER SAID THAT THE FOOD IN CAMP HAD BEEN FAIR UNTIL OCTOBER OF LAST YEAR, AND THEN THE JAPANESE SLASHED THE FOOD RATIONS, PROHIBITING EVEN THE LITTLE DIET VARIETY WHICH HAD BEEN PROCURED FROM THE OUTSIDE.

DURING THE LAST TWO WEEKS, HE SAID, ENEMY GUARDS SEEMED DETERMINED COMPLETELY TO STARVE THE INTERNEES. THEY CUT THE RICE ALLOWANCE TO A SCANT 170 GRAMS DAILY.
THIRTEEN MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN HIGH COMMISSIONER'S STAFF IN CAMP ARE ALIVE AND WELL, ACCORDING TO D.C. ROSS, LIBRARIAN OF THE COMMISSIONER'S STAFF.
"LAST NIGHT THE JAPANESE TROOPS SET OUT THE USUAL 17 INTERNEES' FOOD DETAIL TO GET PALAY FOR OUR NEXT THREE DAYS' MEALS," SAID ROBERT D. EWING, OF MILL VALLEY, CALIF.
"AND FURTHER ASSURANCE OF AMERICAN SURPRISE WAS THE FACT THAT THE BELL FOR ROLL CALL WAS RINGING WHEN THE FIRST PLANES FLEW OVERHEAD," HE SAID.

WILLIAM MURRAY, WHOSE WIFE, HELEN, LIVES IN PASADENA, CALIF., SAID ALL 12 MEMBERS OF THE STAFF OF THE OIL COMPANY HE REPRESENTS WERE IN GOOD HEALTH AND SPIRITS. MURRAY IS ANXIOUS TO GET HOME FOR HIS LEAVE WHICH THE WAR BLOCKED.
ALEN DWYRE, 1311 WALNUT, BERKELEY, CALIF., WALKED TO THE AMTRACK HELPING MR. AND MRS. MARTIN SANDS, 1917 ARLINGTON AVE., LOS ANGELES, CALIF.
LONG LINES OF PEOPLE JAMMED INTO THE AMTRACK FOR THE OVERWATER TRIP, CARRYING WHAT FEW BELONGINGS THE LITTLE SPACE WOULD PERMIT.
ENROUTE TO THE BEACH JAPANESE SNIPERS IN A THICK GROVE OF TREES OPENED FIRE ON THE INTERNEES. THE FIRST EXCHANGE OF FIRE LASTED AT LEAST TWENTY MINUTES. THE INTERNEES CALMLY CONTINUED MUNCHING BISCUITS WHILE THE .50 CALIBER MACHINEGUNS SWEPT THE TREES.
"AFTER SO MANY YEARS OF JAPANESE WAR, WHAT IS ONE MORE LITTLE AFFAIR--GIVE ME ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE COOKIES, PLEASE," WAS THE TYPICAL WOMEN'S ATTITUDE.

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, MANILA, FEB.9-(DELAYED)-(AP)-
THERE IS A GRAVE YARD WITHIN THIS CAMP TODAY FOR THE FIRST TIME. ITS PLAIN WOODEN CROSSES ARE A STARK REMINDER OF A CRUEL EPILOGUE TO THE CAMP'S STORY.
THE JAPANESE WHO IMPRISONED AMERICAN AND OTHER UNITED NATIONS CIVILIANS HERE FOR THREE YEARS HAD USED THE MANILA CEMETERIES IN WHICH TO BURY THOSE INTERNEES WHO DIED OF DISEASE, INFIRMITY OR STARVATION.
BUT THE LAST TO DIE NEVER LEFT THE INTERNMENT WHICH THEY SO OFTEN PRAYED WOULD END. THEY DIED IN THE SHELL FIRE TURNED UPON THE CAMP BY THE JAPANESE AFTER IT WAS OCCUPIED FEB.3 BY AMERICAN FORCES.
MANILA WAS A BATTLEGROUND, SO A CEMETERY FOR THE SHELLFIRE CASUALTIES HAD TO BE MADE IN A CORNER NEAR THE CAMP HOSPITAL, WITHIN THE VIEW OF OTHERS WHO WERE STILL FIGHTING FOR LIFE.
THE TRAGIC PHASE OF THE LIBERATION BEGAN BEFORE THE FIRST JUBILATION OF THE INTERNEES HAD ENDED.
APPROXIMATELY 300 MEN AND BOYS GOT A FORETASTE OF THAT TRAGEDY WHEN THEY WERE HELD BY THE JAPANESE AS HOSTAGES IN A BRIEF BATTLE WHICH DEVELOPED AS AMERICAN TANKS ENTERED THE CAMP COMPOUND.
THE PLIGHT OF THESE HOSTAGES TOUCHED AND FRIGHTENED THE REMAINING INTERNEES, BUT THE EXHILIRATION OF RELEASE WAS SO STRONG THAT FEW READ A WARNING IN IT. THEY HAD FOUGHT STARVATION AND HOPELESSNESS SO LONG THAT THE SIGHT OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS OVERWHELMED OTHER CONSIDERATIONS.
THE CANNONADING BEGAN TO COME CLOSE ON THE SECOND DAY OF LIBERATION, BUT THE INTERNEES IGNORED IT. SHELLS LANDED IN THE CAMP AREA ON THE THIRD DAY. TWO MISSILES RIPPED THROUGH THE ALREADY SCARRED EDUCATION BUILDING.
THE NEXT DAY THE ENEMY ARTILLERY OPENED IN EARNEST. FOR MOST OF THREE DAYS AND INFREQUENTLY DURING THE INTERVENING NIGHTS THE CAMP WAS UNDER BOMBARDMENT.
THE FIRST FEW SHELLS SLASHED THROUGH THE FATHERS' BUILDING, THEN UNOCCUPIED, NEAR THE CENTER OF THE CAMP. THEN HEAVIER ARTILLERY

30.24-23337

FOUND THE RANGE OF THE CROWDED MAIN BUILDING, IN WHICH NEARLY 2,000 INTERNEES LIVED. SOME WERE KILLED IN THEIR ROOMS. OTHERS WERE BADLY WOUNDED. OTHERS WERE MAINED AS THEY HUDDLED IN THE SHANTIES THEY HAD BUILT FOR THEMSELVES ON VARIOUS PARTS OF THE COMPOUND.

HUNDREDS FLOCKED TO THE REAR OF THE MAIN BUILDING, WHERE THERE WAS COMPARATIVE SAFETY.

INTERNEE AND ARMY DOCTORS, INTERNED ARMY NURSES, INTERNEE AND SOLDIER VOLUNTEERS WORKED UNTIL READY TO DROP. BY CANDLELIGHT, THEY PATCHED THE BROKEN BODIES OF VICTIMS. ALL THE WHILE, WITH DEADLY REGULARITY, THE SHELLS KEPT FALLING.

THEY HIT THE GYMNASIUM WHERE MANY OLDER MEN WERE TOO BEFUDDLED TO MOVE. SOME JUST SAT ON THE EDGE OF THEIR COTS, WAITING SILENTLY.

THE SHELLS DRILLED NEW HOLES IN THE MAIN BUILDING, CATCHING SOME INTERNEES WHO HAD RETURNED TO THE ONLY PLACE THEY KNEW AS HOME.

FOR TWO NIGHTS, HUNDREDS HUDDLED BEHIND AND ON THE EAST SIDE OF THE MAIN BUILDING. THEY SLEPT ON COLD CONCRETE IN A SHARP RAID OR DROPPED, HUNCHED, OVER NEARBY DINING TABLES.

THEY JUMPED AT EACH NEW SOUND. THE YOUNGSTERS WERE BRAVE TYKES, CLINGING SILENTLY TO PARENTS.

THERE WAS INSUFFICIENT TRANSPORTATION FOR ANY IMMEDIATE EVACUATION, OFFICERS EXPLAINED. SOME INTERNEES WERE TOO WEAK FOR ANY SUSTAINED JOURNEY.

THESE PEOPLE HAD BRAVED HUNGER SO ACUTE THAT THEY ATE MORE THAN 600 DOGS AND CATS...THEY ATE LEAVES, ROOTS, SHRUBS. THEY BARTERED MISERABLY WITH ARROGANT JAPANESE GUARDS FOR FOOD, OFTEN TRADING A $150 WATCH FOR TWO POUNDS OF RICE.

MANY WHOSE RIBS STUCK OUT LIKE LATTICE WORK WERE SHOCKED ANEW BY THE MERCILESS EFFECTS OF THE SHELLING.

ONE MAN WHO WAS SUMMONED QUICKLY WHEN HIS WIFE WAS BADLY MAIMED WAS HELPING TO CARRY HER FROM HER SMASHED ROOM WHEN ANOTHER SHELL LANDED AND KILLED HIM.

THERE WERE TWIN BOYS, 16 YEARS OLD, WHO WANTED TO BE BASEBALL PLAYERS. A WEEK BEFORE LIBERATION, THEIR FATHER DIED OF STARVATION. HIS SADDENED WIFE REMARKED TO ME THAT IT WAS TOO BAD HE COULD NOT HAVE LIVED TO SEE FREEDOM. THE NEXT DAY SHE WAS KILLED BY A SHELL. HER BOYS ARE ALONE NOW.

THERE WERE OTHER CASUALTIES, AMONG INTERNEES, AMONG SOLDIERS TRYING TO HELP THEM, AND AMONG FILIPINO LABORERS SEEKING TO EARN MONEY TO BUY FOOD.

FEB 25 1945

THE ORDEAL TRIED THE NERVES OF EVEN THE STOUTEST OF THE NEWCOMERS, BUT THE INTERNEES, WITH NO RESERVE PHYSICAL STRENGTH, NO EMOTIONAL FORTIFICATION, WEATHERED THE CRISIS WITH AMAZING SUCCESS. THOSE WHOSE NERVES WEAKENED WERE A SMALL MINORITY.

AS THIS IS BEING WRITTEN, NO SHELLS HAVE DROPPED WITHIN THE CAMP FOR TWO DAYS, ALTHOUGH SOME SHRAPNEL HAS FALLEN. BUT NERVOUSNESS PERSISTS.

ON THE EARTH MOUNDS MARKING THE NEW GRAVES ARE FLOWERS FRESH FROM INTERNEE GARDENS. THEY EXPRESS THE FEELINGS OF THE SURVIVING INTERNEES TOWARD THOSE WHO LOST BY AN UNEXPECTED TURN OF FATE AFTER PUTTING UP SUCH A VALIANT FIGHT TO LIVE.

MANILA,FEB.24-(AP)-SUCCESS OF THE INITIAL ASSAULT ON INTRAMUROS FORTRESS IN MANILA WAS DUE LARGELY TO THE DEAD SECRECY WITH WHICH THE 37TH DIVISION'S ARTILLERY COMMANDER, BRIG. GEN. LEO M. KREBER OF COLUMBUS, O., MOVED HEAVY CANNON UP FOR THE OPENING SALVO.

THE BIG GUNS WERE HAULED INTO THE DOWNTOWN SECTION AND KEPT HIDDEN UNTIL DAWN. THEN THEY OPENED UP WITH ONE CRASHING ROUND FROM JUST ACROSS THE PASIG RIVER AT 7 A.M. YESTERDAY.

IN JUST ONE HOUR THE GUNS POURED 7,000 ROUNDS INTO THE THICK OUTER WALL OF THE INTRAMUROS AND THE FIRST FRINGE OF BUILDINGS. THIS WAS THE HEAVIEST CONCENTRATED GROUND SHELLING OF THE PACIFIC WAR.

THEN GENERAL KEBER LIFTED THE BARRAGE AND INFANTRYMEN POURED THROUGH THE BREACH THAT RESULTED.

(EDITORS: THE FOLLOWING STORY OF THE RESSTABLISHMENT OF CABLE SERVICE BETWEEN GUAM AND THE UNITED STATES WAS WRITTEN DEC. 21, 1944. IT WAS TRANSMITTED BY CABLE AND HAS JUST BEEN RELEASED BY THE CENSOR) BY VERN HAUGLAND (600)

(ADVANCE) SUMAY,GUAM,DEC.21, 1944-(DELAYED)-(AP)-

SILENT FOR THREE YEARS AND 11 DAYS, GUAM'S NEWLY-RESTORED SUBMARINE CABLE STATION TAPPED OUT ITS FIRST MESSAGE TO AMERICA TODAY.

THE SECOND LONGEST LINE IN THE WORLD IS BACK IN UNDERWATER COMMUNICATION WITH MIDWAY ISLAND, HONOLULU AND SAN FRANCISCO. THE CABLE ALSO IS SURPRISINGLY GOOD TO LUZON, PHILIPPINES, AND RIGHT INTO TOKYO.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS ON GUAM ARE SEEKING PERMISSION TO CABLE A LIST OF QUESTIONS TO THE JAPANESE EMPEROR, BUT THE PROJECT IS MEETING NO ENTHUSIASM WHATEVER IN U.S. NAVY CIRCLES.

ALTHOUGH THE FI[illegible] MESSAGE WENT OVER THE CABLE TODAY--A CHRISTMAS GREETING FROM GUAM'S COMMANDER, MAJ.GEN.HENRY LARSEN TO ADM. CHESTER W.NIMITZ AT PEARL HARBOR--THERE WILL PROBABLY BE A DELAY PENDING NAVY CENSORSHIP AND OTHER ARRANGEMENTS BEFORE COMMERCIAL TRAFFIC WILL BEGIN.

FEB 25 1945

THE STATION IS OWNED AND OPERATED BY THE COMMERCIAL PACIFIC CABLES CORP. IT PROBABLY WILL BE USED LARGELY AT THE START FOR EFM (CORRECT) MESSAGES--LOW RATE STANDARD MESSAGES CHOSEN BY NUMBER FROM PREPARED LISTS--FOR SERVICEMEN OVERSEAS AND THEIR FAMILIES AT HOME, SAID ARCHIBALD MCDERMID, ALBANY,CALIF., THE SUPERINTENDENT.

MCDERMID SAID PREWAR RATES PROBABLY WILL BE CHARGED FOR OTHER MESSAGES--26 CENTS A WORD HIGH PRIORITY FULL RATE, 10 CENTS PER WORD PRESS RATE, FIVE CENTS DEFERRED RATE.

THE CABLE SECTION FROM MIDWAY TO GUAM, HICH MCDERMID SAID WAS EXCEEDED IN LENGTH ONLY BY THE BRITISH AUSTRALIA-SUVA-CANADA CABLE FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA TO FANNING ISLAND, WAS MENDED AT TWO BREAKS BY THE U.S. ARMY TRANSPORT SERVICE CABLE REPAIR SHIP.

FROM GUAM TO MIDWAY THE CABLE IS 2,760 MILES LONG; FROM MIDWAY TO HONOLULU, 1400 MILES, AND FROM HONOLULU TO SAN FRANCISCO, 2400.

IN PEACE TIME THE CABLE ALSO RAN FROM GUAM THROUGH MANILA TO SHANGHAI AND THROUGH CHICHI JIMA IN THE BONIN ISLANDS TO TOKYO. THE AMERICANS OPERATED THE TOKYO CABLE AS FAR AS CHICHI WHERE IT WAS LOOPED OVER TO JAPANESE OPERATION.

GUAM WAS THE CENTRAL RELAY POINT IN THE PACIFIC. THE JAPANESE OPERATED A RELAY CABLE FROM GUAM TO YAP TO MANILA AND THE CELEBES. IN 1919 A TREATY PERMITTED THE UNITED STATES TO USE THAT RELAY, BUT THE JAPANESE SO EFFECTIVELY

IN 1919 A TREATY PERMITTED THE UNITED STATES TO USE THAT RELAY, BUT THE JAPANESE SO EFFECTIVELY DISCOURAGED ITS USE BY DELAYING AMERICAN MESSAGES THAT YAP HAD BEEN OF NO IMPORTANCE TO THE UNITED STATES FOR SOME YEARS BEFORE THE WAR.

A167FX

THE CABLE STATION WAS REOPENED HERE IN A QUONSET HUT ON OROTE PENINSULA NEAR SUMAY, A COUPLE OF MILES FROM ITS FORMER LOCATION IN SUMAY TOWN.

MCDERMID, WHO SERVED THREE PREVIOUS TOURS OF DUTY ON GUAM AND HAD BEEN WORKING IN THE COMMERCIAL PACIFIC CABLES OFFICE AT SAN FRANCISCO SINCE THE WAR STARTED, SAID:

"THE CABLE FROM HONOLULU TO MIDWAY WAS OPEN ALL ALONG. MY ASSISTANT, LEWIS H.STROUP OF HONOLULU, AND I LEFT FOR MIDWAY AUG. 24 (1944) AND FOUND THE CABLE TO GUAM BROKEN FOUR MILES OFF MIDWAY IN WATER 2,400 FATHOMS DEEP. WE CAME TO GUAM OCT. 3 AND FOUND THE OTHER BREAK JUST OUTSIDE GUAM HARBOR.

"THE GUAM BREAK WAS IN SHALLOW WATER AND WAS REPAIRED FIRST AND NOW WITH THE MIDWAY BREAK REPAIRED, WE ARE JUST AWAITING THE GOVERNMENT GO-AHEAD SIGNAL. MEANWHILE, ASIDE FROM GENERAL LARSEN'S MESSAGE, WE HAVE BEEN USING THE CABLE ONLY FOR OUR OWN OPERATIONAL NEEDS.

"WE TESTED THE MANILA CABLE AND FOUND THE IMPULSE GOOD TO THE LUZON AREA. THE LINE PROBABLY IS BROKEN IN SHALLOW ROUGH WATERS JUST OFF LUZON.

"THE JAPANESE LINE WAS GOOD RIGHT INTO TOKYO AND THE JAPANESE WERE SENDING ON IT WHEN WE FIRST TESTED IT. THE LOOPOVER AT CHICHI JIMA PROBABLY WOULD PREVENT ANY GUAM MESSAGE GOING STRAIGHT THROUGH TO TOKYO BUT IT'S AN INTERESTING POSSIBILITY TO CONTEMPLATE.

"REPORTS FROM OUR FORMER EMPLOYES INDICATE THE JAPANESE MADE CONSTANT USE OF THE GUAM CABLE TO KEEP IN TOUCH WITH YAP, CELEBES AND TOKYO BUT APPARENTLY DIDN'T COMMUNICATE WITH MANILA. THE YAP CABLE CONNECTION IS NOW BROKEN."

FEB 25 1945

LARSEN'S CABLEGRAM TO NIMITZ DEC. 21 SAID:

"THIS FIRST MESSAGE RE-DEDICATES THE GUAM-MIDWAY CABLE SERVICE AND FORGES ANOTHER LINK IN YOUR LINE OF COMMUNICATION TO THE WEST AND VICTORY. YOUR FORCES ON GUAM WISH YOU MERRY CHRISTMAS AND CONTINUED SUCCESS IN THE NEW YEAR."

MCDERMID SAID NONE OF THE CABLE BREAKS WAS DELIBERATE BUT PROBABLY WERE DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES OR BOMBINGS AND DEPTH CHARGES.

MCDERMID AND STROUP WERE ACCOMPANIED TO GUAM BY A GROUP OF SIGNAL CORPS MEN ASSIGNED TO REESTABLISH THE SUBMARINE CABLE BUT SOON ROUNDED UP 18 OF THE GUAM STATE'S 23 PREWAR EMPLOYES HEADED BY GREGORIO DIAZ PEREZ, STATION OPERATOR FOR 23 YEARS.

AT A NAVAL BASE IN THE MARIANA ISLANDS,FEB.24-(AP)-GRIM TALES OF THE FIRST THREE DAYS OF THE AMERICAN INVASION OF IWO JIMA ISLAND CAME TO THIS NAVAL BASE TODAY WITH THE ARRIVAL OF THE FIRST NAVAL HOSPITAL SHIP FROM THAT EMBATTLED ISLAND.

WEARY YOUNG MARINES WHO HAD LANDED IN THE SAIPAN AND TINIAN

ASSAULTS SAID IWO "THREW MORE AT US THAN THE JAPANESE DID ON BOTH OF THOSE LANDINGS COMBINED."

SOME OF THE WOUNDED DESCRIBED A NEW JAPANESE MORTAR--"BIGGER THAN ANY THEY EVER USED AGAINST US."

"IT WAS HELL, PLAIN HELL, ALL THE WAY," SAID ONE. "OUR FLEET AND AIRCRAFT HAD POUNDED THE VOLCANIC MOUNTAIN UNTIL YOU COULDN'T BELIEVE ANYTHING COULD BE ALIVE ON IT BUT THE JAPANESE WERE STILL THERE SHOOTING. THEY LET THE FIRST AND SECOND WAVES GET ON THE BEACH THEN OPENED UP WITH EVERYTHING THEY HAD AS THE THIRD WAVE WENT IN.

"THE WORST THING ABOUT IT THERE WAS NO PLACE TO HIDE--NO TREES, NO BUSHES, NO NOTHING. ALL WE COULD DO WAS JUMP INTO BOMB CRATERS AND START SHOOTING--WITH THEIR MORTAR AND MACHINE GUN FIRE CRASHING AND CRACKLING ALL AROUND. ONE BUNCH OF MARINES GOT CAUGHT BETWEEN MORTAR FIRE FROM THE MOUNTAINSIDE AND POSITIONS FLANKING THEIR BEACHHEAD."

"THE JAPANESE IN THOSE MOUNTAINSIDE CAVES WOULD TAKE OUR SHELLING, THEN AS SOON AS WE WOULD LET UP THEY WOULD POP OUT AGAIN WITH THEIR MORTARS AND LET US HAVE MORE." SAID ANOTHER. "THEY WERE JUST LIKE GOPHERS RUNNING BACK TO THEIR BURROWS AND POPPING OUT AGAIN."

OTHERS TOLD OF AMERICAN VEHICLES FINDING NO TRACKAGE IN THE SOFT VOLCANIC ASH OF IWO, ALREADY PULVERIZED BY BOMBING AND SHELLING. "THANK GOD WE HAD AIR SUPERIORITY," EXCLAIMED ONE. "WITHOUT THAT WE WOULD HAVE BEEN REALLY BAD OFF. I DIDN'T SEE A SINGLE JAPANESE PLANE IN THE SKY--THEIR FIELDS HAD BEEN POUNDED SO HARD THAT ANY PLANES THEY HAD REMAINING THERE COULDN'T GET OFF THE GROUND."

THERE WERE 600 ANNOUNCED CASUALTIES ABOARD THE SHIP.

MEXICO CITY, FEB 24-(AP)-CUBA TODAY PROPOSED THAT ALL AMERICAN NATIONS GO TO WAR WITH GERMANY AND JAPAN. IT WAS ASCERTAINED AUTORITATIVELY, HOWEVER, THAT A SIMPLE DECLARATION OF WAR WOULD NOT OBTAIN UNITED STATES RECOGNITION FOR ARGENTINA.

THE CUBAN RESOLUTION WAS PRESENTED AS A GESTURE OF SOLIDARITY. IT ASKED THAT "ALL THE NATIONS OF AMERICA DECLARE WAR ON NAZI GERMANY AND ON JAPANESE MILITARISM."

ADOPTION OF THE RESOLUTION WOULD SERVE TO PIN DOWN THE ARGENTINE PROBLEM, SEVERAL DELEGATES FELT.

THERE HAVE BEEN CONSIDERABLE INDICATIONS FROM BUENOS AIRES THAT A DECLARATION OF WAR WOULD BE FORTHCOMING QUICKLY IF IT SEEMED THAT IT WOULD BRING RECOGNITION FROM THE REST OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

THE UNITED STATES FLEET HAS RETURNED TO RENEW THE CARRIER ATTACK ON TOKYO WHICH 1,500 PLANES UNLEASHED FEB. 16 AND 17, TOKYO RADIO REPORTED TONIGHT. THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.

TOKYO SAID CARRIER PLANES APPEARED OVER THE TOKYO AREA AND THE CAPITAL CITY'S PORT OF YOKOHAMA AT 7 A.M. SUNDAY.

THE AMERICAN PLANES, PRESUMABLY ATTACHED TO VICE ADM.MARC A.MITSCHER'S TASK FORCE 58, "ARE NOW CARRYING OUT AN ECHELON ATTACK," THE ENEMY RADIO SAID.

"OUR AIR FORCES ARE INTERCEPTING THE ENEMY PLANES AT THIS VERY MOMENT ARE OFFERING FIERCE COUNTERATTACKS."

THE JAPANESE-LANGUAGE OVERSEAS BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, REFERRED TO "ENEMY TASK FORCE CARRIERS" OFF TOKYO.

(EDITORS: PLEASE SLUG ABOVE "BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS")

HW650PPW

MITCHER'S CARRIER PLANES SWEPT OVER TOKYO FEB. 16 AND 17 FROM ZARSHIPS OF A FLEET STRETCHED OUT IN A LINE FOR 200 MILES AND BOLDLY RIDING WATERS LESS THAN 300 MILES FROM JAPAN'S SHORES.

THESE CARRIER PLANES SHOT DOWN 332 ENEMY PLANES, DESTROYED 177 OTHERS ON THE GROUND AND PROBABLY DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 150 AT A COST OF 49 RAIDING PLANES AND 30 TO 40 PILOTS.

A94FX

THE RAIDERS ALSO ATTACKED ENEMY SHIPPING ON THOSE TWO DAYS, PROBABLY SINKING AN ESCORT AIRCRAFT CARRIER, SINKING A DESTROYER, TWO DESTROYER ESCORTS, NINE COASTAL VESSELS, A CARGO SHIP AND "NUMEROUS PICKET SHIPS."

TWENTY TWO COASTAL VESSELS WERE DAMAGED.

HEAVY DAMAGE WAS INFLICTED ON ENEMY AIRFIELDS, SHOPS AND AN AIRCRAFT FACTORY.

ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ SAID THE ATTACK, WHICH WAS NOT OPPOSED BY THE JAPANESE HOME FLEET AND FROM WHICH AMERICAN FIFTH FLEET UNITS RETIRED UNDAMAGED, "ACHIEVED A DECISIVE VICTORY OVER THE ENEMY."

HE ALSO SAID IT FULFILLED "THE DEEPLY CHERISHED DESIRE OF EVERY OFFICER AND MAN IN THE PACIFIC FLEET."

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB. 24-(AP)-LOS BANOS INTERNMENT CAMP IN THE PHILIPPINES ISLANDS, FROM WHICH 2,146 CIVILIANS WERE RESCUED TODAY, WAS OPENED BY THE JAPANESE IN MAY, 1943 TO RELIEVE THE EXCESSIVELY CROWDED CAMP AT SANTO TOMAS IN MANILA.

IT WAS THE FIRST CIVILIAN CAMP IN THE PHILIPPINES TO FALL INTO THE HANDS OF BRUTAL JAPANESE GENDARMES, SAID RAY CRONIN, CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS BUREAU IN MANILA AND FORMER INTERNEE AT LOS BANOS.

HUSBANDS OF MANY OF THE WOMEN PREVIOUSLY RESCUED AT SANTO TOMAS, ARE PROBABLY AMONG THOSE LIBERATED FROM LOS BANOS.

"LIFE DOWN THERE WAS QUITED RUGGED," CRONIN SAID. "THEY WERE LIVING IN LONG, BARRACKS-LIKE NIPA SHACKS WHICH WERE FREQUENTLY BLOWN DOWN BY TYPHOON WINDS.

"WE ARGUED WITH THE JAPANESE FOR SOME MONTHS ABOUT THE WATER SUPPLY -- IT CAME FROM THE MAKILING VOLCANO -- AND EVENTUALLY THEY DECIDED THEY WOULD NOT TRANSFER THE ENTIRE SANTO TOMAS CAMP DOWN TO LOS BANOS."

CRONIN SAID THAT INTERNEE HEADS OF THE CAMP ORIGINALLY -- AND STILL, SO FAR AS IS KNOWN HERE -- WERE A. D. CALHOUN OF THE NATIONAL CITY BANK, NEW YORK, AND PRESIDENT OF THE BANK OF MANILA; ROBERT E. CECIL, LIFE INSURANCE MAN WHOSE FAMILY LIVES AT CARMEL, CALIF.; HAROLD KELLEY OF SAUSALITO, CALIF., WELL KNOWN WEST-COAST SHIPPING MAN; AND CARL GABRIELSON, OF THE PRESIDENT LINES.

AMONG OTHERS IN THE CAMP WERE SOME OF THE LEADING YOUNG AMERICANS OF THE PHILIPPINE COLONY.

LT.MINNIE BREESE, WHOSE MOTHER LIVES AT (1130 RALPH TERRACE) RICHMOND HEIGHTS, MO., AND WHO WAS BORN AT ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL., COULDN'T BELIEVE THE AMERICAN TROOPS HAD ENTERED SANTO TOMAS. WITH BATAAN NURSES RETURN (ARMY APPROVED)
BY BERNICE FREEMAN
(ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT FOR THE COMBINED AMERICAN PRESS)

HAMILTON FIELD, CALIF., FEB. 24-(AP)-THERE WAS SCARCELY A DRY EYE AMONG THE SEVERAL HUNDRED INVITED GUESTS STANDING BESIDE THE WINDSWEPT LANDING STRIP AT HAMILTON FIELD TODAY WHEN FOUR PLANES UNLOADED THEIR PRECIOUS CARGO OF "ANGELS OF BATAAN."

THERE WERE GENERALS, COLONELS AND OTHER ARMY PERSONNEL, CIVILIANS INCLUDING SAN FRANCISCO'S MAYOR ROGER LAPHAM, NEWSPAPERMEN AND CAMERAMEN IN THE GROUP. HARDBOILED, MANY OF THEM, BUT THEY WEPT UNASHAMEDLY AS THE NURSES FILED OUT OF THE PLANES.

MANY OF THE ARMY OFFICERS AND CIVILIANS HAD FLOWN HERE FROM DISTANT PARTS OF THE COUNTRY TO MEET THE NURSES, EITHER FOR REUNIONS OR TO SEEK INFORMATION ABOUT LOVED ONES WHO WERE KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN HELD PRISONERS OF THE JAPANESE.

MAJ. GEN. RAYMOND W. BLISS, ACTING SURGEON GENERAL OF THE ARMY, PACED BACK AND FORTH IN THE GALE-LIKE WIND UNTIL THE PLANES LANDED AND THE NURSES EMERGED. HE WANTED WORD OF HIS SON, LT. RAYMOND W. BLISS, JR., WHO HAD BEEN RELEASED BY THE RANGERS FROM CABANATUAN. BUT BEFORE THE LANES LANDED HE HEARD FROM COL. JAMES W. DUCKWORTH, RANKING AMERICAN OFFICER IN THAT PRISON WHO RETURNED HERE EARLIER THIS WEEK, THAT HIS SON HAD LOST AN EYE ON CORREGIDOR BUT WAS OTHERWISE WELL.

COL. M. D. BLAINE, A SENIOR PILOT, FLEW HERE FROM WASHINGTON, D.C. BECAUSE HE EXPECTED TO MEET HIS SISTER, SECOND LT. ETHEL BLAINE. HE HAD HAD ONLY ONE LETTER FROM HER SINCE DECEMBER, 1943.

COL. OWEN R. MEREDITH, COMMANDING OFFICER FOR THE NINTH SERVICE COMMAND, SAN FRANCISCO AREA, WAS WAITING TO MEET SECOND LT. MADELEINE ULLOM, WHO IS FROM HIS HOME TOWN, O'NEIL, NEB.

MOST EXCITED OF ALL THOSE WAITING ON THE LANDING STRIP WAS LT. RESSA JENKINS, WHO HAD ESCAPED FROM CORREGIDOR BY PLANE AT THE TIME OF BATAAN'S FALL. ON THE PLANE WAS HER SISTER, 2ND LT. GENEVA JENKINS, WHO HAD BEEN UNABLE TO MAKE HER ESCAPE.

FEB 25 1945

B110KX Q IN

A STOCKY CHIEF WARRANT OFFICER, JOHN W. CLELAND OBTAINED THE INFORMATION HE WANTED FROM ONE OF THE RETURNING NURSES. HIS SISTER-IN-LAW, MRS. MARY V. CLELAND, AND HER THREE CHILDREN, HAD BEEN TAKEN FROM THE JAPANESE AND WERE WELL. HOWEVER, HIS BROTHER, MAJ. MORRISON E. CLELAND, HAD DROWNED.

HE RECEIVED NO WORD OF HIS FATHER, M. E. CLELAND, SR., WHO HAD LIVED IN THE PHILIPPINES SINCE 1909 AND WAS CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE ON THE ISLAND OF BOHOL IN JUNE, 1944, IN COMPANY WITH FATHER BONK, A JESUIT PRIEST.

CLELAND HAD HEARD HIS FATHER, A BOAT REPAIRMAN, WHO WAS MENTIONED IN THE BOOK, "THEY WERE EXPENDABLE," HAD BEEN BEATEN AND STARVED TO DEATH BY HIS CAPTORS AND THAT FATHER BONK HAD BEEN BEATEN TO DEATH.

A FEW OF THE NURSES WHO HAD NO ONE TO MEET THEM STOOD BACK FROM THE TOUCHING REUNIONS BUT GAVE FREELY OF THEIR TIME FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS AND CORRESPONDENTS.

THEY SAID THEY WERE GRADUALLY BECOMING USED TO THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIVING AGAIN.

SOME SAID THEY HAD, AT FIRST, SOME DIFFICULTY IN USING A KNIFE AND FORK IN EMILY POST FASHION, BUT NOW THESE WEAPONS OF CIVILIZATION WERE NOT INSTRUMENTS TO BE FEARED.

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR MEN WITH THE RETURNING NURSES WAS CAPT. NICHOLAS DE TOLLY, WHO HAS FLOWN MORE THAN 100,000 MILES SINCE 1929. HE PILOTED ONE OF THE PLANES CARRYING THE NURSES FROM KWAJELEIN TO HICKAM FIELD. THE NURSES, HOWEVER, SPECIALLY REQUESTED THAT HE BE PERMITTED TO CONTINUE STATESIDE WITH THEM AND THEIR REQUEST WAS GRANTED.

HE PILOTED HIS SHIP TO A THREE-POINT LANDING AND WHEN HE EMERGED FROM THE PLANE, SEVERAL OF THE NURSES WENT OVER TO HIM AND SAID:

"GEE, NICK, THANKS A MILLION."

THAT TELLS THE STORY OF HOW THE "ANGELS" FELT ABOUT COMING HOME.

WITH BATAAN NURSES ARRIVAL (140)

HAMILTON FIELD, CALIF., FEB. 24-(AP)-TWO DAYS BEFORE THE U.S. FIRST CAVALRY DROVE ON THEIR RESCUE MISSION TO SANTO TOMAS PRISON, AMERICAN PLANES DROPPED A NOTE WHICH SAID "ROLL OUT THE BARREL".

BATAAN NURSES SAID THIS NOTE WAS THE TOPPER OF A SERIES OF SIGNALS THAT DELIVERANCE WAS GROWING NEAR--A SERIES BEGUN SEPT. 21, 1944, WHEN CARRIER BOMBERS STRUCK MANILA.
THAT NIGHT THE CAMP PHONOGRAPH PLAYED "PENNIES FROMHEAVEN."

A MONTH LATER ON THE NIGHT OF OCT. 20, DON BELL, FORMER RADIO CORRESPONDENT, ENDED THE BRIEF NEWS REPORT WHICH THE JAPANESE PERMITTED HIM TO READ DAILY OVER THE CAMP LOUDSPEAKE, "BETTER LATE THAN NEVER". HE PRONOUNCED "LATE" AS "LEYTE". THE JAPANESE DIDN'T CATCH ON.

IN JANUARY, AS THE AMERICANS PUSHED DOWN THE LUZON PLAINS, THE CAMP PHONOGRAPH AGAIN CONFIRME

WITH BONNIE WILEY'S IWO JIMA (280)

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB 24--AP)-BEING THE FIRST WOMAN CORRESPONDENT TO WITNESS A PACIFIC ISLAND INVASION--AND THAT ONE IWO JIMA--WAS NO FLUKE OF LUCK FOR BONNIE WILEY, 34, ASSOCIATED PRESS NEWSFEATURE WRITER. IT WAS THE LOGICAL RESULT OF HER PERSISTENCE.

ALMOST SHY IN MANNER, MISS WILEY HAS LITTLE RESEMBLANCE TO A MOVIE-STYLE DARE-DEVIL GAL REPORTER, BUT EDITORS HAVE FOUND BEHIND THAT RETIRING EXTERIOR AN INTREPID SPIRIT. NOBODY WHO KNEW HER HAD ANY DOUBT HOW SHE WOULD ACQUIT HERSELF IN FACE OF PHYSICAL DANGER.

FOR MANY MONTHS SHE WORKED AT WHAT SHE CALLED HER "PRIVATE CAMPAIGN" TO BECOME A WAR CORRESPONDENT. WHEN THE COVETED NAVY PERMISSION CAME AT LAST, IT WAS TO GO ONLY TO THOSE PLACES "PRACTICABLE FOR CIVILIAN WOMEN". BUT IN THE COURSE OF HER OFFICE PETITIONS FOR PERMISSION TO GO OUT, SHE HAD WRITTEN;

"SEND ME TO THE FRINGES OF THE WAR ZONES AND I'LL BET YOU 10 RATION POINTS THAT IF THE NEED ARISES I CAN TALK MY WAY IN FURTHER."

SHE WON A PLACE ON THE HOSPITAL SHIP TO IWO JIMA BY GOING AS A VOLUNTERR NURSE'S AIDE.

MISS WILEY WAS BORN IN PORTLAND, ORE., AND REARED IN YAKIMA, WASH., WHERE HER MOTHER, MRS.M.E.WILEY, NOW LIVES. SHE IS A GRADUATE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON AND TOOK SPECIAL COURSES LATER AT THE NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

BEFORE COMING TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS IN 1943, SHE HAD WORKED ON PAPERS AT TOPPENISH AND YAKIMA, WASH., AND ON THE PORTLAND OREGONIAN. AS THE IMPORTANCE OF NEWS PICTURES GREW, SHE DECIDED TO STUDY PHOTOGRAPHY, AND HAS TAKEN MANY OF THE PICTURES TO ILLUSTRATE HER OWN FEATURE WORK.

MEXICO CITY, FEB.24-(AP)-IT APPEARED UNLIKELY TODAY THAT A PROPOSED RESOLUTION ASKING HEMISPHERE-WIDE SEVERANCE OF RELATIONS WITH THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT OF SPAIN WILL REACH THE INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE FLOOR, DESPITE A FLOOD OF MESSAGES BEING RECEIVED REQUESTING SUCH ACTION.

AN UNOFFICIAL POLL OF DELEGATES INDICATED THAT SUCH A RESOLUTION, IF SUBMITTED TO A VOTE, MIGHT LOSE, AND PROPONENTS CONCEDE THAT IN THAT CASE "IT WOULD BE A VICTORY FOR FRANCO." THE UNITED STATES IS AMONG THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS RECOGNIZING FRANCO. MEXICO DOES NOT.

MESSAGES REQUESTING THE ANTI-FRANCO RESOLUTION ARE ARRIVING FROM ORGANIZATIONS AND INDIVIDUALS THROUGHOUT THE AMERICAS,A CONFERENCE OFFICIAL SAID.
